Malik's Korean Peace Proposal Causing World-Wide Speculation

THE TIMING WAS PERFECT—Whether or not Russia's Jacob A. Malik was sincere in his proposed cease-fire in Korea is a question that only time will answer, but of one thing the people in the home towns of America were sure—the timing was perfect.

The average man in the small towns of the country has a sincere desire for peace. He is sure of a number of things: (1) U.S. casualties now number 73,600 and he wants his sons and Brothers home; (2) The war has strained the nation's bipartisan foreign policy and threaten to cause an even more serious internal split; (3) and the war has increased the dangers of inflation throughout the western world.

Perhaps the Russians realized these facts and picked the first anniversary of the start of the Korean war for their peace move. But the move was unusual in that Malik made no reference to any of the Korean peace conditions previously set by the Soviet bloc: a deal on Formosa, admission of Communist China to the United Nations, and withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. It could be that the Soviet is sincere. But it could also be that the Soviet recognized the great propaganda potentialities of a peace move at this time.

The home towners of the nation would do well to remember, however, that Russia is not officially in the war. The next step is up to the Chinese Communists. If the Chinese, who have made no comment on Malik's proposition, indicate what he said actually reflects a change in their Korean policy and a desire to end the fighting, then the man on Main Street can allow himself to hope for peace.

However, if the Chinese ignore the whole business, or restate their earlier demands for U.N. membership and control of Formosa, as the price for a Korean settlement, then the suspicion that Malik was more interested in making propaganda than in making peace will be confirmed.

The U.S. state department has indicated a willingness to play its part in bringing an end to the hostilities in Korea if Malik's offer "is more than propaganda." But until there is some concrete evidence of sincerity in the proposal the U.S. will act with caution.

At the moment that seems the only sensible attitude to adopt. It is one the home towners may find best to follow.

THE BALANCE SHEET—As the first year of conflict ended in Korea, the fighting was as bloody and dirty as the day it began. But the balance sheet would indicate the Communists have lost the first round in their planned aggression.

On the credit side of the ledger: (1) The first U.N. battle force was raised and integrated in the initial bloody weeks; (2) the U.S. and her allies were dynamited into world-wide alertness and rearmament; (3) American military forces have learned valuable military lessons, developed new techniques, and tested much of the enemy's strategy; (4) the west has proved it will not abandon the small nations of Asia and Europe; and (5) the North Korean army has been mangled and the Chinese have had startling losses, estimated in all at 1,162,500 casualties.

On the other side of the ledger: (1) Allied casualties have been heavy for peaceful nations (approximately 352,500); (2) most of the west's military strength has been hobbled to a peninsula of secondary world-wide importance; (3) the Russians have lost only one known combat man in battle; (4) conflict has hastened the financial drain and made inflation more dangerous in the west; (5) Communists still retain the initiative, in Korea and throughout the world.

THE YEAR OF INFLATION—Since the Korean war began on June 25, 1950, livestock prices in this country have increased $3 to $10 a hundred pounds. At the same time, livestock production was much greater during the past 12 months than the preceding twelve.

A year ago hogs were no higher than $20.50. Today they are selling at $23.50, and last summer went to $25.50 a hundred pounds.

The cattle trade is about $6 a hundred pounds higher than a year ago although production ran 20 per cent above the 12 months preceding the start of the war. When the war broke out, steers were selling downward from $31.50. Currently they are topping at $38.50.

Sheep and lamb production has changed slightly, but prices have developed much higher. Best lambs are about $34.50 now, down from $42.50 in March, but compared with $28.50 a year ago. Ewes are topping at $17.50 now, down from $25 in February, compared with $10.50 a year ago.

The Home Front Battle

On the home front the battle to keep down prices was the issue of special groups. The CIO entered the fray launching a drive for tighter anti-inflation controls.

RECORD-BREAKING TAX—By a vote of 233 to 160, the house approved a record-breaking $7,200,000,000 tax increase, including a 1 1/2 per cent boost in individual income tax.

The measure is now before the senate where the finance committee is holding hearings. The senate is expected to approve the bill, possibly with a few minor changes.

Here is where the government would collect the additional money; Individuals, $2,847,000,000; corporate income and excess profits taxes, $2,855,000,000; excise taxes, $1,252,000,000; and miscellaneous changes in the revenue laws, $245,000,000.

PARIS TALKS END—After 16 weeks of futile talks, the deputy foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia broke off their efforts to write a program of a big four conference to ease world tension.

But they left the door open for their governments to make one last attempt to arrange a meeting of the big four foreign ministers, which has been suggested for July 23 in Washington.

No one in the diplomatic world believed that the Russians would accept the invitation.

STARTLING EXPERIMENT

Spray Keeps Vegetables Fresh a Year

Results of experiments with a new spray — melec hydrazide — which keeps potatoes, onions and several other vegetables fresh for a year or more, was reported by The Country Gentleman.

The spray arrests growth. Growth is so slow after spraying that the vegetables fall even to die at the rapid rate normal during storage. Every living process seems slowed down. Flavor and firmness are retained for a long time, apparently for about a year.

Scientists reported experiments were so successful they "could hardly believe them possible." Crops are sprayed before gathering. The spray does not affect the yield. It has been used successfully on potatoes, onions, carrots, beets, parsnips and turnips.

BUT THE WAR MOVES ON . . . It's all over for the Communist soldier stretched out beside the road. U.N. forces pass him by with little more than a short glance to rest assured that he is dead. The war goes on somewhere on the road ahead. The dead soldier will be picked up later and taken to a collection station. He was one of many who died attempting to halt advance of U.N. tank forces along the narrow road. Death came to him following a vain attempt to climb aboard tank and drop a hand grenade in the open hatch. He was felled by a shot fired by an American tankman and vehicle lumbered forward.

SANCTUARY IN SPAIN . . . After the end of World War II, Otto Skorzeny was called the "most dangerous man in Europe" by Allied occupation authorities, who heaved a mighty sigh of relief when they got him behind bars. Skorzeny, an S.S. (Nazi Elite Guard) Lt. Colonel, was Hitler's trouble-shooter when there was a tough job to be done. He was given the job of rescuing Mussolini in 1943 and did it, daringly with paratroopers. American tribunal unsuccessfully tried him in 1947 for infiltrating U.S. lines with troops in American uniforms. He is shown in S.S. days, at Dachau, as he appears today in Madrid.

MINIATURE HOBBY . . . If this picture had been made by trick photography, it might be said that the gentleman was well-heeled, loaded, or flush, as you choose. But it's no trick—the greenbacks are miniatures. Man with the hobby is William J. Nordvedt, who collects miniatures of all descriptions. A guard at the Smithsonian Institute, Nordvedt also owns busts of Washington and Lincoln on pinheads, a 1 1/2-inch violin, plus many other interesting items in the smaller sizes.

MUD BATH BALLERINA . . . Sure, it's an old trick, but they still do it just the same. Stiff pictured is not supposed to be ordinary m-u-d, but hot natural tule m-u-d at Guenther's Murietta Hot Springs in Southern California. Mussed-up miss is Joan Whitney, 20-year-old actress and model, who bathes (?) in the mud and takes hot mineral baths to keep in trim. Miss Whitney had part in the Hope movie, "My Favorite Spy," is now modeling in Paris.

BUSIEST BRITISHER . . . Busiest man in Britain these days is James Hankins, one-armed decorator. Despite loss of arm in World War I, he looks after profitable business, can paint and hang paper "faster and better" than most.

CHARGES APPEASEMENT . . . Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, ex-ambassador to China, as he appeared before senate probers. Hurley charged that the state department surrendered basic principles of foreign policy.

THE READER'S DATE BOOK Traffic Courtesy Will Attract Many Tourists to a Home Town

As pointed out in this column last week, the Main Street that happens to be on a national highway can reap big business for the home town during the next two months. Millions of Americans will spend millions of dollars for lodging, gasoline, oil, food, soft drinks, and gadgets as they take to the highways to see their country.

The manner in which the home town greets them and the services offered have much to do with how long the tourist will linger and how much he will spend.

In this connection, the home town that keeps traffic moving, has plenty of parking space, and safe drivers will find the tourist more likely to stop.

These problems differ with each community and are, primarily, problems that can be solved only on the local level. Many small towns have found that driver schools, motorist courtesy campaigns and safety drives have given their community a good name and proven tourist attractions.

Such campaigns can be worked out with the cooperation of local organizations, the police department, merchants and the local publication.

For the people of this community who plan a vacation by private automobile, it would be well to remember that the nation's motorists probably will drive in to more accidents this year than ever before. Most of these accidents will be caused by careless drivers, men and women who violate traffic laws and disregard the rules of the road.

What kind of driver is this who will be involved in most of this year's accidents? The composite auto crash of 1951 will involve a sober, mature man who has had several years of driving experience. His car will be in apparently good condition. He will be driving along a dry, open straight stretch of highway on a clear weekend evening. He will be traveling too fast. He will smash into another car.

In other words, it will be the man just down the street. But of course, it won't be you!

Many home town motorists will have accidents because they begin a trip without properly checking their automobile. Here is an opportunity for the local service station and garage to be of service to their neighbors and friends. Right now he should be advertising through his local newspaper his services for checking the home town's car before he starts his annual vacation.

The accident mentioned above and thousands like it need not happen. The chances are they will not happen if all drivers drive according to the rules and avoid making the errors that kill and maim. Those which cause the greatest number of highway casualties are shown in the following series of pictures from the coming issue of The Lamp, a publication of Standard Oil company.

Passing on the wrong side, which leads to many crashes, may be either the cause or the effect of poor driving. The driver who hugs the white center line and refuses to move over is just as guilty of driver error as the motorist who whizzes past on the right.

Right-of-way violators cause many serious accidents. Most of them occur at intersections that are clearly marked. However, right-of-way crashes often happen where there are no such signs but where careful drivers could have avoided the collision. The driver who swings out of a driveway onto a busy Main Street without stopping

It Pays to Check Car Before Trips

According to the best estimates available, some 63,000,000 Americans will make motor trips before the end of the year. Many of them will have accidents if they do not follow the rules of safety as outlined above, or are unfortunate enough to meet a driver who doesn't observe them.

Highways throughout the country were seriously damaged during the past winter by heavy snow and freezing. In many regions highway to look obviously violates the right-of-way. So does the driver who, upon entering an unmarked intersection or crossroad, fails to yield the right-of-way to a car already there.

Speeding is the number one killer on highways and home town streets. In 1950 it took the lives of 13,300 people and injured 475,000 more. It was the tragic error made by one out of every three drivers who were involved in last year's serious accidents. Exceeding the legal limit is only one form of speeding. Driving faster than is safe under existing conditions also is speeding.

Improper signaling, confused signaling, failure to signal at all or not signaling soon enough before stopping or making a turn, are common driver errors that often cause smash-ups.

Passing on curves and hills, intersections and railroad crossings so clearly reveals poor driving judgment that the question "Why?" instantly arises.

Driving on the wrong side, or in the middle of the road, especially at the crest of a hill, is another puzzling driver error. Some drivers do it because they want more room on either side in case of a blowout. Others fear driving too far to the right. And some just take their half in the middle.

Reckless driving is the symptom of a dangerous driver-attitude. Whatever form it may take, like dangerous "cutting in," it indicates a selfish disregard for the safety of all others who travel the highway.

Ladder Falls Common
Two hundred deaths and many thousands of serious injuries result each year from falls from ladders in and about the home. Over-reaching, unsteady placing and defective ladders are common causes.

IN THE 80's

AND 90's before the dawn of the motor age, and when the bicycle represented frivolity's peak, life was safer and accidents fewer. Today the need for accident and health insurance is apparent enough to those who understand statistics on sickness, injuries and accidental death.

Don't put off getting that accident and health insurance.

BOOKMOBILE NEWS . . .

The Bookmobile Reading Clubs are finding their reading more exciting as they earn runs for their respective teams. All teams playing this week are within one run of each other and it is a close game.

The Cottage Sluggers lead in the scoring with the number of books read and reported earning them 1.88 runs per each member on their team. Other standings are: Townline Beavers 1.66 per person; Alabaster Beavers 1.33 runs per person, and Taft Tigers 1.16 runs per person.

Neva Daugharty of the Cottage Sluggers leads in the personal scoring with three runs and she is on third base. Louise Bernard of the Alabaster Blasters is second with three runs batted in and she is on first base. Sharon Freel of the Townline Beavers is third with three runs to her credit.

The other teams will have to work to keep up with these eager readers in the next two baseball periods.

The Turtle School was rained out, but will have a special session July 10th to make up for lost time.

The Story Hour this week has included two tales "The Quern At the Bottom of the Sea," and "The Womans Daughter and the Man's Daughter" from Fairy Tales from the Fr North by P. C. Asbjornsen, translated by H. L. Braekstad. A number of poems have also been used including, "A Coffeepot Face" by Aileen Fisher, "When I Was A Little Boy" an old English rhyme, "Echo" author unknown, "My Shadow" by Robert Louis Stevenson, "Moral Song" by John Farrar, and "The Naughty Little Robin" by Phoebe Carey.

The Bookmobile traveled to Whittemore for a Story Hour Friday. The Story Hour will be there at 11:00 a. m. July 18th and August 1st. This new schedule has been arranged so that it will not interfere with Mr. Cummings summer band schedule.

The Alabaster group have topped all the other groups by having a total circulation of ninety at their last meeting.

MAKE THE 2-Way Test

Standard equipment accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

...prove Mercury best!

3-WAY CHOICE!

For "the drive of your life!" Mercury offers a triple choice in transmissions. Merc-O-Matic Drive, the NEW automatic transmission, Touch-O-Matic Over-drive, both optional at extra cost, or silent-synchromized standard transmission.

1 Road-Test a Mercury for Proof of Performance!

Get into a Mercury and out on the road—and you'll find power, smooth and purring V-eight power—more of it than you may ever need.

Now, swing into traffic and discover what a joy it is to handle. Climb a hill. Try an S-curve. Turn down the roughest road you can find and see how Mercury's springing smoothes the bumps.

Comfort? There's move-around space for six. It's room with a view; big windows for extra visibility. Drive a mile and you'll want to drive it home.

Try it today—
for "the best deal of your life!"

2 Budget-Test a Mercury for Proof of its Rock-Bottom Economy!

Does it have a down-to-earth first price? Mercury's price tag you can understand—gives you a big dollar's worth for every dollar invested.

Will you be sure of good gasoline mileage? Mercury has proved its more-miles-per-gallon by winning officially sponsored economy tests.

Is it famous for long life? It is indeed! 92% of all Mercurys ever built for use in this country are still on the road, according to latest annual official registration figures.

Will trade-in value stay high? Mercurys keep their value; and used car market reports consistently prove this to be true.

What Bass Eat

Largemouth bass eat a wide variety of foods. Insects and small fishes form a large part of their diet, and crayfish and frogs also are taken rather frequently. The young bass feed largely on water fleas during their first few weeks, after which aquatic insects and small fish comprise an increasingly large part of their food.

Largemouths in the southern states grow more rapidly than do those in northern waters, because the growing season is longer. However, the southern fish seldom live longer than eight years, while a maximum age of 15 years has been recorded for northern members of the species. As a matter of interest it may be noted that the world's record largemouth, caught in Florida, weighed slightly over 22 pounds.

The baits used successfully in bass fishing are many and varied. Some of the more widely used natural baits are minnows, crayfish, grasshoppers and helgramites. Artificial baits include a large variety of both surface and underwater lures for use on casting rods or flyrods. Among these are flies, popping bugs, floating and deep-running plugs, and spoons.

It may be safely stated that no matter when, where, or how you fish, you'll never forget the thrill of landing a largemouth which can qualify for the proud name "old lineside."

Duck Outlook

All signs indicate that the masses of waterfowl breeding in western Canada are determined to make 1951 one of the most productive seasons in recent years. Their chief ally is Mother Nature, this semester apparently in one of her most beneficent moods.

Summing up general waterfowl conditions in the June issue of the "Duckological," Bert W. Cartwright, chief naturalist of Ducks Unlimited (Canada), reports, "Duck breeding conditions and surface waters are more uniformly ideal from Western Ontario across the prairies to the Rocky Mountains and from the International boundary north to the Peace River district in north-western Alberta, than they have been in any previous year since Ducks Unlimited started in 1938."

For The Defense

The persecution of beneficial hawks has gone on for centuries, and from the files of the Cincinnati Conservation Society, which is making an extensive study of hawks and owls, some of the reasons for this persecution have come forth.

English game keepers shot hawks for centuries. These were the true "bird hawks," similar to our bluejays, the sharp-shinned and Cooper's hawks. When the colonists came to these shores all birds of prey were considered hawks. The slow-flying Buteos, like the redtail, which were called "buzzards" in England, became lumped with the damage-doing darters. All hawks, to the layman, are "chicken hawks." Our beneficial hawks have suffered ever since.

The soaring hawks, or mouse hawks, are easily hit with a shotgun, and they bear the brunt of the persecution. These are the birds you see strung up along fences; a tribute to the farmer's ignorance of the good they do.

No "Kid Stuff"

Richard Cameron, Pittsfield, Mass., is a candidate for the Algostory fishing hero of the year in Maine.

With an $11 trout-fishing outfit, young Cameron confounded, recently, all of the seasoned Atlantic salmon fishermen on the Narragagus river, Cherryfield.

It was his first Atlantic salmon fishing trip, yet with a 4-oz. rod, four-lb. test leader and No. 8 bucket fly, he took huge salmon in one day. The first, an 11-pounder, provided such a thrill that Cameron moved up-river from Academy pool to Little Falls pool and proceeded to strike a "One-That-Didn't-Get-Away Club"unker weighing 16 lbs. and 11-ounces.

Cameron played his second salmon 2 1/2 hours.

"He is one of the best fishermen we've seen in this section," said Game Warden Wally Barron, Cherryfield, afterwards. "He had to be good to land such fish on trout tackle."

In Black & White

Melanism is that condition of an oversupply of black pigment in the skin. Hence, an occasional black deer, squirrel, rat or other animal, and the Melanistic Mutant pheasant which has been bred from occasional Melanistic offspring of the Ringneck.

Albinism is the condition of a lack of pigment in the skin. So, we have an occasional white deer, squirrel or other animal, and the White pheasant.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To keep a dustcloth slightly oily, add a spoonful of lemon oil or any furniture oil to the rinse water when you wash the cloth.

To prolong the life of a broom, dip it in hot soapy water or hot salt water about once a week; and always hang the broom up or stand it on its handle, but never on its head.

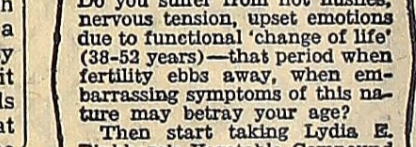

To extend the life of a broom when its bristles begin to wear down, cut away the two lowest rows of binding cord and you can expect at least another two months' service from the broom.

Loose pieces like pictures, mirrors, brooms, fireplace tools and such should not be loose on moving day. Tie them together as much as possible so the moving men won't have to make a lot of extra trips carrying separate articles.

Venetian blind tapes can be cleaned easily without taking down the blinds. For white ones, use ordinary white shoe cleaner just as you would on white shoes. Cleaning fluid usually works well on colored tapes.

If you have some phonograph record albums to move, take a piece of strong twine about twenty or thirty inches long, run it through the holes in the records and tie the two ends up tight at the top of the album. Then, no matter which way the album is held, the records can't slide out.

For dusting in little nooks and crannies without undue wear and tear on the back, buy yourself a little ten-cent dish mop. Put it in a tin can with a teaspoonful of furniture polish and let it soak up the polish for a couple of days before you start dusting in tight places with it.

safe on a fielders choice, Groff out at the plate, Myles hit by the pitcher, Anschuetz walked and Warner was thrown out at he plate.

Herb Look led off the seventh with a home run, Westcott flied out, Wegner singled and the next two batters Groff and Rollin walked loading the bases with only one out. E. Foco then was sent in to pitch and pulled Pinny out of a tough situation by striking out both Youngs and Warner.

In the ninth Tawas City made their final bid for victory when Westcott walked, Wegner struck out, Groff walked, Rollin singled scoring Westcott and Groff went to third on an error on the right fielder, Rollin to second. Youngs singled scoring Groff and Rollin Youngs reached second when they made a play at the plate on Rollin, and he took third on an error. With Warner at bat Tawas'es strategy backfired when Youngs was out at the plate on an attempted squeeze play. Warner struck out.
