6 O'Clock Fire Damages Barnes Motel

Martin Kasischke Discovers Fire While on Way to City Hall

A six o'clock fire Wednesday morning damaged one apartment in the Barnes Motel, threatened the whole structure. The rooms damaged were the private apartment of Kenneth Barnes, owner of Barnes Motel and Motel. No one was in the rooms when the fire broke out. The interior finish of the rooms, furnishings, and Mr. Barnes clothing were destroyed.

Martin Kasischke, superintendent of public works, sighted the smoke while going by on his way to the city hall. He turned in the alarm and drove the fire truck to the scene of the fire. The structure is of concrete blocks with concrete partition block and rock wool ceiling insulation. This helped to prevent the fire from spreading to other portions of the building. Although dense smoke interfered with firemen entering the rooms, the flames were quickly extinguished. The smoke interference emphasized the need of new gas masks.

The apartment which was damaged Wednesday morning was to be the scene of a wedding next Monday afternoon. Miss Colette Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barnes and Pvt. Rolland Swanson, stationed in South Carolina are to be married. Florist Herman Moehring arrived a short time after the flames were extinguished to plan the wedding floral decorations for the apartment. Moehring was surprised to find the rooms beyond his skill in decorating. The wedding will be held in another portion of the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Groff of Detroit came Sunday for a vacation at their cottage at Floyd Lake.

Neil Abbott has returned from a three week visit in Lansing with Dwight Finley.

Suffer Loss to White Stars

Tawas City continued in their familiar roll last Sunday, when they suffered their eighth loss of the campaign, this time to White Star, 7 to 2. The only bright spot during the whole afternoon, as far as local fans were concerned, was in the third inning when the locals tied up the game at 2 all. After that frame White Star had things their own way, crossing the plate five times. Herb Look pitched for the locals and he was nicked for twelve hits, allowed five walks and struck out ten. His mates had six hits off the slants of R. Doede and W. Seltz.

Tawas City fared better afield this week as they committed only two errors, while the visitors had three.

Bill Groff led the Tawas City team with two of the six hits. White Star had 12 hits and Ehle carried the big club for the Stars as he blasted out three hits.

The property has remained in the family and is now owned by Walter Miller, a son of the late John A. Miller.

Six generations were represented by the sixty five descendants attending the reunion. Rev. C. F. Miller of Saginaw gave a complete story covering the family history and many interesting facts were revealed. A picnic dinner was served on the lawn, also a ball game and hay ride were enjoyed.

Majority Favor Soil Conservation District

The unofficial report of the Isosco Soil Conservation District referendum, as made by Lloyd S. Little, polling superintendent, shows a large majority of farmers favoring the organization of a district. Lyle Long, Bob Oates and Wendall Scofield led the candidates for directors.

Of the 156 ballots cast, 133 were for and 23 against the district. Mr. Little has submitted ballots to the State Soil Conservation Committee who will pass upon the district. The majority in favor of the district will have to offset the relative low interest taken, if the district is granted.

Russell G. Hill, executive secretary, told Harold R. Clark, county agricultural agent, that the state committee would make their decision in a week or ten days.

Beginning July 17th and continuing through the month, the Isosco County PMA office in Tawas City will be open on Tuesdays and Thursdays only.

Rabid Cat Causes Concern at Hale 'Y' Camp

State Police and YWCA camp authorities at Hale are checking 80 girls as a precaution against any of them getting rabies from a rabid cat which invaded the camp June 28.

Three of the girls that were bitten were Linda Greenwald, of Bay City; Colene Whitman, of Midland; and Marian Johnson, a camp counsellor from Littleton, Colo. All are now receiving antirabies treatment.

Betty Parrish, camp nurse, said the other girls were being checked to determine how many handled the cat.

The nurse said some who handled the cat, but were not bitten might still have picked up infection through cuts or scratches.

Rack Up Ninth Consecutive Win

Hale Will Play at White City Sunday

Alabaster racked up their ninth consecutive win of the season by dropping West Branch 5 to 2 Sunday, but not before the Branchers gave them a tough battle, with the White City boys pulling the game out of the fire in the ninth inning.

Alabaster nicked Newbecker, West Branch moundsman for 10 hits, including two doubles and a single by Peterson, a triple by Hill and two singles by Elliott.

Johnny Martin scattered seven hits against West Branch batsmen, while striking out eleven.

The game was originally scheduled for the West Branch diamond but due to conflicting schedules there, it was played at Alabaster, West Branch being the home team.

Alabaster broke a 2-2 deadlock in their half of the ninth inning. After John Erickson and Martin had popped out, Vern Hill tripled, O. Herriman was hit by the pitcher Peterson doubled home the winning run and Clare Herriman cleaned the sacks with another double, scoring his brother, Olen and Peterson.

Knee High—to a Giant

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON

False Security

WHILE MAKING a survey of Europe last winter several top diplomats expressed the following idea about peace or war with Soviet Russia:

"The worst blunder Moscow ever made was to invade Korea. It created unity among the United Nations. It aroused the American people; and it put your mobilization program in high gear."

"And the smartest thing the Kremlin could do now," these diplomats continued, "would be to make a dramatic peace bid. It would throw discord into the United Nations. It would pull the stops out of your mobilization program. And it would ease the American people into a false sense of security."

"The peace bid wouldn't mean anything in the long run," these diplomats believed. "For as long as Russia maintains a huge land army the world cannot be safe. But a false sense of security is just what Moscow wants."

This may be what is happening today. It is interesting that Malik's speech came just as the price control bill was nearing a vote and just as congress was about to adopt the biggest tax bill in history.

McCarthy Demands Reward

Republican leaders did some fancy, backstage wirepulling to keep Senator McCarthy off the important GOP policy committee. Here is the inside story of what happened.

McCarthy had demanded the policy committee seat as his reward for smearing the Democrats and carrying five states for Republican senators last November—Maryland, Utah, California, Indiana and Illinois. He was supported in this claim by such Republicans as Senator Ferguson of Michigan, who argued that McCarthy's name-calling was worth ten to twenty thousand votes in each state; but he was opposed by Senator Millikin of Colorado, the senate chairman, who flatly refused to appoint McCarthy to the policy committee.

Even McCarthy's close friend, Senator Taft, remarked privately that he would vote against McCarthy. They feared that, if McCarthy got on the policy committee, it would look as if the Republican party endorsed his tactics.

However, two of McCarthy's more vociferous friends, Senators Welker of Idaho and Jenner of Indiana, drew up a petition to force a show-down vote, and secured the signatures of Senators Wherry of Nebraska, Schoeppel of Kansas and Williams of Delaware. What they proposed was to add another member to the policy committee in order to create a vacancy for McCarthy.

Under the rules, this petition forced Millikin to call a meeting of all Republican senators, which he did.

Meanwhile, however, GOP leaders moved fast. They shifted committee assignments around to create a vacancy on the powerful senate rules committee, then in order to pacify McCarthy, offered the rules post to him. This was too much of a temptation for McCarthy to resist, and he accepted. For it put him in a position to block the senate report on the Maryland elections, where he is up to his neck in this scandal and anxious for a whitewash.

For example, the Maryland investigation has already discovered that McCarthy's assistant, Don Surine, perjured himself before a senate committee and was kicked out of the FBI for fraternizing with a white slavery prostitute he was supposed to be investigating.

So McCarthy accepted the rules committee post. After attaining this, however, he refused to be satisfied and continued his campaign to get on the policy committee.

Forgotten Speeches

The last time congress had a major debate on price controls was in 1946, at which time a lot of interesting speeches were made, some of which certain congressmen would like to forget. Significantly, it's some of the same solons who are promising reduced prices if controls once again are relaxed.

SENATOR WHERRY (NEB. REP.)—"Mr. Bowles has said that if price controls were eliminated, the price of meat would go up 50 per cent. Mr. Bowles is trying to scare us. My prediction is that without price control meat will cost less than today." (Meat is now up in some cases more than 100 per cent.)

SENATOR TAFT (OHIO REP.)—"The President's figures on possible increases are a wild guess and for the most part dead wrong."

CONGRESSMAN MILLER (NEB. REP.)—"The agency (OPA) has put out so much propaganda and false statements that the people no longer heed their cry of 'waff! waff!'"

CONGRESSMAN HOFFMAN (MICH. REP.)—"OPA and its operator Chester Bowles are responsible in part for the fact that the cost of living has gone on."

YOUTH WILL BE SERVED . . . Tete-a-tete here are probably the youngest platoon leader and the youngest regimental commander in Korea. They are Sgt. 1st Class Joseph R. Nelson (left), 18, of Washington, Ohio, who found himself in charge of a platoon when casualties took the senior officers, and Col. Charles M. Mount, College Park, Ga., who at 35 commands the 32nd regiment of the seventh division. Col. Mount is a West Point graduate and a veteran of World War II. His wife and two children live in Tokyo. Mount and Sgt. Nelson made their first visit to Korea in the Inchon invasion last September.

YANKEES TEASE WHITE SOX . . . In Chicago, the world champion New York Yankees bow in mock reverence to a Chicago White Sox relief pitcher as he is taxed from the bull pen to the mound in a system designed to speed up the game. The Yankees preferred to walk back and forth to the mound, and each time a White Sox pitcher was knocked out of the box, his relief would be greeted with loud taunts as he drove by the Yankee dugout. At the time of this byplay, the White Sox were leading the American League, and the Yanks were hard pressed to keep up with them.

WITH NOSE FOR COMMIES . . . PFC Bobby Chobania, of Cleveland, Ohio, made himself a loyal buddy when he picked up this Korean dog and adopted him. Now the dog goes on all patrols with Chobania and has developed an extra-sensitive nose for smelling out Chinese, whom he dislikes. Chobania hopes he can pull the necessary strings to bring the dog back home when he comes. Meanwhile the canine is mascot of Chobania's company.

HOLDING THAT LINE . . . It looks very peaceful, and it is at the moment, but violence could erupt any second at the spot where these three GI's are guarding a reservoir in Korea. The enemies are across the body of water. Soldiers are Corp. P. Ramirez, PFC W. Ferrie and PFC E. L. Masterson. Ramirez has glasses trained on opposite shore while Masterson keeps fingers close to trigger of machine gun, ready to open fire instantly.

ON TRIAL . . . Dr. Alajos Pongraz, former employee of the U.S. legation in Budapest, is shown facing trial on charges of conspiring to overthrow Hungarian Communist regime by espionage. He is one of eight co-defendants.

HERE I AM . . . Most picturesque arrival at Idlewild airport for some time was Mrs. Pauline Wilsdorf, said to be 105 years old. The Polish widow will settle near Buffalo with a 50-year-old son, daughter-in-law and their adopted child.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Reds Agree to Discuss Cease-Fire; Congress Extends Price Controls

PEACE IS POSSIBLE—Events of the last few days have created a belief throughout the world that there is a possibility of peace in Korea.

The first move for possible peace talks was made by Jacob Malik, Soviet representative at the UN. U.S. Ambassador Alan Kirk later called upon Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in an attempt to get a clarified version of Malik's bid.

Kirk reported that Gromyko suggested that in the first stage negotiations for a truce should be conducted by military representatives in the field, with political and territorial questions left for second stage disposition.

Then, acting on instructions from Washington, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the allied armed forces, broadcast proposals to the Reds for a meeting aboard the Danish hospital ship Jutlandia in Wonsan harbor in North Korea.

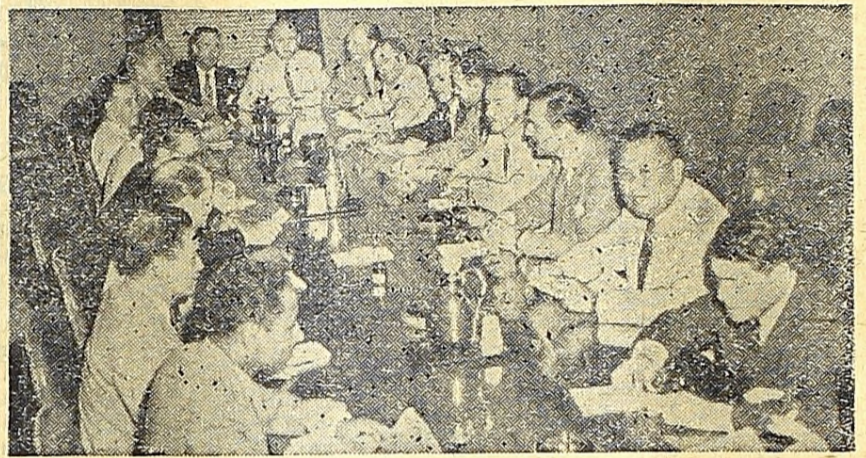

After 29 hours of waiting, the Communists answered the broadcasts with a proposal for a meeting at Kaesong, just below the old Korean boundary on the 38th parallel. They suggested the meeting be held between July 10 and 15.

No official reaction to the Communist proposal was immediately available. Most observers, however, believed the delay as proposed by the Reds was a face saving device, so important in the Orient. But the Communist reply was an indication that the Chinese and North Koreans desire peace. The 10 day delay will also permit the Chinese and North Korean leaders to seek further contact with Moscow.

As expected, the Communists made propaganda use of Gen. Ridgway's proposed peace talks. Communist broadcasts began to pound away at the line that the allies asked for peace talks because the "armed aggression of the United Nations forces has ended in failure."

There was one other indication that the talks may not be fruitless. The Communists failed to mention their repeated demands of admission to the United Nations and control of Formosa as a price of peace.

A sincere desire for peace remains uppermost in the minds of every American, from home town to the largest city. Whatever the results of the peace talks, it must be an honorable peace before it will be acceptable to the American people. And it must be made clear to every American that a Korean settlement will not justify a slowdown in this nation's defense program.

Seeking Formula for Peace

Representatives of the United Nations with troops in Korea are shown as they held a "strategy" meeting at the state department to seek a formula for united action on the Russian proposal for a truce in Korea. UN officials reported peace prospects are definitely good.

A MONTH TO ARGUE—Congressional action in economic controls last week caused considerable comment in the home towns of the nation.

According to the average American's concept of government, the congress of the United States is supposed to reflect the will and desire of the people. With this basic principle in mind, plus the fact that congress rushed through a bill extending the nation's economic controls for 31 days, but slapping an absolute ban on price rollbacks and most new price ceilings, it began to look like the average man on Main Street approved the high prices that prevail today.

Two main facts caused most of the nation's reporters and analysts to this conclusion: (1) The cost of living for the average family is higher today than ever before, 8.9 per cent above that of June 25, 1950 (see story below); and (2) the refusal of congress to pass a bill to hold back this rising spiral—in fact, specifically forbidding rollbacks and new price ceilings.

The administration charged that the congress had allowed itself to be intimidated by special interests, pointing to the activities of the beef and textile industries, the national association of manufacturers, and the real-estate lobby in recent weeks.

Michael DiSalle, OPS administrator, put it like this: "Enemies of price control magnify errors and twist facts. They urge business-as-usual in unusual times. They deliberately confuse free enterprise with irresponsible license. They misconstrue and misstate OPS action to the point of outright dishonesty."

Presenting the other side of the picture, Senator Taft of Ohio, said: "There is no reason for rationing businessmen outside the defense program," and price rollbacks "are dangerous economically because they upset all normal business relations. They are a step toward socialism . . ."

The next month will be one of bitter debate on price, wage and rent legislation. What form it will finally take is anyone's guess at the moment. But it is a fantastic supposition that says the average American favors the high prices of today.

COST OF LIVING—The fact that this country has already taken the first dangerous step on the ladder of inflation was indicated again by the government's latest cost of living index.

The index of the bureau of labor statistics rose to 185.4 per cent of the 1935-'39 average. This figure is nearly 9 per cent above June, 1950, when the Korean war began and sets a new record high.

As a result, because of "escalator" clauses in work contracts, well over a million workers in the railroad industry received hourly wage increases.

The increase in cost of living was noted in apparel, house furnishings, rent, and miscellaneous goods and services. Food was the only item that showed a slight decline.

THE FUTURE—Assistant Budget Director Elmer B. Staats' prediction that defense-swollen federal spending will level off in 1955 at $65,000,000,000 a year and remain there indefinitely is an indication of things to come for the home towner. It was an indication that defense spending will continue at a record peak for years and high taxes are almost a certainty.

Staats reported government spending during 1952 fiscal year, which began July 1, will run about $68,400,000,000. His forecast of a peak of between $80 and $90 billion in 1953 was startling.

Meanwhile, the treasury reported it closed its books July 1 about $8,000,000,000 better off than it had expected.

It had been estimated by the experts that the government would run more than $2,700,000,000 in the red during the past fiscal year. Actually, the government had the second largest budget surplus in history—more than $3,000,000,000 in the black.

Government tax receipts totaled approximately $48 billion between July 1, 1950, and July 1, 1951, the most money ever collected during a single year, outstripping the peak war-tax year of 1944 when revenue totaled $44,700,000,000.

FARM PRICES

New Decline Noted in Farm Prices

The agriculture department reported farm prices dropped about 1.3 per cent from mid-May to mid-June.

It was the fourth-straight month that the prices had declined, bringing them down to about 4 per cent below the record set last February, the department reported.

The department reported the decline reflected lower prices for a majority of farm products which were only partially offset by modest rise in prices of hogs, veal calves, butterfat, apples and turkeys.

On the other hand, prices paid by farmers for goods used in family living and in farm production held steady. No new farm products rose to levels at which ceiling could be applied, according to the mid-May report.

Cincinnati Citizens Sponsor Summer Village for 54 Children

If there is a universal language, other than the love that poets muse about, it certainly is the laughter of children. No better demonstration of that can be found than in the story of the first Children's International Summer Village, an experiment of four-week's duration this summer in the hills near Cincinnati. Perhaps it will not be the last.

The village was inhabited by 54 children—six each from Vienna, Oslo, Stockholm, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Mexico City, Paris, Copenhagen and Cincinnati. They ranged in age from 10 to 12 years and they came from various income groups.

JOHNNY OLSEN, looking back recently when he celebrated his 25th anniversary in radio, said "I like the looks of tomorrow"; to be able to say that is a fine reward for genial Johnny, who began at the age of 14 by singing over a homemade transmitter in Windom, Minn. Now the host of the "Lunch-on Club," heard daily at noon over the ABC network, he has set a record by appearing at more county fairs than any other actor—more than 2000. In his time he has interviewed three Presidents—Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt. And he originated his "Rumpus Room" show on radio, now has successfully switched it to television.

"We, the People's" Dan Seymour was named by the Boys Clubs of America as one of their seven favorite American fathers. Dan got votes from his son Steve and three daughters, rates with Bob Hope and General Ridgway.

Margaret O'Brien, slated to appear in "Junior Miss," on the summer theater circuit, suddenly changed her mind at almost the last moment, alienating the affections of a lot of managers who had booked her. They're stuck with the rest of the cast. Her attorney canceled her contracts on the ground that she is a minor and therefore they are void.

Ever since comic Josh Shelley joined the regular cast of ABC-TV's "Holiday Hotel" he's had Don Ameche wondering what the next gag will be. The other day Josh, at the piano, was warbling "I'll be Don Ameche in a taxi, honey."

Dollar Less Elastic; Yet Farmer's Fare Improved

By Wright A. Patterson

THE figures used in this column were provided by the Home Economics Bureau of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company. That is an assurance of authenticity.

The individual incomes of the American people have doubled and trebled during the last fifty years, since 1900. But in 1950 were we better off than in 1900? Did we live better?

In 1900 the cash income of the American farms averaged $350. The farmers of that time had in addition to that amount of cash, the greater part of the family food, produced on the farm, and the family fuel from the wood lot of the farm. The cash income of the average farm to-day is fully three times that of 1900, and the farm still provides the greater portion of the family food, and much of the family fuel.

In the matter of clothes, and home furnishings and farm equipment, the cash receipts of today will buy but little, if any more, than did the cash receipts of 1900. The farmer, while he receives more cash, is not much better off than in 1900. More of them own more automobiles, more farm equipment but farm life and farm living is much as it was half a century ago.

In 1900 the hourly wage of the average industrial worker was 16 cents per hour, with an average working week of 53 hours in 1900, and only 41.5 each week in 1950.

Despite the high prices for every-

Mail call is a language all its own. Henry Roskan, an exchange student at the University of Cincinnati and a counselor at the summer village near Cincinnati, is the center of all eyes as he distributes letters from home.

Yet, for four weeks, they lived in harmony and laughter, learning the language, quirks, games, delights and angers of strangers, and they emerged friends. They returned to their native lands with a better understanding of international relations and harmonies.

It is hoped that this experiment, financed solely by public support from the citizens of Cincinnati, will snowball all over the world, and already similar villages are being discussed for next summer in Germany, Sweden, England and other countries.

How did it come about? Dr. Doris Twitchell Allen, a psychologist and member of the faculty at the University of Cincinnati, started thinking in terms of such a village shortly after World War II. Her own enthusiasm fired others. Finally, the camp site, a former children's summer camp, was acquired in 1950. The children arrived June 3 of this year.

The children to attend were selected by committees from their own cities. While scholarship was not a deciding factor, it turned out to be important. Actually, qualities of leadership and the ability to mix with extroverts with others were primary elements in final choices.

IN ADDITION to the children, two adults accompanied each group. The entire assembly from Europe gathered in London and was flown to this country. Those from Mexico City came separately. The adults lived in another camp and learned how to set up villages in their own countries.

While the program included outdoor sports of every kind, there were additional activities, such as trips around Cincinnati. For stay-at-home times in the evenings there was television. The Crosley Division, Avco manufacturing corporation, installed sets in the dormitories and lounge.

Television proved to be another fascinating facet in this strange new world of America. Only one or two of the children from the foreign countries had seen it before.

And in this study of harmony, it was soon learned that Hopalong Cassidy and the Lone Ranger provide a meeting ground in any language.

Visitors at the village were quick to pick up one sound—laughter. It is possible that this sound, brought on by understanding fostered in future generations by such villages as that one in Cincinnati this summer and those being planned in the future in other countries, can offer a realistic approach to curing some of the world's ills.

thing he buys the industrial worker is better off today than he was half a century ago. The money he receives now buys more at today's prices than did his wages of 1900 buy at the prices of that day, and in addition he enjoys more of today's conveniences or luxuries. Far more worker's families have automobiles, electric or other forms of refrigeration, more telephones, radios, and in sections where it is available, more television.

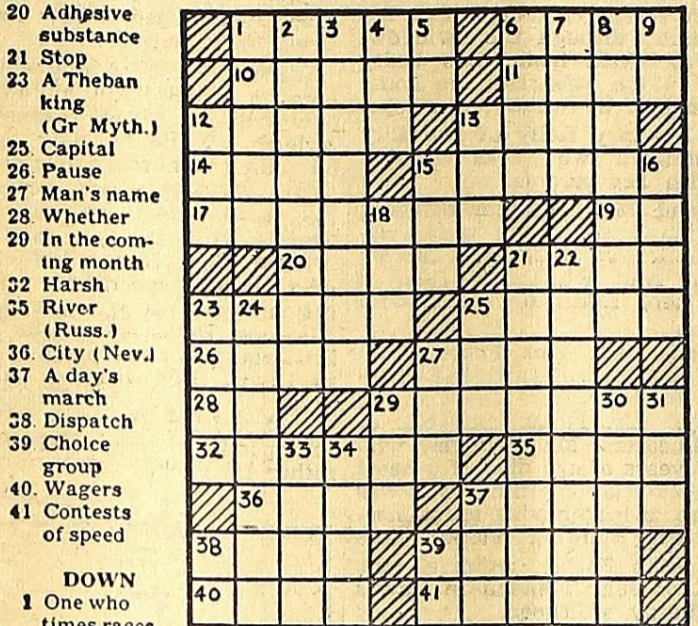

In addition to greater wages, most factory employees are paid for annual vacations of from one to three weeks, are allowed for sick time, have group life insurance, and several millions are assured of industrial pensions after reaching 65 years of age.

Both workers and farmers are living better, the homes of both are equipped with more conveniences and what in 1900 were considered luxuries, despite the high prices they must pay for commodities. Electricity has done much to modernize the homes of both classes. There is another class of Americans who are not as well off as in 1900; whose living standards have been lowered. That class is composed of those who must live on a fixed income, the thirty ones who saved for their old age, and whose savings were invested in securities. There are many millions of such people, especially women, whose expenses, because of the con-

THE FICTION CORNER

3-Minute Fiction

LINDDALE had two doctors . . . two doctors about as different in every way as any two men could be. Doc Boggs was old, in his eighties, and he shouldn't have been practicing at all. He was cross and ill tempered and he often got his patients and their prescriptions all mixed up.

Doctor Willis, on the other hand was just pushing thirty. He was alert, dependable and pleasant to deal with. The women, especially, were most enthusiastic about him.

"Why," Mrs. Preston said, "when I called him for my Willie when he had the measles, he worked like a trooper. When Willie didn't do so well at first he actually cried. A doctor. What do you think of that?"

"I know," Mrs. Scott agreed. "He cried over my Martha, too. We both cried. He's sweet. I just love him."

You see, at first Doc Boggs was the only physician in town. People called him just because he was there. If they wanted somebody else they'd have to get a man in Bloomdale, thirty miles away. So everybody was mighty glad when young Doctor Willis came to Linddale to see about locating there.

The business men and the farmers gave him a lot of encouragement. The young married women who were expecting babies welcomed him. In fact, the only person who opposed him in any way was old Doc Boggs.

"It's a one doctor town," he said when young Doc went to call on him. "We don't need or want another one here."

For a while he dated this one and that, playing no favorite. One summer after he'd been away on his vacation he came back with a wife, a girl from his old home town in Ohio.

Jean, that was her name, had such a nice way with her that she soon made friends. When people kept saying over and over that her husband was the sweetest, most tender hearted man in the whole world, she sometimes looked a bit surprised. Sure, she thought he was great. That was one reason she married him, but nevertheless she felt a bit puzzled at times.

And then she found out something that nobody else knew. She kept still and just smiled when they began to rave about her husband. She smiled and went about her business of picking up after him, keeping him well fed and mended and not really minding the times when he was thoughtless and inconsiderate as all husbands are at times.

The way she found out was that one night he came home to dinner quite late and dog tired, too. When she looked at him she saw that his eyes were red.

"Don't tell me you've been crying?" she said.

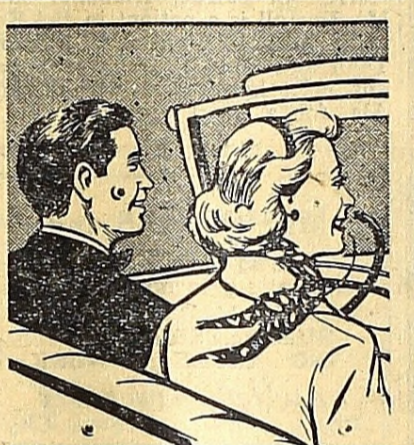

"Crying? Me?" he laughed. "What ever gave you that idea?"

"Your eyes. They look like it."

"It's those flowers . . . roses. Why is it people always send roses to the sick? Every place I've been today has had a bouquet of 'em. I hate roses. I'm allergic to 'em. I have to take shots all the time. Roses roses roses!"

THE DOCTOR

By Helen Janney

For a while he dated this one and that, playing no favorite.

Doctor Willis came just the same and set up his practice on Elm Street. He was single so he fixed himself bachelor's quarters in the upstairs over his house. Old Mrs. South who used to do for Dr. Boggs, went over to the young doc's now, which made old doc madder than ever.

IT SEEMED strange the way young doc took on when Doc Boggs finally passed on. Not many even shed a tear at the funeral.

But young doctor Willis sat there crying openly. It made everybody think even more of him than they did before, for they knew that the old man had absolutely refused to cooperate with the younger one and that he lost no opportunity to run him down to his patients.

"What a wonderful husband Doctor Willis would make," was the thought in the minds of more than one mother of a marriageable aged daughter.

The girls themselves busied about inviting him to parties and dances. There was open rivalry for his attention.

Iron Curtain Also Cuts Bering Strait Fur Swaps

Washington, D.C.—The Iron Curtain is also a Fur Curtain between Big and Little Diomedes.

No longer do American cigarrettes, tea, flour and sugar buy Siberian fox pelts and walrus-tusk ivory across the three-mile channel of icy water which separates Russian from American soil, midway across Bering Strait, the National Geographic Society reports.

Russian soldiers man a lookout post on a rocky shoulder of Big Diomedes Island, easternmost sentry station of Soviet sovereignty. Staring across the International Date Line at U.S.-owned Little Diomedes, for three years they have cut off all trade and social calls among Eskimo families who literally have relatives on both sides of the world, yet are only a few minutes' paddle apart.

Since the glacial age the Diomedes, twin mountain peaks protruding above the surface of Bering Strait, have served as steppingstones between Asia and America. In 1867 Russia sold Little Diomedes with Alaska to the United States, but retained Big Diomedes.

Each island supports an Eskimo village. Their inhabitants scratch a living from sea and land by hunting walrus, whales, seals, bears and foxes.

Little Diomedes families, living closer to Siberia than to Alaska, once traded regularly with their Russian neighbors.

Kill That Smell

Oddest request ever received by a certain company was from a man who wanted an old car to smell like new. The concern, which manufactures flavors and fragrances, accepted the challenge and now the old jalopy smells like it just rolled off the production line.

Painful Corsets

In Queen Elizabeth's day ladies wore corsets which gave them a painful but elegant 13-inch waist; 50 years ago standards and waistlines had been relaxed to a more comfortable 18-20 inches; in the interests of health, girdle manufacturers today generally set 24 inches as the minimum for foundation garments they make.

"I own a 360-acre farm and I know just about what I have to have in tires to get my work done. Maybe my soil is different, but it seems to me that Firestone Open-Center Tires pull better than any of the others."

EVERETT LEWISON.

"With 550 acres to farm, I have plenty of opportunities to judge tractor tires. About six years ago I had my first experience with Firestone Traction-Center Tires, and today I have them on all my tractors. In my judgment, they're the best tires money can buy."

LEAF LARSON.

Firestone CHAMPIONS For Both

THAT'S the way it is in most farming localities — Some farmers want Open-Center Tires, while others find that Traction-Centers do a better job in their soil conditions. In all probability, you have a definite preference, too.

If it's an Open-Center you like best, try the Firestone Champion Open-Center Tire. You'll find that its curved bars pull better, its Flared Tread Openings keep the tire clean, and its wide, flat tread wears longer than treads of other Open-Center Tires.

Or—if you think a Traction-Center Tire will do your job best, try the one and only Firestone Traction-Center, the choice of more than a million farmers. Remember — only Firestone gives you your choice between the greatest Open-Center and the only Traction-Center Tire on the market today.

The minutes of the previous days session were read and approved.

There were no communications. Letter was read from attorney Hertzler addressed to Mr. Werth as follows:

June 19, 1951

Mr. Elmer Werth, 212 Main Street, East Tawas, Mich.
Dear Mr. Werth,

You have recently asked of me about the authority of the Board of Supervisors to borrow money by bonding to build a courthouse.

I checked through the record of Board of Supervisor's proceedings and find that on the 19th of January, 1946, the Board voted to submit two propositions at the April 1946 election. One proposition was to increase the tax limitation rate 2 mills and the other was to levy a tax and authorize the Board to borrow money.

The first proposition failed at the April election and on the 11th of April, 1946 the Board voted to submit the proposition at the primary election to be held June 18, 1946.

Since it failed at that election, on June 24th the Board voted to re-submit it at the election to be held November 5, 1946. Whether it was submitted or not, I do not know. On June 23, 1947, the Board voted to re-submit the proposition to raise the tax rate at the November, 1947 election. It evidently failed at that election.

On January 13, 1949, after a change of the constitution so that raising the tax limitation required only a majority vote, the Board voted to submit the matter at the April 1949 election, along with the proposition of levying a tax. According to my information, the matter of bonding was discussed at the session of the Board of Supervisors.

Apparently they chose not to submit the matter of bonding. Although both propositions carried at the April election in 1949, since the matter of bonding was not authorized, if they now wish to borrow the money to build a Courthouse rather than to wait until the money is accumulated by the collecting of a levy of 2 mills through a 10 year period ending in 1959, I believe, there will need to be election by the voters of the county on the matter of bonding.

Yours very truly,
Herbert Hertzler,

The County Clerk read a request to the board asking for additional clerk hire. The matter was referred to the officers salary committee.

Register of Deeds addressed the board requesting extra clerk hire, for his office the matter was referred to the officers salary committee.

Committees were ordered to their respective duties the balance of the Board to be at ease subject to call of the chair.

The Board was called to order at 11:45 a. m. by the chairman.

Following report was read by Finance and apportionment committee.

Honorable Board of Supervisors, Tawas City, Michigan.
Gentlemen:

Your Finance and Apportionment committee recommends that the county loan the Iosco County Agricultural Association the sum of $2,000.00, to be returned in yearly payments of $500.00 with no interest.

The above loan shall be made up on four notes signed by the Agricultural Association in the amount of $500.00, payable January 1952, January, 1953, January, 1954 and January, 1955. Moved by McKenzie, supported by Burgess that the above loan be accepted and adopted.

Mr. Barnett suggested that a bonding company be contacted. Mr. Barnett was instructed to contact a bonding company and ask a representative to meet with Courthouse building committee to learn proper procedures.

Request of Iosco County Nurse for $1.00 per day allowance to take care of gas car depreciation was read to the Board by the Clerk. Referred to Finance and apportionment committee.

Mr. Little read resolution to Board addressed to Public Service Commission. After general discussion from floor, Mr. Little withdrew the proposed resolution.

Following is the agreement to be entered into between Board of Supervisors and Tawas Hospital Ass'n: Whereas no present facilities for the treatment and cure of contagious and infectious or other diseases and human ailments or facilities for emergency and surgical aid exist in the area comprising Iosco County and to some extent its neighbors and adjoining counties;

And whereas the Board of Supervisors of Iosco County have the authority to make an appropriation within the constitutional and statutory tax limitation power to support and contribute to or subsidize a private hospital association duly incorporated as a non-profit corporation under the laws of the State of Michigan where said hospital association has for its purpose public service and conforms to the provisions of Sect. 16.272 of the Michigan Statutes Annotated, providing that said hospital association shall be incorporated under the laws of the state, and it is so organized that its benefits are available to any persons regardless of race, creed or color;

And whereas the authority for an appropriation of this type made by the Board of Supervisors is found in Article 8, Sect. 11 of the constitution of 1908 and by the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Sault St. Marie Hospital vs. Chippewa County Treasurer, 209 Michigan page 684, wherein the Supreme Court held that the constitutional provision herein involved was self-executing.

And whereas in conformity therewith by the Board of Supervisors of Iosco County passed a resolution on the day of 1951 authorizing the appropriation of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) to be paid to the Tawas Hospital Association predicated on the binding promise of the Tawas Hospital Association, or its grantees and assigns, to render service according to the laws of the State of Michigan aforementioned and to maintain a twenty-four hour emergency medical aid service and whereas said resolution was passed for the purpose of providing treatment for contagious and infectious diseases as well as emergency medical service for the needy of the said area as well as the citizenry in general.

Now therefore witnesseth this agreement made this agreement made this day of 1951 between the County of Iosco of the first part, and the Tawas Hospital Association, a non-profit corporation, of the second part, as follows:

(a) That they are a non-profit hospital association duly incorporated under the laws of the State of Michigan organized for the purpose of constructing a general hospital for the treatment of contagious and infectious diseases, under the normal regulations and restrictions, normal to the operation of a general hospital and for the treatment of other human diseases and ailments, consistent with the size and facilities available, and that the management of said hospital will be undenominational and operated in such a manner that its benefits will be available to any person regardless of race, creed or color.

(b) Further that the said Tawas Hospital Association will, when the facility is completed, convey the title to the Sisters of St. Joseph of Nazareth, Michigan, who will operate the hospital, owners, under the regulations set forth by Public Law No. 725 of the Congress of the United States of America, which provides that no person, or persons, shall be denied the use of said facility on account of race, creed or color. And further that said Sisters of St. Joseph will hold title to said premises in fee simple, with the proviso that failure to operate said facility as a general hospital will forfeit their title, which said title shall then revert to the County of Iosco, or to some other suitable governmental agency to be designated by the association.

(c) The second party further agrees that it will cause to be established and maintained, a receiving station or stations, in the proper sections of its proposed hospital, which will be equipped for the handling of first aid and emergency cases.

(d) Permanent telephone connections with the hospital's main telephone system for such use as may be required in connection with the purpose of such receiving station or stations shall be provided.

(e) It is further agreed that the hospital shall maintain facilities for major emergencies from fire, riots, explosions or other catastrophes, and the entire facilities and personnel of the hospital shall be made available.

(f) It is further agreed by the second party that the receiving station or stations shall provide first aid to all persons needing the same and having been brought in by the Iosco County Sheriff's Department.

(g) It is further agreed that the hospital management will relieve the Sheriff's Department of all responsibility of calling and contacting doctors in emergency cases, and that should internes or resident physicians be added to hospital staff, such personnel shall be available in all such emergencies.

(h) The second party agrees that through its personnel it will relieve the Sheriff's Department of all responsibility in attending to and handling all emergency cases from and after the time such cases have been delivered to the hospital personnel in charge of the receiving station.

(i) The second party agrees that emergency patients needing immediate or overnight hospitalization shall be admitted to room or ward until permanent arrangements can be made with patient, his family, or other responsible individuals or agencies; that county charges or patients admitted under the category of emergencies will likewise be so treated and cared for until permanent arrangements for the transfer of such patients can be made with the proper county authorities.

(j) The second party agrees that detailed instructions in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this agreement shall be signed and posted by the superintendent of the hospital for the information and direction of all professional and other receiving station personnel in handling and disposing of such emergency cases.

(k) This contract shall be binding on both parties hereto for whatever length of time the ownership of said hospital remains in the Tawas Hospital Association or the succeeding owners and operators thereto.

While the aforesaid emergency and first aid service shall be rendered to the County of Iosco in accordance with this contract, nothing therein contained shall be construed as preventing the hospital from making the customary charges to first aid and emergency patients; provided, however, that no charge shall be made to the County of Iosco for those patients who do not pay under the terms of this agreement.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the Hospital Association from collecting for county emergency cases from the county at such rates the county and Hospital Association may agree upon.

In witness whereof the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals by their duly authorized officers, the day and date first above written.

COUNTY OF IOSCO TAWAS HOSPITAL ASS'N.

The Board was called to order by the chairman at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday, June 20, 1951 in continued June session. Roll call: Present: Anderson, Monroe, Burgess, Bellville, Little, Stickney, Webb, Black, Staebler, Long, Rodman, Klenow, McKenzie, King, Brabant, Everett, Dickey. Quorum present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. No committees were ready to report.

The committees were ordered to their respective duties, the balance of the Board at ease subject to the call of the chair.

Board was called to order at 11:30 by the chairman.

Mrs. Grace Miller, Iosco County Treasurer addressed the Board about the welfare bills that are accumulating in an amount over $7,433.00. Requested that state department bill for social welfare be paid every month and the Board make provisions for funds to pay same. Referred to Finance and Apportionment Committee.

Mr. Little addressed the Board again concerning the resolution the previous day to the Public Service Commission asking for investigation of Sand Lake area. Upon motion by Little, supported by Black the following resolution was unanimously accepted and adopted.

WHEREAS, Iosco County Board of Supervisors have, and are, steadily increasing their assessed valuation each year, and this increase must come mostly from the development of our resort possibilities;

And as it has been brought to the attention of this board that these potentials are being held up by the unreasonable assignment of the North two tiers of sections of Grant Twp., to the Hale Telephone Co. which cannot develop the territory profitably;

AND WHEREAS, other telephone services are within 1 1/2 miles of this highly developed section, but are denied the right to construct their line further into that section. And there has been some telephone construction, or temporary proposition, lately proposed, which we know will be wholly inadequate for the territory, and only remotely meet the needs of these people.

AND WHEREAS, other telephone services are within 1 1/2 miles of this highly developed area, but are denied the right to construct their line further into that section.

THEREFORE, we the Board of Supervisors of Iosco County, request your Honorable Commission to investigate this condition.

It was moved by Werth, supported by Dickey that the following minutes of the special building committee be written into the minutes. Motion carried, unanimously.

May 23 meeting of the Committee for New County Court House Building and County Officers.
Meeting was called to order at 8:30 p. m. by chairman Werth. Present: Klenow, Rollin, Smith, Everett, Buch, Werth, Barnett, Kurtzrock, Prescott,

Mr. Werth stated that the meeting was for the purpose of discussing the court house plans with the idea of trying to cut costs and considering a one story building that would meet requirements.
Mr. Goddeyne asked what the approximate amount was that the county figured to spend upon new court house. Told that the figure must approximate $275,000 if any structure were to be built, he stated that about 180,000 cubic feet would be the limit a building could contain for the amount of money. Since the present plans called for 257,000 cubic feet, the new proposed building would have to be 77,000 cubic feet smaller.
In general the discussion that followed the following items were agreed upon:
1. The Road Commission office could be eliminated.
2. The supervisors room could be eliminated with supervisors using court room and jury rooms for their operations.
3. Eliminate the Health unit office but retain the nurse's and child welfare offices.
4. It was generally agreed that area of the court room could be reduced.
On the question of the Agricultural Agents office, Mr. Burgeson stated that it was the duty of the duty of the county to provide space for the agent as well as his expenses and supplies.
Judge Smith inquired can the architect design building that can be partially completed and finished as needed.
Prosecutor Barnett asked question whether or not the contemplation new plans would meet requirements twenty years from now.
School Superintendent Rollin said he was willing to cooperate by leaving off the assembly room adjacent to his offices if the committee decided to just partially complete the building.
Mr. Werth asked Prosecutor Barnett to obtain a written opinion on the following question: Can we borrow on the anticipated revenue that will accrue to the county over the next eight years from the two mills special Court House Building Tax which was passed two years ago by vote of the people.
Drain Commissioner Kurtzrock, reminded the committee that a 10 by 19 foot office space should be provided for him.
Architect Goddeyne was asked to prepare a new sketch of a one story building containing approximately 180,000 cubic feet of space. Mr. Goddeyne advised that he would do this for a lump sum which would be fair and just and not charge his standard 20% of the completed job cost.
June 15, 1951
Mr. Werth called meeting to order at 8:00 p. m. Present: Werth, Everett, Klenow, McKenzie, Goddeyne.
Reading of previous minutes were waived.
Mr. Goddeyne presented plans to the committee for the proposed one story building asked for at previous meeting.
A general discussion followed and the new plans received many favorable comments.
It was agreed to present the sketches to the Board of Supervisors, Monday morning, be present that afternoon to answer questions.
Meeting adjourned.

Honorable Board of Supervisors Iosco County
Gentlemen:

The judiciary committee reports the following resolution for your approval.

Whereas, for at least the past 30 years it has been urged that the St. Lawrence Deepwater seaway connecting the Great Lakes with the Sea be constructed for the economic benefit and betterment of the United States of America; and

Whereas, for an equal number of years a certain limited number of cities, States and organized business groups have successfully opposed this project by the allegation that their individual economic life and business interests would suffer as much harm as the benefits which would be extended to other cities, States and business interests in the rest of the country; and

Whereas this ancient argument of opposition has now turned into a direct and dangerous threat against the very security of our country in view of the important and essential part of the seaway is to the security needs of this country; Now Therefore Be It Resolved, by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Iosco this 19th day of June, 1951 that these dangerous and selfish forces of opposition to the St. Lawrence Seaway be opposed by vigorous means and that every effort be made to advance the many justifiable reasons why the seaway should be constructed for the welfare, security and benefit the entire United States of America; and

Be it further resolved, that all United States Congressmen from the State of Michigan be and they hereby are, urged to bend every effort to obtain immediate passage of Federal legislation to provide funds for the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway; and

Be it further resolved, that the County Clerk be and he hereby is directed to transfer copies of this resolution to all Congressmen from Michigan, and further that copies be transmitted to the Board of Supervisors of all counties of the State of Michigan requesting that they pass similar resolutions and transmit same to Congress; and Be it further resolved, that the Michigan State Legislature be, and it hereby is, impurported to adopt an appropriate joint resolution memorializing the Congress of the United States to approve funds for the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

HOMER CROFT'S Jesse James WAS MY NEIGHBOR

THE STORY SO FAR: The James gang has attempted to rob the bank at Northfield, Minnesota, but it turns into a stunning defeat for the gang. Three of the bandits are killed and the younger brothers are captured by a posse. Jesse and Frank, however, manage to escape.

ence, Alabama, and Muscle Shoals, carrying a goodly payroll. On March 11, 1881, the messenger was relieved of his heavy load by two men who rode off without a satisfactory account of where they were going.

to dig up a single clue as to his identity. The police telegraphed a description of the liquor-and-oyster lover to the police chiefs of the country; word came from Kansas City asking for details.

CHAPTER XI

It is said that when Dude found out who the dandy was, he missed his stroke and bent three nails in succession.

Jim Cummins turned up. He had been a member of the gang, was none too bright and was of little consequence. Furthermore, he was about the last person in the world that Frank wanted to see just then.

When Frank got Jim inside, he told the latter who Watson was, and said: "Jim, come on out and I'll introduce you under another name.

"Of course not," declared Jim indignantly.

He got as far back in a corner as he could and ate one of the finest meals ever known in Nashville. Then he proceeded out of Davidson County.

Frank Lives Happily, Then Jesse Shows Up

These were the happiest days Frank James had ever known. He was farming and teaming, and he had ease of mind. The nights of riding and days of terror were over.

Then something happened. A two-horse wagon drove up; in it were Jesse and his wife.

Bits and pieces of the old gang had begun to float in. Buck-toothed, watery-eyed Jim Cummins was around again. Bill Ryan, a good man who had a dangerous liking for spirituous liquors.

Jesse began to absent himself from Nashville on private missions more and more frequently; once he was gone three months. On another occasion he took Bill Ryan with him, and the two rode away without mentioning where they were going.

A posse rode forth and, as at Glendale a year before accomplishing nothing. But later a man named T. J. Hunt was arrested for the robbery and imprisoned for eighteen months, then sentenced to three years.

The two Fords stood over him a moment, each with a gun in hand, to make sure the deed had been accomplished.

lawyer asked the sick neighbor as to what time of night Frank left, saying, "Could Mr. James have had time to reach Muscle Shoals by the time the robbery was committed?"

The neighbor thought it over carefully. "Yes," he said, "he just about had time to make it."

Bill Ryan Is Taken, Law on James' Trail

The two brothers realized that a good and foolproof arrangement about alibis was going to be of considerable use to them, and they hit upon a novel method. Having teams and wagons, they made a deal with the road commissioner to haul gravel in their spare time.

Frank and Jesse had no more than settled down after the Muscle Shoals affair than trouble again tapped. It had to do with Bill Ryan, the problem child. He was fearless and was to be depended on when people were being relieved of their money, but there was the matter of drink.

He got together some of his veterans, but he also had to put in green timber. He rounded them up by letter, writing them and receiving the answers addressed to Donnie Pence or through Miss Nannie Mimms, his wife's cousin, who also lived in Samuels Depot.

It so happened that an ex-detective was on the street outside; a messenger sped to him and the detective entered the saloon.

It wasn't long before Bill was on the way back to his native state, a distaste in his mouth for oysters. The day of the arrest Jesse was away from home; he returned late that evening on horseback.

What would happen? Would he tell where Jesse and Frank were? Even if he didn't, the police and detectives might guess he had been with them. Something would have to be done.

Frank came to see Jesse and in Jesse's house they talked it over. Roughly speaking, Jesse had been in Nashville two years, Frank four. Here their children had been born.

Jesse Reorganizes His Bandit Crew

His decided to chance staying overnight. The next day their families would have to go, too—little Tim Howard and his sister Mary Howard, and little Mary Woodson—

Jesse picked up Dick Liddell and the two started west. Now and then doubt came to him about Dick, who was shifty and none too bold.

But the war had been over some time; law was pretty well established in a land where it had been a stranger, and the ex-guerrillas hesitated to shelter old friends just because they had ridden together.

The oldest type of hunting dog known to man is the trail hound, the dog that helped prehistoric man keep the wolf from the door in more ways than one. That first dog was little more than a tamed wolf.

As the centuries went by, man saved the best of his hunting dogs for breeding purposes, destroying all those that failed to meet the standards of the hunt.

The slim, stately Greyhound, the Irish Wolfhound, and the long-legged, elegant Borzoi are all hounds. So are the little Beagles, the Shorter Bassets and the shortest Dachshunds.

The laws (and useful they are, to be sure) can regulate our behavior, but they cannot touch our hearts. They can forbid us to harm our neighbor, but they cannot force us to feel kindly towards him.

Love is above all law; it does not break laws but it goes far beyond them. It is not the law-abiding citizens who are the best ones; the true ornaments and treasures, the First Citizens of a community, are the love-abiding.

SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON By JIM RHODY

Not So Crazy

The old saw "crazy as a goose," has always been ridiculed by hunters of the Canada Goose. This, most famous of the Dominion's wildfowl, is brave, strong and wily . . . the opposite to crazy. It has probably more sense than any other bird, as anyone who has set out to bag some will testify.

There is probably no better authority on the Canada Goose than Alfred Hole, who operates a mink ranch near Rennie, Manitoba. As a result of an incident back in 1940 he became the friend and protector of a flock of wild geese and since then he has devoted a great deal of time each summer studying their habits and ways.

Workers in the Rennie railway yards in June, 1940, found four goslings not more than three or four days old. Their mother had been killed in some way, evidently, shortly before the railwaymen made the discovery.

Sportsmen who thought they knew all about wild geese scoffed at the idea that the goslings could be raised without a natural mother and made a bet of a bottle of Scotch that the goslings would not live six weeks. The bet was accepted and Mr. Hole began a career that even now is in its infancy.

The first diet was rolled oats and green stuffs hand fed. But it was not the fun looking after them that Alfred anticipated. It transpired, goslings get mighty hungry around 3:30 in the morning and the "foster mother" had to rise at that time to do his self-imposed chore.

In the late summer the young geese, now strong and healthy, made attempts to fly and their keeper clipped their wings. Otherwise they were not confined and had the run of the grounds and neighboring water.

Several thousand postcards, each sealed in a plastic container, will be dropped into the Gulf of Mexico by United States naval aircraft during 1951 to trace complex gulf currents.

Drift Cards

Several thousand postcards, each sealed in a plastic container, will be dropped into the Gulf of Mexico by United States naval aircraft during 1951 to trace complex gulf currents as well as the distribution and migrations of commercial fishery stocks.

This project is sponsored by the fish and wildlife service of the department, with the co-operation of the Gulf States marine fisheries commission, the Texas game fish and oyster commission, the department of oceanography of Texas A&M college, and the navy department's office of naval research.

The postcards are expected to drift about in the gulf currents, and to be cast up eventually on beaches, where many of them will be found and returned to the Gulf States marine fisheries commission at New Orleans, La. Then they will be routed to scientists who will deduce from the returns the paths which the cards must have followed in the sea.

Hunting Dog Types

The oldest type of hunting dog known to man is the trail hound, the dog that helped prehistoric man keep the wolf from the door in more ways than one. That first dog was little more than a tamed wolf.

As the centuries went by, man saved the best of his hunting dogs for breeding purposes, destroying all those that failed to meet the standards of the hunt. In this way, man was unwittingly practicing selective breeding, aimed at producing a better dog with a superior nose, greater stamina, courage and tenacity on the trail.

Pursuit of different kinds of game required widely varying abilities. It was the search for different hunting abilities that led to the development of the many breeds—all known as hounds.

Community Living Lesson for July 22, 1951

THERE is one way to get along in any neighborhood without any trouble at all: just have nothing to do with any one. But that is not only not a Christian way of living, it is not practicable.

You need the community and the community needs you. If you want to tell the world goodbye, go rent yourself a room on the 17th floor of some apartment house in New York.

Some communities cease to be communities and become exclusive clubs; no strangers can break in. A lady in a very old county in a long-settled state, said of her next-door neighbor: "That family came here sixty years ago; they don't really belong here."

Now a true community ought to include every one in it, and it isn't a real community until it does. Jesus' parable of the sheep and the goats suggests this.

The trouble with the "goats" was that they just never saw the down-and-out members of the community at all. Your own neighborhood has in it, perhaps, some lonely people, unfortunate people, some human leftovers. What is the community doing for them?

The Church and Its Own

ONE practical thing that Christians can do for their communities is to see to it that no Christian suffers want. However much we may disagree with the Mormons, there is one feature of the Mormon church which the rest of us might take to heart: in all the depression of 20 years ago, there never was a Mormon on relief.

Probably in most small communities the separate congregations are not large enough to do this kind of thing effectively; but surely in a community where there are as many as three or four different denominations, they might all plan together so that whenever any Christian got into a strait, the rest of the Christians would stand by to help him.

There will always be a need for general organizations such as the Red Cross or the Grange and the Community Chest; but if Christians always stood by Christians, the rest of the community would at least have less to worry about.

It Takes All Kinds

THE ideal community is one in which everybody is a Christian and indeed all belong to the same church. But such communities are few and far between. Most of us live pretty close—and sometimes uncomfortably close—to people who are not Christians, except perhaps in name, and who may be hard to get along with.

How can we live with such people in a Christian way? Paul, in Romans 12, makes some practical suggestions. He knew very well that no city or town in the Roman Empire was Christian or anywhere near it; yet he shows how to have the Christian spirit never-the-less.

Christians should be the most valuable members of any community. But are they? Is this true in your community? If so, what is it that the Christians contribute? And if not, is it maybe the Christians' fault?

The Law Above Laws

A group of people who act toward each other in no better way than the laws of the land require, may be a neighborhood but it is no community.

The laws (and useful they are, to be sure) can regulate our behavior, but they cannot touch our hearts. They can forbid us to harm our neighbor, but they cannot force us to feel kindly towards him. For complete community, something more than law is necessary; and again Paul puts us on the track of it.

Love is above all law; it does not break laws but it goes far beyond them. It is not the law-abiding citizens who are the best ones; the true ornaments and treasures, the First Citizens of a community, are the love-abiding.

Plant Chief Charles Titus with two of his friends at Sigma Gamma Hospital School for Crippled Children

Service doesn't keep "office hours"

CHARLES TITUS has lived in Mt. Clemens thirty years, most of that time as Michigan Bell's Plant Chief. That's a lot of service to one company and to one community. But, as his fellow citizens know, it isn't half the story.

After hours, Charles Titus finds time—or makes time—to help with a recreational and educational program at the Sigma Gamma Hospital School for Crippled Children. In 1943, Mr. Titus helped organize the Mt. Clemens Community Chest—just one of his many wartime activities. The first chairman of the Mt. Clemens Recreation Commission, he is at present Secretary of the city's Planning Commission.

In many ways his community profits from the "spare time" of Michigan Bell's Mt. Clemens Plant Chief.

Miss Lenora Hass, Iosco County Librarian, attended the annual conference of the American Library Association in Chicago last week.

This was the 75th anniversary of the founding of the association. As the theme of this meeting "The Heritage of the U.S.A. in Time of Crisis" was used. The theme was very appropriate and well worked out with a group of fine speakers and details for every age groups reading, Miss Haas stated.

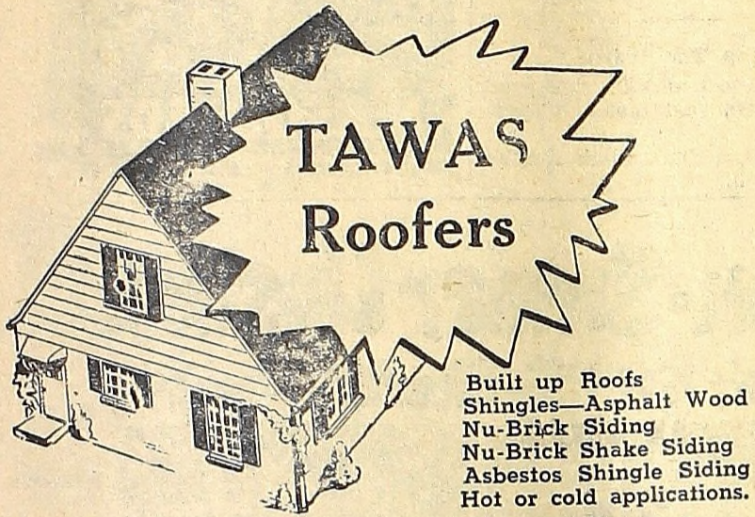

The conference was attended by more than 5000 members. The convention rededicated itself to the twofold objectives of the American public library. These are the guiding principles of the American Library Association. The first is to provide books and other materials for the communication of ideas for all age groups and on all subjects and public issues. The second is to provide reading materials for leisure time that is enjoyable and intellectually stimulating.

This past week has seen attendance drop slightly because of the haying season and the unkind elements. The Anschuetz Eagles lead the reading clubs this week with a 1.55 average of runs per person. The second place spot goes to the Vine-Watt-Greenwood team with a 1.50 runs per member. The Long Lake Rough Necks are next with 1 run for each member. These standing do not top the record of 1.88 runs per person set by Cottage Sluggers last week. Other standings are Jordan Hitters .88 runs per person; Sand Lake Champs .66 runs per person; Hale Hawks .60 runs per person. The Hale stop had a total circulation of 53 this week to beat the Anschuetz group by one book for the highest total circulation. The story Hour this week has included tales from "Yankee Doodle's Cousins" by Anne Mal Colmson. This book is full of American legends. Those used were "Mule Humans" a Kentucky legend; "John Darling" an eastern tale of the Erie Canal; "The Ghost of Dark Run Hollow." One of the "Jack Tales" by Richard Chase "Sop Mop" was also used. The poems this week have been

"Galoshes" by Rohda W. Baemeister; "Once I Saw A Little Bird" author unknown; and "The Little Turtle" by Vachel Lindsay.
