

Tawas City O. E. S. Chapter Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Program and Dinner Held Tuesday Night

200 Members, Guests And State O.E.S. Officers In Attendance

The Tawas City High School Auditorium was transformed into a beautiful flower bedecked room when Tawas City Chapter No. 303, Order of Eastern Star, celebrated the 50th anniversary of the founding of the chapter in this city. Immediately after entering the door the guests passed through an arbor of gold flowers to the registration desk where well over 200 members and guests registered. The center of the floor was covered by a rug 50 feet long and 23 feet wide, and the rug was bordered by a low ornamental fence intertwined with garlands of large gold flowers. Baskets of gold rosebuds decorated the pedestals and baskets of gladioli, marigolds and asters decorated the floor, piano and stage.

On the stage was a large neon lighted display with "Tawas City Chapter 50th Anniversary" outlined in reflection material, with a neon star and rays in the center. On each side were two mammoth candles with orange neon flames. In one corner of the room stood another arbor decked with gold flowers, where the Past Matrons and Past Patrons stood while the history of their years was read. When a history of a deceased officer was read a white flower was placed in a vase. Red flowers were placed in the vase to represent the living past officers.

During the entrance march of the officers, a living cross was formed, and the "In Old Hugged Cross" was sung by Mrs. Lucille Simons. The American Flag, Christian Flag and Eastern Star Flag were presented by Mrs. Jessie McLean, Mrs. Lula Colby and Mrs. Muriel Horton, with worthy patron A. W. Colby giving the tribute to the American Flag. Pledges of (Continued No. 4, Back Page)

Traffic Accident Puts Three in Hospital

E. John Moffatt, and Mrs. Claude Brooks and son, Charles, are in the Saginaw General Hospital suffering from serious injuries received last week Thursday in an automobile accident near Vassar. Three people in another car were injured, but not seriously hurt.

The accident occurred while Mr. Moffatt was taking Mrs. Brooks to a Detroit hospital. She was accompanied by her son, Charles. The cause of the accident is not known, as Mr. Moffatt's condition has been such that he has not been questioned.

Mr. Moffatt will be taken into surgery today (Friday) for the treatment of fractures received in the accident. These include multiple fracture of the face bones, a broken hip bone and concussion. Mrs. Brooks suffered a broken collar bone, and Charles, concussion.

While Mr. Moffatt is in the hospital Mrs. Moffatt is operating the funeral home with the aid of neighboring funeral directors, many of whom have offered their cooperation in this emergency.

Mrs. Jennie Beausaw

Mrs. Jennie Beausaw, 75, who has been a resident of East Tawas for over fifty years passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cora Colburn last Wednesday evening. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drzewicki Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drzewicki of East Tawas last Sunday celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Drzewicki were married at St. Joseph church September 16, 1891, by Rev. Fr. Edward Kinney.

Previous to their retirement and coming to East Tawas in 1949, their home was in Tawas township where Mr. Drzewicki had operated one of Isosco county's substantial farms for many years.

Both, Mr. and Mrs. Drzewicki, were born near Posen in Germany. He was born September 13, 1867, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Drzewicki. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chestler, and was born June 6, 1879. She came to the United States with her parents in 1880, and they, locating first at Buffalo, N. Y., came to Isosco county in 1884. Mr. Drzewicki's parents came to the United States in 1880 and three years later came to Tawas City.

In his earlier years Mr. Drzewicki was employed as a cook in lumber camps and for construction crews on the Detroit and Mackinac Railroad.

They attended mass Sunday morning, and following a family dinner with their eight children, they were hosts at open house, and where they received the congratulations of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Drzewicki have eight children; Mrs. Ted Anshuets of Tawas township; Thomas of Gawn; John of Highland Park; Mrs. Clayton Ulman and Mrs. Norton Ulman of Tawas City; Mrs. Roy Harris of Alpena; Mrs. Joseph Reinke, Jr., of Tawas City. A son, Edward, died in 1938. There are 45 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Stephan-Engle Again Win Canoe Marathon

Jay Stephan, 25, of Grayling, and Ted Engle, Jr., 21, of Gaylord paddled across the finish line in their Canadian type racing canoe at Oscoda at 8:37 o'clock Sunday morning to clip 35 minutes from their 1950 record to win the fifth annual Michigan Canoe Championship down the AuSable river, beginning at Grayling and ending at Oscoda.

The champions finished the grueling 240 mile paddle down the AuSable in 17 hours and 37 minutes, being 42 minutes ahead of their nearest competitors, Hugh Bissonette and Bob Fullerton, of Oscoda, Bissonette and Fullerton also were in ahead of last years time but couldn't keep up the pace set by Stephan and Engle.

Of the 15 two-man teams which started the marathon at Grayling Saturday afternoon, only seven remained in the race to cross the finish line at Oscoda. The other paddlers dropped out of the race along the way for various reasons.

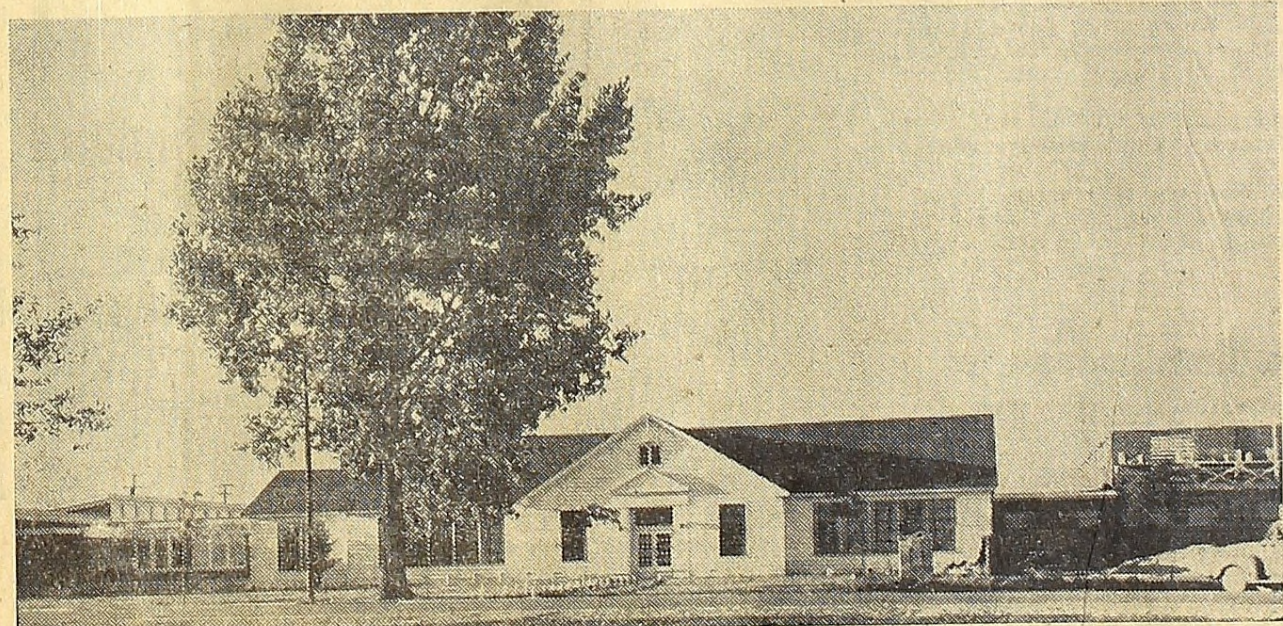

After pulling their canoe out of the water at Bob's landing, and posing for several cameramen who were on hand to greet them, Stephan and Engle were escorted by a huge throng of spectators to the old U. S. 23 bridge where the two canoeists were presented with the Tom Marston trophy and the $600 first prize. Miss Shirley Welna, 1951 Silver Valley Queen made the presentation.

'Navy' to Eat Chicken Dinner at Kiwanis Meet

Kiwanis Members to Be Guests on Perch Fishing Trip

The "navy" will eat chicken—and the "army" will eat weiners and sauerkraut at the September 25 luncheon meeting of the Tawas Kiwanis club at the Barnes hotel, as the result of a recent contest conducted to raise the club's $2,500 pledge for the Tawas Memorial hospital.

Back in June, Kenneth Barnes advanced every member of Kiwanis $5.00 to "invest" any way they saw fit, with the proceeds of the investment to be turned into the hospital fund. The original investment was to be returned by Labor Day. The teams were chosen, the "navy" headed by "Lieut." Nathan Barkman, and the "army" headed by "Captain" Elmer Werth.

Final results of the contest, announced last week, showed the "navy" total standing at $1,434, and the "army" at $599, for a combined total of $2,033.

With the total bill nearly $500 short of the $2,500 pledge by the club, members voted unanimously to continue their fund-raising program until the entire amount is raised.

It was announced that on the same day as the dinner, a Tawas Bay perch fishing trip was to be held with club members as guests of W. R. DeGrow. Members of the Midland club will be invited to be guests of the local club.

Reorganization Plan Endorsed

W. E. Clapp Speaks at P.-T. A. Meeting

The School Reorganization Plan, currently proposed for this area, was praised by W. F. Clapp, assistant superintendent of public instruction, in his speech at the first P.-T. A. meeting held Thursday evening.

Mr. Clapp clarified the need for a change by contrasting the state's economic development with the educational development. The speaker declared that the system of dividing counties into school districts no longer provides educational facilities for children as the population of the state is unevenly distributed.

Mr. Clapp stated that the plan now being considered meets the requirements for a workable unit in respect to location and size. The proposed location is a community center and the area involved is large enough to support a successful unit. Sufficient neighborhood units are being planned to meet the needs of small children.

At this meeting Cecil Cable and Fred Musolf were elected to represent P.-T.A. at the reorganization meetings.

Superintendent A. E. Giddings introduced the faculty and Mrs. Connett introduced the P.-T. A. staff, each chairman naming his committee.

Refreshments were served during the social hour following the program.

Isosco Sportsmen Elect Officers

Richard Aulerich spoke on his trip to the 4-H Camp at Higgins Lake. He was sponsored to the camp by the club.

A guest speaker at the meeting was Ben Azer of the Mio Sportsmen's Club.

Bert Johnson and Ernie Cuney were made life members of the club.

Arrangements were made for the annual banquet, October 11, at the Eagle Hall.

Among the topics discussed was a feeding station for birds. Arthur Leitz showed moving pictures on Michigan wild life.

Korean Peace Negotiations Stalled; Senate Group Makes Crime Report

BLACKMAIL—With renewed claims by Chinese Communists that Kaesong's neutrality has been violated several times, a general feeling that peace negotiations are stalled until after the San Francisco conference on a Japanese peace treaty, which began on the 4th, has developed in the nation's capital.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has reportedly expressed the opinion that the cease-fire talks were a blind from the start and that the Allies must now be prepared for renewal of full scale conflict. The Communists have played at the game of blackmail—a peace in Korea for abandonment of the Japanese treaty.

Now that the treaty conference is underway, and the U.S. continues in its determination to sign the treaty, there is little reason to believe a settlement will be reached in Korea. To the contrary, it appears likely all-out war will flare up at any moment.

The Communists have used the weeks of negotiations to full advantage in their build-up of equipment and men in Korea. They are reported to have approximately 500,000 men in the country, with 400,000 near the front. Approximately 600 tanks and great numbers of heavy guns have been brought into the war zone. The build-up of air power is well over 1,000 planes.

If the Communists have benefited from the weeks of lull, so have United Nations forces. Regiments are at full strength for the first time and have better and a greater number of weapons. Their defense positions are the best since the Korean conflicts began.

A few of the nation's leaders still believe there is a 50-50 chance of peace in Korea. But every day the odds are changing for the worse.

CRIME REPORT—The senate crime investigating committee concluded its 15-month investigation with a report that said "the tentacles of organized crime reach into virtually every community throughout the country."

As a solution it recommended the formation of a national crime coordinating council which would support and aid the activities of crime commissions in the home towns of the nation.

Among its other recommendations: (1) That the federal security agency develop a nation-wide educational campaign on the effects of narcotics; (2) that the federal penalty for narcotics peddling be increased; (3) that congress prohibit "interstate facilities in connection with any bet or wager, thus putting an end to layoff and comeback transactions between gamblers in different states"; and (4) that congress tighten laws to prevent aliens from entering illegally and liberalize the deportation process.

One of the most startling statements of the report was the one which charged that some communities have been enslaved by organized crime and grafting public officials and that honest people have lost their voice in their own local government in many areas.

OATIS CASE—Czechoslovakia's ambassador received a stormy welcome last week when he called on the White House to present his credentials. President Truman told him bluntly the quickest way to improve relations between the two countries would be to free imprisoned newspaperman, William N. Oatis.

The ambassador said the "case is closed", but a number of diplomatic observers believe otherwise. They believe Czechoslovakia will try a little blackmail, such as the deal the U.S. engineered with Hungary to win the release of businessman Robert A. Vogeler, also imprisoned on spy charges.

Hungary was granted a number of minor trade and diplomatic concessions for releasing Vogeler, Czechoslovakia's terms may be curbs on Radio Free Europe, a privately run American radio station at Munich which broadcasts anti-Communist propaganda behind the Iron Curtain.

DEFENSE TREATIES—The United States last week signed defense treaties with the Philippines, Australia, and New Zealand. It was a major step in this country's policy of securing peace and stopping the spread of communism in the Pacific.

The pacts, which following the pattern of the 12-nation North Atlantic alliance by binding the U.S. to aid the Pacific countries in case of an attack on either, must be ratified by the senate. They are not expected to come up for action before early next year, however.

FOOD PRICES—The Independent Grocers Alliance, which has some 10,000 members, predicts that food prices are likely to go down this fall. According to J. Frank Grimes, president of the group, "Big farm crops and heavy production of processed foods promise to make many food price ceilings purely academic within the next few months."

Whether propaganda or not, Grimes recommends the group's members reduce food inventories in the weeks ahead. "That way, stores can be ready to jump in and buy when prices ease—then launch big sales that will make them more friends among thrifty consumers."

FOREIGN AID—The senate last week passed its version of a foreign aid bill. The measure authorizes $7,286,250,000 to erect military and economic defenses against communism. The total was $1,213,750,000 less than asked by President Truman.

Two weeks ago the house sliced $1,001,250,000 off the $8,500,000,000 requested by the administration.

Now the bill goes to conference with the house and senate working out a compromise of their differences. Whatever the final figure, it will not be near the $8.5 billions asked by the administration. The bulk of the funds, approximately 80 per cent, in both the house and senate bills, will be used for military aid. Later congress must vote actual funds to carry the authorizations approved by both branches.

DOUGLAS UPROAR—The suggestion last week by William O. Douglas, supreme court justice, that the U.S. recognize Red China, has caused an uproar on the American scene.

Douglas, who made the suggestion in an interview in San Francisco upon his return from an expedition along the southern frontiers of both Russia and China, said recognition would give the free world a real political victory. He said recognition would capitalize on the struggle between Chinese nationalism and Russia's drive for far eastern solidarity.

In the senate, however, Douglas' statement brought blasts of anger. Said Senator Connally of Texas, "We have not recognized Red China. We do not intend to recognize Red China. Justice Douglas is not secretary of state. Douglas is not President of the United States. He never will be."

EVA QUILTS—Eva Peron, politically the most powerful woman in the western hemisphere, who a few days before accepted the nomination for vice president on her husband's ticket in the November election, last week announced her decision to quit the race.

The western world, which has eyed the Argentina dictatorship with a suspicious eye, had heard reports of a serious split in the Peronista party since the President and Senora Peron had told a mass meeting that they were ready to "bow to the will of the people."

Her withdrawal is expected to consolidate the party behind her husband, Juan, and elect him to another six year term.

DEFENSE—President Truman in a nation-wide broadcast from San Francisco, where he attended the opening of the Japanese peace treaty conference, warned the nation that not even an armistice in Korea must be allowed to slow the efforts to strengthen the free world against future Communist aggression.

"Whether negotiations in Korea are successful or not," he said, "we must continue to drive ahead to build defensive strength for our country and the free world."

"The plain fact is that Communists may try to resume the offensive in Korea at any time. Moreover, they are capable of launching new attacks in Europe, in the Middle East, or elsewhere in Asia, wherever it suits them."

SCHOOL DAYS

Schools Due to Set Record Enrollment

Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator, estimates that more Americans are expected to go to school this year than ever before. He figured the total at 33,121,000, compared with the 1950-51 peak of 32,703,000.

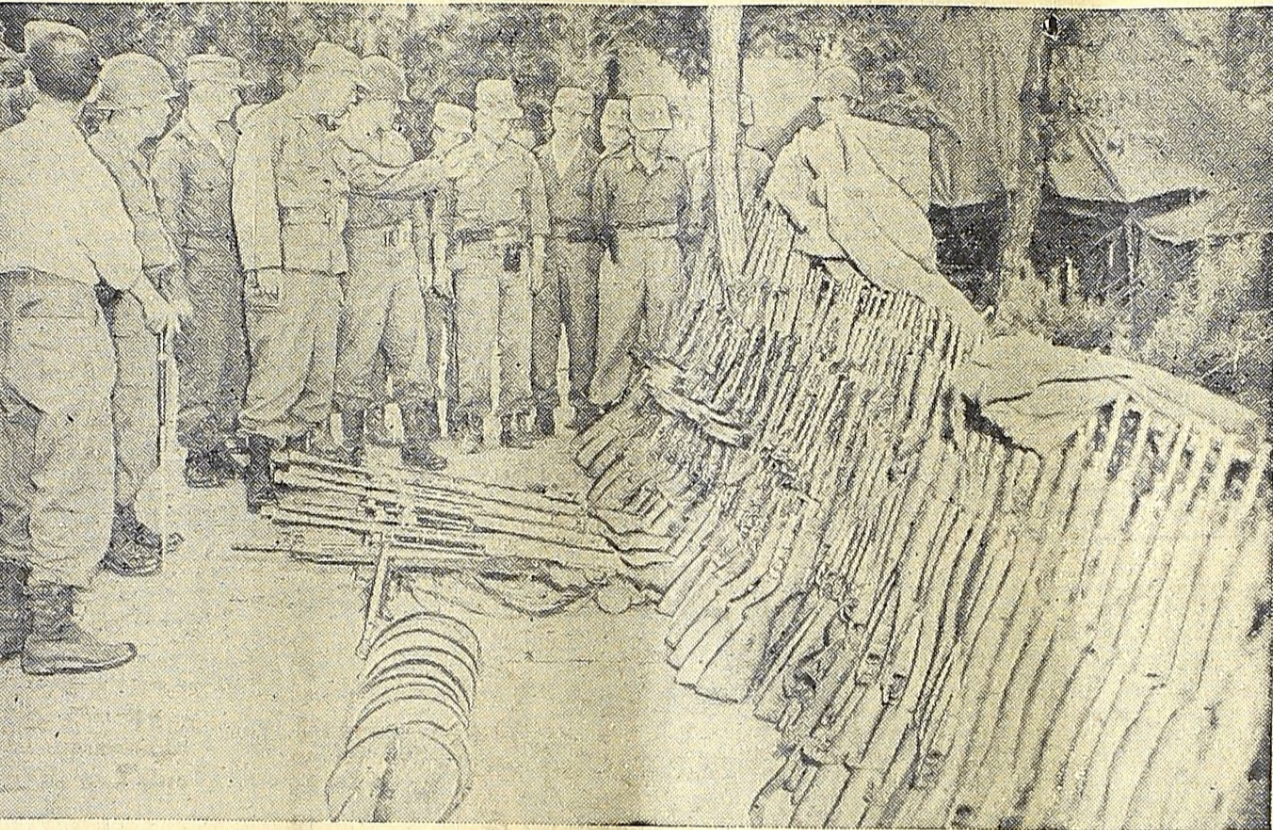

Ewing said the largest enrollment will be at the elementary level—from 23,686,000 last year to 24,468,000 this year. Secondary school enrollments are expected to increase from 6,142,000 last year to 6,168,000.

Due to the diminishing number of war veterans and to the drafting of college-age men, the enrollment in colleges and universities is expected to decline from 2,500,000 last year to 2,225,000. Private commercial schools are expected to have 175,000 students.

On the witness chair at left is Charles Shira, who was a tackle on the football squad at the academy. At right, asking the questions, is Robert Daru, general counsel for the bar association. Other cadets are in the background waiting to testify. Shira said he was kept in the dark on the charges against him and was denied legal representation when he was summoned before the West Point investigating board for the ouster.

VAN FLEET LOOKS OVER ENEMY WEAPONS . . . On a tour of the front lines in the Korean war zone, General James A. Van Fleet, commander of the United Nations ground forces, inspects an array of Communist weapons captured by a South Korean division in the recent skirmishing while armistice talks have been on and off. Much of this equipment used by the enemy was made in Russia or was of Russian design. Beside the commander is ROK General Choi Yong Hi. Van Fleet has announced that in the event of a complete breakdown of truce negotiations, his army is ready and waiting for any assault the Reds can throw against him.

RECEIVES FATHER'S MEDAL . . . Held by his mother, Elizabeth, Flip Sebille, 17-months, accepts father's medal of honor from General Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, at March Field, Calif. Major Sebille aimed his disabled Mustang into a group of enemy armored vehicles in Korea. Flip is too young to realize his loss or the importance of the ceremony as some 4,000 airmen paraded in his father's honor. It was the air force's first medal of honor in the Korean war.

SWISS CONSUL'S DAUGHTER ARRIVES . . . Sue Rohrbach, who is a daughter of the consul from Switzerland in Philadelphia gives New Yorkers a sample of her guitar upon her arrival recently at the Idlewild airport in New York City via Switzerland air lines. # National Kid's Day Dedicated To Welfare of Underprivileged

Of all the special days, weeks and months on the calendar, none is of greater importance to the home towns of the country, now and in the future, than National Kid's Day, to be celebrated this year on Saturday, September 22.

The idea of a National Kid's Day was originated by James M. (Jimmie) Fidler, Hollywood radio commentator and columnist.

Now the day is sponsored by over 3,000 Kiwanis clubs in the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, and the National Kids' Day Foundation. For many years Kiwanis clubs have devoted much of their time and funds in underprivileged child work. By joining forces, Kiwanis and the Kid's Day Foundation have expanded their activities and prevented duplication of effort.

Unlike many special days, Kid's Day is not commercial, although many parents take the occasion to give their children presents as reminders of their love and affection. Its purpose, if followed by the community, can mean better citizenship for the town; it can mean better health and greater happiness for hundreds of children who are already experiencing the reality of a world that is not always kind. Half-way measures, however, will not accomplish these ends.

Specifically, the day was originated to assist underprivileged children to obtain some of the benefits normally enjoyed by more fortunate boys and girls, to focus attention upon the accomplishments of youth, and to interest the general public to a greater degree in the problems of juvenile delinquency and to help its victims become useful citizens.

However, what the individual community does to aid its children depends upon the needs of that community and must be settled on the local level. Some towns feel the need of properly equipped parks where children can play in safety, and often supervised by experienced personnel. In other towns sight and hearing clinics have been established for children who otherwise could not receive adequate medical attention.

Like many problems today, money is the key to some of the troubles of children. Kid's Day, therefore, is the opportune time to raise funds with which the community can launch or carry on its child welfare program.

It is a day, also for concerts, motion picture entertainment, parades, essay contests, father and son banquets, street parties and a host of other activities designed to focus attention on the problems of the children of America. Here is an opportunity of every town in the country, large or small, to create a little happiness for its children.

If a home town does not have a Kiwanis club or another organization which is sponsoring a Kid's Day celebration, it is not too late for some group to still put over a program, even if hastily organized.

A number of small towns who have Chambers of Commerce or retail merchants organizations sponsor free movies one afternoon during the year. Usually they consist of a number of cartoons, which the kids especially like. The local motion picture house is usually more than glad to offer his services in such a project.

It doesn't take much to please a child. A little time and effort, and not too great a cost financially, will let the kids of the community know they are being thought about and appreciated. In turn it will make a better child and pay dividends to the community that can not be measured in dollars and cents.

National Dog Week Is September 23-29

When one thinks of a child, almost without exception, the picture of his companion—a dog—comes to mind. The two are almost inseparable. It seems appropriate, therefore, that National Dog Week should be observed immediately after National Kid's Day. This year the week of September 23-29 has been set aside for the purpose.

Sponsored by the National Dog Welfare Guild, the program in the past has often been slanted at a "double-track" approach, that is, as it concerned both children and dogs. This year, however, the guild is telling the story of the courage and heroism of dogs.

The following report from Korea tells the story of what dogs are doing

ing in the conflict against Communism:

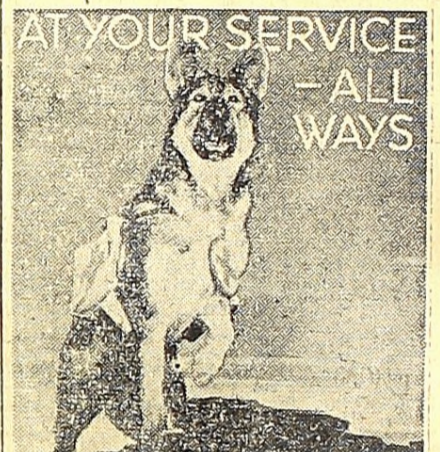

"A small platoon of German shepherd dogs locally acquired and trained is playing its part to slow the great Chinese spring.

"Attached to the first line of the infantry regiment, they are the re-birth of the famous K-9 corps of the last war. Working at outposts and with patrols in no man's land they have already sniffed out Chinese foe many times.

"The other night Corporal Robert Tracy of Portland, Maine, in a fox-hole 300 yards before our main position. Suddenly Rex became rigid and whined low in his throat. The dogs are trained not to bark. Corporal Tracy reported to regiment. Soon after artillery shelled the area. More than 15 enemy Chinese were killed.

"On another occasion, Corporal Ted Nickolby of Yonkers, N. Y., was patrolling before our lines with his dog, Red, and a few other 'doughfoots.' Red tore at his leash and pointed forward like a bird dog. Reinforcements were brought up. A semi-circular trap was prepared. A ten man Chinese patrol walked into the net and in the shooting fury that followed was thoroughly smashed.

"The dogs are fed only once a day and they always work with the same G.I. Fortunately, the enemy with his heavy rice diet gives off an odor quite unlike an American G.I."

Wherever there is news of courage there is often a dog. That is why the National Dog Welfare Guild has adopted as the theme of National Dog Week, "At Your Service . . . All-Ways."

The 1951 poster design (see above) features famed German shepherd dog, Rin Tin Tin III, dramatically posed, alert, watchful, on guard, wearing a Red Cross pouch.

Home Fashion Time Features Furnishings

The story of home furnishings styling and designing, essentially the story of better living, will be told by all branches of the industry during Home Fashion Time, September 20-29.

Local merchants in many communities will present the story of their products in special displays, advertising, and model home exhibits. Everything from carpets to window shades, pots and pans to fine silver will be on display for the home town housewife. Whether or not the homemaker is in the market for new furnishings, the week does offer the opportunity for easy gathering of information that may be useful in future decorating plans.

The tendency today is to live all over the house. Rooms that function only a few hours of the day for sleeping or dining are a burden no busy household should have to carry. It is possible to enlarge your living space without adding on to the house or taking a larger apartment. The home furnishing industry will give many hints to accomplish this during Home Fashion Time.

Here is a week during which the housewife can pick up many hints for better living and easier house-keeping.

RURAL LIVING

Writer Tells His City Friends Why He Likes It in the Country

(Editor's Note: The following article, "I Live in the Country" by Alan Devoe, was published in the September issue of Coronet magazine. It is reprinted here with the permission of that magazine.)

By ALAN DEVOE

IT IS QUITE CLEAR that most of my city friends feel sorry for me. The reason is that I live in the country. While they pity, they also wonder, and this reveals itself in certain perpetual questions.

What on earth do I find to do in the country? What is there to see? How do I fill my time?

They feel sorry for me because I have no radio or television, and because 11 miles separate me from the post office. They speak with sympathy of how very "dull" my life must be, and marvel that I am content to "stagnate" here.

I receive these commiserations with scorn. For I extract from this life of "isolation," as my friends term it, a deep and endless delight.

The house in which I live is very ancient and somewhat askew; but from this ancientness and crookedness I derive continuous solace. Here in this tiny dining room the china dogs on top of the old pine corner-cupboard have watched three generations at their feeding; in the great spool-bed upstairs have occurred both births and deaths.

There clings in these low-ceilinged rooms—with their faded flowered wallpaper, their horsehair sofas, and wideboarded uneven floors—an aura of the stalwart tranquility, the hard-tolling patience, of that succession of homely Dutchmen who were our predecessors. Near the middle of the last century, one of these Hollenbecks (for such was the name of the sturdy family which tenanted this homestead) deserted the plow for a life of seafaring. When he was an old man, and had voyaged to every quarter of the globe, he came back to this house to eke out a living by mending stone walls.

So much for the house. It is like that tattered sampler in the hayloft of our barn which reads, "Sweet Rest in Heaven," and like the crooked path that untold thousands of footsteps have worn through the clover field to our well—a link with the simple, earthly lives of those good souls who are vanished.

In every direction, as I look from my windows, are the green wooded hills, untenanted by living man. They lie—these carved and molded masses of rugged earth—brooding in an ageless silence, baking their hummocked backs in the hot summer sun, shouldering the cold white weight of countless snows, existing eternal while the oaks and firs upon their slopes wither and die, and are born and live again through the passage of seasons.

My friends who speak of "loneliness" and "isolation" take no heed of the deep companionship of trees and rocks. Yet it is easy to discover, in lichen-covered boulders and in the cool smooth trunks of maples or the rough, fragrant trunks of firs, an essence of being with which it is very easy for a man to commune.

These high hemlocks are my fellows upon earth; together we face the elements, together struggle for sustenance, together are set upon by plagues and pestilences, together will return, when we die, to the eternal embracing earth of this planet. And it is possible for me to walk upon the black leaf mold in which these hemlocks have their roots and to draw from that contact a profound tranquility of spirit.

This relaxed contentment is a far better antidote for turmoil and vexation than my city friends can possibly receive in the diversions afforded them by the movies, the theater, the radio or television—of which they deplore my lack.

THIS COUNTRY life of mine, far from being barren of things to do and see, is crowded from daybreak until nightfall. My personal routine of eating, working, sleeping, and performing chores is sufficiently simple. But the details of the lives that surround mine and demand my attention—the lives of chipmunks and phoebes and woodchucks and of the very buttercups that grow profusely in our pasture—are so vastly absorbing as to require all my hours. It is inconceivable that I could possibly be "bored," even if I had nothing more to occupy me than the contemplation of the meadow upon which I look out as I write this.

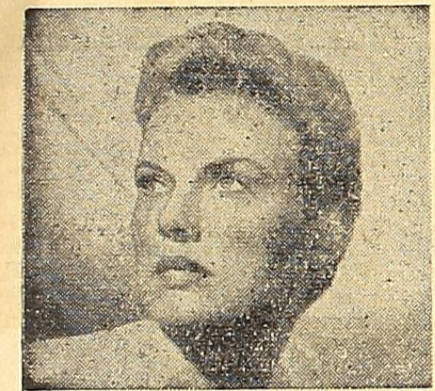

In such a rural district as that in which I live, neurosis is impossible. That sickly "turning inward" which makes wretches of city victims has no opportunity to enter here. All man's thought and energy and time are taken here, as they were in the beginning, in a constant coping with the problems presented by the earth and the elements. And living thus in daily contemplation of the vast swing and surge of the eternal cosmic machinery, man's minor woes assume an utter insignificance.

Republicans Must Woo Dixiecrats to Win in 1952

By Wright A. Patterson

AS A MEANS of stealing the show from their opponents in the 1952 presidential campaign the Republicans should insert state rights as a major plank in their platform, so stated as to leave no possibility of its being misunderstood or misinterpreted.

To be effective it cannot be expressed in political weasel words, one of those "heads I win, tails you lose" kinds of statements that can be twisted to meet whatever occasion may present. It must be as explicit in its meaning as were those of Thomas Jefferson, the father and patron saint of the Democratic party, and the original states' righter.

Every piece of Fair Deal legislation the President has been able to force through congress has taken something away from the constitutional rights of the states, and something from the liberties of the people.

All of the Fair Deal legislation the President is so insistently demanding that congress enact is of the same anti-state rights character. Each bill, should it become the law of the land, would take away some rights that are now enjoyed by the states under the provisions of the constitution, some things on which the states now have the say-so.

At its convention, the Democratic party must either approve or condemn the actions of the Democratic administration. If it endorses such policies, it is approving a limitation of the constitutional rights of the states. That would be objectionable to the members of the party in the southern states.

With the Republicans proposing to protect the rights of the states it would give the Dixiecrats a place to which they could turn, and might result in the Republicans carrying some of the Southern states as did Herbert Hoover.

The Republicans have joined with the southern Dixiecrats in opposing the anti-states rights legislation the President has asked for, and the adoption of such a plank would be but an endorsement of the party's policies during the last two sessions of congress. The party, as such, must either endorse such actions, or apologize for them.

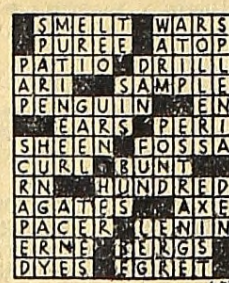

The opportunity the situation presents for a "squeeze play" would seem to have been made to order for the Republicans. Will they improve it, or will they "muff" it as not needed to win that 1952 political battle?

Undoubtedly a strong states' right plank in the Republican platform would insure some Democratic votes for Republican candidates in many states.

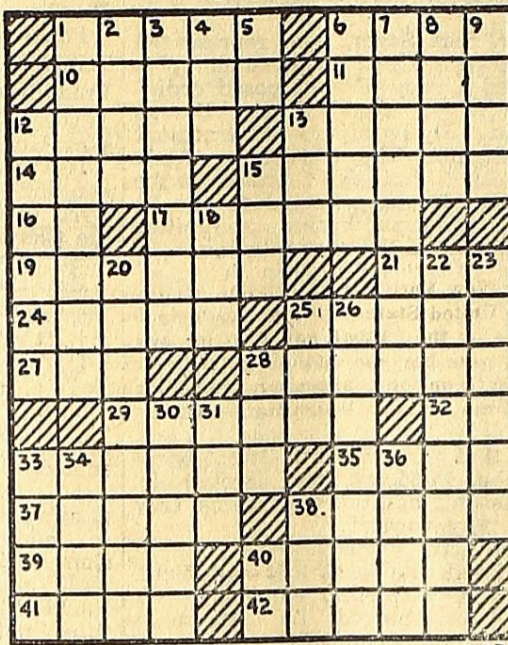

Thanks to the brilliant military mind of the late Admiral Sherman, at the time chief of naval operations, and to his ability in the field of diplomacy,

EPICUREAN ERROR

By Isabelle Snyder

Laura Fenton viewed the rutted road dubiously. "Are you sure this is the road, Amy?"

"Oh yes—'third road on the left'—just as you wrote it in the notebook when Mrs. Edwards told us about it... a wonderful country home that serves divine food. Hurry, I'm starved. And it sounds so divine!"

Laura turned the carefully-cared-for coupe into the narrow road, guiding it cautiously up the steep grade.

Amy giggled like a girl. "It's a good thing it isn't much farther, Laura. I'm starved!"

Laura smiled gently at the exaggerated speech of her flighty friend who refused to grow old, gracefully or otherwise. "I believe the food will be worth the long drive off our main route. Mrs. Edwards is most discriminating."

"There's the place," announced Amy coughing from the thick dust. "Just look at all the cars in the yard—the food must be wonderful."

Laura turned the coupe into the crowded farm yard and carefully selected an ample parking spot.

Amy pouted, "The food may be perfect but we'll have to wait ages to get in—just look at all those others waiting!" She bounced from the car like a child and stood impatiently while Laura fastidiously changed driving gloves for fresh white ones before leaving the car primly.

"Goodness, Amy Bowen, straighten your hat," Laura scolded as they walked to the house. "It seems strange that they don't have a sign on the road or out front," she commented as they ascended the steps to the veranda where other people already waited.

"Oh, outside, please," answered Amy warmly. "It's much too nice a day to stay inside."

THEY were greeted by an unsmiling woman in black. "Would you care to come inside or will you wait here on the porch?"

"Oh, outside, please," answered Amy warmly. "It's much too nice a day to stay inside." She continued to chatter of the weather and the lovely view while they found chairs in the shade. Then she turned to the woman next her. "Isn't this a lovely place?" she asked enthusiastically.

Her enthusiasm apparently was not transmitted by her speech. In fact, Amy had the peculiar sensation that comes to one who has committed a grave social error.

The woman murmured something polite and turned away but Amy was not to be denied. "I'm Amy Bowen and this is my friend, Laura Fenton. We are school teachers from over in Ohio," she said.

The woman looked at them in a puzzled way, acknowledged the introductions briefly and changed her place.

"Well, really!" Amy said in disgust before turning to Laura to say in a whisper, "Where do you suppose they feed folks, Laura? I don't smell any food nor hear any dishes."

Laura answered quietly, "Don't fret so, Amy. There are so many flowers around that you couldn't smell food."

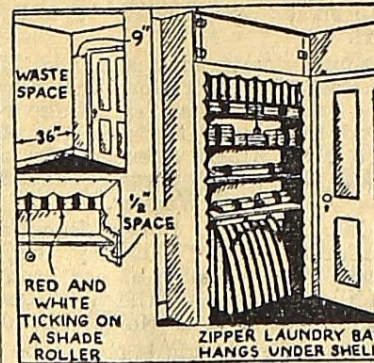

Amy squirmed around in her chair, peering curiously into the house. "Goodness," she said, "the place is banked with flowers." "Oh," she gasped, turning an odd greenish white. "Laura, I'm going to be sick," she cried.

Laura moved quickly, grasping the smaller woman by the arm to help her to the car. As they passed the open door, Laura glanced inside, then stifled a cry with a white-gloved hand. Really had arrived with abrupt suddenness.

Not till the two women were safely in the car and ready to turn onto the paved highway did either speak. Amy wailed, "Oh, Laura, that horrible place! We'll never live this down."

Laura stopped the car and looked at the directions in the notebook. "Third road on right," she read. She turned to her stricken companion. "Amy Bowen," she said sternly, "maybe this will teach you to read the directions as they are written and to follow them carefully. The idea of taking us to a funeral instead of a restaurant!"

FROM across the road all open center tires look about the same, but from a tractor seat farmers soon see why the Firestone Open Center outpulls all other open center tires.

Watch a Firestone Open Center in operation. You can see how the sharp taper of its bars makes them bite their way into the ground... You can see how the curved design of the bars makes them cup the soil for a stronger hold... You can see how the Flared Openings between the bars let the soil fall free to keep the tread clean. You'll find the Firestone Champion the best open center tire you can use.

Of course there are over a million farmers who would rather have a traction center type of tire, and if that's the kind you prefer, get the one and only Firestone Traction Center.

PUREBRED RAMS AVAILABLE TO SHEEP RAISERS

The Michigan Sheep Breeder's Association in cooperation with the county agricultural agents and the animal husbandry extension department of Michigan State College will again sponsor a Ram Truck to serve the northern part of the state.

Flock owners who need a ram this fall are urged to contact the county agricultural agent, telling him the breed of ram they want. They should also indicate the age of ram they prefer, the number of ewes in the flock, whether grade or purebred, and the price they wish to pay. A ram will be carefully selected for them and delivered to the location nearest to them at which stops are being planned.

This method will make it possible for these folks to get a carefully selected ram, and will also greatly assist the sponsoring organizations in planning to have sufficient rams of the breeds wanted on the truck. In case the ram does not suit the flock owner, he may select one of his own choosing.

Extra rams of the Oxford, Shropshire, Hampshire, Corriedale and Suffolk breeds will be carried on the truck in addition to those ordered. Those desiring rams of the other breeds should place their order with the county agricultural agent as soon as possible so that a ram can be selected for them.

Prices will range from $50.00 to $100.00 per ram, depending on age and quality with the most popular price being between $75.00 and $90.00.

These prices are still not three times what they were when market lambs were only $10.00 per hundred weight. This makes a good ram a good "buy" this fall.

The Ram Truck serving Iosco county, will be at West Branch Feeder Yards, on Wednesday, October 3.

AWARDS MADE TO IOSCO SCHOOL CHILDREN

Iosco county rural school children were rewarded for their help in last year's tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale, county school superintendent, Russell A. Rollin, reported this week.

While most Iosco county citizens receive tuberculosis Christmas Seals in the mail each holiday season, in several rural areas, school children continue to act as Christmas Seal salesmen.

Hailing the efforts of the rural schools, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association commended both teachers and students for "making a real contribution toward the fight against Michigan's most deadly catching disease."

Of the $879.00 worth of tuberculosis Christmas Seals purchased by Iosco county citizens last year, $159.05 resulted from the rural school campaign, Mr. Rollin said.

Rural school children and classrooms were given awards on the basis of the number of Christmas seals sold. Prizes are of a constructive nature, either intended to help improve the habits of students or to aid in school work.

The following awards to classrooms and individual children for the sale of 1950 T.B. Christmas seals:

Individual awards—300 rulers, 447 pencils, 124 combs, 11 pencil sharpeners.

Class room awards—5 snap cards 7 animal rummies, 10 crayonex, 2 dominoes, 3 children story books, 6 soft balls, 3 bats.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

MAYBE you've noticed that dollars don't seem to talk as loud as they used to in a lot of places.

But you ought to hear what they say about this Buick.

They say—here's the big thrill—big mileage—big power of a valve-in-head Fireball Engine—eight-cylinder performance at the price you'll pay for most sixes.

They say—here are size and room and comfort that are hard to match at anywhere near the price tag this Buick SPECIAL is wearing.

They say—here are such things as an oil filter, air cleaner, vacuum booster, built-in summer ventilation—not as "extras" but yours at no extra charge.

They say that "smart buy's Buick"—by a wide measure.

But a smart buyer will also let this dashing darling speak for itself. He'll take the wheel and feel how it snugs to the road on turns—holds its course on the highway with big-car assurance.

He'll touch off the power of its Fireball Engine and get firsthand the lift of its nimble response.

And he'll find out how coil springs on every wheel level out what he thought were bumpy roads.

Out Of The Mail

Dear Mr. Rhody: I was greatly interested in your article on the ability of fish to see and distinguish between colors.

Here at the Cortland Line Company in Cortland, N. Y. we hold similar views and after considerable research, both in the laboratory and in the field, we created a CAM-O-FLAGE line which we feel is less visible to the fish than the traditional black casting line. This line changes color every foot or so and you'll find it in all the colors commonly found in ocean, lake, stream or pond. By snipping just a bit off the end, the fisherman can match the color of most any water he encounters. When he ties this end to his bait or plug, it appears to be swimming free, unattached to any line. Does it work? Well, this season fishermen bought 35,000,000 yards of Cortland CAM-O-FLAGE and every mail brings enthusiastic letters from successful users. That's a pretty good indication that it works and that fish can distinguish between colors.

Glad to be able to support your theory on this. We always look forward with a great deal of interest to seeing the latest issue of SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON.

Yours very truly, CORTLAND LINE CO., INC. R. F. JENNINGS Public Relations Director

Best Ways

Often the angler will attempt to determine what kinds of fish live in his favorite stream or lake. He makes his decisions upon angling methods.

It may sound strange, but the rod and line are among the poorest methods of finding out how many or kinds of fish exist in a stream or lake. The fishery biologist keeps records on anglers' catches, known as creel censuses; however, in addition to this he uses certain tools and methods which prove to be better in ascertaining what fish exist. The common methods are: draining a pond or stream, use of chemicals, seining, trapping and electrical shockers. By these methods, actual counts and weights of fish found in the water can be made. Often we surprise anglers by showing "new" species in their favorite holes, or greater numbers than he suspects. On other occasions we can show that non-game species of fish are more abundant than the game fishes he seeks.

Some say that public relations provides the answer to better fishing. I don't agree with this. Study of the fish in a stream or lake is the job to be done. Research is important in the living world — our fish and game resources. The big job in fish management of streams is finding the answer to how to manipulate fish populations to make game fishes produce heavily and grow faster. Research and investigation will eventually find the answer.

The wombat, called the Australian badger, has a pouch like a kangaroo, the internal anatomy of a beaver and the habits of a rodent. Natives say it can easily cross a river by walking on the bottom.

'Taint So!

It has generally been accepted as a fact that fawn deer carry no odor — an act of nature to protect them from predators. Statements to this effect have found their way into print on numerous occasions. This, however, isn't so, according to experiences of field men of the Utah State Fish and Game Department.

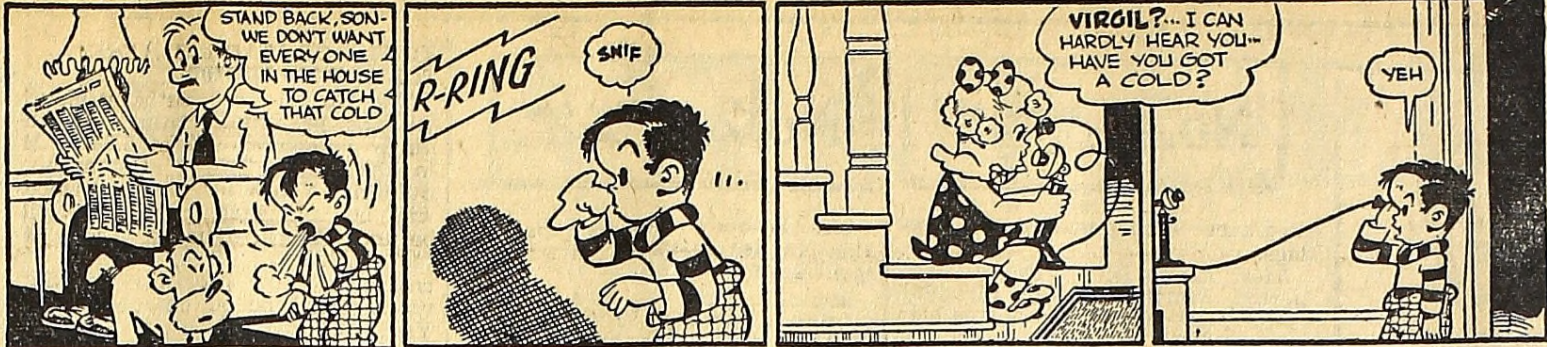

In the spring of 1950 Wallace Jensen, assistant Federal aid leader for the Utah state fish and game department was assigned the task of tagging numerous fawn. After several days in the mountains resulting in almost total failure, he returned very discouraged and solicited the aid of his trusty dog — a cross between a collie and an English setter. Returning to the hills Jensen was lucky inasmuch as he found a newly born fawn lying low in its hiding place. The dog watched with great interest while Wally placed a tag in the fawn's ear and then released it. A few moments later another fawn, a little older, was flushed. The dog promptly took after it and very carefully taking hold of it pulled it to the ground and held his front paws on top of it.

First Scope Rod

Know how the first telescope came into being?

Well, the story is that a cagey Connecticut mechanic who wanted to fish on Sunday without bringing down the wrath of his righteous neighbors, invented a rod with sections that would telescope. He figured that a rod of this type would be easy to hide by slipping it down one leg of his pants. Then, he could stroll off to stream or lake without anyone being the wiser.
