To Give Lecture on Pre-Historic America

Paul M. Hanson of Independence, Missouri, will give an archeology address Thursday evening, October 25, at the L.D.S. Church. His subject will be on pre-historic America.

"We wish to invite the public to attend this interesting educational lecture," states R. F. Slye, pastor of the church.

"Apostle Hanson has spent much time in Old Mexico and Central America gathering the facts and taking many pictures of old ruins uncovered by archeologists years ago. He will use a visual education machine showing many pictures of pre-historic America. These facts are in direct line with the Book of Mormon as a history of Ancient America. Come, see and hear. You will be well repaid for time and effort spent in exchange for what you receive."

Retired D.&M. Employee Dies Monday

Funeral Services for John A. Myles Held Wednesday Afternoon

John A. Myles, prominent Tawas City resident and retired Detroit and Mackinac Railway employee, passed away Monday. He had been in poor health for several years.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the Jacques Funeral Home, Rev. Benjamin Whaley of the Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in the Tawas City Cemetery.

Mr. Myles was born July 28, 1879, at Pembroke, Ontario. When two years old he came to Tawas City with his parents, the late William and Sarah Myles. This was several years before the railroad was established here and the trip was by boat. After attending Tawas City Public Schools he worked in the woods and on the lake in the fishing industry. During this time he completed a business course at the Bay City Business College. In 1904 he married Ethel Lloyd, who preceded him in death December 25, 1948. The greater portion of Mr. Myles' life was spent as a machinist in the employment of the Detroit and Mackinac Railroad. He retired in July of 1944.

Mr. Myles had always been interested in civic affairs, and had served the city as alderman, supervisor and mayor. While serving several terms as supervisor he was elected chairman of the Board of Supervisors. During his administration as mayor he was instrumental in securing its first motor driven fire engine, the American LaFrance, purchased a short time after the big fire of 1919. For a number of years he was secretary of the Tawas City Board of Education. A Past Master, he was a life member of Tawas City Lodge, F. & A. M.

Surviving are three sons, George W. Myles of this city and Robert B. Myles and Gordon A. Myles of Bay City; two daughters, Miss Mable Myles of Tawas City and Mrs. Leland Phillips of East Tawas; two brothers, William Myles of Florida and George Myles of Oregon, and a sister, Mrs. William Shaw of Tawas City.

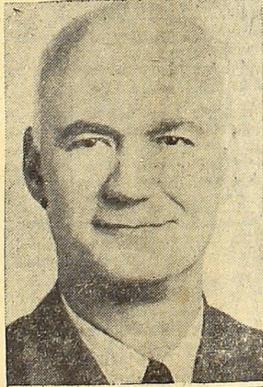

George Schuman

George Schuman of Ottawa Beach passed away last Thursday, October 11 after a lingering illness. The body was taken to Moffatt Funeral Home. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from Zion Lutheran Church, Tawas City, with Rev. E. E. Bickle officiating. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

George Schuman was born in Detroit November 29, 1891 and was 59 years and 11 months old.

He is survived by his wife, Winifred Moehring Schuman of Ottawa Beach and one son, Marvin of Detroit. Mrs. Schuman is a sister of Herman Moehring of East Tawas.

Reed to Speak at Farm Bureau Annual Meeting

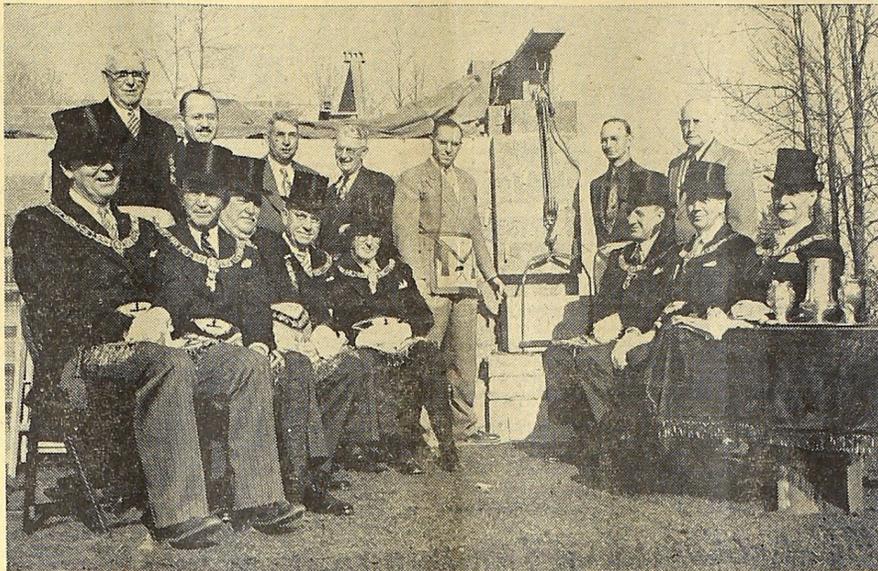

DAN REED

Dan Reed, assistant legislative director of the Michigan Farm Bureau, will speak at the annual meeting of the Iosco County Farm Bureau which will be held Wednesday evening, October 24, at the Community Building at Hale.

The program, which starts at 8:00 o'clock, will include reports from the officers and committees, and the election of new members of the board of directors.

There are more than 125 Iosco farm families now in the Farm Bureau.

Masons Lay Temple Cornerstone

A beautiful afternoon with a large number of Masons and friends in attendance marked the cornerstone ceremonies of the new Tawas Masonic Temple Saturday.

The cornerstone was laid under the direction of Deputy Grand Master Shell of Kalkaska, acting Grand Master. He was assisted by H. B. Whyte of Grand Rapids; H. L.

Taylor of Flint; William Parker of East Tawas; Francis B. Lambie of Midland; M. J. Smead of Rochester; F. M. Dodge of Detroit; A. A. Marlatt of Mt. Clemens and R. M. Douglas of Alpena.

Past Master H. C. Hennigar, vice president of the temple association, made the formal request for the official cornerstone laying. William Parker, acting as master of ceremonies introduced Harry Rollin, Master of Tawas City Lodge; Joseph Jennigar, Master of Baldwin Lodge and Donald A. Evans, High Priest of Iosco Chapter R.A.M. James Boomer, chairman of the building committee and James Mark, architect.

Short talks were given by Francis B. Lambie and M. J. Smead following the ceremony.

A. B. Christeson Succumbs to Heart Attack

Funeral Services for East Tawas Businessman Held Wednesday

The community was shocked early Monday morning to hear of the sudden death of Anders Christeson, retired East Tawas merchant.

He was on his way to finish some work at Grace Lutheran Church, and was taken with a heart attack near Harbor Lights and passed away almost instantly.

Anders Bernard Christeson, son of the late Charles and Sofia Christeson of Oscoda, was born June 21, 1885 at Oscoda. He had been a resident of East Tawas since 1912, about 49 years, and was in the grocery business here for many years, from which he had retired some years ago.

Funeral services were held from the Grace Lutheran Church Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. Robert Nelson officiating. Members of Baldwin Lodge I.O.O.F. acted as pall bearers and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Relatives surviving are his wife, Rose Christeson of East Tawas whom he married in March, 1941; two sons from a former marriage, Blaine of East Tawas and Neil of Saginaw; two grandchildren, Ann Helen and Blaine, Jr.; four brothers, Albin of Oscoda, Oscar of East Tawas, Sven of Flint and Gus of Oscoda; one sister, Ann, of Miami, Florida.

He was a member of Grace Lutheran Church and Baldwin Lodge I.O.O.F.

Four 4-H Winners Go to Lansing

Receive G. A. Prescott III & Sons Award

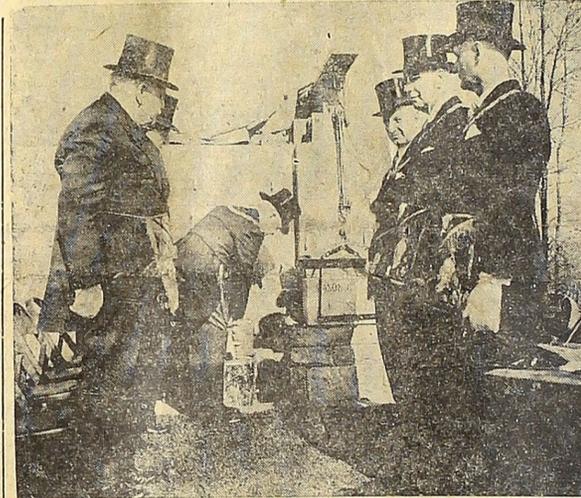

Four Iosco County Young people, winners of the George A. Prescott, III and Sons award for 4-H Club achievement at the Iosco County Fair, enjoyed a trip to the Michigan State College campus on Friday and Saturday.

The young people were Ross and Patricia Williams of Reno, Colleen Drager of McIvor, and Leslie Pfahl of Grant township.

They visited the various buildings on the campus and went through the barns. They also attended the Michigan State-Marquette football game. While there, they were guests at the Kellogg Foundation.

All expenses of the trip were paid by Mr. Prescott as part of the award.

FOR SALE—Glass Show case, Bert's Market, Tawas City 41-2-b

Grand Master Shell troweling the mortar preparatory to setting the cornerstone. Music for the ceremony was furnished by Elf Khurafeh Shrine band, Saginaw. Following a parade through Tawas City and East Tawas, a concert was given at the I.O.O.F. Temple where a public fish dinner was served.

K. of C. Holds Columbus Day Banquet

Dr. Lawrence LaPorte of Saginaw was the principal speaker at the Columbus Day banquet held Thursday evening at the Barnes Hotel by Tawas Council Knights of Columbus. More than 80 were in attendance. The subject of Dr. LaPorte's address was "National Employment of Physically Handicapped."

Other speakers on the program were Father Robert Neuman, Father Henry Bickholt and Frank Wilkusi.

A gift was presented to Past Grand Knight Edward Nelkie at the end of the banquet. The presentation was made by Edward Klenow.

The next regular meeting of the K. of C. will be held Thursday evening, October 25, at the East Tawas American Legion Hall.

Speaks Here Tomorrow

At a Youth for Christ meeting, Saturday evening, October 20, East Tawas Community Building, Rev. L. H. MacPherson will be the speaker and Mrs. MacPherson, pianist soloist. The public is invited.

Laur-Leitz

Zion Lutheran church in Tawas City was the setting for the lovely wedding Saturday afternoon, October 6 at 2:30 P. M., of Joyce Elaine Leitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leitz to William Laur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Laur of Bay City. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Bickle in the presence of 250 guests and friends.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, they proceeded down the aisle between candle pillars at each pew tied with satin ribbons. Joyce was charming in her white satin gown trimmed with chanelly lace. A satin bandeau embroidered in seed-pearls and edged in tulle, held her fingertip veil in place. She carried a cascade of white roses centered with a corsage of white rosebuds.

Lighted tapers in candleabra formed the background at the altar which was beautiful with vases of all white asters and mums, with beauty vases at each side containing all white asters, mums and snapdragons.

Mrs. Harold Shover, lifelong friend of Joyce, was matron-of-honor and wore a gown of mint green satin fashioned with sweet, heart neckline, cap sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Another close friend, Joyce Brussel of East Tawas and a cousin, Jeannette Curry of Bay City, were bridesmaids. They were gowned in autumn gold satin gowns styled like the matron-of-honor.

Another cousin of the bride, Genie Smith of Bay City, acted as junior bridesmaid and wore a gown of green corresponding to the matron-of-honor's. All wore matching halo bandeaus and short gauntlets and carried cascades of yellow and bronze mums and yellow rosebuds.

Clarence Laur, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man and Thomas Laur of Freeland, cousin of the groom and Donald Leitz, brother of the bride, were ushers while Jimmy Curry, cousin of the bride, acted as junior usher.

Arthur Wendt sang, "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Betty Wendt at the organ.

The bride's mother was lovely in a gown of charcoal grey with plum feathered hat and accessories while the groom's mother was attired in wine with blue accessories, each wearing a gardenia corsage.

A delicious wedding dinner was served in the parish hall by Zion Ladies' Aid to 150 guests where the bride's color scheme of green and autumn gold with white wedding bells, was carried out in the decoration.

A 6-tier wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, adorned the bride's table.

Guests were present from Bay City, Flint, Detroit, Prescott, West Branch, Roscommon and Rose City, Toledo, Ohio and Los Angeles, California.

When Mr. and Mrs. Laur left for a ten day wedding trip through northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the bride wore a navy blue suit with blue accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds. On their return they will reside on Trumbull Avenue, Bay City.

Pre-nuptial parties were given previous to her marriage by Mrs. Shover and Miss Brussel, Mrs. E. J. Butler, and Mesdames Waldo Curry, Jr., Fred Howe and Eugene Smith.

Ulman-Rempert

Emmanuel Lutheran Church of Tawas City was the scene Saturday of the double ring ceremony in which Rhea Rempert exchanged vows with Marvin Ulman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ulman, Sr. of Tawas City. The ceremony was performed by Pastor Paul Heyn.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Rempert, Sr., wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations and white mums.

Matron of Honor was Ethel Fox, sister of the bride, who wore a tangerine suit with black velvet accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses and white mums.

Joseph Fox, brother-in-law of the bride was best man.

Mrs. Rempert wore a lavender dress and Mrs. Ulman a green dress. Both had corsages of white roses with yellow mums.

Mrs. Fred Rempert, Jr. sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony.

The wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families.

After a short honeymoon in Northern Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Ulman are residing at the George Liske cottage in Tawas City.

PICKED FOR FERRIS INSTITUTE CHORUS

Miss Lila M. Alexander of Tawas City, new to the Ferris Campus this year, has been picked by Nicholas Sabia, head of the Ferris Institute music department, to be a member of the Ferris Institute mixed chorus. Rehearsals are already underway on many groups of numbers which the chorus will present both in Big Rapids and several other cities during the college year. Miss Alexander sings with the Altos.

To Re-Submit Court House Proposition

Supervisors Complete Annual Fall Session Friday Afternoon

At the annual October session of the Board of Supervisors which ended Friday afternoon the board voted to re-submit the court house proposition to the voters of the county. Other important work at this session was the adoption of the annual budget and apportioning the various taxes to the townships and cities.

At a previous session of the board a special courthouse committee had been appointed to investigate possibilities of immediate construction. Immediate construction would require a bond issue, and it was found that the proposition as previously submitted did not authorize a bond issue.

The board voted to re-submit the proposition at the April 1952 spring election, and adopted a financial plan prepared by Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, bonding legal experts.

One of the interesting parts of the October session was a talk given by Thien Komkris of Thailand, Siam. Mr. Komkris was sent here by the government of Thailand to study American forestry practices.

The preliminary county budget as set up at the April session was $144,810.00 This was slashed and a budget of $116,000.00 adopted.

The board authorized the purchase of a Photostat machine for the register of deeds office at a cost of $3,456.00. Delivery will be made in June of next year. The machine will give the county a more efficient way of keeping its records in this department.

Appropriations of $250.00 to the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association and $150.00 to Silver Valley Winter Sports Area were made. Both of these appropriations were cut in half from amounts given in previous years.

Insurance on the contents of the county building was increased from $15,000.00 to $30,000.00.

John Henry was re-elected member of the Iosco County Welfare Board.

The Iosco County Agricultural Society asked that its first payment of $500.00 on a $2,000.00 be postponed from January, 1952 to January 1, 1953. The request was denied.

Members of the board and others enjoyed several baskets of Iosco grown grapes furnished by Supervisor Theodore Bellville.

East Tawas Girl Receives Ensign Commission

Phyllis M. Klenow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Klenow of East Tawas, was sworn in as an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve in a ceremony held at Washington. Miss Klenow was one of two WAVES stationed in Washington given commissions.

Miss Klenow enlisted in the WAVES in September, 1944. Most of her service was with the Bureau of Supplies and accounts in Cleveland, Ohio. She was separated from the Navy in June, 1947, and entered Aquinas College, Grand Rapids. She received her degree there in June, 1950. Following her graduation, she was employed by the Army in Detroit as an assistant supervisor.

Last February, Miss Klenow enlisted in the Naval Reserve and volunteered for active duty.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Klenow, brother, Michael, and sister, Ann, attended the ceremony at Washington.

BULLETIN

Lawrence Senkyo of South Branch was killed yesterday afternoon (Thursday) about 200 feet from the Five Channel Bridge on M-65. Death came instantly when the International pickup truck he was driving collided with a Farmer Pete Meat truck driven by Arthur Burzyn, ski of Bay City. The accident occurred at about 4:15 o'clock.

Following an investigation by the sheriff's department, State Police and Coroner E. D. Jacques the body was taken to the Forshoe Funeral Home at Hale.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round
BY...DREW PEARSON

No War This Year

THE month of September and early October when the harvest is in is the time when the chancelleries and general staffs of Europe watch closest for signs of war. If Europe can get by this period of dry, mild weather before winter bogs down an attacking army, they figure there will be no danger of war at least until June.

Top U. S. officials, likewise, have made all-important surveys of the war possibility, and it is possible for this column to report what their general conclusions are:

1. Russia will not launch World War III this year. However, Russia is expected to continue pressing war by satellites.

2. China, not Russia, has been more eager for a truce. The U.S. war study indicates that Russia came out with the truce proposal chiefly for propaganda purposes; perhaps to stall for time in order to get new arms to Korea.

3. Next step in Communist aggression is likely to be Burma, Thailand, and Indo-China. This area is all-important to the Kremlin if the millions of China are to have rice. Moscow would probably gamble on starting World War III in these countries, though she doesn't actually want it.

4. In Iran the Russians will probably march into the northern province of Azerbaijan and take it by force—if the British go into southern Iran to protect their oil refinery. Here again the Russians are willing to gamble that the west will not go to war over Iran.

5. In Germany, the U.S. analysis does not anticipate a Russian military move, but does foresee a continual army build-up.

Behind Iron Curtain

Increasing evidence is coming back from inside the iron curtain to show that the freedom-friendship balloons and other activities of the crusade for freedom have really got under the Kremlin's skin.

In east Bohemia, for instance, fields where the balloon messages fell were declared "off-limits" to farm workers by security sections of the national Communist committee. In another section of Bohemia, Communist officials offered rewards to the teams of youth brigades who collected the largest number of friendship leaflets.

Near the Czech-Austrian border, a patrol of border police reported "voluminous flying objects" which might be enemy paratroopers. When Prague got the report, it dispatched tank units amid great excitement.

The flying objects, however, turned out to be pillow balloons with the word "Svoboda"—"freedom"—written on them in large letters. They were bouncing along the ground in the early morning twilight like miniature flying saucers. Inside of them, of course, were friendship messages from the American people to the people of Czechoslovakia.

Weeding Out Bureaucrats

It hasn't received any publicity, but President Truman has ordered a drastic housecleaning to sweep the drones from federal government. An ultimatum has already gone out to all agencies to clean house or face budgetary and personnel cuts.

"The present emergency has caused great demands on the manpower resources of our country with shortages of manpower in certain special areas already being felt... The federal government, as the largest single employer in the country, should set the example. Therefore, I expect the head of each executive department and agency to bring about maximum effectiveness and economy in the utilization of personnel," the President wrote in identical letters to civil service chairman Robert Ramspeck and budget director Frederick Lawton.

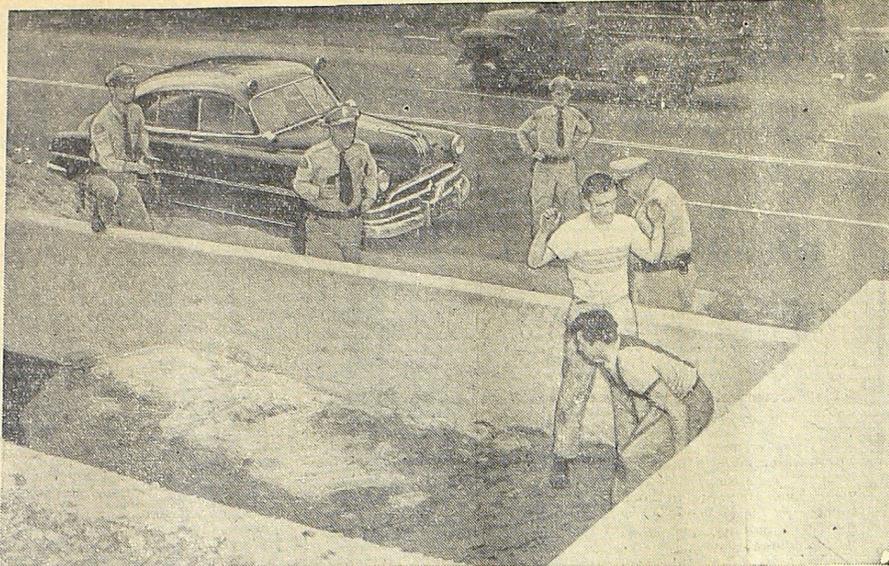

Truman ordered them to "request reports from all departments and agencies and conduct regular inspections and surveys so that reports can be made to me on progress in conserving manpower."

"This manpower conservation program should be given top priority throughout the executive branch," the President added.

As a result, Ramspeck and Lawton sent a joint ultimatum to all agencies to "take steps to assure the most effective and economical use" of manpower.

Washington Pipeline

Though she stands aces with new Secretary of Defense Lovett, dynamic Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg may resign. She was brought in by George Marshall to cut the waste out of armed services' manpower and has nearly accomplished her mission... In a swift week-end operation, Michigan's Sen. Blair Moody and Walter Reuther, of the auto workers, talked defense mobilizer Charley Wilson out of $800,000 in contracts.

YOUTHS CAPTURED AFTER WIDESPREAD SEARCH . . . This dramatic photo shows armed police in Arcadia, Calif., closing in on two youths who had been sought in a widespread search after four men had kidnapped and robbed a doctor in order to get his drugs. Rowley Ray Poe, 29, and Robert Nausbaum, 24, are seen at right as they were flushed from culvert hiding place and taken into custody by officers carrying pistols and tear gas bombs. Two teenagers were later found in hiding in nearby bushes to complete the roundup of suspects in the crime. All prisoners were booked on suspicion of kidnapping and robbery.

WOUNDED WALK BACK FROM BATTLE . . . Despite peace talks and talks of peace talks, the marines are still fighting the Reds in Korea and some of them are getting hurt. This group of leathernecks, some of them critically injured, are, nevertheless, able to navigate, and so are making their way back to a medical clearing station on foot. Scene is on the eastern Korean front. Note the badly wounded man in the center. Handicapped by a bandaged leg and face and arm in sling, he is being helped by a comrade who apparently is less seriously wounded. Armistice plans do not mean a cessation in the killing and the wounding during a war.

HUK SLAIN . . . Police bullets ended the bloody career of Nicasio Pamintuan, Huk hatchetman, in Manila. He was wanted by Philippine authorities for a dozen murders. In the wild gun battle, he fatally shot three army officers. This battle followed a similar shooting incident in another part of the city. Death toll in the two clashes was six dead on the government side—and two Huks fatally shot. The Huks are aided and abetted by the Communists.

FRIENDLY EXCHANGE . . . All has been smiles and cordiality between the Reds and UN commanders in Korea when they met to exchange notes upon armistice talks, with wrangling and recrimination during the actual talks. Here, Lt. Col. Norman Edwards, head of the UN liaison smiles as he accepts a note from Col. Chang, top North Korean liaison officer at Pun Mun Jon. The note contained Red offers to renew armistice talks immediately, but terms could not be accepted.

History Made

U. S. marines in Korea recently added another chapter to their long record of firsts when, in "operation summit," they landed on a mountain by helicopter.

In his announcement that his forces are capable of driving the Reds from North Korea, Van Fleet said the Allies inflicted 188,237 casualties on the enemy during the past four months. This is equal to approximately 10 Red divisions.

Since the war began the United Nations forces have inflicted an estimated 1,200,000 casualties on the North Korean and Chinese. United States army officials estimate the Reds now have 400,000 men on the fighting front with another 200,000 in immediate reserve.

NEW DRAFT CALL—More men from the home towns of the nation face a draft call during November and December with the announcement last week that 55,900 men will be called for duty in the army and marine corps.

The latest call will bring to 734,680 the men called since the draft was resumed in 1950. The marines have taken 41,680 of the total.

The 39,000 needed in November is 5,300 more than previously announced. Present strength of the corps is about 211,000 officers and men. Of the total, the marines will take 19,900 men.

TAX BILL—By the time this appears in print the house and senate committee may have finished its work on the new tax increase measure and reported it in final form. The senate version calls for a $5.4 billion boost in taxes; the house $7.2 billion. Whatever the final figure, the total tax bill will be one of the largest in the nation's history.

Last week's tax news, however, was not confined to the new tax bill. Of interest was the announcement by Senator George that the new bill "is the last tax-increase bill I will support short of all-out war or a war crisis."

The senator's announcement was of special significance in that he is chairman of the senate finance committee and it is his job to guide tax measures through the senate.

He pointed out that the new tax measure will increase revenues to $67 or $68 billion a year in a full year's operation, an all-time high. "That is enough to spend in a year," he said. "It is about $15 billion more than we should spend even with a stepped-up defense program."

Then he added, "There must be a cut. I know there can be cuts if there is any strong will in the executive department."

Without Senator George's support any future tax measure would have little, if any, chance of getting through the senate.

MEAT-RULE VIOLATIONS—The office of price stabilization made the startling announcement that its agents have found 934 violations of meat regulations, involving 435 slaughterhouses, in raids in every section of the country. Two out of every five of the 1,145 slaughtering plants checked were found violating beef regulations.

Michael V. DiSalle, price stabilizer, made a bitter attack on the meat industry when the violations were announced. He said, "The price of beef is a vital element in the housewife's table budget and it must be held within reason. Surely if the members of the meat industry, who have been putting selfish interest against the nation's economic health, will stop to think of this, they will join with the great mass of people and help us keep the American economy on an even keel."

If found guilty of breaking OPS regulations, violators can be fined damages of three times the amount of price overcharges, and sentenced to a year in jail and a $10,000 fine, or both.

POPULATION SHIFT—Since 1790 the center of population in the United States has continued to move westward. The new center, established by the 1950 census, is located eight miles northwest of Olney, Ill.

It is 42 miles west and 7½ miles south of the 1940 center near Carlisle, Ind.

The new shift reflects the westward and southward migrations that took place during World War II when new industries moved into these areas, census bureau officials reported. The trend is expected to continue as more and more industries move west and south.

On the 18th of this month a marker will be erected in the cornfield on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snider where the center is located. Nobody lives within half a mile of the point. Once a farm home stood 200 feet from the point.

The population center's westward movement has totaled 664 miles in the last 160 years. In 1790 the center was 23 miles west of Baltimore.

UNITED DEFENSE FUND—The united defense fund has joined with the national community chest campaign this year in an effort to raise $18,624,854 to carry on its work. Of the total, $16,511,854 is being sought through chests and the remainder will be raised in New York city and other non-chest areas. Bulk of the funds—$13,658,207—will go to USO.

The united defense fund was formed in November, 1940, to raise funds for services to the armed forces through USO and other organizations; to aid defense-impacted communities through united community defense services; and to help process clothing collected by American relief for Korea.

The annual community chest drive was opened September 30 with a nation-wide radio address by President Truman. Community chest officials said their best estimate of the combined total to be raised by individual chests this year is $250,000,000.

REDS IN U. S.

U.S. Communist Party Falling Apart

According to the latest survey of the Communist party in the United States, the Reds are in a bad way. Authorities on the subject report the party is broke, its leadership done for or demoralized, its "brains" tied up trying to defend court cases, and its rank and file so confused the members are pulling out. J. Edgar Hoover, F.B.I. chief, reports the party membership has declined to 37,000 compared with a claim of 74,000 in 1947. As for finances, it has been unable to raise funds like it used to and those it gets go to the defense of 67 leaders convicted or facing trial. A drive in April to get $374,895 realized only $200,000. The financial picture is unlikely to improve since membership continues to decline rapidly in all parts of the country.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Kaesong Out As Conference Site; 934 OPS Violations Are Reported

HOUR OF DECISION—For weeks the people in the home towns of the country have held to the hope of peace in Korea through negotiations. This hope all but died last week as Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, following a conference in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew Ridgway, gave an irrevocable "no" to Communist demands that the United Nations send negotiators back to Kaesong to resume the peace talks.

As an alternative, the UN command offered to meet the Reds at Songhyon in no-man's-land. At the same time, Gen. James Van Fleet, commander of the eighth army, issued a warning that has been interpreted as a thinly veiled threat. He implied, in a statement announcing the opening of an Allied fall offensive, that his forces are capable of driving the Reds completely out of North Korea.

Should the Reds refuse to meet the Allies at Songhyon and do not suggest another meeting place, which is considered possible in many quarters, the newspapers of America will be filled with news of all-out war in Korea during the next few months.

Some observers believe the Chinese do not want to fight another winter campaign. It is this hour of decision, in which Communist and Allied forces face each other across a bloody and war-torn Korea, the hope of peace rests squarely on the Chinese.

In his announcement that his forces are capable of driving the Reds from North Korea, Van Fleet said the Allies inflicted 188,237 casualties on the enemy during the past four months. This is equal to approximately 10 Red divisions.

Since the war began the United Nations forces have inflicted an estimated 1,200,000 casualties on the North Korean and Chinese. United States army officials estimate the Reds now have 400,000 men on the fighting front with another 200,000 in immediate reserve.

NEW DRAFT CALL—More men from the home towns of the nation face a draft call during November and December with the announcement last week that 55,900 men will be called for duty in the army and marine corps.

The latest call will bring to 734,680 the men called since the draft was resumed in 1950. The marines have taken 41,680 of the total.

The 39,000 needed in November is 5,300 more than previously announced. Present strength of the corps is about 211,000 officers and men. Of the total, the marines will take 19,900 men.

TAX BILL—By the time this appears in print the house and senate committee may have finished its work on the new tax increase measure and reported it in final form. The senate version calls for a $5.4 billion boost in taxes; the house $7.2 billion. Whatever the final figure, the total tax bill will be one of the largest in the nation's history.

Last week's tax news, however, was not confined to the new tax bill. Of interest was the announcement by Senator George that the new bill "is the last tax-increase bill I will support short of all-out war or a war crisis."

The senator's announcement was of special significance in that he is chairman of the senate finance committee and it is his job to guide tax measures through the senate.

He pointed out that the new tax measure will increase revenues to $67 or $68 billion a year in a full year's operation, an all-time high. "That is enough to spend in a year," he said. "It is about $15 billion more than we should spend even with a stepped-up defense program."

Then he added, "There must be a cut. I know there can be cuts if there is any strong will in the executive department."

Without Senator George's support any future tax measure would have little, if any, chance of getting through the senate.

MEAT-RULE VIOLATIONS—The office of price stabilization made the startling announcement that its agents have found 934 violations of meat regulations, involving 435 slaughterhouses, in raids in every section of the country. Two out of every five of the 1,145 slaughtering plants checked were found violating beef regulations.

Michael V. DiSalle, price stabilizer, made a bitter attack on the meat industry when the violations were announced. He said, "The price of beef is a vital element in the housewife's table budget and it must be held within reason. Surely if the members of the meat industry, who have been putting selfish interest against the nation's economic health, will stop to think of this, they will join with the great mass of people and help us keep the American economy on an even keel."

If found guilty of breaking OPS regulations, violators can be fined damages of three times the amount of price overcharges, and sentenced to a year in jail and a $10,000 fine, or both.

POPULATION SHIFT—Since 1790 the center of population in the United States has continued to move westward. The new center, established by the 1950 census, is located eight miles northwest of Olney, Ill.

It is 42 miles west and 7½ miles south of the 1940 center near Carlisle, Ind.

The new shift reflects the westward and southward migrations that took place during World War II when new industries moved into these areas, census bureau officials reported. The trend is expected to continue as more and more industries move west and south.

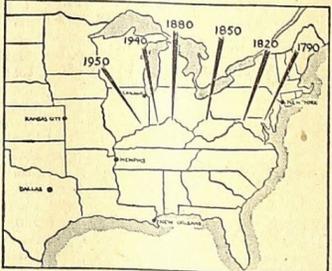

On the 18th of this month a marker will be erected in the cornfield on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snider where the center is located. Nobody lives within half a mile of the point. Once a farm home stood 200 feet from the point.

The population center's westward movement has totaled 664 miles in the last 160 years. In 1790 the center was 23 miles west of Baltimore.

UNITED DEFENSE FUND—The united defense fund has joined with the national community chest campaign this year in an effort to raise $18,624,854 to carry on its work. Of the total, $16,511,854 is being sought through chests and the remainder will be raised in New York city and other non-chest areas. Bulk of the funds—$13,658,207—will go to USO.

The united defense fund was formed in November, 1940, to raise funds for services to the armed forces through USO and other organizations; to aid defense-impacted communities through united community defense services; and to help process clothing collected by American relief for Korea.

The annual community chest drive was opened September 30 with a nation-wide radio address by President Truman. Community chest officials said their best estimate of the combined total to be raised by individual chests this year is $250,000,000.

SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON

By JIM RHODY

Better Shells

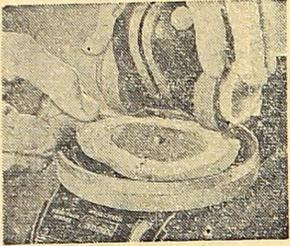

Paper in today's shotgun shells can withstand far more abuse than a World War II discovery revealed today by Western-Winchester officials.

A plastic compound, melamine formaldehyde, added to pulp in the manufacturing process results in a paper that withstands dampness and friction when shells are carried on scores of trips during bad weather in the pocket of a sportsman's coat.

High wet-strength paper originally was used in 40,000,000 wartime maps and as a packaging material. It was developed to meet military demands for a paper retaining maximum strength when wet.

Affected Fitting

Before this plastic treated paper entered the sporting ammunition picture, scuffing and dampness

The abrasion test: After 30 turns on the abradant, the paper disc is removed.

sometimes prevented a shell from fitting into the chamber of a gun.

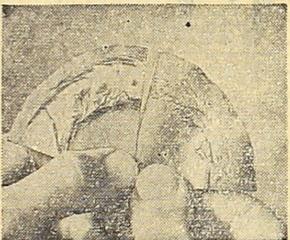

A mechanical "hunter's pocket" was devised by Western-Winchester ballisticians to determine the value of high wet-strength paper in shotshells over previously used shell cases. Both new and old shells were subjected during the experiments to friction and dampness many times more severe than they would receive over a long period of time when carried loose by a hunter.

After they had been soaked in warm water for half an hour, both types of shells were given a 15-minute drubbing in the machine. No perceptible damage resulted to shells made with high wet-strength paper. The older types were scuffed so severely that chambering was difficult and often impossible.

Used Emery Wheel

Another test made by researchers for the sporting arms and ammunition concern involved holding ordinary shotshell paper and high wet-strength paper to a slowly revolving emery wheel. Where the latter type barely was scratched, the other paper virtually burst apart after 20 revolutions.

Search for a "perfect" paper has been a major project of sporting ammunition manufacturers since the advent of paper shotshells half a century ago. Excellent results under normal conditions came when hulls were made of four layers of four-ply paper impregnated with paraffin. Because excessive wear and wet weather frequently damaged such hulls beyond use, research efforts continued.

War-time developments of high wet-strength paper were viewed as the possible answer to the problem. Sample maps of this paper did not show "noticeable effects" when they were soaked in water wrung out, smeared with grease, daubed with paint, gasoline and mud, walked over by an entire regiment and, finally, rolled over by a tank.

When this paper was made available for civilian use, Western-Winchester began its tests of the paper for shotshell purposes. These led to adoption of high wet-strength paper in making a tougher, more water-proof hull.

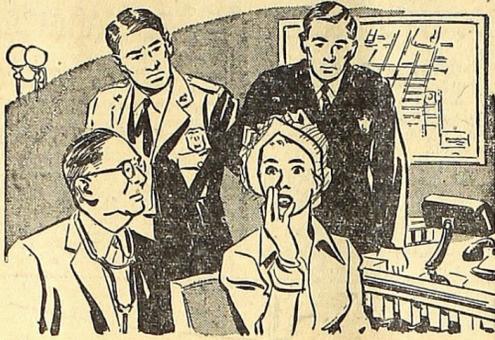

Try It

There are two schools of thought among bass fishermen about whether noise or sight of an angler will frighten off this species. One school says that Mr. Bass is so game, so pugnacious, that he isn't afraid of anything, particularly noise or the most formidable appearing angler in the land. The other school maintains that quiet stalking of Mr. Bass is as important as it is when attempting to reel Mr. Trout. We suggest the quiet method.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

How To Forget Who You Are

By Lawrence Gould

Can you "forget who you are" deliberately?

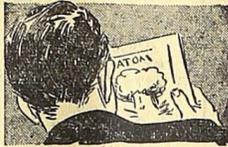

Answer: Not by any conscious wish or effort of will. Partial or complete amnesia is the result of an unconscious refusal to remember (that is, to admit to consciousness) ideas which are too frightening or painful to be endured. This refusal may involve a particular episode like a terrifying war experience, or one's whole life situation, including his name and identity. Either way, the person neither consciously "chose" to forget nor can remember by wishing or trying to do so. Lessening the fear by means of hypnosis or injections of narcotic drugs is the most promising method of restoring memory in such cases.

May childish feelings make you give unwisely?

Answer: Yes. Repeated exposures of "phony" charitable agencies as well as of street beggars who are richer than the people who give money to them show that most of us go on the principle of giving first and thinking afterwards. Our motive for doing so is sometimes good will, but may also be a childish fear of being scolded for refusing to "share" with another. As children we should have preferred to keep our toys or candy to ourselves, but were shamed or even punished if we tried to do so. As a result, we still tend to "give" on demand, regardless of whether we are really helping anyone by doing so.

Is anxiety a part of modern life?

Answer: It is an inevitable part of present-day "culture," maintains Rollo May in a symposium compiled by Drs. P. H. Hoch and J. Zubin of the New York Psychiatric Institute. In the 18th and 19th centuries men felt secure in the belief that "reason" would enable them to control their emotions and create world peace and order, but that belief has been shattered by the discoveries of Freud and others. Today we feel insecure and anxious because we have been forced to admit that both we and the rest of mankind are more or less at the mercy of unconscious "drives" which we can neither fully understand nor control.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Habit and Shape Affect Your Health

By Dr. James W. Barton

WHEN A PERSON has been underweight for years and then towards middle age begins to put on some weight, he is usually pleased because in the great majority of cases this little addition of fat improves the whole appearance. Moreover, this increase in weight gives him a lift in morale, because of the past years in which he wanted more weight.

However, there is one thing that he may forget, and that is that with increased weight, more work is required of all the body processes, including heart and blood vessels. And added to this extra work, the carrying of this excess fat, much of it about the abdomen, is going to affect the shape of the body.

I have in mind a friend who was always thin but of good height and carriage. He was about 48 to 50 years old when the excess fat began to accumulate and as he had taken no exercise since his twenties, the sagging abdomen shortened his height and caused his shoulders to droop, so that while his face had filled out, his body lost much of its shape.

Some months ago I wrote about how the shape of an individual can affect his health. The individual with the short body and long legs is more likely to develop tuberculosis because of his narrow chest and also stomach and intestinal trouble because of the narrowness of the abdomen and because the small intestine from which the food is absorbed into the blood is several feet shorter in these narrow individuals than in those with longer, wider bodies.

Individuals with long, wide bodies are more likely to have trouble with heart, blood pressure and kidney ailments because they have more room for the lungs, have a good appetite and a longer small intestine from which to get nourishment from food.

HEALTH NOTES

Any diet for relief of constipation must contain bulk.

Treatment for pain in the neck is heat, massage, a high collar, injection of pain killing drugs.

We can all strengthen the body's antibodies by observing the known rules of health as to rest, work, food.

Rehabilitation of heart patients increases the nation's manpower.

Once the alcoholic admits he needs help, he almost certainly can be cured.

When severe pain hits under the breastbone, extending to left shoulder and down the left arm, it may be a sign of failing heart.

THE HOME TOWN REPORTER

IN WASHINGTON

WALTER SHEAD, WNU Correspondent

City of Wonders

WASHINGTON, with all its beauty and cleanliness, its stately buildings and broad, tree-lined avenues, its smart shops, wide streets, tradition and historical significance, seat of government of the world's greatest nation and cynosure of the eyes of the world, is not a pleasant place in which to live just now.

The man or woman who can penetrate the fog of confusion, who trods the paths with his feet firmly set on ground hallowed by former great Americans is, indeed, rare here in Washington. We live here in a whirling mist of eddying words—words which mean nothing or everything—according to the point of view. Even the word democracy, if mentioned in some circles, gets an indignant outburst and is given a leftist connotation.

"This is not a democracy, it is a republic," is the disdainful reply. Everybody has a gimmick to sell, an angle to peddle, whether it is influence or a government building. The gush of words goes on, day after day. Congress does one thing today, tomorrow it reverses itself.

Lobbies are spending millions on words to sell an idea. According to Fortune magazine, the national association of manufacturers and others are spending this year something like $100,000,000 buying high priced advertising and high priced words on the free enterprise campaign to "sell America to Americans" to "sell our American way of life to our own American people." The fallacy to that campaign and to these meaningless words is that the American people know more about their way of life than anybody can tell them. They are living it!

Socialism Charge

We recently wrote a column taking issue with a railroad president because he wanted to abolish the entire social security program on the grounds it was socialistic. Just because he said so does not make it socialistic. From the earliest days of this country every progressive idea has been branded by its enemies as socialistic, which of course, did not make it socialistic.

Even some ideas sponsored by Socialists have not proven to be socialistic. Some of these ideas first sponsored by Socialist leaders such as the late Eugene V. Debs were the federal graduated income tax, direct vote for U.S. senators, federal inspection of meat, building inspectors, public regulation of public utilities and safety inspectors in factories. Does any one consider these ideas, all embodied in the laws, socialistic today?

Socialism in History

Going further back in our history, the Tories of revolutionary days called Thomas Jefferson a rank socialist for his progressive ideas. His free, tax supported public school system was fought through the congress as socialistic. Benjamin Franklin was called a Socialist as an early sponsor of the federal post office and a great system of federal post roads. Federal subsidies and free lands for railroads were called socialistic in their day; the great system of land grant colleges was also socialistic.

The federal deposit insurance act, the federal housing administration act, the wages and hours act, old age pensions, unemployment compensation, the federal reserve banking system, the securities exchange commission, the entire system of social security, the home owners loan corporation, farmers cooperatives, all these and many more have been branded as socialistic by their enemies, not because they were fostered by Socialists, but to smear these ideas in an attempt to defeat them. Just more words to add to the general confusion of words.

Free Enterprise

Here is a word to the backers of the free enterprise campaign. The American people believe in free enterprise and the free enterprise system, but for all the people, not just a few self-appointed custodians at the top of the heap. The American people pride themselves on their possession of good common sense. They believe when ideas are thrashed out in open debate they are able to decide for themselves whether the idea squares with common sense, not with a doctrine of socialism or with the fears the word socialism is supposed to arouse.

Deluge of Words

We might point out to our friend the railroad president, who says the social security act is socialism, that he is in the company of real Socialists who oppose the act and are its severest critics, for they regard the act as one which treats only symptoms of unemployment and old age, rather than causes of such human ills. This deluge of words will fall eventually of their own weight. A charge of socialism does not make it so.

White Painted Walls Turned Yellow

QUESTION: What can be done to keep walls that are going to be painted white, from turning yellow? My white painted walls have always turned yellow or have discolored. Would putting blue (laundry blue) or else some blue paint in with the white paint prevent this discoloration? How much should I use in each gallon of paint?

ANSWER: A good grade of paint should not turn yellow or discolor. I believe you bought an inexpensive grade. I would not advise using laundry blue. If you wish to add a small amount of blue paint to the white, it should be perfectly all right, and might help to give a good white effect. But do not attempt to mix the paint yourself. Ask your paint dealer to mix it for you in his mechanical mixer. If you try it yourself, add very small quantities of color in oil and thoroughly stir each amount, until you get the desired shade.

Evolution of Classifications
Zoologists, like many other people, are inveterate classifiers. The oldest historical records contain attempts to classify mammals from various standpoints, scientific and otherwise. One of the oldest and best known is the ancient Jewish classification of mammals into "clean" and "unclean" on the basis of foot structure and cud-chewing habits (Leviticus xi). Subsequent attempts to classify mammals, made by zoologists in various parts of the world, underwent a gradual evolution that reflects the growth of knowledge over the years.

When it is decided that lime is needed, use two tons of finely ground lime per acre on heavy clay soils and not more than one ton per acre on sandy soils.

COMING SOON TO FAMILY THEATRE

DAVID & BATHSHEBA 20

The legendary slaying of the Philistine Giant, Goliath, by the shepherd boy, David, is faithfully recreated in Twentieth Century Fox's Technicolor Biblical epic, "David and Bathsheba," the Darryl F. Zanuck production, coming to The Family Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, October 28, 29 and 30.

Filmed on the Arizona Desert by Director Henry King, "David and Bathsheba" with co-stars Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward in the title roles, utilized a cast of thousands to authentically reproduce the historic battle between the Philistines and Israelites.

Raymond Massey, Kieron Moore, Dennis Hoey, John Sutton, Jayne Meadows and James Robertson Justice support the stars at the head of the large cast.

JUVENILE GRANGE MYSTERY RIDE

Thursday afternoon, 36 Juvenile Grangers and six adult leaders and drivers met at the Whittemore Grange Hall to decorate their cars in Grange colors of red and gold.

Then they proceeded by round about way to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black who graciously welcomed everyone. A fine ball game and lots of fun in the large yard and surrounding woods preceded a supper of Bar BQ hamburger, doughnuts and hot chocolate. The way it all disappeared we knew it was enjoyed.

Then in cars to Prescottt where, on the kind invitation of Lester Leonard, who runs the theatre there, Juveniles and drivers all enjoyed the show, "The Fighting Coastguard."

They all had a fine evening and wish to thank Mr. Leonard, Mr.

and Mrs. Harold Black for the picnic, Mrs. James Sturdevant, Mrs. Dorance Chipps, Mrs. Celia Runyan and Mrs. Harold Black, who drove their cars to help make it a real success.

We will be looking forward to next year.

Signed: Mrs. Gerald Bellen, Mrs. R. Edie, Matrons.

Faithful Messengers

Your feet, like your eyes, have to last a life time—you get only one pair. And those feet, which spend two-thirds of their life in shoes, and carry you everywhere you go, deserve good care. EMPHASIZES IMPORTANCE OF BEAN SUPPORT

Earl M. Partlo, chairman of the Iosco County Production and Marketing Administration Committee, today emphasized the importance of Government price support for Michigan beans as a means of stabilizing prices.

Markets currently are below support levels, particularly for pea beans, for which the support is $7.48 per cwt. for U. S. No. 1 quality cleaned beans.

"Price support is available to Michigan growers, he said, "on both farm-stored and warehouse stored beans. Beans which grade U. S. No. 2 or better are eligible for a loan."

Mr. Partlo pointed out that "if beans will not grade U. S. No. 2 or better without cleaning, there is a CCC loan of $4.50 a hundred weight available on the sound beans—he has stored on the farm. When the beans are cleaned and brought up to grade, the farmer may obtain the difference between this figure and the full support price for cleaned, eligible beans."

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture also offers a purchase agreement under which the Commodity Credit Corporation agrees to buy next spring a specified quantity of beans from growers at the support price. The farmer is not obligated to sell these beans to the CCC. He retains full ownership at all times, and sells either in the market or to CCC, whichever is to his best advantage."

"Loans on farm-stored or warehouse stored beans are available through January 1952, and the loans will mature next April 30. Farmers may repay these loans at any time prior to maturity, or may deliver the beans to CCC at the end of the period."

There appears to be little, if any surplus of beans under present conditions. An orderly marketing job on the part of Michigan growers with the help of CCC loans can help get a fair price for this year's bean crop. Growers in other states are currently receiving such a price for their beans."

Easiest wheel you ever turned!
Safest wheel you ever held!
Come try it yourself . . .

Chrysler's new Hydraguide Power Steering!

Chrysler this year introduces the first power steering ever offered on an American passenger car. Many owners tell us it is the greatest advance in car driving since the self-starter! To a person who hasn't tried it, it is actually impossible to describe what a difference it makes. Driving becomes a new and wonderful experience. At your touch on the wheel, hydraulic power instantly provides four-fifths of the energy needed to steer the car. Gone is all sense of tug, strain, tension. In its place you find a wonderful sense of absolute front wheel control with almost no effort on your part. Hydraguide is regular equipment on Crown Imperials, optional at extra cost on other 8-cylinder models. Whatever car you're driving now, we invite you to . . .

NEW EASE! No more whirling or twirling, tugging and straining. The littlest lady you know can actually park the biggest Chrysler with her thumb and one finger on the wheel . . . drive all day with new freedom from arm-and-shoulder fatigue!

NEW CONTROL! Hydraguide gives your hands on the wheel a new feeling of complete command at any speed. In city traffic . . . on awkward driveways . . . in snug-fitting garage entrances . . . you never felt such steering control in any car before!

NEW SAFETY! Even off the road onto a soft shoulder, Hydraguide helps keep your car steady and true with almost no effort . . . takes the jolt and strain out of driving in ruts, snow, or sand . . . makes steering many times safer than ever before!

FOR FUTURE FISHING

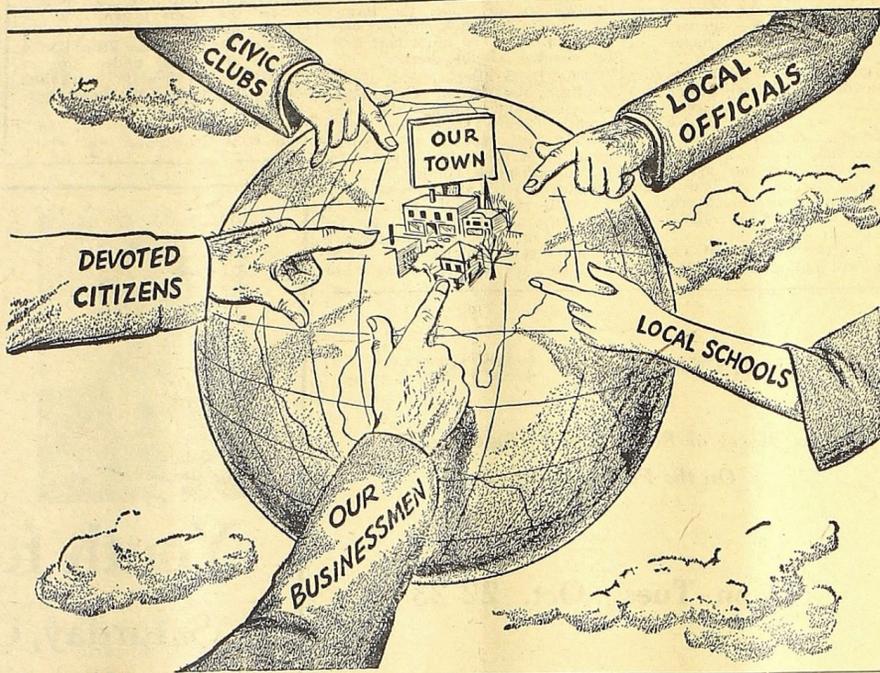

As trout planting crews concentrate on lake releases, the conservation department reports 1,831,000 trout have been stocked in streams and other waters so far this year. Crews will continue rainbow plantings on those streams open to fall fishing, as well as the regular fall lake releases.

Brook trout head the list with 1,084,000 distributed. About 431,000 rainbow, 343,000 brown and 23,000 lake trout have been transferred from hatcheries to suitable streams and lakes.

Little or no natural reproduction in many lakes and streams necessitates trout planting to provide even a fair amount of trout fishing.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Regular meeting of the common council held on Sept. 17, 1951.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Geo. W. Myles.

The following aldermen were present: Boomer; Cholger; Evril; Ruckle; Tuttle and Ziehl.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read.

Mr. Herbert Hertzler presented a petition by Joseph Barkman to vacate certain streets in Porterfield's Addition to Tawas City. Upon discussion;

It was moved by Alderman Boomer and seconded by Alderman Ziehl that the following resolution be adopted:

Resolution to Vacate Certain Streets and Alleys

Resolution of the Council of the City of Tawas City to vacate certain alleys, parts of streets and appointing a time and place for hearing objections thereto:

Whereas, application has been made by Joseph Barkman to vacate the following alleys and parts of streets in the City, being in Porterfield's Addition to Tawas City, plat of which is recorded in the Iosco County Register of Deed's office in Liber 2 of Platts, page 5, to-wit:

Bird Street from North line of Spring Street to State Highway M-55;

Vine Street from Elm Street to Bird Street;

Jefferson Street from Elm street to Bird street; and

The alleys in Block 11 and 20 of said subdivision.

And whereas, the Council deems it advisable to vacate said alleys and parts of streets;

It is resolved that the 5th day of November, 1951, at 8:00 o'clock P. M. at the Council Room in the City Hall of the City of Tawas City the approval of transfer of Class C License from Julia Mauer to Peter Young.

It was moved by Alderman Tuttle and seconded by Alderman Evril that the recommendation of the committee be approved as to the transfer of 51 Class C with Tavern extension from Julia Mauer, located at 385 Lake Street, Tawas City, Mich., to Peter Young at the same location.

Roll Call: Yeas—Aldermen Boomer; Cholger; Evril; Ruckle; Tuttle; and Ziehl. Nays—None. The motion carried.

As Mr. Harry Westrich has resigned from the Water Board, the Mayor George W. Myles submitted the name of Carl Schaaf to succeed Mr. Westrich.

It was moved by Alderman Boomer and seconded by Alderman Tuttle that the nomination of Mr. Carl Schaaf be approved as a member of the Tawas City Water Board. The motion carried.

The report of the Chief of Police for the month of August was read.

It was moved by Alderman Boomer and seconded by Alderman Tuttle that the report of the Chief of Police be accepted as read. The motion carried.

Regarding the extension of the sanitary sewer from the corner of Lake and Whittemore Streets to the City Park was discussed. The following letter from Mr. Hugo G. Groff was read to the council:

14020 Abington Road,
Detroit 27, Michigan,
September 7, 1951.

Common Council,
City of Tawas City,
Tawas City, Michigan

Honorable Members of the Common Council:

The purpose of this letter is to outline, among others, two reasons in equity for my reluctance to acquiesce to the grant of an easement for sewers across my commercial property in Tawas City.

One reason is the realization that we do not have an issue of easement by necessity raised here because of the ability of the engineers to devise other means of running the sewers. A trench can be dug north of the sewer to the road lot line and thence to the pavilion thereby intersecting no private property.

Knowing that this would involve a little more cost, I am willing to contribute $200.00 towards the construction of this sewer.

To attach an easement suggested with all the restrictions upon future use of the land, needless to say, is a serious discriminatory act in that this will depreciate the value of the property a substantial amount. You gentlemen are all prudent businessmen who realize that future construction of buildings is definitely precluded by the easement verbage and renders that portion of land practically unsaleable.

As you probably know, I was born and raised in Tawas City. Like other young men born in small towns, I left to seek greater opportunity in Detroit, but in all sincerity, I am proud to identify myself with Tawas City. I have a great deal of civic pride in Tawas and I certainly do not wish to impede the progress of the community. As a manifestation of my interest, As a small material wealth I accumulated I invested in Tawas City thereby creating employment and paying taxes.

It is not my intention to be arbitrary, for I desire to be cooperative in an equitable manner. We, as citizens, cannot be oblivious to the rights of the individual by simply waving the magic wand "good of the community."

I respectfully request you consider my alternate proposal and advise me by return mail of your plans.

Very truly yours,
Hugo Groff.

This letter was discussed. Thereupon it was moved by Alderman Boomer and seconded by Alderman Ziehl that Mr. Hugo G. Groff be notified that we will abide by the City Engineer's proposed plans of sanitary sewer extension to the City Park. The motion carried.

A letter from the Michigan State Highway Department was read regarding Act No. 51 of Public Acts of 1951. This act sets up rules and regulations in regard to the disbursement of the weight and gas tax.

It was moved by Alderman Evril and seconded by Alderman Ruckle that the Supt. of Public Works be appointed as administrator, representing the city as requested by the State Highway Dept. The motion carried.

It was moved, seconded and carried to adjourn.

"ASK THE FARMER FIRST" NEW SLOGAN FOR HUNTERS

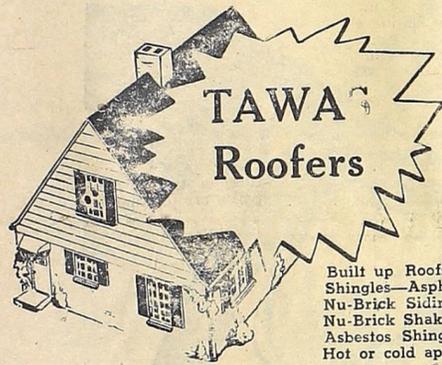

Go in the front gate instead of over the back fence and "Ask the farmer first."

This is the slogan of conservation clubs which the state conservation department also has printed on every hunting license and game law folder as a hunter reminder.

Most state owned land is open to hunting without special permission but the hunting license positively does not give the hunter the privilege of entering private property without the owner's consent.

Give the landowner the same consideration for his property that you would expect if it were yours.

RESIDENT NURSE A SERIAL STORY
 BY LUCY AGNES HANCOCK

THE STORY SO FAR:
 Gay Gaynor convalesces at Crescent Lake following a collapse with pneumonia contacted by arduous nursing of her benefactor, "Aunt Grace" Alden. Gay hopes to enter nurse's training at the Bessemer hospital if her friend, Dr. Borden, can overcome the board's prejudice against girls "without good families." Gay often expresses open disgust for Dr. Borden's son, Thad, because of his enthrallment by Vivian Poole, "glamorous queen" of Bessemer, and the outrage he perpetrated several years before when he kissed Gay against her will at an orphan's picnic when she caught him teasing a small boy who is an invalid.

CHAPTER IX

Ruth Bradford was a pathetic child. She was an ungainly seven with long legs and thin awkward body. She was shy, smiling but seldom. Her eyes held a perpetual look of fear and she haunted Jennie Bailey from the day she first saw her. Gay sought the answer to that look and discovered that the child had been orphaned during a fire that destroyed the tenement in which she and her mother lived. The father had died some time before and since his death the wife and child had suffered untold privation and want. She had been in Bethesda now for nearly six months and was considered something of a problem. Gay pondered the advisability of recommending the adoption. She felt extremely sorry for the child, but was she letting Mrs. Bailey in for more than she could handle? Jennie Bailey, however, seemed determined to take Ruth. The child had no objections. Apparently nothing mattered very much and at the suggestion of the matron, Ruth went home with Mrs. Bailey for a visit.

It was, perhaps, a week later that Gay saw her again. She was amazed at the change in her. Her eyes were bright, she dimpled at the least provocation and frankly adored her hostess.

Gay and Myra Settle At Crescent Lake

"Jerry is pleased as Punch," Mrs. Bailey told Gay. "Ruth and he get along beautifully together—you should see them. She is really a very bright child and a lovable one, too. Do you know, Gay, I think she is even a little like you. They tell me we can't legally adopt her until six months have proved our suitability as parents. Will you vouch for us, Gay?"

"Indeed I will, Mrs. Bailey," Gay assured her, "and I'm sure Myra and Doctor Borden will, too, Myra and I are leaving tomorrow for Crescent Lake. The doctor says spring is much farther advanced over there and thinks the sooner I get away the better. I'm not terribly keen about going, but Myra and he have ganged up on me."

Crescent Lake gave Gay and Myra a pleasant welcome. The weather was fine that day. A few feathery clouds floated lazily above the blue waters of the lake, where frolicsome whitecaps chased each other and the snowy sails of numerous boats flirted with the breeze. The cottage, high on a bluff, had been prepared for their coming.

The unpacking done, she went to the tiny kitchenette and began preparations for lunch. She glanced out the window from time to time and saw that Gay hadn't moved. She appeared to be lost in the beauty of the view. It didn't take long to prepare the simple luncheon. She set the table near the wide windows overlooking the lake and went to the door.

"Lunch is ready, Gay," she shouted and the girl came at once.

"I'm hungry, Myra," she said as she sat down at the table. "I don't know when I've been so hungry before. It must be this air."

"Good!" Myra said. "Now we're getting some place. After lunch you're to take a nice long nap while I sort of look around. You're to have the west bedroom, Gay. I don't want you waking up too early in the morning. You need lots of sleep and you're going to get it. Now who in tunket can that be?"

as a knock sounded on the kitchen door. She left the room to find out. Gay laid down her fork and sat back in her chair. She could hear Myra explaining that they had only just arrived and were pretty tired from the trip. "Miss Gaynor's recovering from pneumonia," she heard, "and the doctor says she's got to have lots of rest and quiet. So, if she ain't very sociable—" Gay left the table and joined Myra.

"It is kind of you to stand," she said gently to the girl standing on the back porch. "Won't you come in? Do, please. And you must have a cup of Myra's famous coffee. You are Miss—?"

"Spencer," Myra said before the girl could speak. "Jean Spencer. She lives next door—if you can call it that. I'll set another place." She spoke almost grudgingly. This wasn't going according to her plans. "I really shouldn't—so soon," the caller said, but she came in and took the chair Myra placed for her.

"I have always loved this place," she said. "You have the best beach along this side of the lake and when my brother is home he haunts it. The Borden are here such a short time each summer that we have the beach practically to ourselves. Jim and Thad have always been friends—were in college together, though Jim went to law school and is now settled in Rochester. I'm crazy about Thad—have been since I was five and was I pleased when his affair with Vivian Poole went haywire. I never could stand her. He's a peach and far too splendid to be wasted on her. This air will work wonders for you, Miss Gaynor," she went on. "What's your first name? I hope you will call me Jean—everyone does."

"My name is Frances," Gay smiled, "but sometimes I forget I ever had any other name but 'Gay'—short for Gaynor, you know."

Apparently, Crescent Lake was

"You can still get blistered, my love," Jean warned. "That sun's hot at this time of day and we'd better go in."

just what the doctor ordered, for Gay showed improvement from the day she arrived. Myra was jubilant.

Nineteen-year-old Jean Spencer from up the beach became a daily visitor and was the tonic Gay needed. The laughter of the two girls as they splashed about in the water or sunned themselves on the sandy beach was good to hear and Myra reported the progress to Doctor Borden by telephone.

"Why don't you come up Sunday, Doc?" she asked early in June.

"I bet a nickel you won't know our girl. She's got what they call a million-dollar tan and has gained eight pounds. She laughs a lot, too, and that's something she ain't done since Miss Grace passed on. How about it, Doc? We'll have a couple of duckings for dinner.—You will?"

She laughed at the doctor's reaction to that announcement. He loved duckings cooked as only Myra could cook them.

Thad Borden's Friend Teaches Gay To Swim

Down on the beach the girls were resting after Gay's daily swimming lesson.

"Well, do you think I'll ever make the Olympics, Jean?" Gay laughed, reaching for her dark glasses.

"You're doing surprisingly well," Jean told her. "After all you're probably still not up to par, you know. A sickness like yours takes a lot out of a person. And I'm not such a swell teacher. If you can learn from me you must be smart."

I wish Jim had been here. He'd have taught you in no time at all—given you confidence. That's all you need—confidence. I've been swimming since I was five. I remember it so well. Thad Borden and Jim were having a grand time showing off before our houseguests. They were about fifteen—a fresh fifteen, too. I tagged along as I always did, no doubt making a pest of myself, when suddenly Thad tossed me into the water. He and Jim were right there so I suppose there was no actual danger, but I yelled and screamed with fright—anger, too—kicking and splashing and howling my head off. Well, first thing I knew I was swimming—making a great to-do about it, to be sure, but none the less, swimming. Thad always declared the lake went down at least a foot because of the water I swallowed. I couldn't seem to keep my mouth shut. But since then I've just about lived in a bathing suit. And by the way—yours is pretty. Bessemer?"

Gay nodded. "Beechers'. They had the prettiest ones. Some of them were very extreme, or at least they seemed extreme to me. I'm getting nicely tanned even in this one. Myra spluttered about the burns I got at first—slathered me with creams and insisted I was going at it too hard."

"Honestly, Gay, Myra's worse than my mother. I mean, she fusses more. Is she any relation to you?"

Gay shook her head. "No blood relation, but I love her just as much as if she were. She's wonderful!"

"I'll say," the other agreed. "And can she cook! Boy, oh boy!" After a moment she asked somewhat warily, "Of course you know Thad Borden, don't you?"

Gay hesitated. "No, I can't say that I know him, Jean. I know who he is, of course. Why?"

"Nothing. I just wondered. Your coming up here and all."

Gay laughed and got to her feet. "That's easily explained, Jean," she said coolly. "I was Doctor Borden's patient. He thought I should get away for a while. He felt this was a good place to come and sent us here. That's all there is to it."

"Just the same, Thad—" "Forget Thad and let's go in once more, then I'll have to go up to the house or Myra will be after me. She keeps me following a rather rigid schedule which appears to work pretty well, even if it irks me at times. I dislike being fussed over. But at least I'm getting strong and that was the idea back of our sojourn at Crescent Lake." She ran along the beach to the spring-board, Jean following, and dove into the water. What was the matter with her? She hadn't seen Thad Borden in months. Why should the very sound of his name cause her to feel uncomfortable? Nothing he could say or do could hurt or humiliate her again—ever. She was swimming effortlessly, not realizing she had come farther than usual. Jean came alongside.

"I Think the Lug's In Love with You"

Gay laughed. She was trembling and to hide it flung herself down on the beach, arms wide in relaxation. "Oh, it's grand to lie here and let the sun pour down on your bare skin like this," she murmured drowsily.

"You can still get blistered, my love," Jean warned. "That sun's hot at this time of day and we'd better go in."

"I have to move, but of course you're right. You're always right, I've noticed."

"Am I?" the other asked, her voice muffled in the towel.

"Yoo hoo!" came from the cottage on the bluff and the girls waved an answer.

"Lunch," Jean said, brushing back her hair. "I wonder what Myra has conjured up for you this time?"

"Come and see for yourself," Gay advised. "She always sets a place for you. Oh, come on," as the other demurred. "You can call your mother so she won't expect you right away."

"We sort of expected Jim today or tomorrow—just for the week-end. He's after information for a client of his—some big shot with a spotted past, I surmise. Or maybe it isn't actually—only appears spotted. The more complex and involved a case is the better that brother of mine likes it."

"We've been an Adamless Eden so long it will be strange to have a man about," Gay said. "Well, I'm glad I've learned to swim, Jean. You've been sweet to spend so much time with me."

"The pleasure has been mine, darling," the other girl replied. "But speaking of Adam—why hasn't that good-looking Boothe man been up here since that first Sunday? I didn't think you were especially cordial to him, Gay. Don't you like him?"

"Of course I like him—but that's quite all. And don't you go building any romance there, my dear. He told me he would be away for a month or six weeks auditing the books of one of the branch offices. He's an accountant in the Bessemer Paper Mills. His aunt is librarian at the Public Library. That's all I know about him. Did you like him?"

"Yes, I liked him—what I saw of him. He didn't seem to be aware of my existence. I think the lug's in love with you, Gay."

Gay shook her head. "Not necessarily. I'm going into training to become a nurse, Jean—a children's nurse. Marriage is in the dim and distant future—if at all. Men are the least of my problems. Now don't look so skeptical. It's absolutely true, believe it or not."

"You'll pardon me if I say I don't believe you," Jean said. "Wait till Mr. Right happens along. I bet you'll go down like a ninepin—all your fine, high-sounding theories knocked into a cocked hat. The kids you'll nurse will be your own and I hope you have a dozen." She laughed gleefully but stopped as a clear, piercing whistle cut the air. (TO BE CONTINUED)

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
 International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
 BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Exodus 1-2. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 27:7-14.

Seeing God's Hand

Lesson for October 21, 1951

NOBODY is ever, in all his life, actually as wise as he thinks he is when he is about 17 years old. We have a remarkable case of this in the Bible, the story of a man whose viewpoint, between his 17th and 56th birthdays, completely changed.

Dr. Foreman

At the age of 17, Joseph was about as nearly insufferable as any one ever has a chance to be. He was the oldest son of the favorite wife of a wealthy cattle-owner named Jacob. Old Jacob needed all the hands he could use, to look after his sheep and cattle; and he put all twelve of his sons to work. Eleven of them had real work; Joseph, though next to the youngest of them all, was a kind of boss or overseer. At least that is what his father intended.

He dressed the boy not in working clothes like the others but in fancy clothes, and used to send him around to see what the other boys were up to. Naturally Joseph's brothers did not take to all this; in fact they hated him so hard that they were on the point of murdering him.

On the very day of the proposed murder, however, the brothers discovered a chance to sell him as a slave. So Joseph was sold off to some traveling slave-traders, and for all his brothers knew or cared, he was off to a lingering death.

Where Was the Hand of God?

JOSEPH expressed no opinion about this at the time. (He was probably gagged.) But judging from his general character and behavior at that time of his life, it is no trouble to guess his thoughts. He was "fit to be tied"; indeed, he must have been tied on a camel's back, for no slave-trader in his senses would make Joseph walk the 200 miles to Egypt.

The better his condition on arrival, the higher the price. (As it turned out, a very wealthy man bought him; perhaps only a wealthy man could afford him.)

If you had asked Joseph while he was being hauled down to Egypt and the slave-market, Where is God in all this? Joseph might well have answered: "Nowhere. The devil is in this, or my devilish brothers. Nobody means any good by it. The only reason they are selling me instead of killing me is that they are making a little by it; these slave-traders are certainly not in business for their health. I am the only son my father trusted, and now I shall die a wretched death in a strange land."

The Wisdom of the Years

THAT was Joseph at seventeen. At the age of 56 he saw a different picture. Many strange years had passed; Joseph had been slave and then prisoner; then by a dramatic turn in his fortunes he had risen overnight to be the top food administrator, price controller and economic stabilizer, all in one, for the great empire of Egypt.

His brothers, driven by famine, had fled to Egypt for help, and Joseph, after playing cat-and-mouse with them for months, at last told them (to their great terror) who he was. But he had returned good for evil; had invited down his whole family, father, brothers and all, and given them refuge in a corner of Egypt. At last Jacob died.

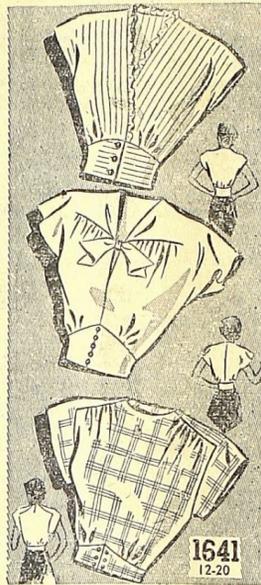

The brothers, who made the mistake of thinking Joseph no better than themselves, had supposed that all Joseph was waiting for was his father's death. Now would be the time for Joseph's long-delayed vengeance. Possibly Joseph the boy had dreamed of just such an hour. But Joseph the man was wiser. To his brothers, covering before him, he said a memorable thing: "You meant it for evil, but God meant it for good." (Gen. 50:20.)

He still had no illusions about his brothers. They had been a bad lot. But God "meant it for good." That vicked act, selling him into slavery, had been the unintentional means of saving hundreds of lives. Joseph now, with the wisdom of his 56 years, can see the hand of God which his 17-year-old eyes could not see at all.

So in times of distress the thought should come to each of us: God's hand may just now be out of sight, but some day, looking back even on this distress we too shall see the hand of God.

A Tree Should Be Kept Within Bounds Always

Shade trees require trimming in the summer when they grow out of bounds.

Dense foliage of street trees create hazards by hiding traffic lights and obstructing views. Lush growth of lawn trees darkens the interiors of houses. A low hanging branch, bowed under the weight of leaves, restricts passage over doorways and can become annoying to pedestrians on sidewalks. Corrective pruning will eliminate these faults.

There are few trees that cannot be improved, in beauty and health, by judicious pruning. Raising limbs by eliminating lower branches will prevent sidewalk obstructions. It also lets in more light to the turf beneath, which is highly desirable under lawn trees.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative

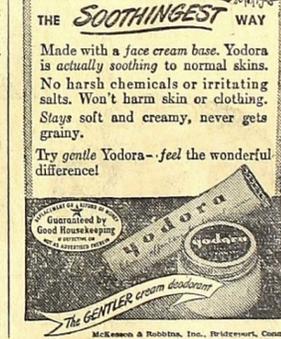

Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE—NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FREN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FREN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out. But gentle FREN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FREN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FREN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

Ever stop to think Your First Car can be a Buick!

THIS being a land where it is every man's right to dream of getting ahead—and the pursuit of happiness is guaranteed by the Constitution—it happens that a great many people aspire to own a Buick.

But too often they start with a lesser car first—from a feeling that Buicks are something you have to build up to gradually, as your take-home pay improves. So—if you have any such notion—we'd like to set you straight, right here and now.

You don't have to hope and dream and wait. If you can afford a new car—the first car you buy can be the Buick SPECIAL pictured here.

Its price tag says so. Its low cost of operation says so too.

We know that it looks like a lot of money. That's what makes it such a buy.

We know that it has a long list of features found in costlier cars, and that it rides and handles like cars that sell for a great deal more.

But that simply means that—at its price—you're getting a very big money's worth.

All of which adds up to one conclusion: the smart thing to do is come in and give this neat and nimble new SPECIAL a thorough going-over.

Try out its power—the power of its high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball Engine.

Try out its ride and handling—and you'll discover it has the "big-car feel" that you'd expect from a Buick.

Try it out for size—for room—for comfort—for all the things that you've dreamed someday of having in a car—and you'll thank your stars that you found out the facts of life in time.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:
DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FIREBALL ENGINE
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING • DUAL VENTILATION
PUSH-CAR FOREFRONT • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • DREAMLINE STYLING
BODY BY FISHER
WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM
