Plot Strategy

A MAN who wasn't there-General Eisenhower - was the main topic of discussion at a meeting of Taft-for-President advisers in Washington recently. Cincinnati's Ben Tate, head of Standard Brands and a top Taft. backer, made it plain that Taft forces will throw the book at Eisenhower if he enters the GOP presidential race.

Remarked the usually jovial Tate: "If the general gets in the campaign, he'll have to take it like any other candidate. Just because he's been in uniform doesn't give him any immunity from the search-ing cross-examination of voters.

'In fact,'' continued Tate, "I've met Republicans who said they had information about the general that should be made public. I didn't discuss it with them, but I know Republicans generally want to know whether he really belongs to the party, and where he stands on issues that are important to Republicans.'

The question was also raised as to whether Eisenhower is really a candidate.

"I understand," remarked Dave Ingalls of Cleveland, who is Taft's cousin, "that he has the bug."

This caused Senator Taft to remark that the general sent word to him that the only thing that concerned him about the presidential election was his program for Europe. "He indicated," continued the senator, "that if he had assurance of a reasonable degree of independence in forming policies for the defense of Western Europe, he would not interfere in the campaign and election.'

Smear Campaign

Senator Taft probably doesn't know this, but some of his cohorts already have launched the smear-Eisenhower campaign hinted at by Ben Tate.

First attempt to scare the general out of the presidential primaries came from Westbrook Pegler last week when he reported Ike's alleged flirtation with an English WAC during the war, and warned that President Truman would use this to wipe up the general.

Actually, certain Republicans, not Truman, are more likely to use this against Eisenhower. In fact, they've already started. It happens that Truman and Einschower not only are friends, but Truman was deeply grateful to Ike for staying out of the 1948 race when Ike could have had the Democratic nomination for the asking.

So if Eisenhower really wants to run this time, it's a fairly good bet that Truman won't.

Meanwhile, the Westbrook Peg-lers and other smear-Eisenhower artists might look up the below-the-belt tactics used against Grover Cleveland. They elected him.

of Main Street and the World Congress Goes Home After Passing $5.6 Billion Tax-Increase Measure

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS

CONGRESS- Members of the first session of the 82nd congress have deserted Washington and will, between now and January 8 when the second session convenes, try to convince the people of the home towns of their great achievements. The fact remains, however, that the record is not too good and the prospects for the second session, because it will meet during a presidential election year, are even worse.

The congress spent week in the MacArthur hearings, the Kefauver crime inquiry, probes into subversive activities and corruption in government. Most of the important legislation enacted dealt with foreign affairs while the domestic field was nearly forgotten. There was no civil rights progress; no marked advance in the Hoover plan for government reorganization, excepting reform of the R.F.C.; civil defense remained a stepchild; needed amendments to the Defense Production Act were neglected; statehood for Alaska and Hawaii remain undecided.

The congress set another mark, the longest unbroken session of any peacetime congress since 1913-14, with the senate in session 172 days and the house 163. The senate oratory filled 7,927 pages of the congressional record and the house 6,003 pages. And during the session 180 public laws and 338 private laws were enacted.

In the dying hours of the session the house and senate enacted three bills authorizing the spending of $13,000,000, all aimed at strengthening the security of the U.S. at home and abroad. It swelled to $95,000,000,-000 the appropriations passed during the year, of which $80,000,000,000 was for defense purposes.

TAXES_President Truman signed the $5,691,000,000 tax-increase bill, one of the last measures passed in the first session of the 82nd congress, and on November 1 the average home towners will begin to pay it. Besides increases ranging from 11 to 12 per cent for most taxpayers, excise taxes go up on a long list of items including liquor, gasoline, and household appliances. Bigger income and excess-profits taxe's are in store for some industries.

The President, however, was very definite in his opinion of the increase measure. To begin with, he felt it was not enough (he had asked for $10,000,000,000 and indicated he would ask congress in January to improve the tax law. He criticized it as containing too many loopholes and in some respects providing additional means by which wealthy individuals can escape paying their proper share.

He also criticized the Jenner rider permitting states to publicize relief rolls without losing their share of federal social security allotments. This, he said, is quite unrelated to the purpose of raising revenue and "may well result in unwarranted publicity and personal indignity and unhappiness for aged people and others receiving public assistance."

THE POWDER KEG ... The Middle East hes become the powder keg which may blow the world into World War III. Since ordering the British out of the Suez canal zone and the Sudan, armed clashes have occurred between forces of the two countries. Egypt has ordered general mobilization of man power in wartime fashion and the British have reinforced their canal forces with troops, planes and warships.

The Egyptian crisis is a manifestation of the growing fever of nationalism in the Moslem states which started when Iran nationalized its oil industry and kicked the British out. But unlike the Iranian question, the Suez and its safety is of vital importance to the free world. On the surface Egypt would seem too weak to throw the British out, but the west fears a series of incidents that could set the entire Middle East aflame.

Should the crisis reach to point of open warfare between the two countries the Communists can be expected to step in and World War III could start at any moment.

VATICAN ENVOY- President Truman nominated Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of the Army Field Forces, to be the first United States ambassador to Vatican City. American diplomatic relations with the Vatican, which had been terminated by act of congress in 1867, were resumed twelve years ago by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Since early 1950, however, there has been no diplomatic relationship with the Vatican and President Truman's nomination of Gen. Clark was unexpected.

Because of considerable criticism concerning the move, the President announced several days later he had decided not to carry out diplomatic representation at the Vatican until congress has acted on the controversal issue. Congress will probably take the matter under consideration shortly after it convenes January 8.

FEDERAL DEFICIT ... The government has operated in the red this year. Next year it will go even deeper in the red and nothing that congress has done or economies will prevent it.

Expenditure for the fiscal year 1952 will amount to approximately $70 billion, it is estimated. Receipts will amount to $63.7 billion, leaving a deficit of $6.3 billion.

In the fiscal year 1953 expenditures will amount to an estimated $85-$90 billion while receipts will total $66.6 billion.

ANTI-BRITISH DEMONSTRATION IN CAIRO . . . This throng of Egyptians is taking part in one of the demonstrations touched off by the demand of Premier Nahas Pasha of Egypt that parliament abrogate the 1936 treaty with Great Britain and take over the Sudan. Parliament acceded to his demand. The crowd shouted for the ouster of British troops from the Suez canal zone and rioted briefly in front of the British embassy. Egypt refused a full partnership in an allied middle east command with Britain, France, Turkey, and the United States. Britain later isolated the Suez canal zone from the rest of Egypt and divided Egypt's army.

KOREAN POWS HOLD SERVICES . . . Chinese and North Communist prisoners of war voluntarily attend a camp religious service conducted by Chaplain Harold Voelkel, a former missionary in Kerea (right, with book), in Pusan, Korea. Many of the prisoners, including Christians who had been forced into the Communist armies, have even built their own churches. Christian services, conducted in Korean and Chinese tongues, consist chiefly of morning prayer meetings. Non-Christian POWS are encouraged to hold services in their own rites by the chaplains of the United Nations forces and some have done so.

Army Offers Aliens Citizenship Plus Career in New Plan

KANSAS CITY, Ma .- The old sergeant's admonition-"You've found a home in the Army"-literally may come true for 12,500 alien youths.

They may volunteer to serve five years in the Army and qualify for an enlistment "bonus" of United States citizenship under provisions of a new, history-making program. Training of 2,500 men in the first phase of the Alien Enlistment Program will begin this month.

Most of these prospective soldiers are Europeans — many of them "stateless" citizens of countries behind the Iron Curtain. Young men from other areas of the world may be enlisted during a later phase of the program if it is determined that their services would be desirable.

The foreign nationals are expected to furnish valuable, specialist talents which the Army needs but is unable to obtain in sufficient quantity from its nativeborn troops. As linguists and skilled craftsmen, they will be available for world-wide assignment after basic and advanced military training is completed.

The six - month - old program enabling these men-many of them with past military experience and a command of several languagesto enter the Army was established nearly a year ago by the 81st Congress. The law is the first in history to make non-resident, foreignborn nationals acceptable for the Army.

The Army plans to treat and train the foreign soldiers on an equal basis with other members of the service. Its aim is that "they will lose their identity as aliens as fast as possible."

While more than enough applications were received to fill the initial phase of AEP (2,500 quota) screening of the candidates for security and other qualifications with eliminate some of them. A strict background investigation is used to throw out applications of undesirable aliens, regardless of their nationality.

Volunteers for the career-citizenship enlistment plan can be accepted from any country other than Germany or nations participating either in the European Recovery Plan or North Atlantic Treaty, according to Department of Army policy.

Sailor Demoted in Rank After One-Man Grusade

Hopping, a yoeman third class, was restricted to quarters after he admitted passing out mimeegraphed handbills suggesting that other sailors write their congressman about conditions at the base.

There was talk of a court-martial, but Rear Admiral R. O. Davis, 5th Naval District Commander, suggested "appropriate disciplinary action short of judi-Yoeman Hopping is now Seaman Hopping.

Jessup and Ike

Those who watched the senate hearings on Ambassador Philip Jessup detected a smear-Eisenhower undertone in that proceeding also. For Jessup is a Columbia University professor who not only served on Eisenhower's faculty, but received a letter from Ike defending him against the McCarthy pro-Communist attack.

Seated across the table from Jessup during the senate hear-ings was a Republican who has vowed to stop Eisenhower and who has staked his entire political future on Taft-Owen Brewster of Maine.

It was Brewster who led the attack on Jessup inside the senate committee.

Stassen's Memory

Senators who listened to Harold E. Stassen stumble through the Jessup hearings say that Stassen apparently didn't count on the State department releasing the full, secret transcript of the round-table conference over far eastern policy. Stassen testified, for example, that Jessup brought up the question of recognizing Communist China on the third day of the conference, and that the State department came out in favor of recognition. The actual transcript, however, shows that the question of recognizing Communist China was brought up, not by Jessup but by the State department's Charles Butterworth, not on the third day but the first day. Furthermore, Butterworth set forth the State department's position clearly, which was against recognizing the Red regime.

Boyle Pariner

It was Maine's courageous Sen. Margaret Chase Smith who first asked the Hoey committee to investigate a key associate of Democratic ex-Chairman Bill Boyle.

In a senate speech she said: "I suggest that the subcommittee call Mr. Daniel J. Hanlon and ask him if he was in any way connected with the legal controversy with the government over the American President line." Hanlon was a former law partner of Boyle.

$18.4-$23.4 billion deficit.

Congress is not likely to increase taxes next year because it is a presidential election year, most observers believe. The only way to cut down this deficit would be to reduce defense spending and foreign aid. There may be some cut in foreign aid, but little, if any, in defense spending. The "pay-as-we-go" policy expounded by the administration seems extremely remote at this time.

Oblivious to the passage of U.N. and Communist investigators, two Korean women employ ancient flails to thresh grain on their farm near Kaeson so their families may eat. And while the harvest scene was taking place across war-torn Korea, Allied and Communist negotiators were scheduled to resume peace talks at the small village of Panemunjom. Whether the renewed talks would bring peace was another question. Many Allied officials believe that Moscow and Peiping have been shadow boxing and will continue to do so until they can make up their minds on just what to do-peace or all-out war. Meanwhile, fighting continues in Korea with a marked increase in air activity. One air battle involved nearly 250 Allied and Communist jets, history's great jet battle.

Marine Starts Family Tradition by Joining Up

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DI-VISION IN KOREA-When Sergeant David O. Menchen, 21, of Alameda, California, enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1947, he started a family chain reaction.

His three younger brothers have followed him. All but one are now in the First Marine Division in Korea.

The sergeant, a member of the First Tank Battalion, was followed by Corporal Lon A., 20, Private First Class William J., 18, and Private Edward P., 19. Cpl. Lon A. Menchen is serving with the First Engineer Battalion, while Pfc. William J. is a member of Weapons Company, Third Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment. Private Edward P. Menchen joined the Corps just recently and is at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, California.

I suppose Ed will be over here pretty soon," Pfc. William J. Men-chen said. "We all followed Dave into the Corps and I guess Ed will follow him over here like Lon and I did.

The four Marines' foster parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Barron, 985 Park Street, Alameda.

Attorney Denies Mussolini's Body Returned to Family

ROME, Italy-The body of Benito Mussolini has not been returned to his family, the attorney for his widow has declared, because "the living are afraid of the dead."

The attorney, Italo Formichella, a friend of Il Duce during the last two years of the Facist regime, denied that the body was to be re-turned for burial in the hometown cemetery at Predappio.

The whereabouts of the body is still unknown. After he was slain by partisans, Mussolini's body was buried in a Milan cemetery, but was later stolen and taken to Pavia. The government recovered it, however, and buried it in a secret place to prevent another theft.

FORD'S THEATRE Senator Young Wants Congress To Rehabilitate Ford's Theatre

WNU Washington Bureau

Senator Milton R. Young of North Dakota is again trying to get legislation through congress to rehabilitate historic Ford's Theatre in Washington, D. C., where Abraham Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth on April 14, 1865.

After an unsuccessful attempt in 1946, Senator Young recently introduced a joint resolution asking that the secretary of the interior be directed to prepare and submit an estimate of the cost of restoration. Estimates in the past have been as high as $500,000.

In his statement to congress, Senator Young said: "Each year, thousands upon thousands of visi-tors come to Washington, the most beautiful capital in the world, where they view with pride many magnificent monuments and edifices. Unfortunately, most everyone who visits Ford's Theatre is disappointed because of its present state. In sharp contrast to many well-preserved shrines, this one has degenerated to a point where a person must rely on his imagination almost completely to realize that it ever existed as a theatre.'

Senator Young added that "through the ensuing years, little has been done to preserve this historic place. The property was acquired by the government shortly after the assassination and was utilized for a number of purposes of no historic significance.

The building now houses a muse-

GEORGIE PRICE has come a long way since, as a child, he toured the country with a Gus Edwards unit that included Eddie Cantor and Walter Winchell. He became a stage star, a top radio comedian, then abandoned both for Wall Street; he still works there days, as senior partner of a brokerage firm. In his new radio show, "Big Time," on the CBS Radio Network, he returns to the 1900-1930 period, bringing back the songs which vaudeville made famous. Al-50, each week he will sing a novelty number made famous in the manner of the person who sang it.

um, consisting of 750 relics of the life of Lincoln, bought by the government from Osborn H. Oldroyd, a native of Ohio and a collector of Lincoln articles, for $50,000 in 1926. There are footprints painted on the floor tracing the path of Booth as he ran across the stage and escaped through a rear door to his horse. A miniature has been constructed of the theatre as it looked that night, and is displayed as part of the museum collection:

In spite of all these efforts, however, the entire effect is a constant disappointment to more than 100,-000 visitors annually who walk in and ask "Where's the theatre?"

After the assassination, guards were posted at the theatre and it was closed until the following June when it was restored to John T. Ford, the owner. Ford then tried to reopen the theatre, but met with such public disapproval that the War Department ordered it closed again. Ford threatened to sue, after which the government rented the building and then bought it for $100,000 in 1866.

The former theatre was then used for a government office building. Another tragedy occurred in 1893 when the three floors collapsed following excavation in the basement which weakened the structure. Twenty-two persons were killed and 68 injured. The building was restored the following year and was used for storage purposes. The present exhibit was opened to the public in 1932.

THE VISITOR is much more easiy transported back through the years by viewing the house where Lincoln died, just across the street from Ford's Theatre. Its appearance today is substantially the same as it was in 1865, Originally the home of William Petersen, Swed-ish tailor, it was built in 1849. Because the three-story house had more rooms than the family required, Petersen rented some of them. The room to which Lincoln was taken was then occupied by a young soldier. The Petersen house was later purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schade, who for many years were constantly asked by tourists for permission to view the room in which Lincoln died. Long before they sold the property, they had moved away and rented the house. The Government purchased the building from the Schade family in 1896.

The house where Lincoln died was refurnished in 1932 by several women's patriotic organizations following as nearly as possible a diagram made shortly as possible a diagram made shortly after Lincoln's death. Several pieces of furniture were oringially in the Lincoln home in Springfield, Ill. Both the exterior and the interior of the house have been so well restored that the appearance is very much the same as it was the night Lincoln was shot. The Petersen house was chosen as a place to carry the dying President because the doctor in at-something done about him. I tried to do it. I got Jeff up to my room nights. We went over and over the signals.

The next Saturday we played Herrick, and beat them easily. Or Jeff Chappell beat them. You son complete.

Two days before the game Charlie came up to my room. "If we win Saturday," he said, "we won't have to worry about being in solid." He looked thoughtful. I knew what he was thinking.

fall. Figuratively, of course.

"If you don't let the kid play we won't have a chance," I said.

"There's a bare hope of winning without him." Charlie scratched his chin. "If I put him in there's always a chance—" "The kid's got the signals down pat," I said quickly. "He's proved it. You know as well as I that without Jeff Chappell we're licked." Charlie wasn't sure. You could see he was scared stiff. He wanted see he was scared still. He wanted assurance, and I gave it to him. My confidence in the kid settled the thing in Charlie's mind. He agreed to play Chappell. Despite our record and the fact that we had Jeff Chappell the odds were on Hubbard. Hubbard had a clean record. Their victories had been won by big margins.

The first quarter and the second ended with no score. In the third, the Hubbard fullback snaked through our line and sprinted 30 yards for a touchdown. They failed to kick the point.

In the fourth the Hubbard left half came around right end on a trick play. Our whole backfield was fooled. All except Jeff Chappell. Uncannily Jeff, a lone figure, was there to stop him. That gave us the ball. We made three yards in three downs, and then, instead of booting, Cole, our quarter, gave Jeff Chappell the ball and Jeff made as pretty a run as you'd ever seen anywhere. Cole kicked the extra point. A minute later the whistle blew. After it was over I got Jeff up into my room. "Listen," I said "how about it? That trick play of Hubbard's was a corker. How come it didn't fool you, too?"

He grinned sheepishly. After awhile I got the story. Jeff never did get the signals straight, but he discovered a system all his own. He'd watch the toes of the opposing players. If the play was going left, the majority of toes would point that way. Instinctively. And the same applied to our boys. It never failed. Jeff said he'd heard something like that on the radio. I never told Charlie.

GRASSROOTS President Truman Will Be Hard To Beat in 1952

By Wright A. Patterson

JONATHAN DANIELS, the editor of the Raleigh, S. C. Chronicle, a friend of President Truman, a one time employee in the White House, says in the August Ameri-can Magazine that Harry S. Truman will be the Democratic nominee for President next year, and gives a number of reasons why he will be elected. No one of his reasons are as potent as the one that he fails to mention.

That is the assured Truman vote of the Democratic army of bureaucrats, now numbering 2,300,000, and their relatives and friends, who want to see them hold onto their federal govern-ment jobs. In the days of Tam-many control of New York city, the sachems claimed that each job was good for eight Tammany votes in any city election, and frequently demonstrated the correctness of that claim. But should each bureaucratic job be good for only half of that number, four votes, there, for the President, to start with, is more than eight million votes, and that is some handicap for any Republican nominee to overcome.

Especially so, when the party is only against what the opposition has done, but for nothing with which to appeal for votes, while the Democratic party stands for a definite, and well defined program. That program is one reason for the Daniels assurance of Truman success,

The Republicans can take full credit for that 8,000,000 vote handicap they must overcome if their candidate is to win. In the 80th congress, they had a ma-jority in both houses of congress, and might bave forced the disbanding of that bureaucratic army by not appropriating money to pay it, but they did not do so, and now they must face the consequences. That army will be larger, rather than less, when the 1952 election day arrives. For each new job there will be, at least, four more Truman votes. I would say that betting against the President is in no sense a sure win. A California state official, a Republican, said to me recently: "Unless Warren is the Republican nominee, the state will be in the Truman column."

It hardly seems probable, but Daniels could be right. Anyway let's wait until the votes are counted.

The people and state officials of California think it is quite proper for the federal government to spend billions in building dams, irrigating land and preventing floods in California, from which only the people of California benefit, but they seriously object to the same procedure in Arizona.

The central valley project of California, is as much a state project as is the central Arizona project. The one difference is the smaller cost in California. Neither project will benefit any one outside of the the firing of Douglas MacArthur.

states who will pay the bill for both, and the people of both states eventually will sacrifice much of their local sovereignty through ac-cepting and using the billions the federal government pours into such projects. For those states it means the death of constitutional state's state in which the money is spent.

But it is the tax-payers in all the rights. Congress should stop all such appropriations, other than those that can be self liquidating over a reasonable number of years. The Hoover dam in the Colorado river, while benefitting in one way or another five states and though built with government money, was not a gift.

The cost is being returned to the federal treasury, and within a reasonable number of years it will all be paid, plus interest. Others should be financed in the same way, including the central Arizona project, but the wealthy land owners are like all the other indigents who want their water supplied to them at no cost.

We pay a terrible price in dead and crippled for each weekend holiday. Too much hurry to get there. British born Secretary of State

It has a Way with Women

COMBTIMES we think that too little I attention is given to the fair sex in automobile advertising.

After all, it's the woman of the house who has to do most of the shopping, which involves getting into tight places at the curb. And it's surprising what tight spots a Buick can fit into at a turn of the wheel.

It's the woman who likes complete freedom from things that it takes an engineer to operate-and a complete and utter freedom from mechanical complications is exactly what makes Dynaflow Drive* such a joy.

It's the woman who has an eye for style and fine fabrics-and a nose for economy. On both counts, a Buick is tops.

But we suspect something else. We suspect that a woman gets just as great a lift as a man from commanding this great-powered and triggerquick bundle of vitality to bow to her will.

Here's a car to win any woman's heart-by its level-gaited stride-its willing response to her hand on the wheel - its smart style and its smart performance - its spaciousness and comfort - and its thrift.

How about taking time off, some afternoon, to boss around a Buick? It's a date that's bound to thrill you.

"Don't look so dubious, Gaynor," the nurse grinned. "You certainly are not very complimentary. And don't tell me you have designs on him yourself-at your age! And, by the way, I notice he always looks you up when he comes here. Is that it, Gay?"

Gay's denial was emphatic. 'Don't be ridiculous! I adore Doctor Borden but I'm most certainly not in love with him and I'm equally sure he's not with me: He's a prince — wonderful — everything you can imagine, but—""

"You're not having any, I think She paused at the look on Gay's face. "Gosh, darling! I was only joking. This has all been a case of dren of Israel got out of Egypt letting off steam. Forget it."

"Of course," Gay murmured, ashamed of her sudden anger. "And I assure you my blessing is yours if you definitely decide to take him on. More power to you, Matson."

Nurse Matson Implies She Loves Dr. Borden

The other nurse came swiftly around the table and took Gay's shoulders in firm hands. "You idiot!" she stormed. "If you so much as hint-so much as mention my name to him-I'll-I'll shake you until your teeth rattle. I mean it. I respect Doctor Borden far too much to have him mixed up in a cheap matrimonial scramble." Her face was flushed and her eyes gravely concerned. Gay felt a wave of sympathy. Matson really liked Doctor Borden-maybe she even loved him. She smiled into the face so near her own.

"I know, Mat" she said, straight-Hebrew in Exodus does not use the ening her cap which had been expression "Red Sea" in this story, and it may have been one of the knocked askew by the impetuous older nurse. The Bessemer hospital staff, influenced by Dr. Borden, accepts Gay Gaynor as a nurse traince, despite the objection of some snobbish members of the board

against admitting orphans with unknown family background to the hospital staff. Gay's ambition is to become a children's nurse and resident nurse of the Bethesda orphanage, her former "home." She is fond of Dr. Borden bui dislikes his son, Thad. Thad has resumed his friend-

"You and Thad go on," he continued more quietly. "I have things to discuss with Miss Gaynor. Don't wait for me. Do you understand?' The last was almost an order and Gay couldn't repress a smile. Perhaps it was the smile that did it, for an angry, "Well, I must say" reached her as Thad hurried the irate Mrs. D'Archer on down the long corridor. Doctor Borden looked

"But her mother ......"

"I doubt if even she can. After all, the Chief of Staff has the final word as to the suitability of the members of his staff. Doctor Cushing is a big man, my friend. It will ble. take more than the petty spite of a couple of silly women to make him dismiss one of his staff. He has been very kind to me-but then they all have. I'm not in the least afraid of the Pooles singly or en masse."

An hour later, Thad Borden stopped before the desk at which she was sitting and said quickly, "I'm sorry Vivian chose to be so disagreeable, Gay-Miss Gaynor. It isn't at all like her."

"No?" was Gay's only comment.

felt unaccountably ashamed. He admired this girl who had fought so valiantly for a chance to make something of herself. Fought against great odds-the clannishness of a small town-the snobbery and bigotry of a lot of the rich nobodies. The Pooles! And who were the Pooles to act so all-fired snooty?

"I'm sorry," he said again. Gay said nothing. She turned a page and stared unseeing at the printed words. "I said I'm sorry," he repeated. "Aren't you going to say anything."

"What is there to say? the girl asked, eyes on her book. "You're sorry-so what?"

An angry light flashed for a moment in the dark eyes fixed on her. 'What a rotten disposition you've got! I've always heard that redheads had hot, quick tempers, but I never knew one to bear a grudge forever. You do, don't you?"

The gray eyes lifted for a moment and she said icily, although her throat was thick with anger, 'My disposition is none of your business, Doctor Borden, and don't flatter yourself that I bear any grudge against either you or-or

Gay laughed, her anger forgotten. Mildred Matson had one of the sunniest, most unruffled natures in the world. The girls loved to listen while she raved, knowing well that her patient, no matter how trying and unappreciative, saw only the best side of her. She was a fine nurse and Gay liked to think that The young man gazed at the some day she would be her equal, bowed head with its snowy cap and Serene, happy in her work, competent and efficient to handle any and all cases. It pleased her to feel that the older nurse liked her and she tried to prove worthy of her friendship.

"I suppose you saw the ex-lovebirds?" Matson asked examining a broken fingernail. "Beautiful, isn't she, and what clothes!" She whistled softly and grinned at the girl before her. "Somehow I never could see her marrying a small-town medico, marriage-that appeared to have been made in-you know where? Why, I understood, or at least heard, that she and that artist husband of hers were riding high-on the crest of the wave of love. Is it offing, Gay? Maybe she's out to get our Thad after all-the poor lug!

If he marries that one he'll never "I don't know a thing about it, but it wouldn't surprise me in the least. After all, they were engaged, you know-once upon a time."

There was a knock on the door and Kitty, the maid, put her head inside. "You're wanted in the re-ception room, Miss Gaynor. A man!" she whispered.

"Mr. Boothe?" Gay asked, smoothing her hair.

"I didn't see him. Mrs. Anderson let him in. I was busy. Prob-ly is, though. It's usually him comes to see you. Quiet, ain't he?"

They went down the stairs together, Gay answering the girl's questions absently. She felt sure t was Larry, although he invariably phoned to see if she was free. The sound of laughter and excited voices reached her as she approached the reception room and she recalled it was the evening of the committee meeting to complete plans for the spring dance. She was surprised to see Larry Boothe the center of a group of nurses all talking at once while he tried to explain something to them. She paused just inside the door.

"Don't bother to explain, Larry," Betty Johnson told him, patting the arm nearest her. "You just go ahead and take charge. We'll give you a list of things we want and hand over the money. You do the Gay. But what's happened to her rest. A man can manage things so much easier than a girl can. Don't let them browbeat you. > Larry caught sight of Gay in the doorway and held up his hand in protest. "Help! I'm being shang-haied!" The others turned, laughing at his exaggerated distress.

"Make him do it, Gay," Johnson cried.

IT would not do us much good, indeed, it would only make us jealous or bitter, if we thought that God had a hand in the history of Israel, but took no interest in the history of other people. Many centuries after the Exodus, the prophet Amos said that God not only brought the Israelites out of Egypt, but he also brought the Philistines out of Crete (Caphtor) and the Syrians out of Kir.

Still later on in the Bible God's hand is said to be leading the great conqueror Cyrus of Persia (Isaiah 45:1-4), even though Cyrus knew nothing of it. God was there, but the eye of faith was not. God is always there; and sometimes the eye of faith is there to see him.

In the history of England two of the most famous events are the defeat of the Spanish Armada, and the retreat from Dunkirk. In each case the English people were to all appearances helpless, just as the Hebrews were helpless at the Red Sea; in both cases, as at the Exodus, "the weather came to their rescue. A great wind swept the Spanish navy to destruction; and a great cloud-cover kept the Nazi airforce pent in until the British army had escaped from Dunkirk.

The weather, say historians. God, say voices of faith. Are not both right?

* * * Side of the Free

I<sup>S</sup> God on the side of the little nation?

Not always. But taking history as a whole, Christian people have reason to believe as the people of the Bible did: that God hates oppression and violence, and his "hand is against" nations that live by such means. On this Armistice Sunday it is well to remember that. If our cause is just it is not because we never lost a war.

Our cause is just if and only if it is the cause of human freedom. We have no assurance that God will stand by us otherwise.
