Elks Lose to Mio and East Tawas

Tawas City Plays at Hale Tonight

The Tawas City Elks lost two more games this week, taking it on the chin last Friday night from East Tawas, 70 to 49 and Mio shellacked them Wednesday night to the tune of 61 to 33. The reserve team split in their two games, losing to East Tawas by a close 33 to 29 and winning over Mio 40 to 33. Tonight (Friday) Tawas City will play at Hale and Sterling will play here next Tuesday night.

Last Friday nights tilt with East Tawas found the east side having a romp over the Elks. The first half East Tawas scored 19 points in each quarter while the Elks settled with 11 in each stanza.

In the second half the Elks picked up 19 points in the third while the Indians had 18. The final quarter found Tawas City in the back seat with 8 points while East Tawas subs ran rampant with 14.

Dillon and Porter were the big guns for East Tawas with Dillon meshing 18 points and Porter 17. Tom Morley led Tawas City with 19 points, with Davis and Humphrey each adding 10.

In the Mio fracas the AuSable river lads threw mud in the local squads eyes in the first stanza when they amassed 24 points to Tawas City's 3 and settled the out-

Attend Convention At Lansing

Henry Klenow, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and Supervisors Edward Burgeson and Elmer Werth are attending a meeting of the Michigan Supervisor's Association Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Lansing.

County Clerk George A. Prescott is attending a meeting of the association of county clerks held at Lansing today (Friday).

Well Known Whittemore Resident Dies

Funeral Services for Roy W. Charters Held Tuesday

Roy W. Charters of Whittemore, well known Isosco county resident, died Saturday at Tolfree Hospital, West Branch. He had been ill for the past year, and at the hospital four weeks.

For many years Mr. Charters was with the Joe Danin Company at Whittemore, later he was with the State Highway Department. In recent years and until his death he had been an employee of the Burleigh Township Agricultural School. He was a member of Whittemore Lodge No. 471, F. & A. M., and the Whittemore Methodist Church. He was held in high esteem by his many friends throughout the county.

Roy W. Charters was born August 29, 1892, in Reno township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Charters. On June 17, 1914, he was married to Winnifred Mills.

Surviving are: The widow; four daughters, Mrs. Glade Schuster of Standish, Mrs. Donna Haddix of Saginaw, Mrs. Theda Kasichke of Tawas City and Mrs. Lois Fuerst of Whittemore; one son, Arden Charters of Whittemore; one sister, Mrs. William Leslie of Tawas City, and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Whittemore Methodist Church. Rev. Wesley Dafeo officiated. Interment was in the Saints Cemetery. Last rites were under the auspices of Whittemore Lodge, F. & A. M.

Out of town relatives from Ontario, Canada, Detroit, Flint, Reed City, Saginaw, Standish, West Branch, Tawas City and East Tawas were in attendance at the funeral.

Circulate Special Election Petition

Step Toward School Reorganization

Another step toward the proposed reorganization of the Tawas area school districts was taken this week when P.-T.A. workers started to circulate petitions in Tawas City and East Tawas for a special election. Petitions will also be circulated in other districts involved.

In charge of P.-T.A. workers circulating petitions in Tawas City: Mrs. Robert Connett, general chairman; Mrs. Carl Schaaf, Mrs. Arthur Allen and Mrs. Cecil Cabbie, area chairmen.

Mrs. Donald Evans is general chairman at East Tawas; Mrs. Herbert Hertzler, Mrs. Milton Barkman, Mrs. Charles Nash, ward chairmen.

Other districts in the Tawas area where petitions are being circulated are in Alabaster, Baldwin, Grant, Tawas and Wilber townships, Isosco county, and Whitney township, Arenac county.

Only registered voters in the township or city may sign the petition. The signature of more than 50 per cent of the registered voters are required to call a special election. After checking and certification of petitions the election date will be set.

Blood Bank Unit Here Today

The opportunity for Isosco county to send real life giving aid to our men in the battlefields is here. Mrs. Joseph Homberg, general chairman announces that the Red Cross Blood Bank Unit will be here at the East Tawas Community Building today (Friday).

Hours have been set at 10:00 to 7:00. To assure as little waiting as possible, you may register by phone with Mrs. Homberg or Mrs. John LeClair, co chairmen.

The publicity committee, Mrs. H. Hertzler and Mrs. Geo. Tuttle have placed informative literature in the area.

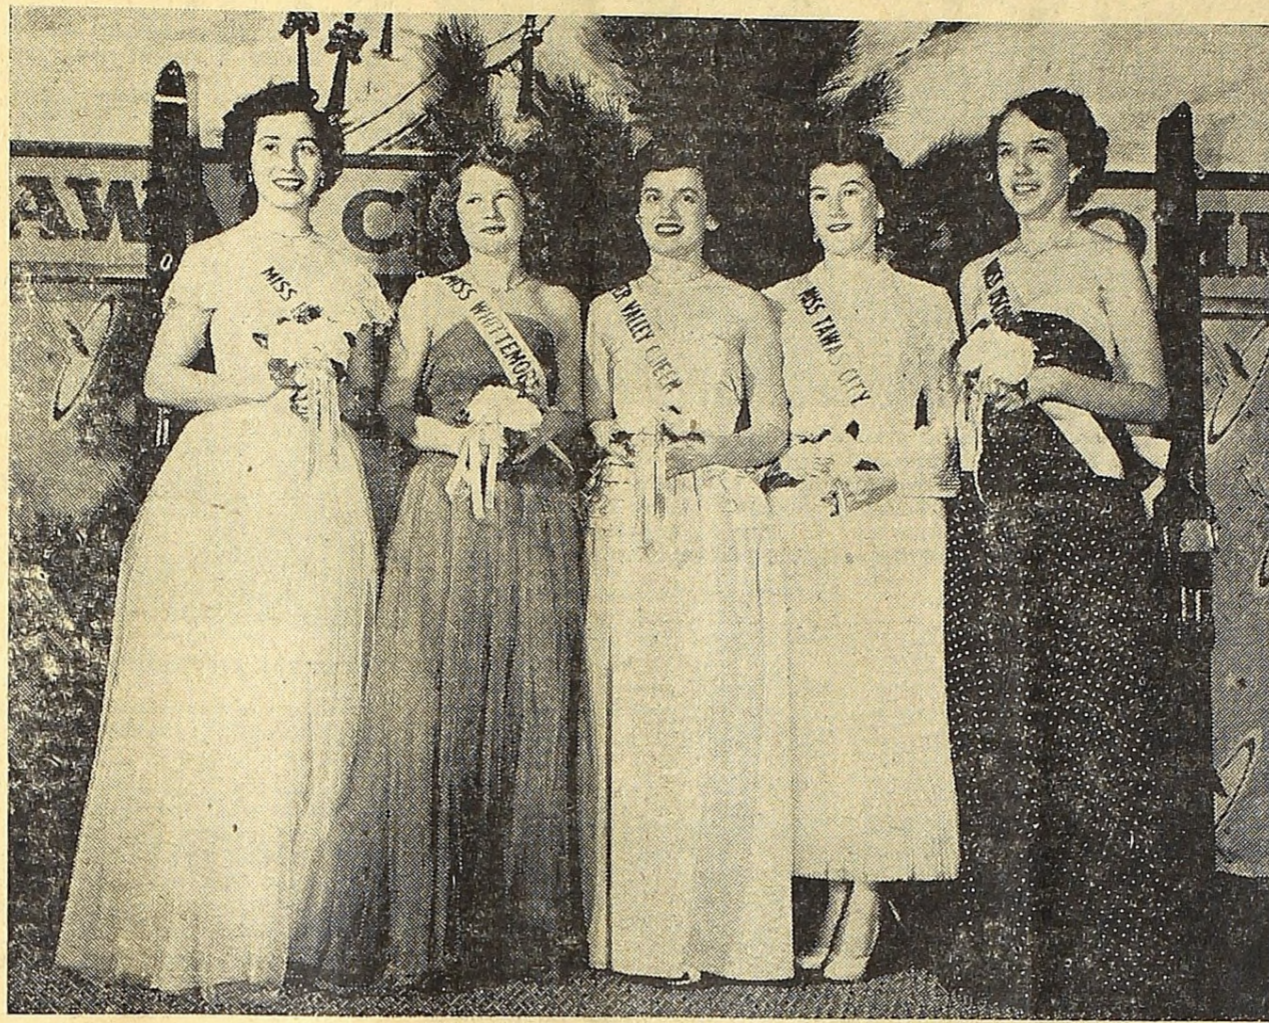

We trust that all will make this slight effort for those who are giving their all for us.

To insure clear plasma you must avoid all fats or fatty foods for four hours before reporting. This includes milk, cream, cheese, fat meats, ice cream, butter, peanut butter, fried foods, mayonnaise, salad oil, eggs, nuts, etc.

It is recommended that you have a light meal of fat-free foods made up of toast (no butter) with jelly, coffee or tea without cream, crackers, vegetables, and fruits or fruit juices.

Silver Valley Queen and Her Court

Detroit Area Boy Scout Expedition to Explore Silver Valley

Any fevered activity on the night of January 25 in and around Detroit's Northwest area which has as its source tents, sleeping bags, skis, or toboggans, may well be some Explorers in the community preparing to "shove off" for their annual winter outing at Michigan's famed Silver Valley.

Every year about this time young men ranging in age from 14 to 17 take their packs on their back, skis in hand, and head out for some real winter camping and sport up Tawas-Oscoda way. This year the group expects to be some 200 strong and will be accompanied by capable men in the capacity of advisors. The whole affair will be headed up by Jack Vincent, District Six Explorer Advisor, and his committee of Scouting leaders representing nearly 200 Scouting and Exploring units in the district.

This year's program will not only include the usual events of skiing, tobogganing, camping, and campfire programs; but in addition, ice fishing facilities will be made available through the local Chamber of Commerce for leaders who may be interested. According to the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, the area is "alerted for the invasion" and a welcome reception awaits the "Furriners" once the beach head has been established.

This group of 200 represents the more than 1,000 Explorers in District Six, a part of the Detroit Area Council, Boy Scouts of America which serves more than 50,000 boys and leaders in the Scouting program.

Announce Date of Ye Olde Time Fair

Midway Features and Concessions

The second annual Ye Olde Time Fair will be held February 4 to 9 at the Parker and Burgess Building at 301-302 Newman Street, East Tawas, according to an announcement made by the committee in charge Wednesday night.

"Merchandise at unheard of low prices and a lot of fun" are the inducements offered. Prizes will include TV sets, gun, and others. There will be substantial door prizes.

Merchandise of all types will be offered. A lunch counter will be on service daily. There will be a dinner and pancake supper. There will be the regular county fair attractions of candy, ice cream and pop concessions and an exciting midway of games and shows.

Henning, of Lomira, Wisc., and Otto and Walter Henning both of Sebewaing; 16 grandchildren; two great grandchildren; Two brothers, Fred and Albert Buch, both of Tawas City; a sister, Mrs. Ida Weckert, of Saginaw; and her mother, Mrs. Emil Buch, of Tawas City.

Edward F. Loud Passes Away At Oscoda

Funeral Services for Pioneer Lumberman Held Monday

Edward F. Loud, last surviving member of the lumbering firm, H. M. Loud & Sons Co. of Oscoda, died at his home early last Saturday morning. The 93-year-old pioneer lumberman had been in poor health for several years, and seriously ill for several days.

Edward Francis Loud was born September 15, 1858, at Lowell, Massachusetts. In the early 1860's his father, Henry M. Loud, obtained extensive holdings of pine timberland along the AuSable river and in Presque Isle county. In 1865 the family came to Oscoda. During the next 40 years the family was engaged in lumbering the great pine forests extending more than 40 miles along the

Beef Growers To Make 6-Stop Iosco Tour

W. L. Finley of Lansing Here to Attend Beef Management Tour

W. L. "Bill" Finley, extension specialist in Animal Husbandry will attend a six stop beef management tour, Friday, January 25, is announced by Harold R. Clark, County Agricultural Agent.

Beef production in Iosco County has become increasingly important in the past several years. The cow and calf program fits well into the grass program. To make the best use of grass and roughages, the beef farmer must follow certain management practices. Finley will discuss the success factors of beef production management at the various stops.

The schedule of the tour is as follows:

10:00 A. M.—Mielock Ranch, ½ mile east of Ogemaw County line on M-55. Jim has a large herd of registered Herefords and western feeder steers.

10:45 A. M.—Latter and Daugherty farm, junction M-55 and M-65. Stop will be at ½ mile north of junction. Their artificial pond has solved the winter watering problem.

11:45 A. M.—George Holzheuer Farm, 1 mile south of Hale. George has a herd of Hereford commercial cows. Here we will see the Prescott heifers which were purchased at the West Branch sale.

1:00 P. M.—Stork Ranch, 2 miles south of Hale. Here we will see a large cow herd of polled Herefords.

2:00 P. M.—Waldo Curry Farm, 5 ½ miles west of Tawas City on M-55. The Curry's small good herd of Polled Hereford cows supplement an outstanding herd of dairy cows.

3:30 P. M.—Brugger Farm, ½ mile south of M-55 on Wilber road (George Prescott Farm.) The Bruggers are wintering thirty feeder steers which were purchased at the West Branch sale.

The annual meeting of the Northeast Michigan Hereford Calf Association will be held that evening at 8:00 P. M. in the Federal Building, East Tawas. Members who have been on the tour will eat at the Holland Hotel at 6:00 o'clock.

Dr. E. C. Silverthorn will attend the Michigan Education Congress, February 2, 3 and 4, at Lansing. His office in the Case Building will be closed during that time, but will open Tuesday, February 5.

Queen Ruth

Ruth Nash of East Tawas was selected Silver Valley Queen Saturday evening at the dance held at the Tawas City School Gymnasium. She will be crowned by Van Patrick, WJR sports commentator, at Coronation Ceremonies which will be held Saturday evening, February 2, at the Community Building, East Tawas.

Other events during the winter carnival week end are: Coronation Ball, Silver Valley banquet at the Barnes Hotel, winter sports events at Silver Valley and ice fishing on Tawas Bay.

Delinquent Tax Money Distributed

Delinquent tax money amounting to $3,677.72 was distributed to the townships and cities of the county in the settlement with County Treasurer Grace Miller for the quarter ending December 31. The allocations were as follows:

Alabaster	$55.28
AuSable	143.01
Baldwin	79.11
Burleigh	453.69
Grant	50.09
Oscoda	361.87
Plainfield	289.17
Reno	2.33
Sherman	305.90
Tawas	107.95
Wilber	63.02
East Tawas	510.25
Tawas City	1,138.36

Crop Price Support Deadline Announced

Earl M. Partlo, chairman of the Isosco County PMA Committee announces that the final date for obtaining price support on 1951 crops of wheat, oats, barley, rye, dry edible beans, and hay and pasture grasses is January 31, 1952. Farmers may procure a loan or purchase agreement on the grains and seeds named to insure receiving price support for their commodities by calling at the PMA office in Tawas City on or before the dead line date.

Miss Ethel Schramm spent the week end in Grand Rapids.

Polio Fund Drive Money Coming In

Everyone Invited To Contribute

Nathan Barkman and E. D. Jacques, co-chairmen of the Isosco County Polio Fund, state that to date receipts from the 2500 cards mailed to Isosco residents amount to $296.41. This is from the return of 125 cards, which is less than six percent of the cards mailed.

They urge everyone to return cards with contributions as early as possible as the campaign should close by February 1. The Isosco county quota is $1,050.00, and each year we have always gone well over the mark set.

An official report from Oscoda states that $150.00 was collected Saturday and Sunday nights for the fund at the Lake Theatre.

At Tawas City Richard Carey announces that the entire proceeds of the bowling alleys at the Tawas Recreation Saturday evening will be given to the fund. The Moeller Billiard Parlor receipts Friday evening will also be turned over to the Polio fund. The billiard parlor will be closed Saturday evening while Harold Moeller is attending the bowling tournament at Bay City.

Contributions received so far in the campaign have been from all sections of the county. The amounts have ranged from 50 cents to $10.00.

$100,000 in Loans Aid Iosco Farmers

70 Per Cent of Loans Go to War Veterans

"We have about $100,000.00 in loans to Isosco county farmers," states Russell N. Johnson of West Branch, Farmers Home Administration Supervisors of U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Johnson commended the County Clerk George A. Prescott and the personnel of the departments at the court house for the co-operation given in facilitating these loans. This included lien searches, tax histories and the making of affidavits for the families seeking loans.

He stated that about 70 per cent of the loans had been made to veterans and were for farm housing and farm ownership.

Johnson said that the loans had not been made in competition with other lenders, but were given to help the man who could not get adequate private credit.

To Crown Cherry Pie Queen Saturday

The cherry pie queen will be crowned Saturday evening at the Tawas City gym. It is held under the auspices of the Isosco county 4-H council. Five girls will enter their pies in the bake off Saturday morning and one will win the title of Cherry Pie Queen. The finalists are Ila May Jordan of Tawas City; Marie Chippis of Whittemore; Jean Peters of Hale; Helen Kerr of Reno and Patricia Ewing of Oscoda.

The following program will be presented beginning at 8:00—Vocal numbers by Tawas City Girls Chorus, led by Bruce Orr.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON

A New Low

PRESIDENT Truman's relations with reporters at the White House are at an all-time low.

The boys in the White House press room, usually among his staunchest friends, resent the frequent cracks President has been making about the press generally. And they don't appreciate the bawling out they get when asking simple questions at the White House news conferences.

It didn't get into the papers, but Mr. Truman, who returned from Key West tired and crochety, almost took two more digs at the reporters recently. First, he wanted to lecture them for not emphasizing that the list of war prisoners put out by the Chinese Communists was unverified and thus probably inaccurate—something, incidentally, that all reporters already had stressed.

He also wanted to bawl them out for leaking the story that Judge Tom Murphy of New York had turned down the job of chief graft investigator. However, the President's press officers, led by able Jos Short, convinced Mr. Truman to forget about it.

Inside Hungary

Final decision to pay the ransom of the four U.S. fliers in Hungary was made only after significant back-stage debate which goes to the very root of American policy toward Russian satellites.

Inside fact is that the Defense department, not the State department, made the decision to put up the ransom money—for two reasons:

1. The four air force men were official representatives of the United States and specifically of the Defense department.

2. The joint chiefs of staff shied away from any threat of retaliation for fear Hungary might call our bluff.

This latter point gets down to the root problem of whether it is wise to provoke the Soviet. It has come up time after time in the past, and the joint chiefs of staff always shy away from any showdown. In general, so does the State department.

This was the issue involved in the question of bombing Manchurian territory beyond the Yalu river. It has also been involved in much milder matters in the cold war.

Propaganda Balloons

For instance, when this columnist last spring urged sending propaganda balloons behind the Iron Curtain, it was frowned on by military advisers and by some State department officials. They feared a violent reaction in Moscow.

But when the Crusade for Freedom was able to float balloons into Czechoslovakia and Poland, the freedom leaflets were mimeographed, tacked on telephone poles, mailed anonymously to Communist officials, and created such a furor that Communist newspapers, the Czech prime minister and Radio Moscow had to go into high gear to reply.

Public opinion became so riled inside Czechoslovakia that the Communists actually began looking for some way to free AP correspondent William Oatis in order to turn off the heat.

However, when similar balloon or propaganda projects have been urged for Hungary and other satellite countries, an official wall of discouragement has been erected by the pentagon and by some of the more timid souls in the State department.

The reason is partly illustrated by a story told by Gen. Bedell Smith, expert head of central intelligence, who recounts a conversation between Georges Dimitrov and Stalin.

"Are you afraid of war?" Stalin was asked.

"Yes," replied Stalin, "but not as afraid as the West."

Nevertheless, there are plenty of propaganda steps that can be taken with no danger of war. Furthermore, it remains a fact that the law of the jungle remains the law of the Kremlin. And when U.S. propaganda stirs the population of Czechoslovakia or Hungary to a boiling point, the Kremlin is much more likely to act with reason.

Military Playground

When senate investigators probed Army camps recently, they didn't seem to notice that, while Fort Belvoir, Va., has squandered thousands of dollars on fancy golf courses, it has let its living quarters run down shamefully.

The senate preparedness committee did rap Fort Belvoir for its "luxurious" recreational facilities. But it overlooked the condition of the crowded temporary barracks which have become fire hazards. Meanwhile Fort Belvoir is dangerously low on water for fire control.

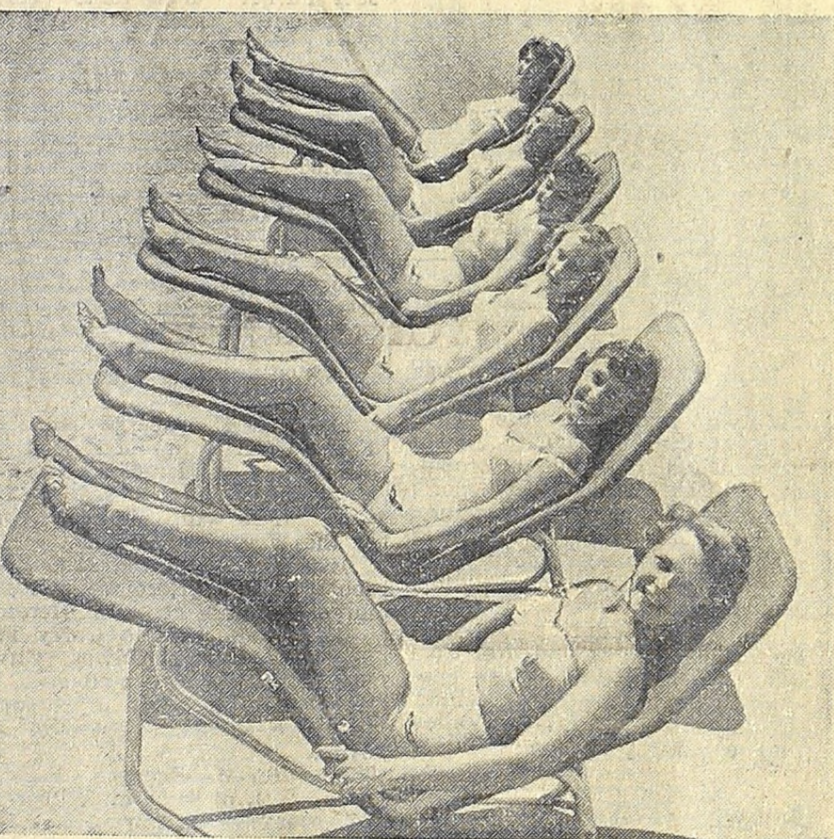

In other words, Fort Belvoir has neglected its basic needs in order to build a Potomac boat club, skeet range, two golf courses, 24 bowling alleys, two field houses, two baseball fields, 11 softball fields, seven swimming pools, 15 tennis courts and two riverside picnic areas.

OLD SAWTOOTH HURLS CHALLENGE . . . This hill ascends back from Grand Marais, Minn., and rises to an elevation of 1,700 feet. Known as Old Sawtooth, it presented a challenge to ski enthusiasts of Grand Marais. In 1948, a handful of civil-minded men, led by Howard Joynt, then president of the chamber of commerce, decided to accept the challenge. How well they met the challenge can be decided from the fact that on Feb. 16-17 Old Sawtooth will be host to the central United States downhill and slalom championships. The purpose mainly was to build a recreation area for the folks about town.

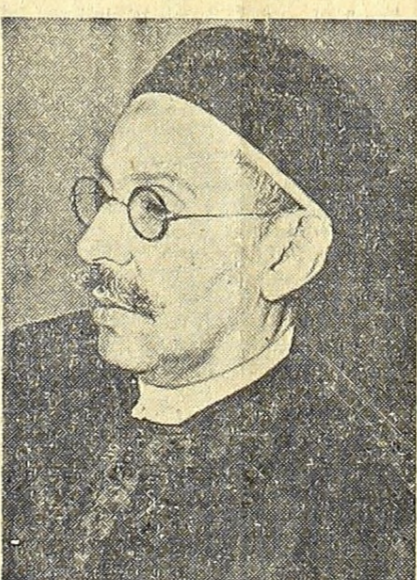

RELAXING BEAUTIES . . . Everyday comes siesta time down south in sun land, and just to show you how the warm sea breezes make the best overcoat, here are six relaxing beauties with nothing to do but show you how to soak in the soothing sunshine on the shores of Daytona Beach, Florida—they say down there. They are having a wonderful time—wish you were there? Such photos as these start an annual trek southward, the publicity boys contend.

TO RE-ORGANIZE REVENUE BUREAU . . . President Truman, shown conferring with Treasury Secretary John Snyder, recently ordered "sweeping re-organization of the scandal-riddled internal revenue bureau," wiping out the offices of all 64 internal revenue collectors. Mr. Truman directed the treasury secretary to proceed immediately with re-organization of the bureau, where widespread graft and bribery scandals have been bared.

CAP IN RING . . . Booster Jane Tomlin smiles from beneath a coonskin cap as she exhibits a portrait of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee at the Kefauver-for-President club in Washington. His name is in a major primary.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Eisenhower's Political Statement Causes Stir in Republican Circles

POLITICS—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower has made a statement that many political observers say clarifies his political intentions. It has also caused a great stir in Republican circles. The general said, in effect, that he would not make any pre-convention fight for the GOP presidential nomination. He added, however, that he has always been a Republican and that he would probably accept a clear cut call to political leadership which is the duty of every American.

Eisenhower's statement was made after he was put on something of a spot during a recent news conference by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, during which the senator announced he was placing the general's name on the New Hampshire Republican ballot.

Before Lodge's news conference, Eisenhower had repeatedly refused to make any comment on his political aspirations. By continued silence, he would have let it be known, in a negative manner, that he was willing to take the Republican nomination. While his statement was not as clear as some would have liked, it was noted that the general did not request his name held off the New Hampshire ballot. Eisenhower has assumed a unique, if somewhat confusing, position in American politics in the eyes of the average home town voter.

Almost as startling as Senator Lodge's maneuvering and Eisenhower's statement, was the announcement by The New York Times, one of America's oldest and most influential newspapers, that it would support the general "enthusiastically" if he becomes a candidate for President. The newspaper has supported GOP presidential candidates only twice in the past 20 years.

Said The Times in a lead editorial: "We have given our support on those occasions to the Democratic candidate essentially because we were reluctant to trust the Republican party on issues of foreign policy and because we believe these issues to be the decisive issues of the campaign, towering high above all domestic issues—for the clear and sufficient reason that without a sound and courageous foreign policy the safety, the prosperity, even the very independence of this nation would be endangered."

"In General Eisenhower we have a man who shares this conviction. We are confident that he would be able to lead even the laggards among his fellow Republicans away from isolation and toward world responsibility."

KOREA—The Korean peace talks settled down to a series of name calling, bitterness, and increasing suspicion. Although some progress has been made toward peace during the long months of talking, it is becoming more evident that a final and lasting peace can not be secured in such an atmosphere.

The Russians, meanwhile, indicated they wanted a greater voice in the talks to settle a war they don't even recognize, by asking for a meeting of the United Nations security council to consider the armistice negotiations. The proposal was rejected at once by the United States, Great Britain and France. American officials said such a session—where Russia has a veto—would worsen the prospect of peace in Korea by bringing political issues into the negotiations.

ECONOMY—Charles E. Wilson, director of defense mobilization, has predicted a severe pinch in civilian goods for the first three months of this year. The prediction was made in Wilson's annual report of rearmament under the national emergency program.

He predicted: (1) Materials for consumer goods in general in the first three months of 1952 are sharply reduced from the levels of the first quarter of 1951. On the basis of present calculations the second quarter allotments will be even tighter; (2) Requirements of the military and atomic-energy programs for most materials will either continue at the same levels throughout 1952 or rise slightly; (3) After military and atomic energy needs are met in such strategic materials as steel, aluminum, and copper, the material remaining will be divided between industrial expansion, consumer goods, public services, limited export requirements, and stockpiling.

As for the past year, Wilson termed it one of great progress, but said more could have been accomplished.

CHURCHILL—Winston Churchill, who will go down in history as one of the great men of our times, arrived in the United States for a series of huddles with President Truman and top military brass. Mr. Churchill's agenda was almost as magnificent as his personal appearance. It included everything from economic aid to plans for joint defense of the west.

The key to the talks was quickly revealed when President Truman met the 77-year-old Prime Minister at a Washington airport. Said the President: "I can't tell you when I have had more pleasure than I have this morning in welcoming you as a visitor to the United States of America." Replied Mr. Churchill, with the force and clarity of the Roosevelt days: "We have only to go along together, each doing loyally his best to understand the other's point of view . . . and we shall find ourselves safe at the end of the road."

There followed a series of meetings between the President and Mr. Churchill, and Mr. Churchill and top military brass. The complete results of these talks may not be known for years, but it is evident they have resulted in closer cooperation between the two countries. Churchill, no doubt, has received assurances of economical help so badly needed by Great Britain. Whether or not Britain will join in the European defense army with greater enthusiasm than previously indicated has not been announced. Most observers believed that was one of the Prime Minister's bargaining points.

SCANDALS—The second session of the 82nd congress had been in session just a few hours when it became evident the nation is in for more months of spectacular investigation.

In the senate and house there were committees and subcommittees in every corner screaming for more investigations of corruption in high places, income tax frauds, murder, and underworld activities. It was evident, too, that there would be more investigations of Communists in government and defense industries.

Meanwhile, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath continues his new offensive against organized crime in the nation. McGrath's drive started after Treasury department agents swooped down on suspected narcotic offenders and arrested more than 500 persons.

It was evident the two drives were a part of the administration's announced plan to clean up crime and graft. But in the eyes of most home towners, the administration's campaign is a little like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

FARM ELECTION STRATEGY

Democrats May Stand Pat on Farm Policy

According to reports circulating around Washington, the administration is unlikely to change its farm policy in the face of the approaching presidential campaign. The strategy, observers are reporting, will be to concentrate on the claim that a Republican victory in 1952 would endanger existing benefits of the farm program, and sidetracking any controversial issues that might arise. Democratic advisors point out that the plan worked well in 1944 and 1948. In 1949 the administration pushed the Brannan plan which would have made much greater use of federal subsidies to maintain agricultural prosperity. National farm organizations put up stiff resistance to the plan and it failed to get approval of the congress.

OPERATION UNITY

Europe Is Weary of Eternal War But Wary of Forming Alliances

By Farnham F. Dudgeon

(Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles prepared by the Editor of Western Newspaper Union while on a reporting trip through Europe and the Near East.)

Weary and wary. That's a two-word diagnosis of Patient Europe's condition as the war fever mounts, recedes, and climbs again.

These countries are weary of war. They are wary of alliances that might lead to another war.

Like Americans, these people would like to be left alone to "plow the fields". But unlike Americans, all they need do is look out across their fields, to see the massed forces of the Russian military machine aligned along the Iron Curtain.

In face of such a disheartening picture how has it been possible for the free world to effect any unity whatsoever in its political and military organizations? What force binds century-old nationalistic enemies together?

"Old time religion" is a pretty good answer.

He Is the Key

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, key figure in both the political organization that is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its military arm, SHAPE, has been tramping up and down Europe for nine months now with the zeal and much of same spiritual vigor of some of our legendary American evangelists.

In fact, he told us in his European headquarters that he had, indeed, been tagged as "another Billy Sunday". He is willing, he added, to accept the designation because it is his firm conviction that the only way in which the free countries can survive is by creating a unity which is based on a spiritual appeal direct to the hearts of men.

To emphasize this point, General Eisenhower said:

"Military might is the product and not the sum of spiritual strength, economic health and military power. If any factor is reduced to zero, the product of the three becomes zero."

Spark of Hope

Eisenhower's "right-hand", Chief of Staff Gen. Albert M. Gruenther, echoed this same philosophy in his briefings. Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of Allied Air Forces Central Europe, told us at his Fontainebleau headquarters, that in the year he had been in Europe he had seen a kindling of "the spark of reviving hope". He believes that the reviving hope is coming from the inspiration Europeans are getting from the feeling of collective security created by the cooperative military and political efforts of the United States. Everywhere in the SHAPE command you find this spirit.

But, of course it takes more than inspiration to mass the forces of the free world. What is the nature of the organization we have in Europe today, and how does it function?

Treaty Is Foundation

Foundation stone of this structure is the North Atlantic Treaty, ratified by the United States Senate in July 1949. In this treaty, the signatory nations agree that an armed attack against one or more of them shall be considered an attack against all. And they pledge themselves to a continuance of self-help and mutual aid for the purpose of developing their individual and joint capacity to resist aggression.

This treaty sets up NATO, which stands for North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Member nations are Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, United Kingdom, and United States.

The announced object of the North Atlantic community of nations is to preserve peace through strength—by building up the powers of the free world to a point where no aggressor will be bold enough to strike.

To build up such a power, NATO, of course, had to develop a military force, and at the Brussels conference in December 1950, the members agreed on plans for building this force. The result is the greatest cooperative effort in history to create a joint army in peacetime for the prevention of war.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was designated supreme commander for the integrated army, and other top positions were filled by officers of the different member nations, who work together as a team.

Headquarters are located near Paris, France, and the command is designated by the initials SHAPE: Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe.

NATO Countries Cooperate

It was at this headquarters that we heard from General Eisenhower and his chief of staff, General Al Gruenther, just what their problems were with regard to the building up of this force, and a summary of some of the solutions which they were using to meet the complicated situations.

All of the countries belonging to NATO are expected to do everything possible to build their own defenses. America's contribution is made through the Mutual Defense Assistance Program—MDAP, which bolsters economical potential and actual military strength with funds, equipment and technical assistance.

These funds and this assistance are not confined to our NATO partners. Other free nations such as Yugoslavia, Turkey, Greece, and Italy share in MDAP programs.

The combined efforts are aimed at building for SHAPE, in the shortest possible time, forces of sufficient strength to deter aggression.

Our strategy then is to attempt to deter aggression with a show of military power. Russia seems to understand that kind of talk. But the big question remaining is whether or not we can build our forces fast enough to create the desired stalemate. A discussion of the problems connected with reaching this objective follows in a subsequent article in this series.

Pilot Lunches at Farm After Near-Miss Crash

SALEM, Ore.—An Air Force pilot, Lt. Clarence Burke, bailed out of his flaming F-51 and then accepted the calm invitation to lunch in a farm home that was almost destroyed by his crashing aircraft.

He parachuted to safety from 3,000 feet and then ran to the spot where the plane crashed. The only damage was done by a wing tip that punched a hole in the roof. The plane exploded in the yard. Mrs. James Jackson calmly invited the lieutenant to lunch—and he accepted.

THE FICTION CORNER

FELIX AND MARY

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

FELIX felt somewhat like the man who said there was no use running after a street car once you'd caught it. Mary Snell, after two years of courtship on Felix's part, had finally given in and said she would marry him. When Mary Snell said "Yes" or "No," she meant "Yes" or "No."

Felix knew it, too. He knew the battle was won. Mary had said "Yes," and that settled it. Nothing could change her mind.

Mary wanted to set a date for the wedding, but Felix suggested waiting a while. The fact is, he wanted a chance to catch his breath. He wanted, as the story books put it, to have one last fling before becoming a Benedict.

So Felix, without saying a word to any one, packed a bag and set off for Cedar Springs. The first Mary knew about it was a letter which she received from the Springs signed by Felix.

In part, the letter said: "I am combining a short business trip with some deep-set fishing. Please do not worry about me, darling, as I will be home shortly, and we will make plans for the wedding."

Felix did not mention that on the deep-sea fishing trip he had met a party of young folks, including a very attractive red-headed girl named Nan.

In fact, Felix had such a nice time during the next few days that he decided to prolong his visit. Which he did, writing Mary Snell to this effect. Mary replied that she was glad he was having such a good time and getting rested. She, of course, was busy making plans for the wedding. She went on to give the town gossip, including the fact that Paul Strachey was spending a few days in town.

Felix did not mention that he had met an attractive red-headed named Nan.

Who, wrote Felix in his next letter, was Paul Strachey?

He could tell by Mary's reply that she was surprised that he didn't know Paul Strachey.

Felix wrote he still didn't know who Paul Strachey was, but wasn't Paul surprised to know that Mary was engaged? He, Felix, incidentally, was spending another week at the Springs, on account, of course, of business.

Mary wrote that she hoped his business wouldn't keep him away too long. The taxpayers had voted to build a new school house, and Paul Strachey was still in town.

Felix replied that he had thought Paul Strachey was only staying a few days, and the weather was not very good at the Springs and he thought he would come home pretty soon.

Mary wrote that she hoped he would come home soon, and Paul Strachey was still in town because he had decided to extend his visit.

THE next day Felix returned to Dalevale.

By the time his train pulled in he had stopped thinking about Nan and was pondering on Strachey.

"Oh, Felix!" Mary Snell exclaimed when he phoned. "I'm so glad you've come. I had an appointment with Paul, but I'll cancel it, of course."

Felix immediately rushed over to Mary Snell's house and asked her how plans for the wedding were coming along. Mary hedged.

"Well," she said, "when did you want to get married, Felix?"

Black suspicion leaped into Felix's mind. He controlled himself with an effort. "I was thinking," he remarked casually, "that we might surprise everybody by doing what they don't expect. I mean, let's pop off tonight and get married."

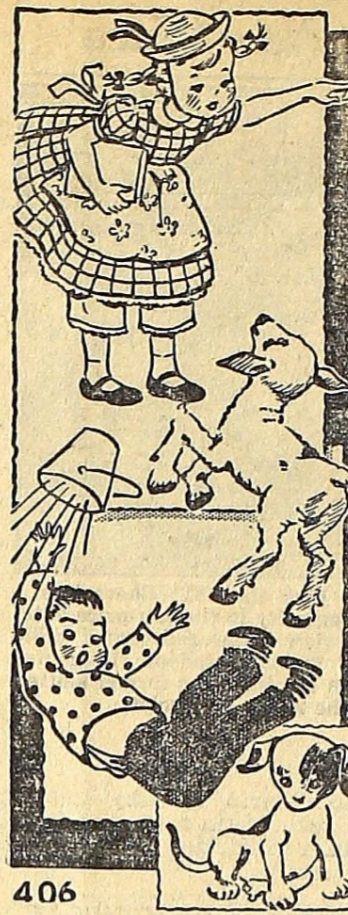

"Tonight!" gasped Mary Snell. "You mean, you don't want to?" said Felix.

Mary considered. Her face brightened. "All right!" she said. "Let's!"

"Now," said Felix, after the ceremony and they were well on their way to the seashore for a honeymoon, "will you kindly explain about this guy Paul Strachey. Ha! If I hadn't come home I'll bet you would have eloped with him."

Mary giggled. "Oh, Felix, darling, that was a little joke of mine. There really never was a Paul Strachey. I merely wanted to make sure that folks in town weren't disillusioned about me. I mean, when Mary Snell says 'Yes,' she means 'Yes.' See?"

GRASSROOTS

Local Government Is as Extravagant as National

By Wright A. Patterson

I WONDER if in your town, wherever it may be, you are experiencing as I am in my town, an ever-increasing tax burden, that is hard to account for. It is an increased burden that comes either in the form of an increased tax rate, an increased valuation on real estate, or a new form of taxes.

I recall the time, not so long ago, when the town gathered up the garbage from the town homes at no cost to the home owners. Then the city officials found they were overlooking a bet. Some other town was charging a special tax for such a service, and a tax of 50 cents a month for each home was added for that service to meet a need for increased revenue. The need has passed, but the tax is still being collected.

The town needed a new well from which to pump the town's water. It needed the money with which to drill such a well. A supposedly temporary water tax was levied for the purpose. The well was long since paid for, but that tax has not been repealed. A town sales tax was added to the state's sales tax, and it is still being collected, though the purpose for which it was levied has passed.

Some years, I feel the county and town assessors, in order to produce the demanded increase, in revenue simply take a selected list and guess as how much increase each will stand without too much of a howl. This year I am sure I was a victim on both lists. With no reason, I was nickered for a material increase on both the county and town tax bills. Because of that, I am howling, but I realize it is voting, not howling that offers the real solution, and at the next county and town elections I, for one, will do the needed voting and register my protest about those tax increases.

We do a lot of complaining about the increased taxes of the federal government, but we do little or nothing about these close-to-home spenders. They are proportionately as bad as Washington. Can we not find those who will find ways to save, as well as ways to spend, or do we try to find them? The tax burden, national, state, county and town has gone far beyond the limit.

If the police would give tickets to the speeding drivers, the fines assessed would help to pay the cost of my home-town government as well as stop the speeding. If the fines collected could go to pay police salaries it might make a difference.

In my town and my county the total of new homes have added heavily to the total of tax valuation, but not enough to satisfy the spenders in both town and county governments.

A few weeks ago I was attending a noon-day luncheon of one of the town's service clubs. The speaker of the day was talking about "Youth Service." He illustrated with a brief story in which a mother of an adolescent son was lecturing him on the need for curbing his activities during his adolescent years. The boy replied by expressing a wish. "Mother," he said, "the one thing I wish for more than anything else, is to get through the adolescent years, and into the years of adulthood."

Just at that moment there broke into the room a bevy of high school students, boys and girls of the senior class of the community high school. The girls, all too scantily clad, danced through the room, leaving the imprint of lip stick on the tops of several bald heads, and arrayed themselves on the stage, where they gave that man and boy audience an exhibition of tap dancing and high kicking, much to the edification of both men and boys.

It was an answer to that adolescent boy's wish. We are prone to bewail the delinquency of youth, and then we encourage some of it by such undraped display of the community's daughters as was given at that service club luncheon.

What is there in our high school curriculum that calls for such display? Certainly it is not the teaching of culture or feminine modesty. Whatever it is, it would be well to discontinue the study, and so discontinue the encouragement of at least one form of youth delinquency. Let us get back to grandmother's days and ways.

It would seem that old people never die, they just drift into and stay on the relief rolls. In 1934 they numbered 235,000. In 1951 the number had grown to 2,700,000.

LAWRENCE O. LABSON
ORION, ILLINOIS

THERE'S only one sure way to tell the difference between tractor tires, and that is to put them to work. On any job, you can soon see that the Firestone Champion Open Center outpulls all other open center tires.

From the tractor seat you'll soon see why it outpulls all other tires. It's the only open center tire with Power-Arc traction bars, tapered and curved to take a full-traction bite deep into the ground. And it's the only tire that is designed to cup the soil for a stronger grip and give positive cleaning as well.

Of course if you are one of the million or more farmers who prefer a traction-center type of tire, be sure to get the only traction-center tire ever built... the Firestone Champion Traction Center.

Supervisors' Proceedings

The Board of Supervisors for the County of Isosco, met at the Court House, in the city of Tawas City, on January 7, 1952, A. D., pursuant to call. The chairman called the Board to order at 9:30 A. M., and ordered roll call. The following Supervisors were present: Anderson, Monroe, Burgeson, Bellville, Little, Stickney, Webb, Black, Staebler, Long, Rodman, Klenow, Werth, King, Brabant, Everett and Dickey.

Mr. Werth read the following Resolution of the special Court-house Building Committee: Honorable Board of Supervisors Gentlemen:

Your new court house committee feels it is advisable to have a few ads run in local newspapers in the county prior to a special election in April to inform the voters that to extend the time on present millage and bond issue will not increase the present tax rate.

This committee recommends that appropriation be made to not exceed $150.00 for advertising for this purpose.

Respectfully submitted, Elmer Werth, Clarence S. Everett, Ed Burgeson, Harold Black.

Upon motion by Werth, supported by Brabant, the Resolution was accepted and adopted upon the following roll call: Yeas: Monroe, Burgeson, Bellville, Little, Stickney, Webb, Black, Long, Rodman, Klenow, Werth, King, Brabant, Everett and Dickey.

Mr. Werth addressed the Board asking all supervisors to publicize fairly and impartially in their respective territories the coming special election, regarding the new courthouse.

Committees were ordered to their respective duties, balance of the Board to be at ease subject to the call of the Chair.

The Board was called to order at 12:00 P.M. by the Chairman. It was moved by Burgeson, supported by Black, that the Board adjourn until 1:30 P.M.

The Board was called to order at 1:30 P. M. by the Chairman who ordered roll call. The same Supervisors were present as at the morning session.

There were no communications. Mr. King addressed the Board, giving a brief resume of the work of the building, Grounds and Purchasing Committee.

The Committees were ordered to their respective duties, the balance of the Board to be at ease subject to the call of the Chair.

The Board was called to order at 3:30 P.M. by the Chairman. Mr. Barnett addressed the Board presenting the Bonding proposition, the mileage increase proposition, and the election notice, as is should appear on the ballots and notices for the Special Election to be held April 7th, 1952, in the townships and the general election held April 7th, 1952, in the cities of East Tawas, Tawas City and Whittemore.

The Resolution was accepted and adopted upon the following roll call: Yeas: Monroe, Burgeson, Bellville, Little, Stickney, Webb, Black, Long, Rodman, Klenow, Werth, King, Brabant, Everett and Dickey. Nays: None.

Following the Resolution of the new Court House committee.

RESOLUTION To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, Isosco County, Mich.: Whereas in conformity with the resolution passed by this Honorable Board in the October session, 1951, authorizing the courthouse proposition to be submitted to a vote of the people on the 7th day of April, 1952, at the general election in the city of Tawas City and city of East Tawas, and the city of Whittemore, and also authorizing a special election to be held at each of the townships of the county;

And whereas this Honorable Board authorized the Prosecuting Attorney to prepare the ballots and notices in proper form;

Now therefore this committee submits the following form for ballots and notices for the approval of this board:

City, the city of East Tawas, and the city of Whittemore, and at a special election to be held at each of the townships of Isosco County, the proposition as to whether or not the County of Isosco shall vote the necessary millage and borrow the necessary funds for the construction of a new Courthouse building shall be submitted to the electors.

(Signed) Elmer Werth, Harold Black, C. S. Everett, E. G. Burgeson.

Mr. Werth read the following Resolution of the special Court-house Building Committee: Honorable Board of Supervisors Gentlemen:

Your new court house committee feels it is advisable to have a few ads run in local newspapers in the county prior to a special election in April to inform the voters that to extend the time on present millage and bond issue will not increase the present tax rate.

This committee recommends that appropriation be made to not exceed $150.00 for advertising for this purpose.

Respectfully submitted, Elmer Werth, Clarence S. Everett, Ed Burgeson, Harold Black.

Board was called to order at 3:15 P.M. by the Chairman. Mr. Dickey read the following Resolution of the Judiciary Committee:

RESOLUTION WHEREAS, by amendment to Act 117 of the State of Michigan of 1935, the legislature provided that each and every county in this state shall constitute a county school district under the supervision and control of a county board of education chosen by the Directors, Secretaries or Presidents of the various local School Districts within the county, and a County Superintendent of Schools employed by said County Board of Education;

AND WHEREAS, the operation of the County Board of Education in this county appears to have resulted in a great deal of confusion and mistrust by the local Boards of Education and the inhabitants of this county and because of this situation there is a definite lack of co-operation between the local boards and the county board, and a failure of improvement in our County School system;

AND WHEREAS, the operation of the County Board of Education in this county appears to have resulted in an extra and unnecessary link in the school governing body chain, without definite duties or powers to act, except to hold meetings at county expense; which we deem a definite waste of county funds;

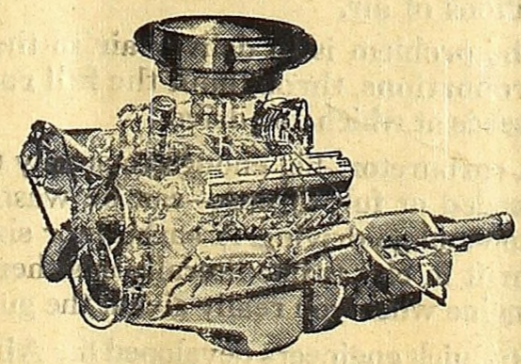

AND WHEREAS, we consider the forced establishment of a County Board of Education another step in a planned centralized control over our educational system to deprive citizens of local home rule of their schools and an opportunity to elect administrators of their own choosing;

...WITH THE FINEST PERFORMANCE OF ALL TIME!

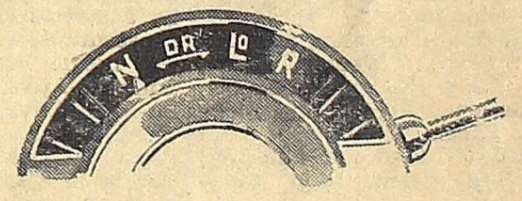

Featuring 3 of Cadillac's Greatest Engineering Achievements!

THE NEW 190 H. P. CADILLAC ENGINE

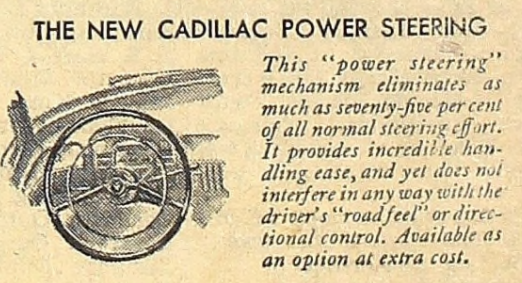

Here is the most powerful, the most durable, and the most efficient automotive engine ever offered in a Cadillac car. Its power increase alone is almost 20%—and its new four-throated carburetor, larger exhaust valves, wider exhaust ports and new dual exhaust system make this engine one of the most dynamic performers of all time.

Fifty years ago, the first Cadillac car made its bow to the public. Today, as a fitting climax to those fifty years of progress, we are presenting in our showrooms the Golden Anniversary Cadillac—by far the finest car ever to bear this distinguished name. . . . It is easily the most beautiful of all Cadillacs. Numerous changes have sharpened and smartened the exterior design—while the wholly-new interiors are a revelation in comfort and luxury. . . . Performance is the finest of all time. The great Cadillac engine has a power increase of almost twenty per cent—and is even smoother and quieter in its operation. . . . There's a new Hydra-Matic Drive that gives the proper power application for every need. At a flick of the finger, you can have extra power and acceleration for city traffic and mountain driving—or wonderfully smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance for the open road. . . . And there's a new "power steering" mechanism, optional at extra cost, which reduces normal steering effort by as much as seventy-five per cent! . . . If ever it could be said of a car's performance that it is "out of this world," it can be said of the performance of the new Cadillac. The Golden Anniversary Cadillac is available in three series—the "Sixty-Two," the "Sixty Special" and the "Seventy-Five." . . . These new creations are now on display in our showrooms—and we invite you to see and inspect them at your earliest convenience.

THE NEW HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE

By introducing an entirely new performance range, Cadillac's Hydra-Matic provides the proper power for every need. . . . extra acceleration and responsiveness for city and mountain driving; smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance for the open road. Optional at extra cost on Series 75. Standard equipment on all other models.

THE NEW CADILLAC POWER STEERING

This "power steering" mechanism eliminates as much as seventy-five per cent of all normal steering effort. It provides incredible handling ease, and yet does not interfere in any way with the driver's "road feel" or directional control. Available as an option at extra cost.

LEGISLATION
Whereas, The sports of pleasure boating, fishing, and hunting are primary tourist attractions in the State of Michigan; and
Whereas, The tourist industry is the second largest industry in the state, grossing millions of dollars annually; and
Whereas, Millions of the residents of the State of Michigan, its inland lakes, streams, rivers and the territorial waters of the Great Lakes, is increasing rapidly; and
Whereas, This great growth in the number of boats used for pleasure boating, fishing and hunting brings with it a great danger caused by mishandling, ignorance and lack of safety devices; and
Whereas, The Legislature of this State has recognized this great danger which annually costs the lives of too many people, and has created a Joint Interim Study Committee and Marine Safety, composed of three members of the House and two of the Senate; and
Whereas, This Joint Interim Study Committee has held numerous public hearings on the matter and is now engaged in drafting a proposed Marine Safety Code to regulate the use of watercraft;

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That this Common Council hereby endorse the efforts of the Joint Interim Study Committee and petitions the Legislature of the State of Michigan to adopt a Marine Safety Code in the interests of preserving the health and welfare of the people of this State; and
Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House and Senator Prescott and Rep. Graves; respectfully requesting that they adopt similar endorsements of this proposed legislation for the benefit of the entire State.

Respectfully submitted,

Judge Smith addressed the board asking that they endorse the pending bill, which concerns salaries of Probate Judges in Michigan. The request was referred to the Officers Salary Committee.
Mr. Stickney addressed the Board in regard to computation of tax rates by the Finance and Apportionment Committee.

It was moved by Stickney, supported by Anderson, that it be made a special order of business for the April Session, for this board to determine whether individual supervisors, or a committee of the Board, shall set taxation rates. Upon motion supported and prevailing, the proposal passed unanimously, upon the following roll call: Anderson, Monroe, Burgeson, Bellville, Little, Stickney, Webb, Black, Staebler, Long, Rodman, Klenow, Werth, King, Brabant, Everett and Dickey.

Mr. Werth addressed the Board asking about a Dog Wardens helper. It was decided to leave the certification of bills relative to a Dog Warden's helper, to the Sheriff.

"Out of thin air" comes the HIGHEST HORSEPOWER in Buick history

NOTE FROM YOUR BUICK DEALER:
Presented here is the story of a great new engine development, as told by the men who did the job. We reprint the story here in its entirety — as we couldn't beat it if we tried.

No, we didn't have to build a new engine. We took Buick's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which makes the most of high compression. We drew on 12 patient years of Buick carburetion research.

And we came up with more might, more miles, from gas—right out of thin air, in more ways than one.

When you talk about "miles per gallon" you think of fuel, because that's what you buy. But air's free—and for every gallon of gasoline, a busy engine can gulp more than 8,000 gallons of air.

The problem is to deliver air in the right proportions, throughout the full range of speeds at which you drive.

A carburetor—big enough to supply the air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving. A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers developed the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loading along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this

Lake's Level Varies With Area's Weather

Utah's Great Salt Lake, the "Dead Sea" of the American continent, has had more downs than ups in recent years. During 1951, however, its water level has been rising.

Fluctuating with the region's rainfall, the lake reached a high for modern times in 1877 and a low in 1940. Today it still has a dozen feet to rise before it attains its high of 74 years ago.

Periods of steady decline in the lake's level have stirred apprehension over its future. A geologist in the 1880's predicted its early disappearance, and government engineers have expressed the conviction that the high water of 1877 will never again be reached.

The salty remnant of what geologists call ancient Lake Bonneville now covers an area slightly larger than the state of Delaware. For centuries it has served as an evaporation pan for the waters of the Jordan, Bear and Weber Rivers that flow into it. It has no outlet. The result is an ever-increasing burden of salt deposited as the water evaporates. The lake now is four to seven times as salty as the ocean, the proportion varying with the changes in level.

DESERT DESTINY A SERIAL STORY OF THE MODERN-DAY WEST WRITTEN BY JOSEPH CHADWICK

THE STORY SO FAR: Tracy Hayden lives at the Garrison Hacienda, because her grandfather was loyal to the cattle baron, Jeff. She is the favorite of Senora Maria, Jeff's widow. Grandchildren Ruth and Juan and son Ramon hate Tracy. The Senora sends Tracy to locate another grandson she has never seen. Phil, Tracy surprises Jim Conroy ransacking Phil's room. The real Phil flees. Tracy, assuming Jim to be Phil, takes him to the Hacienda. Ruth plays up to him, Helene, Ramon's wife, suspects him. News that a Mexican has gone berserk finds Ramon too weak to take action, and Conroy accepts the challenge. After he leaves, Helene tells Tracy that he is not Phil.

CHAPTER VI

Jim said, "We'll see." He was glad Pete had come instead of Ramon Garrison. Old Pete would be a help in a pinch, Ramon none at all.

Both men peered into the darkness of the village for the troublemaker, Jose. They saw no one. The quiet was oppressive, not peaceful. Jim had an annoying sense of being watched from the darkness as they walked across a little square, coming finally to a hut where Pete knocked firmly.

Inside the hut, a woman's voice called out in Spanish, pouring forth more agitated words as Pete said, "Open up, Luisa. We've come for Jose."

"She says he's not at home, and that she won't open the door until Jose behaves himself. She's scared of him, too," Pete translated.

Jim Placates Jose And Passes Test

Turning away from Jose's house, they walked slowly along the deserted village street. An occasional shutter opened for dark eyes to peer out. They had walked half around the village when a voice came from the shadows.

"You look for me, Senors—no?" Jose's English wasn't bad at all, but his voice was thick with drink. He lurched a little on his feet, coming forward, and there was a wide way to his bulky shoulders. He had a long-barreled Colt in his right hand. He kept coming toward Jim Conroy, and Jim kept moving to meet him.

"You come to look me up, eh?" the Mexican demanded. Jim said, "No, not that, Jose." He didn't quite know how to handle the man. The gun Jose held filled him with a heavy sense of dread.

"We just came to talk, Jose," he said, "You know this is all wrong, knifing a man, and scaring everybody in the village. A man like you—"

"What you mean, a man like me?" Jim's nerves eased up. He had judged his man right. Jose was big, rather handsome, and he was vain.

"I mean, Jose, that you're the biggest man in the village—and it doesn't go good for you to frighten your people."

"Si, Senor," muttered Jose. "I am the biggest man here."

"So you don't need a knife or a gun—no?" Jim took another step forward. here was moonlight, and he was now close enough to see the Mexican's eyes. He was surprised to find intelligence, or a native shrewdness in them. He was more surprised to discover that Jose showed only superficial signs of having drunk heavily.

"Ah, Senor, you are smart!" And the Mexican laughed boisterously. He lifted the gun, thumbed back the hammer of the old single-action weapon. Behind him, Pete Saba muttered, "Watch it, pardner—he means business."

Jim had watched Jose's eyes rather than the gun, seeing in them a sudden cold glint, and he knew the moment had come. He dropped low, flung himself forward like a football player, and the gun roared over his head. He struck Jose's knees at the instant of the gun's explosion, and he felt the Mexican's legs give way. Jim shoved again, harder, with his shoulder and upset the man. He came up, flung himself bodily on the falling man, hitting him twice in the body and then once on the chin. Pete Saba came and grabbed the gun away. Jose went abruptly limp, mouthing words of Spanish that Jim took to be pleas for mercy.

Jim asked, in a winded voice, "What's he saying, Pete?" For the old cowman was staring at the Mexican in an astonished way.

"I don't savvy this," Pete told him. "You notice he's sober enough? He says he wouldn't have killed you—maybe wounded you in the leg, nothing more. The way he talks, it sounds as though this whole thing was a build-up to give him a chance to get you!"

Jim thought of Helene Garrison. She had baited him, challenged him to come to the village and tackle Jose. Had she been a part of a plot? Jim swung on Jose.

"Talk so I can savvy," he ordered. "Who told you I'd come here—and that you should shoot me?"

"I cannot talk, when I know nothing," Jose muttered, his dark eyes veiling over. "I drank too much tonight, but I am sober now. If I tried to shoot you, Senor, I am sorry. I beg you to forgive me."

Jim wondered if Jose could be made to talk. But while he was glibbed by indecision, a car came racing into the village. Tracy Hayden was at the wheel, and Pete Donohue was with her. The two jumped out as soon as the car stopped, and came hurrying forward. Jim glimpsed Tracy's face; it was pale and her eyes avoided him. The writer, Pete Donohue, looked eagerly from Jim to Jose.

Tracy said, "Is it all right?" Her voice was curiously flat. She still didn't look at Jim. "You had no trouble?"

"It's all right, Miss Tracy," Pete Saba told her. "There was a bit of trouble but he—nodding at Jim—'handled it. We're wondering what's to be done with Jose."

Jose came abjectly forward, sombrero in hand. "Senorita, I am very sorry. I was loco with drink, but I am all right now. I will go home, if you will permit, and I behave."

Jim shoved again, harder, with his shoulder and upset the man.

Jim watched Tracy. Her eyes were narrow, thoughtful, and when she nodded to Jose it was as though she were not thinking of him at all.

Tracy had been unstrung since Helene Garrison had told her the fantastic truth—that Phil Garrison was not Phil Garrison at all.

She only knew that she must talk to this man alone. Sending Pete Donohue to ride back with the foreman, Pete Saba, Tracy beckoned the man who called himself Phil Garrison to ride in her car.

Conroy Confesses He's Not Garrison

Turning her face away, Tracy started the motor and drove into the night as soon as he got in beside her. Then she could find no words.

"What's on your mind, Tracy?" His voice made her start. She said, "I want to ask you a question—and I want a truthful answer." Tracy braked the car and stopped just beyond the Hacienda. Then, "Tell me, are you Phil Garrison?"

"Ah, Ramon's wife told you, did she?" "Ramon's wife said you are not the man she met two years ago, the man introduced to her as Phil Garrison."

"Remember, Tracy, I told you I had never met her?" "Yes," Tracy said. "But you let me believe that you were a Garrison." She struck the steering wheel with a clenched fist, "Why?"

He was silent a long moment. He lighted a cigarette and, glancing at him, she saw that his hands shook a little.

Then he said, "I'm not Phil Garrison. I was in his room—unlawfully, and with a gun in my hand—when you walked in. Remember?"

"I'm not likely to forget," said Tracy. "The simplest thing seemed to be to pose as the man you came to see," he went on. "So you would not scream 'Police,' I was in that room hunting Phil Garrison. I had some business with him, business that could only be done over the leveled barrel of a gun. You spoiled things for me, in a way. I fooled you, yes. After I'd gotten rid of you I intended not to see you again. I went out to get something to eat, and in the meantime Phil Garrison packed his stuff, and beat it. I had to find him—somehow. You seemed like the best bet."

"You figured that if you came to the ranch with me you would be led finally to Phil Garrison." Tracy's tone was bitter.

"No, that was not my idea. I left word where I knew it would reach Phil. I wanted him to know that you were there in town—that your presence had meaning for him. I thought, knowing the man, that he would try to get in touch with you. Finally I decided to call it quits. Then you received word that the Senora Maria was ill. You told me how happy it would make her if she could see her grandson. I wanted to repay you for the mean trick I had played on you."

"As though you could fool us for long!" "That Helene had met the real Phil was unfortunate."

"This will probably break the Senora's heart," Tracy said. A silence built up between them before the man spoke: "Believe me, Tracy, the Senora would have been more heartbroken had the real Phil Garrison come here. She would have looked on him and her eyes would have seen through him. She saw me as the sort of grandson she wanted to see. Let things stand that way, if you can keep Ramon's wife silent. In the morning I'll leave here. You need never see me again."

She said, "And your promise to stay here a month? A promise to the Senora is a promise to be kept."

"I will explain that something very important calls me away."

"A lie!" Bitterly, he replied, "This whole thing was a lie. And I'm to blame. I'm sorry, Tracy—honestly sorry. I meant to do you a favor. Don't think too hard of me when I'm gone, my dear."

Tracy swallowed, trying to rid her throat of a choking lump. "What is your name? I can no longer think of you as a Garrison."

"My name is Jim Conroy."

Jose's Rampage Planned, Jim Says

Tracy said, "No, you shan't leave in the morning. You're going to stay. You're going to keep your promise!"

"And the Garrisons?" he said, "Ramon and Helene—and Ruth and Juan? How long will they permit me to stay now that Helene knows the truth?"

"Helene has not yet told the others. And perhaps she will not tell them." Tracy seemed to think aloud. "After all, she is not a Garrison. She cares nothing at all about Garrison Ranch, but she does like the Senora Maria more than the others do."

She faced Jim Conroy grimly for so pretty a girl. "You will stay," she told him. "And it will be best if you make no attempt to leave. I shall have some of the vaqueros watch, and they will be armed! You are going to continue your masquerade, Mr. Conroy!"

When Tracy returned from the village with Jim Conroy, she saw that Helene had shaken the guilt she had felt over sending him to settle the trouble.

Helene's husband was pacing the room. Anxiously he asked: "Is everything all right? Were you able to handle that Mexican, Phil?"

Tracy said quickly, "Jose won't make any more trouble tonight. Phil—" It took an effort to call Jim Conroy that before Helene's mocking eyes—"Phil disarmed him. It's quite all right."

No one spoke for a moment; the silence was static. Juan Garrison, boyishly sober for once, fidgeted. Ruth Garrison had a sultry look in her blue-black eyes, fixed on Jim Conroy. It was Jim who ended the silence with:

"It's not 'quite all right.' Jose wasn't as drunk or as berserk as was thought. He was sober-minded enough not to like a beating—and to talk a little."

Jim's glance jumped from face to face; from Ruth to Juan, from Juan to Ramon, and finally to Ramon's wife. Only Helene met his look with steadiness.

"Jose said something that gave me the idea that his phony rampage was a trap, that he was to make an attempt on my life when I walked into that trap."

Ramon blurted, "Nonsense, Phil! That would be fantastic!"

There was a chill glint in Jim Conroy's eyes. Tracy caught the unmistakable threat in his voice:

"It wasn't so fantastic that it didn't almost work. Nor so fantastic that I'm going to forget it."

He turned and walked from the room, leaving a stunned silence. Tracy looked at the others. It seemed incredible that any one of them would have plotted such a thing. Yet they had not wanted Phil Garrison at the Ranch; they had fought against the Senora Maria's wish to bring him there. They were selfish people, Ramon and Juan and Ruth, and they had feared that Phil Garrison—and of course they believed still that this man was Phil—would replace them in the Senora's affections. Their need for Senora Maria's affection was a mercenary one; the mistress of Garrison Ranch held the family purse strings.

Ruth Garrison said, "Stop looking at us like that, Tracy!" Her voice had a ragged edge. "We're not would-be murderers! Phil is mistaken. Jose couldn't have said anything like that!"

Tracy nodded in uncertain agreement. "Yes, he must be mistaken." And she turned to follow the man masquerading as Phil Garrison. She knew that he must be permitted to leave the Ranch, promise or no promise.

Small Yellow Grub May Teach Value Of Mystery Vitamin

AUSTIN, Tex. — A little yellow grub less than an inch long may help science learn the value of carnitine, a substance in the flesh of animals and men which has been a complete mystery since it was chemically identified a half-century ago.

The clue which may solve the mystery was revealed when an entomologist and three biochemists from the University of Illinois reported that vitamin B-T and carnitine are identical.

Vitamin B-T gets its name from the mealworm whose technical name is "Tenebrio." The vitamin is essential to life for this grub, or beetle larva, but no other living things—insects, animals, or plants—suffer when it is left out of their diets.

With the discovery that vitamin B-T and carnitine are the same thing, science now has a test specimen for study of carnitine.

Prof. G. S. Frankel, physiologist and entomologist, discover in 1947 of vitamin B-T, said that the new finding "cannot but have important repercussions in biological and medical research."

"It appears probable that a compound of such high activity functions in an enzyme system of vital importance. A compound of such regular occurrence must be present to some purpose. It must have a vital function."

Housewives know mealworms as the little yellow or brown larvae sometimes found in flour or cereals. They know carnitine, also, since it composes about 2 per cent of meat extract.

Apparently animals and men manufacture carnitine within themselves. The great amount of it found in muscle may make knowledge about it of considerable value, particularly to non-healthy individuals in whom the natural process of producing this material may be affected.

This discovery is the world's second showing a vitamin as a previously known substance. The first example was in 1937 when a growth factor for animals was shown to be nicotinic acid.

Self-Lighting Cigarette Seen In Near Future

FRIBOURG, Switzerland—The old ice-breaker, "Say, buddy, got a match?" may be a thing of the past. A Swiss chemical manufacturer has announced invention of a self-lighting cigarette.

It works this way: One end of the cigarette is saturated with a secret chemical which sets tobacco afire when rubbed against the side of the package. It makes no flame and there is no need to puff while lighting up.

Ernest Heimo, the inventor, says it works on both cigars and cigarettes and several firms are bidding for formula rights.

Worrying Parents Urged To Have More Children

CHICAGO—Here is a "sure cure" for worry-ridden parents of an only child: "Have at least two more children, preferably girls."

It was suggested by a survey of letters received by The Parents' Consultation Service from parents in 36 states and the Territory of Hawaii.

Of the parents who queried the Service during a 12-month period, only about five per cent stated that they had three or more children. Twenty-nine per cent reported having two children, while more than 49 per cent indicated that they had one child. The remainder of those writing for advice failed to specify the number of children in their family.

About 54 per cent of the children involved were identified by the writers as boys, in comparison to the 37 per cent who were identified as girls. The sex of the remaining nine per cent was not given by the correspondents.

In connection with the survey, Dr. Martin L. Reymert, Ph.D., Consultant for the Service and Director of The Mooseheart Laboratory for Child Research at Mooseheart, Illinois, points out:

"The fact that parents of only children, particularly mothers, probably have more time in which to write to the Service, should also be considered in evaluating the emotional attitudes of these parents."

False Fire Alarm by Man Seeking 'Nice, Warm' Spot

SCRANTON, Pa. — Firemen hastened to answer an alarm in downtown Scranton, they found Edward Humphrey, 40, leaning unsteadily against the box.

Deputy Fire Chief Martin Lahey demanded: "Why did you ring the alarm?" Lahey said that Humphrey replied that he "wanted to get into a nice, warm place."

Lahey suggested that Humphrey should have gone into the taproom on a nearby corner.

"I'll have you understand," Humphrey then answered, "that I never enter such places."

Humphrey was later charged with intoxication and ringing a false fire alarm.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons BY DR. KENNETH FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: John 3:1-21, 7:45-52; 19:38-42. DEVOTIONAL READING: Matthew 10:32-39.

Born Again Lesson for January 27, 1952

IN many places one often hears the expression, "born-again Christians." As a matter of fact, there are no other kinds. If a person is not born again he is not a Christian.

The first birth is of the natural self, the awakening, so to speak, to this natural world. The second birth is of the supernatural self, the awakening to the spiritual world, the beginning of "living unto God." Sometimes this new birth comes very early in life. Dr. Warfield, a very conservative theologian, used to think that the second birth might in some cases actually come before the natural birth. (See Jeremiah 1:5).

A man may become very distinguished, may be a great scholar, and still not have been born again. Nicodemus is a case in point. He was a man who had everything, as the saying is; he was a judge in the Jewish High Court, a man both wealthy and respectable. But he had not been born again.

God Is the Life-Giver THE English translation of John 3:7 has given many persons the idea that being born again is a duty. Now a duty is something that you ought to do, and that by your own choice you can do if you will. It's up to you. But (taking the teaching of the Bible as a whole) being born again is not a duty. It is the act of God.

What Jesus was saying (as the Greek of John 3 indicates) is that it is necessary, it is indispensable, to be born again. There can be no development, no growth, in the spiritual life unless there is somewhere the beginning of that life. You must have been born once in order to see the sunshine. You must be born again in order to see God.

The seed which we sow in field or garden must have the germ of life in it or it will never grow. But no farmer can give life to lifeless seed. God alone is the life-giver, in the first birth or in the second.

Turn; Follow SOME people get this far in their thinking and then they become discouraged. "If only God can give life," they think, "what is the use of my trying to obey him? If God takes that first step then all I can do is to wait for him. No matter how much I want to be a Christian in my heart, I may not be able to for God may not see fit to make it possible for me to do what I want to do." This is a mistaken thought.

John Calvin, as is well known, was a very strong believer in predestination. As pastor of a large church, he had numbers of people in his congregation who heard him talking about predestination, the doctrine that we are in God's hands and that spiritual life can come only as he himself begins it in our souls.

They would ask just about this same question: I want to be a Christian, but how do I know that God has chosen me? I want to be a Christian, but how can I know whether I have been born again? Calvin's answer was a simple one: If you really want to be a Christian in your heart, that is a sign, the very best sign, that you have been born again.

Turn; Follow IN the Bible, the commands are "Turn"; "Follow"; "Believe"; "Obey." If we have not been born again these commands fail on deaf ears. If they stir our conscience, if they make us respond, then that is a sign we have been born again.

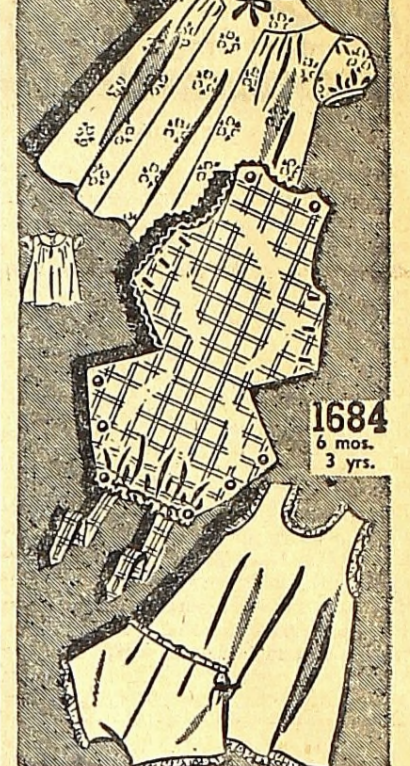

Then can't we tell when we are born again? Certainly we can tell; just by being alive. "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren," said the same apostle who recorded Jesus' conversation with Nicodemus.

We wish very much we knew whether Nicodemus himself was ever born again, but students of the Bible have never agreed on this. And the reason for the uncertainty is that Nicodemus never did come right out.

We know Matthew was born again because he turned his back on his former life and followed Jesus. We know that Nicodemus said some kind things about Jesus. We know that after Jesus was dead, Nicodemus came through with a handsome contribution for the funeral. Was that only late, or was it too late?

Campaign Headquarters

AS THE second session of the 82 congress moved into action in this year of a presidential campaign, and even as the state of the union messages of President Truman still left a question as to his political intentions, presidential campaign headquarters were opening up all over town here in the nation's capital.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, of course, has been encamped in the Standard Oil building on Constitution avenue for some time; General Eisenhower backers, headed by Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Duff of Pennsylvania, have opened extensive headquarters in the swank Shoreham hotel; in the less pretentious Willard hotel, Harold Stassen has opened up his headquarters, and just recently, backers of Sen. Estes Kefauver established headquarters for him, also in the Willard. While Senator Kefauver has made no official announcement as to his plans to run on the Democratic ticket, his friends say he is "willing", and might even accept a second spot on the Democratic ticket.

Only announced candidate not yet opening headquarters here is Gov. Earl Warren of California. However, he is planning to have an eastern headquarters, either here or in New York, his friends say.

Stassen Announcement

Announcement by Stassen that he would make a campaign for the GOP presidential nomination set off a chain reaction in the Eisenhower camp, culminating in filing of General Eisenhower's name in the New Hampshire primary March 11 by Gov. Sherman Adams. The governor also announced that he would head an Eisenhower delegation to the GOP national convention in Chicago from his state. Several politicians and newsmen obtained a definite impression from Stassen's announcement that his candidacy was based on something he learned from General Eisenhower in Paris on a recent visit there, although Stassen refused to say what he talked about.

Of the fifty or more newsmen and women in the room when Mr. Stassen made his announcement, the most enthusiastic was Mr. Stassen himself. Generally his announcement was received with a rather amused tolerance. Friends of General Eisenhower now say that if the general does not deny he is a candidate or ask his friends to withdraw his name from the New Hampshire primary prior to March 11, then he is definitely in the race on the GOP ticket.

Eisenhower Question

There are still those, however, who maintain that Eisenhower will not enter into a fight for the nomination and because of his important job in Europe it would take a full-fledged draft to force him into the presidential campaign. With three active candidates now after the GOP delegate strength there is little possibility of a full-fledged "draft" from the GOP convention. It is possible, but improbable, that the draft might come from the Democratic convention, provided the GOP convention turns him down and his name is placed in nomination by President Truman himself.

Political Mistake

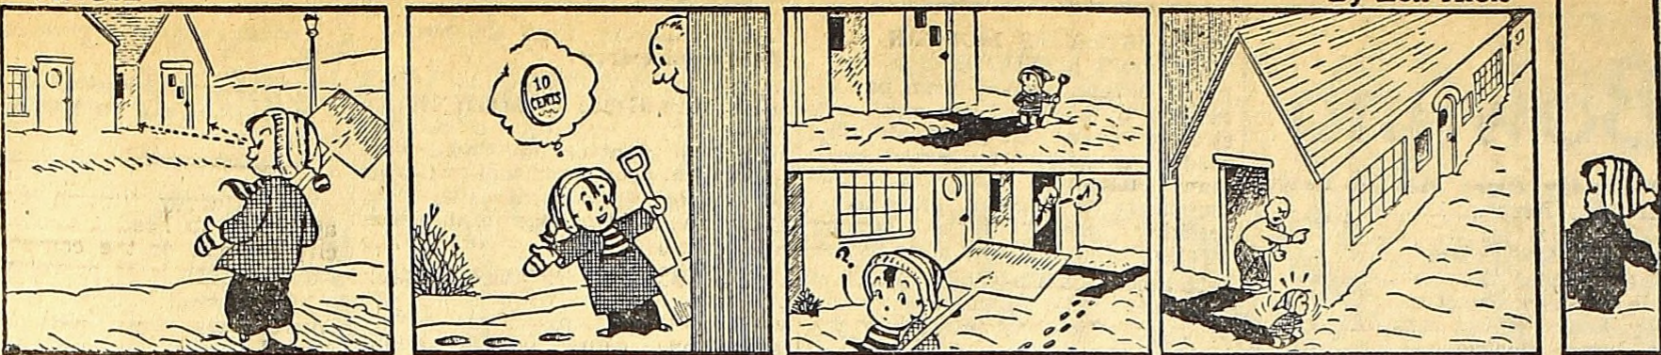

Stassen, who came out of Minnesota four years ago with high hopes and ideals as the leader of a younger, rejuvenated and more liberal Republican party, stubbed his toe somewhere along the line, winding up in the camp of the Joe Grundy organization in Pennsylvania and campaigning against the only liberal coming out of the Keystone state in many years—Sen. James Duff. Now, Stassen says he will back "voluntary" profit sharing as a bait for the labor vote, and would fire 200,000 loafers on the federal payroll. The loafers, he said, have been determined out of his own survey to be one in 10.

Stassen, like some other politicians, visualizes the great army of federal employees, some 2,500,000 strong, as all living in Washington and all "non-voting." Fact is only 10 per cent of the so-called bureaucrats live in Washington. There are just about as many in California, for instance, as in the District of Columbia. So it is a political mistake to brand about 2,300,000 folks on the federal payroll as in the loafer class, for these people are voters.

Health Survey

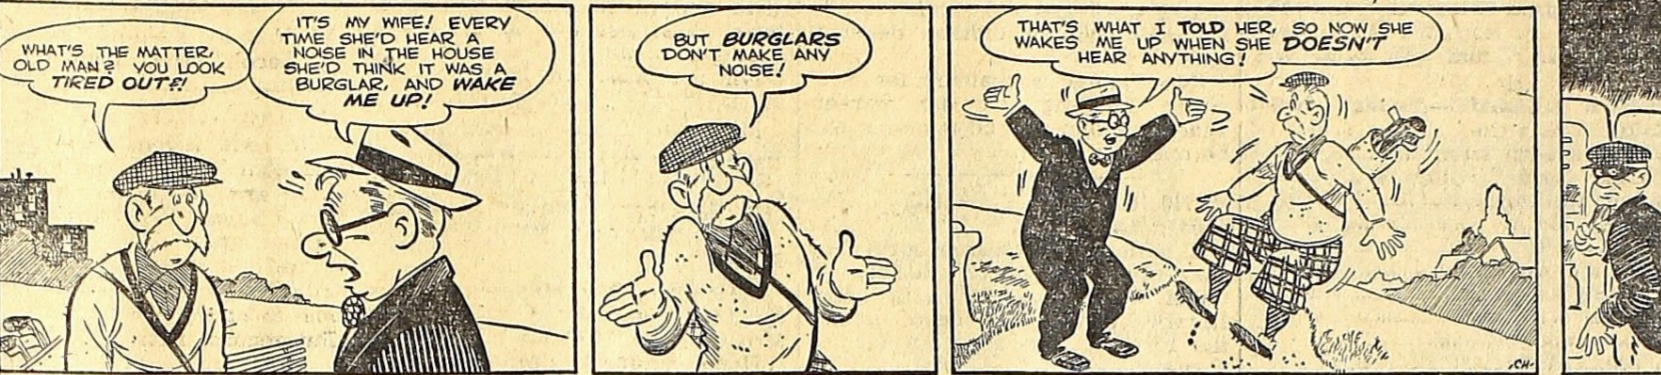

President Truman has named Dr. Paul Magnuson, former director of the medical division of the Veterans Administration, to head a committee of doctors and laymen to survey health needs of the nation. That is the President's answer to American Medical Association's campaign against national health insurance or "socialized" medicine. The commission is to report after the elections this year so there is no politics in the President's action.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging headache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Don't suffer longer with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

DEMONSTRATES MODERN TEACHING METHODS

The benefit derived from parents reading to children at home was stressed by Miss Kathryn McCully, reading consultant for Scott Foresman Publishing Company, who demonstrated modern methods of teaching reading at the January meeting of the Tawas City P.-T.A.

Members of the fourth grade of the local school participated in the program which was interesting and instructive.

Miss McCully urged parents to visit school to observe their children at work and thus obtain a better understanding of their development.

Open house is planned for February meeting of the Parent-Teacher group and class rooms will be open for visitors.

CANCER SURVEY BEING MADE IN COUNTY

A nationwide research survey by the American Cancer Society is under way across the nation. Mrs. Harvey Watson has been named the Isoco county chairman for the survey. come of the game then and there. Both teams scored 9 points in the second quarter and 11 each in the third. Mio flipped in 17 more points in the final quarter while Tawas had 10.

Gary Humphrey held down the top rung in Tawas' scoring with 11, while little Eddie Davison sparked his mates in the second half with 6. Tawas City's high scoring Tom Morley was unable to play on account of illness. The combo of Jones and Smith proved to be the local lads undoing, with the former hitting the hoop for 20 points and the latter 18.

In the Reserve tilts Binder led with 7 points while Hertzler's 9 topped the winning East Tawas cause. Clements scored 12 and Wendt 8 in Tawas City's 40-23 victory over the Mio reserves.

AuSable river. Associated with the father were the deceased and his three brothers, Henry N. Loud, George A. Loud and William Loud. Edward Loud was treasurer of the company.

With the depletion of the timber the Louds became interested in the possibilities of the AuSable river for hydro-electric development. Owing nearly all of the land on both sides of the river from Oscoda to Mio, action was started in 1904 toward such development. Through the efforts of Edward Loud a syndicate was formed and capitalists interested in the project. By 1917 a chain of hydro-electric dams had been built extending from Foote site to Mio furnishing electric power to many towns and cities in the central and southern Michigan area, and now a part of the Consumers Power Company system.

The Loud lumbering operations along the AuSable river came to an end with the destruction of their mills by the great fire of 1911.

Surviving Edward Loud are the widow; a daughter, Mrs. John A. Watling of Bloomfield Hills; his son, Gordon Loud, an archeologist who was in charge of exploration in the Middle East, now of Washington, D. C., and five grand children.

Funeral services were held from the family residence. Cannon Warner Forsythe officiated. Interment was in the Elmwood Cemetery, Detroit.
