Auto Accident Fatal to Two Iosco Men

Tragedy Occured Monday Evening at East Tawas Bridge

Robert W. Deering of East Ta-was and Martin Beck of Alabaster were killed Monday evening when their car ran into Tawas river at the Monument Road bridge in East Tawas. The men were approaching East Tawas on M-55 cut off and the car failed to make the

The overturned car was discovered a short time after the accident by John L. Smith of East Tawas. He immediately reported the accident to the State Police. It was the opinion of Coroner Jacques that both men had died from drowning. They had been imprisoned in the car under water for at least 15 minutes it is thought. There was no one present to witness the tragedy.

Martin Beck resided with his brother, Charles. He was born November 24, 1900, at AuSable and went to Alabaster in 1912. An employee of the United States Gypsum Company, he had recently received the Quarter-Century gold watch award for 25 years of service

Bronsons Buy Tawas Inn Resort

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bronson of this city have purchased the Tawas Inn at East Tawas from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Bronson took possession March 1.

Tawas Inn is one of the largest cabin projects in the area. In 1932 it was purchased from James A. Aldrich by Fred H. Goodrich, who had previously been a restaurant operator and prominent business-man at Flint. Additional frontage was purchased and the business continuously expanded. Following his marriage to Miss Patience Goodrich, Mr. Nash became associated in the business. Since the death of Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich in 1942, the business has been oper ated by Mr. and Mrs. Nash.

The new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Bronson, are two well known Tawas people. Mr. Bronson has operated a barber shop in the Holland Hotel following four years of service in the armed forces during World War II. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bronson of Whittemore and at one time operated a barber shop at Turner. Mrs. Bronson is director of the Iosco County Department of Social Wel-

A 'Yes' Vote Will Tawas City Not Increase Iosco Tax Rate

Arrangements are being made for the special election on the Court House Bond proposal.

A "yes" vote on the proposal will not increase the present mil-lage, but would allow the issuing of bonds and the immediate construction of the greatly needed new court house. The adoption of the new proposal would cancel a two mill county building tax levy previously adopted by the people of the county which has been on the tax rolls for the past two years. The cancelled millage would then be replaced by a new levy of two mills.

If the new proposal does not car-ry, the two mills now being carried on the tax rolls will continue, but no bonds can be issued. Construction of a new court house would be deferred about ten years.

In a statement made yesterday, Elmer Werth of East Tawas, chairman of the special building committee of the Board of Supervisors said that if anyone had a question about the Bond Proposal he would be pleased to furnish information on the subject.

Kremlin Fliers

IT ISN'T pleasant to contemplate, but the inescapable fact is that Russia is not only outproducing us in planes, but is building up a reservoir of battle-tested pilots to fly them. The blunt fact is that the Kremlin is using Korea as a graduate school to train Russian pilots how to fly against American planes.

Rotating "classes" of Russian pilots have been manning the MIG's over Korea and learning American combat techniques first hand. The present class showed up in Korea on November 1, is now about ready

Each class takes the same prescribed course. The first month is spent making navigational flights across Korea. The second month is spent observing American formations at a safe distance. During this period, the MIG's will occasionally make a pass at a bomber formation, but it is all in practice. They never fire a shot. The MIG's also take care to keep out of the way of air force F-86 Sabrejets during their breaking-in period.

By the third month, however, the Soviet student-pilots begin to tangle with American fighterspreferably with slower F-80 Shooting Stars and F-84 Thunderjets. As the Russians gain experience, they mix it up with our crack F-86 squads.

The result is that the green Russians are shot out of the skies at the rate of 13 to our one. But the survivors become tough, skillful pilots, baptized by fire and able to hold their own against our best.

Note.—In contrast, we send only our crack pilots to Korea, give our new pilots no battle training. Reason is that we are so short of F-86's that we cannot risk letting greenhorns fly them in combat.

Messages to Moscow

A lot of schools all over the country are taking advantage of the arrangement whereby the school children of America can broadcast via the Voice of America to school children behind the Iron Curtain. Many newspapers are also cooperating.

In Charleston, W. Va., the Gazette is running a four-week contest among high-school children for the best "Messages to Moscow." The winner of each week's contest will be announced weekly, and at the end of the month the final winner will be given a trip to New York to visit the United Nations and broadcast personally over the Voice of

The Los Angeles News and the Wichita Eagle are cooperating with California and Kansas schools in running similar contests.

The messages should not be over 150 words, should tell about conditions in American schools, and how the youngsters of this country want barrier to friendship imposed by the Kremlin. Since the youngsters of today will have to carry out the American foreign policy of tomorrow, this is an opportunity for them to help mould that foreign policy

Costello's Friends

For the first time in years, a senate committee will defy the unwritten code of congress and question congressmen.

Specifically, Arnold Bauman of the senate D.C. crime committee wants to know why certain congressmen have been so chummy with racketeer Frankie Costello's Washington lobbyist, Murray Olf.

T-men have actually traced longdistance phone calls to Olf from Costello's partner, Dandy Phil Kastel. Olf also kept racketeer Joe Adonis overnight in his hotel room while Adonis was hiding out from the senate crime committee. Olf himself has a criminal record, Yet this same Olf has been living in style at the Congresssional hotel, has entertained at least 50 congressmen at cocktail parties. A handful of congressmen have been extra close to Olf and at least one has actually run errands for the racketeer.

Bauman intends to find out why. He personally will call on the congressmen and take their statements. Among those who can expect a visit are Congressman Morrison of Louisiana.

Note.-Fear that something like this would happen was one reason why the senate crime committee had a hard time getting its work extended.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

American Plan for European Army Endangered by Allied Bickering

EUROPEAN ARMY-The American plan for a united European army to check Communist aggression in Europe, to which America has given millions of dollars, equipment, and its greatest military brains, is on the verge of being smashed. Old and bitter national feelings have climbed out of the grave of history and asserted themselves. The big question is how and under what conditions West German troops are to be included in the European army. The United States has proposed that West German manpower be brought into an "integrated" force under General Eisenhower. West Germany and France have their own views of how this can be accomplished and to what extent.

The German view: She will agree to participate in the "integrated" force only if taken in as a full partner in the Atlantic alliance. In addition she wants several other concessions, including maximum sovereignty under the "peace contract" yet to be signed.

The French view: France would agree to inclusion of German units, but stipulates that they can not be recruited until after the five other participating nations have ratified the treaty. These nations are France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, and Italy. This stipulation means a delay of months at least since ratification of a final treaty is a long process. In addition, the French want several other checks, particularly control of war production in Germany as a safeguard against the rebuilding of German military might.

The three big powers-the United States, Britain, and France-have already told the Germans they can not be included in the Atlantic alliance for the time being. There was a hint that if Germany signed the European army pact, however, and showed the Allies she could behave, then it would be a much easier job of selling western Europeans on the idea of bringing Germany into the alliance. The three powers did offer concessions, including a seat on a projected four-power appeal board that will have power to review and modify the sentences of more than 1,000 German war prisoners.

West Germany and France are still far from satisfied and remain suspicious of each other. The door is still open for a possible settlement, but the whole thing hangs by a thin thread. A few wrong words at the wrong time can still wreck the plan that has cost home towners of America millions of dollars. But more important, it could cost the west a united front against communism. It has been said that an European army can not work without West Germany and France. It is obvious, then, these two must compromise their demands for the good of the whole and world peace.

RECORD DIVIDENDS— The Department of Commerce reports corporations in the United States paid a record $8,053,000,000 in cash dividends during 1951, a 2 per cent gain over 1950.

However, many corporations reported profits down during the last half of 1951, with a drop of 16 per cent for the month of December. It was partly attributed to increased tax payments.

Dividends were reported up in all fields except manufacturing. Automobile dividends dropped 25 per cent and electrical machinery and chemical goods manufacturers reported dividends down about 10 per

The oil refining industry registered one of the biggest gains with 19 per cent, mining was up 16 per cent, railroads 10 per cent, and paper and printing 8 per cent.

ATOMIC TESTS-A new series of atomic tests will be held at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific, it was announced by the Atomic Energy Commission. It was also revealed that further tests are planned for the near future in the Nevada desert near Las Vegas.

In keeping with the secrecy that surrounds such tests, exact dates and the type of atomic weapons to be tested were not announced.

Meanwhile, the British government has announced it will test its first atomic weapon this year in Australia. The British turned down an offer from the United States for a site for the tests and it was understood that no U.S. observers would be on hand to witness the experiment.

POLITICS-As the political pot begins to boil in earnest, the biggest question in the minds of most home towners remains: will President Truman seek the Democratic nomination? There seems to be little question but that the President can have it by simply saying so. Since January when most observers were willing to say "I don't think he will run again" observations have gradually changed to "he might" and "he will".

But until Mr. Truman announces his intentions, the Democratic side of the question is wide open. There is increasing evidence that Senator Kefauver-although he is unseasoned as far as presidential timber is concerned—is gaining strength. His campaign is showing surprising strength at the grassroots level and if Mr. Truman suddenly announces he is not interested in reelection, he will have a great advantage over those "better-late-than-never" candidates who will come out into the

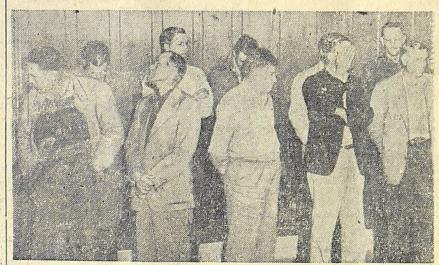

THE DRAFT-The armed forces will draft 19,000 men this month-15,000 for the Army and 4,000 for the Marine Corps. The April call brings to 894,000 the total of announced draftees since the draft was resumed in peace and resent the artificial September, 1950. Also, the April call is the lowest since September, 1951, when 16,900 men were requested by the two services.

> KOREA-The United Nations have agreed to the Communist proposal for a conference after an armistice is signed in Korea to discuss political issues concerning Korea. An armistice in Korea, however, is still a long way from an accomplished fact. At the moment there are three important unsettled questions. They are:

> (1) The Communists want Russia included as a neutral power to help supervise the armistice. This is unacceptable to the United Nations since it has been established without any doubt that Russia has trained and supplied Communists in Korea with arms of all kind.

> (2) The Communists insist upon their right to construct airfields in North Korea during an armistice. The United Nations deny this right. (3) How, where and when the exchange of prisoners of war will

> When these questions are settled, the home towners of the nation can then begin to hope for an armistice.

Ancient Church Is Uncovered On Aegean Isle

blade, leveling part of the Aegean Sea island of Lesvos (Mitilini) in the construction of an airport, has unearthed ruins of what may be one of Christendom's earliest churches.

If archeological research bears out scientific estimates that the ruins are those of a truly early church, an important addition will be made to the already monumental contributions of the Aegean Islands to the study of ancient history, religion and legend.

Greek Lesvos, lying less than ten miles off the Turkish coast, is one of the largest of the islands that dot the Aegean arm of the eastern Mediterranean Sea, separating the Grecian peninsula from Asia Minor. The islands are Greek except for a few of those lying close to Turkey's

Trojan Horse Legend

Like all the other Aegean islands, even the tiniest, Lesvos has its own wealth of history. It was the home of the poets Sappho and Alcaeus in the seventh century before Christ, and the philosopher Theophrastus, successor to Aristotle, was born there.

North of Lesvos lies the tiny Turkish island of Bozca Ada (Tenedos). to which the Greeks withdrew from their siege positions while the gullible Trojans breached the walls of Troy to admit the wooden horse. To the south is Khios (Chios), home of Glaucus, who invented the art of welding iron. Khios also claims it is the birthplace of Homer, but this distinction is contested by other localities, among them Smyrna.

Many of the islands are closely connected with the early Christian church or with some particular manifestation of Christianity. On Patmos is the Orthodox monastery. of St. John, dedicated to John the Apostle, who is believed to have spent part of his later life there, writing his Gospel and the Book of Revelation.

The island of Naxos is closely connected with St. Dionysos of the Orthodox church. On Naxos the story is told that St. Dionysos planted a vine three times, first in the bone of a bird, then in the bone of a lion and finally in the bone of an

Wine, the legend says, was made from the vine, and its intoxication went through three stages. The drinker first sang like a bird, then was as courageous as a lion, and then acted like an ass.

On Tinos (Tenos) is an icon of the Virgin, supposedly painted by St. Luxe himself and capable of miraculous cures for the pilgrims who throng there twice a year. The small island of Mikonos has several hundred churches, many of them erected as family chapels by retired sea

Birthplace of Medicine

Mikonos is also the home of windmills with sails that can be furled in a heavy wind or set at full canvas for light breezes

The island of Kos (Cos) was the birthplace of Hippocrates, the father of medicine. And on Kea (Tsia) the ancient inhabitants apparently felt there was little need for medicine, for the aged, at any rate. Their legal code prescribed a cup of poison hemlock for anyone reaching the age of 60.

Dhilos (Delos) is famed in Greek mythology, which says the island drifted over the sea until Zeus anchored it so that it could become the birthplace of Apollo and Artemis.

In the case of the families with veterans of World War I, a 79 per cent ownership is reported.

The veterans family is inclined to own a greater amount of life insurance, too. While 43 per cent of the non-veteran insured families put $100 or more annually into life insurance premiums, 53 per cent of World War veteran families and 54 per cent of World War I families owning policies put that much into life insurance.

These facts on life insurance ownership are specially compiled from the 1951 survey on consumer buying habits made by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan for the Federal Reserve

THE READER'S DATE BOOK-Clean-Up Time Is Here Again For the Nation's Home Towns

Although weather conditions determine the dates for observance of Spring Clean-Up in various parts of the country, now is the time for the home town to plan its campaign. Home towns located in the country and the cou in the south and southwest will probably hold campaigns in March and if in the north probably by April.

Whatever its location, however, every home town will find it advantageous to sponsor a Clean-Up Week as a fire and disease prevention measure. In addition, a clean and attractive community will bring the town business and prosperity.

Rubbish about a home or business and preventable fire go hand-inhand. Your chances of having your fire department pay you a visit are in direct proportion to the amount of rubbish you allow. Rubbish may not be a cause of fire in itself, but it MAIN supplies the fuel for STREET a carelessly discarded match, cig-FEATURE arette or stray spark.

Rubbish is not just waste paper and dirt as so many people assume. It is anything worthless or valueless. This means that Uncle Josh's buffalo robe in the garage, that broken down sofa in the attic, or sisters' outgrown clothes in the back hall closet are rubbish.

The National Fire Protection Association says that Americans probably keep more rubbish than any country in the world. There's two reasons for this rubbish record: First, national procrastination—the "I'll take care of the trash barrels tomorrow" philosophy. Second, we have a lopsided sense of thrift. We are a nation of string-savers and trivia collectors. We hate to throw anything away. We 'hang on to things" like Aunt Ermintrude's moth-eaten muff and three legged furniture in the vain hope "that we may be able to use them sometime."

Here is a quiz the association has prepared to test how you stack up as a housekeeper. Do you regularly dispose of rubbish?

Are ashes kept in covered metal barrels?

Do you have any frayed cords or defective electrical appliances? Are all your fuses the proper sizes (usually 15 amperes)?

Are all dust mops hung up and oily rags kept in metal containers? Does the whole family know how to call the fire department?

Do you have gasoline or other dangerous flammable cleaning fluids in the house? Do you have plenty of ash trays in the house? Do stovepipes pass through combustible partitions or through attics or closets? Are chimneys in good repair and cleaned once a year?

Do you have screens for all fireplaces? Do you have a firesafe roof, such as asphalt, slate or tile? Are matches kept in tins away from heat and small children?

Are curtains or other combustibles near enough to stoves to catch fire? This quiz was prepared for the householder, but it could be applied by the local merchant to his business Adequate fire protection is good business for any home town merchant. And one of the best ways of achieving this protection is by a clean-up campaign. Besides eliminating possible fire hazards on his own property, the merchant next door may eliminate some that are a danger to both concerns.

And it is well to remember, a clean town is a healthy town; a healthy town is a prosperous town.

International Trade Fair Set for March

The second Chicago International Trade Fair is scheduled for March 22 to April 6 at Navy pier, Chicago. The first fair was held in August, 1950, and had an attendance of 250,-000. At that time 2,200 exhibitors from 44 nations participated and the fair attracted 25,000 buyers.

EASTER SEAL GIRL

Four-Year-Old Doris Desrosiers Is Easter Seal Girl for 1952

The 1952 Easter Seal girl is Doris Desrosiers, a tiny, doll-like creature with sparkling brown eyes and soft curly hair. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Desrosiers of Nashua, N.H., she is a bright youngster, quick with her hands and as alert to her surroundings as any healthy, happy four-year old, who typifies the thousands of crippled children receiving care and training in Easter Seal centers. She will make her appearance in newspapers, magazines and on television nationwide during the campaign, March 13 to April 13.

When Doris' face lights up in a frequent smile, it's easy to see why she is the favorite patient at the Manchester, N.H. rehabilitation center where she goes for treatment two or three times a week. Although she is four, Doris is just learning how to walk, because she was born cerebral palsied.

Doris grew as any normal baby but when she was a year old, she had little control over her legs, and Mrs. Desrosiers realized that her daughter wasn't going to walk.

Consultations with pediatricians and orthopedists proved that Doris' brain was injured before or after birth, causing the neuro-muscular condition known as cerebral palsy. Foruntately, only that part of her brain which controls her legs appears to be injured. Some children with cerebral palsy are not so lucky.

The orthopedist prescribed night braces for Doris to train her muscles while she was sleeping. In addition, he referred her to the rehabilitation center, operated in Manchester by the New Hampshire Society for Crippled Children and Handicapped Persons and financed mainly through Easter Seal funds. The center is one of hundreds operated by affiliated societies of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Doris' treatment began in June,

1949, when she was a year and a half old. Her parents now bring her into the Manchester center two or three times a week, where she receives physical therapy to strengthen her muscles. Later she may need other treatment, including speech therapy and occupational therapy. Both will be available

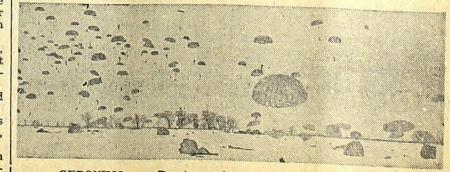

In this exclusive Western Newspaper Union photograph, four-year old Doris Desrosiers trys to help her daddy mow the lawn in the backyard of their home in Nashua, N.H. She typifies thousands of crippled children receiving treatment and training at Easter Seal centers throughout the nation.

About a year ago, when Doris was three and a half, she first walked alone. Today, thanks to the early treatment and care she has received, she can take a few faltering steps. Therapists at the center hope that she will be able to start in a regular school when she is six. If not, she can go to school at home, through a New Hampshire state education homebound teaching program, which was originally sponsored by the Easter Seal Society to provide education for youngsters who would otherwise go without. Although medical science does not yet know a cure for cerebral palsy, improvement is not possible in the majority of cases. If Doris Desrosiers had lived only a decade ago, she would have been doomed to her home, a helpless cripple. Today, however, she stands as a symbol of what can be done when proper care is provided for crippled children-when people care enough to give them the treatment they need. Doris' progress is slow, but she's getting there. She has a long way to go. She and thousands like her are counting on Easter Seals to help them become the healthy, independent men and women they want to be.

YOUTHFUL SINGER

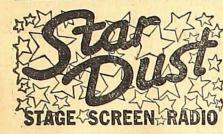

Chillicothe Youth Is Nation's First Television Opera Star

A 12-year-old boy from Chillicothe, Ohio, has become one of the nation's first television opera stars, a personality as well-known to the greats of the musical world as to the folks back home.

In Chillicothe (pop. 18,340) Chet Allen developed his first taste for singing, along with cartoon sketching, stamp collecting and football line play. When his family shifted to Columbus several years ago, Chet was already emitting the clear seprano tones that recently moved the great Arturo Toscanini to tears and wrung unrestrained plaudits from the nation's foremost music

His father, a chemical engineer, enrolled the curly haired youngster in the Columbus Boychoir at Princeton, N.J. Under the careful supervision of Herbert Hoffman, director of the Boychoir, Chet became a star soloist. He accompanied the choir on a bus barnstorming tour of 32

He was, in fact, a veteran musical campaigner by the time that opera composer Gian-Carlo Menotti visited the Boychoir in search of a lead for his television opera, "Amahl And The Night Visitors," commissioned

By INEZ GERHARD

FILEEN O'FARRELL is the perfect soloist for the "Telephone Hour" on St. Patrick's Day, so she is being announced way ahead of time. This broadcast will be a special event, broadcast from Carnegie Hall, where she scored a brilliant success with her recital in 1950. The daughter of Irish parents formerly billed in vaudeville as "The Singing O'Farrells," she has fulfilled their dreams by becoming one of our outstanding dramatic sopranos. But she is not one of our temperamental prima donnas; she refuses to be glamorized, and will let nothing interfere with her home life with her husband, Robert Reagan, and her son, Robert Reagan, Jr.

The size of the audience reached by Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis on television was proved by the result of an appeal for funds to support research in muscular dystrophy, which they made recently. The appeal brought in more than 7,000 responses. There were scores of letters from dystrophic victims who never knew there was a Muscular Twelve-year-old Chet Allen, Ohio's gift to television opera, sings with Rosemary Kuhlman in a rehearsal of the Gian-Carlo Menotti opera, "Amahl And The Night Visitors." Chet, who was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, and now lives in Columbus, had the starring role of a crippled boy in the Menotti opera which had its TV premiere over the NBC network.

two years ago by the National Broadcasting Company.

Menotti seized upon the Chillicothe oungster as a natural for the role of the crippled boy whose impoverished mother was visited by the Three Wise Men. The youth's impulsive gesture in offering his crutch as a present to the new-born King in Bethlehem led to his miraculous

CHET MOVED on New York with all the assurance of a widely traveled adult. He became an overnight hit with the opera's cast at rehersal. His role was an exacting one, requiring a wide variety of emotions, and eminent musical men like Toscanini, who dropped in on rehearsals, were both moved and amazed by his vocal and acting capacities.

So, too, were ordinary folks throughout the nation. The opera had its premiere Christmas Eve on a national television hook-up. The next day NBC was deluged with letters, telegrams and telephone calls praising the young artist.

Chet liked what he saw of the big city, but he still feels that a small town has plenty of advantages.
"You can get in touch with folks so much easier," he explains.

Chet is now back at the Boychoir where Director Hoffman reports with pride that all the attention focused on him has not gone to his head "one whit." He makes occasional trips to New York to complete a full recording of the opera for RCA Victor, and the remainder of his time is devoted to his school and to extracurricular activities.

Whether Chet will continue as an operatic performer, or whether he will pick up the old life and perhaps specialize as a cartoonist or become an engineer like his father, depends upon nature. Director Hoffman estimates that in one year, possibly two, Chet's voice will mature. Whether the post-adolescent Chet will have the vocal capacity for an operatic career is something that neither Chet, Director Hoffman or past, instances of boy sopranos who said: successfully bridged the change of voice have been rare. But few have been as successful in pre-adolescence as young Allen and even fewer have demonstrated his remark-Dystrophy association, despite wide able adaptability for operatic act-

The couple spent a two weeks' honeymoon on Long Island and returned to Larry's summer Albany in late September. All during the boat ride up the Hudson, Larry talked of the woods and their anyone else will prophesy. In the glory in autumn. That night he

me—whether you like it or not."

They departed by train the next Harold Ickes morning. At Saranac they shifted to a power boat, and for hours drove steadily in the wilderness. At the head of the last chain of lakes they disembarked. The power boat sung away., Martha and Larry were left alone, standing on a narrow strip of wilderness that projected out into the lake. There was a log cabin, a canoe and nothing else.

Martha felt afraid and very much alone. Larry had been painfully formal during the entire trip. The mountains, the stillness, the vast solitude awed and frightened her. She stood quite still until the last faint put-put-put of the power launch had faded. Then she turned and entered the cabin that was to be her home.

IN spite of herself Martha could not help enjoying her new existence. For the first time in her life she knew sheer joy at just being alive. The cabin was comfortable and home-like. There were books. There was work to be done.

Larry made no effort to assist her about the cabin. His eyes still held the same cold glint that had frightened her on the night before their departure. He seldom spoke, was away from the cabin a good deal and spent his evenings bent over drawings and reports.

It was a month before Larry let down the barrier. He came up from behind Martha as she stood alone on a bluff overlooking the lake. She turned at his step and looked into his eyes. The cold glint was gone.

"The power launch is due back tomorrow," he said. "You may go back with the driver if you like. I-guess I made a mis-Martha felt a lump in her throat

Martha pulled his face down and kissed it, "Let's forget the past, Larry, sweetheart, and start all over again. I really don't feel as if I've had a real honeymoon. Let's begin over again. Now! Here!"

Probe Violations

THIS column has repeatedly reported concerning the violation of civil rights of citizens who are called before congressional committees as witnesses in the many probes now going on. The utter disregard for these rights, the brow-beating of witnesses, the star-chamber sessions without reference to any rules or the justice of jurisprudence has become scandalous.

It remains, however, for a fresh-man senator to really rebel at the tactics used in these probes and administer a verbal lashing to his colleagues in the United States senate. He is Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho, a member of a senate crime investigating committee, elected for his first term in 1950.

Senator Welker was particularly incensed at the use of radio and television which has made a spectacle of many of these senatorial inquisitions. In a television forum sponsored by Georgetown University he charged that these probe committees have no rules of evidence, no rules of demeanor and could browbeat a witness and force him to testify about something he would not like to mention; that the committees are not governed by any sacred rules of law, admit hearsay evidence and conclusions; that the witness is subject to the whims of the men conducting the investigation and that such tactics invade the constitutional rights and the right of privacy of

He further declared that radio and television broadcasts were using the testimony of the witnesses in the hearings in commercial enterprises and for commercial purposes, certainly a violation of the individual's rights and for which the witnesses are uncompensated.

Said Senator Welker: ". . . here an unfortunate individual that some of our detectives or investigators want to bring before us have never perhaps seen a United States senator before. They are racked up before us, before these cameras and microphones and the august body of senators presiding, and they are nervous and it affects them, and by one slip of the tongue, they may become guilty of perjury, they might incriminate themselves, or they may find themselves in contempt of the body investigating them".

Continuing the gentleman from . . we are putting on Idaho said: " a good show, dealing with morbid curiosity of the people who like to witness these "people before congressional hearings where we literally put the heat upon them . . . In the recent passing of Harold L Ickes from the Washington scene, death has stilled one of the most powerful voices in the nation's capital against the persistent efforts by large special interests to grab the nation's natural resources.

During his more than 13 years as secretary of the interior the "old curmudgeon" had his sights raised above the petty chiselers in and out of government in a continuing fight to preserve the country's public lands, to preserve the natural resources in water and electric power, and to keep for the people generally the untold millions in wealth of the nation's oil-bearing tidelands.

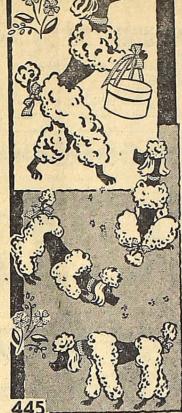

But even as he lay upon his death-bed the big oil companies which he had held at bay, with the aid of a presidential veto and two supreme court decisions were moving in again.

Settlement of this dispute, under the guise of states' rights, will be one of the major issues in this campaign. In two decisions, in 1947 and in 1950, the supreme court has held that coastal states have jurisdiction over submerged lands in bays, rivers and inlets and along the coast from high to the low-tide mark, but that farther out to the continental shelf, these submerged lands belong to all the people of all the states.

California, Louisiana, Texas and Florida have joined with the oil lobby in an effort to wrest this bonanza oil reserve from federal jurisdiction. There is now up in the senate a compromise bill, which is merely an entering wedge, which would give royalties from oil produced from these tidelands to the public school system.

When Herbert Hoover Talks, All America Listens

By Wright A. Patterson

WHEN HERBERT HOOVER talks, all of America listens. When the people of the nation have the opportunity of both listening and seeing, they take advantage of both opportunities. They had both on January 27 when the man whom the people recognize as a national leader was on both radio and television.

Then millions of Americans, regardless of political affiliations, both looked and listened. Those letters that Hoover appreciated most were from the homes of the nation, written in longhand on plain stationery, nearly 7,000 of them. Those letters indicated a willingness to accept the leadership of the former president on so vital a subject as our national defense. For him, those 7,000 letters constituted a heart-warming experience, but there were many others coming from those recognized as experts in defense lines, and expressing firm approval in what he had said. From the army there were letters from Lt. General Albert W. Wedemeyer, Lt. General Leslie B. Groves, Lt. Gen. Harold L. George, Major General Hugh Knerr and General Brice P. Bisque.

From the top brass of the navy there were letters of approval and commendations, with the privilege of quoting them, from such officers es Admiral William V. Pratt, Admirel William H. Stanley, Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, and Capt. James to Chile, Mexico, Belgium and Italy; William R. Castle, former director European division department of state, under-secretary-of-state, ambassador to Japan; Hugh Gibson, former ambassador to Belgium; Spruille Braden, former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Argentine, Columbia and Cuba; Joseph A. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain; Arthur Bliss Lane, minister to Estonia, Latvia and Poland; Jesse Jones, former secretary of commerce, chairman reconstruction finance corporation.

E. van Zandt, now a congressman. From the realm of diplomacy: Henry P. Fletcher, former undersecretary-of-state and ambassador been known since the days of the islation in behalf of a minority.

All of the above endorsed Hoover's statements that the nation should concentrate on the construction of more sea and air power rather than on additional ground forces as a defense against Russia, and that we must also protect our economy, and not waste our resources in Europe.

It was the agreement with and the approval of those statements in the 7,000 long hand written letters received by Mr. Hoover from American homes which he so much appreciated.

It would be well for those of us who are interested only in provable facts that we prepare in advance for the storm of invective, mud, filth and generalities that will be showered upon us by political orators of both parties through the period of the coming presidential campaign of July, August, September and October. The coming one will be such a mud slinging campaign as has not 70's and 80's of the last century, and both parties will indulge in the same type of invective.

President Truman set the keynote of the campaign in his address before the national Democratic Woman's club at Washington in November. He was greeted with applause because he was talking to an audience who have voted Democratic because father and grandfather voted that ticket.

His generalities did not change any votes, nor will the orators of either party who indulge in the same type of generalities. Those whose votes can be changed want provable facts, not merely unuprovable generalities.

For example, the president charged the Republicans with the expenditure of vast sums contributed by a small minority for purely selfish reasons in an effort to attain a result, in which they failed.

The fact is the Republicans spent in that campaign a total of $1,444,-894.77. In the same campaign the Democrats spent $2,066,372.50. The figures are those submitted to congress as required by law, by the national chairmen of the two parties. In the Ohio senatorial campaign, he charged that Senator Taft received vast sums from "special interests" in their attempt to influence legislation for corporate wealth, but he said nothing about the assessments levied against all members of organized labor, and spent to defeat Taft that organized labor bosses might benefit from leg-

Iosco Farmers Concerned Over Needs of Expanding Dairy Herds

Over fifty farmers showed keen and operator. interest in the possibilities of re-modeling the barns of George Prescott and Alfred Guoan which were discussed on the dairy barn tour last Thursday. Their interest was evidence that many farmers are concerned about expanding their dairy business and increasing chore efficiency around the barn.

Both George and Alfred want to increase the size of their herds but run into the problem of housing extra cattle. Now with all the reports of pen type barns there comes the question of whether it shall be the stanchion type or the loose housing plan.

When building or remodeling the dairyman has to study several must be large enough, comfortable and offer ease in disease control. must be so arranged that the minimum amount of labor of doing chores is possible. Third, the cost of building must be as low as possible. Low cost means low investment for returns expected and low depreciation cost. Fourth, the ar-rangement must suit the owner ment problems.

Donald Murray, Extension Dairy man of Michigan State College discussed the merits of the two systems. He said the stanchion barn can be adequate if the right dimensions for stalls and alleys are used and if the building is well insulated and ventilated. If plenty of bedding is used and the stalls are wide enough and deep enough the cows can be made relatively comfortable. The stanchions make grooming, clipping and spraying more feasable.

The advantages of the pen type barn are that less investment per cow is required. Cows are more comfortable, with self feeders they important factors. First, the building must be adequate, that is it ments are greatly reduced and the cows are generally healthier. It was Second, it must be convenient. It further pointed out that the pen type barn afforded an ideal method of storing manure.

At noon the Hemlock Baptist Ladies Aid served a wholesome hot lunch of chili, coffee, milk and home made pies at the Grant Town Holl. Here Mr. Murray led a discussion on general herd manage-

ANNUAL TAX SALE

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF IOSCO IN CHANCERY

In the Matter of the Petition of John B. Martin, Jr., Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon, NO. 1872

On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said petition will be brought on for hearing and decree at the March term of this Court, to be held at Tawas City in the County of Iosco State of Michigan, on the 25th day of March A. D., 1952, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a decree will be taken and entered as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the offfice of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Iosco State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Herman Dehnke, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Iosco County this 18th day of January A.D. 1952.

HERMAN DEHNKE, Circuit Judge Countersigned, GEORGE A. PRESCOTT. Clerk.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF IOSCO IN CHANCERY

In the Matter of the Petition of John B. Martin, Jr., Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco,

in Chancery:
John B. Martin, Jr., Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectully shows unto the

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provis-ions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of, four percent and (d) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned:

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and upaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof. Wherefore your petitioner prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

c. That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides; d. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable. And your petitioner will ever pray, etc. JOHN B. MARTIN, JR.

Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.
Dated: January 15, 1952.

Or she may fall peacefully into the last sleep at any time. . . . Oh, don't look so frightened, my dear. She will probably be with us for-well, for another six months."

Phil and Tracy Have Secret Meeting

When the Mexican boy to whom Tracy had entrusted her note to Phil Garrison returned from Lanassa, he brought her an answer. She opened it and read:

Dear Miss Hayden:-Thanks for the note. I am grateful for the information that James Conroy is at the Garrison ranch. Following your suggestion, I shall postpone my visit until his departure. It was unfortunate that you had to witness that unpleasant scene between Conroy and me. Is it possible for us to meet? I should like very much to have a talk with you. I shall be at the hotel this evening if you care to meet me here.

Sincerely, Philip Garrison. Tracy looked up at the Mexican boy. "Be sure not to tell anyone about delivering these notes,' cautioned. "It is important that no one knows. You understand?"

That evening, when Tracy climbed out of her car in front of the hotel in Lanassa, Phil was on the porch and came down the steps to meet her. She felt her heartbeat quicken. He was handsome and attractive. Surely, all that Jim had said about him could he explained-or would turn out to be untrue.

"Hello! I'm glad you came." He spoke as though they knew each other well. "I hope you've forgotten my behavior this afternoon. The waitress at that restaurant hasn't. She sent the sheriff around to see me.'

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" Tracy said. "Did he cause you any trouble?"

"Not a great deal, but I had quite a job convincing him I'm a Garrihim. However, the Senora seems to son-one of the Garrisons." and that, of course, is the impor-tant thing." Tracy gave Clint a

When they had entered the hotel and seated themselves in a secluded nook, Tracy tried to explain her position at the Garrison ranch. She told Philip that her mother had been a country schoolteacher and her father a Garrison ranch-

"My father was killed in an accident, and my mother died shortly afterward," she said. "I was only twelve. Senora Maria, your grandmother, sort of adopted me. I'm almost a part of the family."

Philip smiled at her. "The nicest in love with him. I wasn't quite part, I'll bet. If I had known about Tracy, but when he came, I knew you, I'd have visited the old homestead long ago." "What made you decide to visit your family now?" "It's rather involved. I was in Baltimore, just back from China, and I received a tip that a girl who Jim Conroy was meeting had some meaning to me. I saw this girl -you, of course-with Conroy at the Montrose Hotel. I made some inquiries, learned that you came from the Garrison ranch. My father had told me about the ranch when I was a kid and, before his death, he urged me to visit his family. I didn't know what a girl from the ranch was doing in Baltimore with Jim Conroy, but the tip I had received seemed like some trick of Conroy's to get hold of me, so I didn't get in touch with you there on that account. However, just being reminded of the ranch decided me to visit it-and here I am."

Tracy wondered how much she dared tell him. Caution suggest-ed that it wouldn't do to reveal that Jim had palmed himself off as Phil Garrison, but she had to say some-

"Jim Conroy is a friend of mine," she said. "That's why he's at the ranch."

"In love with him?"

"No," Tracy said quickly.
"That's nice to know." Phil grinned. "He's not your type. I knew him in China, as you prob-ably know."

Phil Abruptly Kisses Tracy On The Lips

They talked for more than an hour. Then, Tracy said she must go.

"I'll ride to the edge of town with you," Philip said, "and walk back. I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed our talk."

Tracy, too, had enjoyed it. She liked Phil Garrison. It no longer seemed possible that Jim was right about him. She drove just beyond town, then pulled to the side of the road. Phil climbed from the car, came around to her side, and took her hand in his.

"I've a special reason now to visit the ranch," he said. "I don't know what Conroy told you, Tracy, but I do know he has told others that I stole money from him - among other things. He lies, and I hope one day to prove it."

Then, he abruptly leaned over the car door and kissed her. He turned at once and walked away into the darkness. . .

Senora Maria had insisted, with her indomitable will, that she would not remain forever in a sickbed. That evening, she had had her way with the nurse and now sat in a comfortable chair, with Jim Conroy beside her. They had talked of the ranch and of Jeff Garrison, but Jim was preoccupied, worrying about Phil Garrison's presence in Lanassa, and what it might mean. Suddenly, she said, "You're strange tonight, Philip. What is on your mind?"

"Nothing of any importance," he lied.

"I have been thinking about that," the Senora said. "The world is all topsy-turvy, and it will take men like you to straighten it out. I am going to release you from your promise—" Her voice faltered. A knock sounded at the door.

Then, Ruth's voice reached them. The Senora sighed "There she comes-to take you away from me. One would think she had a claim on you, that you were her sweetheart. No man is safe from Ruth!'

When Jim opened the door to Ruth, she swept by him with a bright smile. She kissed the Senora, expressing delight over finding her sitting up.

Peevishly, the Senora said, When you show me affection, you want something. What is it now. young woman? Ruth pretended to be hurt. "Now, darling, that isn't nice. Just because I'm happy to see you so much "Nonsense! You don't care a snap of your fingers whether I'm better or worse." "You're in a very nasty humor, Granny." Ruth turned to Jim.

What have you been saying to her to make her so cross?' "The Senora thinks you've come

Balance Sheet

Lesson for March 9, 1952

IT is not every man who at the close of his life can look back and say that life has brought him more than it took away. Death, or the approach of death, is a reminder it is time to balance our books. There was a man named Paul sitting in a Roman prison. He was to be tried on a capital charge, and there was no certainty that he Dr. Foremon would be acquitted.

Yet if the Romans had only known it, that solitary prisoner, whose very food was provided by the charity of friends, was the happiest man in Rome. He looked back over his eventual life and in a letter to his friends, while admitting that he had lost much, counted everything well lost in comparison to what he had gained. The balance sheet of Paul's life showed no deficit, but an enormous balance on the credit side.

Losses Written Off

PAUL gave several thumbnail autobiographies, some of which are included in the Scripture readings for this week. So we know pretty well what he had to give up. What would strike most of us today is his loss of comfort and security. Modern Americans want above all to be comfortable and secure.

Probably Paul missed comfort and security as much as any man, for he was born to both. But as an "ambassador of Christ" he had had to give all this up.

He had long since exhausted whatever money he may have had; he had to work at hard manual labor to support himself; he was a constant traveler, which in those days did not mean Cadillac cars, Pullmans or even foam-rubber bus seats; it meant dirt and fleas and bad food and seasickness and wrecks (we know of four he had); it meant sometimes being halfstarved, sometimes robbed and always in danger of armed robbery.

His Worst Losses?

BUT there was worse. A wise man does not count hardships his heaviest losses. To lose freedom is more serious. And Paul (when he wrote to the Philippians) had been under arrest for more than four years. He had been jailed at Jerusalem first, then for two years in Caesarea, then a journey in chains to Rome, and then in Rome for we don't know just how long.

Paul was just the temperament that feels imprisonment most keenly. Active, vigorous, always on the go, the four walls of a cell or even the four walls of a house must have galled him terribly. But perhaps worst of all was loss of standing in his

Whatever advantages Paul had definitely lost long before the end.

Credit Balance

YET Paul, in writing up the balance sheet of his life, calls everything he had lost so much trash, in comparison with what he had gained. To his mind it was like losing a truck-load of ashes and finding one diamond.

We ourselves, not being, alas! saints, if we had fixed up his balance sheet, would have put some items on the credit side that he does not mention. After all, he was then and still is Christendom's first citizen.

For many of us, and all of us call him Saint, which means he belongs He was also, and still is, close to the half the books in the New Testament were written by him. Yet he to take me away, and once I leave, does not say, speaking of his life's the nurse will put her back to bed, hardships, "I count these things as Jim said. He took the old lady's nothing in comparison with my position as leader . . . the fact of my was about to leave anyway. You're sainthood . . . my contribution to overdoing it, my dear, and if you the Bible."

We know what his life-ambitions -to know him-to share the power of his resurrection, the fellowship of his sufferings"; and "by all means to win some." These things he did; these things no hardships and no enemies could keep him from doing. With these things on life's credit side, the debits were

Records Show 8,000 Known Species Related Crustacea

WASHINGTON, D.C.-There now are more than 8,000 recognized species of shrimps, lobsters, crabs, and closely related crustaceans in the world. This is about equal to the number of different kinds of birds known to science. The actual count, made by Dr. Fenner A. Chace, Jr., Smithsonian Institution curator of marine invertebrates, totals 8,321. It includes only living species of the so-called decapods, one of the major groups of the Crustacea. The name decapod is derived from the fact that the creatures have 10 legs (5 pairs). This enumeration is based on the large collections and recordsamong the most complete in the world—of the Smithsonian itself and on the reports of other biological institutions throughout the world.

Dr. Chace lists a total of 1,930 kinds of shrimps divided among 211 groups or genera. But there are only 7 genera, containing 32 species, of true lobsters. Such animals as spiny lobsters and Spanish lobsters -the former imported in large numbers as frozen "lobster" tails-belong to different families. Most numerous are the crabs. Dr.

Chace finds a total of 4,428 true crab species divided among 635 genera. There are 114 genera and 1,527 spr os of creatures related to these 1 rabs, such as the mud rmit crabs, and king shrim last provide the Japanese canned crab meat, so familiar on grocers' shelves before the war. The true crabs include such diverse but zoologically closely related animals as ghost crabs, fiddler crabs, spider crabs and rock crabs.

These decapods, Dr. Chace says, are by far the largest group of the crustaceans. They still are far from completely known, and it is highly likely that the number of species discovered eventually may be increased by 30 to 40 per cent.

District Attorney Proves Point in Question to Jury

NEW YORK-"It is physically impossible to do such a thing, said Defense Atty. Carson D. Baker at the trial of two women accused of shoplifting by concealing a coat under a girdle worn by one of them.

James P. McGratton, assistant district attorney, thought differently. He picked up a girdle entered in evidence. He wiggled his 180 pound frame and finally twisted the girdle over his hips. Then he picked up the coat in question and stuffed it inside. Sixty minutes later the jury found the two women guilty.

Thunderstorms Said Producer Of Both Rain, Lightning

CHICAGO-Thunderstorms are actually inefficient producers of rain and lightning, a niversity of Chicago meterologist told the New York meeting of the American Meteorological Society.

Roscoe R. Braham, Jr., senior meteorologist of the university's Chicago Midway Laboratory reported that most of the moisture and energy in the storm is dissipated without falling as a rain or appearing as lightning.

Only one drop out of every nine potential drops in the storm actually falls to the ground as rain, for which people in most sections of the United States can be grateful.

Effective Cough Syrup, Mixed at Home for Economy

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving. Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, and is still one of the most effective for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Make a syrup with 2 cups granulated eugar and one cup water. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Now put 21/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's really excellent for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, wellknown for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not

Seasonal Delight

Just as the home gardener revels in his seed catalogs each year, with their myriad attractions in riotous color and enormous profusion, the angler, too, shares kindred thrills and delights as he thumbs ecstatically through the many fishing tackle catalogs which come his way.

In fact, it is the arrival of these catalogs which happily bridges the span between the last lingering weeks of snow and ice and the first days of real fishing weather. There are many of us, indeed, who would be hard put to centain our fishing fever to an extent which keeps us out of our home state mental institutions were the fishing catalogs net at hand to keep our minds busy and "wish-booking" until we can get our casting arms busy.

Set Anglers "Wishing"

Naturally, space here doesn't permit the fine tributes we'd like to pay to all the tackle manufacturers who have sent catalogs, but we believe the industry would bear us no il-will for letting the annual Heddon catalog serve as a symbol for them

Once again the Heddon people have issued an outstanding catalog, a beautifully-colored booklet, with a color picture of a rainbow trout suitable for framing as an added treat.

As does all the other catalogs', Heddon's instantly sets the angler's mind spinning with themes such as "I wish I had that," and "I wish I had this." Like the others, too, it symbolizes practically everything the angler and his brethern might want or need.

Offers Tiny Two

We were particularly interested, however, in the company's offering of a new series of lures for the lighttackle addict. We liked these because we're planning to do a com-prehensive article here soon on what the industry has cooked up for the fellows who like the long, light rods, tournament-type reels and 4-to-6-pound test lines. This equipment is the plug-caster's answer to spinning gear, and with it he can handle most spinning-type lures and cast them almost as far.

Anyway, as information for those who'd like to know, at least, where some of these light-tackle lures may be found, the Heddon folks, who pioneered fishing plugs in the first place, have come up with their "Runt" lure in a 1/5 ounce weight, a tiny Torpedo, with a spinner aft, and the justly famed and reliable "Lucky 13" both in the 1/5 ounce size. We'd like to know how you can beat that for light-tackle gear. This tiny trio of lures, with all Heddon's "know-how" behind them, will fill the bill for many an angler. ΔΔΔ

Good Deal

Here's good news for anglers who have been turning more and more to Kentucky's lakes for record bass

The State's Game and Fish Division has had introduced in the Legislature a bill which would provide for the sale of non-resident fishing license at $2 for 10 days. Heretofore, non-resident licenses were sold for periods of only three days and cost $1 each. That meant that the out-of-state angler would have had to pay $4 for 10 days fishing rights, whereas under the proposed legislation he can now enjoy that privlege for only $2.

This action is but another in continuing steps by Kentucky to capitalize upon its various attractions to tourists, and chief among these are certain to be the state's many and wastly improved fishing and wastly improved fishin and vastly-improved fishing waters.

May Eclipse Others Already such well-paying-off lakes as Herrington, Dale Hollow and Kentucky have won renown throughout all anglerdom, but coming on even now is another body of water that bids fair to eclipse all the others. And that is the newly-impounded Wolf Creek reservoir in the southeastern part of the State.

With impoundment complete less than four months, anglers were reporting catches of as many as 200 bass in one outing, but with only some six or seven of this number being "keepers." But with impoundment almost two years old this spring and summer, the "little ones" should have grown to "keeper" size and thus have put into the making a veritable angling paradise.

The States Game and Fish Division is going along farther with sportsmen by including in that same legislative measure a provision empowering the director to remove fish creel and size limits wherever deemed advisable.

ΔΔΔ About Trout

Sometimes trout hang in the water at the very tail of a pool, just before it breaks into the next riffle, and take insects from the surface as they float along. When they are here it usually is possible to sneak up on them from downstream, but it is hard to get a natural float from Sometimes a very short cast from cover can be used, and at others it is possible to float a fly down to them from upstream.
