Many Farm Problems Will Be Answered

Grass Day Program Staged at Mielock Farm June 20

Iosco County farmers can find the answers to many of their questions about grass silage at the Grass Day program.

The regional Grass Day demonstration program for this area will be held right in our own county this year, on Friday, June 20 on the James Mielock farm in Reno township.

Mielock's farm of 480 acres, stocked with 100 head of Herefords is an excellent demonstration of grass utilization. This good herd of Herefords has been an important source of income through the beef cow and calf program. Jim, Secretary of the Northeast Michigan Hereford Calf Association, has been an important influence in the improved marketing of northern Michigan feeder cattle.

Visitors to the farm on Grass Day will see the latest innovations in seeding and forage harvesting machinery. They will see demonstrations of grass management, fertilization, brush and weed kill-

NEXT WEEK COURTESY WEEK

Sponsored by the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, next week will be "Courtesy Week" in the business places of the Tawas.

It was emphasized at the Wednesday evening meeting of the chamber board, that one of the best acts of courtesy to strangers visiting our cities was being able to give correct information about our area when this information was desired. Correct directions to the points of interest and nearby towns are often required, but strangers sometimes find hard to secure. A better knowledge of the locations of our lakes and streams and the many recreation facilities and cabin courts and hotels would help in program of being courteous.

Drive-In Theatre To Open June 30

Project Now Nears Completion

The new Drive-In theatre located on Highway 23 just 1 1/2 miles north of the East Tawas city limits, is nearing completion with the tentative opening set for June 30. When the project was started it was expected the opening date would be around June 1, but some difficulty was encountered with the swampy land. The entire area had to be cleared of timber and buried stumps and all low spots filled in. At this date the concession and booth building is completed and the construction of the giant screen tower is going ahead fast.

Some of the grading of ramps has been done and also work on the fencing has begun. Within a week or ten days the big roadside attraction board and sign will be erected. It will be installed by Long Sign Co., of Detroit. Most of the theatre equipment has been received which includes Super-Simplex Sound and Projection Heads, Simplex In-Car individual speakers, Mighty "90" lamps which will give the brightest, clearest picture to be seen on any drive-in screen.

These arc lamps are operated by a 20 horse power motor. All in all, the Tawas Drive In Theatre will be one of the finest small town drive-in theatres in the state as far as construction and equipment goes.

The concession building will house the projection booth, rest rooms for men and women, storage rooms and the Snack Bar. The L. & L. Concession Company of Detroit will operate the Snack Bar and will dispense quality food and beverages at popular prices.

Mr. William Kitchen, a partner in the project, will manage the theatre. Barnard Turner of Caro, Michigan will be the projectionist. The A-K Theatre Co., jointly owned by Ashmun Theatres and Kitchen Brothers, both of Caro, Michigan, own and operate Drive-In theatres in East Lansing and Bad Axe.

The Board of Supervisors will meet in regular June session next Monday.

Congratulates Area on New Hospital

Gov. Williams Says it Is a Striking Example Of Co-operation

The following letter from Gov. G. Mennen Williams was received by Dr. John LeClair:

June 4, 1952
Dr. John D. LeClair
President, Tawas Hospital
Association
Tawas City, Michigan

Dear Dr. LeClair: It is a real source of satisfaction to me to be able to extend my congratulations to all of the people who have worked so hard to make the construction of Tawas Hospital possible. The laying of the cornerstone for this hospital on June 7 is an event of real significance not only to the people who will be served by the hospital but also to the people of the state.

Tawas Hospital will provide safe and complete hospital services to the 15,000 residents of Iosco County and parts of Alcona and Arenac counties. It will furnish hospital service to an area in which residents previously had to go a distance of almost forty miles to find public hospital service. This hospital is building Michigan to meet the needs of its people.

This new 38-bed general hospital comes into being as the result of the cooperative efforts of the citizens in the area, the local units of government, the Sisters of St. Joseph of Nazareth, Michigan, the state and the federal governments. It is a striking example of our efforts to build community hospitals in Michigan to meet the needs of the people of the state.

Working together, you here in this community have acted

Burleigh to Vote On School Building Proposal Monday

Added Modern Facilities to Cost $90,000

Would Provide Seven Rooms for Elementary Classes

Monday Burleigh Township Agricultural School District will vote on a $90,000 bond issue for the purpose of constructing a new elementary school building.

The election will be held at the school between the hours of 7:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

The proposed new elementary school, to include seven class rooms and a boiler room, is of modern design and is to be constructed of painted cinder block interior walls for acoustical effect with brick facing on the exterior.

All fireproof material has been specified for throughout the building, ceilings are to be of approved acoustical type and floors will be covered with asphalt tile.

The most modern type of natural bilateral class room lighting will be employed by the use of glass block and clerestory windows augmented with the latest practices of artificial lighting now known for class room use.

The proposed structure was designed by Clark Ackley, architect. It will be so located that any additions or extension required in the future can be incorporated in the over-all master plan.

The amount to be raised by the proposed tax increases will be $90,000. The bonds to be retired by 1965. The rate of 18 mills was recommended by Attorney Fred M. Thrum of Detroit, and is large enough to insure the payment of the bonds at the proper time under any circumstance that may arise, thus insuring a favorable sale of the bonds at a low interest rate.

The present two special school tax levies of five mills each will be cancelled by the adoption of the proposal.

Tell the Truth

Lesson for June 15, 1953

"FOR SALE: A portrait of George Washington, engraved on the finest bond paper, suitable for framing. Send only 25c, while they last. So ran an advertisement some years ago. When suckers sent in their quarters, what they got back were two-cent stamps. Now the ad had not "told a lie" in direct words. It was a portrait of Washington, right enough; a postage stamp is engraved on the finest bond paper, and it's suitable for framing if you like to frame anything as small as that. So the suckers could not get their money back. But the ad was a lie all the same, for it misled people into thinking something that wasn't true.

Dr. Foreman

Lies can be told without the use of words at all, lies can be told with winks of the eye, with facial expressions or gestures. A store window can be full of lies, for the merchandise there may not be actually like what they will sell you in the dim-lit store. Truth is more than just not telling a lie in actual words, truth is conveying ideas that do not deceive.

Scientific Truth
 JESUS seldom argued that truth is right, just as he seldom if ever argued that honesty is a good thing. Every one knows it.

What would you think of a person who came to you with this recommendation? "This man is a hard worker, he has plenty of brains, he has only one fault and that is, he is a liar." You'd never hire him. Every one wants truth told him.

But there are different kinds of truth. One is scientific. Now it is hardly possible to tell the complete truth from a scientific point of view.

"How old are you?" is a simple question and most people answer simply: Five, or fifty-five, or whatever the nearest year may be. But that's not a scientific answer. Five, and how many months, how many weeks, how many days, hours, minutes, seconds?

You see by the time you have figured it out to seconds (which would be the scientific truth) you are already several minutes older.

Well, you say, I don't care to know how old you are down to the last second. Of course you don't, and that brings up another kind of truth.

Social Truth
 THE KIND of truth in which Jesus was especially interested, and in which all of us take the most interest, is what we can call social truth, the kind of truthfulness that makes for friendly and trustworthy relationships between man and man.

If you apply for a driver's license and say you are seventeen when you are only fifteen, that's a lie. If you are seventeen and say so, and if your state will let you have a license at that age, then the clerk doesn't care a particle whether you are also seventeen and eleven months or seventeen and eleven hours.

"How are you?" is a harmless and common question. But if you have any sense, you won't answer, "Well, I don't know exactly because I have not had a check-up. But my pulse was 73 at 8:32 this morning. I have a slight fuzziness on my tongue. I did not have enough appetite to eat my sixth griddle cake for breakfast, my left foot seems to be developing fallen arch, I am getting over my handruff by degrees..." Who wants to know all that? Just tell them, "I'm fine."

If you are telling about your neighbor, just tell the important things. Don't pass on the fact that you heard somewhere that she had a cousin whose husband served time for larceny. Social truth has to pass three tests, not one: Is it true? Is it necessary? Is it kind?

Sacrificial Truth
 THE PINCH comes when a teeny weeny lie seems likely to help you out of a jam. What's the harm in a lie that doesn't hurt any one? Jesus gives us the answer. He classifies deceit along with the other sins that truly "defile a man."

When it comes to a show-down, which kind of man would you rather deal with: the man who will lie to keep himself out of trouble, or the man who is willing to take any kind of hurt rather than to dirty himself with a lie?

Truth when it hurts others may be sheer meanness; truth that hurts the truth-teller may be the noblest form of truth.

HOME EC NOTES

by Dorothy Scott, Home Demonstration Agent

Calendar—June 20, Friday: Grass Day at the James Mielock farm.

Another successful sewing machine workshop was conducted last week at the Whittemore Grange Hall for women in that community. Eight sewing machines arrived, along with the eight owners who worked steadily through the day at removing and cleaning parts, getting adjustments made that will insure easier and better operation in the months to come. Most of the women were wishing it was not coming into the busy summer months so that they could really go home and do a lot of sewing which they want to do and would like to get at, if there were not too many other things just ahead.

Anyway, the machines will be ready and waiting for them when a day or two permits a change of activity—sewing.

And if you would like to find out just what these folks did and learned, talk with one of them. In attendance were Mesdames Pauline Chipps, Leona Chipps, Grace Grabow, Eva Seigrist, Joy Bellen, Margaret Beller, Lila Trudell and Orilla Trudell.

The Iosco county home economics extension council met last week to discuss plans for lesson and workshop and county activities during the coming fall and spring. The council delegates will next discuss these items with the individual groups and report back so that a program of varied interests will be chosen for the county. At Council meeting were Mesdames A. W. Miller, Orville Lyke, A. T. Vary and Mrs. Burch.

Again, may we remind you that if you are not now participating in the Women's extension program, you may find how to do so by contacting an already organized group, or by writing or telephoning me. The telephone number is 641. Today is a good day to do it. Why not reach for your phone, now?

BULLDOZING — Landscaping, etc. Rudy Blata, Turner, Mich, 3-miles west of Singing Bridge, then 1-mile south. Also hand braided rugs made from your old coats. Ideal for cottages. Any size. 1724-b

WOOD FRAMING

You may be especially interested in knowing that the wood home of today can be built even more substantially than in the "Colonial Era." In fact, the application of modern methods of structural engineering assures lumber framing that is practically hurricane proof.

Wood is also most desirable for house-building because it is a natural insulator against heat or cold. This gives it a great advantage over the mineral building materials and assures greater comfort all the year 'round.

Wood combines strength and rigidity with lightness, an important factor in buildings of all descriptions and in all the work of life. Weight for weight, it is stronger than steel. It is resilient and shock absorbing. It is easily carved, sawed, planed and lathed to any desired pattern; it may be bent or twisted. It can be quickly nailed, doweled, joined or glued into place.

We will welcome the opportunity to plan your home with you, and will promptly give Free estimates on your plans and specifications, for a new Home, Store or Industrial Plant.

Retest to Begin Next Week

Iosco county cattle will receive a periodical retest beginning next week, was announced by Dr. L. F. Thayer, federal veterinarian who has been conducting this work in the northern Michigan area for the past several years.

Sixty farmers met at the Grant Township Hall where Dr. R. L. Alkire, federal veterinarian, assistant to Dr. C. H. Hays, and Dr. Thayer announced a new program which will allow the technicians to get an analysis of the infection in less time, with greatly reduced cost.

The county-wide retest for Brucellosis (Bang's Disease) of cattle in Iosco County will be altered to include the use of the milk ring or A. B. R. test.

The ABR test is conducted only on composite herd samples of milk and cream and is used as a screening agent to locate probable infected herds. Iosco counties milk and cream samples will be collected at the point of delivery and the tests conducted in the same type laboratory trailer as is used in conducting the blood tests for brucellosis.

Herds demonstrating any reaction to the milk test must then be blood tested to determine the presence of infected animals. Following the blood test and location of these reactor animals the program proceeds, as has been employed in the past, with identification of the infected animals and their removal from the herd.

In view of the fact that the ABR test is presumptive in nature, cattle or herds are not quarantined on the results of this test alone, and its results do not constitute an official test for the movement or sale of cattle.

Through its employment on a county-wide basis rapid coverage of an area can be achieved. Newly infected herds are located more quickly thus giving less opportunity for the disease to spread following its occurrence on a farm or in an area. It is planned to repeat the surveys of the county with the milk test at suitable intervals, so that the cows or herds not in production on the previous survey can be covered on succeeding visits to the county.

Beef cattle and cows whose milk is not being sold will be given the usual herd test later in the season. These herds may be left until fall when they are corralled in the barnyard.

BASS FISHING TOO GOOD
In more than one Michigan lake right now black bass are too willing to take just about anything tossed their way, and many sportsmen are considerably concerned about the situation. While the bass may be caught readily, they must be released inasmuch as the season is closed until June 21st. Yet fishing is permissible in all bass waters right now.

Some mortality is sure to result. It's pretty hard to remove gang hooks from any fish in many instances without inflicting severe injury, and bait fishing may be even worse, for a hook that's swallowed most often be cut away—an operation that frequently proves fatal.

Bass Now Spawning
The fact that Michigan bass are spawning at this writing is the cause for most concern. And it's this same fact that makes the fish so easy to catch. Appetite isn't the big factor in making a black bass strike at anything from a tiny fly to a piece of cloth on a hook these days. They're smashing at an imaginary intruder near their spawning grounds. The male fish is the protector at such times, and he'll haunt the area near the nest until the young are hatched. Even then Papa Bass will often cruise in wide circles around the school of fry, ready to ward off all enemies.

Prized Game Fish
Probably no inland lake fish is more highly prized than the black bass—both large and small-mouth, so it is little wonder that many people fear the results of the early opening of our lakes to fishing. Few fish put on the spectacular performance of the bass, especially when hooked on light tackle. The plunging surge of a small-mouth, followed by a fine show of aerial acrobatics makes dreams come true for the average fisherman, and the fact that the meat is very tasty adds to the enjoyment of the catch.

Fletcher Floodwaters Typical
Up near Hillman in the Fletcher Floodwaters you'll find a typical example of the situation. Would-be pike fishermen are having a hard time keeping bass off the hook—and with big pike lures many of the fish must be severely injured during the process of release. Fish biologists aren't worried however. They claim there's plenty of seed stock on hand to keep the population at par. But many sportsmen aren't too happy. You can't blame them. Who could be happy about tossing back a 5 pound bass just because the season doesn't open for a few days?

Mort Neff's "Michigan Outdoors" television show may be seen every Thursday at 10:15 p.m. on stations WWJ-TV, Detroit and WJIM-TV, Lansing.

Dr. Willard H. Parsons of Wayne University shows two of his geology students Joseph Koublevicz of Iron River (left) and Mike Brady of Grayling a specimen of crystallized copper from Michigan's famous "Copper Country."

Copper—a dangerously scarce metal vital to defense production in the United States today—occurs in Michigan as free or native metal in the rock and is by far the most important copper deposit of this type on earth.

Michigan's upper peninsula, also known as the "Copper Country" around the State, is America's oldest copper district.

Geology students at Wayne University in Detroit have been studying these recent developments in the nation's copper supply and have come up with many interesting facts.

Located in Michigan are rich veins of copper which are believed to have been the world's purest, Dr. Willard H. Parsons, chairman of the geology department at Wayne, explained.

Michigan's copper country is a rugged, hilly, wooded region. Stretching about 100 miles along Lake Superior, it extends northeast from the Porcupine Mountains in Ontonagon County out along the Keweenaw Peninsula. The important copper shipping ports are the twin cities of Houghton and Hancock.

According to Dr. Parsons, nobody knows who the earliest copper miners on Michigan were, but from the relics of tools and weapons found in the woods, archaeologists set the date before Columbus' time. These prehistoric miners left over 10,000 pits on Isle Royale, the United State's only island national park. A piece of mass copper weighing 5,721 pounds was found here in 1874 and exhibited at the Centennial Exposition in 1876.

The first commercial copper mining in the State was done by individual miners and prospectors in 1845. Later deep mining proved highly profitable and mining companies were formed to exploit the rich veins. Deep shafts often extending to vertical depths of one mile were sunk. The Quincy Mine shaft, located near Hancock is over 9,500 feet. One of the deepest mines in the world, it can still produce plenty of copper.

For 40 years the industry flourished. It was then affected by the rise of copper mining in some western states and in Africa. The low mining costs and valuable by-products of these new mines set up economic barriers against Michigan's output.

Now with the help of the government, and with newly developed methods of prospecting and mining, the area may again come to life. There are many who believe its future lies in the numerous unexplored regions. One government loan will be used to reopen the White Pines Mine in Ontonagon County. Government officials have called the White Pine ore body the "largest undeveloped but discovered copper reserve in America."

To Study New Soil Plan at Mielock Farm

A time tested principle of "learning to walk before you run" has been applied by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service to farm conservation planning, Jim Mielock, chairman of the Iosco soil conservation district, pointed out today. As a result of this new procedure which is now being used here in the local district, the job of getting conservation on the land is being speeded up materially.

The new system is known as "progressive planning." There are three stages which follow a logical sequence, Mielock explained.

As an illustration, a farmer might first ask the soil conservation district for technical help in laying out some particular conservation practice. As soon as he signs an agreement with his district he becomes a district cooperator. In this he agrees to use all of his land within its capabilities and treat it according to its needs. These are the steps in the development of a basic conservation plan on his farm, which is his final objective.

This agreement, Mielock said, is not a contract under which either party can sue or be sued. Neither does it have a penalty clause. It is simply a written expression of intention.

As soon as this new cooperator completes the agreement he is given technical assistance by the SCS farm planner in laying out the practices he is interested in. This is the initial stage in developing a basic farm conservation plan.

The second stage of the progressive procedure usually develops after this particular farmer has had a chance to see how well his first practices have worked in reducing erosion, holding more rain on his fields and increasing yields.

From the initial stage the farmer moves naturally into the advanced stage of farm planning. Here he learns more about developing his basic plan and usually applies a number of additional conservation practices.

At this time he is given a land capability map for his farm along with a set of printed conservation recommendations as general guides. These fit all of the land classes shown on his particular farm and give the farmer alternate ways to meet his land problems. He makes his own choice of various cropping systems and practices, either of which is well adapted in farming the land within its natural capabilities. The farmer also receives full information on how to use the map and guides.

From the advanced phase, he progresses into full application of a basic soil conservation plan tailored to fit every acre of land on his farm. The farm planner gives him technical assistance out on his farm in working out this basic plan including engineering assistance if it is needed and detailed advice on special soil and erosion problems.

In developing his basic plan, the farmer not only decides how he is going to use each acre, discussing the matter with a trained soil conservationist—the farm planner, but also gives the district a copy of his plan together with a statement of intentions.

Tells Why Spuds Are Scarce

The answer to the oft-repeated question, "Why are potatoes so scarce?" is simply this: Not enough potatoes were produced last year to meet our normal needs. This is about the end of the marketing period for last year's crop, and the new crop from heavy-producing areas has not yet reached the market—so potatoes are scarce. They probably will continue scarce until the Kern County, California crop reaches retail stores in large volume during the first half of June.

Production of potatoes last year amounted to 325 million bushels, more than 100 million bushels less than the 1950 production and about 85 million below the 10 year average. One of the main reasons for the smaller production undoubtedly was the fact that there was no price support program for the 1951 crop. Acreage planted last year was little more than half of the average acreage from 1940 to 1949.

There was a drop in the average yield per acre from 253.7 bushels in 1950 to 240.7 bushels per acre in 1951 because of unfavorable growing conditions in some areas in 1951. Even with the drastic reduction in acreage only about 15 million bushels below the reduction in yield, however, the 1951 production was low the quantity needed to meet normal demand. Some reduction in acreage was expected when the price support program for potatoes was dropped after the 1950 crop. The national acreage goal for potatoes last year was set at 1,560,000 acres. Farmers planted only 1,379,000, nearly 200,000 acres below the national goal. This year the Department asked farmers to increase their potato plantings by about 100,000 acres. It is too early to tell what actual plantings will be, but intentions farmers expressed in March indicate that they will plant about the same acreage as last year.

One reason that the scarcity of potatoes is so intense at this time is that the new crop potatoes from California, Alabama, and the Carolinas are from two to four weeks later than usual this year. Since the old crop moved to market faster than usual this year, there is a gap of a few weeks ago when potatoes are not readily available.
