Sunken Treasure Search Reaches National Headlines

The "Kitty Reeves" and her fabalous cargo of copper has again entered the limelight. Newswriters from Chicago, Detroit and other large city newspapers are seeking information for stories on the operations to locate and recover the treasure. Life Magazine is planning an illustrated feature story.

The treasure hunt began when Julius Roth, a retired Ohio businessman, became acquainted with the story of the ill-fated "Kitty Reeves." The boat had gone to the bottom of Saginaw bay with a cargo of copper with an estimated value of a quarter million dollars.

Back in 1946, after months of research, Roth felt that he had located the position of the "Kitty Reeves," and work was started to recover the hidden fortune. Ill luck dogged his efforts. At one time he had the Sandsucker Fort Meigs over the spot but heavy winds and sea broke up the boat and interfered with the work of deep sea divers. The failure was a heavy loss to Roth and his backers.

Last week, Roth backed by the Zack Metal Company, of Detroit, started efforts to re-locate the position of "Kitty Reeves." Enrolled in the work were G. S. Bennett and C. D. Hause, electronic engineers, of East Tawas and boats from the J. L. Brown Fish Company of Alabaster. The Sandsucker Sandcraft was brought from Detroit for work in the operations.

All luck was still following Roth for a rival searching party appeared on the scene, and anchored their boat, the 60-foot Schooner Bercliff over the spot located by Roth. W. G. Shannon of Saginaw, Dan Keller, a metal dealer in Chicago, and others are interested in the rival operations.

Keller said late Wednesday afternoon, "We are setting on top of what I am confident is the "Kitty Reeves," and we are going to stay there. Our drill brought up wood chips from timber which I believe is the oak deck of the sunken hull. We sent these chips to the University of Michigan for analysis.

"We hit something with the drill that was hard enough to be metal just before we quit late last night. A heavy sea prevented operations today, but we'll be at it again tomorrow morning, we hope."

Win from West Branch Last Sunday

Rural Agricultural School Act of Michigan Explained

We wrote last week concerning the evolution of the reorganization of the Michigan school districts. The legislative act of 1942 which changed the City of Detroit from seven ward districts to one city district was the first law for school reorganization in the state. Six other general laws have been enacted since then by the Michigan Legislature to further the movement.

It is by far the last one of the above general laws that the voters of the 13 local districts will be given an opportunity to form one Rural Agricultural School District. Some of the important provisions of the law are given below.

1. The question must be submitted at a special election called for that purpose.

2. The reorganized district must have a valuation of at least $1,000.00 or an area of at least 18 sections.

3. The school is expected to provide for the teaching of agriculture, manual arts, and home economics.

4. The school site must conform. (Continued No. 4, Back Page)

I CAN still remember the sense of pride I got when my patient mother taught me the art of embroidery and I was able to stitch colorful designs and pictures on doilies and aprons. Mom showed me the stitches she had learned from her mother, who, in turn, was taught by her parent. In most cases, the love for embroidery has been passed on through the ages in just that way.

well as possible, to reproduce pictures of the animals, according to the descriptions, in embroidery on draperies and other wall hangings. The Orient influenced embroidery fashions when sea routes were opened farther Eastward. Embroidery began on the North American continent with the Indians who used porcupine quills and strips of animal skins in making their designs. Of course, the European influence was brought to America with the colonists. Pioneering wives considered embroidery a luxurious pastime because materials were not accessible on the newly-discovered continent. As the country has grown, embroidery as a pleasurable pastime has been carried on by the American women throughout each phase of our history.

EMBROIDERY WITH A PAST

During the late 16th century in Europe, elaborate embroidery was extremely popular. Robes, coverlets and pictures for wall panels were richly embroidered in expensive threads on fine materials. Biblical scenes and religious studies were the favorite subjects for these pieces of needlework. As trade by sea became more extensive during the Renaissance, embroidery trends changed. Sea captains returned home to tell of all the strange, wild beasts they had seen in new lands and the women tried, as

Making of a King
Lesson for August 24, 1952

ONE of the most romantic and heroic figures known to song and story is that of David, King of Israel. Even when Christ came to earth, his fellow-countrymen could think of no grander title for him than "Son of David."

Now David has been idealized almost beyond recognition. The whole story of his life (as seen in the Bible) reveals a man in whom strength and weakness, good and evil, were strangely mingled.

But that is not the main point here. The fact is, David made a strong and successful king; and if there was evil in him, it was more in the older man than in the young one. The story of how he became king is too long even to review here. Let us concentrate on that eloquent little one-sentence portrait of him drawn for a description of him by one of his friends when they both were young. It is found in I Sam. 16:18.

His Family and His Fun

THE BIG ARGUMENT for strong David by his friend who was recommending him to the king, is that he was son of Jesse of Bethlehem.

A man's family is not an important fact. Men do not often reach high places merely on the reputation of their ancestors; but having the right parents will make a good start.

This is seriously true; for a man's heredity is what goes into the making of his bone and muscle, brain and nerves. The kind of place where a man lived as a boy, the kind of father he had, spells volumes about the man, even years later.

Can we forget that David was the son of a sheep-rancher, a boy who grew up working out of doors? That his parents were God-fearing people?

David's friend also mentioned his playing the harp. No doubt David did this as a recreation; he was no professional musician. But his avocation, his spare-time enjoyment, turned out to be the first rung on his climb to fame. It is important to know about any man: How does he spend his spare time?

His Brawn and His Brains

DAVID'S FRIEND, recommending him for a position in the royal court, spoke of him as a "mighty man of valor, and a man of war." This was an exaggeration, for David at that time had never seen military service, as the story in Samuel shows.

However, it was a good prophecy; and so far as the valor went, it had well been proved. A man who can take a bear by the beard and kill him, may be a bit rash but he is certainly no coward. And what muscles that young man must have had! Never think of David as a little boy when he killed Goliath the giant; he was an athlete better than most.

But David, unlike some athletes, did not need a manager. He was a "man of war," or at least the young friend who was describing him thought he was; and time proved him right.

Now it takes more than muscle to be a successful general. Almost anybody can be a private; and a man can rise somewhat in the ranks on sheer brute power. But when it comes to staff work, planning campaigns, handling large numbers of men and supplies, fitting everything together like a gigantic chess game with nations at stake, —that calls organizing ability, farsightedness, mental powers of a high order.

His Face, His Fluency, His Faith

THE UNKNOWN young man whose word-picture of David we are following, was like many young people in mixing together items that an older person would take up separately. Almost in one breath he reported that David was a good speaker, good-looking and godly.

But the best thing about him, his friend saved to the last: the Lord is with him. We make a mistake if we think that highly gifted, fortunate people can afford to get on without God. It is just these who need God most, if we can say that any one person needs God more than others.

Let us rather say that it is more important for the rest of us that the superior men and women among us, be God-fearing, God-loving, God-obeying men and women, than that less important persons should be so.

U. S. Election Influence

It is probably no accident that the planners in the Kremlin have chosen the most hectic of all American election summers to do some of their ugliest nose-thumbing.

Election years in the U.S.A. are always watched most carefully by those in Europe who have something ominous to put across.

It was no accident, for instance, that Mussolini, Hitler, and Japan ganged up in the fall of 1936—an election year—to start unofficial submarine warfare in the Mediterranean while Japan was pushing farther into China. Roosevelt called a conference in Brussels to try to stop the Japs, but worried politicians, including Cordell Hull, finally induced him to pull his punches.

It was also no accident that Hitler picked the election summer of 1940 to drive into France and try to take England. He knew that American isolationists would do their best to tie Roosevelt's hand.

Likewise, it is probably no accident that the Kremlin is making some of its most telltale moves this summer—at a time when the American public is thinking about the heat, summer vacations, and who will be the next President of the United States. Here are some of the moves spurred on my Moscow at this time:

1. Reported test of the first Russian hydrogen bomb. If this is true, then the Soviet is ahead of us in developing the H-bomb. Bruno Pontecorvo, who escaped behind the iron curtain, is reported to be the scientist who developed it. Of course, these reports could be another part of the war of nerves. But if true, a hydrogen bomb in Russian hands will seriously upset the balance of military and diplomatic power in Europe. For nations like to be on the side of the nation with the greatest power, and so far our atomic power has been overwhelming.

2. Possibility that Iran will go Communist. Iranian riots and the demand that the American arms mission pack up and leave is no accident. Of course, incredible State department and British stupidity have played right into Russian hands. But Communist agents, who now swarm all over Iran, are rapidly bringing about a situation where the Shah will have to abdicate, and Iran will fall into Red hands like a ripe plum.

When that time comes, Communist influence is bound to march down through neighboring oil-rich Iraq, to oil-rich Arabia, to strategic Egypt and the Suez canal. Thus, the Soviet by working around Greece and Turkey, may circumvent the billions of American money sent into Greece and Turkey.

3. Frenzied Soviet rearming of East Germany. This was spurred on partly by our pushing of a West European army. It is also why thousands of German refugees are fleeing into West Germany. They want to escape conscription into the Red army. But this rush by Russia to build up an East German army has brought great consternation to other Germans regarding the most important, farsighted project Europe has been since 1870—the unity of French and German troops under one flag.

On top of these, are some other factors attributable more to bad luck or American stupidity than to Soviet astuteness. While the men in the Kremlin can't take credit for them, they certainly are benefiting from them. Here they are:

A. The economic illness of Great Britain. This goes hand-in-hand with the split in the labor party and the increasing strength of the cut-loose-from-America group.

What's happened in England is exactly what's been happening in the United States. England now has an isolationist party. It's somewhat comparable to the isolationists led by Senator Taft and Colonel McCormick, except that, being labor leaders, they don't belong to the same economic strata.

B. The wobbly situation in France. What most people don't realize is that American subsidies, both under the Marshall Plan and later under the North Atlantic pact, long have kept middle-of-the-road leaders of France in power.

We have long benefited from a loose alliance between the Catholic leaders of the middle, the non-Communist leaders of labor, and small businessmen of the middle. The chief factors keeping them together are fear of communism plus the fact that the French government could balance its budget through subsidies from the United States. While these have not been large compared to the total French budget, they represented the margin that kept the middle parties in power.

Today congress has drastically cut this margin, and France may be torn between the Communist left and the Fascist right of anti-American General de Gaulle. This comes at a time when the Kremlin is pushing its propaganda harder than ever and when we appear to be within gun-shot of attaining the great goal of a European army.

Woman Again Wins Jackpot

For the second time in the "Toast of the Tawas" Safety program, a lady was the driver of the chosen car and as such became the winner of the giant jack-pot of surprises including such things as meals, fishing trip for the whole family, overnight lodgings, entertainments, and gifts, totaling well over two hundred and fifty dollars. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dover and their two children, eight year old Sharon and four year old Tommy of Monroe, Michigan were headed for the Tawas area on a "spur of the moment" vacation. Since Mr. Dover has operated a Gulf Gas Station for the past nine years finds it very hard to get away for a rest. When asked why Mrs. Dover was driving the family car, he said that he was on a vacation and was "just relaxing." Needless to say, the entire family were thrilled beyond words and Mrs. Dover was literally speechless, to the dismay of Jack Parker, who interviews the winners for a radio broadcast which is aired each week over WSGW, Saginaw, WTAC, Flint, and a 1000 watt radio station in both Dearborn and Jackson. Parker, a veteran radio broadcaster, found it difficult to get Mrs. Dover to say very much, but the fact that she was very excited and happy was well recorded.

The Dover's are the sixth winners of the safety award, "Toast of the Tawas," in which a tourist car is stopped by one of the local law enforcement officers, taken to the Tawas Chamber of Commerce office, and given all the many prizes from the local merchants. This week the courtesy car was manned by George Ruth, Tawas City Chief of Police, and Don Watson, Tawas City Resort operator. They were accompanied by Elmer Slaven, who took some pictures of the "arrest," on the scene.

TOURISTS TICKETED INSTEAD OF TOASTED

Remember a few days back the story of the "Toast of the Tawas"? How local and State police thereabouts were going to give especially courteous drivers a summons that entitled them to all kinds of thanks for their caution? Mary Lynch reports, and I hope blushing, that a State trooper pulled a Detroit car over directly in front of her glass-caged eyrie in the Chamber of Commerce. The occupants were gleeful... expecting goodies. Not so. They were speeding.—Detroit Free Press.

HOME EC NOTES

by Dorothy Scott, Home Demonstration Agent

The council meeting in September will complete arrangements for the district fall rally to be held on October 15 at Hale Community Building. Iosco county home demonstration groups will be host to members of similar groups from Arenac, Ogemaw, Gladwin, Clare, Oscoda and Alcona counties at that time.

More information about the event will be provided as the time approaches, just remember the date is October 15.

If your canned corn turns dark — read your directions again. The same discoloration that sometimes is seen in fruit may occur in corn. Sometimes the cause may be packing corn that is too young and tender, but remember too, that corn past the "milk" stage will be dry and hard.

Another preventative measure is to be sure the corn is packed into clean jars while it is boiling hot, and be sure there is half as much water as there is corn, by actual measure.

Again as with other vegetables process corn for the correct length of time (55 min. for pint jars, in the pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure). Cool them as quickly as possible, which means spread the jars far apart.

A bushel of corn in husks will yield between eight and nine quarts.

Corn to be frozen must be blanched. Usually this is done on the cob, and the blanching time is from 8 to 10 minutes depending upon the size of the corn ears. Do not forget the very important cooling step, and that a quantity of water is important to speed, both for blanching and the cooling. Corn is packed in moisture-vapor-proof containers dry. That means no liquid is added.

Your assurance of success and satisfaction with frozen corn is increased when you select only a tried and true variety for this purpose. Among these are Carmelcross, Golden Cross Bantam, Seneca Chief and Tendermost. Are you growing any of these in your garden this summer?

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

IN The Tawas Herald

The bride carried an all white bouquet of carnations and satin streamers. The attendants carried colonial bouquets of matching colors.

Joseph Rabideau, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man and Arthur Kuehnemund, brother-in-law of the bride, was groomsmen.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Felske chose a blue and white nylon print dress with white accessories and a corsage of carnations. The groom's mother chose a pink satin dress with white accessories and corsage of carnations, also.

The wedding party and immediate families were served breakfast at the home of the groom's parents following the ceremony.

In the evening a dance and reception were held at the Hampton Community Hall on Center Avenue in Bay City for 500 guests.

For the wedding trip the bride changed to a powder blue suit, with white accessories. Their trip took them through 10 states. After seeing Yellow Stone National Park, the couple returned to their home in Bay City.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Mrs. Lyman Lloyd, Mrs. Harold Parent, Mrs. Lloyd Newvine, Mrs. Kenneth Pringle and Mrs. Merlin Jordan in McIvor and Mrs. Arthur Kuehnemund, Mrs. Hoarst and Mrs. Felske in Bay City.

Outstanding Wheat Varieties

Michigan has two outstanding wheat varieties—Yorkwin and Cornell 595. Yield and test weights of the two are about the same, and both good. Yorkwin is slightly more winter hardy and has a more plump berry. Cornell 595 has a stiffer straw and a higher degree of resistance to loose smut.

Navy Recruiter Cuts Weekly Visit Here

United States Navy Recruiter, Donald G. LaBeau, Chief Torpedoman's Mate, of the Navy Recruiting Office in Saginaw announces today that due to a cut in the Navy Recruiting appropriations the former scheduled itinerary of the Navy Recruiter in East Tawas will be temporarily discontinued until further notice.

Contact of the Navy Recruiting Service in this area may be made at the Navy Recruiting Office located at the New Federal Building in Saginaw. Office hours are 8:30 A. M. to 4:30 P. M., Monday thru Saturday noon except on Tuesdays at which time the Navy Recruiter will be at the Post Office in Bay City.

Budgetary limitations of the Recruiting Service has made it necessary to cut approximately 50 percent of the Navy Recruiting personnel, which results in one Navy Recruiter in Saginaw-Bay City area. This does not allow sufficient personnel to be in East Tawas weekly as previously scheduled.

Navy Recruiter Donald G. LaBeau will be available at the Recruiting Office in Saginaw or Bay City to interview any persons interested in the Navy and to accept application for enlistment and will also be available for any information regarding the Navy.

Michigan is the most advanced stage of the answer to the "small district problem" in the state. That is, it is the most advanced attempt, in the light of the present educational philosophy, to remedy the defects of the small district that are caused by the lack of proper financial support and the lack of the necessary number of children. One should particularly note in regard to the Rural Agricultural Schools in Michigan that an attempt is made to carry out much of generally accepted educational philosophy of the reorganized school.
