$2,050 Awards In AuSable Canoe Classics

Events Will Start at Grayling, Friday September 12

A first prize of $1000.00 is expected to draw expert paddlers from Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota and Canada to the Sixth Annual AuSable River Canoe Classic. Prize money to be distributed among the winners totals $2050. This year's race starts at midnight, Friday September 12, at Grayling. Several changes have been made in this year's rules and regulations, including the increase of first prize money to $1,000.

Under the 1952 rules, only stock model canoes will be permitted. Racing hulls have won the event in 1950 and 1951. The other important change is the starting time.

All previous runnings of the AuSable canoe classic got underway in the afternoon. This year the race will begin at midnight at the US-27 high way bridge at Grayling. This means that all six power dams on the course will be portaged in daylight. Previously, all dams except the last was portaged in darkness. The change to stock model canoes and the starting time should have little effect on the running time of the course, because contestants will be able to move more quickly across the large backwaters of the dams in daylight.

The canoes are expected to reach Mio early Saturday morning and the race to end at Oscoda Saturday evening.

Ted Engle of Gaylord and Jay Stephan were the winners of the 1951 classic. They completed the race in 17 hours, 36 minutes and 55 seconds.

The Michigan Canoe Championships is sponsored jointly by the Grayling Chamber of Commerce; Oscoda-AuSable Chamber of Commerce; Mio Sportsman's Club and the Glennie Business Association.

Up at Tawas the Chamber of Commerce in connection with the police have developed a novel idea to promote the value of safety driving. There is a heavy flow of traffic through the Tawas during the summer months on U. S. 23. The people of this community have conceived an idea of rewarding careful driving as a possible stimulus to selling safety first in driving to more folks.

Cooperate in Fair Grounds Wheat Planting Project

The Iosco County Agricultural Society acquired land some time ago to allow for expansion. After the race track was laid out, there were about twelve acres of access land. This past Spring some members of the board conceived an idea which may prove profitable. The plan consisted of working the land and planting it to wheat which could be harvested next summer; the proceeds would apply to defray expenses and further ground improvements.

A discussion was held at a meeting concerning the possibility of net gain; considering the cost of labor, machine hire, seed, fertilizer, etc. Board members began volunteering to do their part. Other farmers volunteered to help. The ground is being fitted, the seed is pledged and the wheat project looks like a reality, with little or no expense.

These people are "giving until it hurts" in the interest of a better Iosco County Fair. Our hats are off to busy people, who find time.

This season, quarry, mill and tramway operations have required the employment of 143 men.

School Reorganization in Iosco County Recounted

We have noted previously that the "small district system" originated in New England, was transferred from there to New York, and was brought from this state to Michigan by the early settlers. It was adopted by our state in 1837.

As one would believe, then, the early school history of Sherman is the history of the small district within the township; that is five districts in all. When the National Gypsum Corporation began to operate in the township, the plant was founded in district No. five. As a result, this district had a much larger valuation than the other four, and a much larger per capita valuation. In order to do away with these inequalities, an election was held in 1928 which resulted in the formation of a township unit district by a majority of two votes. As a result, the same amount of wealth for school purposes was now back of each pupil, and there was one board of education rather than five.

Alabaster was first to score in Sunday's thriller, stepping out in front in the second when C. Erickson scored on Rollin's single. A second run was added in the seventh when C. Erickson scored again on a throwing error charged to the third baseman. Pinny got under motion in the seventh and pushed across two runs.

Alabaster added a third run in the eighth, only to have Pinny chalk up three runs in their half of the eighth. Score Pinconning 5, Alabaster 3.

Alabaster sluggers went into the ninth, with their bats off their shoulders, pushing over three runs on four hits. Score Alabaster 6, Pinconning 5.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

WHICH are the most important evenings in a teen-ager's life? Saturday nights, I'd suspect. Even television won't take the place of a movie date on the week-end and an after-theater trip to the ice cream parlor where the "crowd" always meets.

occasion. Variety in your wardrobe doesn't necessarily mean that you must have numerous outfits. Different effects can be achieved by the clever use of accessories such as a cute hat and bag, a bright scarf and gloves or a belt. I'll never forget the time a friend looked at a four-year-old suit of mine, to which I had added a belt and a striped scarf, and asked if I had a new outfit.

TOPICS FOR TALK

It's helpful to know how to "small talk" when you're dating, but the truly interesting girls and fellows are able to carry on conversations about books, art and world-wide events as well as they can talk about the most popular crooner, who's going steady about town and what the latest dance steps are. Take out a little time each evening, after supper, and read the important news items in your newspaper. That man in your life will be mighty impressed with your knowledge.

"I MADE IT MYSELF"

Since fellows are always appreciative of the girl who makes her own clothes, your boy friend will be doubly impressed when you can say, "I made it myself!" How about crocheting a hat and a bag to accessorize your dating clothes and see what admiration you will get? It's easy. The red wool bag and calot are simply made of rounds of double crochet and applied with felt butterflies. The bag is lined with the same colored felt used for the applique. Crocheting directions and transfer pattern for the butterflies can be obtained from the Needlework Department of this paper. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with a request for DOUBLE DATE, Leaflet No. 2804.

YOU'RE DATABLE IF

Saturday night will not be the loneliest night in the week if you remember that boys like to date girls who are interesting, sincere, happy and well-groomed. You won't have to have the most expensive wardrobe in town, either, to inspire your favorite beau to say, "I've got a crush on you." A clear complexion with a well-scrubbed look is a "must," so use a complexion brush often. A hair brush used regularly will make the most of your tresses. As for your dating clothes—just be sure they are neat and appropriate for the occasion.

INTERNATIONAL UNIFORMS SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: II Samuel 5:6-25; 8-9
DEVOTIONAL READINGS: Psalm 72: 1-7

The Statesman

Lesson for August 31, 1952

A POLITICIAN is a man who goes into politics as a man goes into any game—to win. He wants office, wants people to vote for him. Popularity is his stock in trade. A statesman, on the other hand, is not remembered for the number of votes he commanded, nor for the number of times he was elected, nor for the particular titles he held. A statesman's claim to fame is not based on what he did for himself, but on what he did for his country. That is why a "statesman is a dead politician." Some time has to go by, before it can be finally said whether any particular politician's career was good for his country or not.

Dr. Foreman

Achieving Unity
DAVID, King of Israel, has been dead long enough now so that we can with great assurance call him a statesman. We saw a few weeks ago (Aug. 10 and 17) that Saul faced much the same problems that face nations today, but failed to solve them, largely because he was the wrong kind of man. David had the same problems; but he solved them.
We must remember that David's times were a thousand years before Christ, so of course he was no Christian. Nevertheless, looking back at his achievements, history can say, Well done! Here lived a man who had what it took to lead his nation to have and to be what it needed to have and to be at that time.

What Israel needed to become a strong nation were unity and security. At Saul's death these were lacking, and of course that spelled national weakness. The split between Judah and the other tribes had never been healed, David secured the unity of the nation in a dramatic way: he captured the city of Jerusalem which had been in enemy hands for hundreds of years, and made that city, for the first time, the capital of Israel. He built his palace there (Saul's had been at Gibeah,) he brought the ark there (see lesson for Sept. 14), and intended building a temple which would be the central shrine for the entire nation. Through creating this new and centrally located capital, David achieved political, military, religious and sentimental unity all at once.

Some Wars Are Not in Vain
AS FOR national security, there are three kinds of it and David developed all of them. First there is military security. The only way to get it, for David, was to beat down the armies that had been beating the Israelites.
It is a blood-stained story; but still the question is a fair one: If David had lost all the battles he won, what would have become of Israel? They would have gone the way of the Hivites and the Girgashites—if any one knows where that is. A few scraps of pottery, perhaps, some fragments of ruined walls, something for professors of ancient history to dig up and wonder about,—that is what Israel would have come down to, if David's wars had not succeeded.
He wound up his series of wars with this happy situation: Every single nation or tribe that had been giving the Israelites trouble, was either welded into the Israelites kingdom, or made into an ally.

Other Kinds of Security
ANOTHER kind of security is commercial. A nation cut off from trade with its neighbors is doomed to be a poor nation, even perhaps a beggar nation. Out of the mass of proper names in these chapters about David's kingdom, four are specially meaningful: Edom and Tyre and Damascus and Hamath. The three latter were great commercial and transportation centers. Edom, with its border on the Red Sea, gave Israel for the first time a seaport on deep water, with all the possibilities that involved.
The reign of David's successor was to be one of unprecedented prosperity and international good will; but it was David's statesmanlike policies that made the prosperity possible.
The third kind of security is more internal, and more a matter of the spirit than of the sword, more of the mind than of money. It is the national security which can exist only where there is a united and uniting loyalty on the part of the citizens.
David had the rare gift which a politician uses for selfish ends, a statesman for the good of his country: the ability to make friends out of potential enemies.

HOW MANY DEER WILL WE TAKE?

Everybody else is talking about the new deer-hunting regulations, so we'd better register our opinion while the subject is "hot!" With the northern part of the lower peninsula wide-open for killing any deer, buck, doe or fawn on the last three days of the season, mortal damage might be done to our deer herd if three or four hundred thousand hunters took to the woods with a determined gleam in their eye. However, fortunately for the deer, a few psychological factors are working against this possibility.

Record Army Will Start

Let's begin with opening day, November 15th. Probably a record number of hunters will open the season. Opening day falls on a Saturday. There'll be more noise in the Michigan woods that day than any battle in history ever produced! Lots of deer will be killed and they won't all be bucks. The hornless variety shot by "trigger-happies" will be left to rot in the woods, and the culprits who escape will tell their conscience: "Oh well, they'd be shot the last 3 days anyway, so why should I worry?" Many of these hunters will still consider themselves sportsmen. That's debatable!

As the season moves along and those fatal 3 days approach, more and more bucks will have been killed, and at least one-fourth, or about 100,000 hunters will have gone home with their trophy. Another 200,000 will have "had it." The rugged spirit of the chase doesn't feel so rugged any more. Pocketbooks will have grown slimmer, and mamma will be saying, "No more hunting, Pop! Baby needs new shoes." That leaves 100,000 more or less strong.

Deer Get Smart

The last 3 days fall on a week-end. That's bad—for the deer. But deer get smart. All that noise has made them college-educated. Even the fawns get the idea and head for tall timber that's hard to find. So what happens? The success ratio will stay about the same in my opinion.

Another 30,000 deer, with and without horns will be killed in 3 days—and that many only if the weather is good. A customary late November snow storm will cut that figure to 10,000. So, after the ball is over the "disaster" that some people anticipate may not even produce a kill great enough to begin to level off the herd as much as our game experts call for. We'll wait and see. However, if those last 3 days are bright and sunny lots of people who ordinarily love Michigan Outdoors will take the advice of their insurance agents and choose Michigan Indoors for a safe and sane week-end!

Mort Neff's "Michigan Outdoors" television show may be seen every Thursday at 10:00 p.m. on stations WWJ-TV, Detroit and WJIM-TV, Lansing.

PMA Elections Now Being Held

Community PMA elections are being held in each of the nine farm communities of Iosco county during the period from August 18 through September 8. Ballots have been mailed to all eligible farmer-voters and will be accepted in the county PMA office through September 8. Farmers who are participating in or carrying out practices in accord with programs administered by the Production and Marketing Administration committee are generally eligible to vote. The election will name community committeemen and delegates to a county convention where the county committee to operate 1953 PMA programs will be elected.

Earl M. Partlo, chairman of the Iosco County PMA Committee emphasizes that the effectiveness of Agricultural Conservation Program operations and of price support and marketing programs will depend a great deal on the community committeemen who are voted in at these elections. Farmers in each community are urged to look over the field carefully and make sure that farmers are elected who will have the time to devote to the job.

Mr. Partlo says that this year these elections are of particular significance because of the added responsibility which will be given to community committeemen in administering the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program. The concentration of program operations in 1953 on the problems of individual farms adds to the need for able committeemen. Committeemen will be expected to help each farmer in determining the conservation needs on his farm and in making the most effective use of ACP assistance and available services in carrying out most needed practices. They will be responsible for contacting every farmer in the community.

Since this program has to do with the protection and improvement of the soil and conservation of water on the farms of the county, community committeemen are in a key position in the fight for continued production. If we are to have enough food and fiber in the years ahead, it will have to come largely from our present crop land. That means we must protect it so that it will keep on producing. That is why we have the Agricultural Conservation Program, and that is why we need the best possible farmer committee leadership. The effort must be successful or there will be less food on the Nation's tables in the years ahead.

Change of Heart

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Teddy and one of the rulers of Washington society, is either getting benign or else has fallen for the Eisenhower charm.

After Wilkie was nominated, Alice remarked, "He sprang from the grass-roots of the country clubs of America."

After Dewey was nominated, she cracked: "How can you vote for a man who looks like a bridegroom on a wedding cake?"

Both men had defeated Mrs. Longworth's close friend, Bob Taft. But of the man who defeated Taft for the third time, Alice is more tolerant.

"Naturally, I am sorry that Bob didn't make it," she tells friends. "But that's the way it was and I am willing to accept it."

She admitted that she watched the Eisenhower demonstration. "But," she added, "conventions aren't what they used to be. Television is spoiling them."

U. S. and Argentina

Shortly before Evita Peron died, U.S. relations with Argentina had reached such an all-time low that eventual withdrawal of the American ambassador was under consideration. The low point occurred July 10, with the bombing of the Abraham Lincoln Library in Buenos Aires, an official U.S. library operated by the State department's cultural division.

The American public, engrossed in political conventions, knew almost nothing about this incident. And the Argentine police appeared to know and care even less. Though the explosion injured two U.S. employees and did $15,000 worth of damage, the Argentine government merely shrugged its shoulders over the official protest of Charge d' Affaires Lester Mallory. In fact, the Argentine ministry of foreign affairs did not even answer his protest for a matter of three days.

Even in Moscow, American officials get more courteous treatment than the rude haughtiness handed out to U.S. diplomats in Argentina. Nor does the Moscow press go any further than the Argentine press in labeling Americans as "Wall Street imperialists," "Yanqui barbarians," and "warmongers."

Through all this, the State department has continued to smile, a little stiffly it's true, and to maintain that the Peron regime was merely trying to divert domestic attention away from the sad plight of Argentine economy by taking it out on the U.S.A.

However, with the bombing of the Abraham Lincoln library and the arrival of new U.S. ambassador Albert F. Nufer, a stiffer policy is being adopted.

Three months will be given the new ambassador to work out a more reasonable Argentine attitude toward the U.S.A. If he does not succeed, it is more than likely that he will be recalled altogether.

Note—The death of Evita Peron may change the Argentine situation radically. With the end of her tremendous hold over labor and with the Argentine economic situation worse than ever before, there is almost certain to be a clash between labor and the military.

War Prisoners

The inside story of the bogged-down Korean truce talks is that we have been impaled on our own figures—figures that we issued boastfully at the time we were capturing communists and wanted to impress the enemy.

We announced to the world last December, for instance, that we held 20,699 Chinese. But now we have told the truce negotiators that all we can turn back is 6,400. This is chiefly because the balance of the Chinese don't want to go back.

With North Korean prisoners, however, some of our Army people padded the figures by including some South Korean refugees with the North Korean prisoners. Now, having announced them, they are stuck with those figures. The Reds won't believe anything else.

Though an impression got out through the press that we were only 9,000 prisoners apart in reaching an agreement, this is not exactly true.

At the start of the talks, we estimated that about 101,000 prisoners could be returned. After careful screening, however, we said only 72,000 could go back.

Meanwhile, the Communists demanded the return of 118,000. Later we pushed our figure up to 85,000, while they brought their figure down to 110,000. That's as close as we have ever come.

While the Red's offer of 110,000 was only 9,000 more than our original estimate of 101,000, it is still 27,000 more than we are willing to return.

That's exactly where the truce talks are today.

Exhibits Archery at County Eliminations

Judy Freel was the young lady that exhibited archery at our County Eliminations Contest. She told our Friday audience all about her equipment and about Charles Nash and Don Phillips, their 4-H Club leaders. We asked Bill Freel and his friend to join us but when the time came, Bill was some place else.

I want to ask Judy, Bill and the third exhibitor to join Don Phillips and Charles Nash's sons to put on a demonstration for us at our Iosco County Fair on September 17-20.

George Strauser was Iosco county's delegate to the Institute of Cooperation at Michigan State College recently. We hope the Sherman Club will profit by what he learned. George has our Iosco County Artificial Breeders Association and the State A. B. A. to thank for his trip.

Sandra Ann Harris sent me her last report of their Foods project meetings. She said they had their club breakfast and completed their project activities. Sandra certainly kept us well posted on their club activities. We will see your exhibits at the fair in September.

George Prescott, III, our County Clerk, said he will be very happy to co-sponsor the Prescott award trip to Michigan State College again this fall. Last year's trip was won by Les Pfahl, Ross Williams, Colleen Draeger and Patricia Williams for their livestock and poultry accomplishments. Four more young folks will again be selected this fall after the Iosco County Fair to tour Michigan State College and attend one of the football games. Being housed at the W. K. Kellogg Foundation certainly adds a lot to this trip.

The eligible pupils to the eighth grade schools within the district. In the meantime, the school building in the former district No. five had been purchased by the gypsum company, and so only four buildings remained.

About three years later, the district was able to make another educational advance by means of its transportation. Up to this time, each building contained one teacher with eight grades. It was now deemed advisable to have the lower four grades taught in two of the buildings and the upper four grades in the other two buildings. This not only permitted specialization among the teachers, but also to allow longer class periods and the more closely grouping of pupils by age.

To yet further the educational reorganization of the area, a single modern building was completed last year at the center of the district. This is a four room building with the different rooms prepared for children of different ages and advancement. Each teacher is to teach two grades, rather than four, permitting more specialization among the faculty, yet longer class periods and pupils yet more closely grouped by age. The seventh-eighth grade teacher is to act as the principal of the building.

In addition to the four class rooms, the building contains a kitchen, an office and supply room, an auditorium, a furnace, a water system and a sewerage system. It is evident that the physical aspects of the building are much superior to those of the four former buildings.

It is to be noted, then, that what is termed reorganization has brought much educational advancement to the residents of She man township from 1928 to 1952. The uniting of the five primary districts into a single township unit district with a single Board of Education brought unified control. All children were placed on an equal financial educational basis. The laws of the township unit, the increased valuation, and increased school membership made it possible and practical for the district to own busses to transport its eighth grade graduates to a high school and to transport elementary pupils within the township. The same set of circumstances has caused it to be possible for the district to build a single modern school building at the center of the township. This permits all pupils to attend school in a much more suitable building and under much more suitable educational conditions than existed "in the good old days". In other words, the people of Sherman township have partly answered the "small district problem" by partially doing away with its cause; that is, lack of financial support and lack of a suitable number of pupils.
