The Great Teacher

Lesson for December 7, 1952

ALTHOUGH this column is not intended for Sunday school teachers only, many teachers do read it. This week, while so many thousands of Christians are studying about Jesus, the great Teacher, it is a good thing to think about the teaching of religion, and to see what can be learned from the methods of Jesus himself. He was called "Teacher" more often than by any other title, and summed up his own work by saying "I have taught."

What?

The first thing a Sunday school teacher needs to ask is. What am I supposed to be teaching? Just Bible aren't the thing; Jesus never formally "taught Bible" as we often try to do. There is a place for that sort of thing, of course: it is of some importance to know how facts about the many books there are in the Bible, with their names arranged in order; it is worth while to know the names of the Apostles and to be able to trace the journeys of Moses or Paul on a map. But teaching these is not teaching religion. What Jesus taught can be put into two words: God, man. What God is like; what man's rela- himself. tion to God ought to be; how man should act toward God and his neighbor; everything Jesus taught can be summed up in those topics. You can express it in various ways. You can say he taught the way a child of God ought to live. You can say he taught the laws of right living. You can say he taught how to come to God and to serve him. Any way you put it, it comes back to the same two themes, God and man,-not separately but related, man to God, man to man.

There are two differences between a good teacher and a poor

one. (More than two, but these ere among the most important.) A good teacher knows his subject, the coor one has only a hazy idea of it And a good teacher knows how to teach, while the poor one just blunders around. Like all other arts, teaching is knowing-how as well as knowing-what. In studying the methods of Jesus, ve must remember that he did ot have a formal class room. He lid not have scheduled hours, not ven the regular once-a-week the inday school teacher now has. His teaching was all informal. But even so, we can learn much from his methods. He almost never "lecured." that is to say, he answered uestions people asked him rather han making cut-and-dried speech-His teaching grew out of peole's actual needs and problems, e "spoke to their condition." Good eaching is answering.

Then we note that Jesus did not se big words, worn-out words or generally abstract words. For exmple, he never once used the vord "religion" though he was talking about it all the time. He seldom used the word "sin" though he often put his finger on particuar sins. His language was the language other people spoke and could understand.

He used the Bible for-his illustrations sometimes, but he did not wear out the effect of it by overusing it. Even the best of books can be made tiresome by tiresome repetition. The Bible is the most living book in the world, and Jesus never killed it by dullness. Yet Jesus knew the value of repeating truth, and knew how to repeat it without making it tiresome. He would light up the same truth from many different angles.

As has been said here before, if Jesus' life had not been in line with his own teachings, what he said would have met with jeers and indifference. No one would have cared nor remembered what he said. The thing that really gave life and fire to his teaching was-

Perhaps it is true, though this writer doubts it, that there are subjects in which the teacher's character makes little difference. Possibly a man whose personal life no one admires may make a passable teacher of mathematics or chemistry.

But in the field of religion,-of faith, of character - what the teacher himself is, in his character and daily life, is of central importance. What you are, as a person, either underscores what you teach in Sunday school, or crosses it out.

It's Closer Than You Think!

By C. W. Brown, president National Editorial Association

It's closer than you think. I m talking about tuberculosis. There are few people who have not had some close friend or a relative who has been attacked by the dread disease.

Three years ago, my doctor, in all seriousness, remarked, "If what I see on your x-ray is true, you wouldn't be here. So it can't be true."

It was he, not I, who was disturbed. I laughingly told him could have warned him of what he would find—scar tissue dat-ing from 1930. I could laugh because I had the good fortune to have my lung trouble discovered in a stage which could be remedied by a "good rest" of reasonably short duration.

Fifteen months ago a prominent local resident entered a sanatorium and is still there because his tuberculosis was not discovered early. Weeks ago, a local man, 26 years old, had suspicious findings in a mobile unit x-ray examination. Further study reversed the findings but gave him a warning to be cau-tious about his health.

All three of these examples of the danger of the disease are repeated many times every day across the nation.

authorities tell us Medical that a very large part of the population have been infected with tract the disease.

Tuberculosis is not the threat that it was because of the great work that has been done educating the public to the importance of frequent examination. Tribute should be paid to those who are carrying on the great work through the schools, examination centers and mobile units, in fund-raising and other activ-

Newspapers have had a part in ghting tuberculosis. They fighting should have an important role because they possess the vehicle of information, the channel that reaches everyone, to tell the need of regular examination. Because newspapers have the means to distribute information, they not only have the opportunity but the responsibility to do ity but the responsibility to do so. Through a little effort they can indirectly save not just a life but many lives. One of the means is active support of the Christmas Seal Sale through which the essential funds are raised to carry on the work.

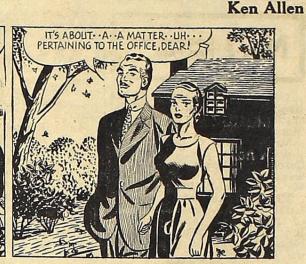

The fight against tuberculosis must continue. There should be no letting down because of the progress which has been made.

Tow would you like the fun of Christmastime to last all the year through?

That's the way it seems to be when you call this Buick beauty your own-what with the constant cheer it brings to you week after week, month after month.

The cheer of traveling in style that's bright and gay as a holiday wrapping.

The cheer of having rich and spacious comfort - plus the cheery thought that nowhere else can you get as much room for the money.

The cheer of knowing abundant and mighty able power is on call, with all the solid thrift of a Fireball 8 Engine

200 N. Newman Streets

that's valve-in-head - and also highcompression.

The cheer of riding wonderfully buoyant, level and steady-with a ride that feels like the million dollars it cost to perfect.

The cheer of taking your travel free and easy-with Dynaflow Drive* doing the chores in letter-perfect smoothness with Power Steering assisting to make parking and slow-motion maneuvers no task at all.

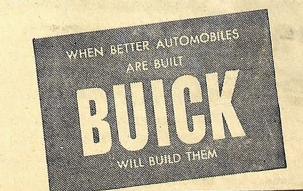

Even the price is a cheerful note here -low enough, you'll find, to crowd the so-named "low-price three."

That means action is called for this very week, to make the most of this good deal while it lasts.

Why not drop in today or tomorrow and see how much cheer is to be found in a Buick showroom right now?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series. Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster and Super only.
