The main products manufactured at the plant are oil filter elements and filter pads for automotive trade. The management has been working constantly to bring diversified lines to be manufactured here to make it a more stable organization. One of the new lines is the No-Nail Hanger, which has grown from several hundred thousand hangers per year to thousand hangers per year to this year's record production of fourteen million hangers. They are shipped to every state in the Union and Canada. The past year the new dual-action hanger was brought in the mar-ket and was highly accepted by the trade.

At present fifty employees are working at Tawas Industries, Inc. In the first week of the new year the second shift will be put back ent Workers' Association. The contracts were signed on November 1, 1952. The contracts include such benefits as seniority rights, vacations with pay, paid benefits for sickness and death, wage increases, closed shop, etc. The committee meets regularly with to work. The employees are represented by their own organ-ization called Tawas Independshop, etc. The committee meets regularly with management to discuss problems that may exist and management makes pro-visions to correct them. #### Christmas Party Held Tuesday Noon at the Holland Hotel

Following the Kiwanis Christmas party luncheon Tuesday noon at the Hotel Holland, a Kiwanis committee distributed Goodfellow Christmas baskets in the Tawas area.

Each basket contained material for a Christmas dinner and were made possible through the Goodfellow Newspaper sales held a week ago.

The party is an annual affair and was under the direction of Rev. Robert Nelson, chairman of the entertainment committee. Each Kiwanis member brought a child as guest.

The program included the distribution of gifts to the Kiwanis guests, carol singing and entertainment provided by Edward Seifert, Jr., with his magic tricks. Walter Anschuetz acted as Santa Claus.

Gifts to Christ

Lesson for December 28, 1952

WHAT the world brings to Christ is never to be compared with what Christ brings the world. Not all the Christmas gifts that ever were, including those given to the cause and in the name of Jesus, equal a small part of the value of Jesus himself to the world. Nevertheless, ever since the time of the wise men from the east, gifts have been brought and laid at the feet of Christ, in one way or

Many treasures of wisdom, through these 19 centuries, have been poured out for the Master's service. Not that men can make

God wise; but the wisdom and learning of mankind can be, and have been, put at the disposal of Christ and his cause. To take one fact alone: the translation of the Bible into hundreds of languages throughout the world. The work of translating can never stop, because languages keep changing; the English and the French of this century are not the same as they were centuries ago, and Bibles translated for those times become hard to understand in our day.

Not that a new English translation is needed every few years; but somewhere, all the time, into some language or other, this work is being carried on. It is no simple job; a translator must not only know Greek and Hebrew, but also, and very thoroughly, the language into which he translates. Most good translations are made by groups, for many heads are better than one, at this work.

When we add to the work of the translators all that other scholars have done, all the brain work that has gone into the printing and binding of the books and distributing them in many ways; we can see what the devotion of intellectual talents has meant, through the centuries, to the Christian religion.

Wealth

Think what a difference it would make, if suddenly every Christian in the world decided that the Lord's work could get along just as well without being offered another cent. No new churches would be built; existing churches would by next June, unless the 1953 fall into decay because no one would pay for their repair (and free labor wouldn't do it, because that too is a form of wealth). Home and foreign missions would come to an end. Christian schools, hospitals and colleges would close No Christian books of any kind could be printed. Radio religious broadcasts would cease, because there would not be any one to pay for them, and even the "free" time, which always costs the station something, could no longer be offered.

From Each His Own

Christianity is today an international religion, though it started off as the religion of a few Asiatic Jews. But Jesus was scarcely out of his cradle before those men of the East came, and they were the first of a long line from every nation and race in the world.

In America we think of Christianity as almost an American religion; but it is not. Americans have brought much to Christianity, -their energy, daring, pioneering spirit, their practical slant on everything,-these have given to Christianity in North America a "color" and a "style" all its own.

But we are not the only Christians, perhaps not even the best ones. There are Indian Christians, and Chinese Christians; there are Christian's among the Eskimos and Zulus. There is some Christianity behind the Iron Curtain; it is found in Scotland, Sweden, Spain, El Sal-

And while we are all brothers under the skin, the fact remains that it takes all kinds of Christians to make the Christian world, and to make the world Christian. Our missionaries do not go out to make American Christians; they go to make Christians. And every one who comes to Christ brings something which is specially his own. As Rev John Monsell's hymn has

"Fear not to enter His courts in the slenderness Of the poor wealth thou wouldst reckon as thine: Truth in its beauty, and love to its tenderness, These are the offerings to lay on

His shrine." (Copyright 1952 by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ of the United States of America, Released by WNU Features.)

Meeting six times, beginning
October 29, the eighteen hour course provided adults oppor-tunities to learn elementary typing practices, develop speed and accuracy, practice writing business letters and acquiring skills which they will use in positions as bookkeeper, stenogra-phers, and office workers, and in their own homes and professions.

So popular has the course been with Mr. Bowyer as instructor that several requests have been received that another similar course be offered later in the school year. People interested in a future course are encouraged to call the school of-

A CCORDING to sartorial experts, men's vests are returning to the scene. Soon, they are expected to be as much in demand as are two pairs of pants with each suit. This is one prediction in which I'll place my faith, for seeing is believing, and recently I've noticed a number of men wearing vests in patterned woolens under their suit coats. And why shouldn't they be popular?—They are handsome and especially

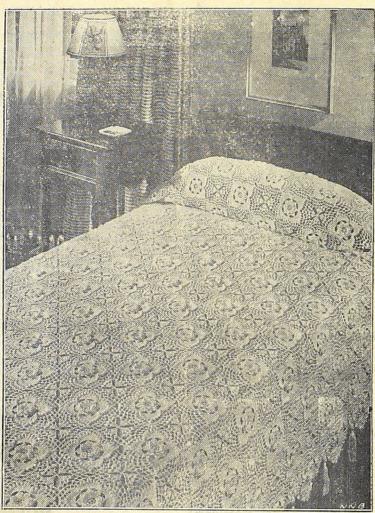

"VESTED" INTERESTS

Vests, or waistcoats, as they are called in England, have been a part of every man's suit wardrobe in America, periodically, since the landing of the Pilgrims. The vest, as we know it today, is a variation of the earlier waistcoat which was similar in style though usually longer, sometimes reaching the knees. The early Americans brought this style with them from England and Europe where it was the vogue with all well-dressed men. Of course, the settlers' garments excluded the extravagances of fine materials and ornaments worn by the upper classes in the countries from which they hailed. The shorter waistcoat, or vest, came into style about 1660 and from then has been adapted to the male wardrobe. During World War II, manufacturers discontinued issuing vests with suits in order to conserve on materials, but now, again, the once-popular vest is regaining recognition. The most soughtafter styles are in tartan plaids for the college students and in small patterns for the more conservative males.

KNIT ONE FOR HIM

Keep your man in style with your knitting needles-Make a vest! Under a plain-colored suit, this dark brown vest with a pattern of tan crisscrosses will be the perfect complement to his outfit. This model has four slit pockets and dark brown buttons closing the front. The knitting leaflet, which I would like to send you, gives instructions for making it in sizes 36 to 40. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper and request Leaflet No. 407, entitled RUGGED INDIVIDUALIST

BEDROOM ELEGANCE-Make the most of your crochet-ability and dress up your room with a lovely white bedspread in a rose and popcorn pattern. Each dainty motif is surrounded by picot loops which provide the lacy effect. Obtain the directions for crocheting a single or double size bedspread of ROSES AND POP-CORNS, by simply sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper for Leaflet No. 6123.

Merry Go. Round BY...DREW PEARSON

One significant report sent to General Eisenhower in mid-Pacific is from the British vigorously opposing any expansion of the Korean War.

The British protest came when the U. S. sent a message to the U. K. shortly before Ike left for Korea, stating that we had under consideration a broadening of the Korean operation by:

1-A blockade of Chinese ports. 2-Air force intruder missions against the Chinese mainland; In brief, bombing beyond the

Yalu river. This proposal caused the British to have fits. Prime Minister Churchill was adamant, furious, and would have no part of it. While the reasons for British opposition were not set forth in detail, the reasons are well known both in the Pentagon and to those aboard the U. S. S. Helena. First. the British fear any blockade of the China ports would finish their sizable trade with China. Second, it would bring an abrupt termiwhich still has 40 years to run. This exchange with the British was partly for exploratory purposes, so that President-Elect Eisenhower would have all points of view on hand during his Pacific nation of their lease on Hong Kong

The opposite point of view is undoubtedly in the secret Mac-Arthur plan for ending the Korean War-namely, bombing the Chinese mainland and blockading Chinese ports. General MacArthur has always favored these two moves, unquestionably had them in mind when he told the National Association of Manufacturers he had a secret plan for ending the Korean War.

These are two of the conflicting, difficult alternatives, which the President-Elect is certain to be discussing in mid-Pacific with his secretary of state, his secretary of defense, and top military

Harry's Last Supper

President Truman invited every cabinet member who had ever served with him, except two, to his big farewell dinner last week. The guest of honor was Adlai Stevenson.

Looking around the giant horseshoe table at which were seated such old-timers as Henry Wallace, Henry Morgenthau, Fanny Perkins and Frank Walker, Secretary of Defense Bob Lovett remarked:

"It looks like the Lord's farewell supper.'

Several cabinet members, once fired by Truman, were invited back for the last dinner, among them ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson and former attorney General Howard McGrath.

"Everyone's here who ever rved with me." the President remarked to Louey Johnson, "except for two-Jimmie Byrnes and Krug. I just didn't think I wanted them here."

Julius Krug was a secretary of the interior recommended by Bernie Baruch, with who Truman broke; ex-Secretary of State Byrnes, also a Baruch man, was bitterly critical of Truman during the recent campaign.

After the dinner, the President rose and proposed a toast to the "best cabinet anyone could have."

He also made a brief speech about the future. Recalling that the atomic age was just beginning -an age which would bring forth new miracles—the president said:

"I wish I could live for another 50 years. Sometimes I wish I could be 18 again. In fact, I'd like to live my whole life over again-if I could only have my wife and daughter to live it over with me."

Korean Advice

Here is a brief summary of the cross-current of important military advice given to Eisenhower in Korea: Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, leaned over backward against more U. N. casualties. He dreads casualties as he dreads nothing in the world, has been that way ever since the terrible losses in the Battle of the Bulge . . . General Van Fleet recommended a spring offensive, but warned it would cost 50,000 casualties Mark Clark backed him up in this recommendation, estimated three more U. S. divisions plus two more South Korean divisions would be necessary . . . The air force is opposed to any further offensive which would lengthen the striking range of U. S. planes, while shortening the range of Red planes

Any amphibious landing behind the enemy's lines would encounter 600,000 Red troops in upper Korea -in addition to 400,000 Reds in the front lines . . . Maj. Gen. William Chase, head of the American military mission on Formosa, flew to Korea to report that at least two. possibly three, divisions of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops are available for Korean combat. However, the equipment for each Chinese Nationalist division would mean one less South Korean division equipped.

23 New Members Join East Tawas Church

Last Sunday 23 persons were received into the membership of the East Tawas Methodist Church. The class had studied together the church history, doctrine, organization and membership vows in a series of weekly supper meetings.

During the reception ceremony each new member re-ceived an orchid flown from the Hilo Methodist Church in Hawaii especially for the occasion. Cecelia Clack, president of the Women's Society for Christian Service, pinned an orchid or each lady; John Smith, president of the Methodist Mens Club, pinned the flower on each man; Supt. of Sunday School Glenn Hughes so honored the youth.

The congregation saw in this demonstration of Christian world brotherhood: Persons of Korean, Japanese, Chinese and English descent are members of the Hilo church sending a message of friendship to these Amercan brothers.

St. Joseph School of the Tawases proudly displays the new sizeable outdoor Christmas Crib this holiday season for the first time. Begun and completed as the high school project, it displays much unsuspected talent, and that, combined with the generosity of patrons in the Tawas Community area, has produced a religious and timely contribution to the festive Yuletide atmosphere. tide atmosphere.

The students and faculty ex-press their deepest gratitude to press their deepest gratitude to the following donors for their great and generous spirit: Joseph Barkman for wallboard, Frank Wilkuski for the lumber for the crib, John Coyle, Jr., for electrical wiring and cords; James Dillon, Lyle Mooney, Fred Matthewson, Randall Fox, the Tuttle Electric Company, and Evans Furniture Company for paints, enamel and shellac paints, enamel and shellac for the figures, while Elmer Slaven generously gave his photographic services and James Mc-Cardle the goodly number of Christmas trees. E. D. Jacques and Theodore Trudell gave the use of their trucks to transport

The designing and painting of the figures was executed chiefly by Kathleen Case, Helen Klinger, Louise Heckman, Virginia Haglund, Dorothy Woizeschke. They were ably assisted by Mildred Look, Janet Lanski and Theresa Mochty. Helen Toska and Carol Woizeschke made the Theresa Mochty. Helen Toska and Carol Woizeschke made the halos and printed the scroll above the crib. Shellacking of the figures was done by Arlene Wells, Rita Ulman, Joanne Jacques and Joanne Jerome.

Much credit is due Leonard Bouchard, maintenance man at St. Joseph's, who erected the Nativity scene, and arranged the figures, lights and tree lights, assisted by the freshmen and sophomore boys, Patrick Lynch, Gary Stephan, Edward Trudell, George Ropert, Joseph Wool-George Ropert, Joseph Wool-hiser, Warren Tanner, John Le-Clair, Richard Wunderle and Donald Bolen.

SPORTSMEN SET RECORDS

Michigan's claim to fame in outdoor attractions was further proven during 1952 when vacationists, tourists, hunters and fishermen broke all ex-isting records by the sheer weight of their numbers. While reports are not yet complete it is evident that our state drew more visitors across our borders than ever before, not only during the summer vacation periods, but for late fall hunting as

License Sales Up

Fishing license sales will again top the million mark with ease, and hunting licenses were so much in demand at times that an actual shortage of forms existed. The sale of small game licenses rocketed almost 50% over 1951 for resident hunters. Still more indicative of an ever-increasing interest in Michigan Outdoors is a 160% increase in licenses sold to out-of-state hunters!

Archers on Increase

Before the final figures are counted, close to 30,000 bowhunters will have been licensed—representing an increase of more than 50%—and Michigan may set a national record in this department, too. Few sportsmen achieve as full an appreciation of the outdoors as do archers, whose quest for Michigan deer has little effect on the number of deer left in our wilds, for no more than one out of ten hunters registers in the "meat" statistics. Yet their season puts them in our woods when the trees are at the peak of color, and when the tang of a Michigan fall gives a zest to life truly beyond compare!

Bird Hunters' Success

Partridge hunters ranging over the entire upper peninsula and most of the northern half of the lower accounted for better than three quarters of a million grouse according o late estimates, while the southern half of the state probably yielded close to one million rooster pheas-ants. Duck hunters got off to a fast start, then hit erratic weather and spotty flights of waterfowl. After the season closed huge flights of canvasbacks and blacks poured thru our fly-ways, having tarried long in Canada while mild weather pre-

How Many Deer Hunters?

Deer license sales have not yet been computed, but it's sure to be a record close to the half million mark, maybe more. The 3-day anydeer season obviously accounted for most of the increase, with men women and children registered as license holders, many of them newcomers to our offering of "big game" hunting.

Sportsmen's dollars brought a bonanza to the north country, giving indisputable proof to the residents thereof that they, too, have a real responsibility in guarding the treasures that surround us in Michigan Outdoors.

to "take over" the electric train or the dressing of the doll when all the Christmas packages are opened. Fathers chuckle when they see the cartoons. Of course, they like to play with trains! After all, Junior is too young to know to "make it go."

But, how much will Junior learn if Daddy does all the putmother is quite upset when her small daughter wants to put the little red overcoat on the nude doll, nothing under the coat at all. So mother takes it over and tarts dressing it. Is the daughter having the fun of working out her own plans? This question, asked by child development specialists, has caused many parents to say, "Somehow I had not realized that before."

The kaleidoscope craze has really hit Tawas City home demonstration group, according to their reporter, Mrs. O. J. Westcott. After the holidays the group members will meet for a workshop to make a dozen or more of them for our hospital.
Washable coverings will be used so the kaleidoscopes may be kept sanitary. First workshop is to be January 7.

Several other items are "in the fire," she says, so be looking for mention of them later on.

The next regular group meeting will be on January 13 with Mrs. Herbert Wendt. At that time they will see the Michigan State College research movie.

We're mean to remind you but the nuts you nibble are food. So is candy. Don't wonder why your favorite dress fits too tightly, if you eat the usual amount at mealtime plus the tempting holiday treats.

Your child will learn to do for the less fortunate at Christmas, and other times, too, if you take them with you when you deliver food or other cheer to homes.

It is not too early to request a home account book if you have decided to join the dozen or more women who will be cooperating on a special accounting project for 1953.

These books have to be ordered from Michigan State College, and if you are ready to begin yours January 1, you need to place al order for a book now.

Is reading aloud, when the whole family is together, one of the traditions at your home, especialy at Christmas time?

Dicken's "Christmas Carol" will be the favorite of most. Here are two others liked by many families, Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man" and "The Littlest Angel."
