Better Parental Control of Teenager; Stiffer Court Sentences Thought Solution of Reckless Driving Problem

More severe sentences by justice courts for youthful offenders, and better cooperation of the parents, would help prevent much of the speeding and reckless driving practiced by some thoughtless members of the teenage group, was the opinion brought out at a meeting of law enforcement officers and city officials Tuesday afternoon at the courthouse.

Several recent car accidents which resulted in severe injuries and damaged cars had caused much concern among the parents and people of the community. The accidents were due to fast and reckless driving by teenagers. Through this, Prosecuting Attorney Reginald Barnett called the meeting Tuesday for a roundtable discussion of the problem of dealing with youthful offenders.

Among those present and taking part in the discussion were Sheriff Ivan O'Farrell, Deputies Charles Niday and Kenneth Kennedy, Sgt. McDonald of the State Police, Police Chiefs George Ruth and Harry Pelton, Justice H. E. Friedman, Frank Walker, John Bolen, and A. J. Goulette. Mayor George Myles of Tawas City and Mayor Henry Klenow of East Tawas, Supervisor H. E. Stickney of Oscoda, Attorney Richard Newman, Elmer Werth, Rex Kochenderfer, representatives of the two Tawas newspapers and others.

Proper control of the driving habits of teenagers by the parents was pointed out as the most satisfactory solution. Where such control fails or does not exist, more severe sentences should be handed out by the courts, seemed to be the consensus of those in attendance at the meeting.

A Man New-Born

Lesson for April 12, 1953

THE most important convert Christianity ever made was one of the very first ones. He was important not only for his own times but for ours too. His thinking set the pattern for Christian thought ever since. His writings, or rather the truths he brought out in his writings, have been at the heart of most of the revivals from early times to now.

Sometimes the Christian church has gone too far in admiration of this man because his conversion was spectacular, some have thought (mistakenly) that all true conversions are spectacular. Because he always thought like a lawyer, some have thought (again mistakenly) that all true Christian thought must be legalistic. In short, some Christians have put this man ahead of Jesus Christ. Such mistakes should not blind us to the man's real and tremendous importance. Those who plan these Bible studies have set aside the next three months for a review of this one man's life and some of his writings.

Dr. Foreman

Outside the City

His name is Paul, though the church very respectfully usually calls him "Saint" Paul. He was a city-born, city-bred man. But as Providence would have it, the most important thing that ever happened to him came to pass in the open country, on a windswept road that is still traveled, the highway from the city of Jerusalem to the city of Damascus. In Syria Born in the city, re-born in the country; it has happened since. The story of his conversion has been often told; indeed in the book of Acts it is told three separate times (chapters 9, 22, 26), once in Luke's words, twice in Paul's. There was no church, no preacher, no personal workers; no hymns were sung. There was no meeting at all, no visitation evangelism. It happened like a stroke of lightning. Inside of five minutes or less, Paul (or Saul as he was then called) had been changed from an anti-Christian to a Christian—Not to a saint! He was only, so to speak, a baby Christian. Being new-born into the Christian life is a little like being newborn into the human life; there is a period of babyhood first, when the newborn soul hardly knows what to do and needs much guidance and help. But in those few minutes on the Damascus Road, the whole direction of his life was changed.

In the City

Paul's conversion had some unique features, startling and extraordinary. But the story of it (in Acts 22) reports two questions that belong in every Christian conversion. "Who are you, Lord?" and "What shall I do, Lord?" A true conversion is a turning toward Christ. Turning away from one's old life is not the whole of it and not the most important part of it. When a driver on a country road realizes he has taken the wrong fork, and turns around to go in the other direction, which is the more important, that he now has his back to the wrong direction or that he has his face in the right direction? Conversion is from, but more importantly, conversion is to. To Christ first of all. True conversions are not produced by coming face to face with one's better self but with Jesus. And yet, this is only a start. What next? That was what Saul went into Damascus to find out. That was what Ananias came to tell him. Saul needed what all newborn Christians need, a Christian friend, Christian fellowship.

The New City

Paul was and remained a city man. Most of the great experiences of his life were connected with cities. But from that day at Damascus to the end of his life, there was one city above all that claimed Paul's allegiance. It is the City of God, the New City. Conversion can be looked at and described in many ways. But one good way is to compare it to taking out citizenship papers in the Kingdom of Heaven. Paul said once, as Moffatt translates Phil. 3:20, "We are a colony of heaven." That was not a figure of speech with him. Paul would have passed any loyalty test.

Gordon Hatch, farm planner for Iosco Soil Conservation District who in the past year and one-half has been serving the Iosco district on a part time basis, was recently assigned to a full time basis in the Iosco district. Due to the increased demands upon the district for technical assistance, the board of directors made their request for a full time farm planner to E. C. Sackrider, state conservationist. Sackrider's approval came later and Hatch immediately received his new assignment.

This is good news to Iosco farmers who have had their application for farm plans in for some time. Hatch will now be able to take on twice the number of farms and give complete farm plans or give assistance on individual problems such as laying out diversion ditches, sod waterways, open ditches or sub-surface tiles.

Farmers who want help should make application through Hatch, any member of the board of directors or county agent, Harold R. Clark.

Hatch now lives in West Branch and will make his residence in East Tawas as soon as arrangements can be made.

"T" DAY COMING!
A strange but understandable madly strikes at a couple of hundred thousand men in Michigan each year at this time. They wander about in somewhat of a daze, preoccupied by lofty thoughts transcending the petty problems of everyday life.
If one could penetrate the haze which surrounds such victims, visions of lovely streams on a warm spring day would come to life. The dimpled surface of a quiet pool would mark the cautious rise of a feeding trout, and the dream would watch an angler's perfect cast drop a tantalizing fly in just the right spot.
You see there's nothing fundamentally wrong with these absent-minded males. It's just that "T" Day is coming—and "T" stands for TROUT. "T" Day this year falls on April 25th, the official opening of the 1953 season.

Hatcheries Busy
Again this year Michigan fish hatcheries will plant about a quarter of a million legal-sized trout in readily accessible streams before the season opens. Again this year fishermen will swarm to those streams opening day to catch a large percentage of those gullible, semi-civilized brook, rainbow and brown members of the trout family.
Other anglers imbued with more pioneer blood will leave the beaten paths to seek the wily native trout in natural haunts not too easily reached . . . and there are many, many miles of fine trout waters rarely fished in Michigan. If you have not already planned your trip for the opening week end, consider a new adventure this year—a search for the lair of those big, native trout high up in the headwaters, perhaps, or in a deep pool far up an old abandoned logging road impassable to cars.

Forget the modern theory that one should step from an automobile parked at the edge of a stream, fish a few hundred yards, then drive on to another riverside parking spot. Get off the beaten path. WALK and stalk your trout, approaching that likely looking pool deep in a swamp with caution. Wild trout are wise trout, big and fat because they're always alert to danger.

"One for the Book!"
Success in adventure like this is never-to-be-forgotten. Here is true triumph for the sportsman's memory book, for a single grand-daddy trout taken from a far-off secret pool is worth a creel-full of hatchery-raised fish anytime! Maybe that "grand-daddy" won the battle and is still in the pool, and you come home empty-handed. There's still a sense of triumph. Your "discovery" will keep. There'll be another day of reckoning with that old tackle-buster soon, in Michigan Outdoors!

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By Frances Doll
Now it the time to plant roses in most sections of the United States. If you don't know a lot about roses—don't just wade in and think there is nothing to it. You will be in for a shock.
Rose culture is not difficult but there are a few things you must know to have any success at all. In the first place, not all varieties are equally hardy. Select only those which the experts have found will do well in your climate. Don't try tender ones unless you live in a warm place.
Pest resistance is important. Good, strong varieties are not usually bothered by insect or diseases. For some reason red roses are less attractive to Japanese beetle.
Part of the beauty of a rose is its fragrance. Not all rose scent is the same. It may be strong, illusive, spicy, tea-like or musky. This will influence your choice of roses.
Some roses bloom much more than others. Be sure you choose a variety that is not a shy bloomer. The prolific varieties are just as easy to grow as the shy ones.
You don't want plants that fall over in rain storms. Good sturdy stems and thick, shiny leaves are necessary to hold-up under heavy rain and strong winds.
Good form in flower and bud are extremely important. But only those which have pleasing form from the time the buds color until the petals fall off.
Insist on number one plants—three stems eighteen inches long with a strong root system.

Worth more... and why

There's an old saying that a thing is worth what someone is willing to pay for it. Well, if you could tour the wholesale and retail used car auctions around the country, if you could survey hundreds of used car lots you would discover that used Fords bring higher prices than any competitive make—and by substantial amounts.

THAT'S WHY we feel our '53 cars should not be compared with cars in the same price range. Not because our competitors don't do a good job—obviously they do—but because we feel Ford cars have more in common with the highest priced automobiles. The similarities are far greater than the differences.

For example. Today, the most expensive cars in this country have V-type, 8-cylinder engines. Ford Cars have had this exact same type of engine for over 20 years.

What's more astounding, the current Strato-Star V-8 sells for hundreds of dollars less than several other makers charge for a six-cylinder car. Now there's nothing wrong with a Six but they do cost less to make. Ford makes a Six—the most modern overhead valve Six in the industry. And if it's a six-cylinder car you want, Ford has it and for less money than the V-8, which is as it should be.

What about ride? Here's another Ford similarity with high-priced cars... Riding Comfort. One of the misconceptions for many years has been that weight—sheer weight—is what it takes to make a car ride well. Ford has found that you can make a 3000-pound car ride softer and hold the road better by far than many cars that weigh a full 1000 pounds more. In the '53 Ford, for example, front end road shock has been reduced up to 80%. We say it compares most favorably with the heaviest cars sold today.

What about automatic transmissions? It would take the fingers of both hands to count the various kinds of automatic and semi-automatic transmissions on the market today. The one we offer is called Fordomatic. It is the most versatile on the market, it represents the most profound consideration of engine-to-wheel power transfer—and that it does the best job for our engines isn't even open to question. It "shifts" better than you could shift by hand.

What you can see is also important. Here again Ford Cars lead not only in their price field but in the medium and upper brackets as well. Ford visibility is Full-Circle Visibility. This means huge, curved unobstructed glass area, front and rear, plus side windows that allow all passengers what the hotels call "room with a view."

Appearance? A higher price, of course, does not make a car more beautiful. Conversely, beauty in a Ford comes "for free." Ford has found that it costs no more to develop a beautiful car than one that is less pleasing in appearance. You can drive up to the most exclusive doorways in the world and feel perfectly at home in your Ford. Fords "belong" . . . in exactly the same social category as the finest, one-of-kind creations. After all, a Ford is a custom creation multiplied.

What about running costs? Here's one place that Ford's advantages are obvious. For oil and gas economy Ford has the big cars whipped. Ford parts cost less. Ford service charges are less. Ford tire mileage is thousands of miles greater. And, Ford depreciation is the lowest of any car on the market—bar none.

What are Fords made of? Some people have the idea that the costliest cars are made of "better stuff." It's true that some high-priced cars have costlier upholstery and fittings. What Ford has is so good, both in durability and appearance, that you probably could not tell the difference. You might even prefer it, because of its better design and more pleasing appearance.

Then there's the question of sheet metal. If you were to measure and analyze the sheet metal structure in the most expensive car, you most likely would find it identical in thickness to the corresponding panels in Ford.

After all, then, what is the difference between a Ford and the costliest cars?

In our opinion, the difference is largely a matter of dimensions, weight (and the power required to move it) plus the distinction of owning a car that not so many other people own. The desire for these things is understandable . . . and probably justified for people who are willing to pay the price to satisfy it.

As to comparing Ford with other cars in its price range, by all means do so if you wish. But, as we said before, you'll get a better picture of Ford value by comparing with cars that are most like Fords—those that are priced up to twice as much. In fact, we think you'll quickly begin comparing the other cars with Ford—because the 1953 Ford has really established the New Standard of the American Road.

Fire Warden Meetings Held Throughout North Michigan Area

Nation Forest fire warden meetings were held at Oscoda, Mio, Cadillac, Wellston, White Cloud and Baldwin earlier than usual this spring because of rapid advance of spring fire weather. The last meeting was on April 2 at Mio.

There are 150 private citizens that have been recruited to serve as fire wardens on the Lower Michigan National Forest. These men are paid only for the time employed on fire suppression. Some of these men have been on this job for over 20 years. A few replacements have been added this spring. Use of a fire warden organization began on the present Tawas District about forty years ago.

The wardens are strategically located and are frequently the first men to arrive on a fire. The regular Forest Service organization is thinly spread and must frequently travel much farther to fires than wardens.

Wardens are equipped with special fire fighting hand tools, enough to equip five or more men, depending upon the size of crew that can be secured by quick mobilization. These tools are stored in a cache. This old French word indicates in this case a small frame building in which there is systematic storage of backpack water pump cans, shovels, axes, fuses for back firing, first-aid kits, Pulaski tools (a combination axe and mattock), and other miscellaneous items. These tools are available in case of any fire emergency in accordance with a sign on the door. The caches are placed in front of the warden's home and at a readily accessible point to a public road.

In these days of increased mechanization it might be thought that man power and hand tools are of little consequence in the suppression of forest fires. However, the warden and his small crew will always be important as they can beat the big truck and tractor to many fires and attack them before the fire gets out of hand.
