TWO IOSCO BUILDING PROJECTS, ONE NEARLY COMPLETED, OTHER WELL UNDERWAY

The new Tawas Memorial Hospital on Lynn Street as it appeared Monday of this week. Nearly completed, workmen are now decorating interior.

A large amount of work on the new Iosco County Building on Lake Street has been completed during last fall and early winter. Photo taken Monday.

It is being constructed for the Tawas Hospital Association at a cost of more than $650,000.00 by the Arthur Vollmer Construction Co. of Saginaw.

Money for the project was raised by popular subscription, a Federal grant, a county appropriation, and gifts from organizations and other sources.

The new building was authorized last April by a vote of the people of the county. It will replace an 80-year old structure. This building is also being constructed by the Arthur Vollmer Construction Co. Its cost will total more than $350,000. Exterior finish is Tennessee rubble.

Car Loadings Down But D. & M. Reports '1952 Good Year'

Although the Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company's carloadings were down 8,000 from 1951, with resultant lowering of gross revenues, company officials consider that the road experienced a "fairly good" year.

In fact, considering that the line paid its first dividends to stockholders in over 31 years, and also considering the further progress made in the industrial development, rehabilitation and improvement programs, last year was a successful one along the "Mackinac Route." An average of 221 employees, working for the road and its subsidiaries, helped move a substantial 32,000 carloads of freight. They earned wages totaling $861,300.

In the Tawas area, some 87 employees of the D. & M., Mackinac Truck Lines and Ottawa Equipment Company figured as an important community buying potential as their total payroll reached nearly $350,000.

As of the close of record on January 2, 1953, the Detroit and Mackinac Railway will pay a two dollar dividend on 9,500 shares of outstanding non-cumulative preferred stock.

During 1952 the D. & M., through its industrial development department, was instrumental in locating two new industries in the Tawas area. To accommodate these businesses, the road converted its old steam locomotive roundhouse into a modern plant housing the Feather-Lite Manufacturing Company and remodeled its old coach shop to serve the Timco Corporation.

C. Dwight Wood, head of the road's industrial development department, told members and guests at the recent annual (Continued No. 3, Back Page)

Whittemore High Defeats Elks

Elks Will Play at Harrisville Tonight

The Tawas City High School basketball team dropped from the unbeaten ranks Tuesday night, when they lost to Whittemore 52 to 50. The game, played on the Tawas City hardwood was a nip and tuck affair, and had the fans on the edge of their seats until the final bell. The Tawas City Reserves won 38 to 18 in the preliminary.

Bowen and Hall gave the Elks the most trouble, with Bowen, Whittemore guard and high scorer for the evening, scoring 18 points, while teammate Hall dunked in 16. Anschuetz was high point man for Tawas City with 16.

The game started slowly with Tawas City holding a slight 12 to 8 edge at the end of the first quarter. They still held a four point lead at the half 25-21. In the third quarter, the Whittemore team went ahead 35 to 32 and wound up on top after a blazing final quarter.

Tom Morley, regular forward for Tawas City, was out of action with influenza, and his "rebounding" was missed by the Elks. His shoes were filled by Duane Wright and Herb Wendt who both made some nice one-handers.

The Tawas City Reserves won their game by a 20-point margin with Gerald Bird leading the Elks with 11 markers. High for Whittemore was Page! with seven.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Union Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

IT was probably a mixture of nostalgic loneliness plus just a bit of personal pique that caused the big furor over MacArthur and Eisenhower, the Truman press conference, and the MacArthur speech that he knew the way out in Korea.

To understand it you have to go back to the days when a young major occupied a desk in the extreme outer office of the chief of staff in the old State, War and Navy building in Washington. The chief of staff in those days was Douglas MacArthur, about 50 years old, dynamic, straight as a ramrod and given to pacing up and down his office nervously toying with a Japanese fan.

The young officer about three offices removed was Maj. Dwight Eisenhower, who wrote brilliant speeches for the chief of staff, but otherwise was completely overshadowed by the vibrant-voiced general who dominated the War department.

That was in 1932. The years passed. The pendulum of fate swung back and forth to change the positions of these two.

Major Eisenhower went to the Philippines with the general, followed him to the Philippine constabulary, differed with him, was shipped home. Reasons for the friction vary. Some Filipinos say they found the major was doing the real planning for Philippine defense, figured they could pay the major, save the money they were paying the general. Naturally the general got sore.

Two Commanders

At any rate, the pendulum of fate, still swinging, put the major, now a major general, in command in North Africa, then in Europe. It was up to him to get as many troops, as many supplies as possible. A dynamic personality, Winston Churchill, backed him. Naturally the troops and supplies he got lessened those for his old commanding general in the Far East. So the young major, now a full-fledged general, won his European part of the war first.

Three years passed, an election came up, and some Republicans talked about drafting the old general, now in Tokyo. Many Democrats also talked about drafting the young major, now president of a university. However he said no.

But various publishers, visiting Tokyo, had so buttered up the old general that Gen. Bob Eichelberger, then his deputy commander, tells how on July 4, 1948, just before the Republican convention in Philadelphia, he gave the general the review of his life—Army, Navy, Waves, Wac—polished up with lick and spittle. And the old general stood erect, straight-as-a-ramrod, his arm rigidly at salute, talking out of the side of his mouth to Eichelberger.

"They're not going to take Dewey," said the old general, his eyes fixed on the parade but not really watching it. "The leaders don't like him. And they're not going to take Taft. He hasn't got enough sex appeal. Warren of California won't go with Wall street. And Vandenberg's got a bad heart."

"So when it's all over they're going to have to come back to me," concluded the old general. "Look at those Wacs, general," said Eichelberger, trying to get his chief's mind off politics. "You know Wacs look different going than they do coming."

Disappointment

But the old general was interested only in what happened when the Republicans convened in Philadelphia. And he told Eichelberger to get ready to take over in Tokyo.

In Philadelphia next week, "MacArthur headquarters" was decked with banners, its tables stacked with literature, and fewer voted for him when the roll was called on the convention floor. It continued to swing. Two years passed. Came the Korean war. Things did not go well for the old general. The victory which the American people expected overnight, the quick-and-easy tumbling of communist forces, did not come. Regardless of who was to blame, there were bitter moments for the old general and for the public.

Politics got into the act. Republican leaders in Washington began using the old general. He began playing into their hands. Finally he was ordered home. A year later, he came home to run for president, despite a warning from the old general in Lansing, Mich., that no military man should serve in the White House. And despite the old general's keynote speech, calculated to stop him, the young major was nominated.

So November 4 came, and the man whom the old general still thinks of as a young major, won. He won even without the endorsement of his old commander, without the margin of votes his commander might have swung to him.

Confess—Follow

Lesson for January 11, 1953
Scripture: Matthew 16. Devotional Reading: Philippians 2:1-11.
ANOTHER of those Bible words which are easy to misunderstand, is the word "confess." Ordinarily we connect this word in our minds with a court of law, or with some wrong that has been done. When we say the prisoner signs a confession, we mean he admits he was guilty. When Catholics go to confession, they are expected to tell the priest all about their sins. In the English Bible the word sometimes has this meaning, as when John says that if we confess our sins, God will forgive (1 John 1:9).

Where Do You Stand?

But there is another meaning of these words "confess" and "confession" which is quite different. It does not always mean to admit.

Sometimes it means to declare, to announce something publicly and proudly, as plainly as possible. For instance, Paul tells Timothy (1 Tim. 6:13) that Jesus, before Pilate, made a "good confession." Paul is not saying for a minute that Jesus admitted that the charges against him were true. What he means is that Jesus stood up for God and his duty, he did not let down his flag, he stood out for the truth.

The expression is often used, referring to Peter's saying to Christ, "You are the Christ," and it has come to be known as "Peter's confession." This does not mean that Peter admitted something; on the contrary he affirmed something. He was declaring his belief, he was letting it be known where he stood. The Christian church has made much use of this word, but it might be clearer if we used some other words sometimes. All churches will tell young people and new converts how important it is to "confess" Christ. We could just as well say "standing up for" him; voting for him and having one's vote put on record. When Christ asks: Are you with me? Confessing means simply saying openly: Yes!

Christ Never Outranked

There is something else tied up in this idea of "confessing" Christ. It includes saying something about Christ. Peter's confession, according to Matthew, was "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God." Luke reports that he said, "You are the Christ of God." Mark reports simply: "You are the Christ." All agree that Peter declared Jesus to be the Christ. To us, "Christ" is a name; to Peter it was a title, the highest title he knew. When a first-century Jew used the word "Christ" he meant there was no one else in his class. He meant God's chosen beginner of a new age. There was no higher word that Peter could have chosen than "Christ." So to this day when we say that a Christian confesses Christ, we ought to mean that he puts Christ above all others, that he knows no one can outrank Christ. We mean what the old hymn says, "All hail the power of Jesus' name, let angels prostrate fall."

More than Mouth-Christians

But there is still another word the church has always used, because Jesus used it: Follow. Confession alone is not enough. It takes sincerity and also stick-to-itiveness to follow him. Confession can be done in a burst of enthusiasm; following takes the long pull. Confessing Christ means saying he comes first in your life. But does he? Who or what is really first? There are a great many—too many—church members today who have been as much of a Christian as they can possibly be—with their mouths. They have confessed Christ as Son of God, as Lord and Saviour. They have said, in effect, that they wish to be counted on his side. But when they "joined the church" or were "confirmed," that is about as far as it went. They hardly even warm a pew nowadays. What is needed is something more than mouth-Christians, voice-Christians, word-Christians, shouting Christians. What is needed is following-Christians.

It is noticeable that almost immediately after Jesus had praised Peter for his confession, he called him Satan the very devil. For it was plain that Peter was thinking along lines quite different from Jesus. Following Christ means thinking more and more as he would think.

Makes First Contribution to March of Dimes

After appealing to Michigan citizens to increase their contributions in the fight against polio, Gov. G. Mennen Williams makes the first gift to the 1953 March of Dimes to three-year old Janice DeYoung of Crystal, a victim of the recent epidemic. The governor said more than $2,000,000 will be needed to pay the high costs of caring for most of the 4,000 adults and children who came down with the crippling disease in Michigan in 1952. The nationwide campaign for funds continues through the month of January. Janice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rayburn DeYoung who live on a farm near Crystal. Thanks to the March of Dimes, she is recovering from polio which left her with a crippled right leg.

4-H Club News

By Marvin Davenport, Club Agt.

It has been a nice vacation for everyone. We have to buckle down to some real work in 1953. We have plenty to do. Our photography project leaders are being furnished a suggested outline of possible photography meetings by next week. Our Tawas City young people should contact Albert Buch about that first meeting.

Our 4-H Club Council will meet at the Grant Town Hall on Monday, January 12, at 8:00 P. M. A movie will start promptly at 8:00 and we will hear several committee reports.

Our Cherry Pie contestants have been giving the folks at home plenty of cherry pies. The more preliminary baking before your local school or 4-H Club contests, the better your chances of getting in the county contest on January 17 and even to be our Cherry Pie Queen to go to Grand Rapids in February.

As far as I know Judy Rapp and Kay Franks are the first members to be concerned with their 1953 demonstrations. Last year you recall, we had two State Championship demonstration teams in our district. If you ask James Laidlaw and Pavo Bloomquist, they will tell you that a little practice spread over a longer period is much better than the 'Whole ball of wax' at one time including Sundays and the midnite oil.

Might I suggest that our leaders can get some ideas for demonstrations attending the sessions of Farmers' Week, January 12-17, Monday through Saturday. East Tawas will be host Monday and Tuesday, while Wednesday and Thursday are scheduled for Whittemore and Friday and Saturday at Hale.

Calendar of Events:
Monday, January 12—4-H Club Council meeting for all 4-H Club Leaders, Grant Town Hall, 8:00 P. M.

Saturday, January 17—Iosco Cherry Pie Baking Contest at Plainfield Township High School
Wednesday, January 21—Assistant State Leaders, Vasold and Ousterhout will conduct project leaders "helps" clinic.

Monday, January 26 through Friday, January 30—Farmers' Week at Michigan State College.

Monday, February 9 through Wednesday, February 11—Jr. Leadership Training School at Higgins Lake.

With the County Agent . .

Our "Little Farmers' Week" which will be held January 12-17, inclusively, is a new idea in presenting our various meetings. Usually the subjects that will be discussed during the week are distributed throughout the year. The same amount of effort to properly publicize each meeting is used as will be needed to inform the public of all eleven events.

Concentrating these meetings in one week gives the merchants of each community an opportunity to do something special for the farmers. I understand they will hang out their welcome banners and offer some unusually good bargains for the farm folks.

The subjects discussed will be farm economics, dairy, poultry, livestock, insects and parasites, plant disease, soils, crops, agricultural engineering and soil conservation service. These are subjects that should interest everyone. I want to especially urge the women to attend. My reason is that the farm business is a family business and the farmer's wife is a partner, and she usually is the bookkeeper and counsellor. Our experiences in farm accounts shows us conclusively that successful farm operations are farmer and wife management propositions. I know that some of the door prizes offered will be for women. I suggest that you set aside this one week for your own professional advancement. You owe it to your future business.

1952 is history, and we wonder what we gained from an agricultural standpoint. It is difficult to see much improvement if any in just one year. But let us look back to 1930 or even 1940. In digging out some old census reports I found some very interesting statistics. In 1934, 372 acres of corn in Isosco county averaged 25.4. In 1949, Isosco farmers had planted 2,531 acres into corn which averaged 42 bushels per acre. This is an increase of 15 bushels per acre and that increase alone was worth $78,036. The increase in yield of silage was three tons per acre and worth $18,270.

Likewise, wheat yields increased 10 bushels per acre which meant $35,000 more to wheat growers. Oat yields were improved by 8.2 bushels per acre and is worth $33,000. Potatoes made a 50 bushel increase and the 1949 acreage brought in increased income of $37,000. Alfalfa hay yields stayed at 1.4 tons per acre which is three tenths of a ton better than clover hay yields. The alfalfa hay was worth $43,000 more than the clover hay would have been on the same acreage.

The increase in value of milk meant more to the farmer than any other enterprise. In 10 years there was an increase of production of 923 pounds of milk per cow. That increase at $4.00 per cwt. was worth $144,000.

Efficiency increased in other enterprises but these few items by themselves brought $388,000 increased income to Isosco county farmers.

Of interest to dairymen is the improvement made in Dairy Herd Improvement Association herds. In ten years, D. H. I. A. cows were improved by 2,500 pounds of milk per cow. At $4.00 per cwt., D. H. I. A. cows returned $100.00 per cow more than did their ancestors of ten years ago. D. H. I. A. cows returned $128 per cow more than the average cow in Isosco county.

So we ponder! What caused these increased yields? We know that certain rotations, heavier applications of fertilizer, improved seeds and varieties, and cultural and harvesting methods increase yields of crops. We know that higher milk production inheritance has been bred into our dairy cows and that we have learned to produce a higher quality feed and do a better job of feeding. We know that cows will give more milk when milked properly. By adopting improved methods over the years, the results show up as a substantial increase.

Let me suggest for the future, that each farmer endeavor to learn the success factors (attend "Little Farmers' Week") and adopt them as early as possible.

- Here's how:
1. Practice soil conservation.
  2. Test soil and use fertilizer as recommended.
  3. Plant only adapted certified seed.
  4. Plant and harvest on time.
  5. Grow more alfalfa.
  6. Improve pasture.
  7. Breed improved livestock.
  8. Control insects and parasites.
  9. Feed and breed livestock for seasonal markets.
  10. Use improved dairy sires. (The A. B. A. is the answer.)
  11. Test and improve dairy herd.
  12. Get the better price with high quality milk.
  13. Keep good farm records.
- Observe these practices and yours will be a more prosperous 1953.
- According to the 1950 census, Isosco county farmers produced

Chamber of Commerce banquet that the community is indebted to Charles A. Pinkerton, Jr., Detroit and Mackinac president and general manager, for his role in aiding the economy of the area.

"Far too often we take native sons for granted and we know little of their abilities on their achievements. We are fortunate in having a sound executive, a man of broad vision who is never satisfied with things as they are but is continually seeking better ways to improve his company and develop this area," Wood stated.

Improvement of the Detroit and Mackinac's physical plant continued during the year. In March, 100 new steel box cars, costing over $600,000, were purchased. A new LCL freight handling system was inaugurated late in the year, utilizing new warehouse facilities at Bay City and movement of highway vans on flat cars.

Installation of a $30,000 space radio communications system was also begun during the year. Base stations are now operating at Alpena, Tawas and Bay City. When the network is completed, constant communication will be possible between all base and mobile stations in the 125-mile stretch between Alpena and Bay City.

New heating plants were installed in all stations along the line and buildings at Oscoda and Alpena were remodeled. Through a "Good Housekeeping" program, progress was made during the year toward improving neatness, safety and fire prevention conditions on the 232-mile property.

Mackinac Truck Lines, Inc., a Detroit and Mackinac subsidiary, moved into the old wood shop building in the Tawas yard and completely remodeled the structure into a modern truck maintenance garage. The Ottawa Equipment Company, through the Ottawa Rental Division of the truck line, entered the truck leasing field late in the year. Ottawa Rental was admitted to membership in the National Truck Leasing System several weeks ago and now has several firms in the area operating under contract for leased vehicles.
