Exconvict Faces Robbery Charges

Caught by State Police At East Tawas

Dwayne J. Moore, an exconvict, faces charges of robbing Oakland county homes of from $4,000 to $5,000 in clothing and the theft of a car.

Moore was taken prisoner early Sunday morning while Troopers Max Waterbury and John Vos were making a check-up on reports of reckless driving. When the police car followed Moore, he increased his speed and turned onto Bay Street. Moore's car then ran onto the soft shoulder of the highway, slowing it down sufficiently for the State Police to stop him.

Search of the car at the State Police Post revealed the stolen property. He admitted having served time at Ionia and the Texas Penitentiary. He said he was on his way to where he had formerly lived in Northern Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goodwillie of Detroit are visiting her brother, A. P. Klinger, and family.

Chicago Couple Toast of Tawas

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Czopek, 5253 South Pauline, Chicago, Illinois, discovered safety pays, in many ways while vacationing in the Wolverine State of Michigan.

While Mr. Czopek was enjoying the wonderful fishing afforded the vacationer in Michigan, Mrs. Czopek, returning from a shopping spree, was stopped by a Michigan State Police Cruiser and learned that she, too, had landed "the catch of the day." Stopped on US-23 between Bay City and Standish, Rose Czopek found she had been singled out for the exemplary manner in which she had obeyed all rules and regulations for safe and sane driving on the highway. The safety promotion is sponsored on US-23 by the businessmen of the Tawas, Michigan's twin-resort cities, located on Lake Huron and Tawas Bay. The Tawas Hospitality Cruiser manned by Trooper Warner of the Michigan State Police and Howard Finger, Northeastern Michigan's safety reporter, showered Mrs. Czopek with gift certificates and the honor of being the Toast of the Tawas for the week with assurances of a wonderful vacation week-end at the Tawas.

Safe-driving cars are stopped on US-23 each week by the Tawas Highway Hospitality Cruiser, in an effort to promote greater safety on Michigan's Scenic Shoreline Highway, while introducing more travelers to the beauties of the twin-resort cities of Tawas City and East Tawas.

Sheriff Ivan O'Farrell Urges Immediate Steps for New Jail

"Two hundred thirty-five people went through the Iosco County Jail during the past year," states Sheriff Ivan O'Farrell in a statement made at the close of the period July 15.

"The jail at the present time has 21 prisoners incarcerated in it," said Sheriff O'Farrell in the report. "In the men's cell block there are 16 prisoners, 11 of them of the dangerous type. Eight of these men are sleeping on the floor, as there are bunks for only eight. Due to the crowded condition of the jail there has been some rebellion, and various attempts at jail break."

"We have to keep a 24 hour guard, and due to the minimum of man hours that we have, I found it necessary to call in Special Deputy Charles Kurtzrock repeatedly to assist us at the jail."

"This county, for its size and population, leads in the solution of the crimes perpetrated here, according to State Department of Corrections, but we must have a place to put them after we get them."

"Due to the large tourist area of the county and modern highways leading up from the large cities to the south of us, an increasing amount of crime will come into our district. Much of the crime here is committed by people from those places. Thirteen of the prisoners taken here were taken for crimes committed in other places and were turned over for prosecution to the law enforcement departments of those counties."

"Your sheriff is making a desperate appeal to the people of Iosco county to start at once on plans for a new jail. It is dangerous to have one of the nation's most overcrowded jails."

One World

Lesson for July 19, 1953

"ONE world" sounds simple. But even these simple words stir a great many different ideas in different people's minds. Some, when they hear the phrase, laugh a loud cynical laugh. "One world—? Nonsense! Anybody who calls himself a one-worlder is obviously soft in the brain. Look at the facts of life in 1953. Do you see any symptoms whatever that the world is ever going to be one?" Others, when they hear these two simple words, think, "Why not? It ought not to be so difficult. If you put the entire living human race into one box it would not have to be more than half a mile on each side; you could dump it into the Grand Canyon and lose it. If the whole of mankind were drowned in Lake Champlain (about 600 square miles) the level of that lake would not rise six inches. Why can't we all get together instead of tearing each others' throats all the time?"

Dr. Foreman

How Christians See It
Christians, when they are wise, do not think the idea of one world is absurd, nor do they think it easy. Let us brush aside two one-world notions that Christians who take their Bible seriously cannot accept. One of these is the notion that the world is, now, really one whether we know it or not. It is not one. It is not even two. It is a mass of little worlds all more or less at war. People sometimes talk of differences of race and class and creed as if they made no difference. But they do make a difference; and no amount of soft-talking is going to make a man who has to earn his living, look at life the way a man does whose grandfather left him so much he doesn't have to work. The native African who has been shoved off the best land, can't possibly be "one" with the white settlers who...

But It Ought to Be
On the other hand, the Christian does not give up cynically, and think that nothing can be done about this. The Christian, when he is close to the thought and ideal of Jesus and of Paul, or in other words the Christian who takes God's revelation seriously, sees every reason to believe that the world ought to be one. He believes that God "made of one all the nations of the earth" (Acts 17:26)—that we are all akin, that "the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." The Christian can see that in spite of the terrific differences that separate human beings—and there is no reason to try to iron these out or to wish all mankind to be made in an identical pattern—the Christian can see that what we human beings have in common is more important than what we do not have in common. We have all the same Creator, the Father-God of all. We are all from the same origin. We all are created for the same purpose—as one church expresses it, "to glorify God and to enjoy him forever." The Commandments, Love God and Love your neighbor as yourself, are not copyrighted by any church. They are not private rules, they are God's will for all human beings. The world ought to be one!

How It Can Be
And the world can be one—in Christ. As J. B. Phillips translates Paul's words in Eph. 2: "Christ is our living Peace. He has made a unity of the conflicting elements. He reconciled both (Jew and Gentile) to God by the sacrifice of one Body on the Cross, and by this act made utterly irrelevant the antagonism between them. . . . It is through Him that both of us now can approach the Father in the one Spirit." Missionaries can tell you how true this is. In every land and climate and race on earth, there are Christians at this very day. Let us never forget this. There are Christians in Russia, there are Christians inside the Arctic Circle and along the steaming rivers of the rainforests of the Equator. On the face of it, nothing could be more unlikely than that an American, an Englishman or a Swiss (for example) could go to tribesmen in West China so savage that even the Chinese in a thousand years have not made a dent on them, and those same savages make (through Christ) brothers and sisters. But it has been done! Every time you are helping missions you bring the One World nearer.

A compliment often produces more work from employees than criticism.

Muddy Water a Sign of Poor Soil Management

Who has not observed the muddy waters in our local streams after a storm? It is not pretty, it has no value in this state. It is not good to drink and it is not good for fish. Muddy waters are developed in all agricultural areas of the nation, the most notable is the mighty Mississippi river through which four and one-half million tons of top soil flows daily in rainy seasons. This equals a six inch layer of top soil from forty-six 100 acre farms. Muddy water means that the top soil, the silt and organic matter, the richest and most productive part of our farm lands, have left home never to return again. Muddy waters down the river means food is being washed away. With two million more mouths to feed each year, that is not good. There is very little more farm land to be put under cultivation. Our only solution is to preserve and improve the farm lands that are now in use.

The Isoco Soil Conservation District is one of the 2,300 districts in the nation that, through technical help and education, is striving to conserve our soil and put all land to its best use. The local board of directors and Gordon Hatch, farm planner, have made a survey of Isoco county's farm lands and have determined its most important problems. Through the cooperative efforts of small groups each farmer studies his own land and with Hatch's help, establishes rotation that will build and conserve his farm lands.

The decision to improve practices for soil conservation is based upon increasing the organic content and plant food, and to prevent erosion. Some fields may be considered desirable for intensive cultivation, others limited cultivation, others meadow and pasture and some land will be found best for trees.

Conservationists employ several methods in cultivated fields to prevent water erosion. They are strip cropping, planting on the contour, terracing and permanent grass waterways. Where the fields are large, with gentle even slopes, strip cropping is employed, for uneven slopes farmers plant on the contour or around the hill and on steep slopes terraces are built to slow down the water run off. Permanent grass waterways are built to prevent the formation of gullies.

All efforts are being made to eliminate the muddy waters, which is to save the soil, the nation's most important resources.

To save the soil means prosperity for the farmer, economical food for the consumer and a greater abundance of wood and fiber. A nation well supplied with products of the soil is a strong nation and so soil conservation is everybody's business. Many industries, farm organizations, service clubs, civic clubs, church and schools have realized the importance of conserving the soil and have joined in the soil conservation movement.

Copies of an attractive and informative bulletin, "Down The River," can be obtained from the Soil Conservation Service office in the Federal Building, East Tawas, or at the local banks.

High Schoolers May Join Aircraft Observer Corp

The Department of the Air Force recently announced that high school graduates now have the opportunity to apply for Aircraft Observer training and become flying officers skilled in navigation, bombardment, radar operation, aircraft performance engineering and related technical flying specialties.

For the first time since World War II, a young man with a high school diploma can apply directly from civilian life for flying training.

In addition to being a high school graduate, an applicant must be between the ages of 19 and 26½, single, and in good physical and mental health. Minimum vision requirement is 20-30 if corrected with glasses to 20-20.

An individual is placed under no obligation by submitting an application for training. He will not enter the Air Force until he is found fully qualified for Observer training and desires to enter the program.

The Aircraft Observer course is divided into three phases—Pro-Flight, Primary and Basic.

The three month Pro-Flight phase consists of intensive officer type training that includes drills, customs and courtesies, physical training, etc.

Upon completion of Pro-Flight, Aircraft Observer cadets receive 30 weeks of Primary training which covers the fundamental skills and techniques common to all Aircraft Observer duties.

After completing the Primary phase, the Aircraft Observer cadet attends one of several Basic courses that trains him for a specific aircrew position on a bombardment, interceptor, reconnaissance or transport type aircraft.

After approximately a year of training the cadet will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve.

Full information concerning Aircraft Observer Training can be obtained by visiting or writing Aviation Cadet Selection Team Number 403, Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan.

HOME modernizing

Modernizing Given Boost By Greater Ease of Getting The Necessary Financing

One of the major factors causing an upward spurt in the modernizing of American homes is the increasing ease with which homeowners can get funds for this purpose.

An article in the first edition of Home Modernizing outlined the principal sources of modernizing money available to the home-owner—FHA Title I loans, open-end mortgages and mortgage refinancing.

In use for 20 years, Title I loans have financed more than $6,000,000,000 in home repairs and modernization. Simple and easy to obtain, the Title I is ideal for smaller projects, where $100 to $1,000 is needed (the limit is $2,500). There is no red tape, and the homeowner or his contractor will normally be paid the money within a few days of the application.

There is no mortgage, no costly title examination to delay matters, no extra charges or service fees. Title I loans are paid back monthly over a period of six months to three years. The interest rate—five per cent—is uniform throughout the nation.

Similar to the Title I loan is the Veterans Administration home improvement loan. The interest rate (four per cent) is lower and the repayment period longer. Few lending institutions, however, have adopted this type.

One of the really important steps toward bringing modernizing within reach of the average homeowner is the open-end mortgage. It is a mortgage allowing new loans or advances, with the borrower and lender agreeing that the original mortgage will secure the future advances as well as the original loan. This eliminates the delay and expense of a complete new loan.

The trend toward wider use of open-end mortgages was given a big push last year when the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn (which originates great numbers of mortgages) announced that it would henceforth have an open-end clause in all its mortgages.

George C. Johnson, president of the bank, said the plan will make terms considerably easier for the homeowner contemplating modernizing.

"Instead of borrowing on a short-term note and repaying it within one to three years, families can spread payments over the term the original mortgage has yet to run," he explained. He gave this example:

A homeowner has an original five per cent $10,000 mortgage to run for 20 years. With monthly payments of $66 on principal and interest, he has paid off a little more than $2,000 at the end of six years. By this time his family has grown so he needs more room. It will take $2,000.

He fills out a simple form at the bank. If the application is approved, the bank hands him a check for $2,000; in turn, he pays $30 to cover costs of legal work, title insurance and other incidentals. He agrees to repay this $2,000 loan and the interest on it with regular monthly payments of $15.58 instead of the $63.88 per month required on three-year modernization loans.

The $16.58 added to the $66 monthly payments on the original mortgage brings his total payment each month to $82.58.

Mortgage Refinancing

If a homeowner is planning a big project and other financing is unavailable or impracticable, he can turn to new mortgage financing. The problem, if his place is "free and clear," is simply to get the best mortgage terms available.

If he already has a mortgage, however, the solution may be refinancing—getting a new mortgage large enough to pay off the old one and to provide the money needed for modernizing at the same time. Refinancing requires two or three weeks for processing (including a complete title examination), and the homeowner will also run into the usual servicing costs of a new mortgage.

Fire Precautions Urged in Forests

At the request of Congressman Elford A. Cederberg the United States Forest Service is taking immediate forest fire precautions in the area of the Huron National Forest laid waste by the recent tornado. The tornado cut a path varying in width from one-quarter mile to one-half mile from Inman Lake area through the forest for a distance of about 20 miles.

Congressman Cederberg told the Forest Service in Washington that reports he had received indicated that the tornado had a peculiar drying effect which left the wind ripped trees in tinder condition, creating a serious fire menace endangering surrounding timber and wildlife cover.

The Forest Service is already clearing access lanes and timber sales have been started to salvage the mercantable material that was damaged.

Richard E. McArdle, chief of the United States Forest Service, told Congressman Cederberg "the Forest Service will do everything possible within its available resources to ameliorate the after-effects of the tornado on the forest resources and the communities which are dependent, as least in part, on them.

County Agent News

By MARVIN DAVENPORT

What is a trench silo? Here is a definition for all our silos. A trench silo stands like a tower; if it fell flat on the ground we would call it a horizontal silo and if we dug a hole big enough to bury it, the hole we would call a trench silo! Charles Kobbs has the horizontal silo, not the trench silo as I told you last week. Ralph Harris and Joseph Barnes have joined the ranks of the horizontal silo owners. While I was on tour the other day to see Douglas Harris' Holstein heifer calf, I saw Ralph making grass silage. He has a nice arrangement, good drainage and a concrete floor. A temporary fence and the barnyard fence will make the sides and one end while a moveable gate will be set up for self-feeding the silage. Mr. Barnes' silage should be ready to feed to his cattle soon. I dug in the other day and got a look at it. It won't be what Elert thinks; he says it looks like a well kept manure pile. We see the Barnes' barn remodeling is progressing. The milking parlor has received a start.

Our 4-H Club tour with the Hale Hustlers was very profitable. We saw dairy calves of LaVerne and Gary Campbell, Dan and Ron Roper, Duane and Fred Caverly, Douglas Harris and Jerry Barnes. We should remind all our dairy members that no blood test for Bang's is necessary until a calf is 12 months old at fair time. If a heifer has been vaccinated between four and eight months of age (against Bang's) a blood test isn't required until 12 months after date of vaccination. This does mean, however, that the vaccination paper should be brought in with the calf. All other animals must be blood tested and show negative for Bang's. The test must have been made within 90 days of the fair.

Flower garden exhibits at the Iosco County Fair should be very evident if Karen Helmbold, Loreen Bielby and Sheryl Scofield should have their way. We know Hale will be represented by this group, at least.

The vegetable garden members we visited included Clifford Bielby, Bessie Bowers, David Jacob, Lee Bielby, Charlotte Webb, Bruce Hewitt and Jerry Barnes. A general recommendation would be for all of us to purchase rotenone dust (with a copper base) to control insects such as cabbage worms, tomato and potato blights, cucumber beetle, potato bugs and Mexican Bean Beetle. Don't wait for the bugs. They'll be there, but feed them the poison and you eat the vegetables.

We must say that Charlotte Webb's poultry certainly have responded to a good feeding program and kindness. Had we stayed around long enough we would have had her whole flock following us around on the tour. Her system of labeling the vegetable varieties was new and unique. We would recommend it for all another year.

We were happy to have Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Helmbold, Mr. and Mrs. VanHouton, Mrs. Roderick Heilman, Mrs. Orville Lyke and Mrs. Blanche Douglass with us on the tour.

Dates to Remember:
Thursday, July 16—Grant 4-H Club Tour.
Monday, July 20—Taft Tour, starts at Reno Town Hall, 9 a. m.
Tuesday, July 28—Alabaster Tour.
Wednesday through Saturday, July 29-August 1—Iosco County Fair.

Stand to Gain by Wheat Storage

Farmers stand to gain materially if they are able to store their wheat this year. The market price on July 2 was 70 cents below the guaranteed loan rate. Either the government price support program or the usual seasonal increase in price are worthwhile considering. Commercial storage is scarce but farm storage is a good possibility.

A small amount of commercial storage may be available in certain areas. In the absence of this, the difference will often pay the cost of new construction. The cost of constructing farm storage varies with the type, but in many cases will not exceed 50 cents per bushel of capacity.

Even if time will not permit the construction of new storage facilities, there is the possibility of repairing or converting other farm buildings and using them for storage space. Even if nothing better can be found than temporary facilities, such can be used until suitable storage can be obtained.

Under existing legislation the government is committed to support the price of wheat at 90 percent of parity through 1954. This means a basic loan rate of $2.1 per bushel for the 1953 crop. (Varies from $2.25 to $2.31 in most Michigan counties.) The market price has been declining. In recent weeks the price has been as much as 70 cents below the loan rate.

The pressure of the new crop of wheat, which in Michigan will be the largest on record, is a factor depressing the price. Commercial storage facilities will be largely filled before Michigan's harvest has even begun. This helps to depress the price. To encourage farmers to hold

After a quick trip of inspection into the Southwest, Secretary of Agriculture Benson said drought conditions in that area threatened a calamity for the whole nation and announced that cattlemen and farmers in the stricken areas would receive Federal long-term loans and feed grants.

Hale Auxiliary Installs Officers

The Hale American Legion Post and Auxiliary held their installation of officers Friday, July 10. The auxiliary past president, Evelyn Shellenbarger, opened the meeting. Estella Hudzenski was the installing officer and Wilma Dorsey, sergeant-at-arms. The new officers installed were: President—Edith Goodrow. First Vice-President—Gladys Webb. Second Vice-President—Irene Shellenbarger. Secretary—Shirley Daly. Treasurer—Maxine McKenzie. Sergeant-at-Arms—Bea Follette.

Historian—Lulabelle Zilliox. Gifts were presented to Evelyn Shellenbarger, to the installing officer and sergeant-at-arms; also gifts were given to Grace Van Houten and Estella Hudzenski for the exceptional work they had done on a quilt which had been raffled.

The auxiliary members remained for the installation of the post officers. At the close of the meeting, ice cream and cake were served.

"Monthly Pains" stopped or amazingly relieved

In 3 out of 4 cases in doctors' tests!

Chances are you're putting up — unnecessarily — with the functionally caused pains, cramps and weak, "no good" feelings of menstruation! For in actual tests by doctors, Lydia Pinkham's Compound brought complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases! Lydia Pinkham's is modern in its action! So get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — or new, improved Tablets with added iron. See it — taken through the month — it doesn't give relief from those backaches, jitters — help you feel better before and during your period! Or — if you suffer from functional "hot flashes" of "change of life," find out how wonderful Pinkham's is for that, too!

It has a quieting effect on nervous contractions that often cause "period" pain!

Small Atom Bomb

Representative Errett B. Scrivner, Kansas Republican, recently told a House committee that the United States had developed a small atom bomb which was three times as powerful as the one dropped on Hiroshima in 1945. The bomb, according to Scrivner, is small enough to be carried by medium bombers.

Scrivner also told the committee the Army's new anti-craft guided missile, called Nike, had lived up to advance expectations and compiled a sensational record for accuracy. He said the Army had claimed a 90 per cent record of hits for the guided missiles in tests.

Michigan D. of I. Gives $350 to Tawas Hospital

Michigan State Circle, Daughters of Isabella, concluded its 24th annual convention with a banquet at the Bancroft Hotel, Saginaw, at which Bishop Stephan Woznicki was the principal speaker. In the report of the secretary it was noted that there are 59 circles in Michigan with approximately 13,000 members. Each circle carries on its own program of charitable works, as well as programs aimed at the spiritual development of their members.

Donations of $600.00 were voted to the Archdiocese and the Diocese of Marquette to be used in furthering the education of a seminarian. Donations of $250.00 each were given to the Girls' Vocational School at Adrian and to relief of tornado victims in Flint.

Of particular interest to this area was a check of $250.00 given to the Tawas Hospital to be used in the furnishing of the chapel. This was presented to Mother Rita Louise by Mrs. A. P. Jerome, past state regent of the Michigan State Circle, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Byrd, regent of the local circle, and Mrs. Arnold Petherick, vice regent. This donation together with two previous donations of the St. Jude Circle makes a total of $1,100 given to the hospital by the Daughters of Isabella.

BOY, 2, FALLS 45 FEET Stephen Weymouth, 2 of Boston, tumbled from a third-floor window of his grandmother's house and landed in the soft earth of a garden. Taken to a hospital as a precautionary measure he was found to be without a scratch.
