AUTUMN WELCOMED-

After the hot months of July and August, the arrival of autumn is welcomed by most Americans. This year autumn begins at 3:07 a. m. September 23. At that time the length of day and night is approximately the same in this part of the Next Herrich of the Next Herrich of the Next Herrich of the Herrich of the Next Herrich of the Northern Hemisphere. (The sun will rise at 5:49 a.m. for the southern portion of the United States on a line from Charleston, South Carolina to Southern California and below, while it rises officially at 5:48 above that line in the United States.)

Of all the seasons, autumn is the most nostalgic. The first crisp days of fall, the bright turning leaves which begin to cover the ground, combined with new wool sweaters, football, the smell of burning leaves, the brown fields and bluish smoke from country chimneys, are all familiar impressions. The weather is perhaps the pleasantest of all the year.

Because the flowers and crops are dying or dead, however, fall is a melancholy time of year for nature's products. There is also the thought that soon after the beautiful days of October and early November will come the colder, harsher weather of win-

The end of the vear comes into view, and this tends to bring back memories and summations for the year, thus lending another emphasis to the nostalgic note. The days rapidly grow shorter and the nights longer, and the result is that the earth loses the heat stored up during the summer months. But, until the cold weather is actually upon us, and the days are at their shortest, the best days of the vear and nature's greatest show should be enjoyed by all who are capable of appreciating the miracle of life and nature so evident around us.

Bible Comment:

The Resurrection Was the Beginning Of Jesus' Mission

F one thinks of the earthly life of Jesus as lived in its Palesinian homeland, the Resurrecion was its triumphant climax. It was not only the victory over leath, it was also the victory over those who sought to destroy

But for the world at large, into which Jesus had come, it was not climax, but a beginning. It was now that He told His disciples to go forth and preach the gospel. In obedience to that great commission, 20 centuries have seen the growth of Chris-

But even greater than the outward power of churches and organizations is the mystic fellowship of all believers, who have taken to themselves the Christian name and who have sought to live according to the teaching and example of the Master.

The evil that Jesus fought and that crucified Him is still abroad in the world, seeking to destroy His teaching, setting up other standards of selfishness, violence, wordly power and caring nothing for justice, mercy and right.

So great is this evil, so apearently overwhelming and suc-essful, that it is easy to undertimate the power of good, the strength of Christian progress toward what may still be a far-off goal.

But the power and impulse of Christianity are not in the past. Jesus still lives and leads in every devout soul whose daily life, no matter how lowly or great its place and environment, is attuned to love.

He lives and leads in every service for one's fellowmen, in the schools and colleges and in the missionaries.

We sing in our prayer, "Jesus Still Leads On," and that prayer has its answer before it is spoken, for the surest, truest, most hopeful thing in all the world is that Jesus is still leading on.
