'Miss Bay City' Reigns at Silver Valley Winter Carnival

Climax of Very Successful 1954 Season

Week-end Festivities Televised Over WJBK-TV And Broadcast Over WJR

Nan Gray, Miss Bay City, was crowned Silver Valley Winter sports Queen at ceremonies Saturday night during the coronation ball at the Community Building, East Tawas, in the presence of a capacity house of winter sports fans.

The crown was placed on the head of attractive Queen Nan by Robert Reynolds, WJR sports announcer.

She was selected Saturday afternoon at Silver Valley from a group of five contestants representing Saginaw Walther League, Bay City, Midland, Flint and Detroit. The judges were Robert Reynolds; Robert Powell, advertising executive; John LeGoff, TV newscaster, and Murray Young, TV newsreel cameraman. The Tawas Area School Band furnished music for the ceremony at Silver Valley where several thousand people were enjoying the winter sports facilities of the area.

Misses Margaret Reinke of Saginaw, Bonnie Fisher of Detroit, Diana Harris of Flint and Ann Shannahan of Midland were members of Queen Nan's court.

Attended by more than 200 winter sports fans, the coronation banquet was held Saturday evening at the Barnes Hotel with Robert Powell as master of ceremonies. Short talks were given by visiting celebrities and others. The event was televised for the Monday newsreel over WJBK-TV.

This year's winter sports carnival was one of the most successful in the many years of Silver Valley's existence as a winter recreation area. Weather conditions were ideal for tobogganing, skiing and tin pan sliding. The two new steel 2,100 foot toboggan runways added to the enjoyment of the area.

Included in the several thousand people who were at the winter sports area Sunday were 25 buses containing church and Sunday School groups from Detroit. The first five buses arrived Saturday afternoon. This was the annual East Detroit Lutheran Caravan. Twenty more buses of Detroit young people arrived Sunday morning. An impressive sunrise church service was held Sunday morning at Silver Valley.

Instrumental in the success of the winter sports season which was climaxed by the last week-end's carnival were John Pinter, general chairman, and his committee. Other men who played an important part in the work were William Borsech, who was in charge of the queen contest, and Elwood Bronson, area supervisor, who was responsible for the facilities in the area and their operation.

A popular place at Silver Valley during the week-end activities was the American Legion concession in the warming shelter. Cooks and waiters spent a hectic Sunday caring for the demands of the hungry crowds.

About 1,000 school students from Sterling, Prescott, Whittemore, Oscoda and the Tawas Area were at Silver Valley Tuesday. This crowd of young people kept the tobogganing and tinpan slides busy throughout the day.

Silver Valley is sponsored by the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, with a special Silver Valley committee in charge of operation details.

Explorer Scouts Thank Tawas for Hospitality

More than 300 Explorer Scouts were here during the last week-end in January. It was the fourth annual expedition of this organization to Silver Valley. That the boys thoroughly enjoyed their visit is expressed in the following letter received by the Silver Valley Winter Sports Committee:

A. Don Anderson, secretary Silver Valley Winter Sports Committee, Tawas, Michigan:

Dear Mr. Anderson: On behalf of all the District Six Explorer Scouts, the Explorer leaders, the District officials, and also my own Silver Valley Committee, I wish to say "thank you" for all your help and kind cooperation which enabled us to make our recent Explorer Expedition to Silver Valley a success. Also to Nathan Barkman, the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, and all the others in the Tawas area who worked with you or in any way assisted you, our most hearty thanks.

I am sure that every single one of the 303 Explorer Scouts and leaders who participated in this expedition found Silver Valley much to their liking. Certainly it appeared to me as if everyone thoroughly enjoyed himself. While to many inexperienced outsiders the idea of camping and tenting out in the snow and cold of a northern winter would be an "unsavory" ordeal, it is the kind of thing that our Explorer Scouts go for in a big way.

Although no definite plans have been made as yet regarding a Silver Valley Expedition for next winter, here's hoping that round about this time next year, we'll be seeing you. Again, our sincere thanks for all that you and your committee have done for us.

Sincerely yours, E. W. Courter, chairman Silver Valley Committee of Explorer Scouts

Tawas Area Bond Proposal Defeated in Very Close Vote

2,200 Votes Cast in Monday School Election

Proposal to Authorize Bond Issue Defeated By 134 Votes

In a very close vote Monday the $775,000 Tawas Area School bond proposal was defeated. More than 2,200 electors of the district in an all day election streamed through the 12 polling booths. The bond issue voted on was to provide for essential school building facilities for the Tawas Area School District.

The proposal to authorize a bond issue was defeated by 134 votes. The vote was 945 "yes" to 1079 "no." Only taxpayers voted on this proposition.

To finance the payment of the bonds required the raising of tax limitation to permit a 10-mill tax levy. This proposal was defeated by only 91 votes. The vote was 1053 "yes" to 1144 "no." Any legal voting resident could vote on this proposition.

"It's too early to say just what future action the board will take," said Harold Gould, president of the Tawas Area Board of Education, when questioned Wednesday morning, "but preparations will be made for another election as early as possible."

Gould said it was his opinion that only about half the "no" vote was cast actually against the bonding proposition. Too many other factors entered into the election. Site opposition, sentiment, personalities and misunderstanding, all helped in its defeat.

A school program to be successful must have the support of at least 75 percent of the electors. He said, "I would not have been happy had we won by as narrow a margin as that by which we lost."

The vote was canvassed at a board of education meeting held Tuesday. At this meeting representatives from the group who opposed the Neumann-Reinke site, headed by E. D. Durant, appeared before the board in the interests of the Fairground site. The delegation presented a letter asking that the board of education take steps to secure the Fairground property. It assured the board that full cooperation from this group would be given if this site was selected.

Durant thought some resistance to the bond issue was from people who thought $775,000 was too much money to spend for a school. He thought $100,000 or more cut off the cost of the school would probably be more agreeable to conservative voters. When asked if eliminating the gymnasium from the program would answer the problem, Durant and others thought that the gymnasium should not be eliminated.

It seemed difficult to determine just what thing should be eliminated from the school program. The program was made after a large number of people in the district had indicated what kind of a school was desired, and an extensive study of their desires had been made by the citizens' advisory council, citizens' committees, school faculty members and the board of education.

Educational Seiback

The outcome of Monday's election which defeated the bond issue for the proposed Tawas Area Junior and Senior High School, dealt the education program of the district a great set-back.

Just how significant is the defeat? Months of careful planning and study preceded the election by members of the board of education, men YOU chose to act for you and who represent each area of the district. A Citizens' Advisory Council and its committees aided in supplying the board with facts and information on buildings and site location, transportation, finance, curriculum, community and people. Architects, engineers and the Michigan Department of Public Instruction approved of the board's findings and selection of the Neumann-Reinke site.

There is no method to accurately evaluate the voting—what number of voters actually voted "No" on the site question and how many voted "No" on the ACTUAL question, the bonding proposition.

Opposition was expressed on the selection of the site. The board members welcomed the questions of those who were not in agreement with them. The questions and answers were published in your local newspapers so that everyone would be well informed on the subject.

The board's reply did not stop the few selfish individuals who could not set aside their personal feelings for the betterment of the educational program and the ultimate advancement of the entire area. Rather than back the men whom they had helped to elect to represent them, this small group began working to create turmoil and confuse the electors on the proposition before them. This group was successful and the bonding proposition was defeated, but what was the gain?

The needs of the school district remain unchanged and the problem of caring for them still rests with the qualified electors of the school district. The power for the selection of a site for the proposed Tawas Area Junior and Senior High School continues to be the duty of the members of the board of education, men you elected to represent you.

The next move in this "would be" battle to build a school is up to the members of the board of education. They have served you faithfully and well. Let us all support them, when the opportunity arises. Your children need a school, the community needs a school—ALL OF US WILL BENEFIT FROM ITS EXISTANCE.

Abraham Lincoln

On February 12, 1809, Nancy Hanks Lincoln expressed her gratification that her newborn baby was a boy. Little did Nancy Hanks Lincoln dream, on that day in Hardin county, Kentucky, that she had given birth to man, who with Washington—would become one of the most famous and inspirational of all Americans.

Lincoln's first American ancestry came here from Norwich, England, and settled in Hingham, Massachusetts in 1638. He was Samuel Lincoln and his descendants migrated to the West and South, moving to such states as Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky. Abraham Lincoln's early life was not an easy one and, after his birth in Kentucky, where he lived in various towns, he moved to Spencer County, Indiana, and then later to Illinois.

Lincoln worked as a farm laborer and served as a volunteer in the Black Hawk Indian War. He also had a go as partner in a general store, and when this business venture failed, he was left heavily in debt. Turning to politics, he was elected to the State Legislature at the age of twenty-five, after having served as postmaster in New Salem, Illinois.

In 1839, when the capital of Illinois was moved to Springfield, he moved there and opened a law office. In 1846 he was in Washington and, in 1858, he was nominated to run against Stephen A. Douglas, the Democratic candidate for the Senate. He was the Republican Party's nominee.

When he lost that race, he decided to retire, but he had made such an impression on the people of the country that his fame grew, rather than diminish, and in 1860 he was nominated for the Presidency at the Republican Convention at Chicago in May. Because the Democratic Party split and named two candidates, Lincoln was elected and took office in March of 1861.

Almost immediately, he was plunged into the work of guiding the nation during a terrible war and throughout that conflict, he remained steadfast in his belief and ideals. When the war finally ended, in 1865, Lincoln was an aged man, but the entire country needed his services then, more than ever before. Unfortunately, however, John Wilkes Booth, an actor, assassinated the President as he sat in Ford's Theatre, watching a play. Lincoln died the next morning, only a few days after the war he had guided for four long years had ended.

Perhaps the most prophetic comment made upon his assassination was that of Secretary of War Edward Stanton, who remarked as he gazed upon Lincoln's lifeless face "He now belongs to the ages." His tragic death and courageous efforts during the war, which almost split the Union, have combined with Lincoln's friendly and wise policies to make him, perhaps with George Washington, the most revered American in the history of the country. Millions of Southerners who had disagreed with Lincoln on the Secession question and who fought against his soldiers, agreed at the time of his assassination, that this act would hurt the South more than any other section, since Lincoln was a man too broad and too wise to support the short-sighted and punitive measures which followed, during the tragic Reconstruction Era in this country.

Today, he is looked upon as a national hero, and is known the world over as the personification of the American story—a log cabin boy who became President of his country and saved his Union.

Bible Comment:

Lives of Abraham And Jacob Accent Important Lessons

A PUZZLING and embarrassing incident in the Bible is the story of Abraham's lapse from truthfulness in representing his wife, Sarah, as his sister, when they were confronted by danger in Egypt. He lied out of fear for his own life and gave no thought to the fate of Sarah. The incident is so at variance with everything good about Abraham, that one can only regard it as the sort of lapse that sometimes occurs today in the lives of men of good character. It seems strange to think of a man of faith and courage, the utterer of a high and beautiful prayer, resorting to a cheap lie. The case of Jacob, Abraham's son, is very different. Jacob, in his early life, at least, does not appear as a good man, lapsing into a temporary act of weakness or evil.

To the contrary, there is in him something fundamentally bad. He is a schemer and trickster, mean and selfish. But a glimmering of something better appears in his romantic love for Rachel, and he does ultimately give every indication of having become a better man. However, no glossing over of the evil in the early life of Jacob can make him better than he was. The evil in him was deep. Yet that early evil makes the transformation in his character all the more significant.

Two things stand out boldly as we consider these two men. One, as we think of Abraham, is that no man should be judged by any one incident, or phase, of his life. Even good men may lapse and fall at times, and should be judged only by their whole record of character, purpose and achievement. The other, as we think of Jacob, is that no man's character, however evil, is necessarily fixed. Even a bad man may become a good man.

Born in LaGrange county, Indiana, Mr. Emmert comes of farming stock. He has had years of experience, both as his father's helper and in farming for himself, and has participated in 4-H Club work. He holds a M. A. degree from the University of Chicago and a Th. B. from Northern Baptist Seminary. He has also taken courses at the International College of Commerce. His hobbies are music and antiques. Mrs. Emmert, the former Martha Atkins, is a native of Iowa. She, too, was reared on a farm. Choose Stainless Steel Tableware Carefully

BY EDNA MILES

IN a very short time, stainless steel has come out of the kitchen and into the dining room, where it graces the table in company with good china and crystal.

Nearly every housewife has some stainless steel in her kitchen which she uses for stirring or other food preparation. Thus, she wonders how the more expensive stainless (selling for perhaps $9 a place setting) differs from the cheaper varieties that offer a set for four persons at a mere $10.

The answer, as always, lies in quality. First, there's a matter of finish. Unlike the inexpensive stainless, the quality stainless has no rough edges and is buffed to bring out the lasting, high luster of the stainless itself.

Many brides-to-be are picking stainless steel as their only tableware in starting out. Later on, they can add sterling, but at the outset they have one good quality set that will serve handsomely both for family and guests.

In shopping for stainless, then, watch for hollow handles on knives and graded pieces. Graded pieces are those tapering in thickness toward the edge of the spoon bowls, handles and tips of fork tines, just as in the best sterling.

Such grading improves the appearance, feel and balance of the tableware. The woman buying stainless should always hold a piece in her hand and inspect it carefully for such qualities.

Stainless is usually most beautiful in very simple designs, but there are a number of patterns on the market today from which the housewife can choose.

Designers no longer translate silver designs into stainless; they design for the stainless itself.

This bride-to-be carefully inspects a stainless steel spoon for finish and grading, two qualities that spell the difference between good tableware and the less expensive variety. The pattern she is inspecting is called "Ballet."

Do You Remember This?

Delegates to an Iosco County Republican Convention held at the courthouse in Tawas City during the early part of the 20th century. A convention was a convention in those days. It named candidates for county office as well as delegates to the state convention. Pictured are also some authentic styles in beards and headdress for men who are preparing for the Centennial. This was furnished for the Tawas City Centennial Exhibit by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pringle of Tawas City.

New style... New power... New economy... and yet lowest-priced line in its field

That's why people are calling the new 1954 Chevrolet the outstanding motor car value of this new year!

Men and women everywhere are deciding that Chevrolet for 1954 gives more for the money than any other car in its price range.

Here are the reasons why... New style—more beauty of line, contour and color—with stunning new bodies by Fisher and luxurious new modern-mode interiors. New power—more pickup, more passing ability, more smoothness and quietness of operation with either of Chevrolet's two advanced 1954 engines—the thoroughly proven engine teamed with Powerglide (available on all models at extra cost) or the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 115" engine!

New economy—yes, even stronger gasoline savings—because both of these great high-compression engines are designed, engineered and built to bring more power from every charge of fuel.

Moreover, these new Chevrolets remain the lowest-priced line in their field, again this year.

Come in... see and drive the new 1954 Chevrolet... and place your order now!

SOCIAL SECURITY
 President Eisenhower has asked congress to broaden the Social Security System to bring more than 10 million professionals, self-employed farmers and public employees under its coverage. He also asked for increased benefits and for a higher withholding base. The proposals, if adopted, would give individuals immediate higher benefits, as well as long-range improvements.
 The United States Air Force plans a world-wide chain of storage bases.

Be very careful about making promises; some of them can be collected in court.

Presenting the 1954 CADILLAC

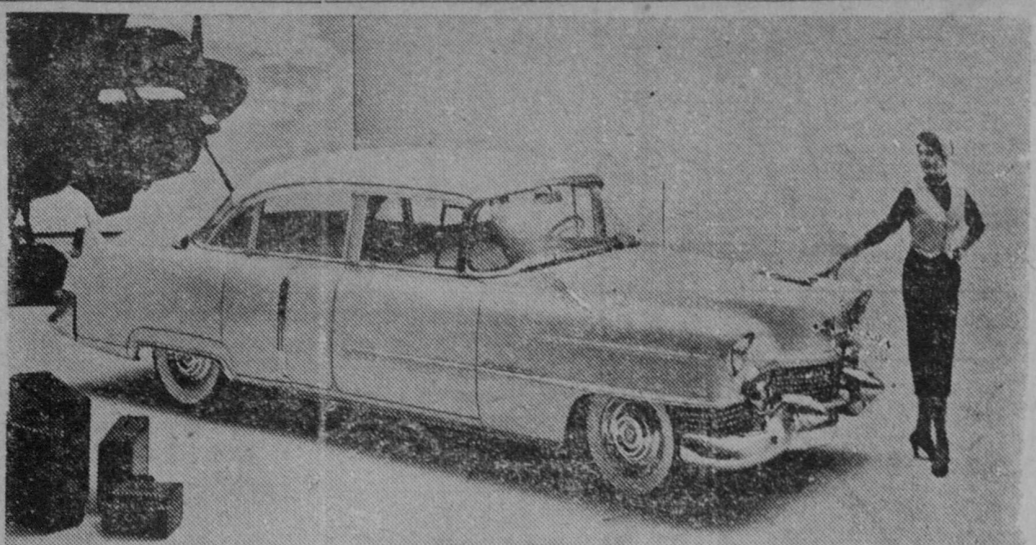

Styled to be Copied for Years to Come...

... and as Thrilling to Drive as to See!

The new "Standard of the World" is now on display in our showroom. It is not just a new model, but a wholly restyled and re-engineered Cadillac—new from its more massive grille to its more distinctive rear deck.
 It is lower and longer in silhouette... more modern and graceful in its body lines... and with greater majesty and dignity in every detail. Beyond question, it is destined to influence the design of motor cars for years to come.
 Matching this greater exterior beauty are Cadillac's luxurious new interiors—more generously proportioned and more beautifully appointed than ever before... and executed in a dazzling array of gorgeous new fabrics and leathers.
 And, what is even more remarkable, this wonderful new Cadillac is as thrilling to drive as it is to see!
 A great new 230-horsepower engine has added new power and responsiveness. A vastly improved Hydra-Matic Drive provides even greater smoothness and flexibility. Advanced Cadillac Power Steering, now standard equipment on every model, brings with it a whole new concept of steering and handling ease. And new Cadillac Power Braking* has introduced wonderful new motoring safety and convenience.
 This greater Cadillac beauty—and this finer Cadillac performance—are available for 1954 in three brilliant new series of motor cars... the remarkable Series 62, the distinguished Fleetwood Series 60 Special and the magnificent Fleetwood Series 75. And, of course, there is also the supremely beautiful Cadillac Eldorado.
 These inspiring creations are in our showroom now—awaiting your critical inspection. We cordially invite you to see and drive them at your earliest opportunity.

1954 CADILLAC SERIES 62 SEDAN—A styling highlight of the 1954 Cadillac Series 62 six passenger sedan is the integral windshield visor formed by the roof's forward overhang. Dramatic new styling and new chassis and suspension engineering make the 1954 Cadillac a major automotive advance establishing important future trends, according to Don E. Ahrens, General Manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division. Panoramic windshield, new front and rear end designs, new low length of body lines and increased interior roominess are outstanding. With improved steering, braking, handling and riding qualities, the new Cadillac delivers even greater smoothness and responsiveness from its high compression V-8 engine.

FARM NOTES...

"January-hatched chicks are beat as money-makers only by those hatched even earlier." This statement comes from J. M. Moore, Michigan state College extension poultryman. Mr. Moore adds that early chicks do require some special management.

Bring home your baby chicks to a clean, warm house. It should be large enough to provide one square foot of floor space per chick, up to 12 weeks and two and one-half square feet of space per pullet up to time of laying. Have the building in good repair (dust and dirt removed, drafts, eliminated, insulated and disinfected).

Operate the brooder stove for 24 hours before the arrival of chicks. Electricity may be used successfully for brooder heat, but another source generally is needed under Michigan winter brooding conditions to keep a proper room temperature. A room temperature of 65-70 degrees will keep the house dry, let ventilation work better, and help birds develop in a normal manner.

Fresh litter (cut straw, shavings, sawdust, crushed corn cobs, clean and or commercial litter) should be spread on the floor to a depth of four to five inches.

Feeding space requirements include: Waterers, two one-gallon fountains per 100 chicks up to three weeks old, two three-gallon fountains from then on.

Feeding space needed is one inch per chick the first two weeks; two inches from two to six weeks; three inches after seven weeks. Feeders should be filled only half full, thrown out and water will be saved if feeders and waterers are raised as birds grow so they do not need to bend down. Keep waterers on wire stands and prevent dripping because wet spots on the floor are ideal for coccidiosis germs; moisture and heat develop the infection.

Sharon Frank and James Laidlaw, members of the Laidlawville 4-H Club, have been learning to "watch the chicks, not the thermometer" these past few weeks. These young people were among a number of Isoco county folk who got their first chicks in late December or early January, believing that early started chicks will mean extra money in their pockets.

But early chicks are not worth much if they freeze or smother. The more chicks that pull through to be pullets, the more eggs there will be to sell to our resort trade, come summer.

When chicks are first put under the hover they must learn where the source of heat is. A corral made from corrugated paste board 18 inches high will keep them from straying far if it is placed in a circle about three feet back from the hover edge. Keep feeders and waterers inside the corral. Hover temperature in the first five weeks will depend largely on the kind of brooder used.

Here is a good rule: Keep the temperature at the edge of the hover one inch above the floor at 95 degrees for the first week, then gradually cut it five degrees each week until it is reduced to 70 degrees.

If chicks crowd under the hover, boost the heat; if most of them stay at the edge of the corral, lower the temperature.

Too high temperatures make chicks unhappy and they learn the vices of picking and cannibalism more readily. Mr. Moore says further, "Keep them cool but keep them comfortable." Older birds under brooder practices will be scattered out over the floor at night. Dim lights that burn all night help to prevent needless mortality through crowding and smothering.

It is good practice to feed only fine chick grains for the first 24 hours, then go immediately to baby chick starter, keeping mash before them continuously. Feeding chick grains the first 24 hours usually prevents "pasting."

By now (after age four weeks) the early chicks started by the Harold Goedecke, Donald MacDonald, Lyle Long, Clarence Eimers, Lloyd Guest, Harold Heinze, Aaan VanAntwerp, George Bush and Ray Cross families and maybe others we haven't heard about, as well as James and Sharon, are very likely being fed whole oats in separate feeders along with the starter mash. Like any other feed, the chicks have to learn to eat it. In Northern Michigan oats is a universal crop and a good poultry feed.

Proper balance between mash and grain assures large, well-matured pullets when they come into production. When pullets are grown in confinement, this is a good rule to follow: Starter mash the first four weeks. Starter and grower feeds with whole oats in feeders from four to 12 weeks. From 12 to 20 weeks, growing mash and whole corn are fed in hoppers. This is the easy, clean, sanitary way to feed pullets.

Perhaps that's enough poultry talk. Shepherds with flocks lambing early should get ready now, advises Graydon Blank, MSC extension sheep specialist.

Ewes not sheared before lambing should be well-tagged around the udder and rear quarters. This makes much easier getting that all-important drink of warm milk.

Lambing pens made of small gates are important lamb savers and a heat lamp is useful in a chilly barn. Fasten it securely so the bulb is about 30 inches off the floor and barricade to keep ewes out from under it.

Did you forget? Farm account books for 1954, we mean. A supply of both types of farm accounting books is on hand at your Extension Service Office, Federal Building, East Tawas. Available, too, are home account, tourist and resort account books.

Remember that your tractor, the modern work horse, is like old Dobbin; it needs daily grooming to do its best work. This reminder comes from Rob-

HDA NOTES

The current interest in coffee seems to bring more comment about its price than the place of coffee in our meals. Coffee is a stimulant and not a food. When you add cream and sugar to coffee, you add calories (and increase the cost), but cream and sugar make no difference in the effect of coffee.

These acts are worthy of consideration when figuring your food budget.

Many epidemics of milk-borne diseases have their source on farms, so pasteurization of the farm home milk supply is a wise safeguard. Methods of home pasteurization were demonstrated for about 40 persons during Little Farmers' Week at Whittemore by Mrs. Reuben Edie and Mrs. Arthur Aulerich. They used a double boiler and thermometer method, and another using an automatically controlled electric pasteurizer. Not everyone has an electric pasteurizer, which means you will at least temporarily want to use an alternate method. Using a kettle or double boiler will effect pasteurization, and with a little care, the milk flavor will not be impaired.

This double boiler method is suitable for one or two quarts of milk, and can be done without a thermometer. First, place one to two quarts of milk in the top of a double boiler. Then, place one quart of water in the bottom part of the double boiler and boil vigorously for 10 minutes. Cool and store in a clean container.

For larger quantities of milk the following procedure is preferred:

1. Pour four to six quarts of clean, fresh milk into a kettle. Do not use tin, iron or chipped enamel utensils.
2. Place a floating dairy thermometer in the milk. A candy thermometer, often partly made of copper, should not be used because it may change the milk's flavor.
3. Heat the milk rapidly, stirring constantly, until the temperature of 160 degrees F is reached. You may get a cooked or boiled taste if the milk is heated above that temperature.
4. Place the kettle immediately into a large pan of cold water. Keep the kettle covered to prevent scum from forming.
5. Cool the milk quickly to 60 degrees F or lower. Change the water in the pan often. Store the milk in a clean container, well covered, in a cold, clean place.

One milk-borne disease in humans is undulant fever. Pasteurizing the home milk supply eliminates one source of the germs which cause it, and certainly no one wants to take unnecessary risks of contacting it.

You have finally finished drawing plans for your new house, or your remodeled house. You wonder if you have overlooked some important detail.

We offer you a 10-point guide to check your whole plan. You may use it to check any one room or any of the three main areas of every well-planned house, the living area, the sleeping and working area. Here are the 10-points to consider:

1. Entrance—Are the outside entrances convenient to driveway and to yard?
2. Traffic—Do entrances to hallways and rooms direct traffic around the work, living and play areas, rather than through them?
3. Arrangement—Do windows and doors permit convenient arrangement of furniture and equipment?
4. Space—Are rooms large enough to permit space for work, play, rest and visiting?
5. Storage—Have you provided ample storage within easy reach?

6. Privacy—Does your plan include ample privacy for bedrooms and bathrooms?
7. View—Do you have unobstructed views of driveway, barns and yard?
8. Ventilation and Heating—Is cross ventilation possible in most rooms? Has your heating plan been checked?
9. Light—Is there ample natural and artificial light for work, play and entertaining.
10. Appearance—Does your plan lend itself to attractive interior and exterior?

4-H Club NOTES

Wonder what's happened? Almost two weeks now since we have received a meeting report from our 4-H Club reporters. Maybe they are extra busy putting the finishing touches on projects they plan to show at the Community 4-H Open House events which will be starting about mid-February.

When you hear a siren or see a traffic cop coming your way next time, ask yourself: What did I have for breakfast? This is not a wisecrack. Recent studies by industries show that the greatest number of accidents occur between 11:00 a. m. and noon.

Health authorities believe that not having a good breakfast is one of the biggest reasons for high accident rates in the late morning. When we are hungry we get tired, when we are tired we are more apt to be careless. So, you see not having a good breakfast could cause an accident.

Breakfast might be said to mean "break fast". Why? Because it has been a long fast from the evening meal of yesterday.

A good breakfast should provide you one-fourth to one-third of the food you will eat during the whole day. Your breakfast should include food containing protein, such as is found in eggs, meat and milk. If you eat these foods regularly for breakfast, along with vitamins, there is no danger of being tired from hunger, or maybe causing an accident.

The posters for National 4-H Club Week, March 7 to 14, which were ordered by leaders at the last 4-H Club council meeting, have arrived. North Hale, Vine, and Tawas City 4-H Clubs were not present, so the exact number wanted is not known. Those for the other clubs will be mailed next week, and there will be extras which may be requested by the three clubs named.

4-H Clubs will find these posters helpful in making exhibits to publicize their 4-H Club activities during the special week in March.

Start preparing ideas and materials for an exhibit now. Get your posters.

Sharon Frank, Brian and Terry Bellville, Carol Stron and James Laidlaw are our 4-H Club poultry raisers this year. Sharon and James already have their chicks. We aren't sure what the others plans are, but all of them should turn to the agricultural column for some information on raising chicks.

Braves Lose to Oscoda in Hard Fought Game In a hard fought game Friday night, Oscoda High School squeezed past Tawas Area, 61-60. The game was played before a capacity crowd at the local gymnasium. The Tawas Area Reserves also lost their game, 45-28.

The Braves took an early lead and held it through the half-time score reading, 31-28. In the third quarter things really began to move with Oscoda scoring 21 points and Tawas, 15, to put Oscoda out in front 49-46. In the final quarter in a "knock down, drag 'em out affair," Oscoda went ahead by 10 points, only to have Tawas creep up within one point before the final whistle. The Braves were held to outside long shots during the closing minutes of play and they couldn't drop one.

B. Hobart was the big offensive thorn to the Braves, sinking 12 field goals and one foul shot for 25 points. The Braves down the middle defense just could not stop him. Morley and Anschutz paced the Tawas Area cagers with 23 and 20 points respectively.

Church Filled to Hear Talk on South America Last Sunday evening the Tawas City Methodist Church was filled with members of the congregation and visiting friends to hear Dr. Glenn Frye, assistant to Bishop Marshall R. Reed.

Next Sunday at 8:00 p. m. slides taken from pictures made by Bishop Reed, himself, will be shown. The bishop says in an introductory statement: "The General Conference of the Methodist Church has asked each of its bishops to spend at least three months in each quadrennium visiting a mission field outside the United States. We chose to go to India and spent seven weeks there in January and February of 1952. These pictures do not tell the whole story, but will give those who see them new insight into life in India today and something of our Christian opportunity in this great country that has recently come to freedom. The description of these pictures will be made in a personal way they may be a bit more intimate than they could be otherwise."

The W.S.C.S. will serve light refreshments during the fellowship hour following the missionary hour. The third in the series will be the appearance of the Rev. John Simpson Sunday evening, February 21.

FOR THE PEOPLE The immortal words spoken by Abraham Lincoln in his famous Gettysburg Address bring to mind the words of the Apothecary's Oath. For just as Lincoln's speech was motivated by his dedication to the Freedom of all peoples—the Oath of Pharmacy is dedicated to freeing all from the shackles of pain and disease. It is fitting that we, as pharmacists, re-dedicate ourselves in service "for the people" on the occasion of the observance of Lincoln's birthday.
