The 1954 Ford's greatly improved, new "fine car" ride is the result of the new ball-joint front suspension, the greatest advance in chassis design in 20 years, combined with the new frame, shock absorbers, rear springs, engine mounts and a new front stabilizer.

"Only Ford in the high volume field has this modern ball-joint suspension which provides a better ride, makes steering easier, reduces road noise and retains the 'new car' feel longer than the old-fashioned king-pin type of front suspension," L. W. Smead, general sales manager of Ford Division, explained.

Proposed High School Plans Will be Inspected by District Next Week

PROPOSED HIGH SCHOOL TAWAS AREA SCHOOLS—EAST TAWAS & TAWAS CITY, MICHIGAN

Six Public Meetings Scheduled

A series of six meetings in the Tawas Area School District is scheduled for next week in which tentative plans for the proposed new school will be presented to the people of the district. It was pointed out that these meetings would give every person an opportunity to become informed on the progress made by the citizens' advisory council and board of education toward arriving at the aim of the people of the district when they voted for consolidation more than a year ago.

The aim of the people of the district when they voted on the consolidation proposal was the construction of a modern school plant sufficiently large to care for the growing population of the district.

It was to be located on a site of ample size to provide facilities for an enlarged athletic program, playground, parking space and other requirements of a modern school.

Immediately following the election, meetings were held in the district during which a large committee was elected to acquire data on possible sites for the proposed school building. Other committees were named to ascertain what kind of an educational program the people of the district wanted and what size school building would be required. To complete the organization, an advisory council of school members was elected to work directly with the board of education. Members of the advisory council named were Carl Babcock, Dwight Wood, William DeGrow and John Monarch.

The data, information and studies of the various committees on sites, curriculum and building requirements were presented to the board of education. The board of education and the architects, H. E. Beyster and Associates, made a study of the data and information on the seven directly proposed sites furnished by the committee of the Neumann-Reinke property was selected as being the best for the purpose.

The Neumann-Reinke property was recommended as a school site by the architects, H. E. Beyster and Associates, and received the approval of Wilfred F. Clapp, state assistant superintendent of public instruction.

In his letter of approval, Clapp wrote, "You and your board of education with the help of the citizens of your community, have gone about this problem in a systematic and objective way. I am, indeed, glad to note the cooperation you have had from the citizens' committee. It seems to me that the committee has weighed well all of the important considerations which should be observed in the selection of a site."

Information furnished by the curriculum and other committees was used by the architects in preparing the tentative plans of the proposed school buildings. These plans will be submitted for the inspection of the people of the district at next week's meetings.

With an enrollment of 680 in the seventh to 12th grades at the present time, the proposed school buildings would provide for a future enrollment of 1,000 in those grades. The estimated cost would be $750,000, which would require a bond issue. To retire these bonds would require a special tax levy of 10 mills, or five mills more than is now being paid into the building and site fund.

A Critical Audience

Bible Comment:

Writers of Bible Illustrate Truths Through Symbols

ONE thing about the Bible that many people forget is that it is an Eastern book. The daily language and literature of the East has always been full of figures and symbols very different from much of our prosaic, Western liberalism.

The prophets frequently used figures of speech and symbols to express truth.

The parables of Jesus were true to life and revealing in the truth concerning God and man that Jesus sought to impart, but they did not depend upon the incidents described having actually happened.

It was "a certain man" who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and it might have been any man so far as the truth and the teaching were concerned.

The parables are stories and teachings for today, and not just stories of something that happened long ago. Their significance is not as historic incidents, but as spiritual tales, or parables, with universality of application.

Take, for instance, the account of how Eve was created from the rib of Adam. Here is how one great Biblical teacher interprets it.

He suggests that the creation of woman from man's side meant that she was to be his equal and helpmate; not from the head was she created that she should lord over him, nor from the foot, that she should dominate her.

This interpretation is in harmony with the high esteem in which women were held among Jews and in contrast with their inferior position among many other peoples.

The story of the beginning of sin symbolizes the subtle and easy temptation of those made in the image and likeness of God; the essence of sin in disobedience to divine command; the knowledge of good and evil as the result of the fall, and the emergence of man into moral struggle and moral responsibility.

Buick Offers Complete New Line for '54

An outstanding beauty among the completely new line of cars which Buick offers for 1954 is the two-door Super Riviera pictured above. With a rakish sports car styling modeled after Buick's famed Skylark, the Riviera features a new panoramic windshield, a cut-down door belt line, full rear-wheel cut-out and a refined sweeppear molding.

It has a completely new front end, all new styling, new instrument panel, new rear fender and deck lid treatment, and new interiors. It is mounted on a 127-inch wheelbase and is powered by a 182-horsepower V-8 engine when equipped with Twin-Turbine Dynaflow. Wire wheels are offered as optional equipment.

FLINT, MICH. — Buick today announced a completely new line of automobiles for 1954, studded with the most revolutionary styling changes since the introduction of streamlining.

The new Buicks come in four series with all new, roomier bodies, beautiful row exterior and interior styling, longer wheelbases, panoramic windshields, and more powerful and efficient V-8 engines.

The Special Series makes its debut in the V-8 class in 1954 with a brand new 150 horsepower engine modeled after the valve-in-head V-8 introduced in the Roadmaster and Super Series last year. Horsepower in the Roadmaster has been boosted from 188 to 200, and in the Super from 170 to 182.

New also to the Buick line for 1954 is the Century Series, designed to sell in the price range between the Special and Super. The Century, which features a 200-horsepower Roadmaster engine mounted on a 122-inch wheelbase, has a very high power-to-weight ratio and is the outstanding performer in the Buick line.

All-steel estate wagons are available for the first time this year in the Century and Special series.

Among outstanding styling features in addition to the new panoramic windshield are full rear wheel fender openings and sloping door line on all two-door Rivieras and convertibles, built-in sun visor and rain cove on four-door sedans in the Roadmaster and Super Series, new high crown front fenders which permit the driver to see the right fender at all times, and new instrument panel.

The new V-8 engine in the Special Series, new combustion chamber design which increases power and economy, new power brakes, new front end suspension which improves steering and provides better cornering ability, and cowl ventilation are among the top engineering advancements.

The sweeppear molding, so closely identified with Buick, has been restyled along the lines of last year's Skylark sports convertible. The grille styling also has been restyled with 49 thin bars of chrome enclosed in a chrome frame. The traditional Buick emblem on the front of the hood has been replaced with the word B-U-I-C-K in narrow, delicate letters.

Interior styling has been enhanced by a new, double roll instrument panel, similar to the one on Buick's experimental Wildcat. A new speedometer, unique in the entire industry, is featured on the Roadmaster and Super Series.

Speed is indicated by a red line that moves horizontally across a scale graduated from 0 to 120 miles per hour.

New styling also is featured throughout the interior with many new combinations of colors in nylon, broadcloth, cordaveen and leather.

The new V-8 engine in the Special has the same overall dimensions as the V-8 in the Roadmaster and Super. The Special V-8 has a 264 cubic inch displacement and an 8.1-to-1 compression ratio in Dynaflow-equipped cars. In cars equipped with standard transmission, the compression ratio is 7.5-to-1.

Both Dynaflow and safety power steering continue as standard equipment on the Roadmaster Series and optional on all others. Swing-out door hinges provide up to one and one-half inches more entrance room to the front compartment of all 1954 Buicks.

The new line comes in 15 models with six horsepower ratings and two wheelbases. All Roadmaster and Super models are mounted on a 127-inch wheelbase. Special and Century models are mounted on a 122-inch wheelbase, an increase of one-half an inch.

The Skylark, which has been completely restyled for 1954, is powered by the 200 horsepower Roadmaster engine.

The '54 BUICK's got it—
The BIG CHANGE you've been hoping for!

Exemplar of the 1954 Buick's years-from-now styling in this stunning new Super Riviera

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling. Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting. Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles. But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity. They upped all horsepower to the highest in Buick history. They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL — and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY — a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price — a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built. And they did all this without change of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world. We invite you to come in and inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

WATCHDOG MOUNTAIN — An "around-the-clock" sky watch is kept to guard the San Francisco Bay area from surprise air attack. The $5 million U. S. Telephone Almanac

Time again for the Telephone Almanac.

Now available in the local business office of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. The Almanac for 1954 deals with the vast contributions made by business and trade to the building of civilization and to the part played by communication. A picture series goes back to the time when business depended on mud-pies, or baked brick, records of transactions.

It also covers the work that went on in colonial counting houses and plantation offices in America, calling attention to Betsy Lucas, later Mrs. Pinckney of Charleston, South Carolina, as an outstanding candidate for the title of first woman office manager on this continent.

Oh, yes, the Almanac includes timetables for the sun and moon and chronicles some historical event for each day, all in true almanac tradition.

District Leader Attends Farm Bureau Meeting
 The Isoco County Farm Bureau Board of Directors met with Mr. and Mrs. August Lorenz Wednesday, December 30. A pot luck supper at 7:30 preceded the meeting.

Between The LINES of Your PRESCRIPTION

Dr. J. J. Jones
 112 W. Washington St.
 Tawas, Mich.

Don Kilpatrick, 10th district leader, was present to give a report on the annual meeting of AFBB held in Chicago. This is the year, he said, that farmers will write their farm policy. A large membership is essential. He asked for new community groups in order to make a stronger membership, county, state and nation-wide.

Each time your doctor writes a prescription, there are unwritten, but implied, instructions that the ingredients be of fine quality and standard strength and that they be in the precise proportions prescribed by him. Our pharmacists understand, and heed, these between-the-line instructions and proceed with professional skill and painstaking care to compound your medicine exactly as ordered by your doctor.

MICHIGAN OUTDOORS

DREAMS FOR 1954
 If your own "Aladdin Lamp" could make it all come true what would you want most in the coming year to make a better Michigan Outdoors? A couple of million sportsmen in the State may have a lot of different ideas along this line—here are just a few we've picked up in casual conversations here and there:

Clarified Fish and Game Laws
 Somebody should rewrite our fish and game laws in language anybody can understand! The "if and or but" phrases appearing in the current versions are enough to discourage all but ambitious graduates from a law school. Variations in the law required because of a number of experimental lakes and streams, and specially designated hunting areas may be named as the reason—but surely some of the confusion could be "written out!"

Violator Prosecution
 Pity the poor Conservation Officer who catches a fish or game violator red-handed only to stand by helplessly as a local justice of the peace says "sentence suspended" when the case gets to court. Law enforcement becomes a joke under such circumstances—circumstances that are insults to all of the good, law-abiding sportsmen in the State. Some state-controlled method of court proceedings might rectify this situation.

Commercial Fish Control
 Wherever commercial fishing and sports fishing overlap in Great Lakes waters a more careful survey of the situation might result in more harmony between the two factions. For example, existing laws governing commercial fishing areas and seasons don't meet with the approval of lake trout and wall-eye pike anglers in many parts of Michigan. Both sides have a case. How about a joint meeting of minds on this in 1954?

More Fun—Less Meat!
 Most of all, our crying need for 1954 is a greater appreciation of all outdoors, and less emphasis on the importance of the actual kill of fish or game. There'll be more fishermen and hunters afield this year than ever before. That means less game to go round, per capita. So, why not plan to get a bigger eyeful of fine scenery? Why not make more of good companionship? Take a little deeper breath of good, fresh, Michigan air! Be glad you're alive... thankful that Michigan Outdoors is yours to enjoy! I'll help to make a Happier New Year!

State Police Review 1953

Michigan State Police will look back upon 1953 at the year when the tornadoes struck Port Huron and Flint.

The experience was one they will not forget and from which they profited in further perfecting their plans and preparations for handling major emergencies.

The disaster at Port Huron on May 21 was the curtain raiser for the catastrophe at Flint. Destruction was heavy and there was some injury and loss of life. But by the evening of May 24, it was possible to reduce State Police assistance to three eight-man squads and on May 26 to two night patrols.

Because tornadoes in Michigan are a rarity and the one at Port Huron was considered as such, the calamity that followed on June 7 at Flint was entirely unexpected.

Beginning at 6:32 p. m. with a dispatch that there had been a tornado in the Erie area, within another two hours the territory covered included Pleasant Lake, Milford, Flint, East Tawas, area, Oscoda, Columbia, Kings Mill, Lakeport, Brown City and Imlay City.

It was not until 9:02 p. m. that the first word was received of the Flint disaster at the operations office and many State Police were already at other areas visited by the tornado or were on their way.

As the magnitude of the disaster began to be disclosed, all available troopers were mobilized and rushed to the scene. Those on their way to other storm districts were recalled and troopers already at these places were withdrawn to Flint as soon as possible.

For the period of a week the State Police were out of business insofar as carrying on general field activities and highway patrols. The only officers still at the posts were those needed to take care of the radio and telephone. Another detail was tied up in an escaped prisoner hunt in the Upper Peninsula.

It was July before the last of the men were released from the tornado detail.

The escaped prisoner hunt in the Upper Peninsula had its beginning May 22 when seven inmates of Marquette prison managed to break to freedom. By June 7 six of the men had been captured, one of them just after he had crossed the border into Wisconsin. The seventh, Lloyd Russell, is still at large. He is now on the FBI list of the 10 most wanted men.

As the year drew to a close, city, county and state law enforcement agencies were again engaged in a large scale manhunt, this time for 13 convicts who escaped from Jackson prison a few days before Christmas. Within less than 48 hours 11 had been captured, eight in the Jackson area and three in Detroit. The two others were caught by police in a Richmond, Indiana, hotel. It was the largest mass escape in Jackson's history.

Traffic continued to be the outstanding problem in 1953 and although final figures are not yet available the year witnessed a new high estimated total of 59,210 deaths and injuries indicated 1,925 deaths and 37,235 injuries. The number of accidents increased to an estimated 183,206.

Motor vehicle registrations went up to 2,796,192 and mileage traveled on the basis of tentative figures was estimated at 26,118,100,000, a gain of nine percent.

Despite all of the special assignments, provisional figures show the department spent 483,539 man hours on patrol in 1953, the highest in its history, and received 75,845 complaints another record. Arrests totaled 77,943, not including 3,712 juveniles.

Now is the time to watch newspaper pages for clearance sales which always make December prices seem pretty high.

Presenting the mighty aristocrat of light-duty trucks—the 1954 GMC

HERE is the most extraordinary light-duty truck ever built. It has the smart styling of a fine passenger car—a sweeping grille of modern design—a panoramic one-piece windshield—two-tone interiors with harmonizing upholstery—luxury features that will make you proud to be seen in it. And it has a whopping 125-horsepower engine—more powerful than many trucks with a two-ton rating. The Pickup—one of 19 models—has a box that holds up to 11 more cubic feet than last year's capacity model. Its tail gate is grain-tight—and sand-tight.

And—a truck feature pioneered by GMC—it offers the driversaving, moneysaving advantages of Truck Hydra-Matic Drive*. One final and surprising point. The price of the GMC, value for value, is unsurpassed anywhere on the truck market. That's the story. The next move is yours. Come in and see "the world's most modern truck." And—make it soon.

New Paint Remover Simplifies Refinishing

BY EDNA MILES

THIS is a do-it-yourself era. Mother, father and children are to workshops and sewing classes evenings and weekends. They are engaged in making or refinishing picture, drapes and slipcovers, clothes and accessories.

No matter how complicated the project, there's someone in the family willing to tackle it. Refinishing old furniture bought, presumably, for a song is one favorite way of spending an evening.

But since any well-done refinishing job is largely dependent on removing old paint and getting down to the grain of the wood, a good paint remover is important.

There are many good paint removers on the market. But most of them require much muscle and effort from the man, woman or child engaged in the paint removing.

So one paint remover just recently packaged for home use is a welcome addition to the shelf. This new remover can be used without a scraper. One application will, the makers claim, remove any number of layers of paint, varnish, lacquer or shellac.

And, since the makers say that it will not affect the ply nor warp the veneer, no sanding is necessary.

This remover remains liquid when it is applied, so it's simple to use on scrolled furniture or picture frames. Except in the most difficult cases, a cloth is right for rubbing off old paint and veneer with this remover. On stubborn pieces, use steel wool. Then go once over lightly with turpentine and the new finish can be applied. No drying time is needed. A word of caution: It will take off fingernail polish just as easily as it removes old paint. So don't decide to use it the day after a fresh manicure.

A clean cloth and a little pressure will remove old paint and veneer from a picture frame when a newly marketed paint remover is used.

Miss Michigan, Velva Robbins of Dowagiac, adds her contribution to the 1954 March of Dimes. More support than ever before is needed in the current drive because of the costs of the new Polio Prevention Program of stepped-up gamma globulin supplies and massive testing of a polio vaccine during this year.

Color Can Make or Subtract From Your Home

Color can make or break the attractiveness of your home. It enhances a handsome house or enlivens a dull one.

The color scheme of the exterior of a house should be chosen with the largest visible area in mind. On a one and one-half-story house this is usually the roof. On two and two-and-a-half story houses the walls will be the largest area for consideration.

The colors chosen for lesser features are of great importance because they give character to the house.

You have often heard that the roof of a house should be darker than the walls. This is not necessarily true. It depends entirely on the effect you want to create. For example—a light-colored one-story house will look higher if the roof is light. A dark roof tends to cut the house in half horizontally. A dark roof and dark walls on a one-story house gives the effect of a small cottage.

The instruction leaflets that I have been so happy to offer you with each of these columns are not, by far, a recent innovation. Many decades have passed since the idea for the first printed knitting and crocheting patterns was initiated. The Universal Knitting Book, published in 1899 in England, contained the first patterns for knitted and crocheted articles ever to be seen.

THE EVOLUTION OF KNITTING PATTERNS

Although many beautiful garments and designs were created by each home knitter prior to this time, a successful fit or appearance could not be determined until the article was completed. The introduction of knitting patterns, the first attempt to create tailored garments, was considered the new revolution in knitting. The publication was immediately accepted by needleworkers, and in 1905 the second edition was issued. Soon after, a knitter's textbook was published and it found its way into almost every home on the British Isles. In the middle 30's, the fashion houses of Paris elaborated on the idea by permitting the publication of a series of instruction leaflets for knitting Parisian designs written for the home knitter. Knitting has never looked back since. Today, each instruction leaflet that we use for making a perfect item every time is the product of design and color experts. New color ranges are constantly being created and new stitches are sought in all parts of the globe to give the home knitter better selections and more imaginative designs.

NEW AFGHAN DESIGN FOR KNITTERS

Here is a fine example of the ingenuity of today's needlework designers—An afghan that incorporates warmth, beauty of design and interesting color harmony. This lovely wrap-around features diamonds of bittersweet on a background of surf green, with tiny puff stitches centered in each triangle. The size is an ample 62 x 70 inches. A knitting instruction leaflet for making the HARLEQUIN afghan may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper. Please ask for Leaflet No. C-125.

Hale Future Farmers Hold Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Hale Chapter of Future Farmers of America was called by President John Webb, Jr., on December 22, 1953. The purpose of the meeting was to determine if the Hale Chapter of F. F. A. would enter the Michigan F. F. A. Broiler Contest. The group decided to enter the contest and appointed the ninth and tenth grade members as the committee in charge of the project.

The contest in our northern region begins the week of January 25. The time of the contest will be spent in caring for the chicks in such a way as to achieve rapid weight gains, rapid feathering, low death losses and good finish. The 11 week period will end on April 12 when the broilers are expected to average at least three pounds each.

Earl Ousterhout of the Sterling Hatchery at Sterling offered to present 100 chicks to the chapter for the broiler contest. The chapter accepted the offer with thanks and will pick-up the chicks on January 25.

So far as the legal records disclose, there has never been a trial, since the advent of law, that has resulted in a thoroughly satisfied plaintiff and an equally satisfied defendant.

HDA NOTES

Calendar:
January 8, Friday—Home Accounts project meeting at Hale, 2:30 p. m.
January 11, Monday—4-H Club Leaders' Council, Grant township Hall, 8:00 p. m.
January 11-15—Little Farmers' Week Series of meetings.

A look at the calendar tells us that January starts out a very busy time. Many of you will not want to miss any of these events. Women are concerned about how much money is available for family use after just taxes are paid and also in keeping down the costs of production. That means they will be interested in these meetings. Friday's meeting is along this line, being planned to help women keep better records of household and family expenses. This information does help in computing more accurate tax returns.

There are a goodly number of women participating as leaders in the 4-H Club program, and they won't want to miss the regular council meeting.

Monday through Friday of the January 11 week—each day brings some topic of interest to rural people who earn part or all of their living at farming. Take a look in the agricultural column to find out what kind of topics are scheduled at what place for each day. Some of them, maybe all of them, will be of interest to you.

Where does the money go? Have you asked that question lately. If you want to know where the money goes, and why it goes, you can find the answer.

Plan now to attend the home account keeping class to be conducted by Lucile Ketchum, home management specialist from Michigan State College. Come to the home of Mrs. Charles Attwell Friday afternoon (today), January 8 at 2:00 p. m.

This book (accounts) is designed to help you plan the use of your income in order to have money for immediate expenses as well as set aside sums for the future. If you are thinking of building a house, buying an automobile or sending your children to college, the home account book will enable you to see how you are spending your money now and how you can cut some corners to save for the big future expenses.

Already more than 500 Michigan families are using the record book issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Miss Ketchum explains in detail how to make entries and totals in this book. If anyone wishes, she may join a survey Michigan State College is making on how Michigan families spend their incomes. Any woman who wishes may attend this meeting.

Hale and Laidlawville Home Demonstration Groups have joined those whose 1954 enrollment and program have reached our office. Reno has supplied an enrollment blank. Thank you very much. Will we hear from the others this week?

Michigan State Police Make 6,583 Arrests in November

ucis, farmers are interested in disposing of them at a profit. Tuesday is the day to hear explanations on the advantages and disadvantages of the different price plans for milk in Michigan. Wednesday, January 13, Whittemore Community Building, 1:30 p. m.

The subject for discussion is animal disease and the speaker is Dr. Glen Reed, extension veterinarian at Michigan State College. Dr. Reed recently met with Iosco county farmers to discuss Bang's Disease. Those who heard him then will want to hear what he has to say about mastitis and other diseases of farm animals.

Dr. Reed will welcome any questions from the audience. It may be that those attending the December meeting now have a question they didn't think of at that time. Ask it Wednesday, January 13.

Thursday, January 14, Whittemore Community Building, 1:30 p. m.

Insect and weed control with chemicals. How toxic are they? How can we use them without harm to ourselves or livestock?

Answers for questions like these and others will be found in the discussions and displays presented by Roy James and B. H. Grisby, extension entomologist and botanist at Michigan State College.

Pasture improvement through weed control, chemicals to control weeds and brush; uses of chemical controls in small fruits such as strawberries and raspberries are also a part of the program for this day.

Friday, January 15, Grant Township Hall, 1:30 p. m.

How do beef cattle numbers on a national basis affect the prices we get for the cattle? What is the effect of time of marketing on profits?

You will learn about these questions at the Friday meeting to be conducted by Wilton Finley, extension animal husbandman at Michigan State College, and Karl Wright, Michigan State College agricultural economist.

Mr. Wright's experiences have been both here in the United States and abroad.
