The 84-member junior high girls glee club, under the direction of Mr. Ferguson, presented several selections.

$594,011.50 Accepted as Low Bid to Complete Paving of M-55 in Iosco

Mt. Pleasant Firm Named Low Bidder

C. E. Utterback of Mt. Pleasant was low bidder last Wednesday with a price of $594,011.50 for building 7½ miles of 25-foot wide aggregate base with sealcoat in preparation for future bituminous surfacing on M-55 east from the M-65 intersection in Iosco County.

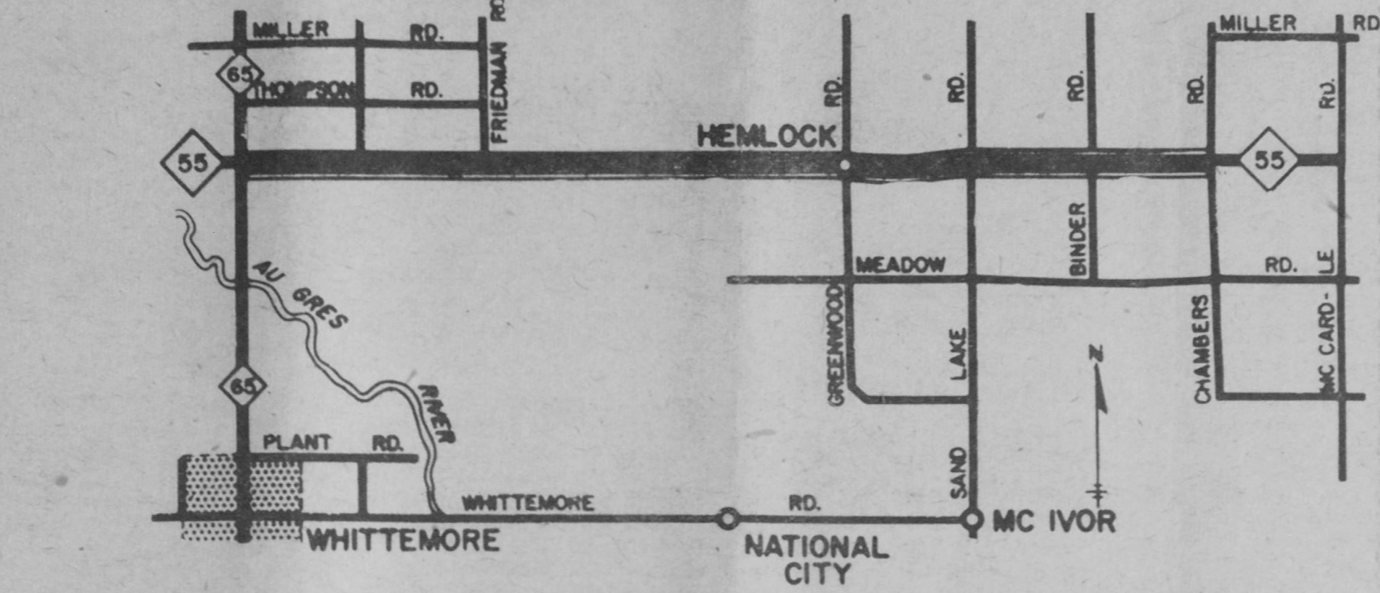

This project was one of a number in the largest highway construction bid letting in Michigan history which was held December 11 in Lansing.

Low bids totaled $12,027,271. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie announced. The largest previous letting was April 12, 1956, when $9,200,000 in highway contracts was awarded.

When this section of M-55 is completed, expected by October 1, 1958, this important east-west highway will be completely hard-surfaced from Tawas to Cadillac.

Ten miles of M-55 west from the M-65 intersection was started on June 3 and completed last fall.

The east end of M-55 from the Hemlock Road Baptist Church to US-23 in Tawas City was completed in the summer of 1950 by Johnson-Greene Company of Ann Arbor. As an example of spiraling costs in road construction since 1949, the low bid for this 6.858 miles was $217,235.69. At that time, M-55 was relocated in Tawas City to shorten the route to US-23. This figure did not include cost of constructing the new M-55 bridge over the Tawas River.

PROJECT ON M-55 TO REPLACE EXISTING GRAVEL

"The letting last Wednesday brings calendar 1957's total construction program, including right-of-way and construction costs, to $182,700,000, an increase of some $27,000,000 over calendar 1956," Commissioner Mackie stated.

"A stepped-up highway program has been ordered and a target of over $200,000,000 in construction has been set for 1958.

"The breakdown will indicate which projects our engineering schedules call for letting in each year and will prove to be an invaluable aid, not only to the department in its future right-of-way acquisition and planning, but also to local governmental units and the highway construction industry as a whole."

Another project in Northeastern Michigan included widening US-23 in Alcona County from 20 feet to 22 feet and resurfacing with bituminous concrete from about two miles north of Harrisville northwest to M-171.

East Shore Asphalt Paving, Alpena, was low bidder with a price of $319,398.34. Length of its improvement will be 13 miles and is scheduled for completion by September 30, 1958.

The department previously had announced 16 of the 22 projects scheduled for the December 11 letting.

COMMISSIONER MACKIE

Kiwanis Goodfellows to Sell Papers Saturday

One of the principal fund raising campaigns for the benefit of Tawas Area youngsters—the annual Goodfellow newspaper sale—will take place Saturday, December 21, in the Tawas Area.

Proceeds from the sale of this special newspaper will be used to assist children in various ways throughout the year.

The sale of the Goodfellow edition will start Saturday morning and continue throughout the day in the Tawas Area.

"Receipts from the sale of the Goodfellow edition will help to bring a ray of sunshine instead of a cloud of gloom to some Tawas area youngsters on Christmas morning," states Lou Gorham, Tawas Kiwanis Club president.

"Your donation, however small, will go a long way to bring a bit of Christmas cheer to some Tawas area kiddie."

Nathan Barkman is general chairman of the Kiwanis Club's Goodfellow committee this year. As part of its project, the Goodfellow committee will work with the club's underprivileged children's committee in preparing Christmas baskets.

Members of the Goodfellow committee are: William Borosch and E. D. Jacques.

Tawas Kiwanians emphasize the fact that the Goodfellow fund assists this organization in sponsoring worthwhile projects and activities for the benefit of children throughout the year, not only at Christmas.

As an example, projects which have received contributions from the Tawas Kiwanis Club, to name a few, include: Tawas Youth Canteen, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops of the area and the Tawas Area Music Boosters Club.

In addition, Tawas Kiwanis Club assists Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda in sponsoring the annual Kids' Day program held each October. Between 1,200 and 1,500 youngsters are entertained each year. This means supervision by Kiwanians and funds necessary to feed the youngsters all the hot dogs, buns, milk, pop and doughnuts they can eat.

High on the list of charitable projects of the Kiwanis Club is the Tawas Hospital. A joint project of the Oscoda and Tawas Kiwanis Clubs is the gum ball vending machines which are placed in various business places in the county. Money received from this project is used to buy toys and equipment for children who are hospitalized.

The hospital also benefited during the past year through a $100 contribution from the local Kiwanis Club for a porta-lift.

Other donations are made to the Forney-Clement Foundation at the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, and the annual March of Dimes Campaign.

Gun Accidentally Discharges; Wounds John G. McArdle

A 22-year-old Tawas Township man, John G. McArdle, was treated Tuesday at Tawas Hospital for a gun shot wound in the left leg.

While hunting rabbits west of Sand Lake, McArdle shot himself in the leg when he replaced his 22 caliber automatic pistol in its holster.

Investigating officers said that a piece of metal protruding from the holster apparently came in contact with the trigger just as the gun was being replaced.

The slug entered the hip and traveled downward in the leg and remained in the thigh, just above the knee. According to police the slug did not strike any bones.

Police Credited for Saving Man's Life

Credit for the probable saving of a patient's life at Tawas Hospital was given to the Michigan State Police this week by hospital officials.

Last Wednesday a special electric suction pump being used during an operation went out of order and a smaller stand-by pump was pressed into service.

Wednesday night another patient was rushed to the hospital for an abdominal operation, requiring the same type of equipment in the operating room.

The hospital staff rigged up an emergency pump which operated satisfactorily until Thursday morning. In the meantime, hospital administrators placed a rush order for a new pump with a hospital supply service in Flint.

Sister Rita Louise, hospital administrator, told the firm that receiving this pump in the shortest time possible "was a matter of life and death for a patient."

The makeshift pump apparently was not operating properly at the time.

A hurried call was placed with the Michigan State Police and a state plane from Lansing flew to Flint to pick up the new pump and then proceeded to Wurtsmith

Air Force Base, Oscoda. The pump was relayed from there to the hospital by a patrol car from the East Tawas post.

Sister Rita Louise, who this week sent a letter to Police Commissioner Joseph Childs commending the state police for its quick response, said that only two hours lapsed between the time the call was placed until the special apparatus was in operation at the hospital.

"The patient is now doing fine," says Sister Rita Louise.

EAGLES TO DISTRIBUTE CHRISTMAS FOOD BASKETS

Tawas Bay Aerie, FOE, No. 2588, and its women's auxiliary are going to have baskets of food for distribution for needy families this Christmas. Anyone knowing needy persons, please call the local club, phone FOE 2-3201.

OPEN SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

In addition to the regular schedule of hours at the Tawas City post office during the pre-Christmas rush, there will be window service Saturday, December 21, from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and Sunday, December 22, from 8:00 a. m. until 12:00 noon.

Room for More Science Students

With an eye toward recent criticisms on the national level toward science and math programs offered in secondary schools of the United States, administrators of Tawas Area High School this week took an objective look at the curriculum in their own building.

Results of the school's findings indicated that 35 percent of the student body includes math or science in their course of study.

The overall picture shows, however, that a high percentage of ninth and 10th grade students tend to offset a considerably lower percentage of upper classmen enrolled in math and science classes.

"In this age of science, 35 percent of a total student body of a high school enrolled in these courses is too low," said Supt. Reynold Mick. "We have a great number of students who could profitably take science and math courses. The school would be glad to adjust its program to meet the need of any and all such students."

In a table prepared by Principal Ernest Jordan, science and math courses fare as follows, according to the number of students in each grade as compared with the percentage of students taking the courses:

Freshman class (enrollment 120): Fifty-three students are enrolled in general science, or 44 percent of the grade; 94 percent enrolled in algebra, 78 percent; general math, 34 students, 28 percent.

Sophomore class (enrollment 104): Biology, 46 students, 38 percent; geometry, 43 students, 35 percent.

Junior class (enrollment 122): Chemistry, 24 students, 23 percent of grade's enrollment. Senior class (enrollment 72): Physics, 10 students, seven percent of class.

Twenty-six percent of the combined junior and senior classes is enrolled in advanced algebra.

Mr. Mick said that the main reason why the percentage of the upper two grades taking math and science is lower than grades nine and 10 is that the upper classmen have more elective subjects and that they have a tendency to shy away from the more difficult subjects.

Of particular interest to parents of school-age children is the fact that a student may receive a maximum of six years study in both science and math if he takes advantage of courses offered in both junior and senior high school.

"Tawas Area's faculty is well staffed in science and math subjects," states Mr. Jordan. "Three teachers have masters degrees while one has a bachelor's degree in this field. These teachers have an average of 15 years in the teaching profession."

Math or science subjects are not required at Tawas Area. One reason is that 30 percent of the students enter college after graduation from Tawas Area and the school must gear its curricular program in other subjects for the other 70 percent who believe they may not benefit directly from science and math.

"Parents can help create an interest in science and math subjects by encouraging capable youngsters to include these courses in their field of study," states Mr. Jordan.

If Weather Permits-- Silver Valley Open This Week-End

With weather permitting, Silver Valley will be open for business this week-end, the earliest date on record for an opening at the winter sports park located in Huron National Forest.

One toboggan slide will be operated as will the return slide which is to double in the capacity of a special kiddies' ride this year. If the weather is cold enough the ice rink is expected to be ready, too.

The ski area will probably not open until after January 1, although if there is enough snow before that time it will be ready to go. The snow and rain of last week-end formed a good base on the slopes, something which the valley did not have last year.

Reason for this early opening of the toboggan slides is the new system of using crushed ice on the slides as a base, developed on a small scale last year.

Donald Hogaboam, main area operator, said that some 14 tons of crushed ice were required to fill the one slide and return. This method of construction was proven to hold up much better than the old "slush ice" method.

All four schools of the county reported to the winter sports committee that plans were set for selecting candidates for the Silver Valley queen contest. Each school will have two candidates, one from the senior class and one from the junior class.

The annual meeting of the East Michigan Winter Sports Council will be held Thursday, January 16, at the Holland Hotel in East Tawas. Last Thursday the council held a workshop at Gaylord, attended by some 30 other winter sports area operators and ski enthusiasts. Those attending from Tawas were Carl Eklund, George Baldwin and Clarence Everett.

Donald Watson, president of the winter sports committee, reports that Tawas Area School has reserved the new auditorium for the dance to be held during the carnival week-end in February.

The committee received word last week that Ted Malone, nationally known radio commentator and news reporter, will be here during the carnival to crown the queen and act as toastmaster at the annual banquet.

There will be no committee meeting next Monday night because of the Christmas holiday.

STATE SENATOR Charles T. Prescott of Prescott and State Rep. James Mielock of Whittemore were honored guests at a dinner held in the cafeteria of Tawas Hospital last Thursday night. Purpose of the dinner-meeting was to provide the opportunity for members of the legislature to meet with administrators of hospitals of this senatorial district to discuss mutual legislative problems. Similar meetings are being held throughout the state. Pictured above, seated left to right: Senator Prescott, Representative Mielock, H. Read Smith, secretary of the Tawas Hospital Association; Sister Rita Louise, hospital administrator; Mrs. Alice G. Meeks, administrator, Marilyn Memorial Osteopathic Hospital, Au Gres; Mrs. Hugh J. Helping Santa's Helpers

Good old Santa has a staff of helpers, as everybody knows, for even as magical a man as he could hardly be expected to do such a tremendous job without some assistance. . . . But do you know where his helpers get a lot of their help? Why, from the thousands upon thousands of trucks that daily transport raw materials, manufactured goods, farm products—everything it takes not only for day-to-day living but for a Merry Christmas, too. You can bet your boots that everything you see around the tree on Christmas morning traveled by truck for many miles before it got into Santa's pack. . . . Merry Christmas everybody!

$3,887 in Oil Refunds Distributed to Farmers

At a recent meeting held at Tawas City, $3,887 in patronage oil refunds were distributed to 60 Farm Bureau members in Iosco County who are patrons of Direct Distribution Program.

Direct distribution is now in areas of 34 counties, it was reported. Over $96,000 in refunds was returned to the Farm Bureau member-patrons in those areas. This makes an average refund of over $55 per patron.

Other reports showed that direct distribution is now over a million dollar business. Direct distribution was developed in cooperation with the County Farm Bureau by Farmers Petroleum Cooperative, Incorporated, Farm Bureau's petroleum subsidiary.

All Farm Bureau members are urged to look into the profit-sharing plan of purchasing all petroleum supplies used on farms.

Complete information may be obtained by contacting the county Farm Bureau secretary or Thomas Nelkie, who is the direct distribution agent for Iosco County.

Girl Scouts Making Christmas Gifts

The East Tawas Girl Scout Troop 1 met at the Methodist Church on Tuesday with 12 members present.

Recently they enjoyed two film strips. One was "Health Through Skin Care," the other, "Sleep for Health."

The girls have started making gifts for their mothers for Christmas.

The sales from the candy are mounting and the girls are enjoying this project.

An unintentional error is often stupid but not as stupid as the derision which often greets it.

WITH THE IOSCO—4-H Clubs

By DOROTHY SCOTT

Christmas caroling and skating party activities were planned by Peaceful Valley 4-H Club members at their December 3 Community Club meeting held in the Phillip Ahearne home.

Also discussed was making candy and cookies for Christmas baskets.

Jerry Finley was elected recreation and singing leader. She told club members about her experience at the Junior Leadership School last month.

Mary Ellen Ahearne, first aid project leader, has moved to Flint and John Wehrman is continuing the project.

Items of news from Peaceful Valley 4-H Club have been taken from the report sent in by Janice Skrocki, secretary. We are happy to receive her secretary's report of the meeting. Other 4-H Club secretaries are reminded to give us information about their meetings, too.

We could have even better news stories about 4-H Club doings if the club reporters would write a planned one. It is a better way than the reports of secretaries because these reports are not written in story-form. They are intended for a different purpose than sharing with others the activities of your club, which is what we do in planning a news story.

In other words, there is a place for both the secretary's report and the reporter's news story. Both tell about the same meeting, but do it in a different way and for different purposes.

Can we help you with either or both officer jobs?

Garden Club Holds Annual Christmas Party

The Tawas City Garden Club held its Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Mary Nemeth Tuesday, December 3.

Prizes for the most attractively wrapped gifts were given to Mrs. Nita Grear, Mrs. Harry Rollin and Mrs. Olga Kasichke.

Tea was served by the hostess committee, Mrs. Hugo Keiser, Mrs. Karl Bublitz, Mrs. Frank Walker and Mrs. Delbert Albertson.

SOMETHING NEW IN CHRISTMAS TREE DECOR

This Christmas, try something new and different in the way of Christmas tree decor!

Here are some ideas that are simple to execute, and beautiful to behold!

Try decorating your tree in all-of-one-color!

For example, use gold balls in graduated sizes tied with plump shiny ribbon in the same color.

For a natural look, place fresh fruits, such as grapes and apples, with nuts and pine cones along the trunk of the tree like a Della Robbia garland.

You can even add sugar cookies cut-out in different shapes and iced in pastels.

Cut a tiny hole at the top of each cookie before you bake it. Afterwards, string a loop on each cookie, and hang on the branches of the tree.

Watch out for fire hazards when you set up your Christmas tree, or any Christmas decorations which will be lighted.

Advice from the National Board of Fire Underwriters tells us: Do not place the tree near hot spots such as radiators, TV sets, strong light bulbs or fireplaces. Never use paper ornaments, cotton batting or gauze not treated for flame resistance. Keep curtains and other flammable material at least six inches from electric bulbs. Check light cords for fraying and have the switch for turning on tree lights a safe distance from the tree.

Selected bits of evergreen—white pine, spruce, balsam or the juniper shrubs in the yard—and a few cones combine with colorful bells and ribbon to make attractive package decorations. The same ingredients are basis for unusual Christmas corsages. They will last nicely for the holiday season unless kept too warm. A good plan is to remove the corsage and keep it in a bag in the garage or other cold storage spot between wearings if your clothes closet is heated.

If, when the holidays come, you are busy doing last minute jobs, you may not have time to enjoy your guests, family or holiday goodies.

You can start getting ready now. Make cookies, rolls and other baked goods and put them in the freezer. Use moisture-vapor proof wrappings for freezing.

Make a list of things that need to be done. Check off items as you do them. Look at the table linen to make sure they are clean, pressed and ready to use.

If you are planning on a large group, be sure extra table leaves are handy and that your table pad is large enough. If you need to borrow card tables and chairs for serving, get them located so all you will need to do is pick them up at the last minute.

Plan the menu, keeping it as simple as possible. Include salad and dessert that can be made ahead of time. Your food shopping list will be easy to make out from your menu. You will probably want to do the main food shopping about a week ahead of time.

Look over your glassware, china and silver. Make sure everything is in order for serving the foods on your menu.

Leave time for making a centerpiece. Most Christmas centerpieces can be arranged a few days ahead of time.

Include house cleaning and laundry in your plans, too. Do them ahead so there will only be last minute picking up before company comes.

Owners, Landlords, Tenants insurance policy protects you against liability for accidental injuries to persons on your premises. It covers ordinary hazards arising from the ownership, maintenance or use of premises or property and all operations necessary and incidental except operation of motor vehicles.

IOSCO FARM NEWS—

Farm Policy Workshop Held Thursday at Grant Hall

By Marvin Davenport
County Agent

The first Farm Policy Workshop was conducted by Dr. Arthur Mauch, agricultural economist, from Michigan State University, at Grant Township Hall, December 12, who led the discussion on capitalism, socialism and communism. Dr. Mauch compared the United States dollar to that of Russia. The United States dollar will buy 17 times more bread than a Russian dollar will. In America the dollar would buy 10 times more meat than in Russia.

The farmers present were divided into groups. Each group was to list the weaknesses and problems in our economic system. These farmers came up with such questions as:

How does a farmer get on a 40-hour-week?

Should the size of the farm be increased or should he seek full employment elsewhere?

How can we overcome the complacency of our people in their township, state and national government? Can a revised kind of education help this situation?

These brought on lively discussions and exchange of views. Business recession and depression was commented upon. Dr. Mauch "quipped" that a depression is a situation where people who do not intend to pay, quit buying.

Iosco County farmers attending included; George Strauer, Dale Strauer, Sid Trevethan, Harold Hammond, Earl Lackie, Martin Siegrist, James Sturtevant, Lyle Robinson, Waldo J. Curry, Gerald Bellen, Herman Drenberg and Norman Howarth.

A stand of trees, whether they be a small woodlot on your farm or any of the large state and federal forests in Michigan, will show an effect in the future of how they are cut now. These cutting practices are long-lasting effects, just as timber production is a long term business. Victor Rudolph, forester at Michigan State University, says it is good to know how a stand, particularly hardwoods, will be affected by cutting practices.

For example, consider a woodlot with quite an amount of large straight, high quality, desirable trees mixed with other trees which are crooked, defective or of less desirable species. If the best trees are removed all at once, or even on a periodic piece-meal basis, obviously the less desirable trees will be left. The remaining low-grade trees will increasingly stand up more and more of the stand. This is called high-grading, and it always reduces the value and quality of the future stand. The same woodlot, on the other hand, can be cut with the improvement of the whole lot in mind, considering both good and bad trees. If most of the undesirable trees are taken out along with just a few of the good trees, the condition, and most certainly the quality of the entire lot, will improve.

The desirable way to cut a stand is to harvest groups of trees, or to cut small patches. This gives the young trees plenty of room to start growing. Such a stand will develop a patchy condition, and this is desirable. No high-grading and indiscriminate cutting are the practices that will improve the future stand and increase the value of your farm woodlot.

Iosco County farmers are developing quite an interest in low-cost, one story buildings without interior poles or posts.

Trusses made with ring-bolts or glue-nail joints for clear-span buildings cost a little more. But the total construction bill is no more because of savings in poles or posts and roof purlins needed with conventional design.

Michigan State University agricultural engineers have tested gable trusses with spans of 24 feet, 30 feet, 36 feet and 40 feet and have developed plans for farm use. They also have single slope trusses for building additions of 24 feet using either the ring-bolt or glue-nail design.

You can get additional information on these types of construction in farm building series circulars 727 and 732. Copies are available at our office in East Tawas.

Iosco Students on CMC Honor Roll

Three hundred sixty-five students at Central Michigan College who were enrolled in 11 or more semester hours of credit during the last spring semester received a B average or better, it was announced by George N. Lauer, dean of records at the college.

Students from Iosco County included Mrs. Ruth E. Naslund of East Tawas and Melvin B. Skillman of Oscoda.

Archaeologist Tells About Ancient Indian Villages

An interesting article about ancient Indians who lived in fortified villages near West Branch was published in a recent issue of the Ogemaw County Herald. It was written by Harold M. Moll, archaeologist of Midland, who seeks information concerning the locality of other possible "forts" for further study of the former inhabitants of this state.

The remains of 11 fortified village sites where ancient Indians lived are found within a few miles of West Branch. Archaeological records indicate that there may have been 75 or more of these sites in Michigan when the first white men arrived. However, all but 14 have been completely obliterated in modern times.

All that can be found of these earthwork enclosures today is a circular ridge of earth from one to four feet high and from 10 to 20 feet wide that forms a circle from 150 to 400 feet across. Outside of this bank is the ditch or moat from which the earth for the bank was obtained. The bank usually contains three to five cuts that originally were gates.

Two men from Midland, whose hobby is archaeology, have spent the past five summers studying the forts near West Branch. They have solved some of the mystery concerning the people who lived there long ago.

Indications are that the forts were no pine growing when the forts were built. These ancient Indians cut three to eight-inch poles several feet long and stood them in an upright position to form a palisade or circle on these earthworks. Inside the walled villages they erected wigwams.

In five summers of work in the earthwork enclosures discovered near West Branch, nine triangular arrowheads and a few small pieces of pottery are all that has been found. There are indications that the forts were only occupied for a short time.

Besides the "forts" near West Branch, one is located near Glenzie. The forts are at least 325 years old, possibly much older. Fine stumps with 260 growth rings stand on the banks of the enclosures and some of the burial mounds found within. These trees were cut in the 1890s.

Many things of interest could no doubt be found out about these Indians if sites could be located that have not been so mutilated as some of those already visited.

If anyone knows where there is one of these forts or other Indian works are located, he is requested to send the location by letter or card to Harold W. Moll, 1755 East Isabella Road, Midland.

MICHIGAN DRIVER PROGRAM RECEIVES NATIONAL ACCLAIM

Michigan's driver education program has received national notice twice in the past three months.

The October issue of McCall's magazine carried an article entitled "Are Teen-Agers the Worst Drivers?" This story, written by Elizabeth Pope, has been condensed and published in the December issue of Reader's Digest.

The article points out that only three states require all high schools to offer driver training. But it emphasizes the fact that Michigan is the only state which requires a student to complete the course in order to obtain a driver's license before age 18.

Here's a lightning fast direct drive chain saw with 6 full horsepower that cuts 8" oak in 4 seconds, 18" pine in 12 seconds. Brings down trees up to 5 feet in diameter. With its light 19 pounds and all-angle diaphragm carburetor you can cut in any position—faster and with less strain and effort.

The Case of the Stone-Cold Iron

If it takes forever for your iron to get hot... if lack of heat is a pressing problem for you... if your iron stays cold on the ironing board while you get hot under the collar... then you may be a victim of inadequate wiring.

Many American homes—four out of five, according to a recent LOOK MAGAZINE article—have outdated electrical systems that are too weak to supply today's power needs. The results: blown-out fuses and balky appliances.

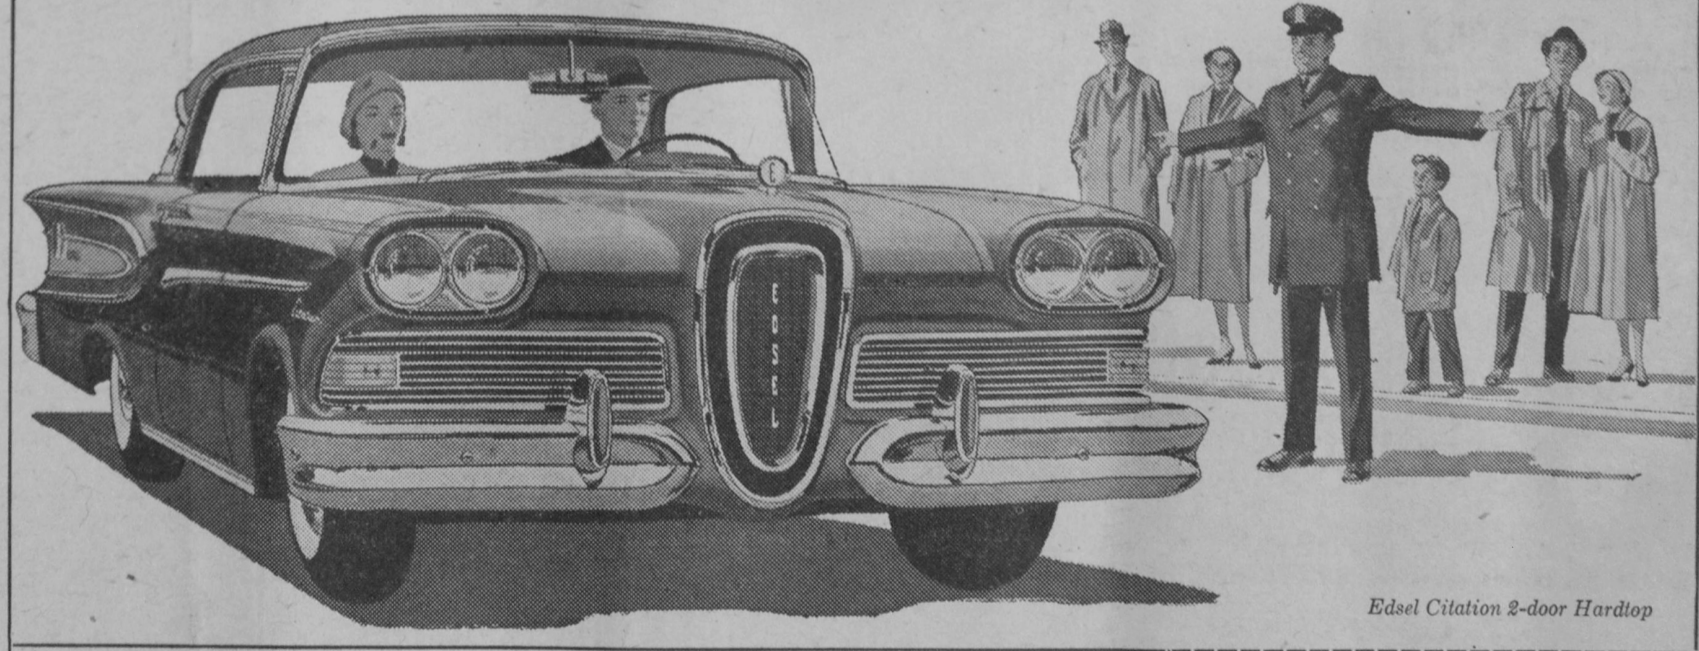

To make sure your appliances are delivering top performance, have an expert inspect your power circuits. And for a free copy of the Look article—with its check list of ten inadequate-wiring symptoms—just write to us or call in person.

New Adult Titles Added to Regional Library 'Book List

Adult readers will be interested in the many new titles to be found in branch libraries served by the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library. Subject material is varied and will satisfy every interest. Among the new books are Frank Slaughter's novel, "The Marmaker," a story of the days of Prince Henry, the navigator, with some active seafaring and adventure.

"Scent of Cloves" by Nora Loftis is a fabulous tale but a credible one and is a portrait of an exotic spice plantation and a rich planter who is haunted by a sense of fear and suspicion.

"Eroica," a novel about Beethoven by Carl Pedoll, is a story of one of the most remarkable men who ever lived. It tells of the experiences that formed Beethoven's character: His first appearance in Vienna, his disillusionment with Napoleon, his hopeless loves, his loneliness and the final tragedy of his deafness.

"Angel" by Elizabeth Taylor is a sophisticated story that is funny and sad at the same time. The story is about Angelica Durrell, a character who involves herself and those around her in extraordinary predicaments.

"On the Beach" by Nevil Shute is one of the century's greatest tales of quiet horror and absolute suspense. It is a story of nine climatic months in the lives of people who can force their own end. A new biography of John Burroughs, the great naturalist, is titled "The Edge of April" and is the life of a man who never lost the wonder of the world.

Other titles to look for are "Wind in the Forest" by Inglis Fletcher, "Give Us This Day" by Stewart, "The Birth of a Grandfather" by May Sarton and "A Cup of Tea for Mr. Thorhill" by Storm Jameson.

Rainbow Farm Bureau Hold Christmas Party

The Rainbow Farm Bureau Group held a combined Christmas party and regular meeting at the Sherman school on December 12 with eight members and two guests present. After the business meeting, the topic for the month, "What Can Farmers Do To Make Traffic Safety a Personal Safety Matter," was discussed. The group enjoyed a Christmas game, Christmas candy and the singing of Christmas carols.

The gifts were then opened after which a pot-luck lunch was served. Future plans include a flag presentation of the group to the school.

Wise men know that favoritism and politics will last as long as the human race endures.

Christmas Seal 'Do It Day' Friday, December 20

Friday, December 20, is "Do It Day" in Iosco County. That is the day when all county residents who have not yet answered their Christmas Seal letters are asked to do so. "Do It Day" is being observed throughout the state in a last effort to raise funds for the fight against tuberculosis.

The local Christmas Seal sale is keeping pace with the state-wide drive which is slightly ahead of last year's, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association today announced. So far residents of the county have given $698.20 this year compared to $481.50 in 1956 for the same period of time.

"For its year-round program the state TB association depends upon the support of the thousands of Michigan people who buy and use Christmas Seals during the weeks before Christmas," J. Irvin Nichols, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association said. "The real strength of the tuberculosis program in Michigan comes from the large number of people who support the TB movement. The progress during the past half century has been possible because the majority of citizens have supported an aggressive anti-tuberculosis program."

Nichols urged all county residents who have not yet answered their Christmas Seal letters to do so on "Do It Day."

Ninety-four percent of the money given by Michigan residents remains in the state. The other six percent helps finance the national tuberculosis program of research and education.

GOP DINNERS

Republican fund-raising dinners will be held across the country on January 20, according to an announcement by the GOP National Committee. VENDING MACHINES

Sales via vending machines have risen to about two billion dollars this year from about 30 million dollars in 1925. Today there are an estimated 3,000,000 such machines in use, tended by 5,500 operators.

Herman J. Huber

Herman J. Huber, an employee of the Iosco County Road Commission for the past 15 years, died Monday, December 2, at Tolfree Memorial Hospital following a long illness. He had been a resident of Hale for the past 25 years.

Herman Joseph Huber was born October 6, 1902, at East Tawas and spent his youth at North Branch in Lapeer County. He married the former Miss Anna Pearl Wickert on September 30, 1932, in Lapeer County. In addition to his services with the road commission, Mr. Huber was foreman of the Hale Garage for 10 years. He had been deputy sheriff for 12 years.

Surviving are his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Norene Attwell and Mrs. Barbara Reimer of Hale and Mrs. Faye Dillon of Whittemore; a son, William at home, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday, December 5, from the Hale Baptist Church. The Rev. James Duthie and the Rev. Jack Richards officiated. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery at Hale.

Cold for State Police Skin Divers

It was really cold outside for 17 Michigan State Police Skin Divers who were given a training test in diving under winter conditions. Among the divers who participated was Trooper Jack Barker of the East Tawas post.

The test was held at Higgins Lake, where the troopers, representing all sections of the state, met at the conservation training school.

Air temperature hovered around zero when the officers, toggled out in their diving suits, masks and compressed air tanks, submerged. It was first necessary to break a path through 40 feet of ice that rimmed the shore. The troopers did their underwater swimming for intervals as long as 15 minutes.

The skin diving squad was organized last August and trained at East Lansing headquarters and in nearby lakes and streams. The divers have since recovered the bodies of several drowning victims and numerous articles of evidence.

The Higgins Lake test was planned last summer, as the divers are expected to work under cold weather conditions as well as when the water and air are balmy.

The man who doesn't like hot weather can now get ready to enjoy cold weather. It's about here.

Mclvor Farm Bureau Held Christmas Supper Thursday

The Mclvor Farm Bureau Group met at the Sherman Township Hall on December 12 for the monthly meeting and Christmas supper. Thirty-two people from 10 families enjoyed the ham and chicken supper with all the trimmings.

The game, Don't Say "No," was started during supper and continued throughout the evening. Mrs. William Nickell won the prize.

A Christmas box, which included a variety of tobacco, candy, nuts and fruits, was sent to the patients at the Huron Rest Home.

Mrs. Beulah Pringle reported that five ladies from the group were present at the county women's meeting and Christmas party on December 5 at the Grant Township Hall. This group was chosen to serve the luncheon at the farm planning committee meeting on December 19. A good attendance was also reported at the farmer's petroleum meeting on December 6.

The discussion topic was "Hazards on the Highway—Let's Take Action!" The group responded by making recommendation to the county board of directors that a county safety council be appointed to work with the road commission to check for and remove road hazards on rural highways.

the Snapshot Guild

A tree, the small fry, and Christmas morning—a sure-fire snapshot combination.

Plan to Shoot a Christmas Story

Today we'd like to tell you how one family we've heard about records Christmas at their house. A week or so before the holiday, all the members sit down for a "story conference." Everybody makes suggestions about what should be included as picture material, and a list of all the mutually-agreed-upon items is drawn up.

This "shooting list" generally contains such preliminary activities as Junior's letter to Santa; making and decorating Christmas cookies; putting the traditional trimmings on doorways and fireplace; festive store windows and fat Santas; packages and mail; bringing home the tree and decorating it; hanging the children's stockings; carolers on Christmas Eve, etc. For Christmas Day itself, high on the list come gift-opening, holiday callers, test runs of skates and bicycles, and, of course, Christmas dinner.

As you can see, the story begins to take shape. The first shot will probably be Junior peering into a store window—then a close-up of one particular toy. From then on, the toy becomes the unifying theme that holds the story together—whether it's to be recorded on snapshot film or by a movie camera. Junior confers with a curbside Santa; he writes a letter to Santa.

Then, a series of shots will show trimming the tree—until the Star of Bethlehem at last shines forth from the very top. The gifts—including the toy—are wrapped and piled high at the foot of the tree—and the stockings are "hung with care" at the fireplace.

On Christmas morning, Junior opens his gifts—and "Boy meets toy". A good close-up shot of his reaction will almost tell a story all by itself—and so will the faces of the holiday callers to whom he shows off his new and already beloved toy. Don't even be surprised to see the toy going along to the dinner table—and finally to bed with him after a wonderfully exciting day!

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Look entertained her father, Otto Grabow, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Look, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Katterman and family at a baptismal supper Sunday evening of last week. Their baby, Pam, was baptized at Emanuel Lutheran Church Sunday morning.

IOSCO SCD—
Now is Time to Take Inventory of Year's Work

By Richard Rose
United States Soil Conservation Service

The end of another year is about here and now is the time to take inventory to see how much conservation was put on the land in Iosco Soil Conservation District.

Each cooperator should make a personal inventory on his farm to see that he is still traveling the conservation road. He should keep in mind that his objective is to have a complete soil and water conservation plan for his land. To reach this objective, it takes time in many cases, but the end result is gratifying because it will serve you as a long range guide to wise land use and more stable yields.

The Iosco SCD will soon be closing the books on its sixth year as the guiding hand in conservation farming in Iosco County. I know it must be a good feeling to the people of the district who have contributed so much, to look back and see that their efforts have not been in vain. However, there is still a big job ahead and we must continue to work toward the goal of having every acre of land in the district treated within its capability.

This has been a good year for progress in the Iosco SCD. Directors are happy to see this progress, but already they are planning ways to make next year a better year. If we all approach the New Year with this attitude and work together I am sure that next year will be a bigger and better year.

Now is the time to start thinking and planning the conservation practices that you will be doing next year.

Proper Ventilation Will Save Money

Proper ventilation of your poultry house this winter can save you money three ways. Not only can it promote more health in your flock, but it may also be the key to maintaining winter production and efficient feed conversion. In ventilating for the proper environment, Merle Esmay, agricultural engineer at Michigan State University, says the available heat and moisture must be balanced. Each bird in the flock will produce about two-thirds of a pound of moisture per day and about 12 hundred BTU's of heat.

Therefore, to obtain a balance, you will need a fan that will move about five cubic feet of air per minute for each bird. All fans have a factory capacity rating in terms of cubic feet per minute. But do not forget that insulation is necessary to keep the heat and moisture balance inside the house.

For installation, exhaust fans are probably the simplest, cheapest and most practical to use. With the exhaust system, one or more fans, depending on the size of the house, can be installed in one side wall. Put the inlets on the other side so you will have a good cross flow of air, all moving in one direction. A thermostat fan control switch is usually installed to keep the fans from drawing off too much heat.

The big factor in maintaining a balanced environment is moisture. With more birds you will naturally have more moisture, but you will also have more available heat. A good deal of the moisture comes from the droppings. If you can clean the house two or three times a week mechanically you will help out the ventilation system. Less moisture will also mean a dry floor and clean eggs as well as a step toward top production from your laying flock this winter.

FULL ACCREDITATION

Word has been received here that the Tolfree Memorial Hospital, West Branch, has been granted full accreditation by the Board of Commissioners of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

This accreditation is the maximum obtainable by any hospital and is for a period of three years. It is the result of the inspection and evaluation of the hospital conducted on October 10 by James Tate, MD, a field representative of the commission.

Four national medical and hospital organizations comprise the joint commission on accrediting of hospitals which grants the certification of accreditation.

They are the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, The American Hospital Association and the Canadian Medical Association.

This accreditation program, officially sponsored by the commission, is voluntary on the part of the hospital and is conducted as a cooperative and non-profit medical service to hospitals throughout the nation.

Accreditation adds work for doctors and hospitals and costs over $500,000 each year from the funds of the four sponsoring organizations.

This expenditure of time and money, however, is made by the commission for one purpose only, the benefit of the patient.

1,394 MICHIGAN TRAFFIC DEATHS DURING PAST YEAR

Up through December 5, Michigan traffic deaths this year have totaled 1,394 as compared with 1,617 in the same period of 1956, a reduction of 223 or 13.8 percent, according to provisional figures compiled by the Michigan State Police.

While these figures are subject to readjustment downward with the receipt of delayed reports for November and the first five days of December, the reduction is well ahead of the 1957 goal to save 174 lives, or 10 percent under the death toll of 1,747 last year.

Provisional figures for November show 129 deaths compared with 145 in the same month last year, a saving of 16.

Final figures subject only to minor revision list 136 persons killed in October, a reduction of eight, or five percent under 144 in the same month of 1956.

Injuries totaled 4,480, also five percent, or 234 less than 4,714 in October last year. There were 14,418 accidents, a decrease of 299, or two percent.

The accumulated final record for the first 10 months of the year shows 1,226 persons killed and 47,540 injured in 153,401 accidents. These are reductions under last year of 15, two and three percent, respectively.

Injury and accident figures for November and the early part of December are not yet available.

Estimated travel for the first nine months, the latest figure compiled, is 22 billion miles, an increase of four percent over the same period a year ago. The death rate of 5.0 per 100 million miles of travel was down 18 percent.

CHRISTMAS ROSE HAS BEAUTIFUL STORY

As beautiful as the flower itself, is the story of the Christmas Rose.

Legend tells that a small girl wept as she saw the Three Wise Men pass by on their way to Bethlehem.

An angel appeared to inquire of the child's sadness. The girl, Madelon, told the angel she wept because she had no gift to take to the Christ Child.

In a moment, the ground was covered with pure white roses. Madelon gathered them and hurried to present her gift.

The Christ Child smiled when he saw the roses. He reached out and as he touched them, the petals became suffused with pink.

Each year after, the Christmas Rose has grown—during a most unusual season—from the month of His birth, December, to March.

Only 13 crops, plus manufactured dairy products and a small quantity of wool, are held by the agriculture department under the government's price support programs. On the other hand, farmers and ranchers produce some 250 commodities, including cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and eggs, as well as crops, fruits and vegetables, which are not supported.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

It takes but a quick look at the fall, winter and spring fashion picture of recent years to see how tremendously popular knitwear has become. It has long been a perennial favorite, of course, in such items as sweaters, socks, scarves and gloves, but it is just in the last couple of years or so that knitting has entered the field of fashion in a big way. More and more women and girls are learning to knit so that they can, at reasonable cost, include lovely handmade garments in their wardrobes.

VERSATILE VARIATIONS

The large variety of yarns on the market today make knitting a more fascinating hobby than ever before. There are fine quality wool yarns, blends, man-made fibers such as orlon, and yarns with metallic strands running through them. Knitwear today is as much at home in evening wear and glamorous dresses as it is in sportswear. So, for holiday and every day, the woman who knits can find the right yarn and design to fit the occasion. Knitwear, likewise, has gained increasing importance in the children's, sub-teen and teen-age fields. Fashion consciousness develops in children at an early age and they, too, take pride in wearing good-looking, hard-wearing articles which are handmade. Gay, colorful mittens such as the ones shown here are simple to make and will delight the heart of any young miss.

YOUNG AND GAY

These wonderful, brightly trimmed mittens will add cheer to winter wardrobes and warm the hands during the season's coldest months. The basic mitten is knitted in the stockinette stitch with cable-design wrist bands. Now the fun begins because you can trim these mittens in a number of different ways: with gay and dangling yarn dolls, colorful pompoms, crocheted flowers and leaves or name spelled out in a crocheted chain. For your copy of the knitting instructions, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper and ask for Leaflet No. 118.25, MITTENS FOR KITTENS.

Third Book Fair Held at Hale Area School Dec. 5

The third Book Fair held in conjunction with Parent-Teacher Association meetings in the schools of Iosco and Arenac Counties was at Hale Area School December 5.

The Iosco-Arenac Regional Library arranged book exhibits for children of all ages and a special display of new adult reading material.

Miss Leonora Hass, director of the Iosco-Arenac Regional Library, spoke to the parents on the value of a library in a community and the varied services it offers.

Miss Hass, assisted by Mrs. Annette White, Mrs. Dorine McMullen and Mrs. Georgena Johnson, staff members of the regional library, gave book talks and reviews to the high school students and held browsing hours for them.

The book exhibits for grade children were moved to the Plainfield Branch Library on December 10 and grade visits with story hours were scheduled to acquaint the students with their library.

Mrs. Margaret Humphrey of Hale began her services with the regional library as librarian of the Plainfield Branch.

Similar programs with Book Fairs will be given in the schools of Iosco County throughout the year.
