Fair Sailing Weather But Fewer Tars Enter Regatta

Twelfth annual regatta of the Tawas Bay Yacht Club ended Sunday with fair sailing weather throughout the four-day event. Sailing entries were dominated by the host Tawas Bay fleet, the number of boats entering being below that of previous years.

Tawas tars won two of the three events run off, which included three new first place trophies sponsored by Tawas businessmen. Raven class honors and the new Anderson Coach trophy went to Ard Richardson, who won two of the three heats in that event.

Dick Cross was second. In straight heats Dick Haglund won the J. Richard Newman trophy in the National class, with Arthur Dillon, second, and William Wickert, third.

A Detroit, James Schudell of Bay View Yacht Club, took the Lightning class Clarence Everett trophy in straight heats, with Charles Schreck, East Tawas, in second and Edward and William McKinley, also of the local club, winning thirds in two heats.

Two trophies, George Myles 110s and L class Harold Gould, were unclaimed. No boats were entered in these two classes this year.

Closest heat of the regatta came Sunday afternoon when Schudell nosed out Schreck to take his third first place win. The final heat saw only one lap around the course because of the lack of a sufficient breeze, although the wind picked up on the final lap.

During the regatta sailors and their families enjoyed picnics and social times at the clubhouse on Coast Guard Road.

Iosco County Residents Get Set for Annual Fair at Hale

With only two weeks remaining before the start of the Iosco County Fair, July 24, 25, 26 and 27, area auto and implement dealers were urged this week to make arrangements now for free outdoor exhibition space in connection with the giant midway.

Heading the features of the 1957 fair will be the new A. J. Carroll midway.

Increased purse money will attract additional attention to the harness racing program during the fair. Nine races will see total prize money of $7,200, divided into equal purses of $800.

Centennial Pictures

Due to a delay in shipment of zinc stock for the Herald's photo engraving department many pictures of Iosco County's centennial celebration were omitted from last week's issue. Because of the interest in the centennial, the publishers felt the pictures would still be of news interest this week and, therefore, are printing as many as space will allow.

Petition Court for Injunction to Prohibit Sale to National

Request for an injunction to prohibit the sale of submerged land in Saginaw Bay to the National Gypsum Company was sought in Iosco County Circuit Court last week by Malvern F. Obrecht of Tawas City and Lansing, and the Rev. Fr. Robert Neuman of East Tawas.

A bill of complaint is drawn against Gerald E. Eddy, director of the Michigan Department of Conservation, and the conservation department. Obrecht and Father Neuman are owners of property adjoining the land owned by the gypsum company south of Tawas City.

The bill of complaint attacks the constitutionality of House Bill 558, passed by both houses of the legislature and signed into law by Governor Williams early in June.

The bill provided for the sale of 600 feet of submerged lands by the Michigan Conservation Department to the National Gypsum Company for the site of a proposed loading dock and turning basin.

This project is part of the company's $28,000,000 Great Lakes expansion program, of which $6,000,000 would be spent for a new quarry and loading facilities here.

Work on the quarry was started early this year and at present the company is continuing its stripping operations of overburden from the quarry site on the National City-Sand Lake Road.

Plans for the 800 foot pier include a dredged channel extending into deep water, with provision for a turning basin on each side of the dock.

The bill of complaint claims that damage will result to the plaintiffs by the deepening of the water in front of their property; that they will be excluded from use of the water, and that the general public will also be excluded from the use of water for navigation, hunting, fishing or resort purposes.

According to the bill, "the proposed construction will constitute a nuisance to all adjacent property owners in that it will give rise to disturbing noises, dust, smoke and the creation of considerable commercial traffic in a restricted and residential area and will substantially depreciate the property of these plaintiffs and others as may join in."

The bill of complaint also charged that House Bill 558 was invalid.

The bill was introduced into the last session of the legislature by Representative James Mielock of Whittemore. It passed by a 95 to 0 vote in the senate and in the house with only two dissenting votes.

Before signing the bill, Governor Williams called for a special hearing in Lansing, attended by property owners of the lake shore area, company officials and a large delegation of Iosco citizens who had taken personal interest in the development of National Gypsum Company here.

Cottage owners of the affected area urged the governor to veto the bill, forcing the company to build its dock elsewhere.

According to an article which appeared in the Bay City Times last week, Obrecht was quoted as saying that resort owners had no representation on the board which had enacted a zoning ordinance for Alabaster Township earlier this year. It was also claimed in the Bay City newspaper that the resort owners had not been informed that the strip of property purchased by National Gypsum Company was being zoned industrial.

In answer to the newspaper article, Supervisor Henry Oates of Alabaster Township said Wednesday of this week that a resident of Anderson's Bay View Subdivision had been asked to sit on the zoning board when it was organized, but refused to do so.

National Gypsum Company publicly announced its plans for starting the expansion program here in March, 1956. It was not until March, 1957 that the township passed the zoning ordinance after legal publication for three weeks of the notice of hearing and the publication of the enacted ordinance in The Tawas Herald. Oates said that no resort owners were present at the hearing.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

Tawas Area High School's band will make another attempt to start its summer band schedule tonight (Thursday) at the Tawas City Park at 7 o'clock. This program was scheduled for July 4, but rain caused cancellation. Director Edward Rima said the program would be the same as the one announced last week which was rained out.

NEW ASSISTANTS

Harbormaster Milton Averill announced last week that two men will be on duty at all times at the Michigan Waterways Commission Dock at East Tawas. Carl Babcock Jr. and David Moehring are assistants to the harbormaster.

Mrs. John Coyle Attends Fred Waring Workshop

Virginia V. Coyle (Mrs. John L.), elementary music teacher, is among a select group of more than 100 professional musicians attending the Fred Waring Music Workshop at Delaware Water Gap, Pennsylvania, this week. The six-day, highly concentrated course is taught by the same instructors who train the famous Waring Pennsylvanians and is personally headed by Fred Waring.

Demonstrations of choral conducting, microphone and tape recording sessions, lectures on choral arranging, program building, lighting and stage techniques and other practical information of help to the director of school and church music organizations are being given by this professionally experienced staff of Waring singers, pianists, conductors and arrangers.

Inaugurated in 1946 by Mr. Waring, this is the 10th season for this unusual summer music activity that offers a unique meeting ground for the director of non-professional groups and the professional musician. Each summer, seven one-week courses are offered that attract a total of some 1,000 leaders of school, college, church, community and industrial music groups from every state in the country and Canada.

Auxiliary Members Enjoy Pot-Luck Dinner

An informal meeting followed with election of officers for the coming year. Elected were: Muriel Dodson, president; Mildred Champion, first vice president; Rose Gackstetter, second vice president; Opal Mallon, secretary; Ruth Albertson, treasurer; Ruth Keiser, sergeant-at-arms; Ann Brugger, chaplain; Jean Davis, historian.

Gold Star Mothers of the local auxiliary were honored with an invitation by Audie Johnson Unit, American Legion Auxiliary, to ride on their float in the centennial parade.

There will be a pot-luck dinner at the Legion Hall for the August meeting.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has opposed further unification of the services, warning that it would lead to "the over concentration of power" and the "concentration of stupidity."

★ LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Editor: Your Isoco County Centennial edition of the Herald was most interesting and excellently done. Congratulations, and may the centennial observance be a most successful one.

Among the many items which particularly captured our interest was the beautiful aerial view showing Tawas City and the shoreline of Tawas Bay. We would very much like to have two glossy prints of the picture for our files. Thank you.

Yours truly, Harry B. Smith Parker Advertising Incorporated 112 North Michigan Avenue Saginaw, Michigan

The Tawas Herald Tawas City, Michigan.

Dear Editor: You are to be commended for your issue of The Tawas Herald, covering the Isoco County Centennial.

Your articles from various sources, and your pictures past and present were most interesting and impressive. It was a fine coverage of that important celebration.

Yours truly, Joseph Dibley, minister 512 West Bay Street East Tawas, Michigan

In renewing his subscription to The Tawas Herald this week, George A. Howey of El Cajon, California, said, "I wish to congratulate the staff of the paper and also all the people of Isoco County on the centennial. The paper has brought back a lot of fond memories to me. I am the only one left in our family now."

MARVIN DAVENPORT SAYS—

Too Much Emphasis Placed on More Cows Per Farmer

There is more to developing an efficient, profitable dairy operation than adding more cows to the herd to boost output per man.

Ray Hoglund, farm economist at Michigan State University, says that perhaps too much emphasis is being placed on more cows per man. Other production factors may be even more important in building a profitable dairy farm enterprise.

The most important single factor in producing milk profitably is the inherited capacity of the cow to convert feed into milk, points out Hoglund. Net income from a 25-cow dairy herd is more than three times as high when the cows produce 10,000 pounds of milk a year rather than 7,000 pounds.

A farmer with a 25-cow herd producing an average of 10,000 pounds a year with average forage production practices could increase net income by $1,000 through using improved forage harvesting, storage and feeding practices. A shift to a 48-cow herd and no improvement in forage quality would add on $400 to net income.

If average forage practices were in use, the net income from a 25-cow herd producing 13,000 pounds of milk would be greater than from 48 cows producing 10,000 pounds of milk.

Good environment aids efficiency of milk production, too. Use of the best barn arrangements, improved equipment and work methods can add to the comfort and productivity of the cow and at the same time cut labor requirements.

Carefully-kept records, intelligently used, are other important factors in producing milk at greater profit. Records are necessary to adjust operation to new techniques and weed out low producing cows. Experiences of many dairymen have shown that 20 or 30 minutes a day spent on records have made important contributions to successful and profitable operations, says Hoglund.

The Detroit Junior Livestock Show, held each December at Detroit for Michigan 4-H Club members, has a new president. He is John B. Hanks, Detroit, district manager of agricultural sales for the New York Central System.

Hanks succeeds C. E. Scott, president of the show for more than a dozen years. Scott retires from his position as superintendent of the Detroit Stock Yards late this year. He will continue to serve the show as vice president, however.

Don Mapes of the Ridley Commission Company is the new secretary and Gay Gardner of the Michigan Livestock Exchange is the treasurer.

The show is sponsored jointly by the Detroit Junior Livestock Society and the 4-H Club Department of Michigan State University.

Test plots of barley sowed in early March when frost was just leaving the ground will be one of the high-light exhibits at this year's crops and soils field day at Michigan State University farms, Thursday, July 11.

Besides this farmers will have a chance to see many other interesting developments in crops and soils research. Milton Erdmann of the crops department reports that they will show trials where Vernal and other new alfalfa varieties have been cut at different stages to produce two, three and four cuttings.

Another crop tour stop will be at the chemical weed control plots where various chemicals have been used to control weeds in corn, soybeans, field beans and grain seeded to alfalfa and clover.

According to James Tyson, Michigan State University scientist, an interesting stop along the soils tour will be at research plots that demonstrate how depth of plowing alfalfa affects fertilizer requirements. At another stop the soils department will show test plots of minimum tillage with plow planting and subsoiling. A new plow planter and other tillage machinery will be on display.

Other highlights of the soils tour will be studies of various forms of phosphate fertilizers and research on fertilizer placement and row width of oats.

The general committee, Stuart Hildebrand, James A. Porter and James Tyson, heading the event, has announced that the tours will begin at 9:30 a. m. at the crops barn and laboratory on Mt. Hope Road near Beaumont Road, two miles south of the campus. Lunch will be available on the grounds at noon. If any Isoco farmers are interested in attending this crops and field day, drop me a post card.

Recognizing symptoms is the first step in correcting plant nutrient deficiencies. J. F. Davis of Michigan State University's soil science department said that you can recognize the symptoms of many of these deficiencies by watching the leaves of your crops.

A shortage of nitrogen particularly affects the growth of a plant. It results in stunted growth and a loss of chlorophyll. The leaves become first light green and gradually turn yellow. The oldest leaves on the plant, those nearest the ground, are affected first.

Phosphorus deficiency may show up as stunting of the plant, along with an unusually dark green color or a reddish-purple color. The starvation symptoms are usually most pronounced during early growth of plants. Yellowing of alfalfa leaves at blossoming time and eventual dropping off may indicate this deficiency.

Firing or drying along the tips and leaf margins or edges is typical of potassium deficiency for most crops. This trouble is often referred to as "leaf scorch." This differs from nitrogen deficiency symptoms in that the yellowing develops along the midrib instead of the edges. In severe cases the leaves die. Potassium-deficient barley leaves may develop dark blotches. Aiga and clover leaflets turn yellow and drop off. White dots appear in the yellowed region or along the boundary between yellow and green areas.

You should be careful not to mistake insect and disease damage for deficiencies. Tissue tests and soil tests are helpful tools in determining the trouble.

Downward Trend Continues in Mich. Traffic Accidents

The downward trend in traffic deaths in Michigan continued in June, but with reduced momentum, according to provisional figures released by the Michigan State Police.

There were 104 persons killed compared with 115 in June of 1956, a saving of 11 lives. This figure is subject to readjustment as delayed reports are received.

On this basis, however, the first half of the year ended with a reduction of 18 percent in deaths. Fatalities totaled 675 compared with 823 the first six months of 1956, a difference of 148.

Final figures for May, also just released, showed a saving of 16 lives up until now the smallest monthly reduction this year. May deaths were 118 as against 133 in the same month a year ago.

While at first glance the results in May and June may appear to be something of a setback they were not unanticipated, as they are being compared with death totals in the same month last year which in themselves represented large reductions under the preceding year.

In addition, travel is still going up. For the first four months of this year, the latest figure compiled, it totaled 9.3 billion miles, an increase of five percent over the same period of 1956. But the death rate per 100 million miles of travel went down to 4.8 from 6.5, a reduction of 26 percent.

During May there were 15,300 accidents, a reduction of four percent under 15,938 in 1956. Injuries increased slightly from 5,008 to 5,117, or six tenths of one percent. These figures for June are not yet available.

PEDESTRIAN DEATHS In a year when automobile fatalities reached a new high, 7,950 pedestrians lost their lives, 50 fewer than the previous records set in 1954 and 1953, respectively.

FLATTERING PICNIC FASHIONS

By Peg Zwecker Chicago Fashion Authority

At ease—sports-wear's gone feminine on us in a very flattering and "soft touch" manner for spring and summer's fun loving life. It's all in keeping with the mood of fashion that's saying it softly with that calm, serene and easy look.

Yes, fit and fashion are easy-going and all with a delicate note. Casual Ivy League styling that calls for slim pants with buckle backs, shirts with button down collars and stripes will appear on the picnic scene in the most lady-like colors under the sun—pink and blue—color-coordinated in stripes and solids.

The American long-legged pants look goes to every length from brief shorts to narrow slacks.

Other play clothes and poolside fashions meant for motion and all Italian imports feature pastel plaids and geometrical patterns seaming two or more softly muted shades together in sheer cottons such as only the designers from this leading sportswear center can turn out.

Popular Prints A wonderful feminine way to fashion fun is in flowering chintz in a group which could be called "You'll Wear Prints!" They are such pretty reasons why as the enchanting separates with sleeveless shirt of polished cotton plain blue, the full skirts chintz printed in lighthearted, wonderful flower girl print in pink or blue with its own plain-color cummerbund.

These are delightful ways to look this summer for your own lawn or petio picnic parties.

For the woman who swears there's nothing better than black and white when she's brown almost all over is a crisp collection of active sportswear made of cotton. Blazer and slim pants in black, bold black and white are a striped favorite. Bermudas are cut in pin stripes from a bonnet's best summer suit. Other designer's run stripes wide and narrow down skirts and slacks... some teamed with solid windbreakers—all with built-in resistance to creases, fading and other sports wear-and-tear.

The shirtwaist dress sets the scene and is a perfect pivot for your versatile wardrobe. It comes Mauve, which travelled via Paris, has finally come into its own this season. All the shades of mauve, lilac and violet will appear for every hour of the day. With the great popularity of calypso music, designers have turned to the West Indies for inspiration for leisure-time clothes. Sunny Montego shades of lilac, aqua, pink, platinum and maize make up a group of striped blouses and overblouses made to be worn with Jamaica length shorts, Capri pants, brief shorts or a slim back-wrap skirt in predominate solid tones.

Other Favorites Designers have tended to their knitting. Some of the newest fun clothes are knit. Playsuits, T-shirts, cardigans, overblouses with flat sailor collars which quickly convert to a hood when wind and sun play havoc with a hair-do, T-shirt dresses, sun-back dresses, bathing suits and Chanel-inspired casual suits and separates of all kinds are all in knit. E-a-s-y... that's the word for the new soft-fit, Chanel-inspired tallomades with open jackets. Many of the dressmaker-type swimsuits will have better figure control through the elasticized knitted materials. White is a big coming "color" for the bathing suit and it's newest when maillote-type with very low backs. Others are built up with wider shoulder straps.

These washable no-iron knits don't crush and are wonderful for a vacation. Fashionable, flattering and comfortable is a one-piece playsuit with roll-up sleeves, Johnny-collared and buttoned front that has its own button-front flared skirt that changes it to a shirt dress in a second.

Imported Madras comes out of India's past to bring a romance of color and important fabric category to sportswear. For a family group there are playwear designs made for mother, father, boys and girls of lush plaids and new, rich stripes, handwoven in India. And all have the true Madras quality of mellowing and softening with each washing.

Homemakers To Hold Conference on Michigan State University Campus

When 1,500 Michigan homemakers untie their apron strings and turn their backs on household chores for a few days—that is something! It will happen July 23-26 when Homemakers' Conference is held on the Michigan State University campus.

It is not too soon to be making plans to go, and you can go if you wish. At your county extension service office, there are copies of the complete program and registration cards. Ask for more information and let us know you are interested in the event.

The program includes assemblies for everyone with good speakers, sections with speakers on various subjects and you can make a choice as to the one attended. Classes for individual choice that meet each day, recreation and entertainment of various sources.

This week we will tell you a little about the general assembly speakers and follow up next week with information about some other phase of the program.

Frank L. Teuton is to talk about "Research on Parade." Illustration will show flame resistant cotton blankets, orange juice made from powder, raincoats made from hog lard and varnish made from Irish potatoes. Hear about and see new foods, new feeds, new drugs and new industrial products. Mr. Teuton comes from the department of agriculture.

Dr. William H. Alexander, pastor of the First Christian Church of Oklahoma City, has a special interest in the progress and problems of youth. Organizer of one of the finest youth programs in the nation, he will tell homemakers why "You are the Answer."

David G. Moore of the Michigan State University administration college will talk about "Occupation, Homemaker."

Stanley Andrews is to bring an illustrated talk titled "Our Word Neighbors."

Paul A. Miller, director of cooperative extension service and authority on rural organization and health, will outline the "Human Side in Tomorrow's Blueprint."

Come along to Homemakers' Conference—that the pleasure is yours is guaranteed!

Going to cook meals outside this summer? Carry matches in a tin container; do not heat unopened cans of food, they may explode; wear canvas or asbestos gloves to protect your hands from burns; carry your own drinking water if a safe supply is not assured; be sure the fire is out, completely out (use water and/or dirt).

If your roses have rose black spot, try this. Cover the ground underneath the bush with sweet alyssum or a similar plant. The spores of the rose black spot will not blow in the wind and will be washed off by rain. The ground cover of sweet alyssum will prevent the spores from splashing back on the roses and thus prevent the spread of this disease.

The average American eats about five pounds of potato chips each year, including about two pounds of vegetable oil in which chips are fried.

If you are one who eats this much or more as some do because not all eat this many, take note of new research evidence that advises cutting down on the amounts of fat consumed. The trend to eating many foods prepared with fat is probably not wise.

CONSUMER PRICES

Consumer prices reached a new high in May for the ninth consecutive month, with rising food prices a major factor in the increase. The upward trend, combined with a downward trend in the number of hours worked a week, led to another small drop in factory workers' purchasing power. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index rose 0.3 percent in May to 119.6. This was 3.6 percent higher than in May 1956.

Inspiring Talk Heard Tuesday by Tawas Kiwanis

One of the most inspiring talks of the year was given at the Tawas Kiwanis meeting this week by Dr. James M. Brown, dean of men at Eastern State College, Ypsilanti, "Bingo," as he is affectionately known to thousands of friends, spoke on "God's Common Law of Life" in which he emphasized the following points:

1. There is a great need for strengthening the ties between "that great equilateral triangle" formed by the church, the school and the home.
2. The need to teach God's common law in the schools as part of the curriculum, keeping it free from any creed or denominational ties.
3. Youth needs to learn that they will have to work hard if they are to become great men.
4. A three part rule that Dr. Brown gives to every incoming freshman class: (a) Go to school every day, (b) listen to what the teacher is saying, (c) do today's work today and not tomorrow.
5. Adult workers with young people need to learn that there is good in every boy underneath a rough, tough exterior. The task for the leader is to be able to reach that heart.
6. There is no need to be afraid of the atom bomb. God made the atom and will use it for good. The evil in men which will lead them to use the atom for destruction is to be feared.

Addition Completed at Sis's Dress Shop

A new seven by 17 foot addition was completed this week at Sis's Dress Shop in East Tawas, giving the business place two new fitting rooms and additional floor space. The interior was also redecorated. Marie Nash is proprietor.

A. Amboy was a business visitor in Flint on Monday and Tuesday.

Accidents

Also injured in the crash were Klenow and a passenger in his car, William M. Brown, 21, of Tawas City. Klenow received cuts about the face and scalp and splinters of bone in the right knee. Brown's left arm was fractured. McRae received multiple lacerations. All of the injured were taken to Tawas Hospital for hospitalization.

Police said the case will remain open until further investigation.

The second personal injury accident of the holiday week-end occurred July 5 at 1:55 a. m. A car driven by J. Herbert Cox of Saginaw was in the process of making a right turn on US-23 in Tawas City into a private driveway, two blocks south of M-55, when it was struck from behind by a car driven by Robert J. Gruszynski of Bay City. Injured in the crash was a passenger in the latter car, Richard Corney of Bay City. He was treated at Tawas Hospital for lacerations about the head.

Large Crowd Watches Daring Driving at Speedway

The largest attendance of the season filled the stands at the Whittemore Speedway to witness a very daring and colorful performance Saturday night, July 6. Cars participating were from all parts of Northeastern Michigan.

Because of excellent track conditions, racing fans were very much entertained by the daring drivers which paced their cars through very different experiences; such as, roll-overs and end-over-end ordeals.

Heat races were won by Ed LaDuke, Wallace S. Martin, Dale Barber and Norm Dorcey. Consolation race by Russell Keltner and features race by Porky Burkholder.

Area Drowning Toll for 1957 Now 4 Persons

The accidental drowning toll in the Iosco County area for 1957 now stands at four dead. A five-year-old girl drowned in the AuSable River a week ago Tuesday and a 53-year-old man drowned in Loon Lake last Wednesday night. Search for the body of Carl Mannon, who drowned June 29 in Saginaw Bay south of Tawas City, was discontinued Sunday after eight days of continuous search.

The latest drowning brought a plea from all area law enforcement authorities, who urge residents and summer visitors to exercise extreme caution when on or near the water. They particularly emphasize the fact that boats should not be over-loaded and that proper cushions or "life jackets" are required by law to be part of the equipment of each craft.

Debra Jo Jacobs, age five, became the third accidental drowning victim in as many weeks Tuesday of last week, when she fell from a canoe operated by her father, William Jacobs, on the AuSable River. The accident occurred about 2:00 p. m.

Police said that there were four persons riding in the canoe at the time. The father of the victim said that the canoe ran into some overhanging branches on the river and, as he attempted to push away, the current dragged the craft under the branches and overturned. He was able to pull one seven-year-old child to safety, but could not reach the other.

The body of the little girl was not found until 9:45 p. m., about one mile south from the point of overturning.

Members of the Oscoda Township Fire Department assisted state police and sheriff's department officers in the search.

Second victim of the week was Clarence Johns, 53, of Hale. He was fishing on Loon Lake with Daniel Johns of Hale and Evan Thomas of Weyland. The accident occurred about 9:45 p. m.

Investigating officers said that when one of the men hooked a fish all three stood up in their aluminum boat in an attempt to land it. The boat tipped over,

The 9,820 complaints received were 11 percent over the previous month. Officers also made 40,815 property and 5,185 liquor inspections.

Department vehicles traveled 1,959,116 miles, of which 1,321,061 were on traffic patrol.

There were 10,743 sets of fingerprints received at the identification bureau, East Lansing headquarters.

Fingerprints of applicants to carry concealed weapons totaled 999, and 105 were identified with criminal records. Thirteen wanted persons were identified through fingerprints.

throwing its occupants into the lake. Two of the men were rescued by another boat, but the victim drowned in about 12 feet of water.
