Two Canadian Airmen Killed in US-23 Head-on Collision

Two persons were killed instantly and two persons were injured Tuesday morning in a head-on collision of a car and station wagon on US-23, about five miles north of Oscoda. The victims were the first auto fatalities in Isosco County during 1958.

Dead are two members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Ronald George William Hutcheson, 20, and Kenneth Bernard V. Rasmussen, 24. Homes of both men are in British Columbia, Canada.

Listed in critical condition at Tawas Hospital is Rasmussen's wife, Shirley, internal injuries, and Donald L. Sommerfeld of Saginaw, severe lacerations and bone fractures.

Traveling south on US-23, Hutcheson passed a southbound passenger car and collided head-on in the north-bound lane with a station wagon driven by Sommerfeld.

Witnesses at the scene of the crash told officers that it appeared that Hutcheson's car had time to turn back in the south-bound lane before the crash. Police theorized that he may have become fatigued or had fallen asleep at the wheel.

Questioned at Tawas Hospital, Mrs. Rasmussen told investigating officers that she, her husband and their RCAF companion had left Chatham, New Brunswick, Canada, where the two men were stationed, on a vacation trip shortly before Christmas. They were returning to New Brunswick by way of Michigan.

Both vehicles were totally wrecked. The impact of the crash pushed the engines of both vehicles off their mounts and flattened the front ends of both cars. Isosco County auto fatalities during 1957 numbered three persons. None were listed killed on US-23.

Report Shows Growth Here in 10 Years

Statistics released Monday by J. H. McDonald, district manager of the Detroit office of Dun and Bradstreet, Incorporated, reflected the growth of business firms in Tawas City during the past 10 years. Figures obtained from a physical count of the Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book for November 1957, totaled 73 manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in this area as compared to 59 listings in 1947—an increase of 23.7 percent for the period.

The reference book, incidentally, only lists manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses, such as, barber shops, stock and real estate brokers. Thus the figure for businesses in Tawas City would actually be higher than the 73 quoted above.

McDonald also added that the reference book contains approximately three million business listings for over 50,000 communities in the United States. It is published every 60 days to keep listings current. During the past 60 days nearly 63,000 new names were added and nearly 60,000 names were removed. Credit-ratings were changed during this period on more than 100,000 business concerns.

As one phase in revising credit ratings and keeping them up-to-date, every year the credit reporting agency writes to all businesses that are listed in the reference book to request their year-end balance sheets. McDonald says that this letter speeds up the flow and processing of some of the facts on which credit ratings are based. "More than 95 percent of all commercial transactions in the United States are made on credit terms," he added. "The purpose of the reference book is to help businessmen in any part of the country make credit decisions to ship or sell to businessmen in any other part of the country."

The credit rating is one of the key factors in approving orders to ship or sell. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or tangible net worth (See GROWTH, page 8.)

Prescott Explains New License Plate Changes

County Clerk George A. Prescott announced today that the branch office of the department of state will be open Saturday mornings from 9 until 12 o'clock for the convenience of those wishing to purchase plates.

The Saturday hours will remain in effect through the February 28 deadline. "We realize," Prescott said, "that it is not convenient for many to come in during the Monday through Friday hours. Also there are many problems arising because the new 1958 plates stay with the owner and not the vehicle."

Prescott stated that the most important thing to remember now is to take off your 1958 plates when you sell or trade cars and above all retain the registration which proves that you were the purchaser of the plates you have in your possession. Then you can present the registration at the branch office and have the plates you have transferred to your new or used car for $1 plus any additional fee that might be due because of weight difference.

"The registration is proving to be our biggest problem," Prescott stated. "Anyone can call at the office with a pair of 1958 plates, but without the registration which proves you own the plates and also how much you paid for them, we are unable to determine if any added fees are due because of weight difference."

Another important thing to remember is that you cannot retain the plates for any length of time. The new law states that they must be transferred immediately to another vehicle or turned in for cancellation. The date of sale of your former car will be figured there.

Prescott stated that a number of other changes were also put into effect in September. Purchasers of used cars not coming in to transfer within 10 days from the notary date on the back of the title must pay an added fee of $5. Too many sales were being made between individuals with the titles never being sent in and the proper sales tax paid.

Beginning with the 1958 plates, if a person owns two vehicles and purchases a plate for only one of them, he may take the plates so purchased off and put them on his second vehicle only if he sells the first one.

Trucks and trailers need not be reweighed this year, the 1957 registrations showing the weight are acceptable as proof of weight. Also pickup and express owners get a substantial reduction this year in the cost of their plates if their vehicle weighs 4,000 pounds or less. A special PJ plate is issued this year for this type vehicle at 50 cents per hundred weight. The plate is commercial as well and may be used for any purpose.

The office invites your calls of inquiry and will answer any questions concerning the new regulations. Much extra work has been added by the changes, to the public, dealers as well as the branch offices. If your questions can be answered beforehand, much quicker service can be given you at the windows.

Deed to Athletic Field Returned to East Tawas

Deeds to four pieces of school property, which were deemed as surplus by the Tawas Area Board of Education recently, were transferred to the new owners at the board's regular meeting Monday night. All of the property had been acquired by the Tawas Area School District under the reorganization of 1952.

Authorization was given the board of education to dispose of this surplus property at a special election last year.

The East Tawas athletic field was conveyed to the City of East Tawas for recreational purposes. This site is to revert back to the school district in the event that it is needed for future school buildings.

Transferred to Tawas Township was the Vine school building which is to be used for township activities and serve as a community building. This property, also, is to revert back to the district should it be needed for school purposes.

Deeds were signed authorizing the sale of the Greenwood and Watts school sites to the Michigan State Highway Department for widening M-55. Sale price of this property was $1,900 for each.

The highway department notified the board of education that when the state is ready to dispose of the school buildings on the Greenwood and Watts sites, notification will be advertised locally.

Fair Opening Crowd at Silver Valley

Opening last week-end of the Silver Valley Winter Sports park in Huron National Forest was declared fairly successful by the winter sports committee. Weekend receipts averaged better than last year's first two days of operation.

The recent five-inch fall of snow made the ski slopes usable and has formed a good base. Any future snow will put the slopes into excellent condition.

Four rope tows servicing the area were tested last Saturday and Sunday and minor adjustments made by park personnel.

The toboggan slides were in excellent condition for the first week. Crushed ice was used again this year in the steel slides and it is believed that the runs will hold up better during early afternoon.

Besides the regular equipment rentals at the park, which include saddle skis, Arthur Thorne is again operating his horse and cutter rides for the enjoyment of those visiting the valley.

In other winter sports activities in the Tawas area, fish shanties were placed out on the ice of Tawas Bay last Friday by a crew headed by Carl Eklund and John Pinter. It was reported that the Perchville shanties are still in need of repair and many should be painted prior to release of publicity in the down-state area.

Navy Shipbuilding Has Early Lakes Start

The United States Navy was building ships on the Great Lakes even before the creation of the navy department, itself, according to a feature article in the winter issue of Inland Seas, now in the mail. The navy established its first Great Lakes yard below Detroit on the River Rouge in 1797, just one year before the navy department was formally created by Act of Congress.

The article, which first appeared in United States Naval Institute Proceedings, was written by Captain Marvin H. Glantz, USN. It traces the development of naval ship construction on the Great Lakes through to the present.

While the naval yard on the River Rouge was short-lived, it turned out two warships, the 150-ton brig Adams and 70-ton sloop Tracy, says Captain Glantz. Both vessels carried military personnel and supplies for the then young government. And "in keeping with the spirit of the times, they occasionally carried some commercial freight as well," he writes. After both ships had played vital roles in setting up military garrisons at Chicago and Detroit, one, the Adams, was taken by the British along with the settlement of Detroit in the War of 1812.

Of the 37 naval vessels built for defending the Great Lakes at that time, the majority were schooners displacing less than 100 tons each and mounting seven guns. The two most famous, and largest, were Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's Lawrence and Niagara. Constructed of oak in a record six months at Erie, Pennsylvania, and fitted-out with items from Philadelphia and guns from Buffalo, they were designed by Henry Eckford, the most famous naval architect of the day.

Although the need for warships slackened on the Great Lakes and naval construction lagged after 1813, the navy's first iron-hulled ship, the Michigan, was launched at Erie in 1843, writes Captain Glantz. "Her plates were fabricated in Pittsburgh and hauled to Erie by canal and ox teams."

During World War I, Great Lakes mass production techniques were applied to shipbuilding and were used again in World War II. By the end of the last war, 30 Great Lakes shipbuilders had launched 600,000 tons of naval vessels. Due to limited access to saltwater, construction was confined to smaller vessels. Even so, the contribution of Great Lakes shipyards to the United States Navy has been and is significant, Captain Glantz says.

"The challenge of the seaway is going to tax the resourcefulness of Great Lakes shipbuilders. They enter an era of broader and stiffer competition. Judging from past performance, however, we have good reason to believe that the success story of naval construction on the Great Lakes will be continued," he concludes.

Captain Glantz, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, has long experience in naval shipbuilding. He is now directing work in connection with special weapon tests. Inland Seas is the quarterly journal of The Great Lakes Historical Society.

DeFisher-Stark

MR. AND MRS. DE FISHER

Miss Clara E. Stark of Tawas City and William J. DeFisher Jr. of Niagara Falls, New York, were united in marriage Saturday, January 4, at the Emanuel Lutheran Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stark of Tawas City and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. DeFisher Sr. of Niagara Falls, New York.

The Rev. Leonard E. Newman officiated at the 7:30 o'clock double ring candlelight ceremony and Mrs. Donald Sebold was the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin and lace floor length gown with full court train trimmed in lace. An orange blossom tiara held her illusion veil and she carried white chrysanthemums on a white prayer book.

Sisters of the bride, Mrs. Donald McCartney, matron of honor, and Miss Helen G. Stark, bridesmaid, wore identical gowns of net over taffeta with velvet bodices in blue and dusty rose, respectively. Crown tiaras and matching gloves complemented their gowns and they carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Best man was Donald McCartney of Flint. Groomsman was Joseph Cano of East Tawas.

Seating the guests were Franklin Stanley and James Fitch, both of Tawas City.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 100 guests was held at the bride's home.

The newlyweds, who left for New York state, will reside at 531 Third Street, Niagara Falls, New York.

Out of town guests attended from Flint, Alpena, Sand Lake, Mio and Herron.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower given by Mrs. Franklin Stanley and Mrs. McCartney.

Braves Defeat Roscommon, 47-40; JV in 58-32 Win

AS IS EVIDENCED BY THE SCORE, last Friday night's game between Tawas and Roscommon was mainly a defensive battle. Roscommon's Papefus and Johnson, tallest players on the floor, effectively bottled up Forward Dick Lanski and Center Ken Bublitz of the Braves. In the picture above, Lanski's shot is blocked by Papefus, No. 24. Guard Bill Mick of the Braves, No. 52, is at right.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Red-hot shooting by Forward Ray Guyette and good rebound control of the defensive backboards by Center Ken Bublitz set the pace for the Tawas Area Braves in a 47-40 squeak over the Roscommon Bucks last Friday night.

The win pushed the Braves streak to five consecutive victories in NEM Conference play, Tawas being in a two-way tie with Houghton Lake for top rung position in the conference.

Friday night's game on local hardwood saw both teams "cool" in basket percentages from the floor, the winners' completing 38 percent on 16 out of 42 attempts and the losers meshing but 17 shots out of 63 attempts for 25 percent.

While most of his Tawas mates were having trouble finding the range at the hoops during the game, Guyette totaled 30 points on 10 baskets from the field and 10 via the foul shot route to far outdistance his counterpart on the Roscommon five, Forward Jim Papefus, who garnered 14.

Two quick two-pointers by Guard Bill Mick of the Braves, who stole the ball from Roscommon practically under its nose and flipped for the basket, helped to give Tawas a valuable 13-7 edge in the first quarter. Tawas did not relinquish this bulge until the Bucks jumped to a short-lived one point lead as the second half started.

Roscommon's big move came in the second stanza when the Bucks broke through the Tawas defense for 16 points, the Tawas team garnering but 11 points.

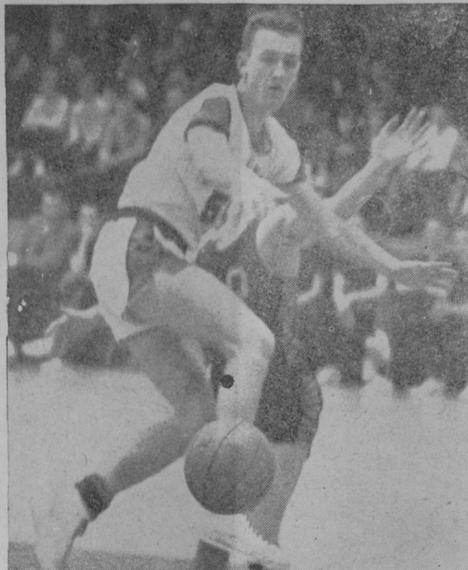

Good defensive rebounding by Bublitz in the second half proved to be the eventual clincher for Tawas when Roscommon rattled the backboards but only meshed four points in the third quarter. During the game Bublitz picked off 13 of the 25 defensive rebounds.

Tawas' lead was supplemented by another 11 point stint in that third quarter and was enough to outdistance Roscommon in the final quarter, even though the Bucks held a 13-12 edge in the final go.

After the game Coach William McIntosh credited the win to a tremendous effort on the part of his charges. He summed it up by saying, "They (the Braves) made many mistakes, but gave the game everything they had in an all out effort to remain tied with Houghton Lake."

Tawas dropped the Roscommon JV squad from the undefeated list in the preliminary game, 58-32, as the Junior Braves took advantage of a 32-10 scoring bulge in the first half. While the Roscommon team bounced back in the second half with 22 points, Coach Howard Adam's five was the pace-setter in the half with 26 points.

Gary Brackenbury, Chuck Fairfield and Pete Bolen, with 14, 11 and 10 points, respectively, led the Tawas team in scoring with Hilborn topping the Roscommon scoring column with 14 points.

FORWARD RAY GUYETTE was "on" in Tawas Area's 47-40 win over Roscommon Friday night. Although the shot above was blocked, he scored 30 points during the game and was the high scorer for the night in the conference.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Cardinals Defeat West Branch St. Joseph Team

The Whittemore-Prescott Cardinals defeated West Branch St. Joseph Tuesday night, 78-45. The Cards took an 18-8 lead in the first quarter and were never headed during the rest of the game.

Graham led the Cards with 15 points, followed by Goupil and Aulerich with 12 each. Robinson led St. Joseph with 17 points. The Card reserves won over the St. Joseph reserve team, 44-33. Wilkenson was high for St. Joseph with 22 while Soper meshed 17 for Whittemore-Prescott.

Whittemore-Prescott broke even in two basketball games played during the Christmas holiday tournament at Atlanta. The Cards defeated Alpena reserves, 56-50, and lost to Indian River, 51-41.

With three Northeastern Michigan Conference basketball games played last Friday night and two postponed until Tuesday evening, Houghton Lake and Tawas Area continued to pace the field. The Lakers had little difficulty in dropping Sterling, 68-25, while the Braves were handing Roscommon its second setback of the year, 47-40. Beaverton, in completing the games played, dumped Eastern, 63-28. West Branch and Gladwin along with Standish and Pinconning caught up with the rest of the league by playing Tuesday night.

Instrumental in keeping Tawas at the top of the heap was Forward Ray Guyette as he took high scoring honors for the night with 30 points, garnered on 10 field goals and 10 of 15 free throw chances. Close behind was Guard Dave Lee of Houghton Lake, the league's leading point-getter, with 28 on a nine and 10 stint. Lee's Houghton Lake jumped to an 18-2 first quarter lead and with Lee leading the way, moved to a 31-7 intermission bulge. Still operating under full steam, the Bobcats took the third quarter's scoring at 19-8 and followed up with an 18-9 last period count to take their fifth win without a loss.

Lee's running mate, Pat Marts, held the second slot in scoring with 12 on six from the field. Top man for losers was Guard Leon DeLong with 11 on five and one count. The Lakers swept the night's play by taking the preliminary game, 47-29, with Ed Borne high for the winners on 14 and Bob Hertzberg top man for the losers with 12.

Eastern had the misfortune of running into a red-hot Beaverton outfit that kept getting better as the game progressed. Starting off with a 10-6 first quarter bulge the winners held a 21-13 half-time lead and ran out the string with a 19-5 and 23-10 third and fourth period scores.

The Beavers had four men in the double figures with Forward Pat Kalahar on top with six and four good for 16. Guards Jack Eddy and Dave Fassett had 12 and 10 while Center Larry Brown dropped in five and one for 11. Top man for the losers was Guard Frank Gawlick with eight points. Beaverton also won the preliminary game, 31-16.

MARVIN DAVENPORT SAYS—

Why Does Choice Round Steak Cost 89c Per Pound Asks Bewildered Housewife

Why does choice round steak cost about 89 cents a pound at the corner butcher shop when farmers get only about 25 cents a pound for choice cattle?

If your answer says the difference is due to marketing costs and that only a small part of the animal is steak, you are right.

Michigan State University agricultural economists asked consumers in Muskegon that question recently. But only 10 percent of about 150 homemakers gave the above answer. Almost a fifth of the homemakers said they did not know although two blamed the difference on politicians.

Researchers also asked the homemakers what the term "U. S. Choice Beef" meant. Only three percent gave the correct answer, government graded meat which was next to the highest grade.

Michigan State University Economist James Shaffer says that unless consumers understand grades used on food items, they are not likely to get the quality of products they want and producers of high quality products are not likely to receive their full value.

Producers groups and marketing agencies, especially retailers, can help provide consumers with better information on the meaning of grades in stores and advertising.

The Farm Bulk Milk Tank Law, which was put into effect in Michigan this fall, demands very few installation requirements that are different than what was being recommended prior to the law. Don Murray, extension dairyman at Michigan State University, says that most of the tanks now installed should comply with the law.

For folks who are installing bulk tanks now, or plan to, note these requirements: Twenty-four inches clearance is required from any wall or part of any equipment; nothing is to be located over tank openings, such as lights, ventilators or water lines; lighting should be on a swivel type base pointed into each opening but not located over it; the drain in your milk house has to be near the tank valve opening, but not under the tank, itself, on your water supply, you will have to have a mixing faucet with a hose for rinsing.

If you already have a bulk tank, and followed recommendations when you installed it, or whether you are just thinking about having one put in, Michigan's Farm Bulk Tank Law actually makes for added convenience to do a better job of dairying.

Many Iosco County sheepmen are raising their flocks on pelleted feeds.

Farmers like the pelleted form because it gives them a chance to feed sheep the desired proportion of hay and corn.

Also, other ingredients like molasses and antibiotics can be added easily.

Leonard Blakeslee, sheep researcher at Michigan State University, has been working with pelleted feed for sheep. He has compared a mixture of ground hay and corn with the same ingredients in pelleted form. Lambs on pelleted feed average about .45 pounds gain per day—about one-tenth of a pound more than sheep on non-pelleted feed—and used 27 percent less feed during the test.

Experimental pellets contained 55 percent medium quality hay and 45 percent corn. Blakeslee feels this basic combination is ideal. It is highly nutritious and sheep find the pellets easy to eat and very digestible. Pellets also tend to prevent digestive disturbances because sheep cannot sort out the more tasty items and "hog" themselves on them.

Another advantage is that extra hay can be fed at the start of the period and replaced with extra corn near the end of the feeding to slow up or speed up growth.

Because sheep gain faster and use less feed per 100 pounds of gain, pelleted feed is ideal for pushing lambs to an early market. This is especially helpful to the producer who wants to market his lambs in early fall before the usual seasonal price break.

Radioactive Isotope Becomes Tool in Crop Experiments

Radioactive materials are like any other tools of mankind—they can be used for good or for evil. Radioactive magnesium is being put to use at Michigan State University in a positive way.

John Bukovac, horticulture researcher, is using the isotope for tracing experiments in plants.

The magnesium isotope became available for research use in December of 1956. The isotope must be used quickly when a shipment arrives from the Brookhaven National Laboratory in Long Island where it is produced.

The maximum time the isotope is useful is 120-140 hours. By applying the magnesium to the roots or leaves of a plant and then using the radioactive plant to expose an X-ray plate, just as light exposes a photographic plate, Bukovac can measure where the magnesium went in the plant and how it got there.

One of the interesting discoveries of Bukovac's work may explain why Michigan celery growers have to spray their Utah varieties with magnesium frequently to keep the plants adequately supplied.

The root system of the Utah varieties of celery do not take up magnesium in adequate amounts even when it is present in the soil.

When magnesium is applied in a spray, the experiment shows the magnesium does not move readily throughout the plant as most elements do. This may explain why frequent applications of magnesium spray are necessary for good yields.

This is just one of many answers basic research with radioactive materials makes possible.

Scientific Progress Farm Week Theme

Scientific progress in agriculture is the underlying theme of the farm crops and soil science programs during Farmers' Week at Michigan State University, January 27-31.

Reports on current research and future research plans will be made by MSU crops and soils workers.

One of the program's highlights is an address by Dr. A. G. Norman, past president of the American Society of Agronomy, at the crops-soils banquet on Wednesday night, January 29. Norman, a professor of botany at the University of Michigan, will discuss the role and responsibilities of the biological scientist and of the farmer and farm organizations in the long term scientific progress in agriculture.

Each session of the crops and soils program will cover a different subject. On Tuesday, January 28, the program is aimed at sugar beet growers with emphasis on production practices, spring labor reduction, fertilization and use of beet tops.

On Wednesday, January 29, small grains and forage crops are to be stressed in reports on the future for forage and cereal crops, and on new developments in tillage practices, insect control, storage and use of lime and fertilizer.

Thursday's program is concerned with row crops and will cover soil management, tillage practices, fertilizer use and variety selection. Programs for field bean and potato producers are also slated for that day.

Muck growers will meet on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Forestry Adopting Farm Crop Procedure

Forestry today is adopting some of the same procedures and methods for improved production that are already recognized for farm crops. Michigan State University Forester Donald P. White says that good soil management pays off in forestry just as it does in agriculture.

Consider your farm woodlot or any forest for that matter. The key to good soil management in a forest or woodlot is water. Enough water at the right time is the main problem when you are trying to improve production. White says that since all species do not have the same water requirements, one approach to the problem is to adopt the right species to a certain site or area. Sometimes, however, there is too much water and a drainage system is needed.

Much poor production from a forest is caused by deficiency in planting. Keep your water supply in mind, and select the most adaptable seedlings before you plant. And, too, weeds put up a lot of competition for water, but 2, 4, 5-T weed killer has been used quite effectively in forests and woodlots. Soil management in many ways is improving forest production, and can help you toward higher quality trees from your woodlot.

Calendar:

Thursday, January 16—Washer-Dryer School, Veterans' Memorial Building, Standish.

Keeping your family and home clean is an important and big homemaking task. One of our biggest aids is good and efficiently operated laundry equipment. Thus, it is quite likely changes in laundry equipment are or will be on the budget planning list in your family.

You can profit by learning as much as possible about "what's new" in equipment and supplies as well as methods of operation to make as easy as can be the laundry part of keeping the family and home clean.

Cooperating to bring you this kind of opportunity are: Cooperative Extension Service personnel—Dorothy Scott, Iosco County; Clemma Lenehan and Paul Penneck, Arenac County; Irene Baird, Ogemaw County; Lucille Ketchum and Don Brown from Michigan State University; James Hankinson, Consumers' Power Company, and representatives of various equipment manufacturers.

When at all possible, plan for both you and your husband to attend this washer-dryer school. He will be especially interested in information about water supply and sewage disposal, safe installation, electrical safety and water softening methods. Both of you will be concerned about selecting the best equipment to meet your needs and pocketbook. You perhaps will be most interested in new methods to use in operating the equipment efficiently.

Come for all day, if you can. Otherwise, choose the part of the program you believe can help you most. The day's program is outlined below:

Place: Veterans' Memorial Building, beginning at 10:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.—Selection of washers and dryers; soaps, detergents and package conditioners; water softener equipment and installation.

11:15 a. m.—1:00 p. m.—Lunch period (everyone on his own).
1:00 p. m.—Movie; wiring laundry equipment; using washers and dryers; introduction of exhibitors; coffee break and viewing of exhibits; the hot water supply; waste water disposal; panel discussion—your questions answered; summary, "Banish Washday Blues."

3:30 p. m.—Adjourn.
There will be a question box. You are invited to write out your special laundry question or problem and put it in the box. The panel will do its best to provide answers.

Manufacturers of about 10 major lines of laundry equipment have been invited to exhibit at DOROTHY SCOTT, Iosco County home demonstration agent, and Paul Penneck, Arenac County agricultural agent, admire results with some of the equipment to be used at the washer-dryer school on Thursday, January 16, in the Veterans' Memorial Building, Standish. Tips on care and use of equipment as well as buying helps will be given.

GIVES REMEDY FOR HOLIDAY DAMAGED FLOOR COVERINGS

The holidays may have raised havoc with your rugs and carpets, says Lucille Ketchum, home management specialist at Michigan State University.

If your rugs have become spotted during the festivities, there are several remedies you can try at home to remove them, she adds.

Try to absorb as much of the stain as possible before it dries or sets. A clean slightly damp cloth, a piece of white blotting paper or a tissue will do a good job of blotting. You can also use dry corn meal. Work it into the pile to absorb liquids and pick it up with the vacuum cleaner.

Remove any spot that remains with a cloth wrung out of clear water. Wait until the water dries. If the spot remains, a solution of mild detergent followed by a rinse with a cloth dampened on clear water may get rid of it.

Damp spots are hard to dry so raise the rug edge to expose more of it to the air. If you turn an electric fan on it will dry faster. After this dries, if a spot remains it is probably best to call on a professional cleaner for help.

the washer-dryer school. They, too, will have people who can answer questions about their equipment for you during the time planned for viewing exhibits.

DAIRY SURPLUS BUYING

Uncle Sam purchased nearly seven percent more surplus dairy products under a farm price support program last year than during 1956.

An agriculture department report put total purchases of butter, cheese and dried milk since April 1, start of the marketing year, at 809,000,000 pounds. This compared with 760,000,000 pounds in the period of the previous year.

Chances are that you will be able to remove the spot yourself if you work on it while it is fresh, says Miss Ketchum. Once it is gone, brush the pile lightly in its original direction.

4-H CLUB NEWS—

Peaceful Valley Program Acclaimed Excellent Show

By DOROTHY SCOTT
Home Demonstration Agent

"That was a good show" was comment of Peaceful Valley 4-H Club members, leaders and parents after seeing "Miracle of Paradise Valley."

The film is recommended for a first aid project meeting. These young people have almost completed their first aid project. The kits and notebooks they are preparing were on display for all to see. Suggestions were made for their improvement and enlargement.

The recreation room at John Wehrman's home made an ideal meeting place for about 20 folks. Visiting the club meeting were Harold Hammond, Consumers' Power Company, and Extension Agents Marvin Davenport and Dorothy Scott. Following the meeting, the young people were off to Finley's skating rink nearby.

Since first aid seems to be the subject this week, let us give a little thought to some of the accidents that make knowing something about first aid worthwhile.

Do you know that our homes are responsible for about 30 percent of all accidental deaths? Industry accounts for 24 percent of fatal machine accidents and that figure is topped by fatal machine accidents on farms which reach as much as 42 percent.

Said another way, an average of 30,000 people have died from "home accidents" each year since 1928. Because accidents do happen so frequently at home, the knowledge of first aid methods is most important to you young people. The more distant your community is from a doctor or hospital, the more important it is for you, yourself, to know what to do in an emergency. It can mean the difference between living and dying.

Poisoning is another occasion when there is no time to waste. Often the poisoning involves a child who has swallowed kerosene, cleaning fluid, ammonia, boric acid, camphorated oil, aspirin, furniture polish, wintergreen oil, shoe polish, even cigarettes.

Usually, but not always, the first aid treatment is knowing how to make the child vomit.

Do you have information to include in your notebook about first aid for poisonings? Instructions are available from the American Medical Association Committee on Toxicology, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago 10, Illinois.

the Snapshot Guild

We don't want to play favorites—so here's a picture that should appeal to both cat and dog fanciers.

Cameras Turn to the Dogs—and Cats

Some people love dogs, some people adore cats. We have no wish to take sides in the friendly feud between 30,000,000 cat owners and 25,000,000 dog owners, and we've, therefore, decided to discuss both feline and canine pets as subjects for your camera.

When you set out to picture the family pet, the procedure calls for much the same technique as you use when you snap the youngest members of the household "in action". Having selected the time, the place and the general background, you must be ready with camera, lights and film to shoot at a moment's notice. "Watchful waiting" is the byword—which means you'll need plenty of patience to capture the best possible shots of your favorite animal.

Don't expect Towser or Tabby to hold a pose while you jiggle and juggle with these four-legged subjects are often on the small side, you should come down to their level when you shoot. Plan to use a low camera angle—and a close-up attachment, too, if your pet is a mere pup or kitten.

If you want to get things under way without too much delay, be prepared with several simple props. A bowl of milk or a ball of string or crumpled callophane for your cat—a biscuit, bone, or rubber ball for the pup—will yield dozens of wonderful picture possibilities. Action, changing expressions and humorous antics—you can expect these to follow in quick succession. So be quick on the shutter—and shoot a whole series of pictures to be sure of getting some excellent shots even if a few fumbles occur.

Activities of animals just naturally make fine "human interest" pictures. And as such, they should tell their story without benefit of caption or commentary. Suppose, for example, you're snapping a young kitten. Much of its appeal lies in its tiny size, its endless curiosity and its constant discovery of the great big beautiful world around it. That's why we "get the message" from shots that show the kitten discovering the delicious warmth of a radiator, or having its first taste thrill from a velvet-smooth vanilla ice-cream cone.

When you buy sheets, thread count tells you the number of lengthwise and crosswise threads in a square inch of fabric, say specialists at Michigan State University. Better muslin sheets are about 140 count and medium quality is 128 count. Percale has finer thread, so runs 180 to 200 count per inch.

HOW TO MAKE CONCRETE IN COLD WEATHER

How to make quality concrete during freezing weather is probably bothering many Isoco County farmers right now.

Richard Pfister, agricultural engineering specialist at Michigan State University, suggests several things one might do to get a better concrete job in cold weather.

Heat water to be used in mixture. Have it around 140 degrees. Heat the aggregate. Sand and gravel will take a lot of heat out of the water so you will want to heat both items.

Use a little calcium chloride to speed curing so the concrete will not have to be protected so long. Do not use more than two pounds per sack of cement.

Where floors are poured, it is a good idea to check into using ready-mix concrete. Then you will not have to bother with heating large amounts of water and aggregate.

'Warhoop Editor' Spotlights 1957 School Activities

Highlights at Tawas Area School during 1957 were recorded this week by Blanche Spencer, editor of the school's newspaper, "The Warhoop."

Writes Miss Spencer, "During the past year Tawas Area High School gained recognition in many events and activities. Perhaps the most important, as far as the student body is concerned, was the move into the new school February 19.

"May 18 was the eventful day of the junior and senior banquet followed by the junior prom. Also in May was the traditional senior May morning breakfast. The juniors instigated the "junior skip day," which they had to pay for by coming back an extra day when the rest of the student body had been dismissed for the summer.

"September meant back to the old grind for both teachers and students. Work on the football field began also in September. November 7 was the traditional snake dance and bonfire, which preceded the homecoming game and crowning of the queen, Tammy Bell. November 21 and 22 the seniors presented "Deadly Ernest," a comedy in three acts. The seniors put the finishing touches to 1957 on December 21 with the Snow Ball Prom.

"During 1957 the Tawas Area student body earned a variety of awards. Among those presented were the John Philip Sousa Band Award to William Button; debate award presented for the fine work by the debating team; David Featheringill won the senior all sports award trophy; Tawas won the state regional tennis trophy and the Northeastern Michigan League baseball championship by defeating West Branch."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schenkel and two sons of Loveland, Colorado, visited relatives in the city during the holidays.
