

Tell Plans for Old-timer Ball Game and Reunion

Plans for the annual baseball reunion and old-timers baseball game to be held over the Labor Day week-end were outlined last Thursday. Sponsoring the event is the Jesse C. Hodder American Legion Post and Tawas City independent baseball team.

It was emphasized at the meeting that anyone who formerly played baseball in the Tawas-Isosco County area is invited and urged to participate. "We are attempting to secure names of former players who are not now residents of the county in order that we might invite them to attend," states Russell Anschuetz, manager of the Tawas City team. "For those former players who are residents, we hope that this news article will serve as an invitation."

Old-timers baseball activities will get under way with a reunion Saturday night, September 5, at the American Legion Hall in Tawas City. This event will be an informal get-together starting at 7 o'clock. Pictures of old time baseball teams will be on display.

Sunday's activities at the Tawas City baseball field will feature an old-timers baseball game starting at 2:15 p. m. This will be preceded by a 1 o'clock warm-up and batting contest at 1:30. Introduction of old time players will be held at 2 o'clock. Souvenir baseballs will be awarded to the oldest old-timer, the player who travels the greatest distance in order to attend and winners of the hitting contests.

Following old-timer activities, Tawas City and Hale independent baseball teams will join squads to meet the York Electric team of Bay City. This will be a seven-inning game.

Sandusky Couple Buys Recreation

Purchase of the Tawas City Recreation by H. R. "Jim" Hilbert, formerly of Sandusky, was announced last week by former owner, Harold Moeller. The transaction was completed August 5.

Included in the purchase was the business and building. The property includes, besides the 10-lane bowling alley, rental space for two other business establishments.

Mr. Hilbert had been in the dairy farm equipment business at Sandusky for the past 10 years. He is a native of Traverse City. Hilbert, his wife, Mary, and three children now make their home at 313 Seventh Avenue, Tawas City.

"My wife and I have talked of owning a bowling alley business for the past two or three years," Hilbert said Monday. "We both enjoy bowling and, as an operator, we believe that we will enjoy that end, too," he said.

The Tawas City Recreation was originally constructed in 1939 by the late Charles Moeller and his son, Harold. The building was enlarged and rebuilt in 1946 following a fire which destroyed the original six alleys.

Harold and his wife, Jacqueline, have operated the business since that time. He said Monday that, as yet, his future plans are indefinite.

At present, the building is being redecorated on both the interior and exterior. Alleys were re-surfaced last week. First league bowling of the season is scheduled to get under way September 13.

All Games Washed Out in NEM Last Sunday

All games of the Northeastern Michigan Baseball League were rained out Sunday, August 16. These contests are all canceled with the exception of the games to be played to settle for the leadership. This action has been taken by the board of directors.

Games to settle the ties for leadership in each of the American and National Divisions will be played Sunday, August 23, as follows:

Worth will play at Pinckney to settle the American Division leadership.

Sterling will play at Prescott to care for the National leadership.

Both games will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Arrangements for play-offs will be announced later.

Tawas City Boy, 16, Seriously Injured in Auto Crash Monday

A 16-year-old Tawas City boy who was to have entered his senior year at Tawas Area High School this fall, was rushed to Mercy Hospital, Bay City, after being injured in an auto accident Monday afternoon.

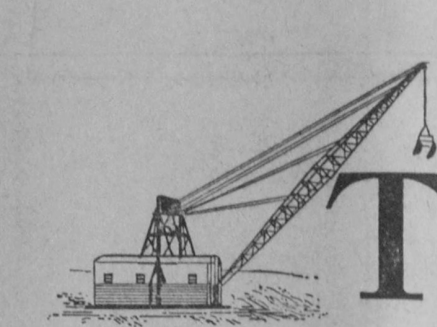

Given emergency treatment at Tawas Hospital and then rushed to Bay City was Mark Sedgeman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sedgeman of 1699 US-23. He suffered a fractured right hip, possible skull fracture and chest injuries.

Investigating Michigan State Police officers said that Sedgeman apparently misjudged his speed while making a curve on Monument Road, west of the East Tawas bridge. The car went off the road for about 60 feet, then slid sideways, overturning for about 90 feet more before coming to a stop on its left side.

Young Sedgeman was thrown from the car during the accident. He was riding alone.

High School Students Now Registering for New Term

Six more days of registration remain at Tawas Area High School before all high school students are enrolled for the fall term. Registration started Monday and by Tuesday morning some 82 seniors had been enrolled by Principal Ernest Jordan and Thomas Pintkowski, counselor.

Mr. Jordan stated that registration of juniors, which started Wednesday, would continue through today (Thursday). Approximately 475 high school students will be registered by the end of next week.

The school principal stated that one reason for the early start this year was to determine if there would be an enrollment increase caused by new families moving into the area.

Any new students living in the Tawas Area School District are to enroll Friday of this week. August 24 and 25 have been designated as registration days for all sophomores and August 26 and 27 for freshmen, to finish out the high school enrollment. Junior high students are to register August 28.

Payment of fees is expected the day of registration. No materials are to be issued until all financial obligations are met.

Fees for junior and senior high school students are as follows: Book fee, $5; shop fee, $5; mechanical drawing, $2; chemistry-physical laboratory, $1; breakage cards, $1; biology, $1.70; chorus robe, $2; band instrument rental, $3 per semester; band uniform rental, $5; gymnasium lock, $1.50 each.

The only refundable fees are on books, chorus robes and band uniforms.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY CAR

An East Tawas woman, Mrs. Anna Solonen, was taken to Tawas Hospital Monday after being struck by a car on West State Street. She sustained two broken legs. Driver of the car, Thomas Leslie, 20, was making a left turn when she was struck about 20 feet from the Newman Street intersection. The accident was investigated by George Duff, city police officer.

Home Rule Plan Gets ET Council Approval

Recommendations of the city's planning commission led to action Monday night by the East Tawas Council for the adoption of a home rule charter. Necessary steps for the change were outlined by J. Richard Newman, city attorney.

Newman was instructed to contact the Michigan Municipal League for information regarding such a change. Petitions from residents of that city will be needed before a vote of the people is taken.

Mayor Elmer Werth stated that East Tawas has outgrown its present fourth class city designation. Home rule government would allow for a non-partisan election of city officers and would give the city a more efficient operation.

Werth said it would take some time to work out details but legal machinery toward reaching that end has been started with the approval of the council.

Oppose Participation in 'Big Ditch' Harbor Plan

Isosco County Board of Supervisors went on record as opposing any participation by this county in a proposed enlarging and deepening of the Whitney Drain and AuGres River drainage district. It was the opinion of the board that the cost of the project would be too great for the benefit derived by Isosco County.

According to the board's committee on drains and ditches, the Army Corps of Engineers has plans for enlarging the drain with participation by Arenac, Isosco and Ogemaw Counties and the federal government.

Out of all of Michigan's 83 counties, Isosco has the second lowest millage spread for county operation. This was pointed out by Supervisor Lloyd Little Wednesday morning at the start of the one-day August session.

Reading from the Courthouse Review for July, Little said that Isosco's 4.05 mills for county operation was second only to Huron County which has four mills levied on state equalized valuation.

Mr. Little, who is chairman of the board's finance and apportionment committee, congratulated the board for this record.

The report indicated that Isosco's millage for schools compared with the average of 75 percent of other counties in the state. Isosco has a school millage

City 'Points Finger' at Garbage Cans

Tawas City Council again pleaded to a few residents of the city this week to show a little civic pride. It was pointed out that unsightly garbage cans and trash burners were still out in the open along Bay Drive, one of the city's best residential districts.

Several weeks ago the council asked residents to place garbage cans and trash burners in inconspicuous places. Home owners in some sections of the city have complied with the request, but others have ignored it.

Notices of ordinance violation are to be sent to those persons who locate such cans and burners on street right-of-ways.

"This will not solve the problem, however, if the property owner just moves the cans and trash burners back on the edge of his own property," stated Alderman Howard Hatton. "We must again appeal to the so-called public spirit and civic pride of the residents."

In other business Monday night, the council authorized its ordinance and licensing committee to work with the city attorney on revision of ordinances. The city is to repeal 25 old ordinances which are still on the books from the horse and buggy days. It will revise eight ordinances and adopt three new ones.

No Injunction Issued---

Judge Outlines 'Rights' of Both Sides in Strike Dispute

Striking union workers at Anderson Coach Company last Friday agreed, in Isosco County Circuit Court, to allow the company to remove four completed mobile homes from its premises. The union also agreed to allow company employees and customers to go and come from its plants as they please and to hire watchmen.

This agreement was reached during a hearing before Judge Herman Dehnke in Tawas City. The company had asked the court for an injunction restraining pickets from interfering with employees who wished to enter the plant and charged that pickets had interfered with the removal of finished coaches.

In its bill of complaint, the company listed several alleged instances in which striking workers, members of Millmen's Local 2539, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, AFL-CIO, had interfered with threats of violence. Some 90 workers struck the East Tawas plants August 4 when efforts to negotiate a new contract failed.

F. Duane Ross, counsel for the union, stated that his clients categorically denied every act of violence or threat of violence stated in the charge. "So far as the union has knowledge, these things did not happen and any threat of violence was only in the mind of someone who perhaps did not want to cross a picket line," he said.

Herbert Hertzler, an officer of the company and its general counsel pointed out that objections could be placed by pickets which were short of violence. "For instance," he said, "There would not be any violence involved in 11 men standing across a driveway where a truck was to enter, or where they were ganged up and say you cannot go in." To me that is a type of obstruction short of violence.

"What sort of situation created is that the employer, its officers or those who wish to take goods or deliver goods are unable to go back and forth without physically shoving somebody out of the way," said Judge Dehnke. "It seems to me that this is a type of violence."

"In other words, it at least can be construed to say to the employer, 'you can't go in or out—your customers can't move in or out unless you assault us physically.' That sort of thing is so close to show of violence or threat of violence.

"Nobody questions the right of employees to go on strike—that is recognized under the law," the judge stated. "And nobody questions their right to picket peacefully and to resort to any sort of means, short of what constitutes disorderly conduct, to state their objections and complaints to the community and let the people know that there is a strike going on. That is one side of it. The court has no inclination to subtract from that in the slightest degree."

"On the other hand, the employer, also, has rights. That is, the right to go about his business; the right of those employees who want to go to work to go back and forth without molestation; the right of customers or others having business with the employer to go and come without being obliged to run a gantlet—to shove somebody out of his way."

In his summary, Judge Dehnke said, "The court recognizes the right of the union to picket peacefully and in a manner not conflicting with prohibition of disorderly conduct, or in any manner tending reasonably to provide a breach of the public peace. On the other hand, it is the right of the employer to have the defendants abstain from: First, acts of violence; second, from threat of violence; third, from conduct designed to cause any interested individual to fear for the safety of himself, his family or property; fourth,

Bridge Over River Gets City Council Approval

Permission to construct a 57-foot-long bridge across the Tawas River was given Edwin Habermehl of Fuelgas Company, Incorporated, by the Tawas City Council Monday night.

Habermehl asked for allowance to install a bridge from company property near Vic and Zel's Restaurant on US-23 across the river to Fuelgas' bulk plant on Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company property.

The bridge is 16 feet wide, of steel construction and capable of carrying 20 tons. Habermehl said his firm was buying it from the Crawford County Road Commission.

He told councilmen that he had already received tentative approval from the railroad company and the Michigan Department of Conservation. He was to have met with them Tuesday for final approval.

Habermehl said that this move had been under consideration for a number of years. The bridge would provide better access to the company's new office and bulk plant.

The only point seriously questioned about the new bridge was its height above water level. Habermehl said it would give a clearance of about nine or 10 feet, which would be more than the Mathews, Whittemore or First Street bridges.

We always seek at school to work in harmony, even when the class has nothing to do with music. Boys and girls in rooms of pleasant atmosphere will learn more readily than where big differences prevail—differences in ways of thinking and of feeling. Somehow a discordant situation can make the words come out so hot they burn up those to whom they are said. And coolness of consideration, accompanied by warmth of understanding, is what everybody needs.

And now that summer is here, I, too, am on a quest for harmony, a quest that makes of me a student, rather than a teacher as at school. And the experience is good. I see then how it is with folks who come to me.

Thus twice a week, after tutoring a lad, I breeze downtown with melodies in fingers to take my turn at organ lessons.

The organ always has intrigued me, especially since the assembly when Melinda Sue, who squirms at verbs, serenely drew from keys, stops and pedals mellow miracle that wakened admiration both of her and of the friendly local music shop that loaned the lovely instrument.

Merchants always do cooperate so—lending furniture for plays, giving special prices to the school, making room for posters in the windows, depleting stock for door prizes, buying tickets to activities they often cannot attend, training boys and girls in retailing—on and on it goes, like my eagerness for chords.

Yes, the organ is for me. The magic quality about its vibrant notes lends beauty to my discords, to the simplest little sounds and makes me feel I am a great musician, even as I search and fumble.

Its possibilities for oh, so many effects make me wish I were a mathematician, as well as a musician, to figure out the actual number possible in any line of music. And the footwork brings back memories of ballet.

Anyway, with music in both hand and heart and with chides from 12-year-old Michele about how I had not practiced, I dashed recently to my lesson, explaining that I simply hadn't had a minute to practice—there had been a luncheon to prepare for and company had dropped in.

And suddenly it seemed to me that I was saying in another way all those things that boys and girls tell me when homework is not done. Indeed, I felt as sheepish as a ba-ing creature in the pasture.

I noticed, too, that I was just a bit confused to have to try to play in feeble way in front of one who was an expert. I seemed to have too many hands and yet lacked feet for all the pedals with no downward look allowed. This made me think of typing class, where no-glance touch is stressed, though this is always hard on Peeping Tom.

I learned through this how youngsters feel when they are unprepared and yet are made to give their talks before a class that is. And I decided—as I hope they always do—that next time I will really work.

In my enthusiasm, I bought a book of current music, with potential sounds so honey-sweet they drew our music-loving human bees.

Michele plays the saxophone; George, who is 10, plays the flute; I play the organ, but let's not say how, and Dad plays the victim. How wonderful, I thought in glow, to have our little home band!

Eagerly we agreed upon a tender melody and then, like Casey, we struck out. But we reckoned without our instruments. The E-flat alto sax and the piping C flute wouldn't work with organ—orchestration was needed. I looked at them dismayed.

"Why, I know what you do," explained Michele cheerfully. "You transpose, Mom. You figure out how many steps you need and move those notes all up or down that number. We did that all last year in seventh grade band!"

We watched her mark down notes in open admiration at her sureness of the way. Truly here was something we had not realized about our schools.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

How the understanding of God as divine Mind brings health and harmony will be brought out Sunday at Christian Science services.

John's account of the healing by Christ Jesus of the impotent man at the pool of Bethesda (Ch. 5) is presented in the Bible readings. The lesson-sermon is entitled "Mind."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (339:25-28): "The basis of all health, sinlessness, and immortality is the great fact that God is the only Mind; and this Mind must be not merely believed, but it must be understood."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (147:5): "Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite."

Strike

(Continued from page 1.) interfere with or obstruct passage in or out of plants by any officer, employer or customer, or any interference with the movement of property in or out as directed by the company.

"I presume that we may take it for granted that responsible officers of the union will realize that, in the long run, any conduct of the kind I have just indicated as being against the rights of the employer will prove a non-profitable activity.

"There is also the question of whether the responsible officers of the union can control every one of its members. Sometimes tempers flare and winning of the objective wheels more importance than legality of the means employed.

"It doesn't seem that in order to make the right to picket effective that pickets have to be lined up shoulder-to-shoulder across the entrances of the plant. I am sure that it would lead to trouble. It compiles the employer to forgo his right to go in and out as he desires, or run the risk of being either attacked or being accused of having assaulted somebody else."

Mr. Ross stated that the union welcomes the chance to operate within the scope of what the judge had outlined.

Judge Dehne said that the case would be held open indefinitely, "with the understanding that either side may complain to me as to what the developments may be." He said if that should occur, he would fix a continuation of the hearing as soon as his schedule permitted.

Claude DeLosh of Hazel Park and Miss Nancy Willis of Dearborn spent last week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William DeLosh.

Three Men Dunked When Boat Tipped in Saginaw Bay

Three Detroit area men, who were pitched from their 14-foot aluminum boat by a wave Saturday afternoon, made it to shore safely after being in Saginaw Bay for several hours. All were wearing life jackets and a heavy wind and waves helped them to reach shore. One man was rescued by a Flint couple.

Operator of the boat, Dale Rideneur, 31, of Dearborn told investigating state police officers that he was about 2 1/2 miles off shore from the Point Lookout area when the boat was flipped over by a wave about 4:15 p. m.

Rideneur and his two companions, Edgar L. Eoff, 26, of Gibraltar and Robert Vanderlinden, 26, of Dearborn, righted the boat but it was full of water. Rideneur and Eoff were good swimmers and started to shore for help.

Vanderlinden was rescued by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heierman Jr. of Flint. They heard someone call for help and finally located the man in the water about 1 1/2 miles off shore from the AuGres River. They threw his anchor rope and pulled him aboard their boat. He had been in the water about 2 1/2 hours.

Rideneur and Eoff finally reached shore about 8:45 o'clock, after being in the water for more than four hours. The United States Coast Guard dispatched its amphibious "duck" from Tawas Point but the other two men reached shore before it arrived.

Conservation

(Continued from page 1.) age problems, and the way the land is being used at present. Part of the job of this committee is to determine how the land can best be used in the future.

Some important information which the county committee will obtain through this study is: The amount of land which has already been treated with adequate conservation measures; the changes in land use that can be expected by 1975; the amount of conservation measures still needed to maintain and protect the land, our greatest resource, for the future, and the water management problems that can be solved as cooperative watershed projects under United States public law No. 566.

President Eisenhower has signed into law a 39-billion dollar defense money bill. This is one-half of the nation's budget.

CLAUDE BYRON ADAMS

Claude Byron Adams, a resident of South Branch for the past 53 years, died Tuesday at Samaritan Hospital, Bay City, following a short illness.

Mr. Adams was born February 20, 1881, in Michigan and was engaged in the florist supply business.

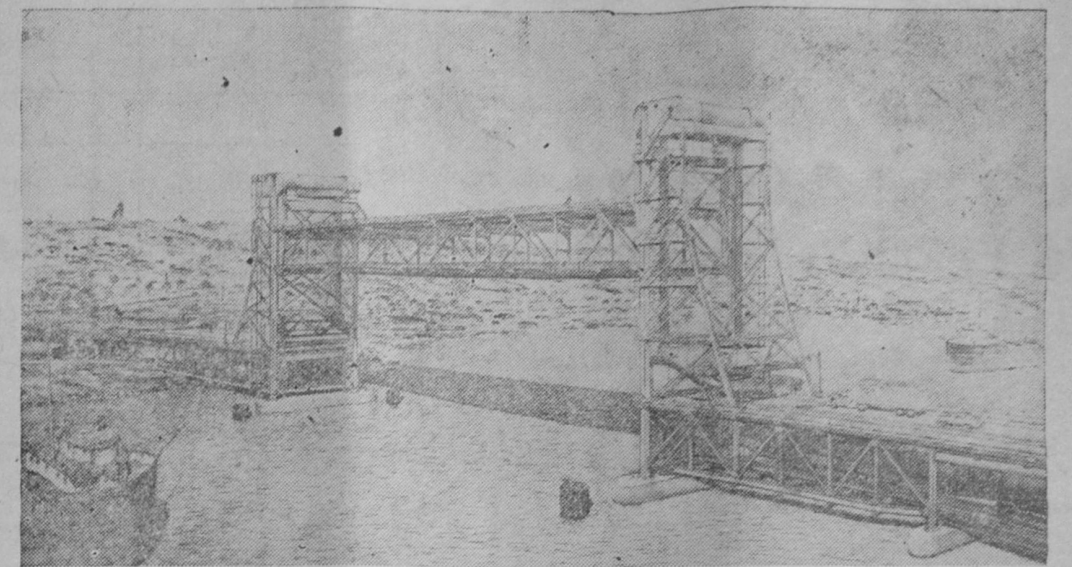

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Lillie Holmes, Rochester, and Mrs. Josephine Lang, Lansing; a son, Robert Adams, LeRoy; a sister, Mrs. Marie Dean, South Branch; 11 grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at South Branch Community Church with the Rev. Curtiss McClain officiating. Burial will be in the South Branch Cemetery.

Board

(Continued from page 1.) tralized government, told of a recent discussion with three Connecticut men at the national convention of supervisors. It was the opinion of Mr. Long that Michigan was following in the same footsteps of that eastern state, which will do away with much of the duties of county government in September. Long pointed out that in Connecticut, among other things, salaries of county officers would now be set by the state.

Most Unusual Bridge . . .

This is an artist's conception of a structure described by the Michigan Highway Department as the world's most unusual bridge currently under construction between Houghton and Hancock on U.S.-41 in the Upper Peninsula. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie says the vertical lift center span will weigh 4.5 million pounds and will carry automotive and pedestrian traffic on one level, trains on another. It will raise to a height of 100 feet to allow ships through the Portage Ship Canal, a shortcut through the Keweenaw Peninsula. Completion date is December 15, 1959.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The current labor dispute between the Anderson Coach Company and its employee union of East Tawas has been pretty well publicized as far as the company's viewpoint is concerned.

Since there are two sides to every question, we would appreciate your courtesy and that of your readers in allowing the union to present its viewpoint.

Ever since the company opened its plant in this community, the income of the working employees has depended to a large extent on the number of coaches produced. For years, this has been welcome to the union as a means of insuring a living income to men who were willing to do a good day's work.

This tying of income to production was fair and proper to members of the union until the day that it became necessary to produce coaches in 10-foot widths to maintain the company's position in the competitive field.

When production began on the 10-wide coaches, the union soon realized that the company was not recognizing the much greater amount of work involved per coach in the incentive or bonus wage system. In other words, the men in the union were actually taking a cut in wages because it took more hours to earn the same amount of money. This started in 1956 and as more and more 10-wide coaches were produced and less and less eight-wide, the men were earning less and less per hour.

While this incentive or bonus wage system was in effect through the years, the company seemed to find itself in a position where it could take an inactive role in arranging and working out efficient production methods. Since the advent of the 10-wide coaches many obstacles to efficient production have arisen and, as long as the union remained on a bonus wage system, the company apparently saw no particular advantage in providing efficient production since it would only result in higher wages for the union employees.

The result has been that the union finds itself in a position where the company insists on maintaining a bonus wage plan while at the same time refusing to provide adequate supervision to create efficient production and eliminate many bottle-necks which the men of the union are powerless to deal with.

In order to give a definite idea of what this means to the union men who build these excellent Anderson Coaches, I would like to point out that the average hourly wage has dropped 47 cents an hour from 1955 to 1958—and it is still dropping.

The company seems to feel that there wouldn't be a dry eye in the house if its plight were known. Before you get out the towel, let's consider some things that seem evident to all.

Profits from this small company have (1) financed the establishment of the ABC Coach Company, Rex Anderson, president, which is in direct competition with us, (2) financed the establishment of the coach company with which Mr. Jensen and Mr. McCormick are competing against us, (3) built a new plant in Utah, (4) assured movement of the main plant in East Tawas out to the final finish plant in Tawas Center, (5) provided very generous salaries to its officers and administrators.

The union has no quarrel with the company making money. It does, however, rankle a bit when an executive's plush salary doesn't seem to be justified by his contribution to a fair and proper relationship between the company and the production men of the union.

The union is proud of its members. They are experienced, capable workmen, by far the great majority of whom are anxious and willing to do a good day's work for a fair day's pay. The workmanship of these men has made possible the Anderson Coach as it is today.

We hope to be back on the job soon and feel that the company is equally anxious to get together again with some workable agreement.

The men of the union, discouraged and sometimes disgusted by apparent disregard for their needs in providing for their families, are ready and willing to negotiate whenever the company is willing to reconsider its present unyielding position. When accord is again reached with the company, we of

ALTHOUGH his capers may seem cute to his companions, this "whiz" of the waterways certainly is not impressing these anglers. Such antics not only spoil the fun of others but, more important, they invite accidents. On Michigan's waters as well as its highways, there is no room for hotrodging. When boating or water skiing keep a safe distance from swimmers, fishermen and other boaters. Respect their rights to summertime fun. Use your head, do not lose a life.
