By CHET MAHER, Manager

YOU PROBABLY aren't conscious of it—but chances are you're using your telephone more than you were, say, 10 years ago. How can we tell? Because we're a lot busier here at the telephone company handling your calls. For example, 10 years ago our Michigan customers made 9,762,000 calls during the average day. In 1960, we were handling 14,881,000 calls on the average day in Michigan—a 52% increase! Much of this results from new customers, of course. But quite a bit comes from the fact that you're picking up your phone more often because you can call more people, and more people can call you. It makes us happy to know your telephone is working harder for you—saving steps, making life easier and more pleasant.

IT'S HERE — Michigan Bell's Spring Phone Fair. It features a variety of telephone services including the Home Interphone, which lets you use your phone as a communications system right in your home. You'll also see the colorful little Princess phone (it lights!), the convenient wall phone, volume control phone for the hard of hearing—and lots more. Don't miss the Spring Phone Fair—it's at your telephone business office now.

NEW TELEPHONE SERVICE. This month we're introducing a new communications system. It combines regular telephone service with a wide range of intercommunication features. This new service uses standard telephones equipped with special loudspeaker-microphones. With it you can talk back and forth between any telephone at your farm or business. It's even possible to talk "hands free," several feet away from the nearest phone or, using special outdoor loudspeakers, from outside locations. If you'd like more information about "Farm Interphone," just call us and we'll be glad to arrange a demonstration.

Michigan Rich in Industrial and Natural Resources

Michigan is Natural Resources! Thus reads a public service industrial advertisement which appears in The Tawas Herald today. Truly, Michigan is rich in natural resources which are the raw material for industry. The impression of Michigan, that all too many people have, is that of a state which turns out finished products. Our great natural resources of salt for chemical industries, cement, iron ore and many, many other natural gifts are overlooked. In many instances, it was these natural resources which prompted industry to locate here so as to be close to an adequate supply of raw materials. This makes for efficiency and economy.

Each of us should take it upon ourselves to get across to the nation the full description of our natural resources. Let us first interest ourselves in these resources and then we will be able to tell others about them.

The library can provide information about Michigan's natural resources or can direct us where to get it. The Michigan Economic Development Department, a state agency at Lansing, has information about them.

This is an area in which all of us can join to tell to the world the full Michigan story.

Let's all get into action. First learn all about our state and then tell others.

SOCIAL SECURITY AGENT WILL BE HERE APRIL 27

"Don't wait until you retire to find out about your social security; do it now," advises Paul M. Ellifritz, district manager of the Social Security office at Bay City. "Security consists not only of receiving benefits when due, but also being certain in advance that the necessary credits are there to make future payments possible," Mr. Ellifritz added.

Records of the Social Security Administration are confidential but upon request, a social security account number holder will be given a statement of the earnings credited to his social security account. A post card form for this purpose is available at any security office, Mr. Ellifritz explained.

"By checking up on your account you can make certain that you have all the work credit due you. If an error has been made, the social security office will help to correct it," Mr. Ellifritz concluded.

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be in Tawas City at the Iosco County Building Thursday, April 27, 10:30 a. m.

SS Office Will Be Closed April 20-21

The Iosco County selective service local board office at East Tawas will be closed Thursday and Friday, April 20 and 21, so the clerk may attend a selective service clerks' conference at Lansing.

Registrars Edward I. Dickey of Whittemore and Rosma Rosnowski of the Osoda High School are available to register 18-year-old youths only. Persons having other business with the local board office should plan to visit the office either before or after the above dates.

Realtor Week Will be Observed Here April 23-29

Members of the Northeastern Michigan Board of Realtors are now starting to plan with other civic and business leaders of the community to celebrate Realtor Week, which will be observed nationally from April 23-29, A. B. Crow, president of the board, announced today.

Specific plans for the observance of the week, designed to acquaint the public with the advantages of buying or selling real property through the services of a realtor, are the responsibility of the board's Realtor Week committee headed by Lou Kramer, Hubbard Lake.

Held annually under the auspices of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of which the Northeastern Michigan board is a member, Realtor Week is expected to be observed by at least 600 real estate boards across the country.

"We realtors know that the purchase or sale of real estate particularly in the buying or selling of a home is probably the most important single transaction in which most persons ever engage," Mr. Kramer said. "And we want the public to know that realtors can help them in such a transaction with the highest standards of professional competence and ethics. During Realtor Week, we will re-emphasize this point."

By way of background, the Northeastern Michigan board president said that the NAREB constitution defines a realtor as "a person . . . engaged in the real estate business who is a board member or an individual member of NAREB, is subject to its rules and regulations, observes its standards of conduct and is entitled to its benefits."

Such membership is extended to brokers who have demonstrated their competence and adherence to ethical practices in addition to passing state license examinations. Thus, a realtor is more than just any real estate broker.

Furthermore, it is pointed out, the term realtor is the exclusive designation of members of local real estate boards and NAREB by virtue of its registration with the United States Patent Office. Numerous federal and state court decisions have upheld the association's exclusive control of the term.

Founded in 1908, NAREB adopted its code of ethics, to which every realtor is pledged, in 1913. The code defines in specific terms the rules of conduct that are to govern the realtor in his relations with the public, his clients and other realtors. Many state real estate license commissioners have cited the NAREB code as the most advanced set of ethical standards existent and have expressed a desire to see it extended to the entire real estate calling.

Public acceptance of the service standards of realtors has been such that today NAREB ranks as one of the largest trade associations in the nation with 68,818 members in 1,372 boards.

ARTHUR MURPHY ATTENDING JANITROL HEATING SCHOOL Arthur B. Murphy of Fuelgas Company of the Tawasites is now attending the Janitrol heating school at the main plant of the Janitrol Heating and Air Conditioning, a division of Midland-Ross Corporation, Columbus, Ohio.

The course consists of 35 hours of comprehensive laboratory and engineering instruction in the application and servicing of Janitrol heating equipment—both gas and oil fired furnaces.

Field engineers are instructors in the school. Upon completion of the course, Mr. Murphy will be certified as a Janitrol heating specialist. "The purpose of this training," states H. C. Gurney, Janitrol sales manager, "is to recognize the importance of the heating system as it pertains to summer cooling. The efficiency of your summer air conditioning will greatly depend upon the quality of the equipment and installation of your heating system. Comfort is now an all-year business."

MICHIGAN IS NATURAL RESOURCES

Michigan's national bounty has attracted industry since the days when beaver pelts were money. And it will continue to do so for the whole foreseeable future.

Michigan remains rich in raw materials. Fresh water (what other states would give for what we take for granted!), salt, bromine, magnesium compounds, iron ore, lumber and pulp, oil, gas, cement, gypsum, sand, peat, copper—the list reads like the vital statistics of modern industry and commerce.

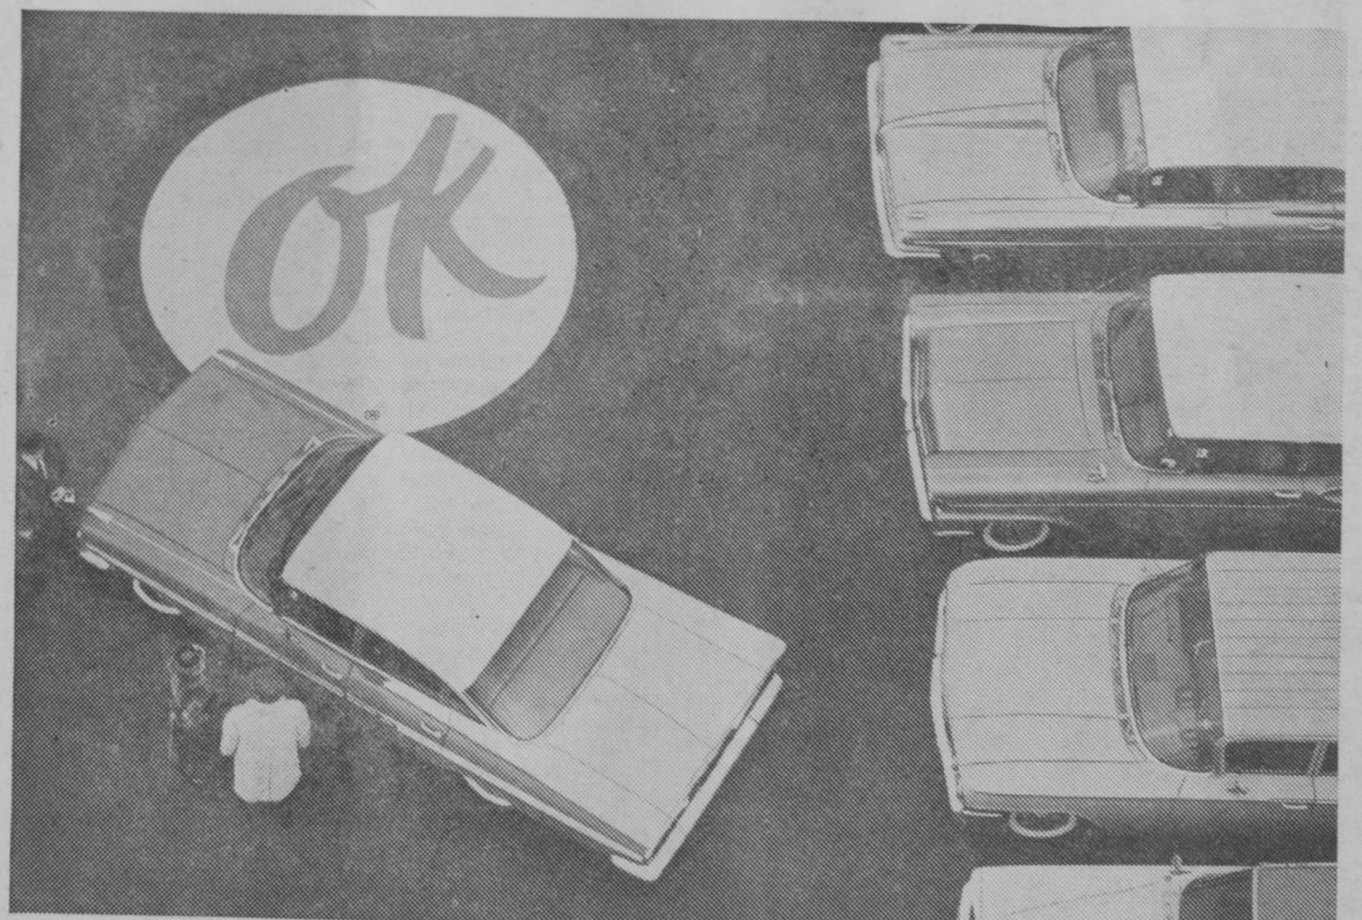

And with such assets—and with the raw materials of all the rest of the world so readily available by economical water transportation—Michigan will always be a good place in which to live and work, a great place for industry.

Help carry Michigan's message to the nation. Clip these ads and mail them to people in other states with your own comment. Let's talk up Michigan and its advantages for industry. Together, we can assure a greater future for all of us.

ABOUT this time 70 years ago, the wooden sidewalks of AuSable and Oscoda would have resounded with the crunch of caulked boots. The coming of spring meant it was time to drive logs down the AuSable River and, after this back-one hundred thousand dollars under his bed. The legend of lumberjack honesty tells how the barrel was discovered during a fire-scare while O'Toole was away, but no one touched the money.

Success stories were common. W. C. Penoyer started in AuSable as a $40-a-month scaler in 1867. In 1883, he owned two schooners, two steamboats and one-half of the River Mill.

T. F. Thompson arrived from Ireland in 1857, broke and 15 years old. In 1866, he came to Iosco County, built a large home on the river, used it as an inn, farmed, raised cattle, blacksmithed, bought land, lumbered it and, in 1877, he employed 70 men in four camps and took the "grand tour" of Europe.

Greene Paek stopped an angry mob of strikers, who sought a 10-hour day, from "busting" up his mill in 1884 by standing on the mill's tram, raising a shotgun and saying, "the first man to come a step closer is a dead man."

No list of rugged individuals for these towns would be complete without a half dozen Louds. Henry M. Loud built the first successful lumbermill in Oscoda in 1866; from that time until the fire, the Louds figured prominently in town doings.

The year, 1911, saw George Loud in congress, the Loud mills employing 80 percent of the towns' labor force. The AuSable baseball team, dominated by the Louds, saw Bruce pitching and H. K. managed.

Henry M. brought the Methodist Church to Oscoda in 1867. The Louds paid workers in "pork orders," which included three stores, the Masonic Lodge and a dance hall. He is reputed to have kept a barrel containing angered when they saw lights on throughout homes.

As the white pine petered out, one mill after another pulled stakes and followed the pine. But, the Louds remained.

(NEXT WEEK—Hints of decline in lumber industry.)

Several pictures of Oscoda-AuSable in their heyday have been loaned to the Herald by Joseph Barkman for use in this series. For further reading on the subject, "Their Yesterdays," by Miss Edna Otis of East Tawas, may be obtained from the news stands in the Tawas.

No Holds Barred in a Fight—Lumber Days Were Tough at AuSable

BY JAMES COLBY
If the lumber days were not tough in Oscoda and AuSable, the "lumberjacks" did not know it. It is recorded that a two-hour fight in the AuSable streets netted one combatant his opponent's ear, but he lost an eyeball in the bargain.

Stories are also told of Jesse Duell and Mike Burke. Jesse waged his brother he could not strike a mark alongside Jesse's fingers without hitting them. Jesse lost three fingers—the amount of money he won is not recorded.

Mike's claim to fame comes from his flair for the colorful. Many ears were bitten off in fights, but Mike was the only twin-town combatant known to have kept his opponent's ear preserved in alcohol.

Mike became a conversational topic among the more conservative folk by buying a house containing luxurious carpeting and a grand piano, and then giving free rein of the house to his chickens and pigs.

Before 1865, it was said of the two towns that the staples were "whiskey and fish... but the residents had little interest in the fish except as articles of merchandise."

When the mills came and lumber replaced fish, it did not replace whiskey. By standing on top of the new Band Mill and facing north, you could count 33 saloons. Yes, AuSable-Oscoda had its muckraker. Wesley M. Featherly published and edited the Lakeside Monitor during the towns' heyday, the years 1884 to 1895.

Featherly, "he was without a doubt the homeliest man we had ever seen," according to Miss Edna Otis in "Their Yesterdays," was as tough as he was homely. When he was not fighting with his pen, he was fighting with his fists.

His opponents ranged from his newspaper victims to the constabulary. He constantly feuded with the rival papers in Oscoda, East Tawas and Tawas City.

The AuSable fire department once had to save the Monitor building from being burned and arson was suspected; it is not surprising. Every issue of his paper was said to have been "good for a libel suit."

He was almost cured in 1891 when, after paying an $800 libel suit, he declared of the Monitor, "that when it attempts to secure any more reforms, the rivers of Michigan will run uphill."

In 1895, after being arrested for blackening the eyes of AuSable's chief of police, Hugh Call, an ex-blacksmith, Featherly moved on. Where to? Dade County, Florida, where he published that county's first paper.

This was the tag end of the days of rugged individualists and their last days burned bright in Oscoda-AuSable.

The story is told of Felix O'Toole and how he worked as a shoemaker during the winters in Detroit taking his pay in shoes. In the summers, he worked as a fisherman in AuSable and sold the shoes to his co-workers.

Each year, he increased his stock. He died owning the "O'Toole Block" which included three stores, the Masonic Lodge and a dance hall. He is reputed to have kept a barrel containing
