

THREE DAYS OF HARNESS RACING highlight the program at the annual Iosco County Fair now in progress at Hale. The events will be staged at 2:00 p. m., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at the exhibit center at Plainfield Township Hall.

TABULATING results in a preliminary poll conducted last year to determine the hymns that America loves best which ended in a controversy between churchgoers.

People with Higher Earnings May Now be Eligible for SS

Due to recent changes in the Social Security Act, approximately a million people nationwide past retirement age can now draw payments for some months of the year even though they may have high earnings," stated Paul M. Ellifritz, manager of the Bay City Social Security Office. In years prior to 1961, a person who earned over $2,080 and worked all 12 months did not receive a check for any month of the year. Now, beginning this year, it is possible for a person to earn over $2,080 and still draw payments for some months of the year. The amount a person can earn before losing benefit payments for all 12 months depends mainly on the amount of his social security benefit. Mr. Ellifritz suggests that those people past retirement age get in touch with their social security office for further information about this recent change in the Social Security Act, or a representative of the Social Security Administration, who will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, Thursday, July 27, 10:30 a. m.

TOP LEVEL CIVIL DEFENSE COURSES SCHEDULED

A series of 11 top level civil defense courses have been scheduled at Battle Creek by the Federal Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. It was announced by Walter R. Nunimaker, state civil defense director. The courses are each of one week's duration and will be held from September through early December. Attendance at these courses is designed to increase the managerial skill and professional competency of civil defense planners. The courses provide instruction in civil emergency planning, indoctrination in the emergency management of resources and orientation to non-military defense for group leaders in government and industry.

"Additional information and a complete schedule will gladly be sent to interested persons," Mr. Nunimaker said. The state civil defense office is located at 119 West Washtenaw Street, Lansing.

Newspaper Poll to Determine Nation's Favorite Hymn

What is America's favorite hymn?

The Tawas Herald today joins Christian Herald, the nation's largest interdenominational Protestant magazine, and newspapers throughout the country in a definitive survey to determine the hymns America loves best.

A preliminary hymn poll, conducted last year, ended in a controversy between churchgoers who favored "The Old Rugged Cross" and others who named the contemporary gospel song, "How Great Thou Art." Our survey aims at settling the dispute.

The national newspaper hymn poll is open to Americans of all denominations.

Every reader of the Herald is invited to write the name of his favorite hymn or gospel song on the ballot printed with this article. In appreciation, the Herald and Christian Herald will give each respondent the inspiring miniature book, "Hymn Thoughts for the Day," by Bill McVey, the Christian Herald singer. This attractive book contains favorite hymns and Scripture reading for every day of the month.

BILL McVEY Christian Herald Singer

Last year, McVey and Christian Herald conducted a survey of more than 30,000 people to determine their interest in hymn singing in America. Many newspapers printed the results and editors of Christian Herald magazine received thousands of letters from churchgoers and ministers who expressed renewed faith in hymn singing as a vital force for bringing families closer together and closer to God.

But a controversy arose shortly after the results were printed. Many people felt the old hymns best expressed their faith and directly portrayed the great stories of the Bible. Others believed the newer gospel songs with their strong melodies had greater appeal to modern American churchgoers.

Our national newspaper hymn poll should end this dispute and determine which hymns have the most meaning for American churchgoers today.

Each vote submitted in the coast-to-coast survey will be tabulated by Audience Analysts, Incorporated, a leading independent research organization. The Herald will publish a list of favorites in this area and compare them with the national results.

Please use pencil or ball point pen to print the name of your favorite hymn on the ballot. Mail it today so your vote is sure to be counted. And remember to add your full name and address, clearly printed, so you will receive our gift of the inspiring 64-page book, "Hymn Thoughts for the Day" by Bill McVey.

100 Years Ago This Week...in THE CIVIL WAR

(Events exactly 100 years ago this week in the Civil War—told in the language and style of today.)

"Boy Wonder" McClellan Takes Potomac Reins

Gen. McDowell Loses Command

WASHINGTON, D.C.—July 26 —Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan, the brashly competent, young and colorful hero of Western Virginia, arrived here today to take command of what's left of the Army of the Potomac. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Irwin McDowell, target for most of the blame in last week's crushing defeat of Union forces at Bull Run.

McCLELLAN

McClellan, 34, assumes his new key position flushed with the success of campaigns at Philadelphia and Rich Mountain, in Western Virginia.

His cautious battlefield dispatches have breathed life into a North bogged in apathy and confusion. President Lincoln has given McClellan and Chief of the Army Gen. Winfield Scott a clear, but tough, road for the immediate future.

After the Bull Run disaster, Mr. Lincoln outlined this program for the defense of the Union:

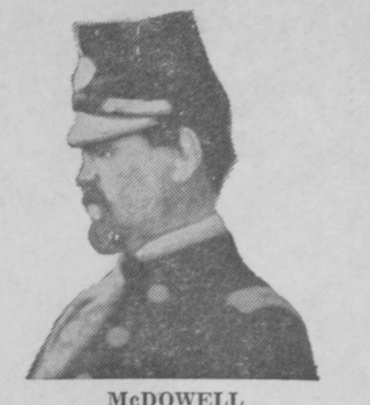

—An immediate blockade of Southern ports.

—Holding of Baltimore, which has been on a see-saw of loyalty between South and North.

—Early seizure of Manassas Junction, scene of the Bull Run rout, and establishment of an open rail line from Harper's Ferry, Va., to Manassas and Strasburg.

—Capture of Memphis by troops from Cairo, Ill., and of East Tennessee by troops moving out of Cincinnati.

But McClellan's most urgent duty, obviously, is the repair of the demoralized Army of the Potomac.

McDOWELL

MANY of the troops at Bull Run simply went home after the defeat. Other units regrouped around Washington minus the equipment they had scattered to the winds in their chaotic retreat.

And the moral gangrene that can be fatal to any army distrust by the men of their officers—has taken a firm grip on the forces that are now McClellan's.

In many cases, officers turned tail at Bull Run before their troops did.

GRANDSTAND experts, meanwhile, were having a field day pinpointing the reasons for the Union's disgrace at Bull Run.

One thing became obvious—the North was outclassed, militarily, by the South. Of the three division commanders of the Union army, only one had ever seen a battle. Of nine brigadiers, six had never been near combat.

But the nine leading Confederate officers at Bull Run were all seasoned veterans of Mexican War action or of Indian fights.

Rep. Ely Freed By Confederates

RICHMOND, Va. — July 29 — Release from Libby Prison of U.S. Rep. Alfred Ely was assured today by Confederate leaders.

Rep. Ely was seized during the battle of Bull Run, one of hundreds of civilians who went to the scene of combat to see what they were sure would be a Northern victory.

Since his incarceration here, Ely has sparked much curiosity. Libby guards have received several offers of $10 bribes from Richmond citizens who wanted to take a look at the captive congressman.

When seized, Ely carried a pair of dancing pumps—apparently in anticipation of a victory ball in this Southern capital.

TURKEY

Part One of a Four-Part Series By T-Sgt. JOHN D. ROLLINS Former NCOIC Of Public Information Section at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda

The friendly relations existing between the Republic of Turkey and the United States has grown out of a mutual interest in maintaining peace and security in the world, and especially security against the threat of Soviet aggression.

Although Turkey is not usually considered as one of the Atlantic powers, both political and strategic reasons induced her to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), as well as the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO).

For centuries, Turkey has been an international crossroads where Eastern and Western civilization merged. The natural land and sea routes which join the many countries from the Danube to the Persian Gulf, and from the Nile to the Black Sea, must invariably cross Turkey and the Straits and Aegean areas.

Turkey has traditionally lived with a strong feeling of danger from Russia and the Soviet satellites. She has successfully avoided Soviet overtures of alliance or aggression before and after World War II and thus retained her independence.

Development of the cold war, however, placed her in a precarious position, standing alone in the strategic geographical position between East and West.

For Turkey, therefore, joining NATO was a logical move to guard her independence. The other members of NATO accepted

Turkey into the alliance, recognizing that the country provided a solid bulwark and valuable staging area on the Eastern front.

Turkey formally became a NATO country in 1952. During the same year, Headquarters, Allied Land Forces, Southeast Europe (HALFSEE), and Headquarters Sixth Allied Tactical Air Force, were activated at Izmir. Thus NATO went actively to work in Turkey.

MODERN TURKEY

Until the beginning of the first World War, Turkey, then known as the Ottoman Empire, ruled a vast area of more than 700,000 square miles.

The guiding hand at the helm of Turkish destiny during the first part of the twentieth century has been that of Mustafa Kemal Ataturk, who, in 1923 was elected first president of the new Turkish Republic.

On the day of Ataturk's election (October 29, 1923), a new Turkey was created out of very old materials and very new ideas. The 36 years since that date have been years of progress toward the goals of Turkish revolution.

1919: The Ottoman Empire was partitioned and occupied by the Western Allies. The Turks under Mustafa Kemal Ataturk revolted against foreign subjugation.

1923: July—After four years of struggle, Turkey wins the War of Independence. The Treaty of Lausanne acknowledges this victory, establishing Turkey's status.

October—Parliament proclaims Turkey a republic and elects Mustafa Kemal Ataturk president.

1924: Parliament adopts the democratic Constitution of Modern Turkey. Separation of church and state. Schooling becomes secular and coeducational.

1928: A new Turkish alphabet based on Latin characters replaces the old Arabic script which was difficult to learn.

1933: Turkish women obtain the right to vote and be elected to parliament.

1934: Turkey initiates the Balkan League advocating a "good neighbor" policy. Greece, Rumania and Yugoslavia join the league.

1938: On November 10, Ataturk dies and is succeeded by Ismet Inonu, formerly prime minister under Ataturk.

1939-1945: With a million men under arms, Turkey in a state of non-belligerency and cooperating with the Allies, kept the Middle East and its oil resources from Axis encroachment.

1941: Turkey and the United States are drawn closer together by President Roosevelt's declaration of the identity of purposes between the two nations and by the inclusion of Turkey among the lend-lease nations.

1944: Land Reform — State-owned land was distributed to landless farmers and to those whose holdings were too small to be economically productive.

1947: The Truman Doctrine providing aid to Turkey and Greece, built on an identity of world outlook, links Turkey even closer to the United States.

1948: Turkey participates with 16 other European countries in the Marshall Plan for the economic recovery of Europe.

1950: May elections—The Democrats swept the Republicans out of office and Celal Bayar is elected the third president of Turkey.

August—Became the first country to respond to the U. N. appeal for troops to resist aggression in Korea.

1952: In February, Turkey became a full partner in NATO.

1955: Turkey completed negotiations for the Middle East Treaty Organization joining Great Britain, Iran, Iraq and Pakistan.

1960: On May 27, the Turkish Army carried out a bloodless Coup d'Etat, deposing the entire government of (then) President Bayar and Prime Minister Adnan Menderes' Democratic party in rebellion against harsh restrictive practices of the Menderes regime.

General Cemal Gursel, leader of the coup, pledged new elections for new Grand National Assembly. In the meantime, the army rules as a caretaker government. Virtually all nations recognize the new government and Turkey continues to honor its NATO and other allied commitments.
