Contractor's Check to Pay Material Men on Project

A $250,000 check representing payment to material men creditors on two Capehart Housing projects in Michigan was deposited in Peoples State Bank Thursday.

Depositing the money at the local bank for J. W. Bateson, Incorporated, Dallas, Texas, was George A. Prescott, clerk of Iosco County Circuit Court.

Bateson was prime contractor for constructing 618 housing units at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda, and 475 units at Kincheloe Air Force Base in Chippewa County.

A lawsuit was filed against Bateson in circuit court here last November by Catsman Company, Incorporated, a Flint subcontractor for Bateson, in constructing the housing units.

Later, other subcontractors entered in the litigation against Bateson.

While alleging that Bateson had "fraudulently conspired to obtain subcontracts" for completing of the housing units, Catsman charged that Bateson was indebted to them in the amount of $250,000.

On March 2, Circuit Judge Alan C. Miller ordered Bateson to deposit the $250,000 in the local bank. Payment to material men creditors is to be handled by the clerk of the court.

Letters have been sent to various creditors of the Catsman Company requesting verification of the amounts claimed due from Catsman with respect to either the Wurtsmith or Kincheloe projects. Orders are to be approved by William A. O'Brien Jr. for Catsman Company and Walter A. Mansfield for the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company. All orders are subject to final approval of Judge Miller.

Thief Steals License Tags from Roti's Car

Frank Roti of Tawas City is one of the few persons in this area who had to make two trips to the secretary of state's branch office to purchase 1961 auto license tags. The original pair which he purchased was stolen from the car recently while he was attending a basketball game. Sergeant Roti is commander of the state police post at East Tawas.

Ice Conditions are Becoming Unsafe ---Use Caution!

Ice conditions are rapidly becoming unsafe throughout much of Michigan's Lower Peninsula, especially in the southern part, conservation department regional offices warn.

Many lakes in the southern Lower Peninsula have already started to open up in the wake of warming temperatures. Conditions are somewhat safer in the northern Lower Peninsula, but even there ice is beginning to break up along shorelines of some lakes.

Fishermen in the Upper Peninsula can also expect to make an early exit from their favorite lakes if mild weather continues.

To avoid "treading on thin ice" in more ways than one, fishermen are urged to remove their shanties before conditions become unsafe. Failure to do so may result in a $50 fine and/or 30 days in jail.

Fishermen in the southern part of the state should have already completed their spring moving chores.

Along with removing shanties, fishermen are asked to pick up cans, bottles and other litter to help lead the way toward accident-free fun for bathers this summer.

Tawas School Gets OK on Federal Grant

Tawas Area School has been certified for immediate payment of $11,367 by the federal government, according to information received here Thursday from Senator Philip S. Hart.

This figure represents part payment on the federal grant which the school district is to receive for federally-connected pupils.

Certified for payment under Public Law 874, some 190 federally-connected students were enrolled at Tawas Area last fall. Final payment is to be determined by the average daily attendance of pupils at the end of the school year.

The school receives $185.75 for each federally-connected pupil who lives on the coast guard reservation at Tawas Point and one-half that amount for those pupils in the district whose parents live off-base from Wurtsmith.

Protests Heard Monday Night—

Council OK's Bid on New City Hall

East Tawas Council has accepted the low bid of Gregory Construction Company, Bay City, for construction of a new city hall. Work is to start on the structure in early spring.

At a special meeting Monday night, the council accepted Gregory's bid of $33,455, plus cost of alternates listed in specifications.

Before acceptance, however, the council was questioned at length by a group of businessmen on how it proposed to finance such a structure.

C. V. Miller, who will be a candidate for mayor in the spring election, cited several laws and sections of the city charter which prohibit the use of tax money for such construction unless authorized by a vote of the people.

He pointed out that recent proposals asking authorization to bond the city for a new city hall had been turned down by voters.

During discussion on the question posed by the businessmen, Mayor Elmer Werth pointed out that money available for construction of the city hall was not from tax appropriated funds.

Werth said that a city was not operated on taxes alone, stating that East Tawas received approximately $17,000 annually from sales tax diversion funds and additional money from parking meters. The city also has received money through the sale of surplus property.

City Attorney Richard Newman said that all laws cited by Mr. Miller referred to the use of tax appropriated money and that none of those sections applied to the surplus funds in question. He said that the council had the right to use the money for city improvements as it sees fit.

It was stated that if the surplus was not used before the end of the fiscal year, a balance on hand of $31,000 would have to be shown in the next year's budget.

It was the council's opinion that nothing would be gained by reducing taxes slightly for one year.

More than 50 percent of the voters expressed the desire to have a new city hall in the recent election, said Werth. It was stated that the majority of those people who voted against it would be happy to have a new city hall without additional taxation.

Several of the businessmen felt that the location of the new city hall was badly chosen. (It is to be located on the site of the old city hall, now razed. Property was purchased adjacent to the old structure for a new site, but was sold when the bonding proposition failed.)

"Businessmen are of the opinion that the site is not appropriate for a city hall, inasmuch as it is located in a valuable parking area," said Miller.

Mayor Werth said that the city hall was equally as important as any business place and that everyone should have pride in it. "Its location should be in the best spot in town and I think this is the thinking of the council," said the mayor.

Councilman Frank Wilkuski expressed the opinion that the city hall should be centrally located in town. He thought it was necessary to locate it in a spot easily accessible to the bank and downtown business district.

Wilkuski also emphasized the fact that the new vault space in the city hall was critically needed. "We would be criticized very highly if a fire destroyed the city's records," said Wilkuski. "A new city hall is needed and everyone will be proud of it."

Werth said that the council had to represent the city at large and not just one segment of the business district. He pointed out, however, that the council was interested in parking areas and had used city funds to purchase additional land for such use.

The mayor said that future planning for additional parking areas should include participation by businessmen in financing such projects, along with the possible use of parking meter money.

One citizen questioned the council on which was more important—a new city hall, a new fire truck or additions to the disposal plant. It was his opinion

Ten Gray Ladies Received Service Awards Monday at Tawas Hospital

Ten dedicated volunteer workers were honored Monday afternoon at Tawas Hospital for their many hours of humanitarian work.

All members of the American Red Cross Gray Ladies, the organization has contributed more than 4,300 volunteer hours of assistance at the hospital during the past seven years.

Receiving red stripes denoting 150 hours of service were Mrs. John Watkins, Mrs. Ben Wilson, Mrs. Paul Sutton, Mrs. Gordon Huck, Mrs. William Leslie, Mrs. Clarence Everett, Mrs. Cecil Cabbie, Mrs. Ned Curtis and Mrs. L. J. Trinklein.

Mrs. Frank Wilkuski, chairman of the Gray Ladies, received a chevron for four years of participation.

The group was organized here in January 1954 and after completing a training course, started working in their spare time at Tawas Hospital.

Duties performed by the group centers around giving aid to patients. This assistance includes writing letters, making telephone calls, distributing mail and reading to the patients. They also brighten hospital rooms by arranging flowers.

In addition, the volunteers have assisted when the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's mobile X-ray unit makes its visit here and assists with the chapter's blood bank program.

In time of any emergency, such as a tornado disaster, the Gray Ladies would be called for assistance.

Originally, the group consisted of 22 volunteers. During the seven years since organization, several members have moved away from the area or retired from participating, leaving six active and four inactive members.

Each member purchases her own uniform and cap. It had been planned to hold a class last year to secure new members, but because of the active participation of those remaining in the organization, a new class was deemed unnecessary at the time.

Devote Meetings to Fire Protection

Improvement of fire protection in the Tawas and outlying areas has been the subject of numerous meetings during the past several weeks.

Tawas City Council's purchasing committee and members of the volunteer fire department met Monday night to check bids offered on new fire apparatus for the fire department.

The Tawas Township Board was to have discussed a proposed new contract between Tawas City, Tawas and Alabaster Townships at a meeting last week.

A meeting was held last night (Tuesday) at East Tawas to discuss mutual fire protection problems with Tawas City and Baldwin Townships.

Full reports on findings of these meetings are to be aired at next Monday night's meetings of the Tawas City and East Tawas councils.

State Hit by Second Storm in One Week

The northern half of the Lower Peninsula was hit by the second snow storm of blizzard proportions in less than a week. On Monday of this week, crews in Tawas City finished clearing away snow which fell last Wednesday.

A snow storm struck the area Monday afternoon and the Tawas City Department of Public Works crew had the same job to perform again.

Schools were closed in Iosco County all day Tuesday, as was the case last Thursday after the storm.

Main traveled roads were open to traffic Tuesday afternoon, although slippery spots were reported.

Youths Steal Car Here; Nabbed at Cheboygan

Four Detroit youths were arrested in Cheboygan Sunday morning in a car which they had stolen in Tawas City.

State police at East Tawas said that Martin Ristow, of 118 Ninth Avenue was unaware that his car was missing from his home when notified by police.

Ristow told officers that he parked the car in front of his home Saturday night and left the key in the ignition switch.

The two 18-year-olds and two juveniles who admitted the theft were also questioned by police concerning a car which was found abandoned near Greenly.

Second Oil Rig Shows Rapid Progress

Progress on the second well being drilled in Iosco County in the current search for oil and gas is moving along at a rapid pace.

The Mt. Pleasant firm moved on the site early last week with a rotary drilling rig. By Friday, the specially hardened rock bit had Dallas, Texas, to drill a hole on the Neil Erickson farm in Section 29, Burleigh Township.

The Mt. Pleasant firm moved on the site early last week with a rotary drilling rig. By Friday, the specially hardened rock bit had drilled to a depth of 2,200 feet.

This equipment is much larger than the cable operated rig drilling east of Taft, which was described by this newspaper last week.

The top of McCleure's rig is 142 feet above ground level. The D-70 Cardwell draw works is powered by two 6-110 diesel engines.

Water from a nearby creek is forced down the hole and sediment is flushed into slush beds.

A substructure on which is located controls for the drilling operation is situated 10 feet above ground. Attached to this platform is a heated control center where a geologist and laboratory equipment is located.

Three crews of four men each are working around the clock in this operation. In charge is William Anderson of Houghton Lake, tool pusher.

Anderson, who is to leave sometime this week for New York where he will set up another rig, said that the equipment here would drill to the Richfield zone, which it is expected to hit at about the 4,200-foot mark. If oil is not present there, the hole probably would be pushed to the 5,000-foot level.

If oil is discovered, it would be the first time for such an event in the history of Iosco County. Several holes have been drilled here, but all were unsuccessful.

Both Arenac and Ogemaw Counties have oil fields. One well in Ogemaw County, drilled within several miles of the Erickson farm, hit gas some years ago but was capped.

According to Driller Henry DeGraw of Midland, the rock bit was drilling at a rate of five minutes to the foot Friday. Depending on rock formations, the drill averages between 500 and 600 feet in eight hours.

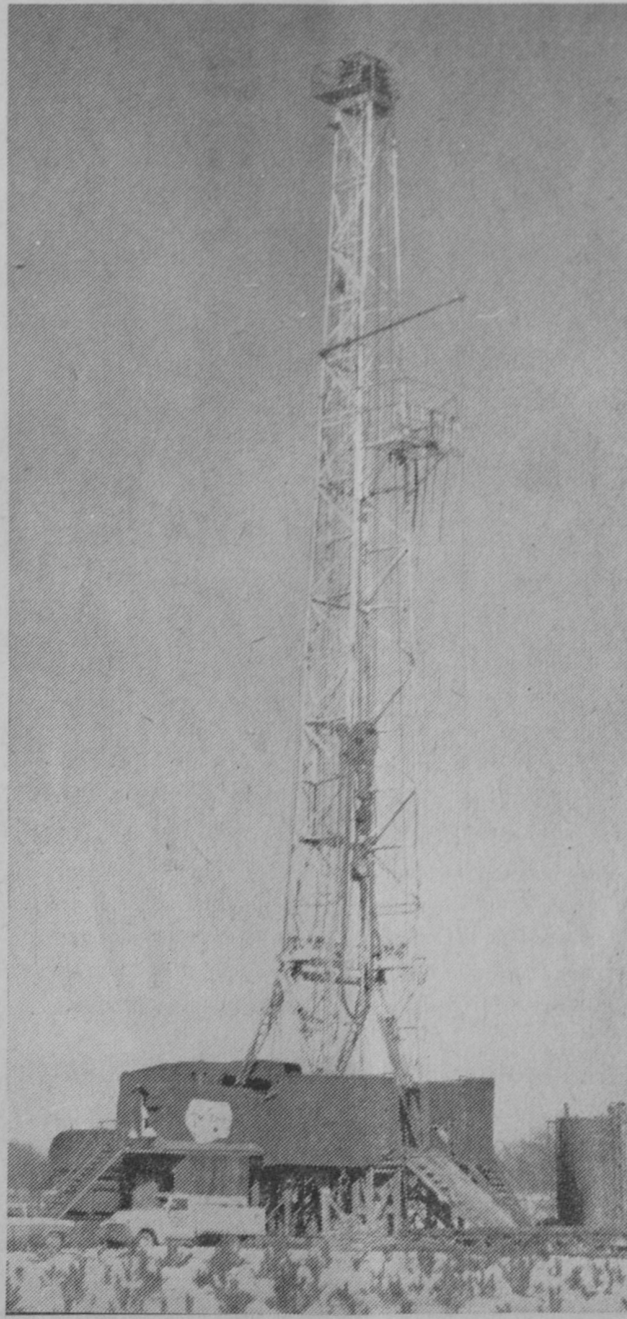

Rock samples are taken at each five-foot interval and are checked on the spot for signs of crude by Samuel Stith, geologist. Stith has his microscope and other equipment set up in a trailer to check these samples, which are bagged and recorded for the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Just in case the drilling rig does hit oil or gas, a hydraulic ram would immediately cut off the flow around the drill stem in the casing.

"We had one well blow out on us down at Jonesville some time ago and we wouldn't want that to happen again," explained Anderson. "An expert from Texas had to be called in to cut off the flow."

While residents on the western side of the county do not wish the drillers any bad luck, they hope that the "ram" will have to be used on this hole. In any event, the results will be known shortly.

SOCIAL SECURITY AGENT HERE THURSDAY, MARCH 23
 Your old-age, survivors and disability insurance system is self-supporting through social security taxes and interest on its trust funds, according to Paul M. Ellifritz, manager of the Bay City District Office of the Social Security Administration.

If you have wondered what your contributions have been based on maximum wages from 1937 to 1960 inclusive as an employee, this amount would be $1,290. Your employer has contributed the same amount. This makes a total contribution of $2,580. Your wages over this period would have been $82,800.

These contributions, not only from employees but also from self-employed persons, make up the trust funds. Moneys not being used to pay for benefits to retired workers, survivors and disabled people are placed in the trust funds and invested in United States Government securities. The interest from the investment is added to the reserve fund. Interest now being received is much greater than the total administrative expense of operating old-age and survivors insurance.

Mr. Ellifritz explained that social security is "not something for nothing." In the long run, the value of the worker's contributions will just about equal what he will get back in payments. In the meantime, he has had not only protection against possible death but also disability protection.

At present, the trust fund has a balance of about 22 billion dollars, with interest on securities being over one-half billion a year. This, along with future income from covered workers, is expected to be sufficient to meet all expenditures.

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be in Tawas City at the Iosco County Building Thursday, March 23, at 10:30 a. m.

Today's MEDITATION
 The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room
 OF THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Hebrews 13:18-25
 I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. (John 10:14)

The highest degree of well-being is enjoyed by sheep when they can hear the voice of their shepherd. The sheep know the difference between the voice of strangers and their shepherd's voice. When strangers guide them, they are fearful, nervous, timid. They cannot eat peacefully. What a change takes place when their shepherd comes to them! They feel safe and at ease. Jesus is a good shepherd. He wants to be our very own shepherd. He wants us to recognize His voice, to trust Him, to obey Him and to have peace that passes all human understanding.

Jesus knows other voices clamor for our attention and loyalty. He also knows that our following them leads us to the end of fear, guilt and death. Each of us decides for himself whom he will hear and follow.

It was when the psalmist said, "The Lord is my shepherd," that he came to understand, "I shall not want."

PRAYER

Dear Christ, be my shepherd! I hear Thy voice; help me to heed and follow. May there come to me the assurance of Thy forgiveness and may I experience the poise and peace which Thou hast for me. In Thy blessed name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

What a change comes into our lives when we accept Christ as our shepherd! Jack H. Cooke, North Carolina.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE—

Man is sustained under all circumstances through an understanding of God's omnipotence. This theme will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Keynoting the lesson-sermon entitled "Matter" is the Golden Text from Psalms (73:26): "My flesh and my heart faileth; but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this passage will be read: "Consciousness constructs a better body when faith in matter has been conquered. Correct material belief by spiritual understanding and spirit will form you anew" (425:23-26).

Scriptural selections will include this additional citation from Psalms (56:4): "In God I will praise his word, in God I have put my trust; I will not fear what flesh can do unto me."

At Wurtsmith Air Force Base—

March 21, 1961---'Business as Usual'

Tuesday, March 21, 1961, will come and go as just another day for SAC, TAC and ADC.

Crews of long-range jet bombers will be on 24-hour alert, ready to give a lethal reply to Communist attack on this country. Giant Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles and their launch crews will stand by to deal their own pulverizing blows to the Red heartland.

Sleek jet fighter bombers, bristling with firepower, will be geared for action. Massive air transport planes will be prepared to carry troops to the front, wherever it may be.

Rocket-armed jet interceptors will patrol the skies over the North American continent, waiting to repel Soviet bombers. At lonely outposts along the Arctic rim and far at sea, radar observers will watch their scopes for the "blips" that may signal danger.

And support personnel, whose essential jobs lack the glamor of their combat companions, will keep the machinery running at a smooth steady hum. They will make sure that the Air Force can go to war, and win, under any terms the Communists dictate.

Despite the look of routine, Tuesday, March 21, 1961, will be an anniversary. It will be the 15th for deterrence—the military concept of keeping peace by letting your enemy know every day that attack on this nation or its allies will result in his own destruction.

The greatest portion of America's counter-force wallop—and, consequently, its deterrent strength—rests with three Air Force combat arms, Strategic, Tactical and Air Defense Commands. Their creation on March 21, 1946, marked the beginning of this country's best guarantee of peace. The fact that the Communists have not attacked during the last 15 years points to the success of SAC, TAC and ADC.

Separately, the commands have been groomed to handle any type of conflict. Together, their power and readiness for war pose the greatest obstacle now facing the Red military planners.

SAC is the long-range force. Its fleet of 2,000 bombers and rapidly-growing missile inventory comprise 90 percent of the free world's total striking power, as measured in TNT equivalents. From more than 70 bases across the world, SAC B-47, B-52 and B-58 jet bombers are keyed for immediate nuclear counterattack. About one-third of the SAC force is on 15-minute ground alert at all times, with aircraft fueled and loaded and crews within scant yards of their planes.

SAC missile crews pull alert duty, too, at bases in the United States. Their nuclear-armed weapons can be triggered under presidential order and reach targets half a world away in 30 minutes or less.

TAC's limited war force can deter aggression or cut down an enemy at any spot in the world. Composite Air Strike Forces, composed of fighter bomber, reconnaissance, refueling and transport aircraft, can move within a few hours to any "hot spot" on the globe. The effectiveness of these strike units as a deterrent was proven in 1958 when they were used to contain Communist moves in Lebanon and Quemoy. Composite Air Strike Forces can assist ground forces by airlifting crack troops to the heart of a conflict.

ADC—as the Air Force component in the joint United States-Canadian North American Air Defense Command, operates a fleet of deadly fighters and interceptor missiles from a network of bases across the country. The command's SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) computers can direct fighters and missiles against invading aircraft quickly and accurately.

ADC personnel also man defense radar systems spread along the Far North perimeter and points in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. These systems would give the first notice of imminent attack on North America, providing the vital time needed to launch SAC's alert force and ADC's defensive units.

The three Air Force combat commands have a staggering job. There is no relaxation, no time to "catch up" in a modern nuclear war. That's why March 21, 1961, must be a "business as usual" day in the Air Force—with no time off for celebration of a very special anniversary.

FANTASTIC TEXAS TALE

Twiggs Apparently Certain Of Top Job In South's Army

SAN ANTONIO, Texas—March 18—A top echelon rank in the Confederate army has been assured for David E. Twiggs, who gave away the state of Texas a day after he lost the authority to do so.

Twiggs, as a Union general commanding the Army's Texas forces, surrendered same lock, stock and barrel to secessionist leaders Feb. 16—although he had been officially relieved of duty the day before.

His discharge from the Union army "for treachery to the flag," as announced March 1 in Washington, capped a unique series of events that has left Rebel forces in possession of:

—Union troops numbering some 2,300.

—Building, livestock and equipment at 19 Federal posts, including the 140-year old Alamo here, scene of fierce battle with Mexican troops in 1836.

—Other property with an estimated value of $1,200,000.

INCLUDED in the captured livestock were 53 camels with a worth of $20,000. The desert beasts were maintained by troops at Camp Verde, 65 miles from San Antonio.

Official records show that Twiggs, a native of Georgia, had indicated his Southern leanings in a letter written here Jan. 15 and dispatched at once to Army Commander Gen. Winfield Scott in Washington.

In this letter, he asked to be relieved of command.

General Scott authorized this relief in a letter dated Jan. 23 and received by Twiggs Feb. 15. (Normal mail time between here and Washington is 12 to 16 days.)

But on Feb. 16, the day after getting Scott's letter, Twiggs delivered his command to Rebel Col. Ben McCulloch in an impromptu session here.

HIS ACTION insured the results of a state-wide election held Feb. 23 in which citizens voted 34,794 to 11,235 to back the decision of the recent secessionist convention to pull Texas out of the Union.

Twiggs' capitulation is said to have brought shock and dismay to another Union Army leader in Texas.

Col. Robert E. Lee passed through here a few hours after Twiggs' surrender. Col. Lee was on his way from Fort Mason to Army headquarters in Washington.

A woman witness said Col. Lee was distraught upon learning the Union no longer held Texas. She

Hear Blair Quits, Then Reconsiders

WASHINGTON, D.C.—March 16—The first major blowup in President Abraham Lincoln's cabinet was narrowly averted today, according to word in this increasingly jittery capital.

Postmaster General Montgomery Blair was said to have quit in protest over the administration's failure to act on the Fort Sumter question. He withdrew his resignation only after President Lincoln promised quick action on Sumter, according to widespread reports.

BLAIR'S FATHER, Francis Preston Blair, met with Lincoln and told the chief executive of his son's intentions. Lincoln is said to have indicated a willingness to defend Sumter, and the elder Blair then persuaded his son from quitting.

Montgomery Blair—at 48, youngest of the cabinet members—reportedly was the only one at yesterday's secret cabinet session to have flatly urged relief for Sumter.

The resignation would have been a hard blow for the Lincoln administration. Both Blairs are politically powerful and respected for distinguished careers in public service.

Sumter Confab

CHARLESTON, S.C.—March 21—Gustavus V. Fox, former Navy officer now a personal representative of President Abraham Lincoln, arrived here today. He met at once with Maj. Robert Anderson, commander of Fort Sumter.

Simulated Bomb Runs

Air Force Uses Train To Practice Bombing

The introduction of mobile radar bomb-scoring (RBS) equipment mounted on railroad cars in connection with the Strategic Air Command's high and low level navigation and bombing training operations has been made by the Federal Aviation Agency and the Air Force.

The first mobile RBS train, located near Milan, Tennessee, went into operation March 1.

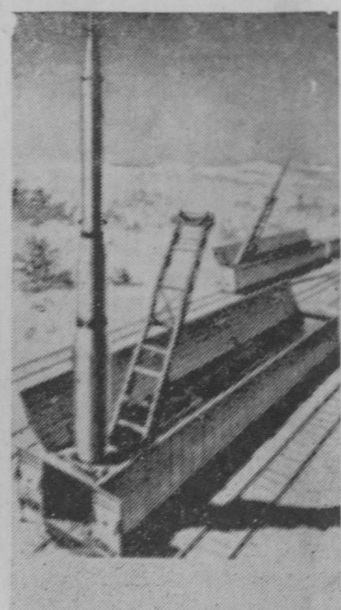

Simulated bomb runs are made using this mobile RBS site by B-47, B-52 and B-58 bombers of the Strategic Air Command. Radar-bomb scoring equipment mounted on the trains parked in a railroad siding score the accuracy of simulated bomb drops by means of radio signals.

Jet bomber crews are provided a wider range of unfamiliar targets and unfamiliar routes through moving the RBS site to a new geographical location every 45 days. With each relocation, a new route, terminating on the RBS Express will be implemented.

The mobile bomb-scoring equipment utilized in the new concept is included in a 10-car train drawn from existing Army stock at the Ogden, Utah, General Depot. The first train departed Hill AFB, Utah, in late February. Two additional trains under SAC control will be set up by September.

The 10-car train consists of a box car carrying vehicles and supplies, three flat cars on which ride SAC instrument vans where the actual scoring is accomplished and six cars used for command, administration, maintenance, power supply and other functions.

The train carries 65 Air Force personnel for duty as radar technicians and personnel needed to operate the train and furnish other support. Civilian train crews

Warn and Defend -- In Case of Surprise Attack

On March 21, 1946, The Air Defense Command was organized at Mitchell Field and in December 1948, it was placed under the Continental Air Command and delegated the task of supervising the buildup of the air defense system. ADC was established as a major command on January 1, 1951, at Ent AFB, California.

From four day-time fighter squadrons in 1946, the interceptor force grew to 60 all-weather squadrons in 1959. By 1953, a modern radar system had been completed and additional radar units were programmed to blanket the country with medium and high altitude radar cover.

About the same time, the decision was made to extend radar coverage as far from the American border as possible.

An agreement with Canada for mutual defense resulted in the extension of radar coverage into southern Canada in 1952 (the Pine-tree Line), and permission was granted USAF to erect the Distant Early Warning (DEW) Line, which became operational under ADC control in 1958; the DEW Line consists of radars and continuous-wave stations along the Arctic Circle from Alaska to Greenland.

Work was begun in 1953 to erect a number of off-shore radar platforms known as Texas Towers. To provide even more distant off-shore cover, the Airborne Early Warning program was begun, consisting of two wings of Lockheed RC-121 Warning Stars.

In 1953, development of the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment (SAGE) system began. It was destined to become the nerve center of air defense.

The first of the SAGE sectors was put into operation in July 1958 and was rapidly joined by others in the eastern and northern United States during 1959 and 1960. This electronic network is based on the provision of digital computers and ancillary data-transmitting equipment locations throughout the country.

The major purpose of this system is to provide instantaneous information of the appearance of enemy aircraft and to process and transmit such information to interceptor aircraft in flight as well as trigger other defensive measures.

On September 1, 1959, the first Bomarc IM-99A surface-to-air missile squadron became operational, harbinger of a program to replace a part of the manned interceptor force with unmanned interceptor missiles.

To provide far distant early warning of missile attack, the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS) was begun in 1958, with huge radar stations destined for Alaska, Greenland and England; these radars are capable of detecting missiles in flight, deep in the Soviet or in other similarly distant territory.

SHOWN IS AN ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of a B-52H launching a Skybolt missile. When the Skybolt becomes operational, it will make the continent spanning Stratofortress more versatile than ever, with missile legs added to its 10,000-mile-plus range. The Skybolt, with nuclear capability will be launched at distances up to a thousand miles from target areas. Mating the Skybolt with the B-52 will give flexibility in recall that conventional ground-launched missiles do not have.

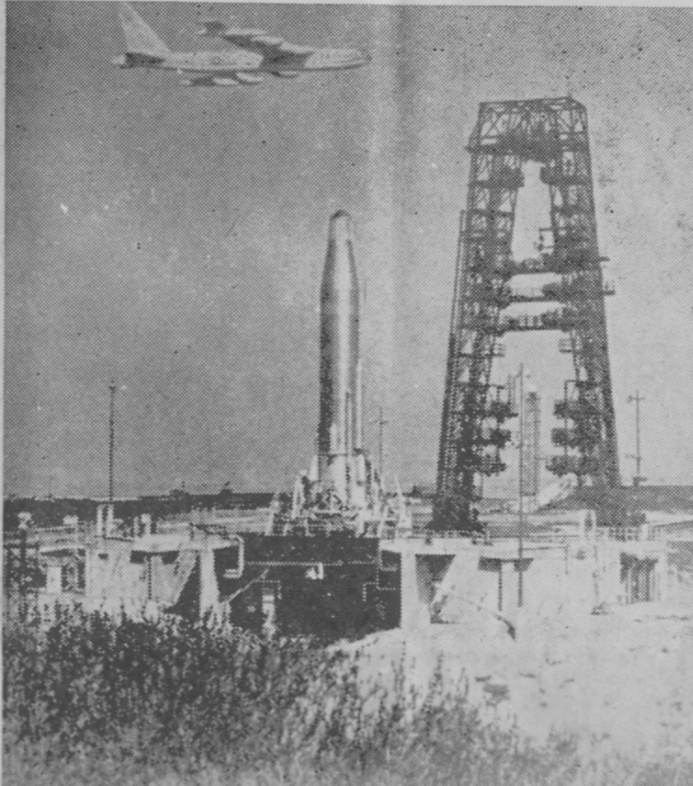

SAC Will Continue Constant Airborne Command Control

(SAC PS)—SAC is now keeping an Airborne Command Post in the air at all times, Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander in chief, has announced.

Pointing out that intensive testing had proved the effectiveness of the Airborne Command Post control idea, General Power emphasized that such command control is an essential part of the United States deterrent force.

The around-the-clock Command Post flights were begun in mid-February.

Training and test flights of the Airborne Command Post were begun in July of 1960. In time of war, SAC's bomber and missile force could be directed from this Command Post in case the control center at SAC headquarters was knocked out.

TODAY, SAC is a true Aerospace Force combining the mechanical advantages of the finest in bombers and missiles with the professional skills and dedication of the men who operate these systems. SAC's commander-in-chief is Gen. Thomas S. Power.

- TAC -

Like ADC and SAC, the Tactical Air Command—was established on March 21, 1946.

When the Armed Forces Unification Act of 1947 set up an autonomous Air Force, TAC became one of USAF's commands.

On December 1, 1948, TAC was reduced to an operational headquarters assigned to Continental Air Command. It regained major air command status on December

1, 1950. By March of 1951, TAC had two numbered Air Forces, the Ninth and Eighteenth.

In July of 1955, the Nineteenth Air Force was activated under TAC. Its mission: To organize and deliver Composite Air Strike Forces when and where needed. The Eighteenth, TAC's troop carrier Air Force, was redesignated the Twelfth Air Force in January 1958.

The Twelfth Air Force subsequently became TAC's fighter Air Force with geographical responsibility for the western half of the United States.

These gloved hands are placing sensitized film on a radioactive piston. This produces a "radio autograph," from which Shell can study the effect of deposits on top performance.

BULLETIN:

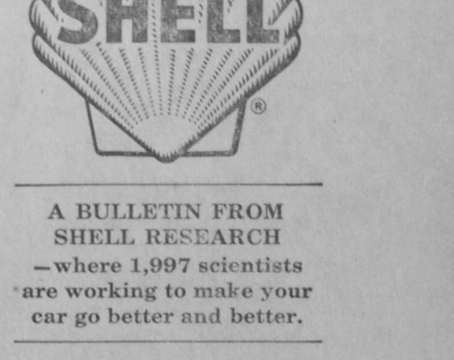

Super Shell with 9 ingredients now contains 1 quick-start component; 1 fast warm-up ingredient; 1 mileage booster; 1 anti-knock mix; 2 octane boosters; 1 gum preventive; 1 anti-icer and new improved TCP—to give your car top performance

Read the facts about today's Super Shell. You'll learn why each of its nine ingredients is essential if you want top performance from today's engines.

- 1. The quick-start component in Super Shell is so volatile it's kept underground. The Butane in Super Shell is like the priming charge in a shotgun shell. Its quick-firing volatility is what gets you started fast on cold days. Butane, in fact, vaporizes so easily that it is kept under pressure—22 million gallons of it—400 feet underground!
- 2. The fast warm-up ingredient in Super Shell acts like kindling for a fire. The fast warm-up you get with Super Shell comes from its Pentane mix. Pentanes are "kindling" molecules—split from heavier hydrocarbons. They release their energy quickly, giving you top cold-weather performance in a hurry.
- 3. The mileage booster in Super Shell owes its energy to carloads of platinum catalyst. Shell uses eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst to produce Platformate, the extra-energy, extra-mileage ingredient in today's Super Shell. The platinum catalyst, which gives the Platformate its name, helps re-form petroleum into

- super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene, toluene. These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the best 100-octane aviation gasoline.
- 4. The anti-knock mix in Super Shell is so effective that one teaspoonful treats a gallon. To detect the slightest trace of knock, Shell scientists depend on an astonishing set of instruments. This registers the faintest knocks on a delicate picture tube, and then photographs it with a high-speed camera. Such data help Shell researchers to prescribe an anti-knock mix so effective that one teaspoonful per gallon of gasoline can boost the octane rating 5 full points.
- 5. & 6. Both octane boosters in Super Shell have a story. One is linked with Jimmy Doolittle. The other comes from heating petroleum to 900 degrees. Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer the first of these high-octane in-

- redients for Shell aviation fuel. It is called Alkylate. Alkylate—which took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the real world—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds far better than anything else yet available.
- 7. The anti-gum ingredient in Super Shell uses a chemical "policeman" to guard against gum-fouled carburetors. Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This gum clogs carburetors and fouls automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick. It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. Hence no gum problem.
- 8. The anti-icer in Super Shell takes care of the most mysterious stalls of all. Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to drop below forty-five degrees, an anti-icer is added. Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even at that temperature, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead. Super Shell's anti-icer tackles the problem by discouraging ice from sticking to metal parts. Result: you can forget about carburetor icing problems.
- 9. TCP in Super Shell increases power, mileage and plug life. In 1953, Shell first introduced TCP—a revolutionary additive that neutralized certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. Today, Shell has developed a new improved TCP, cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate. TCP can give your car as much as 15 per cent more power and up to 17 extra miles per tankful. It can also make spark plugs last up to twice as long. Ponder these statistics. They can have a refreshing effect on your car bills.

ET LEGION POST OBSERVES 42nd ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Audie Johnson Post No. 211, American Legion, observed their 42nd birthday anniversary at the East Tawas Legion Hall Sunday, March 12.

Audie Johnson Auxiliary served dinner at 5:30 p. m. to 75 members of the post, their wives, auxiliary members and their husbands. Tables were decorated with tiny American flags at each place. Birthday cakes, decorated with American Legion designs, centered the tables. Red candles were used.

Dewey Durant acted as toastmaster. Post Chaplain John Mielock gave the invocation. Mr. Durant introduced Post Commander Charles Hunt, who in turn introduced his officers. Mr. Durant spoke on the theme of the 42nd anniversary, "Welcome Back," and urged increased membership. In his opening remarks, he commended the officers and members for their work in laying the new floor and redecorating the building. New drapes were also at the windows.

Mrs. Naomi Bennett, auxiliary president, was introduced and gave a greeting and wished the post a happy birthday.

Honored guests were Fourth Zone Commander Jennings LaMarr of Alpena and his wife, who is a past zone president and has held several state offices. Also introduced was Mrs. Dorothy Harmon, fourth zone vice president.

Mr. LaMarr spoke on the constitution of the American Legion, its organization and the important part it plays in shaping state and national affairs.

He announced the zone meeting at Lake City May 6 and stated that Mrs. Harmon would be in charge of the program.

Mrs. Harmon brought greetings from the Department of Michigan. She announced several important events among them the state oratorical contest at Alpena Friday evening, March 17.

Roy McMurray was the speaker of the evening. He began his talk with amusing incidents in the early history of Audie Johnson Post of which he is a charter member. His topic for the evening was "Hobbies." He related several hobbies of his own, the most valuable the gathering of favorite poems. He gave two interesting poems written by Robert W. Service and ended with some amusing children's poems.

An appropriate legion benediction by Mr. Mielock ended the program.

GRAY LADIES assist the staff in many ways at Tawas Hospital, but the work of these volunteers is principally concerned with aid to patients. These three photos show some of the services performed by the local unit. In the top picture, Mrs. Paul Sutton wheels a patient

'MICHIGAN IS EVERYTHING FOR INDUSTRY'

The fourth in a series of public service advertisements appears in The Tawas Herald today.

Sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department, the series emphasizes that "Michigan is Everything for Industry."

"Michigan is Markets," the theme of today's advertisement, describes one of Michigan's many assets for industry. Each of the advertisements stresses a particular asset which Michigan offers to industry seeking a new location or planning expansion.

Today's advertisement points out that Michigan's location, in the heart of the great east north central area, offers industry unmatched advantages in local, regional, national and world consumer and industrial markets.

The East North Central States account for 21.8 percent of all retail sales in the United States. Michigan's great market is demonstrated more dramatically by the statistic that Michigan has 20,000 births each year. That means that each three minutes a child is born in Michigan. That is 20 new customers each minute in Michigan alone.

Water, rail, highway and airplane transportation makes every market in the nation close to Michigan.

Readers of the Herald can tell the story of Michigan throughout the United States by clipping and mailing to friends in other sections of the nation the advertisements which show "Michigan is Everything to Industry."

Car Seat Belts Can Save Lives—

Seat belts cut in half the chance of injury in an auto accident, says Richard Pfister, Michigan State University farm safety engineer.

Airlifted to Panama On Army Exercise

Army Pvt. Bruce D. Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hewitt, Hale, recently was airlifted with the 82nd Airborne Division's 503rd Infantry to Panama where he participated in a paratroop drop during exercise solidarity, March 14.

Exercise solidarity joined the 1,600-man reinforced battle group of the Strategic Army Corps' 82nd Division with combat units from certain Latin American countries in simulated defense of the Panama Canal. The exercise, demonstrating the unity of the Organization of American States (OAS), provided troops with experience in tropical operations, tactical air movement and jungle warfare tactics.

Hewitt is regularly assigned as a mortar runner in the 503rd's Heavy Mortar Battery at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. He entered the army in May 1960 and received basic combat training at Fort Hood, Texas.

The 17-year old soldier attended Flint Northern High School.

Observes 100th Year of Service

This year, the centennial of the Civil War, also represents the 100th anniversary of service to the military by Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross. From the inspiration of one woman in 1861, the Red Cross has grown with the country's needs. Last year, in United States communities, Red Cross chapter volunteers and home service staff each month provided assistance to an average of 118,000 servicemen and their dependents.

Figures released by Louis P. Butenschoen, Red Cross national fund chairman for Michigan, show that 54 chapters in the state reported assistance through home service to a total of 19,601 cases. Other requests handled but not counted as cases amounted to 29,473. In every part of the state, home service is available through 84 Red Cross chapters. This service includes counseling and referral for servicemen, veterans and their families; emergency communications between service personnel and their families; reporting on home situations in determining emergency leaves, transfers or discharges; financial assistance in certain emergency situations; and help to veterans, servicemen and their dependents applying for government benefits. It also includes some services to civilian families where the need is not met by another local organization. The services provided to servicemen veterans and their dependents are a part of the program of assistance required of the Red Cross by its charter from the United States Congress.

Last year, services to the armed forces, veterans and their families amounted to $33,557,642—about 39 cents of every Red Cross dollar. In Michigan alone, 3,027 cases received direct financial aid totaling $105,246. The problems brought to chapter home service workers are varied. The military may request verification of a soldier's need for emergency leave. A sailor, whose mail is delayed may be worried about his family—perhaps his mother has been ill or his wife is expecting a child. A marine may have a wife and children who are not receiving the scheduled allotment checks. A disabled veteran may need assistance in obtaining government benefits to which he is entitled. The widow of a veteran may need guidance in the completion of a government form. In all of these instances, and many others, home service helps. Available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, Red Cross chapters reporting in Michigan assisted an average of 2,549 cases each month. Little did Clara Barton realize, as she provided for soldiers' needs on Civil War battlefronts, that her ideals would continue to grow at such a rate in the next hundred years.

Butenschoen emphasized that these services were actually provided by the American people, whose voluntary contributions to the Red Cross make this help possible. These contributions through Red Cross annual fund campaigns or through federated campaigns in which Red Cross participates are the organization's only source of income.

Quota Club Sponsors Theater Party for Iosco Golden Agers

It's Ben Hur theater party this time, sponsored by Quota Club of Iosco County for older residents of the area.

By special arrangement with the Lake Theatre management in Oscoda, it is possible to offer this reduced rate matinee especially for senior citizens, golden agers, retirees.

Theater date is Tuesday, March 21, 1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. (doors open at 12:30 p. m.). The price is reduced.

Quota Club has arranged numerous social golden ager activities for older folks in the communities and at the convalescent home. These have been seasonal parties and picnics where fellowship and fun made the program.

This theater party is something a bit different. Quotarians hope to include and welcome even more people to the Quota golden ager clan.

'Ben Hur' is a well-known book which has probably been read by most older persons; indeed, they may have seen the film version produced in the 1920s.

Anyone desiring transportation may call Dorothy Scott, publicity chairman, F0827-23449.

'STOP FOR THE FLASHERS' WARNING TO MOTORISTS

"Stop for the Flashers!" is the slogan of the Michigan State Safety Commission, warning all motorists and vehicle operators to guard against school child tragedies.

Dr. Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction, and other school officials have been receiving increasing complaints that motorists are ignoring the state law which requires drivers to stop both ways when a school bus stops to take on or discharge school children on two, three or four-lane undivided highways.

The red flashers mounted on the front and rear of the big yellow buses send their message as the bus slows down for the stop. This is the signal for all other drivers in sight to slow down for a stop. The prime reason for the two-way stop is the safety of children who dash across the road either to or from the bus, often with little or no warning. Of course, the children should wait and watch, but they are not always as mature and level headed as drivers are supposed to be.

Michigan was one of the last two states to have this law. Years of other custom, combined with lack of knowledge or lack of attention could and has got us into some real heartbreakers.

School administrators and school bus drivers, realizing their responsibility, should plan their stops at places which will put the least strain on traffic conditions and reduce the need to tie up heavy traffic on narrow roads.

For a work-a-day motorist who is irritated by the need to stop when he or she is hurrying to work or on an errand, the question is—"Is the half minute I save worth the chance of some kid at death's door?" It is just a question of values.

that a fire truck and disposal plant were more important than a city hall.

It was pointed out that specifications were being obtained on a new fire truck and that a meeting had been scheduled for Tuesday night between East Tawas, Tawas City and Baldwin Township to discuss mutual fire protection problems.

"We have been overly embarrassed many times when people visited our city and have seen the old city hall," said Werth. "This is one thing which is brought to our attention more than anything else."

The mayor said that all of these projects were important and that, in time, all could be accomplished. He said, however, that the city could successfully carry out only one project at a time.

The council assured those present that using the surplus $31,000 for construction of a new city hall would not weaken city finances.
