

How about some delicious Swedish cookies for the Christmas season?

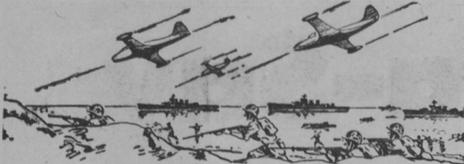

These delicate flavored cookies remain tender and crisp when stored. You can make them in various shapes by using different patterns in a cookie press.

SWEDISH COOKIES

3 cups butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs beaten
1 cup almonds
8 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Perfumes
Perfumes are almost as traditional as holly and mistletoe. Early pagans burned fragrant woods and spices as offerings to the gods; priests used perfumes in religious rites; at their coronation kings and emperors were anointed with fragrant oils; the Wise Men brought gifts of frankincense and myrrh to the Holy Infant. Today, perfumes rank high on milady's "want" list.

UNIQUE DECORATION
Christmas isn't exactly the season for moth balls, but they can be used to make a unique Yuletide decoration.

Advice For Veterans

by Arthur M. Brokenshire, Jr., Service Officer
Dep't. of Michigan Marine Corps League

WAR ORPHANS EDUCATION ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

For children of deceased veterans of World War I, World War II and Korean Conflict period: Generally children between ages 18 and 23 of veterans who died from disease or injury incurred or aggravated in line of duty in active service during one of the following three periods: World War I—April 6, 1917, through November 11, 1918; World War II—December 7, 1941, through December 31, 1946; Korean Conflict period—June 27, 1950, through January 31, 1955. The deceased parent's service must have been terminated under other than dishonorable conditions.

For otherwise eligible children under age 18, the benefit may be provided if the children have graduated from high school, or if not a high school graduate, are above the age of compulsory school attendance and VA finds it would be to their best advantage to begin schooling before reaching age 18.

Education may be continued beyond age 23 if the children were between 18 and 23 on June 29, 1956, effective date of the act; they were eligible for schooling but served in the armed forces before age 23; the veteran-parents die after the children are 18, but not yet 23.

Educational termination dates for the three groups in the preceding paragraph are: For the first group, June 29, 1961; for the second group, five years from the date of the children's discharge or separation from military service; for the third group, five years after the death of the veteran-parent. In no event may schooling extend beyond the 31st birthday of the children.

Procedures for applying: The parent or guardian of the deceased veteran's child must file an application with VA. If VA finds that basic eligibility requirements are met, the application will be approved provisionally. Next, the young man or woman, accompanied by the parent or guardian, will receive VA vocational counseling to assist him or her in the selection of a goal and the development of a program of education.

Meanwhile, the parent or guardian must prepare an educational plan, showing the educational goal, the program of education, school or schools he plans to attend and an estimate of the total cost of the education. This plan becomes part of the application. Finally, if everything is in order, VA will approve the application. With this, the young man or woman is ready to begin school.

Length of training: An eligible person may receive up to 36 months of schooling—or the equivalent of 36 months if enrolled part time. If he is a Korean veteran, however, his entitlement to schooling will be reduced by the amount of training he received under the Korean GI Bill or Public Law 894 (for the disabled).

Type of training: Training under war orphans program may be taken in schools and colleges only. On-the-job training, on-the-farm training, correspondence school training, training given by radio or television and training in foreign countries are prohibited. Also the law prohibits a young man or woman from taking his or her regular high school education under the program. To enroll in a course below the college level, the student must have completed or quit his regular high school education.

Further, the below-college-level course must be specialized vocational training that will fit him for a vocational goal. All courses taken by young men and women must be approved for veterans under the Korean GI bill; such approval carries over to the war orphans program.

Monthly rates: Young men and women in school under the war orphans program will receive $110 a month, if enrolled full time; $80 a month, if three-quarters time and $50 a month if half-time. Schooling less than half-time is not permitted.

Those enrolled in cooperative courses—alternating classroom study and related experience on the job—will receive $90 a month. This training may be taken full time only. These allowances will be paid after the end of each month of school completed.

Before VA can make a payment it must receive a certification signed both by the student and his school, stating he actually was in training during the month. Checks usually go out within 20 days after VA received these certifications. Payments usually are made to the student's parent or guardian, rather than to the student himself.

Special restorative training: Special restorative training may be provided to young men and women unable to pursue an education because of some physical or mental disability. It consists of training such as speech and writing correction, lipreading, Braille reading and writing and the like. A monthly allowance of $110 will be paid to persons taking such special training. In some instances, the amount may be increased.

Further information concerning these benefits may be had by contacting Arthur Brokenshire, the first Tuesday of every month at Tawas City. He will be in the Iosco County school superintendent's office, Iosco County Building, from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

College Preparatory Scholarships Offered by Cranbrook

Scholarships up to $1,500 are now being offered by Cranbrook School, college preparatory for boys, for the 1962-63 academic year.

Boys may make application for grants if they are eligible for entrance into grades seven through 11 in September 1962. Candidates should possess above average academic records, good school leadership and citizenship qualifications and a proven need for financial assistance.

A boarding and day school, Cranbrook enrolls 380 boys from all parts of the United States and several foreign countries. A nonprofit educational and cultural center, it is one of six Cranbrook Institutions which occupies a 300-acre landscaped site 10 miles northwest of Detroit.

Although there is no fixed number or size of grants offered, at present more than 10 percent of Cranbrook's students receive financial aid.

Applications are due March 1. Interested persons requiring additional information and application forms may contact Howard Wert, director of scholarships, Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills.

TEN NEW MEMBERS were inducted into the Tawas Area High School Chapter of the National Honor Society last week. These pictures were snapped during the program which preceded the meeting of the Tawas Area Parent-Teacher Association. At bottom, one of the new members repeats the pledge of the National Honor Society while parents in foreground and other members look on. Welcoming the new members in the next picture is President James LeViere, standing at left. Seated from left are Nancy Pollard, senior; Janet Czaika and Kay Bowman, juniors; Janice Guilford, sophomore; Mary Pitts, junior. Standing from left are Charles Miller, senior; Russell Nelkie Jr., Dennis Cross and William Western, all juniors. Missing when the picture was taken was John Solomon, senior. In the top photo, congratulations were in order for new members.—Tawas Herald Photo.
