Bagged 47 Straight—

Veteran Nimrod Says Quit to Deer

A 72-year-old Tawas City man, who has never missed bagging a buck in 47 consecutive seasons, has called quits to his amazing hunting record.

Harry Rollin, Tawas City service station owner, said Saturday that his days as a "sneak hunter" were through and insists that he will not be out in the woods come opening morning.

"My eyes aren't what they used to be and I certainly would never sit on a runway and wait for a buck to come along... that's murder!

"Even if I did get one, I probably would have to have some younger man help me carry the carcass out of the woods. When it gets to be work, there is no pleasure in hunting any more," he commented.

Rollin, while in his early teens, first began hunting in the Shad House Swamp with the late Jack Phelps. Saving his nickels and dimes, he purchased a used .32 special rifle from Willard Robinson. He bagged his first buck with this rifle, still in his possession, when only 14 years old.

After missing one several years later, Rollin then started his amazing record of 47 consecutive seasons. It is quite possible that this feat is a state record.

Rollin said that he learned his sneak hunting methods from an old Canadian trapper with whom he hunted one season many years ago. Wearing a pair of light buckskin boots, Rollin, through long years of experience, could stalk his game like an Indian.

Taking one step and then pausing to look in all directions, Rollin can move through the woods without breaking a twig or causing the leaves to rustle.

"I would hate to admit how many deer that I have killed during all those years," said Rollin. "For many seasons, it was legal to take two deer and I helped to keep the family larder filled with venison."

Joint Planning Meeting Slated by East Tawas

Following a lengthy discussion on city planning Monday night, the East Tawas Council invited the Baldwin Township Board and Tawas City Council to attend a meeting November 20 at the East Tawas City Hall.

Proposed future planning for the area would be discussed. A Lansing planning consultant has been invited to attend the session.

In other business, the council adopted a resolution establishing a special assessment district for constructing a sewer in the alley parallel to Newman Street between East Westover and East Bay.

Bounce All Day on Bus—

Iosco Supervisors Get 'Feel' of Roads

Members of the Iosco County Board of Supervisors got the "feel" of 180 miles of county roads last Thursday. They were guests of the road commission on a county-wide tour.

Traveling aboard an old school bus, junked recently by Tawas Area School, the supervisors were told at the start of the trip that they could expect to travel over roads of all types.

As the result of a heavy downpour of rain during the day, the supervisors rattled and bounced in the school bus from one end of the county to the other.

Iosco County has many miles of good roads, but the idea of this trip was to inspect those which are scheduled for reconstruction, as well as those already improved.

Starting from the county garage at East Tawas, the group first visited the road commission's limestone quarry in Arenac County.

There, Rodney Meade, road commission engineer, explained that 266,078 yards of crushed limestone had been produced since the pit was opened in 1954.

Supervisors saw new equipment being used by the commission which has considerably increased the output of crushed limestone. They also saw the crushing machinery in operation and the diesel "trains" being loaded with rock for use in the fall construction program.

The limestone quarry is to operate all winter in order to produce 27,000 yards of rock for the Townline Road which will be under construction next spring.

Meade stated that prices quoted by contractors for furnishing the

Gov. Swainson Slates 28th Senatorial Primary Nov. 20

Dates for the primary and special election in the 28th Senatorial District to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Charles T. Prescott were announced Saturday by Gov. John B. Swainson.

The primary will be held November 20 with the deadline for filing November 13 and the deadline for withdrawal November 16. The special election will be held December 11.

The latter date will coincide with another special election which will be held in Iosco County. Voters of this election will decide on a proposed general obligation bond issue to finance construction of a medical care facility.

A full field of candidates is forecast for the election. The scheduling of poll dates by Governor Swainson was expected to trigger several filings by hopefuls.

According to the schedule filed with county clerks this week, registration records have already been closed for the November 20 election. Those persons who are not registered and wish to vote December 11 have until November 13 to file with township or city clerks.

G. Prescott Out; Myles is Lone Local Candidate

Iosco County Clerk George A. Prescott announced Monday morning that he would not be a candidate to fill the unexpired term of his late uncle, State Sen. Charles T. Prescott.

Prescott, a Republican, had considered running for the senate seat prior to the senator's death and had been mentioned as a possible candidate in the November 20 primary.

"I do not think this is the time for me to be a candidate for the senate," said Prescott. "If I run, it will be during a regular primary election."

His announcement leaves a clear field in Iosco County for George W. Myles, Tawas City businessman, who was the first Republican candidate in the race.

A full field of candidates is forecast for the election and one Lansing news source states that the race may number as many as 14 candidates, although most local observers believe this figure has been over estimated.

Others reported interested in running for the post include Herbert Smith, Roscommon; Harold Hughes, Clare, and Lewis T. Hubbs, GOP constitutional convention delegate from Gladwin.

Orlo J. (Jack) MacMurray, former Tawas resident, announced his candidacy this week. He has lived at Gladwin for the past 10 years where he is an insurance company underwriter.

Myles has a background of a quarter of a century in government and 15 years in business.

He served eight years as superintendent of public works and seven years as mayor of Tawas City. He also served six years on the board of education and on the board of supervisors.

In 1960, Myles was supervisor of census for the 10th Congressional District.

He was a candidate for the 28th Senatorial District seat for the state constitutional convention, losing to Hubbs by a 3,592 to 3,160 margin in the July 25 primary.

ICFWC Supports Supervisors' Plan for Medical Care

Full support and approval to the Iosco County Board of Supervisors in its effort to establish a medical care facility in the county, was given by the Iosco County Federated Women's Clubs Monday night.

The group held its annual meeting at the East Tawas Methodist Church. Eighty-three members were present representing women's clubs throughout the county.

Clarence Everett, chairman of the Iosco Welfare Committee, gave a 15-minute talk on the proposed medical care facility, followed by a question and answer period.

A special election is to be held December 11 at which voters are to decide on the proposed new medical care facility.

Presiding over the meeting was Mrs. Fred Pfahl, past president of the Rural Women's Study Club.

CONSERVATION OFFICER PREDICTS GOOD SEASON

Conservation Officer Arthur Leitz was program speaker during the Tuesday noon Kiwanis lunch-meeting at the Barnes Hotel.

He stated that conservation men expected a good deer season this year and also explained ways to determine the age of a deer. Marvin Davenport made the introductions while Gene Spica was program chairman.

FORMER TA TEACHER ILL

Donald Wallace, former member of the Tawas Area School faculty, is a patient at Grosse Pointe County Community Hospital, Alma. He had been contracted to teach at Houghton Lake this year, but has been unable to do so because of his illness.

IN CASE you have forgotten, a Michigan law requires motorists to stop at least 10 feet to the front and rear of school buses as long as lights are in operation. The reason, notwithstanding the law, is clearly evident in this picture. Police are cracking down on motorists who fail to stop both ways while buses discharge passengers. Turn to page 4 and read about it.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Post Office Hours

Tawas City Postmaster Martin Kasichke announces that hours for Veterans Day, November 11, will be from 8:00 to 10:00 a. m. There will be no rural delivery. There will be regular service Friday, November 10.

Planning Commission Established—

Appointments of Mayor OK'd by TC City Council

An ordinance creating a city planning commission was adopted by the Tawas City Council Monday night. At the same time, the council approved Mayor George Tuttle's appointments to the nine-man body.

Establishment of the commission becomes effective immediately and its first meeting will be held next Monday night. Members will elect a chairman at that time.

Members of the new commission, who would serve without compensation, are as follows:

Steven Ezo, Cecil Lamb and Bruce Myles, one year; Nelson Thornton, Arthur Wendt and Paul Chevis, two years; James Dillon, John St. James and Hugo Keiser, three years.

Adoption of such a commission was urged several weeks ago by the Tawas City Businessmen's Association. At the time, it was pointed out that any community establishing a legal planning commission was eligible to receive state and federal funds in developing a master plan for the community.

1961 Should Go Down as 'Votingist' Year Here

With two special elections to name a successor to Senator Charles T. Prescott, along with the vote on the proposed medical care facility, the year 1961 should go down as the "votingist" year in area history.

The county has already exceeded its $2,000 budget set aside for elections this year. At its last session, the board of supervisors allocated $2,500 for elections in 1962.

Including two election days in November and December, there will have been a total of eight election days here during the past year.

Voting started in February with caucuses and primaries to name city and township candidates. The biennial spring election was held April 3, naming city and township officers, some state officers and justices of the supreme court.

April 3 was also the date for deciding on the question of holding a state constitutional convention. Tawas City electors also voted on a special revolving fund proposal on this date.

School districts held annual elections July 10 to name trustees and Tawas Area School District had a special election on the same day in regard to a bonding proposal.

A primary election was held July 25 to name party candidates for the constitutional convention. On August 24, Tawas Area School District held a special election to vote on a bonding proposal which had been defeated July 10.

A special election was held September 12 to name delegates to the constitutional convention.

In addition to the above duties, the new body would also act as the city zoning commission and would have control of new plats. Establishment of new subdivisions would require approval of the commission.

Machinery for establishment of a zoning commission was created under the old zoning ordinance, but such a group was never established. The council had acted as the zoning board.

City Attorney Cotter stated that establishment of the new planning commission would probably require adoption of a new zoning ordinance.

IVAN CASTAGNIER OPENS NEW BARBER SHOP

Ivan Castagnier opened his new barber shop last week at the former location of his shoe store on US-23, Tawas City.

The new shop will be open five days a week and will be closed Mondays. Customer hours will be from 9:00 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

An announcement by Castagnier appears on page 2 of this issue.

PRIOR to last Thursday's trip, Rodney Meade, county road engineer, bending over at left center, briefs members of the Iosco Board of Supervisors and road commission on a day-long trip around the county. Purpose of the trip was to acquaint those attending with progress on road construction here and to explain what is being planned for the future.—Tawas Herald Photo.

DeWyse and Collier Named All-Conference

Two members of the Tawas Area Braves were named to the all-conference team by coaches of the NEM at the annual meeting here last night. Named to the first team were Guard Randy DeWyse and Fullback Ed Collier. Receiving honorable mention were Halfback Jim Herri-man and End Lewis Werth.

Highway Dept. Says Meeting Not Official

According to a letter from the state highway department, a recent meeting held here was not official nor was there any intent to infer that plans, as discussed by highway representatives, would be a statement as to what the state plans to do in this community with regard to parking on US-23.

John E. Meyer, director of engineering, in a letter to City Attorney Jerry Cotter, said "We thought that if our program of public relations could be extended to the general public through this engineering meeting, any program of traffic control would be more acceptable to the people because they would know the motivating reasons."

His letter was in answer to a communication from the city which was sent to Gov. John B. Swainson. Acting at the request of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association, the city protested removal of parking on US-23.

"For some years, we have been studying ways and means of better explaining to communities where a state trunkline is used as a 'main street' and the public in general, the need for some kind of parking control on that trunkline if additional capacity is required," said Meyer.

"In addition to this explanation of a need for parking control," continued Meyer, "we have felt it was only fair to those communities that this explanation of ultimate need be given in sufficient time—several years, if possible, so that those same communities could develop a thinking toward the formation of an off-street parking policy."

"It is our thinking that if the general public realized the potential danger to the moving public from automobiles maneuvering into or from a street parking position, they would accept our explanation. We thus went to considerable effort to develop good visual aids."

He said that if it was intended to be an official meeting, "there is only one agency we should work with, and that is the mayor and city council."

Meyer indicated that many people had accepted the meeting in accordance with the department's intent. "and I still believe that it is good practice to advise people as far ahead as possible that something might happen if conditions continue to develop at the same rate as they have in the past."

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Read Isaiah 26:1-9; John 14:25-31
My peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. (John 14:27.)

Peace! How we all long and pray for it in this distracted world! For years the cold war has been fomenting hatred, malice and all uncharitableness. Many conferences, attended by leading statesmen of nations, have been held and very little has been accomplished. Armaments are still being piled up, while millions of people are underfed and suffering.

Why all this unrest, this suspicion, this jealousy? It is because nations and individuals do not acknowledge Jesus, the Prince of Peace, as their Lord. They are not willing to submit themselves to His rule, to obey His teaching.

He came to this world to make peace. By His atoning death on the cross, He has made it possible for men to have peace with God—to know the peace of sins forgiven.

en, the peace of reconciliation, the peace of fellowship with God.
The Prince of Peace says to us, as He said to His disciples long ago, "My peace I give unto you."

A correlative citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator" (p. 491).

Communication Important to Industrial Life

Good communication is important to industry, industrialists and industrial location experts explain.

Good communication enables industrial management and workers to know what is going on in their particular field of our industrial complex. It enables them to know, almost the minute it happens, what local, state and national governments are doing that might affect their particular operations. It permits them to keep abreast of expansion and developments in the industry. It tells them what to expect in the days and months ahead. It details weather, economics and other factors which are of significance to industry.

These services are important to the operation of industry, it is pointed out.

It is satisfying to know what our neighbors are doing or what is happening to our "old home town." Our newspapers, daily and weekly, keep Michigan people informed of these happenings in which they have so much interest.

In taking into consideration the advantages Michigan has for industry, our means of communication is given a high rating by those charged with the location of an industry.

Michigan has radio and television which complete an outstanding system of communication in our state.

What a difference a year makes!

If anyone had told him, a short while ago, that his 1961 Cadillac could be improved on—he would have regarded them with disbelief.

And yet, after only half an hour in the newest "car of cars", he knows that a year of Cadillac progress has made a world of difference.

In fact, the list of Cadillac advancements for 1962 embraces each of the great motoring virtues.

For added beauty, there is a lower, longer silhouette . . . greater simplicity and dignity of line . . . and new interior elegance and luxury.

For improved comfort, there is increased spaciousness . . . new convenience of appointments . . . and a ride that is unbelievably quiet and smooth.

For finer performance, there is greater power . . . more responsive handling . . . and a degree of all-around road ableness that is new even to Cadillac.

For increased safety, there is a new dual braking system . . . a new three-phase rear warning light system . . . and new cornering lights that illuminate your way around turns.

And we would like to say that even Cadillac quality has been enhanced for 1962. But the truth is simply that the car continues to be built to the highest standards that can be brought to the production of an automobile.

Stop by your dealer's showroom soon, won't you? He'll be happy to demonstrate to you what a difference a year can make—when the year is this one and the car is Cadillac.

How many times have you gone into a lovely little gift shop to look around?—To let your "mental mouth water"? Before I learned some tricks with a needle and thread I used to do this all the time. I'd walk among the counters, looking at displays. I'd pick up a decorated evening sweater . . . a beautifully worked place mat . . . a hankie edged so delicately, it was hard to imagine the hands that had done it. And then I'd look at the price tags on these delicious items . . . and I'd have to shake my head. For it seemed that special-looking items all had

VERY SPECIAL PRICES

Finally, I decided to look into the possibility of making some of these "specialties" myself. Maybe they wouldn't be as difficult as they looked, I reasoned. Maybe, if I sat down and disciplined myself, I could turn out something that looked just as "special." After some experimentation, I discovered that one of the easiest—as well as one of the most attractive—of the "specialties" was Swedish Weaving. For this boils down to a matter of pulling the tapestry needle through the natural loops of a piece of huck toweling. (Designs will always tell you which side of the toweling to use as guide.) Once you get into the rhythm, you'll find that what emerges as an intricate piece of work—requires little more than threading and "steering" a needle.

You know, it's never easy for a brother or sister to grow up in the shadow of one who is just "a little" older. If you come from a large family yourself, you need only think back a moment to recapture the feelings you had about it. The need you felt to be better at doing something. ## Organized Reserve Units Have Openings

Organized reserve units at the Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile, have openings for navy and coast guard veterans, throughout a wide range of rates. The recent activities of certain reserve units has incurred the need for personnel to fill vacancies in order to maintain the high level of readiness of our naval air reserve forces. Our nation depends upon a strong reserve force, ready in all respects for duty in time of national emergency. At present, there are literally thousands of well qualified naval and coast guard veterans who can again serve their country by joining an organized unit, thereby regaining, retaining and increasing the skills acquired while serving on active duty.

Joining the organized reserve requires only one week-end each month and does not necessarily increase one's chances of recall to active duty. It does, however, allow a person to continue serving his country, work toward advancement and retirement and earn pay for the time expended. Specific information may be obtained by mail, telephone or personal visit to the Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile, Michigan, Information and Recruiting Department. Phone ORLeans 6-3600.

Announce Deadline For USN Training Corps Applicants

Chief Quartermaster Robert C. Marx, navy recruiting officer, reports that high school seniors and graduates have until November 17 to apply for Navy Reserve Training Corps. Applicants will take the nationwide competitive examination December 9 as the first step toward an appointment as midshipman. All tuition, fees and books for a civilian college of a young man's choice are furnished by the navy and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for not more than four years. High school seniors and graduates who have reached the age of 17 and have not reached the age of 21 on July 1, 1962, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be given a rigid physical exam early in 1962. Application forms and additional information are available at high schools or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington 25, D. C., or from the Navy Recruiting Station, East Tawas.

NEW PLATES GO ON SALE IN MICHIGAN

Sparkling new green on white license plates for Michigan motorists are now on sale throughout the state. Secretary of State James M. Hare loaned an able hand to Mrs. Alice Anderson to help display the new plates. Mrs. Anderson is manager of the new branch office at Lansing. Mr. Hare urged motorists to get their license plates early, taking advantage of the nice weather and the lack of crowds at branch offices. "The deadline days," Mr. Hare said, "when the latecomers make the lines block long, are in the coldest part of the entire year. Get your plates early and avoid having to stand out in the snow for hours."

Most Farm Fire Deaths Occur in October thru March

About 85 percent of all farm fire deaths in rural homes occur from October through March. "Surveys show that defective heating equipment is associated with about 46 percent of all home fire deaths," according to Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer. "About 90 percent of these deaths happen between 8:00 p. m. and 8:00 a. m."

Pfister recommends having a competent service man check equipment unless you thoroughly understand it. He may determine whether safety devices such as shut-off and high-and-low limit controls work properly.

"There's trouble ahead when you try to make a stove heat a larger area than it is capable of handling," the engineer adds. "The manufacturer's manual indicates a stove's normal heating capacity." The chimney can cause trouble, too, Pfister stresses the need to clean it regularly and check to see that the flue lining is sound. It is also important to check for loose mortar, especially near the roof line. Vibration of TV aerials attached to a chimney frequently loosens mortar.

"Be sure to keep flammable materials away from heaters, pipes and chimney connectors," the engineer warns. "As the stove pipe leaves the stove, the first three feet of it shouldn't come less than 18 inches from combustible materials."

On partly-filled fuel storage tanks water often condenses on the inside and settles to the bottom. This moisture then leads to corrosion of the tank as well as the burner unit. Keeping the tank at least half full tends to reduce condensation.

It is essential to have the first-stage regulator outdoors on a liquid petroleum (LP) gas installation, according to Pfister. Service men should check an LP-gas storage system whenever cylinders are replaced.

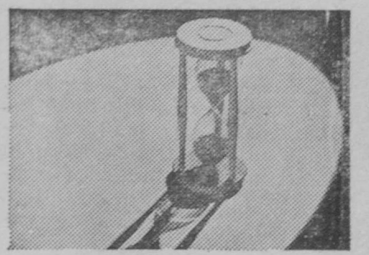

One dangerous type of mishap happens when furnace motors burn out. Pfister suggests three preventive steps. "First, clean or replace furnace filters often.

"Second, lubricate the fan assembly and motor regularly. The fan requires oiling more often than the motor.

"Third, use a time-delay fuse to protect the motor from overheating. This fuse should be one and one-fourth times as large as the rated amperage of the motor nameplate."
