Summer's "dog days" slow the pace of fishing but where there's a will to seek out those big ones, there's a way. Fishermen in the "know"--after picking a likely area--use thermometers to locate water temperatures preferred by fish. In fishing rainbow, brown, and brook trout, thermometers are lowered to the lake bottom for a reading. Angling for these trout is generally best where the bottom temperature is 50-55° Fahrenheit. If the bottom temperature is colder than 50°, you should move closer to shore; if not the cold water is a decrease of the solution temperature is colder than 50°, temperature is colder than 50°, you should move closer to shore; if not that cold, move into deeper water. Another way, used mostly on non-trout species, is to lower thermometers to the desired fishing depth, rather than to the bottom. In this case, the suggested temperatures for best fishing results are: largemouth bass, 70-75°; smallmouth bass, northern pike and muskellunge, 65-70°; lake trout, 55-60°; yellow perch 60-65° (65-70° in shallow lakes); bluegill, 65-70° at 10 to 20 feet of depth. At dusk, bluegills come up to 75° or even warmer water.--Mich. Dept. of Conservation

FULL HOUSEPOWER

AND PLENTY OF OUTLETS TO PROVIDE FOR MODERN LIVING

Did you know that today the average home uses 3 times as much Electricity as it did 15 years ago! As a result 4 out of 5 homes today suffer from low Housepower—not enough wiring, switches and outlets. Outdated, inadequate wiring cannot carry the Electricity needed for modern appliances to work all at once at top efficiency. Symptoms of low Housepower are: 1. "Octopus" outlets . . . double sockets plugged into double sockets.

2. TV picture shrinks when another appliance is turned on.

3. Fuses blow from time to time. 4. Lights flicker or dim when appliances go on. Every appliance you buy today is for one purpose . . . better living for your whole family. And you can depend on peak performance from all your wonderful Electric appliances when your home has Full Housepower.

How Super Shell's 9 ingredients can give cars top performance

POWER INGREDIENT in Super Shell works for world champion driver Phil Hill (above, in Ferrari racer). Hill, first American to win the World Championship for Drivers, relies on Super Shell. One important reason: power. Today's Super Shell contains "cat-cracked" gasoline—a power ingredient made by cracking heavier petroleum molecules into lighter, livelier ones. It works to give you the power you need for top performance.

NOISE-FIGHTING INGREDIENTS in Super Shell work for a quiet engine at all speeds. Shell scientists even use a stethoscope (above) to check effect of Super Shell's anti-knock ingredients. One of these ingredients, an anti-knock mix, is so effective that a teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating five points. Alkylate, another Super Shell ingredient, is noted for controlling knock in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

MILEAGE INGREDIENT in Super Shell is Platformate. Shell scientists test it in many cars, many places. In a recent test in San Francisco (above), exactly 250 cc. (about half a pint) of fuel without Platformate was fed into test car. Car ran until fuel was used up, then coasted to a stop (left). Distance: 6186 feet. Test was repeated, using same blend of fuel with Platformate added. Same amount of fuel. Same car. Same conditions. In this test, Super Shell with Platformate took car 6454 feet (right), gave a mileage bonus of 4.3 percent.

TCP* AND FOUR OTHER INGREDIENTS complete Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend. TCP additive can help restore power lost due to combustion deposits—can also extend spark plug life. Butane is for quick starts. Pentane mix helps engines run smoothly during "warm-up." The gum preventive ingredient is to help keep carburetors clean inside. And, when the weather calls for it, Super Shell contains an antiicer. That's nine ingredients in Super Shell-scientifically blended to give your car top performance.

Hear Boys-Girls State Reports

Glenn Staley Post No. 422, American Legion, and its ladies auxiliary heard Boys State reports by Wayne Taylor and John Heilman and Sandra Peters' Girls State report following their potluck supper Wednesday evening. The organizations sponsored their attendance at these events which are designed to teach the youths the fundamentals of government.

The group also heard an address by a Lansing school superintendent who pointed out that ndividuals should be thankful to live in the United States in his discussion of Russia, a country which he had toured.

After his talk, the post and auxiliary business sessions were conducted. Mrs. Bessie Gortner, president, gave her report on the state convention. The auxiliary received a trophy for community

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

High fashion—as we read about it in magazines, see it in stores, and, most important of all, wear it on ourselves boils down to several basic ingredients. Probably the first ones that come to mind are the lines, or the shape, of the garment. If the empire shape is "in," we think people are fashionable whose clothes have high waisted lines. Or, if the chemise is in current vogue, one is stylish if her dresses have no waist at all.

TEXTURE—A VITAL INGREDIENT

But even though "lines" are the first things one thinks of, a little reflec-tion will indicate that they're not the whole fashion story. Several other basic ingredients are vital to the fashion recipe-not the least important of which is something known as "texture." "Texture," as a style principle, has only recently loomed large the fashion scene. Why? Because, in former times, it couldn't have existed. Our forefathers knew of only a limited number of raw fibers and their knowledge of mafor processing and refining them was even more limited. Through modern science, however, this situation has been radically changed. Scientists have developed many new fibers and even more new machines-which can weave these fibers in most interesting and imaginative ways. The result: a medium through which fashion can express a new idea of beauty.

TEXTURED ELEGANCE

Needlecraft, which is always quick to accommodate itself to any beautiful fashion principle, was quick to grasp the possibili-ties of this one. And the item that we're featuring today is a perfect example of what happened when our designers turned all their imagination to the task of creating textures that would be truly original and elegant. They did it by crocheting this sweater, instead of knitting it in the usual way. The result is a lovely latticed effect that combines geometric simplicity with lacy elegance. More striking effects are achieved by weaving in strips of yarn to form designs on the body and front of the sweater. This delightful confection is then sprinkled with a gay toppingin the form of assorted colored buttons. I'm sure that after one look you'd like to have such a sweater for your very own, so why not drop your request for free instruction Leaflet No. PC-9326 in the mail today. Address your request to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper and be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed

It's said that you can't tell a book by its cover. By the same I token, you usually can't tell much about a man just by looking at the clothes he wears. However, if the gentleman in question turns up in a hand made sweater like this one, you will be able to draw a few valid conclusions. First of all, there must be a woman in his life-a talented woman who is skilled in needlework and who understands the satisfaction that results from fashioning gifts for those she loves. This woman knows from experience that the gifts she has given not only made others happy but have added a generous measure of happiness to her own life. This handsome knitted cardigan must have been a gift from just such a woman.

STRIKING CONTRAST Experienced knitters will be interested in the construction of this oneinstead of starting at the bottom cuff as usual, the first row is found at the side seam. It's made this way for purposes of contrast-now the horizontal direction of the rib contrasts strikingly with the bold vertical stripes. It's knitted with bulky yarn so that even the most inexperienced needlecrafter will see the sweater assuming its handsome shape quickly and

EASY ON THE BUDGET

This bulky cardigan combines style and comfort so I can guarantee that you'll have no trouble locating a grateful recipient for this good looking gift. "His" thrill in receiving such a gift will be matched only by your satisfaction in making it. And since you made it yourself, you can give a really "special" gift without putting too great a strain on the family budget. Instructions for the sweater are yours, free of charge, on Leaflet No. C-422. For your copy, just mail a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper.

City Goes Modern; Hitching Posts to Go

Last hitching posts in Tawas City are to be removed along Whittemore Street in order to facilitate the parking of autos. Both sides of the street are to be leveled and surfaced.

The hitching posts had not been used in years. Members of the city council feel that it would be well to preserve them as a memento of the horse and buggy era. They are to be placed in the city park.

piration and fun for all. The program this year featured a meat cutting demonstration by Everett Freeland of IGA food stores. He pointed out that the word "choice" by itself means nothing, it must say "USDA Choice" to assure that quality grade. Most ground beef today is 80 percent lean and 20 percent fat, and probably as much as 90 percent of it is made from imported beef coming from Australia, Borneo and other countries. Tip for the family needing to serve a large amount of meat inexpensively is get a boneless chuck. This can be a large piece for spit roasting, fine for large group feeding.

Roberta Hershey, extension oods specialist from Michigan State University, presented "Bits and Pieces" about foods and nutrition and recommended to all the folder titled, "Believe It Or Not" (available at the Iosco Extension Service Office).
