Make Plans for largo Scout Finance Drive

Plans were made last week to hold a fund-raising campaign in December to finance scouting in this area. For the coming year, it is estimated that $2,000 will meet the needs of five Tawas area units and pay the area's fair share of camp and council expenses.

This decision was reached last Tuesday night at a meeting of Midland and Tawas area scout

The local troop problem was explained by Richard Powers, Iargo District commissioner, and Judge Allan Miller, Iargo District chairman. Donald Griffin of Midland, general finance chairman of the Paul Bunyan Council, presented the over-all fund needs and the formula of spreading council costs over the participating counties on a per scout basis.

Harold Gould, Iargo finance chairman, who presided over the meeting, pointed out that the very fact that local units are active apparently makes raising money more difficult because of the variety of fund-raising ef-

OPERATION TELEPHONE!

Doctors will soon be able to transmit medical data direct from a patient's body to remote recording instruments anywhere in the country-by telephone. It'll be possible with special DATA-PHONE sets, now under development at the Bell Telephone Laboratories. Transmissions of x-rays and electrocardiograms by telephone have already been tested successfully. Termed a major advance in medical communications, this system means, for example, that consulting specialists in distant cities could receive instant data on a patient's heart performance-even during an actual operation.

TAKE A TURKEY with all the trimmings, add the family 'round the table, and what do you have? A Happy Thanksgiving! But even if someone in the family can't be with you, there's one sure way to keep the day joyful. A Long Distance telephone call, of course. It's the next best thing to being together . . . spreads holiday cheer at both ends of the line. Rates are lower all Thanksgiving Day and, on calls within Michigan, lowest after 9 p.m. when you can call any place within the state for 50 cents or less, excluding taxes.

DOWN WITH RUST! Michigan Bell has recently developed a new rustproofing method for its 4,600 trucks and cars. The new method is designed to prevent car rust caused by corrosives used on icy streets. Developed by our motor equipment maintenance people, the process uses a new protective coating on metal surfaces and is expected to save $40,000 a year in the operation of our motor fleet. It's another Michigan Bell cost-cutting technique that helps us keep the price of tele-

Needlecraft Newsc

by Nancy

NE of the things I've noticed — with pleasure, may I add about my homemaking friends, is the way they've managed to add ingenious personal touches to their homes, their wardrobes, to almost everything, for that matter. Clever women - they are who realize just how many things can be enhanced by the addition of distinctive individual touches. In wreaking such transformations, there are countless Needlecraft paths that are quick, easy, and economical to follow. The one represented by the picture at the right, for example, leads to one of the most delightful and festive Christmas table decorations you ever saw.

CROCHET SOME HOLIDAY CHEER The three little figures are actually glass jackets

-crocheted with the spirit of Christmas in every stitch. It might be fun to make all three designs -Christmas trees, snowmen, and Santas; or to select your favorite and repeat the theme throughout the table setting. After the party's over, your guests can take them home as souvenirs of the occasion. And, although selfishness is not in keeping with the holiday spirit, we're sure that you'll be forgiven if you decide to secret them away until next Christmas.

QUICK AND SIMPLE The best thing about these glass jackets is the speed and simplicity with which they can be made. They're crocheted in the elementary single crochet stitch and since knitting worsted is used, you'll find that they work up in no time at all. After the crochet work, just garnish them with sequins and other decorative trims. I can't think of a more delightful way to capture the gay spirit of this holiday. Neither will you, I'm sure, after just one look. So why not write today for your copy of Leaflet No. PC 1798? It contains instructions for all three designs and it's yours, free of charge. Simply mail your request and a stamped, self addressed envelope to the Needlework Editor of this neswpaper.

THE frantic pace of contemporary society has given rise to a L variety of calming remedies. Tranquilizers are in frequent use; relaxing exercises are often prescribed; and countless magazine articles reveal "the only way" to achieve true peace of mind. Research, too, has been at work on the subject and has uncovered some rather pertinent facts about what makes women nervous and what they do about it.

Happily for you, research indicates that one of the most effective calmer-downers is one that happens to have a host of favorable side effects. I'm speaking of needlecraft of all kinds — a pastime that is gratifying, economical, and the only one that gives women something positive to show for their relaxing. Needlecraft, in other words, is a therapy which contributes to the enjoyment of living in a constructive way. It enables you to add ingenious little touches to both your home and wardrobe, and to create distinctive gifts for friends or relatives.

FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON ...

At this time of year, the above facts about the needlecraft arts become particularly pertinent. The Christmas season is coming up and it won't be long before you've compiled your list and are puzzling over what to give each person on it. Why not consider the three pairs of socks pictured here? With just a little knowledge of knitting, you can make a truly meaningful gift for one of the men on your list. At the same time, your knitting will provide a soothing respite from the harried preparations of the Christmas season. eaflet No. C-113, which we're offering free of charge, includes instructions for making all three pairs. Look them over and decide which one best suits the man in your life. Once you see how simple and enjoyable it is to make them, you'll want to begin the other two pairs as well. For your free copy, just send a stamped, self addressed envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper.

THEY'VE ALWAYS BEEN TOUGH BUT NEVER STRONGER THAN NOW!

You can be sure that new engines, frames, suspensions that licked Mexico's Baja* Run will work for you long, faithfully and at traditionally low Chevrolet cost.

A Chevrolet truck has always been a sound investment because of its quality construction. This is what makes it give you an honest day's work every day at very low cost and—when you are finished with it return more resale money to your happy pocket.

This year stronger frames, engines that can pull more, and practically tailor-made suspension systems make Chevrolet trucks a better buy than ever. If you're in the market now, we'd welcome the chance to tell you about, and let you drive, the new trucks. Just give us a call.

POTENT MEDICINE AGAINST SHIPPING FEVER

cattle arrive. Use them to prevent shipping dress them right over the first feed when cattle fever...or treat if it has already hit.

These Crumbles are what a medicine should be. They carry the full power of Terramycin in them.

Terramycin® is the broad-range antibiotic that fights as many kinds of germs as any of today's antibiotics or drugs possibly can.

It is the two-way treatment that fights disease from both sides of the infection-in the digestive tract . . . and through the blood to other parts of the body as well.

And that is just what you need against shipping fever . . . a complicated problem that takes a hard-working treatment to lick.

You also get high levels of vitamins A and D. That's extra important because cattle coming into feedlot may be deficient in vitamin A. These high levels build up supplies and help cattle go on to good gains.

Jeffrey climbs to the top of his feed holding tank. The auger arrangement takes feed up and in automatically.

M any cattle feeders would like to have plans for the "ideal" system for feeding cattle, but experience has shown that the feedlot must be built to fit each farm.

"You need to spend two-thirds of your time planning and one-third of your time building a feedlot," says

M. L. Mumgaard, agricultural engineer at the University of Nebraska, who has helped design many feedlots.

Take the feedlot on the Louis Jeffrey farm north of Waverly, Nebraska. Jeffrey decided to feed cattle so he called in Mumgaard and Allen Boettcher, Lancaster County (Nebraska) Extension Agent.

Jeffrey used some ingenuity in developing the self-feeder. He started out by dumping a load of sand on the concrete floor. He molded it into a cone, something like an inverted ice cream cone. Then, he poured concrete on top and fashioned a manger around the outside at the bottom. A discarded water tank served as a form for the circular manger. After the cement hardened, an old grain storage bin was placed on top with the inverted cone in the center. Mixed feed is then augered from the nearby grain storage unit to the top of the storage bin. As the cattle eat the feed, the mixed grain falls down

PLACE FOR

"We've had a little trouble with wet corn sticking inside, but on such occasions we just go up and push it down with a hoe," said Jeffrey.

The large self-feeder holds enough grain so that Jeffrey has to grind only twice a week for the 170 head now on feed. The feed mixing and grinding operation is com-

"We discussed building a unit that would supply the exact amount of hay needed in the ration, but it seemed too complicated," Jeffrey said. "After mixing feed a few times, we found that if a man put in as much hay as possible, it would be about the right amount."

Supplement, corn and milo flow into the grinder from overhead bins equipped with sloping floors. Jeffrey was feeding corn and milo last winter, but is now feeding just corn in the mixture with supplement and alfalfa hav. After grinding, the feed mixture is augered right to the self-feeder through an overhead pipe.

$600 Self-Feeder

"We don't have a fancy feeding set-up here, but it works and it only cost us about $600," Jeffrey said. "We buy plain cattle and the last lot gained about three pounds

Before considering the feedlot itself, you should have a sketch of the farmstead. It should show actual dimensions, topography, drainage, permanent buildings and fences, utilities such as electricity, water, sewage and gas, drives to fields and pastures, number of livestock.

After deciding on the actual number of livestock you want to feed, you need to determine shelter and lot space needs. In general, the following requirements are necessary for various types of feedlot conditions: (1) good drainage, unsurfaced — 200 to 300 square feet per animal; (2) average drainage, unsurfaced — 300 to 400 square feet per animal; (3) concreted — 50 to 70 square feet per animal; (4) slope concreted - 2 to 4 feet per 100 feet away from farmstead to get adequate drainage

Alleys in the feedlot should be at least 12 feet wide, while main alleys with heavy traffic should be 16 feet wide. Alleys should be all weather with concrete or heavy

Next, decide on the amounts and kinds of feeds you plan to use. Once the requirements are known, a decision must be made on the form in which various kinds of feed will be stored and the area needed. In regard to feed storage, you will need to consider type, size, location, processing and delivery.

Feeder and bunk space will vary depending on the feeding program. Here are the space requirements: self-feeding grain only — 3 to 4 inches of feeder per head; self-feeding silo or free access hay and silage - 4 to 6 inches of manger per head; not self-fed (hay, silage, grain) — 20 to 24 inches per animal. An automatic heated waterer can handle 80 head per foot of trough.

Shade should also be provided. Cattle should be supplied with 20 to 40 square feet per animal. Build it 10 to 12 feet high. A north-south orientation of the long axis permits sun-drying under shade, Mumgaard points out.

There are three main ways of feeding: mechanical bunk, self-unloading wagon and self-feeder. The system you choose may depend somewhat on the types of feeds you plan to use and equipment already available.

Finally, you need to consider bedding, storage and manure handling and livestock handling facilities. These also are important in developing an efficient feedlot.

Spice cookery is fun—and with a little bit of imagination—and know-how you can become an artist at seasoning.

If you lack a working knowledge of the many herbs and spices available on today's supermarket shelves or even on your kitchen spice rack, start by experimenting with a new one each week. Be bold and try out their culinary possibilities until you can use them with confidence. The result will be delightful!

With cold weather ahead you'll naturally think of soups, hearty stews and one dish meals. Make a bouquet garni to flavor foods such as these. All you have to do is tie sprigs of celery, parsley, a bay leaf into a square of cheesecloth and toss into the kettle; remove after cooking. Other herbs, and vegetables, such as leek, fennel, marjoram and tarragon can also be used.

Be cautious with strong herbs and spices. Remember you can always add more. Generally figure ¼ teaspoon of dried herbs for each 4 servings. This is equal to the "pinch" so often recommended in grandmother's recipes. Be especially careful with seasonings such as bay leaf, sage or garlic.

When adding herbs to a recipe the real trick is in getting quick flavor release. This is easily done by crushing the measured amount of herb in the palm of one hand with the fingertips of the other hand before tossing it in the kettle.

Many recipes calling for spices and herbs are best if made as far ahead of the serving time as possible. Uncooked foods such as salad dressings, fruits and juices need time for, as the French would say, the flavors to "marry." Try to cook the day before anything with multiple spices, herbs or onions. It's twice as good the second day!

The selection of spices and herbs is limitless and a food may be complimented by many. A wise cook is selective, however. Unless you are following a tested recipe, do not combine too many spices at one time. Spices are like accessories—too many rob the main attraction. Also, one herb course is plenty. A meal in which every dish is spiced is a culinary catastrophe!

You and your family be the judge! The correct herb or spice, or combination for any food is the one that tastes right to you. Remember that seasoning is not a science but an expressive art—and you are the artist. When experimenting with a new herb. crush some of it and let it warm in your hand; then sniff it and taste it. If it is delicate, you can be bold and adventurous. If it is very strong and pungent, be cautious.

New trimmings to the Turkey

This year, if you want to serve the plumpest, most tender and juiciest turkey ever, try one of most tender and juiciest turkey ever, try one of the foil roasting methods.

If you traditionally cover your turkey with a butter-soaked cloth, try using a cover of foil instead. It does the job perfectly, and virtually eliminates the need for basting.

For this fix-and-forget-it turkey, place the prepared bird, greased with butter or oil and seasoned, breast-side up on a rack in a shallow pan. Tear off a piece of aluminum foil 3 to 4 inches Tear off a piece of aluminum foil 3 to 4 inches longer than the bird; fold it in half lengthwise to make a tent. Place over bird, add no water. Roast in a 325° oven. Allow 4-5 hours for an 8-12 lb. turkey; 5-6 hours for a 12-15 lb. bird.

A complete covering of foil will make the tur-key even more moist and tender. For this, 2 lengths of foil are joined in a tight double fold. Then the prepared fowl is securely wrapped in its foil "blanket," placed on a rack in a shallow pan, and roasted in a 425° oven. An 8-12 lb. bird will be done in 3-3% hours; a 12-15 lb. bird in 4-4½ hours. (Add 3-5 minutes per pound for stuffed birds). The foil is opened and pushed down around the bird for the last 45 minutes of roasting time. Allow the turkey to "set" a few minutes before carving.

These foil methods are excellent for roasting wild duck or game that have a tendency to dry out. If your traditional Thanksgiving meat is wild duck, here's an excellent, moist stuffing that adapts to turkey or chicken, too.

PORK AND BEAN STUFFING

  44 cup minced onion
  45 cup chopped celery

thyme, a dash of nutmeg. Add enough dry bread crumbs to make desired consistency. 4 cups.

FROZEN CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH

2 navel oranges 1 lb. fresh cranberries (4 cups) 2 cups sugar

Wash oranges, cut in eighths. Remove seeds. Put oranges, including rind, and cranberries through coarse blade of food chopper. Stir in sugar, blend thoroughly and chill.

Tear off 12 6-inch pieces of 12-inch foil; fold each piece in half, making 6-inch squares. Fit squares into muffin cups; fold excess foil down to form edge. Fill foil cups with Relish (about % cup). (Put remaining relish into freezer container for later use.) Place muffin pans in freezer several hours, until frozen. Remove foil cups from muffin pans; wrap cups completely in foil; return to freezer. Unwrap and thaw just before serving. Makes about 5 full cups.

Combine first three ingredients and season to taste. Butter six slices, spread with turkey filling; place slice of bread on top. Makes 6 sandwiches.
Enjoy this "different" turkey sandwich weeks after the holidays — wrap in foil and freeze for snacks or lunchboxes.

FIESTAS

Saute onion, green pepper in butter until soft. Add chicken, tomato paste, olives, sauce and spices; simmer 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Fill buns generously with mixture. Place each bun on square of foil; bring up foil in boat around bun. Place on broiler; broil 5-10 min. until lightly browned. Or, early in day, prepare filling, cool. Fill buns; completely wrap each in foil. Refrigerate. At serving time, place packages in oven; back 15 min at 400° bake 15 min. at 400°.

DAY-LATE TURKEY DINNER

If your family wants a repeat of the delicious holiday meal, you can reheat the turkey and dressing in a foil wrap. The meat remains moist and flavorful, and there's no need to heat the entire bird. What's more, no extra baking dishes are necessary.

Wrap individual servings of leftover stuffing, topped with a slice of leftover turkey in a square of foil; double-fold top and ends. Place packages on baking sheet. Bake 20-25 min. in 350° oven. Heat leftover gravy; serve over turkey in opened foil packages.

°For week-late turkey dinners, you can freeze these individual portions. (Yes, you can freeze meat that has been frozen before—if it is the first freezing for cooked meat, it is perfectly safe. Just don't let the meat set out at room temperature. Cool quickly after cooking). Bake frozen individual servings 40-45 min. at 350°

This easy-fix turkey is roasted in foil to be extra moist, tender, Cranberry orange relish freezes ahead.

How to repeat a wonderful meal: wrap and bake in foil.

Give the gift of good food

Few things can compare with a sampling of homemade sweets from a neighbor, a friend or "from home." It's a gift which requires no "exchange", because it's a gift of love and time and talent. Gifts of good foods like these, for instance, are priceless with sentiment!

HOLIDAY TREATS

½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
½ cup orange juice
2½ cups finely crushed vanilla wafers
(about 5 dozen)
1 cup walnuts, finely chopped

Melt morsels over hot, not boiling, water. Remove from heat. Stir in sugar and syrup. Blend in orange juice. Combine crushed wafers and walnuts; add to chocolate mixture and mix well. Form into 1-inch balls. Roll in sugar or coconut.

Let ripen in covered container at least several days. Makes approximately 4½ dozen.

Gift idea: because Holiday Treats will keep three to four weeks in a tightly-covered container, why not make a gift box that stores these sweets? Let them show off through a pretty but tight-lidded glass jar—or in decorated coffee cans. You'll need glue to paste on the Christmas wrapping paper, felt or wallpaper that turns the coffee can into a candy box. Then the whimsies like ribbons, lace, baubles and beads are up to you and your sewing basket. It's such a fun idea, why not take two-pound coffee cans and redecorate them to hold more Christmas cookies!

has he drawn up his special stool or chair and plunged his hands full force into your flour?

Here are a few suggestions: If you are baking cookies, let your preschooler get out the bowls, measuring cups and cookie sheets. When you are ready to add the last chocolate morsels or nuts, he will love stirring them into the dough—while you grease the baking sheets.

How about making sugar cookies and letting your young one decorate them with egg yolk paint? Mix one egg yolk with % teaspoon water and pour into two small custard cups. Add his favorite food coloring. Using his imagination and two small paint brushes, he can paint a decorative topping. If more colors are desired, use more of the egg yolk mixture.

Every child loves gingerbread boys. Prepare a stiff gingerbread dough and cut out gingerbread boys with a cutter or free hand. For other shapes, try some simple ones from a coloring book, transferring the design to cardboard and using a sharp knife to cut the dough. Before baking the cookies, let your smallfry decorate them. Put cupcake papers or custard cups of raisins, cinnamon hearts or silver shots and shakers of colored sugar on the kitchen table for him to work with in creating his own designs.

If you have made brownies, let the children turn them into "browniewiches" by dividing the brownies through the middle. Let them place a chocolate mint between the halves and put the "browniewiches" into a warm oven a few minutes to melt the chocolate.

How about letting your kitchen helper make fruit flavored gelatin? After it has been mixed, it can be poured into paper cups instead of molds. Let him choose his favorite fruits to drop in and pop the gelatin into the refrigerator. Paper cup salad is perfect for indoor picnicking.

Your preschooler may enjoy preparing after-school snacks for his older brothers or sisters. Have you tried Banana-Chocolate Lollipops? Have him peel 6 bananas and spear each one with a wooden skewer. Dip in melted chocolate morsels and place in the freezing compartment until the chocolate is firm.

Party Milk Shakes will be taste tempters for the after school crowd and will delight the youngest in their ease of preparation. Blend crushed fruit or fruit juice, chocolate syrup or other flavoring into milk. Chill and serve with a colored straw. A fancy eggnog can be made, too, by adding a well beaten egg to milk and then a touch of vanilla. Topping the drink with a sprinkle of nutmeg will add just the festive touch.

If your children like to munch while watching television, and what child doesn't, try Parmesan Munchies. Melt 5 tablespoons butter in a heavy skillet. Remove from heat and add 5 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Add ½ box dry cereal (4 cups); sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt and stir.

Dry cereal can also be used to form balls for delectable eating. The children will enjoy making them. If they prefer, they can make tree shapes by putting the mixture into greased paper cone shaped cups. Insert skewers for the 'runks of trees. When the mixture is cool, remove the paper cups and roll the tree cones in tiny candies or green colored sugar.

Push skewer into a marshmallow or a thick apple slice to make them stand up. To make the mixture to hold the "trees" together, melt ¼ cup butter and ½ pound marshmallows over low heat until syrupy. Put 4 cups dry cereal in a buttered bowl and stir briskly.

A fudge, which the children can make with a minimum of direction, is called Magic Marshmallow Melties. In a saucepan, let your helper mix one 5 to 10-ounce jar of marshmallow cream; % cup evaporated milk; ¼ cup butter; 1½ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Now you take over and bring this mixture to a full boil, stirring constantly.

Then remove the pan from the heat and let your child pour in one 12-ounce package of semi-sweet morsels, while you stir. When the chocolate is melted, add 1 teaspoon of peppermint extract and ½ cup chopped California walnuts. Pour this mixture into the 8-inch square pan which junior has buttered and let him supervise the chilling of the fudge until it's firm and ready for him to serve.

An older child would delight in making Zebra Pudding. In separate pans prepare one package of vanilla instant pudding and one package of chocolate instant pudding. Use the directions on the package. Let your youngster spoon a little of each into fruit juice glasses; one layer on top of the other — so the pudding is in stripes.

Any smallfry will delight in serving Cherry Lemonade to his friends as a special treat. Put one six-ounce can of frozen lemonade and one package of cherry flavored soft drink crystals in a large pitcher. Add 1½ quarts of water and ice cubes and mix well.

There are many things that even your youngest can help you do while you're getting food ready for the holidays. Making Barbecued Walnut Snacks can be a joint affair. While you preheat the oven to 400 and melt 2 tablespoons of butter, the young helper can mix ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon catsup, 2 dashes tabasco, 2 teaspoons salt and 4 cups California walnuts.

Pour the melted butter over; place in a glass baking dish and into the oven for 20 minutes. Stir the walnut mixture as often as junior says. When the time is up, turn the mixture onto paper toweling. The Walnuts Snacks are good hot or cold; holiday season or anytime.
