referendum indicates that farmers do not believe government control programs are the answer," said the Michigan Farm Bureau in a statement issued Friday.

NUMBER 36

A Michigan Farm Bureau spokesman pointed out that, "With an estimated 40,000 eligible to vote in Michigan, only about one out of eight bothered to go to the polls.

"Only 3,000 out of 40,000 believed enough in the marketing quota program with higher price supports to vote for it.

"In 1961, about 5,000 Michigan wheat farmers voted for marketing quotas, but this year the number had fallen to 3,000.

"The vote is further evidence that farmers do not believe in a government controlled and subsidized agriculture. It repudiates the recent vote on the farm bill by Michigan's . Senators Hart and McNamara."

changing vacation habits and are proudly promoting this fact. While many in Michigan are doing an outstanding job, there are many that are not. Unless changes are made soon, the trend will continue to give us vacancies at many of our resorts in the summer months. These changes are real and are here today; they must be met. We have too much invested in our resorts not to fight back. We all should be interested because, when the resorts are not filled, the local stores, shops and entertainment spots are not doing the business either. We have got the natural attractions in abundance. We must adjust our man-made facilities and our human hosting abilities if we are to continue as a major tourist state.
