To the Voters of losco County:

Thank you for nominating me for the Office of Judge of Probate.

I have already given much thought to the way I will handle the duties of the Court, particularly with respect to matters involving children, if I am elected Judge of Probate on November 3rd, and I will be happy for the opportunity to discuss those thoughts and plans with individuals or groups.

HELLO YOUNG SEWERS . . . let's get to know each other. Many of you know your sewing from "A-line" to "Zipper", while others are just learning your bias from your selvage. This column is for all of you, experienced and novice alike.

I don't plan to give you stitch-by-stitch sewing lessons but I do hope to help you make your clothes look just a little bit more professional, to be more creative and imaginative with style and fabric, and to pass along to you the "extras" I've learned by sewing everything from coats to bathing suits . . . AND . . . loving every minute of it!

SEEING YOU IN A PATTERN I've chosen this "take-you-anywhere-anytime" pattern to illustrate what I consider the most important thing in sewing; the ability to look at a pattern and see all its possibilities. This, to me, is more important than the technical aspects of sewing. Certainly, a well-placed dart or a carefully lined skirt will make your clothes tailored perie ly to your every inch . . . but to get that custommade, origina. wardrobe that sewing entitles you to . . . adapt every pattern to you.

24 HOUR FASHION As a perfect example of the effects you can achieve with one style. take the two chic young ladies shown here. They're both wearing Simplicity pattern 5660 . . . each is simple to do, yet are wonderfully different fashions. The bright tweed jumper, with its deep sleevelessness (very new, this year) and plunging V-neck will put you right at the head of your fashion class. The same pattern, done in a delicate, pastel wool with neck insert and easy, graceful sleeves, becomes a perfect date dress. You could even do it in a wide-wale corduroy for very special weekends and wear it unbelted with a bulky turtle neck sweater and thickly ribbed woolen stockings. It's the elegant look in sportswear! TRY EXPERIMENTING Although this is a perfectly simple pattern to follow, with no waistline and only two front darts, let's give a little bit of extra thought to the collar. It might be just the right thing for trying an iron-on interfacing. This type is especially for collars, pockets, waistbands or any small detail area. It is easily applied to the fabric with a dry iron, in a matter of seconds, and is fused directly to the under collar. Using this kind of interfacing in these areas gives a smooth professional touch and adds the proper shaping while it doesn't change the character of your fabric. Incidentally, if you're using an airy, open-weave woolen, such as mohair . . .

there is nothing better than the non-woven "iron-ons." BASIC NECESSITIES

As miraculous as today's sewing machines are with their "tunein-your-favorite-stitch" features, it's still absolutely necessary to choose the right thread, needle and tension for the fabric with which you are working. For example, woolen suiting and tweeds such as those used in today's pattern, need heavy duty mercerized thread ... one shade darker than the fabric ... and a coarse needle, sewing approximately 8 stitches per inch. To help you in making the right selections, there is a free leaflet available which contains complete information on thread, needles, sewing machines and correct pressure and tension. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Sewing Editor of this newspaper along with your request for "How to Choose the Right Thread".

LET ME HEAR FROM YOU

sized plaids. If, in the meantime, there is anything special you would like to know, suggest, or share with your sister-sewers, please do write ... I'd be delighted to hear from you!

Soon, we'll be talking about such things as working with cotton suede and velveteen, buttonholes and the matching of big, bold over-

TO ALL THOSE WHO EXPRESSED THEIR CONFIDENCE IN ME, MY WARMEST THANKS AND APPRECIATION.

Hundreds of folks in the Tawas area have already signed up for Gas.

[And it's not too early to join them.]

Even though it's only September, it's the right time to think about Gas heat ... before the first frost comes.

How come people are signing up for Gas as fast as they can?

For one thing, they know they'll save up to one-third the cost of oil when they heat with Gas. And for another, they know Gas is dependable and they won't have to worry about running out of fuel. And that Gas is clean. And gives such a steady, even heat. No drafts.

Sign up now and convert your furnace so that you start getting the benefits of Gas this winter season. See your Gas heating contractor or call Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, 362-4458 in East Tawas. Might as well cut your fuel bills this winter along with everybody else. LIVE MODERN . . . FOR LESS . . . WITH GAS

Junior 'Tag' Football Teams Are Organized

A new junior "tag" football league is being organized in the Tawases with three teams of seventh and eighth grade students from Tawas City and East Tawas. The program is to start Sunday, September 20, at the high school's new practice field. There will be one game a week for six weeks and members of the Tawas Area coaching staff are to officiate.

Coaching a team composed of boys in the First Wards of Tawas City and East Tawas will be Donald Mooney. Coach for a Second Ward team is yet to be named while James Hearl will handle a team of Third Ward boys from the two communities.

FARM AND HOME SECTION

November 3-election night across the nation-will no doubt find you in front of the TV or with your ear tuned to the radio. Your friends and neighbors will be listening and watching too. Why not enjoy the evening together? Take advantage of the occasion with lots of snacks geared for the long, exciting hours of election night.

Serve it simply. Set up a serve-it-yourself buffet. Make use of TV trays and hostess cart. That way you too can enjoy the talk about "trends" in California or Vermont and the hot local battles that swing first one way and then another.

SNACK-TIME FAVORITES

1 cup sugar
34 cup margarine
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon salt
1 package (6-oz.) butterscotch morsels (1 cup)
42 cup chopped walnuts
1 package (6-oz.) semi-sweet chocolate morsels (1 cup)

Combine sugar and butter and beat till creamy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift flour, cinnamon, baking soda and salt together and gradually stir in. Add butterscotch morsels and nuts; mix well. Spread in greased 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Sprinkle top with semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Bake in $350^{\circ}F$. oven for 30 minutes. Cool; cut into 2-inch squares. Makes 24 squares.

FAMILY-STYLE CHEESE TRAY

Select a variety of cheese. We recommend Swiss, Provolone, Munster, Cheddar, Blue and Gouda. Remove cheese from refri-Munster, Cheddar, Blue and Gouda. Remove cheese from refrigerator at least half hour before serving as low temperature numbs the flavor. Cut Cheddar in wedges, slices, fingers or cubes. Serve Swiss, Provolone, and Munster in thin slices. Place the entire wedge of Blue cheese along with a knife on the tray—guests can take as much as they want. Cut the bright red Gouda in wedges much the same as an apple. Garnish cheese tray with green onions, ripe and pimiento stuffed olives, radishes and pickles. Serve with a variety of breads and crackers.

SWISS CHEESE AND HAM ROLL

1 can (2¼-oz.) deviled ham
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped green
1 tablespoon finely chopped green
2 slices Swiss cheese, at room temperature

Blend the deviled ham, lemon juice, green onions and crumbs. Spread equal amount of mixture on Swiss cheese slices and roll. Wrap rolls in wax paper. Chill until firm. Each roll makes about 8 slices to be served between rye crackers.

Make light, fluffy pancakes using pancake mix and following

Offer guests a variety of batters, fillings and toppings. Prepare sandwich makings ahead and encourage guests to use the electric griddle or skillet at the buffet table to make their own.

Batter Variations: Add fruit or nuts to the batter—a half cup of well-drained crushed pineapple, fresh or frozen blueberries, chopped raw apple, thinly sliced bananas; ¼ cup broken or Topping Ideas: Offer guests warmed honey, maple syrup, melted currant jelly and a sugar and cinnamon mixture.

Tasty Fillings: Scrambled eggs and sausage or ham, creamed foods such as chicken, ham, tuna, mushrooms in a rich white sauce all make good pancake sandwiches.

WALNUT-GINGERED BEEF PASTRIES

1 cup toasted walnuts
2 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon curry powder
34 cup ground lean beef (about 1/2)
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

IN THE WORLD

by Jerry Charles Farm and Home Travel Consultant

Do you dream of visiting the Old World lieder-land of Vienna and Budapest, or of strolling through the ancient Inca ruins of Macchu Picchu? Or if you're a sporting man, how would you like to take in the wild game parks of East Africa? And if you are the real adventurous type, how about going around the world in 40 days by Jet Clipper, elephant, camel, luxury train and vintage car?

days by Jet Clipper, elephant, camel, luxury train and vintage car?

Why just sit at home and dream about it.

CO! Packing up and taking off for these places is now made easy for you. First, you have to make up your mind that you want to leave your homestead for a short while and see some of this wonderful world we live in. Then decide what places in this world you would like to see and let a reputable travel agent make the arrangements (or if you don't know of a good travel agent in your area, write to Farm and Home Section, in care of this newspaper, and we will see that you are taken care of).

Money? Don't let that bother you. Drive the family car for an extra year or two—it should be able to stand the added, extra mileage. And the money you save by not trading off the car as early as you usually do will go a long way toward paying for that dream trip of yours.

Let's hop a Jet Clipper travelling through the air at nearly 600 miles per hour. You hardly know you're off the ground and yet in a few magic hours you're whisking across the continent... the ocean... from New York to Paris in 7 hours, for example. This is truly a new age in air travel... and it costs so little for you to be a part of it, right now, and your speedy air ride will allow you more time at the place of your dreams.

Take Europe—the traveler's true dream.

Take Europe—the traveler's true dream. Europe, where many cultures and nationalities in a compact area offer you more varied experiences, more memorable sights than any other portion of the globe. Go on a tour. You're more independent . . . start any day you wish, with or without a guide . . . choose from dozens of possible routings, sidetrips and stopovers that add individuality to your holiday at little or no extra cost to you. cost to you.

Perhaps when planning your package tour of Europe you want to find points where you wish to explore the countryside in a car. This is fine, a rented car can be provided in advance as part of your travel arrangements. For example, you have chosen in your tour to fly and visit London, Paris and Rome. However, between Paris and Rome you prefer to drive, just wandering across the continent and seeing the Europe others miss.

Just what are you doing this winter? Staying at home . . . watching the snow fly? Nothing? You know what you ought to do, hop a Jet Clipper and fly to the area of your dreams. It doesn't cost that much and, oh, the time you'll have! Investigate the costs. Find out for yourself that yes, you can go to Europe, to the Caribbean, to Hawaii, to the Far East or all around the world for a great deal less money than you thought it would cost.

In Europe, five tours extending from 21 to 32 days crisscross the continent, penetrating the Scandinavian fjords and the Iron Curtain, skirt-ing the Mediterranean, and visiting the major cities of England and France. Rates on these and the other tours briefly described herein would include air and land transportation, accommodations and sightseeing.

There's a new 21-day Excursion Fare to make a European Holiday more practical, from a budget viewpoint, than ever before. Now do you see why you, too, can afford to go almost any place

Here are a few basic facts about travel you should know:

TRAVEL AGENTS:

The advice of a travel agent is yours for the asking and most of his services cost you nothing extra. Travel agents render a convenient and valuable service for the would-be traveler. Besides securing reservations, they are prepared to lend friendly counsel and furnish necessary and useful travel information. Often their experience and knowledge of routes, rates, facilities and local customs abroad can save you time as well as expense.

TIPS ON TIPPING:

Tipping practices are quite uniform everywhere except in some areas where restaurants include a 15 percent service charge on the bill . . . A glance at your check will reveal if a separate tip is applicable. Taxi drivers abroad are usually tipped about 10 percent. In addition, porters at terminals and hotels receive a small fee per bag. Also expecting small tips are washroom and cloakroom attendants, croupiers, theater ushers, etc.

CUSTOMS RESTRICTIONS:

Please check with your travel agent before leaving home, because many nations impose duties or prohibitions on certain items. Commonly restricted items include film, and photographic equipment, tobacco products and alcoholic beverages.

FOREIGN DRIVING:

If you plan to take advantage of drive-yourself arrangements, you will need (in addition to your own driver's license) an International Driving Permit for use in Austria, Greece, Portugal, Spain, Singapore and the nations of Eastern Europe. The International Driving Permit is obtainable in your country of residence and your travel agent can provide further information.

Accidents are responsible for approximately 12,000 deaths among farm and ranch residents in the United States each year. This is equal to the combined populations of Waunakee in Wisconsin; Pochahontas in Iowa; Lacon in Illinois; Auburn in Nebraska; Fessenden in North Dakota; and Hartford in Michigan.

In one year, 1,349 Ohio people held an accidental rendezvous with death in a place that is normally thought to be safe—the home.

The records and statistics unit of the Ohio department of public health show the leading causes of accidental farm deaths are falls, accidents caused by machinery, drowning, and poisoning.

In Iowa, last year, death showed little respect for the age of victims. Agricultural deaths included a one-year-old child drowning in an irrigation ditch and a 79-year-old dying from a fall. In Nebraska death held little respect for the occupation of the victims. Farm and ranch accidents took the lives of farmers, Canchers, crane operators, retired persons, well drillers, students and laborers.

In the Dakotas death uses a variety of methods to claim its victims. In 1962 and 1963, farm and farm home accidents that claimed lives were caused by poisoning, suffocation, falls, machinery, electric current, fire, explosion, firearms, drowning, excessive cold Agricultural accidents claim more lives than any other industry in Kansas. There, 55 accidental deaths to Kansas farm residents in one year included only those that occurred in the performance of agricultural work. Thirty-four of the deaths came from tractor accidents. Other machinery was responsible for another 15 percent of the deaths. In short, three out of four of the fatal working accidents happened while working with tractors and farm machines.

Extension cords are not a safe plaything for children. Rope and heavy cord can be equally dangerous.

WORSE THAN SMALLPOX by Burl Hunt Kansas State University

Half of the deaths caused by farm machinery accidents in Michigan last year were to children and youth 20 years old and less. In some cases, perhaps, the young people were not properly trained to operate the equipment and that lack of training led to an accident.

The National Institute for Farm Safety has recom-mended six steps for training operators of farm ma-

Youth often think that if they obey safety rules life automatically becomes dull and uninteresting. Young people often do not realize that to live useful and exciting lives, adequate safety precautions must be taken to insure that their lives will not be cut short by accidents.

A tractor operator should know that he has very little chance to escape being crushed by a rearing or over-turning tractor. Studies on time and motion prove that a rearing tractor gives the driver approximately two-fifths of a second to get out of the way before it flips backward and pins him underneath.

Fatal farm accidents are largely concentrated among males. This reflects the fact that they generally do the hazardous work around the farm or ranch. However, hazardous work is not the only source of injury and death. There are many other sources waiting for an opportunity to take advantage of a carelless person.

Accidents in the home take an alarming toll of lives. The most common cause of death and injury in the home is falls. The majority of falls occur on steps. Anakeshift ladders, and in bathrooms. Following falls as killers and cripplers of home residents are burns, explosions, gunshots and poisonings.

In the bathroom, the medicine cabinet should be placed out of the reach of children. All medicine should be clearly labeled. It is rather easy to get electrocuted in the bathroom. Many people have proven this by reaching out and turning on an electric switch while standing in a shower or bathtub.

Stairs and hallways should be well-lighted and kept free of litter and toys. All stairs and steps should be kept in good repair. Many home accidents have resulted from stairways that needed repair, or, were cluttered with tovs.

"Just being tired" deserves a large share of the blame for accidents in the farm home. Farm homemakers, more than any other group, are guilty of working when overtired. According to the safety specialists, fatigue causes reflexes to slow down. Slow reflexes create a perfect setting for an accident.

Many home accidents occur in the kitchen. Reaching for the top shelf in the kitchen cabinet, while using a chair and mail order house catalog for a ladder, has been the cause of more than one fall. Leaving handles of pots and pans projecting over the front of the stove has been the invitation for many small children to "have a scalding." Poisons, cleaning fluids, detergents, and other dangerous mixtures should not be stored under the kitchen sink within easy reach of inquisitive children.

Even the living room is not always a safe place for living. Small rugs without safety rubberized pads or backs may slip and cause an accident. Makeshift ladders, or reaching out too far from a good ladder, are common causes of living room accidents.

Living room fireplaces should have screens in front of them. A screen may prevent clothing from catching fire, or, it may prevent sparks from setting the house

Entire families often lose their lives in home fires. Most home fires are preventable. However, with the approach of each winter the "home fires" continue to burn and many people burn with them.

Only a few of the dangers of farm and ranch life have been mentioned here. There are many others. Thus, it seems we must draw the conclusion that—accidents are worse than smallpox.

The long white sedan skidded to a stop beside Walter Hansen's back pasture, and the doors burst open, two men and a pair of dogs got out. The men—guns in hand—shouted to the dogs and started over the fence into the

Their weight pulled staples from several posts, causing the wires to sag nearly to the ground. A pheasant flushed wildly ahead of the dogs—it was the bird the men had spotted crossing the road in front of them. They both fired, though the bird was out of range.

One of the hunters cursed, and then they called the dogs, stepped back over the downed wires and roared off in a cloud of dust.

The story doesn't end there. It ends with Walter Hansen's cows stepping through the damaged fence and out onto the road where one of them was killed by a truck coming over the top of a rise.

Now, along Walter's pasture fence there are "No Trespassing" signs on every other post, and he enforces them with a bitterness that he sometimes doesn't take the trouble to explain.

This is a case of farmer-hunter relationship at its worst. Fortunately it is not the rule, for there are three cases for every one like the one just cited where farmers and hunters get along fine. And if there is one single thing on which the successful relationships are based it must be respect.

The farmer and the hunter must first of all respect each other as individuals. Today's farmer is head of an operation fully as complex and demanding as that of any of his city cousins' enterprises. He is not a hick from over the hill who hooks his thumbs in his overalls and spits tobacco juice at the grasshoppers.

He must be respected for what he is, and by the same token, the hunter deserves like respect. In most cases he is a responsible citizen who owns only a tiny hunk of suburbia and must look elsewhere for a place to stretch his legs with a dog and a gun The hunter must turn to those who are guardians of the broad fields and the rolling woodlots. And he must do this turning not like the two men in the white sedan, but like a gentleman. If he does this-minds his manners -then the farmer owes it to him to treat him accordingly.

The rules for the hunter are so basic they hardly warrant repeating, but just for the record, they include asking permission to hunt, parking in the farmer's yard if he so desires, respecting crops and equipment—avoiding areas that might be damaged by man or dog trespass crossing fences without damaging them, and being most careful of targets and the direction of shots.

Landowners, like Walter Hansen, often have good reasons for not allowing hunters on their land. There are the cases of pigs being shot, of gates left open, or of crops damaged.

But these are the careless deeds done by a minority who cannot be called sportsmen. They ruin things for everyone, and their destruction makes it easy to understand why the farmer wants some control of his land and at least a look at the fellow who is tramping across his property.

However, since the destruction and carelessness result from an unthinking minority, the farmer should not lump all those who like the out-of-doors into the same category. Certainly the landowner has no time for interviews and investigations, but most men of the land are shrewd judges of character. It is this judgment that the sportsman deserves, even if he is getting a refusal to use the farmer's land. He should not be made to feel that he is attempting some sort of crime, simply by requesting permission to hunt.

There is a growing trend to let money solve the prob-lem—hunters paying the farmers a fee to get certain hunting rights, and maybe this, along with public hunting grounds, is the final answer.

But there must still remain for years, and hopefully for generations, a relationship between the farmer and the hunter that is based on respect

Those of us on both sides of the fence owe it to those coming generations to help foster this respect.

Don't destroy fencing.

Should we put a one-to-a-customer limit on the Model 1100?

When we introduced this extraordinary automatic shotgun last season, it created a sensation among America's shooters. Now that it's also available in 16 and 20 gauges, we're working full steam just to keep up with the demand. Not surprising, though, when you consider these facts:

Greatly increased shooting life. Why? Because the entire gun is built more ruggedly than other automatics. The receiver is machined from solid steel. Parts of greatest stress are specially reinforced; others have been highly polished to reduce friction. And areas of greatest impact have special buffering cushions. Finally, the metal finish is business... one that requires hard work and an unusual managerial ability.

Take Clyde Hight, for instance. He's up to his ears in corn. This year he has 500 acres of close to the best corn you'll find anywhere. His past results look like this: 1961—126 bu. per acre; 1962—140 bu. per acre; and 1963—157 bushels. This year he has it figured to hit the 180-bushel average.

How does he do it? He can point to no one single thing for his success. It's a series of things, he says, "We're using heavy fertilizer applications, herbicides and insecticides—plus test plots to know where we are going, plus a tilth improvement program. On top of this, we are planting better hybrids."

Each year Clyde has increased his plant population. Last year it was 20,000 plants per acre; this year it is 23,000. He plants earlier, too, than most farmers in the area. "We start about April 24 and we are through when a lot of others are just thinking about it." Clyde told the

it," Clyde told us.

He has all of his corn laid-by about June 20 and the cultivator is in the shed when others are just starting to cultivate. For two years running he has found his early corn to be

The soil is in far better condition now because of minimum tillage. It is looser, holds water better and has fewer weeds. Starting in the fall after he is through combining and shelling his corn, he goes over the field with a chopper. Also in the fall he spreads phosphate and potash and plows it under.

Minimum tillage is another reason Clyde Hight figures he can produce big corn yields at low cost. Once over with this equipment and he has planted, applied herbicide, insecticide and harrowed.

To be able to turn out such works of art right in her own home is a source of great enjoyment and satisfaction for Mrs. Hight.

plates bring $1.65 and cake plates bring $3.00. The price varies with the quality of blank

"Clyde gets a kick out of pouring the slip into the molds sometimes," she volunteered. The slip is a thin mix of clay and water. This is put into the mold and left to set for a short period. The excess is poured out and the remainder becomes leathery from the slip. When the clay in the mold is tough enough, the mold is opened and out comes a replica of the original.

The Hight kiln has produced figurines, sagged glass, tiles and many other beautiful things. Now Mrs. Hight is looking forward to doing some portrait and scenic tiles for framing. Some of these may end up as nice Christ-mas presents for friends like the Santa mugs she made and painted one Christmas.

In the spring the ground is not touched except for putting on anhydrous ammonia, field cultivating (including a harrow but no disc), planting and a single cultivation when the corn is about knee high. Herbicides and pesticides are put on at planting.

"Another thing that has helped us," Clyde remarked, "is slow planting . . . 2 to 3 miles per hour, 1 kernel every 7 inches." This figures 23,800 kernels per acre. Actually, he is varying the actual weight of his seed planted ing the actual weight of his seed planted from 100 to 140 pounds per acre.

It's a good thing to increase yields per acre, but certainly just as important . . . maybe more important . . . is reducing the cost of producing each bushel. Clyde has reduced his cost steadily. In 1961 it cost him 71¢ per bushel; in 1962, 68¢; in 1963, 59%¢. This year he hopes to do even better. And these figures include interest, tax, fertilizer, equipment, seed-everything.

His profit per acre in 1960 was $27.00 per acre. In 1963 his profit went up to $80.60 per acre. You might say he doubled or tripled the size of the farm without adding an acre.

Clyde isn't stopping with 180 bushels either. He figures he'll be able to hit 200 bushels by 1965. To do this he is relying to great extent on his test plots to let him know where he might make economical improvements in his program. In Clyde's words, "I believe a man can make a big season's wages by putting out a test plot. But he has to accurately check and study results-then act accordingly.

One of her most outstanding talents is her ceramics work. This dates back to 1956 when she was introduced to the hobby by a friend. Once a week she drove 35 miles into Decatur to attend adult education classes in ceramics. Then later she took some instruction in a private home.

"Once you get started you want to branch out," she told us. "You see all the nice things other people are doing so you want to try to do them, too."

But she found the key ingredient to having a lot of enjoyment is having her own kiln. Her's cost $125.00, including the supports used for the kiln.

"Getting started in painting ceramics is not too costly," Mrs. Hight added. "For $15.00 you can buy brushes, paints, and still have money left over to get a blank plate to work on." If you buy a dozen the size she uses, the cost will be about one dollar each. Fancy
