Two School Proposals Under Study in County

Two important meetings involving Iosco County's schools were held last week. The first dealt with consideration of possible reorganization of the four kindergarten through 12 grade districts and the second meeting had to do with this county's participation with Bay-Arenac in a vocational training study.

A second meeting of the county reorganization study committee is to be held November 9.

Boards of education are to indicate if they are interested in possible reorganization of county schools. Intermediate School Supt. William Tracy believes that further study should be made on the matter.

He has suggested five possible changes to be discussed: 1. No change in the four existing kindergarten through grade 12 schools; 2. Change boundaries of districts to make sounder geographical districts and to cut down on overlapping bus routes; 3. Combine any two schools into one district; 4. Combine any three schools into one district; 5. Combine all schools of the county into one district.

Small Communities Face More Rigid Rules on Dumps

Small cities and townships of Michigan are faced with the possibility of increased cost in the operation of municipally-owned disposal grounds or dumps.

This was the warning Monday night of City Supt. Reginald Bublitz, who told the Tawas City Council that a draft of new regulations being prepared by the state health department would make it almost impossible for a small community to operate a dump.

The Michigan Legislature, in adopting Act No. 87 of 1965, authorized the state health department to adopt new regulations for governing operation and construction of disposal grounds.

"It would be impossible for Tawas City or any other small community, to operate under these present specifications," said Bublitz.

According to the health department's initial set of rules, only sanitary land-fill disposal grounds designed by a registered engineer would be approved. No open dumps would be permitted, daily records would be required, there would be no burning of materials, heavy equipment would be required to be on duty at all times, employee facility buildings would be required, unloading would be only under the supervision of employees, to name but a few of the regulations named in the working draft.

Bublitz said that the Michigan Municipal League was now attempting to amend the requirements.

"Can you imagine what kind of situation this would be," said Bublitz. He estimated cost of such an operation at approximately $25,000 a year for a small city or township.

William Kusey Named District Park Chief

William Kusey, former manager of the East Tawas State Park, has been named district park supervisor at Mio. He had been serving in a similar capacity at Baraga since late last year.

A member of the department since 1954, Kusey first served as park ranger at Brimley State Park. In 1956, he was transferred as park ranger to White Cloud State Park where he worked one year before being reassigned to East Tawas.

From here, Kusey was moved to Muskegon State Park where he served briefly as park manager prior to his promotion to the Baraga district position.

3 Applications OK'd for ET Construction

Three building permits were read during the brief meeting of East Tawas Council Monday night.

Applications were approved by Supt. Paul Ropert as follows:

Frank Blust, 611 East State Street, seven by eight-foot tool shed, $100; Michael C. Wilson, new windows, wood siding and porch, $1,000; James Campbell, 304 West Lincoln, remodel front porch, $300.

A resolution, prepared by City Attorney Michael Freel, was adopted by the council authorizing purchase of the former Anderson Coach Company property east of the state police post. The present warehouse will be used for storage of city equipment.

Mail Notices of Coming ASC Election

Grant Bessey, chairman of the Iosco ASC County Committee, announced today that notices will soon be mailed to farmers throughout the county, reminding them about the coming elections of ASC community committees. The notice will tell the time and place for the local community committee.

Farmers are eligible to vote in community election if they are eligible to take part in one of the programs the committee administers.

T. City Hourly-Salaried Workers Win Pay Hike

A new wage schedule for Tawas City's hourly and salaried employees was adopted at Monday night's council meeting.

A 10-cent-an-hour increase was awarded to the city's four hourly workers. Wage of one laborer was increased from $2 to $2.10 per hour and wages of three truck drivers were increased from $2.10 to $2.20 per hour.

The city superintendent received a $20 per month increase, the foreman received a monthly boost of $15 plus $2 an hour for overtime and the office secretary gained a monthly salary increase of $5.

In other matters, Vernon H. Eckstein of Tawas Area Construction Corporation appeared before the council regarding a building application recently denied by the city superintendent. New owner of a cottage formerly owned by Joseph Lubaway along the bay shore had applied for permission to make an addition.

Under terms of the city's new zoning ordinance, it is not permissible to make an addition to a residential dwelling located in a B-2 business district, although repairs are permissible. The application had been denied because of a nonconforming use.

It was reported that three appeals of denied applications were pending. All cases involved situations where the property had been sold since enactment of the new ordinance.

Next meeting of the appeal board is set for Monday, November 29, 7:00 p. m.

No action was taken on appointment of a new city police chief to succeed Frank Roti, who resigned effective October 31.

George A. Prescott was the first person to apply for a burning permit under the city's new ordinance covering trash burning in the fire zone. The revokable permit was granted subject to inspection and approval of the superintendent of public works. The ordinance requires that fires are to be attended.

An amendment was authorized by the council. This extends the fire zone from Wheeler Street east to the city limits in the first tier of lots along US-23, as was previously discussed by the council.

Christmas Club Checks Mailed to 500 Accounts at Peoples State Bank

Christmas Club checks totaling $40,000 will be mailed to 500 accounts of Peoples State Bank November 8, according to a report by Richard Lee, who has charge of the accounts.

Lee said that the total savings amounted to a 10 percent increase over the previous year. The Christmas Club director said that the $2 per week savings plan proved to be most popular with the accounts, followed by the $5 plan. Other plans are offered in 25 and 50 cents, plus one starting at $1.

He announced that Christmas Club savings plans were now being opened for 1966.

Conservation Commission in Talks With State Legislators

Officials of the Michigan Department of Conservation and members of the conservation commission met with lawmakers from Northern Lower Michigan at Clare November 1 to outline legislative proposals for 1966.

The get-together was the first in a series of sessions scheduled between conservation leaders and legislators. Other meetings, still to be set, will be held so that each state senator and representative has an opportunity to attend one in his area.

Money matters, headlined by the department's proposed 36.2 million dollar budget request for the 1966-67 fiscal year drew top discussion.

Figuring high on the department's and commission's 1966 legislative agenda is the need for new sources of revenue to finance the fire limits, as adopted, included the first tier of lots along both sides of US-23 from the river bridge to Wheeler Street.

The new ordinance goes into effect November 10.

Tawas City Adopts Parking Resolution Requested by State

Tawas City has adopted a parking restriction agreement with the Michigan State Highway Department. The agreement was signed Monday night by the city council.

This action allows the state highway department to remove parking along US-23 at any time it is deemed necessary because of danger or interference with the free movement of traffic along the highway.

Mayor George Tuttle pointed out that, according to state law, parking could be removed at any time, regardless of an agreement. A traffic survey and hearing before the state highway commission would be necessary.

Following recent talks with highway officials, City Supt. Reginald Bublitz said that he received no indication that parking along US-23 would be removed.

"This is a routine agreement and one more phase of necessary requirements to receive federal participation in highway construction," said Bublitz. He said that construction planned next spring was contingent upon passage of the resolution.

Halloween Damage Not Serious in Area

Outside of the usual window soappings, about the only Halloween damage reported by area police was the breaking out of 10 windows at Tawas Industries, Incorporated, Tawas City.

Michigan State Police investigated the window destruction at the firm's plant on First and Court Streets. Stones were thrown through the glass Sunday night by vandals.

At Whittemore, Iosco Sheriff's Department officers took a turn at being cowboys early Sunday morning when pranksters opened a gate and released about 50 horses owned by George Grabow.

"There were horses running in every direction through town," said Deputy Jerry Kruse. "It took us about 2 1/2 hours to round up 35 animals."

Assisting with the roundup were Sheriff Ivan O'Farrell, Kruse, Deputy Joseph Ori, Phillip Parlo and Deputy Andy Dolak. Several youngsters joined in the "fun." It was reported that at one time there were 13 horses eating grass on the lawn at the Bruce Goupil residence.

There were two egg and rotten apple throwing incidents reported at East Tawas but, generally, the area escaped any serious vandalism.

Strong Opposition Locally to Fish Liberalization Policy

Conflicting views on the density of the perch population in Saginaw Bay, along with a warning that the long-range forecast for Great Lakes fisheries is clouded with trouble, proved to be important discussion points at last Wednesday's joint hearing of senate and house conservation committees.

More than 30 persons testified during the nearly six-hour hearing called to discuss proposed new regulations lowering the size limits on gill net-caught perch.

Perch in the Great Lakes are changing in physical appearance and are growing shorter and fatter, according to Dr. James Moffatt, biologist with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, Ann Arbor.

Dr. Moffatt was one of those who testified on the conservation department's proposal to remove size limits and closed seasons for the taking of yellow perch in 2 1/2-inch mesh gill nets by commercial fishermen.

The proposal drew strong opposition at the hearing from local tourist industry representatives, sports anglers and trap netters, who contend that gill netters are ruining perch fishing in the area. Dr. Moffatt cited the case of Lake Erie, where the commercial take of yellow perch dropped from nine million pounds in 1955 to two million pounds in 1964.

Yellow perch are still plentiful in Lake Erie, Dr. Moffatt told the hearing, but because they were shorter and fatter than previously, only 25 percent of those taken are of the legal, 8 1/2-inch size.

Ontario has eased its restrictions on taking perch, he said, and Ohio fishermen are faced with the same problem as that of Lake Huron fishermen—the shorter and fatter perch of today are caught in legal nets, but fishermen are prohibited from selling their catches.

Conducting the hearing at the East Tawas Community Building were Sen. Carl W. O'Brien, Pontiac, chairman of the senate conservation committee, and Rep. Joseph N. Snyder, St. Clair Shores, chairman of the house conservation and recreation committee.

Also attending were Sen. Robert Richardson, Saginaw, and Rep. Sanford Charron, Pigeonning, who arranged the hearing, and Reps. Clayton Morrison, Pickford; William Fitzgerald, Detroit, and Blair Woodman, Owosso.

Dr. Howard Tanner, chief of the conservation department's fish division, said there was no question that sports fishing for perch had been "lousy" in Tawas Bay this year, but there was a difference of opinion as to the cause and what could be done to improve the situation.

Dr. Tanner said that commercial fishing in the same waters, until recently, had been excellent this year. He said that large numbers of sub-legal perch were taken in 2 1/2-inch gill nets.

He said that a five-day survey, conducted in August in the Saginaw Bay area, using the gill nets and equipment of Tawas commercial fishermen, indicated that perch were abundant, but scale samples showed the fish were growing at a slower rate than previously.

Tanner said the growth rate of perch had a direct bearing on their abundance in a specific area; that since the disappearance of the walleyes and reduction in numbers of northern pike and other larger fish, there were fewer predators to keep the perch population in check.

Dr. Tanner said the longrange forecast for Great Lakes fishing is clouded with trouble. He said the department hoped to ease the present situation by putting perch in a healthier condition to compete with alewives for food and space.

Since no license is required for hook and line fishing on the Great Lakes, Dr. Tanner said there was basically no support for a conservation department sports fishing program for those waters.

Christian A. Addison, representing the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, along with a spokesman for the AuGres Chamber of Commerce, said there was a very serious problem of economics involved because of the importance of sports perch fishing in this area to the tourist industry.

Restaurants, service stations, boat operators and other businesses all depend on people catching fish. "If people stop over one night and they do not catch any fish, they move on," said Addison.

Gordon MacAndrew, East Tawas party boat operator for the past 30 years, presented petitions signed by some 3,000 persons, protesting the proposed change in regulations.

The petition urged the gill net size be increased to three inches, because of the scarcity of fish in Saginaw Bay during the summer.

A representative of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs said his organization's board of directors was on record as favoring the conservation department's proposal.

He suggested that local sports and commercial fishermen, along with the conservation department, get together and draw a line of off-shore demarcation for nets, leaving the area close to shore for sports fishing and boating exclusively between June 10 and September 10. He said this plan had worked well in other parts of the state.

Larry O'Neil, representing the Osceola Sportsmen's Club and Iosco Sportsmen's Club, asked legislators to consider prohibition of nets set close to shore and to increase the mesh size to allow the smaller fish to escape and grow larger.

An AuGres area fisherman commented that a limit on the distance from shore would be detrimental to fishermen in the lower part of the bay, who seine carp and catfish close to shore. He said that as long as trap netters had to comply with the 8 1/2-inch law on

Marking one of the final steps in preteaching training, the students spend one semester of their senior year in their subject field working with experienced teachers.

According to Dr. A. L. Sebaly, director of student teaching and professor of education at WMU, the on-the-job type of training helps seniors to decide what phase of teaching they are most interested in before they actually sign a contract. It also lets them apply educational theories to practical classroom situations.

The student-teacher is the son of Harold Rollin of Tawas City, and is married to the former Nancy Pollard of East Tawas.

Owls Run Wild; Down Braves 39-7 Friday

Halfback Coleman Lane and the Oscoda Owls ran wild Friday night and rolled to an impressive 39-7 victory over Tawas Area Braves. It marked the second consecutive win by the Owls over Tawas. Lane picked up 216 of Oscoda's 317-yard total on the ground during the night. He scored three touchdowns and set up one on a 42-yard sprint. Ray Powers scored Tawas Area's only touchdown of the night and looked impressive on several carries. Halfback Dennis Harten picked up good yardage on several plays, but Oscoda's tough defensive unit was just too much for the Braves. Lane started Oscoda off on the victory road by outdistancing Tawas' defense on an off tackle play. He raced 80 yards to paydirt on the third play from scrimmage and Kelly converted the PAT. Tawas came right back with a good drive and penetrated into Oscoda's territory. There, the drive was stopped on a fumble and seven plays later, the Owls scored with Bovan going over from one yard out. Kelly converted his second PAT and Oscoda held a 14-0 halftime lead. Oscoda opened the second half with Lane setting up a touchdown on his 44-yard drive. Pete Bovan plunged over from one yard out. Kelly's kick from placement was blocked. Tawas could get nowhere and Hugh Freil's punt was partially blocked. Five plays later, Lane cracked over from two yards out. Tawas' best drive of the night came in the fourth quarter. Starting from their own 18, the Braves moved 82 yards in nine plays. The series was capped by a 40-yard pass play from Quarterback Dick Grebe to Halfback Ed Cain, who made a great diving catch. From there, Powers cracked over from 12 yards out and scored the PAT on the same play. Oscoda was not through scoring, however, as Lane was able to break around end for the first time during the night and raced 51 yards to a touchdown. The PAT was blocked. Oscoda's final score came with 26 seconds to go when Randy Pagels, second string quarterback, hit Jack Guy with a touchdown aerial. The Braves will host Essexville this Friday night in the first meeting between these two schools. It will also mark the return of Tawas' former head football coach, Herb Escott, who is now at Essexville.

SS Changes of 1965 Include Provisions For Women

"The Social Security Amendment of 1965 include several provisions especially for women and it is important for women to know what these changes in the law mean to them," said Paul M. Ellifritz, social security district manager, Bay City. Besides health insurance for the aged, Mr. Ellifritz stated, there are many major changes in the old-age, survivors and disability insurance program. Of these changes, three affect women directly and all the others have a "woman's angle."

Provisions especially for women are payment of reduced benefits to widows as early as the age of 60, wife's and widow's benefits for divorced women who were married for at least 20 years before the divorce and benefits for women 72 or older who were not eligible for benefits before this because they or their husbands had not worked long enough under social security.

Less directly affecting women is the provision that allows for the payment of benefits to the children of retired, disabled or deceased workers up to the age of 22, if the children are full-time students.

"Information on these and other changes in the social security law is available from the social security office at 1009 North Madison Avenue, Bay City," Mr. Ellifritz said. "The people there will be glad to answer any questions you may have and provide you with explanatory material about the Social Security Amendments of 1965."

A social security representative for this area will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, Friday, November 12, 10:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m.

SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT

In the Herald editor's opinion, one of the most significant statements made at last Wednesday's joint hearing of senate and house conservation committees was one of Dr. Howard Tanner, chief of the conservation department's fish division. He said there was basically no support of a sport fishing program on the Great Lakes because Michigan does not license sport fishermen.

Because of this, Tanner said his proposal to liberalize the taking of perch by gill nets was aimed at straightening out the problems of commercial fishermen and was not aimed at solving the sport fishermen's problems.

While this newspaper agrees with the conservation department that there should be a license for sport fishermen on the Great Lakes, we feel that the conservation department is absolutely wrong when it reasons that, because commercial fishermen are the only ones paying a license, this should be the only factor in considering a Great Lakes fishery program.

We have to agree with Christian A. Addison, representing the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, who felt the conservation department was overlooking the fact that it was responsible for the conservation interests of ALL people of the state.

Actually, license fees paid by commercial fishermen amount to a very small drop in the $26,000,000-budget bucket of the Michigan Department of Conservation. Likewise, these commercial licenses do not form the major portion of the fish division's annual budget.

It seems amazing that the billion dollar tourist and resort business of Michigan, which depends heavily on good fishing conditions in the Great Lakes, is given such minimal consideration by the department of conservation, because of the lack of a sports fishing license. If the fish division chief's statement represents the thinking of the entire department, we would urge an immediate change in policy.

When one considers that the liberalization policy is aimed solely at solving the problems of one segment of the commercial fishing industry, it seems even more amazing. What about the trap fishermen's plight? They are vehemently opposed, in this area at least, to the removal of size, weight and seasonal restrictions for the taking of perch by gill netters!

It is difficult for the layman to argue with trained biologists concerning the number of perch in Saginaw Bay. The fish division maintains that there is an overabundance of perch here and too much competition for food; therefore, the fish are stunted. Sports fishermen and experienced trap netters (and even some members of the conservation department) are pretty convincing in their argument that there is a "scarcity of perch." One side is wrong and it seems to this writer that, before any liberalization of restrictions is made by the conservation commission, further study should be made.

Over the years, theories of conservationists do change, as evidenced by the fact that the department is again considering the planting of fingerling trout, rather than dumping legal-sized fish in streams a few days before season and then having them slaughtered by a few greedy "sportsmen." This has been a pet peeve in this area for years. And, it must be remembered that the conservation department, as well as we laymen, are not infallible. "Mechanical mistakes" do creep into the picture, as we recall that the department was very embarrassed a few years ago when its contractor mistakenly poisoned a lake here in Iosco County which was filled with bass and other game fish.

The Herald agrees with Iosco Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller who, during a recent hearing concerning a restraining order brought by gill net fishermen against the conservation department, was of the opinion that the entire law concerning commercial fisheries should be reviewed by the legislature.

For our part, we hope that members of the house and senate conservation committees will give serious consideration toward controlling the inshore setting of commercial fish nets, increasing of mesh size, study toward re-adoption of a former regulation which limited commercial fishermen to a 50-mile radius of their home port. If present restrictions are removed, and it looks as though they will be, we believe Saginaw Bay will become entangled with nets from Lakes Erie and Michigan fishermen.

Agencies to Save Iosco Taxpayers

Passage of the Welfare Merger Bill, signed by Acting Gov. William Milliken last week, will result in a saving for Iosco County through the blending of the county social welfare and state aid agencies, Sen. Robert Richardson, Saginaw, reported to his district Friday.

On the basis of the expenditures for the past 12-month period, ending June 1965, Iosco County would have received $7,323.69, Senator Richardson noted.

The change of the allocation formula from 30-70 percent to 40-60 percent would have increased Iosco County's money from $6,261.22 to $13,584.19. The new act, effective October 1, provides for matching funds of 40 percent direct relief, administrative and net operating costs of medical care facilities.

The act further provides, Senator Richardson said, that with the state-county merger, if a county spent more than one mill of its assessed valuation on welfare, the state and federal government will assume all costs beyond that amount.

Thus, social welfare departments will pay more than 40 percent, so that the county would not have a reduction in state funds, Richardson said. The total welfare costs in Iosco County, according to information received by the senator during the consideration of the bill, amounted to $33,962.27.

Tawas-Whittemore Area Community Chest had collected $9,389.30 as of Tuesday noon, reports Mrs. James DeWyse, financial secretary for the campaign. This year's goal is $11,500.

Ralph Western, campaign chairman, said that the three-week drive was scheduled for completion this week-end. Anyone who has not been contacted for a pledge is urged to call the Tawas Chamber of Commerce office immediately in order that a campaign worker may contact them.

Dr. Hillman to Speak at Dairy Meeting

Dr. Don Hillman of the Michigan State University Dairy Department will speak at a dairy meeting scheduled for Thursday, November 4, at the Whittemore-Prescott High School. Dairymen and their wives are invited to attend this 8:00 p. m. meeting.

A state dairy inspector will be on hand to discuss new dairy regulations. Door prizes will be awarded.

Hearing

perch, the mesh in gill net twice should be increased in size to catch legal fish.

Abba Friedman, attorney for gill netters in the Tawas area, appeared and recommended that the fish division's proposal be followed. He was of the opinion that fish biologists were in a better position to understand the over-all problem than local residents.

W. H. Gordon, area bait dealer, said sports fishing for perch had witnessed a sharp decline from the Whitney Drain north since the concentration of gill nets in recent years.

He said that Oscoda-Tawas commercial gill netters took 419,000 pounds of perch in 1964, compared to 85,218 pounds in 1960.

Keith McComb, Tawas City resort operator, was of the opinion that the 50-mile limit for fishermen should be reinstated. This law, which allowed fishermen to operate only within a 50-mile radius from their home port, was rescinded in 1959. He thought there should be some control of licenses, rather than to allow fishermen to concentrate in a specific area from all Great Lakes ports.

Leo Manor, AuGres trap net fisherman, said that present gill nets destroyed small perch, pickerel and white fish. He suggested that a four-inch mesh be used.

During the hearing, Senator Richardson pointed out that the conservation department has authority to change the size, weight and seasons on taking of fish. Tawas Bay was established by a special act of the legislature in 1931 as an area off-limits to commercial fishing and, therefore, would not be affected under the present proposal to liberalize fishing regulations.

The hearing was the first of several being conducted around the state by the joint house and senate committees on the proposed liberalized commercial perch fishing regulations.
