Honor students of the class of 1966 at Tawas Area High School are Joanne Juhl, valedictorian, and Danny Machulis, salutatorian, according to an announcement this week by Principal Ernest W. Jordan Jr.

Joanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Juhl of East Tawas and has attended school in the area since moving here five years ago.

Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Machulis of East Tawas and began attending Tawas Area School in the eighth grade when he moved here from Ketchikan, Alaska.

Both are members of the Tawas Area Chapter of the National Honor Society.

In addition to maintaining a 4.00 scholastic average, Joanne has participated in many activities during high school. She is a member of Future Teachers of America, Keyettes and participates in forensics.

She is editor of the school paper, The Warhoop, and has served for three years on the staff of the Spearhead, the school's literary and art magazine. She was named the DAR's good citizen from Tawas Area during her senior year. Her hobbies include painting, sketching, reading and tennis.

During his high school years, Danny has been active in the Key Club and Language Club and served as president of the latter group during his junior year. He has been elected continuously to the student council since his freshman year. This year, he is holding the office of senior class treasurer.

In addition to these activities, he is an active member of his church's youth group, the Luther League. He also finds time to enjoy his favorite hobby, painting.

Joanne's future plans are indefinite. However, she will be attending Michigan State University in the fall and plans to major in art or education.

Although Danny has not decided which college he will attend this fall, he has been accepted at Michigan State University and General Motors Institute.

School Boards Decide Next Week on Survey

Extensive study of possible school reorganization in Iosco and Arenac Counties took one step nearer to reality last Tuesday night when representatives of five area schools indicated they would give formal approval at regular board meetings in April.

Considering the study are Whittemore-Prescott Area, Hale Area, Tawas Area, Arenac Eastern and Au Gres - Sims. Standish - Sterling has been invited and is to have an answer by May 1.

Formal approval or rejection by the first named schools is to be in the hands of Supt. Ray Kessler of Whittemore-Prescott Area by April 1.

The area to be served extends north of Hale to as far south as Gibson Township in Bay County. It contains 5,800 students and has an equalized valuation of an estimated $84,000,000.

Meeting at Whittemore-Prescott Area School, area educators and school board members heard a proposal from Central Michigan University for conducting the study.

Total cost of the survey is estimated at $7,200. Maximum costs to individual schools would be Tawas Area, $2,150; Hale Area, $618; Whittemore-Prescott, $1,135; Arenac Eastern, $786; Au Gres-Sims, $525; Standish-Sterling, $2,088.

Suggestions gained from the survey could range all the way from leaving the schools as they are to forming one district from the entire six.

The survey team, after conducting its work, would recommend an organization which could provide the optimum in education consistent with good transportation and efficient use of available funds.

ET Voters OK Sewer Project

East Tawas voters gave approval Monday to a $300,000 general obligation bond issue which is to be used for financing the city's share of a new sewage treatment plant and improvements to its municipal collection system.

With a total of 587 voters going to the polls, the measure passed with 365 ballots in favor of the proposition as against 213 "no" votes.

The city council, through its financial consultant, Julius Hanslovsky, Lansing, has made application for a federal grant to aid in constructing the $775,000 project. The general obligation bonds would not be sold immediately as the city council is to await the outcome of the federal grant.

Special assessments are to be charged against properties for the lateral sewers running in front of those properties for the collection from homes and business places. Costs are to be determined by engineers.

Supt. of Public Works Paul Roper said following the election that he was "very well pleased" with the results of Monday's election. While there had been little discussion along the street concerning the proposition, it had been well publicized and taxpayers were aware that a new sewage treatment plant was needed.

The city council had considered the sewage project a most vital and important public improvement. Need for such a plant has grown greater each year as present facilities are over 30 years old and considered inadequate.

The treatment plant will have a design capacity for approximately 7,000 persons, as compared to the present plant built in 1933 designed for a maximum population of 1,645. The new plant would be located in the northwest section of the city.

Campbell Wins ET Mayor Post Monday

James Campbell, veteran First Ward alderman, is East Tawas' new mayor.

In Monday's annual spring election, Campbell counted 411 votes as compared to 235 cast for Lewis Besancon, retired city hall office manager.

Campbell received 114 votes to Besancon's 69 in the First Ward, won 140 to 84 in the Second Ward and totaled 157 votes to his opponent's 82 in the Third Ward.

The new mayor takes over office officially at Thursday night's council meeting when retiring mayor, Clarence McKenzie, hands over the council gavel.

In other races, Earl Hester, US-23 businessman, won out over Mrs. Carol Tracy for the First Ward council chair vacated by the new mayor. Hester had 129 votes, as compared to 46 cast for the wife of the intermediate school superintendent.

The only other race saw incumbent Third Ward Alderman Robert Bolen defeating Merton Killey, 145-92.

Unopposed were Second Ward Alderman Edward Higgins, Treasurer Grace Pelton, Clerk Fred B. Lomas and Justice of the Peace Carl Ekman.

Board of Review Brings in $165,575 Valuation Increase

A property valuation increase of $165,575 was brought in by Tawas City Board of Review Friday as it concluded its sessions for 1966.

Real estate valuation was increased from $3,870,725 in 1965 to $3,951,500 in 1966 and personal property valuation of $867,300 in 1965 was increased to $952,100 in 1966.

New property listed under real estate totaled $103,250, which included $60,475 in commercial, $3,075 in industrial and $39,700 in residential. There was a total loss of $22,475 listed for real property.

Personal property listed $281,375 under new which included $71,050 for commercial, $150,175 for industrial, $1,500 under residential and $58,650 for utility. The loss under personal property totaled $196,575.

No Contests; Only 78 Voters Visit TC Polls

With no contests listed on Monday's spring election ballot, only 78 voters went to the polls in Tawas City. The First Ward totaled 17 ballots, the Second Ward had 22 and 39 Third Ward voters went to the polls.

Re-elected were George Tuttle, mayor; Walter C. Nelson, clerk; Ruth Albertson, treasurer; Daniel J. Ulrich, First Ward alderman; Clyde Evril, Second Ward alderman; Howard W. Hatton, Third Ward alderman; Clement J. Stephenson, First Ward supervisor; John E. Hosbach, Second Ward supervisor; Clarence S. Everett, Third Ward supervisor.

Harbor Lights Sold

Announcement was made this week of the sale of Harbor Lights building and restaurant equipment to William A. Pressprich of Saginaw, who plans to remodel and then lease the building.

Health Dept. Gives City 'Clean Bill' on Dump Operation

Tawas City received a "clean bill of health" from the state in its operation of municipal disposal grounds off Monument Road, according to a report from Supt. of Public Works Reginald Bublitz.

An inspection of facilities was made Monday by representatives of the state health department and Tawas City's operation received a rating of "good." Bublitz said that no higher rating was given to any community in the area.

Bublitz attended a meeting last Thursday with representatives of the United States Forest Service which outlined disposal facility requirements on federal property.

The city follows the state requirement of sanitary land fill disposal grounds by using a trench type operation. It also controls use of the ground through men on duty during certain days and the gate is locked at other times.

"This is one of the few dumps in which no rats were noted by state inspectors," said Bublitz. "They gave it a thorough inspection for rat tracks on Monday."

Municipalities are not required to pay for a state license for operation of a dump but are required to post a $2,500 bond. An application for license is to be filed in the near future.

IDC Fund Drive Soon; Tell of Organization in Articles

(This is the first of two articles dealing with the Tawas Area Industrial Development Corporation. In these articles, the theory and purpose of this corporation is to be examined, but most important will be pointing out what role each and every resident of the Tawas area must play in this organization. A fund raising drive commences May 1 and continues through May 15 with a goal of $20,000.)

By LEONARD CALABRESE
President

Everyone has seen the cartoon of the two fellows who are slouched in their chairs, hands folded on their stomachs, feet on the desk, work piled as high as the ceiling with the caption: "Tomorrow we will get organized."

This is why the Tawas Area Industrial Development Corporation was begun two years ago.

It was recognized that in order for our area to offer its citizens their fair share of economic progress, we must both attract and maintain industry in the Tawas area.

It was also realized that this could not and would not be accomplished without first being organized.

Many people are not aware that there are now over 17,000 IDCs in the United States and they are all competing for just over 400 industrial locations per year. Therefore, it is no wonder that some IDCs have taken over 10 years to acquire just one industry—a period of time for which we cannot wait.

So what does an IDC do? First of all, they incorporate and become recognized as an organized body that wants industry. But a good with the district engineer at Alpena but have been unable to do so," said Bublitz. He was instructed by councilmen to immediately contact Howard Hill, state highway director.

Both of the stations were constructed prior to work on US-23 here in 1940 and both sold frontage for highway right-of-way. "We did not argue about removal of servicing in front of several other stations which were constructed later, but on the strength of the commitment from highway officials that servicing would not be removed from in front of these two, we told owners they had nothing to worry about. AUTO MECHANICS is being offered this year as a daily two-hour subject in vocational training at Tawas Area High School for a class of 33 senior boys. Instruction starts at 8:00 a. m. and continues during the first hour of the regular school schedule. Students have the opportunity to work on their own cars in the class conducted by Robert Reasner and receive practical instruction in welding, motor tune-ups, body repair, painting and general maintenance. Reasner is pictured at top left with three members of his class, Greg Staebler, Cary Hilbert and Tim Blake. At top right, Dick Grebe uses a sander to work on a fender. At bottom left, Ed Cain works with a paint sprayer. In the center picture, David Baker and Barry Nelkie are brazing metal on the fender of Nelkie's car. James LaBlance patches a fender at right. Reasner said he does not expect to turn out experienced mechanics in the class but believes the students are receiving useful and valuable training. Facilities for instruction are crowded in the present building and school authorities are presently studying the possibility of expanding the classrooms. Reasner said he would like to see a two-year course with the senior year being for advanced students.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Council Rejects Park Bids; Ask 2 to Re-Submit

On recommendation of the city park board, Tawas City Council has ordered that new bids be accepted on leasing the concession building at the city park. Proposals would be limited to the original two bidders and are to be accepted until 5:00 p. m. April 7.

This action stemmed from a letter of protest filed by one of the bidders, Roy Soncrant, Oscoda.

Soncrant had entered a bid of $1,000 per year for 10 years and a second optional bid of five years at $1,000 per year with option to lease for an additional five years at $1,500 per year.

The second bid came from John N. and Jack Brugger, a five-year lease at $1,100 per year with option of renewal.

John N. Brugger had served as chairman of the park board and because of his interest in the bid, submitted his written resignation from that position at the March 21 council meeting, when action was to have been taken. His letter requested that the council consider his resignation as being effective January 10, when he requested to be relieved from those duties after being appointed to the city planning commission.

Soncrant claimed he had not been handled fairly in the matter in that he had dealt directly with the park board chairman, not knowing the latter had an interest in the bid. He said his bid was based on improvements to the property required to comply with his root beer franchise.

The move to disregard bids was stopped by a five to one roll call. Voting in favor of the measure were Councilmen Cecil Cabbie, Clyde Evril, Howard Hatton, Russell A. Rollin Sr. and Clark Tanner. Voting against the measure was Daniel J. Ulrich.

While the council had discussed the possibility of limiting the lease to five years, City Attorney Alf C. Watson said that it was normal procedure to offer a five-year optional clause to such a lease. The five-year option is to be included in the new bids to be accepted April 7.

Deer Hunters Now Organized in State

Organization of the Michigan Deer Hunters Association has been announced by a group of Oscoda deer hunters. This organization is similar to the Michigan Bear Hunters Association.

According to the group's by-laws, its main objective is to force a moratorium on the killing of antlerless deer.

It is strictly a nonpolitical organization, "nor is it an organization of clubs where a few chosen officers in control disregard the wishes of the majority, the Michigan deer hunter," states the club's news release.

Anyone interested in joining the organization may contact the Michigan Deer Hunters Association, Oscoda, or anyone wishing additional information may write to the same address.

Mort Neff has invited a panel of members to appear on Michigan Outdoors television program Thursday, April 7, to inform all Michigan deer hunters of the organization and objectives.

Easter Seal Donations Still Being Accepted

Donations for Iosco's Easter Seal campaign are still being accepted by the Hale Health Council, sponsor of the annual drive to aid crippled children and adults.

One-half of the funds contributed stays in Iosco County. The Hale Health Council furnishes braces, crutches, wheelchairs, hospital beds, walkers and many other special aids.

All that is required to receive help in this program is for the family physician to notify the organization, which has its loan closet located in the Plainfield Township Fire Hall.

Tawas City Airmen Seriously Injured in Motorbike Crash

Tragedy struck a Tawas City family last week for the third time in the past 14 years.

Listed in critical condition at St. Joseph Hospital, Mt. Clemens, is Ronald Deering, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deering.

Donald Deering, older brother of Ronald, said Tuesday morning that doctors held out little hope for his brother's recovery.

Ronald, an airman since April 1, 1965, and stationed at Selfridge Air Force Base, left the main gate at Mt. Clemens after work Thursday afternoon riding his motorbike. A fellow airman was a passenger.

The motorbike apparently dropped off the pavement and went into a ditch. Ronald was thrown over the handlebars and landed on his right temple. The other airman was not seriously injured and returned to duty the next day.

The young Tawas City airman has been a member of the Air Defense Command since September 1, when he was assigned to Selfridge.

Complete First Steps in Elms Sewer Project

First step in establishment of a special assessment district to finance cost of constructing sanitary sewer in Elms Gardens was completed Monday night at a public hearing called by the Tawas City Council. No protests to the project were registered by the four property owners in attendance.

Mayor George Tuttle named Third Ward Supervisor Clarence Everett, Water Board Member Carl Schaaf and Supt. of Public Works Reginald Bublit as a three-man board of special assessors for the project.

A special tax roll which is to assess cost of the project among 19 parcels of land included in the district is to be presented for council approval at the April 18 meeting.

Bublit presented a description of the district, route of the sewer, depth specifications and cost estimates for information of interested property owners.

While original cost was estimated at $17,500, total cost of construction was reduced to $12,300 as city crews and equipment will complete the project instead of letting the work for bids. The city at large is to pay $2,325 for constructing sewer to reach the district. The remaining $9,975 is to be shared equally by property owners at a cost of $525 each.

The city has set May 18 as a target date for completing level work on the project. Barring unforeseen obstacles, construction should start in June.

The project is 1,330 feet in length and commences at the intersection of Elms Avenue and Crocker Boulevard. It will serve 550 feet on Elms Avenue, 550 feet on Nanette Street and 230 feet on Margo Street.

ment Act. A grant of money cannot be obtained from the EDA unless a parcel of land suitable for industry is owned by the IDC applying for this aid. The importance of a building can easily be shown by knowing that one reason some industries did not locate in this area was that there was no place for them to move into at the time they wanted to move.

Certainly it is a risk to invest large sums of money in land and construct an expensive building which is left vacant to wait for an industry to fill it; but as pointed out, we may have had at least one or two industries if we were prepared. And herein lies the most important quality of the dynamic IDC—to be prepared. We will not be prepared by saying that we should have done this 10 or 20 years ago, but by preparing now for the five, 10, 20 and endless number of years to come.

An Industrial Development Corporation certainly is not the only answer to locating industry but it has proved to be one of the most successful in recent years. Several talented men have and are working on the IDC but the most talented men with the best laid plans must be supported by the area they are serving and this support comes in the two common forms of moral and financial.

We must keep our door unlocked for the time when industry decides to knock on Tawas area's door. If we want industry to stay here, or come here, we must give of our time, invest money and finally we must be prepared.

a bind," said Bublit.

Mayor George Tuttle said he believed that an agreement with the department was in writing and files are to be checked at the city hall.

Contacted Tuesday morning, John Lansky said that highway department had established three different survey points during the past week to establish the curb location in front of his station. The first mark was at the verbal agreement point, the second moved closer to his pumps and the final mark gave him about six feet of service area, which would not allow use of pumps at the outer side.

Public Hearing On Rezoning To Be Held May 2

A public hearing is to be held May 2 on proposed rezoning of a parcel of land in the First Ward at the intersection of German Street and M-55.

Rezoning of the property from family residential to B-2 business, allowing construction of an automatic car wash, was recommended by the Tawas City Planning Commission at a special meeting last week.

The planning commission said that rezoning of the southeast corner of German Street to commercial was in keeping with future land use. It was recommended that all entrances and exits to the property be limited to the first 200 feet of M-55 from German Street to prevent deep penetration of the commercial zone into a residential area.

In other business, the council revised its salary increase granted two weeks ago to James Quarters, city garbage contractor. Quarters had asked a $5 per day increase for the three-day-a-week pick-up, but the council had granted $3.50 per day. Because of continuing high cost of operation, Quarters said he would finish out the year but would be unable to continue at the old rate. After re-examining the schedule, the council voted the $15 per week increase giving Quarters an annual pay boost of $780 instead of the $546 offered previously.

Golf Course Problems Aired in Letter

Putting the AuSable River Golf Club at Oscoda on a paying basis is of principal concern to Edward S. Davison Jr., who with his father, Edward Sr., recently purchased 63 percent of the club's outstanding stock.

In a letter to stockholders and interested golfers last week, Edward S. Davison Jr. said that most people were aware that the club "was in rather sad financial condition when we bought the stock about a month ago."

Since that time, the club has paid off more than $18,000 in past due accounts.

"The financial past of the club is now history and we want only to think of the future," said Davison. "To do so, we must think about bringing the operation to a paying basis."

Last year, about $23,000 was realized by the club from memberships and greens fees. Costs of course operation ran well in excess of $33,000.

Through increasing daily rates and memberships, the club hopes to eliminate the deficit.

Davison said that several projects on the course for improvement had been undertaken this spring. Extensive brushing has been done and work has been concentrated on 10, 11 and 12 fairways (old one, two and three) which were changed in a reversal of the front and back nines.

Davison said his main interest was to put the club on a sound business basis to assure its continuation.

How much hot water did you use today?

Now you can see why it pays you to have a Gas water heater.

The average family of four uses up to 100 gallons of hot water daily. And it costs far less to heat it with gas.

You only need a heater half as big, because gas heats water faster, replaces the hot water you use quicker. How come? The heat is a direct flame. An electric unit takes longer. The heat must go through a coil.

And remember—when you already have gas in your home, a gas water heater costs less to install than an electric one. See the newest, money-saving gas water heaters at dealer, plumber or Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showrooms.

Passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy) will include these lines:

"There were rock-ribbed walls in the way, and a great stone must be rolled from the cave's mouth; but Jesus vanquished every material obstacle, overcame every law of matter, and stepped forth from his gloomy restingplace, crowned with the glory of a sublime success, an everlasting victory... He proved Life to be deathless and Love to be the master of hate."

Subject of the lesson-sermon: "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

Important Changes in Disability Benefits

The Social Security Amendments of 1965 made important changes in the disability benefits program, Paul M. Ellifritz, district manager in Bay City, announced today.

Mr. Ellifritz said, "You may now be eligible for benefits if your disability is expected to last for at least 12 calendar months. Previously, you could get benefit payments only if your disability was expected to last for a long-continued and indefinite period of time or expected to result in death.

"There has been no change in the degree of impairment or in the work requirements under the new law. You may be considered disabled only if your impairment or ailments cause you to be unable to engage in any substantial work. Your age, experience, education and the nature and extent of your impairment are considered in deciding whether you are qualified for doing substantial work.

"The amount of work under social security needed for eligibility is still five years in the 10-year period before your disability began. However, there are special provisions for some blind persons.

"Under the new law the waiting period is the same as before and your disability payments do not start until your impairment has lasted for six full months," he concluded.

Mr. Ellifritz also said all social security literature is free and persons interested in the disability program should ask for pamphlet number eight.

A social security representative for this area will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, Thursday, April 14, from 10:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m.

J. BARKMAN LUMBER COMPANY

Family Living Education

DOROTHY SCOTT, Extension Home Economist

Hello Everyone!

Are most carpets woven or tufted?

It may surprise you to learn that the growth in sales of tufted household products, especially floor coverings, is listed as "almost unbelievable."

The decline in sales of woven carpeting has meant a reorganizing in the manufacturing plants. Tufting permits faster production—1,400 needles can produce a room-size living room rug in 15 minutes.

The technique of tufting requires changes in backing material. There has to be a primary backing into which the needles place the tufts and a secondary backing to increase stability and appearance.

Most successful material has been a woven jute. Much of it is imported and three-fourths of that supply comes from Asia. India jute mills were developed to do an excellent job and provide economic advantages to them at the same time. Loss of their jute export markets will undoubtedly affect their economy. On the other hand, our factories needed to have a supply independent of foreign sources, especially these days. In addition, they wanted to overcome problems of quality control and the possibility of brown stain from the jute when carpet is cleaned.

Result? Now getting into production are two synthetic backing developments. One is named "Loktuft," made from the same polypropylene family that gives us the carpet fiber. Another is called "Chemback" and is made with nylon scrim plus polyurethane foam one-eighth inch thick. This one has a built-in resiliency. These products are used for the primary backing; into which tufts are anchored. No doubt, secondary backings will also be synthetic, though they can continue to be of jute.

Among the advantages of these synthetic backings are clean, high speed operation and better processing because there is no needle deflection; they neither stretch nor shrink (carpeting will not change size after installation); they are unaffected by rot, mildew, moths, beetles, silverfish, etc.; they have good insulation and sound control qualities; dirt does not sift through; better cleanability; shampooing is easier, no danger of pile discoloration from backing.

The cost will apparently not be affected by the change in material. Carpets with jute primary backing may use the same secondary backing or may substitute a less expensive scrim product treated with latex.

To check for quality in carpet, examine both the backing and the pile. Fold back the pile to observe how close together the tufts are placed and how evenly. The denser the pile, the better the carpeting. Observe the primary and secondary backing as to kind of material and how well it is made. The new synthetic ones can be other than white to better blend with the pile color.

Padding under carpeting prolongs life, adds insulation and luxury appearance. There are several choices. One new foam padding is a bit more expensive but will provide much better cushioning. Deep cushioning can mean furniture should be lifted to move it. There is a new nylon molded caster wheel with a honeycomb structure said to reduce the crushing of carpet pile. It is named "Carpetmate" and available in several sizes at usual outlets.

Carpeting is a big investment. Shop around, there are differences in total cost for your room based on how pricing is done. Choose a reliable dealer. Many guarantee satisfaction or your money back. If you want it, you can have the help of a home furnishings consultant who will help you choose the kind of fabrics, texture, color and quality within your budget.

The topic for next week is bedding.

QUICK ACTION by members of the Tawas City Fire Department Thursday afternoon helped to prevent spread of a grass fire which threatened three or four homes along Townline Road about two miles west of the city limits. Cecil Hurd, son-in-law of Harry Rescoe, was in the process of burning an old building on Rescoe's property when the fire became uncontrollable due to a high wind. The fire burned several acres of dead grass and threatened three homes along Townline Road, as well as the Rescoe residence. Only One Way to Fly a Kite --- Safely!

There is only one way to fly a kite. You might fall and get hurt. Mr. Vaupre added that Consumers Power has distributed kite flying safety rules to a number of schools in the area and that each year the company appeals for "kite sense" in the hopes that there will be no unhappy incidents during late March and early April, Michigan's kite season. "On the first day of spring this year, in Baltimore, Maryland, a 39-year-old father was electrocuted when he flew a kite with thin copper wire, instead of string. The kite outing was a treat for his five-year-old son. "The senseless tragedy need never have occurred. So we ask parents as well as children to remember there is only one way to fly a kite," Mr. Vaupre said. "And that is safely."

1. Fly kites made of wood, paper or plastic, with no metal parts.
2. Never fly kites in rainy or showery weather; lightning might hit.
3. Fly kites with string, not with wire or metallic gift card.
4. Never fly a kite near power lines and keep kites away from trees.
5. Stay out of streets and roads with kites, as with any toy.
6. If a kite lands in a tree or on a wire or phone line, do not climb after it; leave it there.

7 Electrical Companies Announce Power Pact

Seven major electric utilities, including Consumers Power Company, have announced a series of agreements providing for construction of two new extra-high-voltage transmission lines to link the power system of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The project, scheduled for completion by January 1, 1970, is to include construction of more than 220 miles of 345,000-volt transmission lines at a cost of $90,000,000.

Michigan's participation in the interchange of bulk electric energy was authorized by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Mrs. Lenehan Active Extension Economist

Mrs. Clemma Lenehan, Standish, joined the area 15 Cooperative Extension Service staff as extension home economist on April 1.

County extension agent in Arenac County for 11 years, she had been on leave of absence since last May following injury in an automobile accident.

In joining Miss Dorothy Scott, who has had sole responsibility of the four-county area since October 1, the two extension home economists will have charge of the family living education program in Arenac, Iosco, Ogemaw and Oscoda Counties. They are also responsible for teaching home economics subject matter in the 4-H Club project work of the area.

The total family living education program is planned for all homemakers and families, either as individuals or as members of any organized group.

With Mrs. Lenehan's home office in Standish and Miss Scott's in East Tawas, they will cooperate in the development of programs to serve the entire four-county area.

Fabrics Lessons Being Presented by Miss Scott

Farmers Warned Not to Delay '66 Orders on Spring Supplies

Farmers who do not have their fertilizer, seed and spray supplies ordered should not be surprised if there is a delay in delivering them exactly when they want them, reports Marvin Davenport, county extension agent. As for oat seed, corn seed, etc., it would be an excellent idea to have these items sought out as soon as possible. Some seed supplies are in short supply.

"I might mention to those of you growing oats that the new Ausable oat grown in Iosco County last year out yielded any other varieties I heard about. If you need to know the source of certified seed, contact my office for the "1966 Michigan Certified Seed Handbook," states Mr. Davenport.

For the farmers considering beans, a recent extension bulletin, "Field Bean Production in Michigan" is very thorough. It has rotation suggestions, soil preparation ideas, fertilization recommendations as well as comments on variety selection included.

Weed control is a subject all in itself and is covered in extension bulletin No. 434, which is available at the Cooperative Extension Office, East Tawas.

GRASSROOTS GLEANINGS

by Bill Stokes

"Chivalry," says The Herald of East Moline, Ill., "is a man's inclination to defend a woman against every man but himself."

The Ada (Ohio) Herald comments, "The easiest way to stay awake during an after-dinner speech is to deliver it."

"You're still pretty young if you think a button-hook is just a football pass pattern," advises The Dickinson (N.D.) Press.

The Sargent County News at Forman, N.D. says that a husband is likely to be a do-it-yourself man if he has a get-it-done wife.

"You can tell when Junior is growing up when he stops asking where he came from and starts refusing to tell you where he's been," says The Huntington (Ind.) Independent.

The Cavalier (N.D.) Chronicle tells this one: "I'm looking for adventure, excitement, beautiful women," cried the young man to his father as he prepared to leave home, "and don't try to stop me."

"Who's trying to stop you," yelled his father, "I'm going with you."

Four out of five people complain about their feet, reports The Brookings (S.D.) Register.

"At forty a man finds principles for which he is willing to die, but being too old to fight, he sends his sons," comments The Leader Enterprise of Montpelier, Ohio.

To take good advice is as rare as to give it, according to The Denison (Iowa) Bulletin.

The News of Tell City, Ind., claims, "Walking is the exercise most of us get on the way to the garage."

The Houston (Mo.) Herald says the following note was found under a windshield wiper, "I have just smashed into your car. The people who saw the accident are watching me. They think I am writing down my address and name. They are wrong."

It is sometimes difficult to understand why we have hash so frequently when, according to the Storm Lake (Iowa) Pilot-Tribune, the American housewife has a choice of over 8,000 food items.

"Happiness," by the Wayne County Press, Fairfield, Ill., definition, "is learning your daughter's boyfriend has had his electric guitar repossessed."

The Tipton (Ind.) Daily Tribune claims that the five main subjects of conversation among women begin with the letter "D." They are diet, descendants, delinquency, disease and death.

Some bathing suits are more fitting than proper, says The Morris (Minn.) Tribune.

The Semo News of Lilbourn, Mo., asks if you've heard about the kid who won the prize at the PTA meeting for having the most parents present.

"The smallest muscle in humans is the one which controls the auditory ossicle known as the stirrup bone in the middle ear, reports the Chronicle-Herald of Macon, Mo. All of which explains why the kids can't hear you when you tell them to pick up their things.

You should spend at least a minute and one-half with soap and water in order to get your hands really clean, according to a report in the Sisseton (S.D.) Courier.

How is it then, that a small boy claims that he can do the job in one and one-half seconds?

Don't give your wife too much credit, advises the Lake Mills (Iowa) Graphic. She likes a little cash now and then too.

"You won't notice the splinters on the ladder of success unless you're sliding down," says The Wright County Journal-Press of Buffalo, Minn.

Ants have been living in miniature cities for 80 million years, and man has been in similar set ups for only 7,000 years, a report in the Devils Lake (N.D.) Journal shows.

Has it occurred to anyone that ants may have fewer urban troubles because they are led by queens instead of mayors and councilmen?

"The more children's fingerprints there are on the furniture, the fewer there are on the police records," claims The Chamberlain (S.D.) Register.

The Enterprise-Courier of Charleston, Mo., says, "Many sermons could be improved 100 per cent by cutting them 50 per cent."

EUROPEAN HOLIDAY

By Jerry Curren

Response by midwestern readers of Farm and Home Section to the 1966 European Jet Holiday has been unbelievable. Over and over again readers are writing and saying, "How can it be possible — 22 days for under $800?"

If you haven't already sent your coupon requesting a folder and complete information on this European Holiday to Farm & Home Tours, 20 North Carroll Street, Madison, Wisconsin, do so today!! The first of three groups to leave will be departing the United States in mid-May . . . you must get your reservations early. The second group leaves in mid-September and the third group will depart in mid-October. Already it has been necessary to assign seat accommodations on a first request, first filled basis.

Remember, this is a tour which is all-inclusive. Your tour package price includes 100% transportation, 100% lodging, 90% of your meals, and most of your entertainment extras. The one price covers all, almost. You will have no worry about baggage, you will have no concern about substandard hotels — one of the first things Farm and Home insisted upon for this tour was a bath in every room while in Europe (and if you have traveled in Europe before, you know that sometimes this can be hard to find).

Accommodations can be made for you by Farm and Home from the time you step out of your front door until you re-enter it. Send for your folder and European Jet Holiday information right away!

CAUTION: Keep out of reach of children. Undiluted material may be injurious to the eyes.

Each year, corn growers search for new ways to boost yields and cut production costs. How successful they've been at finding new corn growing tools is shown by progress made in the past ten years. During this time, average corn yields zoomed 57% and labor requirements plunged 47% — a 200% gain in bushels per man-hours per acre.

This kind of progress wouldn't have been possible without modern soil insecticides. In short, they've wiped out the waste that early corn growers just accepted from insect-damaged plants. Even the American Indians had a saying when they grew corn: "One for the bug, one for the crow, one to rot, and two to grow."

Today's crop growers don't have to stand back and accept insect losses. They can make a blanket application with a modern insecticide, and be fully assured that they'll get all the yield they have coming to them, no matter what kind of insects try to make pests of themselves.

It doesn't pay to try to guess which soil insect might invade your corn. The odds are up to 20 bushels to 1 that you can't. Soil insects — more than 20 different kinds — work under ground where they can't be seen. And with all the different kinds threatening, some will be working no matter what the conditions.

That's why today's top profit farmers apply a soil insect "insurance plan." The cost? Less than $3.00 per acre. The return? An average of an extra 10 bushels per acre. And, when soil insect damage is severe, it can mean a difference of 30 to 40 bushels an acre, or saving an entire crop which would otherwise be lost.

Every-year applications are routine for farmers out after every bushel. Their extra corn profits over the years have convinced them that insecticides pay year in and year out. Leading Cornbelt researchers, too, have demonstrated in their extensive tests that soil insecticides are a good investment. Here's a sample of how they sum up soil insecticide benefits:

Illinois: "... Results from five years of testing show controlling soil insects boosts yields an average of 10% ..."

Purdue: "... Many Indiana farmers wonder whether to use soil insecticides on corn land. However, yield increases average 5 bushels an acre when insecticide is applied in the row and 10 bushels an acre when broadcast ..."

Missouri: "... Several species cause damage to underground parts of corn plants. The use of a long residual soil insecticide prevents most injury from these insects ..."

Tallying up all corn production costs and balancing them with yields points out the critical profit factor when growing corn — the more bushels produced per acre, the less you have invested per bushel.

THE BUG BATTLE

Here's how per-acre cost of insecticide protection figures out:

General soil insecticide recommendations call for 1 to 2 lbs. of Aldrin per acre. That's $1.40 to $2.80 per acre for insecticide to protect a $60 to $70 per acre investment.

If corn yields 100 bushels per acre without insecticide, and 110 bushels with insecticide, that's a 10% yield increase and a return of $10 per acre for each $1.40 to $2.80 invested in Aldrin. That's a healthy return on investment—and considering the many kinds of insects that can wipe out an entire crop—mighty cheap corn insect insurance.

Assuming a 10 bushel increase in yield by using Aldrin, or ALDREX (a new combination granule of Aldrin and an organic phosphate which effectively controls all soil insects, including resistant rootworms), the chart below shows you can pay off equipment cost—plus insecticide cost—in one year and still have a profit left over. That's the reason profit-minded farmers don't gamble.

Some corn growers just don't realize how much insect control can do for yields. Take, for example, the experiences of Harold Gardner, Cameron, Illinois:

"I was doing everything else I knew how to boost yields, but I never really broke loose until I used an insecticide last year." Gardner used Aldrin to control cutworms and rootworms, and averaged a record-breaking 170 bushels of No. 2 corn on 870 acres, all of which was in narrow rows.

"I'd estimate that the Aldrin alone boosted my yields 30 bushels an acre. Given a choice between Aldrin and fertilizer on some of my land, I think I'd have to pick Aldrin."

Harry Broermann, Tarkio, Missouri, had a similar experience last year. The photo with this story shows the difference in height of his ALDREX treated corn as opposed to his untreated corn.

It's interesting to note the weed growth in the untreated area of Broermann's corn, as compared to the treated area. Of course, ALDREX is not used for weed control, but the corn grew so vigorously in the ALDREX treated area, that the shade prevented weed seeds from germinating.

This is the difference in stand on Dale Hood's Creston, Ia. farm in ALDREX treated rows as opposed to untreated rows. Insecticide makes as much or more sense than hail insurance to many farmers.

Dale Hood, Creston, Iowa, found what was hurting his stands in the past when he applied ALDREX to his corn this year. In a strip he left for comparison, the stand was very spotty. But in his ALDREX treated rows, not a stalk was missing.

Springtime Salads

by Ginny Felstehausen

There's a feeling of SPRING in the air! And what is more appropriate than a spring salad survey. Attractive greens are one of the keys to salad success. Be certain they are clean, dry, crisp and chilled. Try endive, romaine or red cabbage for a change of pace. And don't forget to choose the dressing as carefully as the salad ingredients. Use a tart French dressing for a tossed green salad, for example. And serve a sweetened mayonnaise or poppy seed dressing with a fruit salad combination.

VOICE FROM THE BARREL

by Pete 87776 Simone

Remember our Convict-Author Pete 87776 Simone? It has been many months since we last published an article by this writer who is currently serving "time" at the prison in Jackson, Michigan.

In this issue of Farm and Home Section, Pete writes for us of an interview he conducted at the Michigan prison. Pete calls this short, but true story - "The Voice From the Barrel."

You readers might be interested in knowing that the convict involved in "The Voice From the Barrel" was a next door neighbor of Pete Simone's in prison. When "Toughie" was released, Pete asked him if he had had his fill of prison; if he would be back.

Toughie shrugged, "I ain't going to the old man's farm. An' I ain't workin' for nobody!"

We think you will enjoy this TRUE piece by Pete 87776 Simone.

The Editors

I am the voice. And I never speak, except in warning. Yet you ignore me. Maybe you just can't hear my low, hollow, inhuman monotone. Anyway, my eerie voice quality can't be helped because I speak from deep in the barrel, of a gun . . .

Despite a cloudbank in the northwest, it's a crystal night; so calm and clear and extremely cold that it threatens to shatter of its own fragility. Unfortunately, the night isn't alone on the brink of cracking up. The toughie who awaits you is far from shatterproof. Yet he's solidly determined to get his hands on your money . . . even if he must take your life first.

Fresh from reformatory walls, and flat broke, he lurks in the shadows just beyond the side parking area of Lakeshore Clinic, the small but modern medical center near the limits of your farm country town. He'd shoplifted his weapons. One is a toy pistol; the other (in case the toy bluff fizzes), a deer knife with a deadly blade.

The moon keeps him edgy. It has needled him since nightfall, its full face brightly defiant, daring him to proceed as planned in the absence of absolute darkness. He harbors no desire to do you in, however . . . not that he's overly concerned about anybody else's life. But he knows that killing generates heat of all kinds—including that which is cabled to electric chairs. Therefore, you'll escape great bodily harm . . . if everything goes his way.

Why you—? He'd been shoplifting his weapons in the local hardware store when you cashed that big milk check, and overheard you tell the hardware man that you had an 8:45 dental appointment at Lakeshore . . .

Blast that moon! With his fat local and State Police files, he couldn't afford to let you see his face. So he tries again to wish that cloudbank over the town. But it just loafs there; low, dark, uncooperative. Now he re-checks the time: 9:31. What're you gonna do, keep him waitin' all night? That'd be just his luck, starved as he is.

It's tough to be hungry, with goodies almost everywhere and not a penny in your pocket! His reformatory release money—? A honkytonk jukebox and cash register ate that up; in nothing flat, on his first afternoon out. He'd tried to sell his watch. No deal. Home—? Yes, this 19-year-old had one. But it was in the sticks; on a dairy farm. And his old man was queer for four-square ideas—like able young fellers should work for their keep, for instance.

Now the neon-like image of a notion is blinking on the Main Street of his mind. Maybe your car is unlocked. If so, he could slip inside . . .

He moves furtively, clinging to shadows. He makes it; twists a handle. Lady Luck! He ducks inside and closes the door almost soundlessly . . . and just in time.

Footsteps. Tingling to the sound, he takes the toy in one hand, the knife in the other. He'd wait until you got in. And then—

The sound stops abruptly. Then he hears you hot-footing it away. Now he lies here cursing; wondering why you retraced your steps. He waits and he waits. Seconds tick into agonizingly interminable minutes. Finally he tenses, then falls apart with the shakes.

He's calling you all the names in the reformatory book as flash-floods of light swamp your car; as a door is yanked open; as he squints up into the big black eye of a .38 Police Special . . .

Now, as the cops shove him into the patrol car and prepare to chauffeur him away to warmth and food and smokes and sleep, he's compelled to laugh at you. You're actually feeling sorry for him! He can see this in your face; that your mind is so preoccupied with pity that it prevents your realizing how lucky you are that the cloudbank had remained uncooperative; that he possessed no real gun; that the vapor patch on a window clued you that someone was in your car . . .

He isn't in the least surprised when you look in on him at the lockup; to get the cigarettes you sent in; to hear you offer him another chance, and to help him find a job!

"Thanks, pops," he says. "For the smokes, I mean. But don't go feedin' me no rehabilitation hogwash. Experts tried to brainwash me with all that jazz already, an' flunked out. So go on home, pops, an' offer any golden, honest-John job deals to some cornball farm boy!"

You look so mortified that he's forced to laugh—right in your face. Then, as you turn away, he taunts:

"Maybe we'll meet again, pops. On some nice dark night. If we do, depend on it, pops. Next time, I'll be sharp enough to handle the situation! But what about you—?"

Then, all the way home and far into the night, I, the voice from the barrel, keep trying to convince you that this clean-cut kid isn't all bluff; that there just might be a "next time." So, "what about you—?" # New CoolRISE method*

real homemade bread...a new easier way

HOMEMADE CHEESE BREAD

You mix, shape, refrigerate... bake it when you're ready. No more watching or waiting around. The loaves rise in the refrigerator. Pop them in the oven anytime from 2 to 24 hours later... and get bread as good as when you did it the old way. (Some women tell us better.)

*FREE OFFER: New CoolRise recipes for homemade bread and variations, plus two packages of Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast, are packed inside specially marked bags of Robin Hood Flour, at your grocer's now.

(Where Robin Hood Flour is not available, you'll find the recipes on back of Fleischmann's Yeast packages.)
