Iosco Recreational Study Ready for Supervisors

A comprehensive study of recreation in Iosco County is to be presented to the Iosco Board of Supervisors at its July session.

The study has been prepared by Fouzi Sahawneh, a graduate student at Michigan State University, who is working toward his doctorate in economic development. Sahawneh has lived in this country for the past nine years and is a native of the Near Eastern Country of Jordan.

The report contains an analysis of recreational facilities, lists views of visitors in parks, and makes recommendations on how facilities and service could be improved.

Working through the Cooperative Extension office of Marvin Davenport, this survey was requested by the board of supervisors as a basis to capitalize on the tourist trade in order to improve business conditions in the county.

"The board wanted an impartial survey by an outsider—being a Jordanian and far away from home, one could say I should be objective in this study and not easily influenced by special interest groups," said Sahawneh.

Much of the report deals with Old Orchard Park on River Road, west of Oscoda. This is the only county-operated park in Iosco.

"In the expanding range of recreational facilities," said Sahawneh, "there is an urgent need for action to acquire additional resources for future needs; such as picnic areas, beaches, stream courses, campgrounds, playgrounds, scenic areas, natural areas and wooded areas. These resources can be found in the rural area, but very few are using them effectively.

"The physical supply of land and water is of plenty, but ownership or access to it is not. It is here that great opportunities lie. A plan is needed to acquire and develop for the future. Money is needed, but more important is the imagination to make what a community has or acquires more effective."

He said that it was not a question as to whether government will assume the responsibility in providing recreation, but rather what its role will be. The role of counties, cities, villages and townships will be different, but each should have the primary responsibility of providing recreational services not only to meet the needs of its citizens, but also for the tourist who will spend certain sums of money in that area.

"All too often, the rural community has taken its resources for granted without the full realization of its importance," he said.

He pointed out that financing any project is always the most difficult task facing rural governments. "When public officials accept recreation as a basic need of people and a worthwhile venture which will help the economic conditions of the people, then a bold initiative will be required to foster a financial appropriation necessary to develop the type of facilities needed."

Sahawneh outlined several approaches to financing recreational projects.

Through interviews with public officials, he found that most individual township officials expressed the desire to have some type of park system in their respective township if it does not conflict with county-wide plans. He also found that officials would support a county park system regardless of where it may be located, with very few exceptions. Much of the officials' views on needs coincided with visitor preference.

Interviews with visitors at Old Orchard Park indicated that most were from Detroit, Flint, Bay City, Saginaw and many of the suburbs or towns nearby those cities. Indiana, Ohio and neighboring states were also represented.

He found an overwhelming satisfaction with what the park offers, although some complained of the "dusty road" through the park and others offered recommendations.

Sheriff's Dept. Sponsoring Free Marine Classes

Sheriff Ivan O'Farrell announced that marine classes will be held beginning Monday, July 11, 8:00 p. m., at the supervisors' room in the Iosco County Building. These classes are open to anyone interested in boating at no charge.

The five weekly classes will be held on Mondays, beginning at 8:00 p. m. and will last approximately two hours.

Deputy Sheriff Keith Dobson will instruct on the following subjects: Michigan marine laws, boating safety and first aid. A special instruction on mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration will be given to each person attending these classes on "Recussa-Annie" by the Michigan State Police.

Persons attending all classes and scoring 70 or more on the test will receive a certificate of achievement suitable for framing and a card to carry on their person from the Michigan Waterways Commission.

Further information may be obtained by calling Deputy Dobson at 739-8801 or the county jail, 362-3485.

Overflow Crowds Visited Campgrounds and Beaches

Iosco County was visited by what is believed to be a record-breaking throng of vacationers over the July 4 week-end signaling the start of the summer tourist season.

Federal, state, township and city authorities report that all parks were filled to capacity by Friday or Saturday and "no vacancy" signs were posted at resorts and motels throughout the area—even some out-of-the-way resorts were filled to capacity.

While farmers, fire fighters and owners of parched lawns may have hoped for a good downpour of rain, the area sweltered in hot weather—reaching the mid-90s during the day and cooling off at night—thus bringing an even larger crowd of city dwellers than expected.

Beaches along Tawas Bay, Lake Huron and the inland lakes of Iosco were packed with bathers. Public campgrounds in the Tawas area, Oscoda and Huron National Forest were overflowing and business places played a merry tune on cash registers.

Area police agencies report that the "overflow" crowd from public campgrounds simply found a likely looking site along highways, back yards, driveways, in public or private wooded areas and pitched tents or parked trailers. Many persons slept in their cars or out in the open.

As an example of the large number of persons vacationing here, the forest service reports that six campgrounds in Huron National Forest had 190 different units and approximately 925 campers.

Campgrounds at Gordon Creek, Silver Valley, Round Lake, Rollways, Lumbermen's Monument and the new one at Corsair are designed for a total of 112 camping units. Facilities were operating from 85 to 90 percent over capacity.

The new campground at Tawas Point State Park, which has 202 camp sites, was completely filled and the Michigan Department of Conservation estimated that there were approximately 858 campers using the facilities.

East Tawas City Park, with its 186 camp sites, was filled most of last week and was completely packed by Friday morning.

The forest service estimated that from 500 to 600 persons were visiting Lumbermen's Monument each hour on Sunday and Monday. A special program was held Saturday night for campers at Silver Valley. A wild life movie was shown and information was given to campers on the use and benefits of the national forest.

Law enforcement agencies report that crowds were orderly on the whole, although state police and the sheriff's department had numerous arrests of minors in possession of beer and other arrests for traffic violations. There were 11 persons confined to jail on July 4, a somewhat lower figure than in some previous years.

Rain Welcome, but Not Enough to Ease Danger

The area received some welcome rain showers Sunday night and early Monday morning but only .05 of an inch, according to the United States Forest Service at East Tawas. The last previous rain was on June 20 when .08 of an inch was quickly absorbed.

Vernon Blust, clerk at the forest service office, reported Monday that rainfall here during June totaled .94 of an inch, the same figure as recorded during the month of May.

Farmers making their first cutting of alfalfa hay during the past two weeks say that if the area does not get some rain soon there may not be a second cutting. Corn, which traditionally should be knee high or above by July 4, is hardly ankle high in most sections of the county.

The weather seems to follow the same pattern as last year, although the summer drought is more severe. Late summer and early fall rains last year further complicated the problem of farmers as many were unable to harvest their stunted fields of corn and the area was certified for distress shipments of surplus grain.

13-Year-Old Boy Killed Monday Crossing US-23

A 13-year-old Detroit boy was Iosco County's lone accident traffic victim over the holiday week-end.

Killed while crossing US-23 north of East Tawas was Richard A. Mathers.

Vacationing with his family on Lake Huron, Richard, along with his 11-year-old brother, Robert, and Peter Stekette, 11, also of Detroit, started to cross US-23 to reach Miller's Market.

Robert and Peter told investigating state police officers that they did not look for cars before starting to cross the road. A northbound car driven by Robert B. Aldridge, 31, Flint, struck and killed the Mathers boy.

When Aldridge sounded his horn and applied the brakes of his vehicle, Robert ran across the road and Peter turned back to the shoulder. The victim did not see or hear the car until the last second and apparently lost his footing as he tried to reach safety.

The boy was struck by the under-carriage of the car as it passed over him. He received head and chest injuries and was dead at the scene.

Two accidents were reported by state police over the week-end. Saturday evening, Robert L. Rathbun, 20, Flint, lost control of his motorcycle on Tawas Point Road and hit a tree. Officers said his vehicle was traveling too fast to navigate a curve.

Two Detroit area men were injured Sunday afternoon when their sports car missed a curve on Baldwin Resort Road and smashed into a clump of trees. Treated at Tawas Hospital were Thomas C. Schroeder, 19, and Steven G. Kott, 22. They told officers that a car in front of them hit a patch of gravel and their vision was obscured by the dust.

Program Nearly Complete for Annual Tourist Festival

Program plans for a "bigger and better" Michigan Tourist Festival July 14-17 are now in the finalization stage.

A committee of the Tawas Chamber of Commerce reports that this fourth annual event is being developed into a major attraction which should receive state-wide attention.

Heading features of the four-day carnival of activities will be a beauty contest open to any girl between the age of 17 and 25. The winner will be awarded a $100 cash prize and a trophy. Entry blank appears on page five.

Selection of the winner is to be held Saturday, July 16, 3:30 p. m., at the East Tawas City Park. Contest blanks have been sent to 25 chambers of commerce throughout the state.

Another first for the festival will be a Saturday noon outdoor equipment parade through the Tawas Area Senior Citizens Club.

Activities announced for the festival thus far are as follows:

Thursday, July 14—Hole in one contest at Tawas Golf and Country Club, a community sing, prize drawing at the carnival and junior baseball games.

Friday, July 15—Teen dances, hole in one contest, golf tournament, carnival on Newman Street and a band concert at the Tawas City Park.

Saturday, July 16—Bathing beauty contest, helicopter rides, kids' drawing at carnival, fireworks, teen dances, water skiing show, hole in one contest, parade and an aerial water free fall.

Sunday, July 17—Chicken barbecue, helicopter rides, hole in one contest and carnival.

As a feature of the festival, visitors are invited to inspect the historical exhibit at J. Barkman Lumber Company on Thursday, Friday and Sunday from 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

Times and places for the above events, along with additions to the program, are to be announced next week.

Swimming Classes Started Tuesday

A six-week instructional swimming program sponsored by Iosco Chapter of the American Red Cross started Tuesday morning in the Tawas. The program is for all children seven years of age and older.

Red Cross water safety instructor for this year is Leigh Evans, whose brothers, Donald and Douglas, and sister, Carolyn, had previously served as instructors.

Running through August 13, classes will be conducted at the Tawas City Park beach on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. East Tawas classes are slated for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Registration for the classes was held in late June at the two instructional sites.

Daily schedule for classes is as follows: 9:00 a. m.—Swimmer; 9:30 a. m.—Intermediate; 10:00 a. m.—Beginners; 10:20 a. m.—Beginners; 10:40 a. m.—Advanced Beginners; 6:00 p. m.—Junior and Senior Life Saving.

Records are to be kept during the program and awards are to be made at the conclusion.

Businessmen Collect $895 Toward Goal on Street Decorations

Tawas City Businessmen's Association has collected $895 toward its goal of a $2,000 to $3,000 Christmas decoration program.

The following checks have been received to date, according to a report from Hugo Keiser and Cecil Cable, co-chairmen for the fund drive:

Keiser's Drug Store, $200; Cable Hardware, $100; Tawas Plating, $100; McKay Sales, $100; Peoples State Bank, $100; Iosco Insurance Agency, $50; Tawas Furniture, $50; Huron Loan Company, $50; Inglis Ford Sales, $50.

Anyone wishing to contribute to this fund may contact either of the two co-chairmen or bring a check to the weekly luncheon of the businessmen's association held Thursday noon at the Barnes Hotel.

Forest Fire Stopped by Quick Work

Burning embers from an unattended camp fire were blamed Sunday for touching off a blaze which blackened between 40 and 50 acres of Huron National Forest east of Hale.

Fire fighters from the United States Forest Service, Plainfield Township Fire Department, Michigan Department of Conservation, along with civilian volunteers from Hale and Sand Lake, battled the blaze for nearly two hours before bringing it under control.

Located three miles east and one-half mile south of the Hale-Sand Lake Road, the blaze was first spotted by the pilot of a civilian airplane and reported to Wurtsmith Air Force Base. The fire was then pinpointed by a United States Forest Service aircraft and equipment was dispatched from Hale, Tawas and Sand Lake.

Tawas District Ranger Loren Woerpel said that visibility was at a minimum of 1 1/2 miles Sunday because of the haze. Smoke was not noticed by the lookout of a fire tower only about six miles away.

Using bulldozers and plows, a fire break was cut around the burning stand of red pine, jack pine and aspen. The blaze was pinched off before it reached an area covered by slashing left from a recent pulpwood operation.

Woerpel said that evidence of a camp fire was found where the blaze started. Also found was a large number of empty beer bottles, which led authorities to believe that a drinking party had been held there Saturday night and the camp fire was not extinguished.

Fire crews were still "mopping up" Monday as the fire jumped the plowed furrows at one point.

A light rain Sunday night and early Monday morning had little effect on the tinder dry brush and forest land. Wooded areas are dangerously dry and all fire-fighting agencies of the area urge campers to exercise caution with fire.

AN ADDED ATTRACTION at Lumbermen's Monument is a new historical display installed Friday in the comfort station by the United States Forest Service. Tawas District Ranger Loren Woerpel is shown looking over a display case containing a collection from the lumbering days. The pictures, furnished by The Tawas Herald, depict logging operations in the AuSable River region and show timber cruisers, cutters, rivermen, methods of transportation and mills. Each picture is individually captioned with a brief explanation. The case was constructed by John Ristow of the forest service and Woerpel designed the picture arrangement.—Tawas Herald Photo.

TA Summer Program Keeps School Busy

Greater utilization of expensive public school facilities during the summer months, long a goal of area educators, has come to a partial realization here this year through federal participation.

Now entering its fourth week of summer school is the communications improvement program being conducted at the Tawas City Elementary Unit.

John Alexander, program director, reports that a total of 155 youngsters have availed themselves of this instructional school which runs through July 29. The program is to be continued during the regular school year and it is hoped it may be expanded next summer.

There is no cost to the student or his family, the program being financed under the federal programs of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1955 and is open to students of public as well as parochial schools.

Alexander said the daily half-day schedule for students includes one period of reading improvement, one period for library and one period of physical education. Students also have classes twice a week in music and two classes are given weekly in handicraft art.

Small classes of from five to seven students have been provided for English and reading improvement in order that a great deal of personal help may be given by teachers.

The director said testing programs have shown that the average student, ranging from the fourth grade through grade eight, have been two or more years behind in reading.

The six teachers in this reading enrichment program have made valuable use of recording equipment purchased under the federal grant. The equipment enables students to record their own voices as they read from books and then hear their voices as the teacher explains phonetics and pronunciation.

Additional equipment is to be received that will pace each student in his reading. "There has been such a demand for equipment of this type that it has been back ordered at the factory. We expect delivery shortly," said Alexander.

Members of the summer school faculty are Mrs. A. A. McGuire, Mrs. Waldo Leslie, Mrs. Virginia Coyle, Mrs. Ruby Bowerman, Mrs. Louise Michaels and Mrs. R. J. Cooke.

Mrs. Leslie Hoy and Miss Bernetta Miller are library supervisors and Mrs. Elizabeth Bielby is teaching handicrafts. Mrs. Robert Erickson is music teacher and Miss Mabel Myles is test coordinator.

Another phase of the summer school program is a class being conducted by Dr. David Goodell, Central Michigan University. Members of the faculty are receiving advanced training in the teaching of educationally deprived children.

In addition, classes are being conducted for five severely mentally handicapped youngsters. This program had been held in the basement of First Baptist Church and transferred to the elementary unit when it was included in the federal financing as a pilot project.

Robert Mattson, a specialist with Iosco Intermediate School District, is evaluating all children to determine eligibility in a special education program which is to be developed in all schools of the county. This is being financed through voter approval of the program early in June.

Mattson said that testing determines intelligence of the child, whether or not there is a lack of achievement motivation or if the child has reading or emotional problems.

Youngsters are then screened by a committee and an education plan is developed for each child. The screening committee consists of teachers who have worked with the child, the school principal and Mattson. In some cases, the county nurse or other special education personnel would be called in for advice.

Mattson said that the intermediate district is now attempting to secure elementary teachers to take special training in order to work with handicapped youngsters.

Buses and bikes are lined up this summer at the Tawas City Elementary Unit.

DISCUSSING PLANS for testing children at Tawas City Elementary Unit are Robert Mattson, left, specialist with the Iosco Intermediate School District, and John Alexander, director of Tawas Area School's summer reading improvement program. A total of 155 students are taking part in the program, which runs through July 29.

Principal Jerry L. Inman Attends Summer School

teachers participating in a five-week summer institute for educational media specialists at Michigan State University.

Participants, all state-certified teachers with at least one year classroom teaching, will study such areas as instructional television, eight millimeter film clips and programmed instruction.

One of the goals of the program is to increase the ability to locate, evaluate and use educational media more effectively in the classroom.

Taxpayers Note Hike in Social Security Cost

Have you noticed an increase in the amount of social security tax you are paying? Most people have! Paul Ellifritz, social security district manager in Bay City, explained today that on July 30, 1965, President Johnson signed the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act. The changes in the Social Security Act established a program of health insurance for the aged and liberalized many other provisions of the law. In order to finance these changes, an increase in both the earnings base and schedule of social security taxes were made.

Effective January 1, the FICA (Federal Insurance Contributions Act) tax was increased from 3.58 percent to 4.2 percent for both the employer and employee and the self-employed tax was increased from 5.4 percent to 6.15 percent. The earnings base was increased from $4,800 to $6,600.

The hospital insurance trust fund and the supplementary medical insurance trust fund were created to finance the program of health insurance for the aged.

These funds will be used to pay the benefits and administrative expenses of each separated program; they may be used for no other purpose. Of each person's social security tax for the year, 0.35 will be used to finance hospital insurance and will be placed in the hospital insurance trust fund. Voluntary payments of $3 per month from people over 65 and an equal amount from the federal government will be placed in the supplementary medical insurance trust fund and will be used to finance medical insurance. The government's contribution will be taken from general revenue.

Mr. Ellifritz said that if there are any questions regarding the recent changes in the Social Security Act, the social security office is ready to provide answers. The office in Bay City is located at 1009 North Madison Avenue, telephone 393-9579.

A social security representative will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, Thursday, July 14, from 10:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m.

IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR AGAIN—summertime, and you will have more time on your hands. Well, if not yours, your children's. I'm sure you've heard the familiar question "Mother, what can I do?". Here's an answer you would do well to keep in mind.

People of all ages collect things for scrapbooks—all kinds of things. From pictures of recording artists, movie stars, remembrances of vacations, special events or "romances". Since the material you collect is special, the cover for the scrapbook you put it in should be too.

SIMPLE PROJECT AND FUN

Whimsical butterflies and cheerful flowers decorate this attractive scrapbook cover. It's a simple project and the materials are easy to obtain.

All you need is 3/4 yard of heavy black cotton, stretched across two pieces of heavy cardboard 9 1/2 x 12 1/2 inches. The fabric is cut and folded over the edges much like wrapping a package. A piece of construction paper is glued across the back to hide the fabric edges. Black cord is used for the ties. The real icing on the cake, the flowers and butterflies, are cut from "BONDEX" iron-on fabric.

JUST A STARTING POINT

This should just be a starting point for an active imagination. Use coloring books or pictures from magazines as your patterns. You can even use this idea with gingham and "BONDEX" vegetables to hold recipes—it would make a nice personal gift for a kitchen shower for the June bride. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PPE 1290.

HERE COMES PETER COTTON TAIL, hoppin' down the bunny trail. He'll keep on the go too, 'cause he'll be dragged from the bedroom to the livingroom. You see, he's a cushion four inches high and almost three feet long. He turns the floor into another chair for the TV watcher; in the bedroom, he's a backrest, and he ends the day as a decorative piece wherever he's left.

STUFFED WITH PILLOW, NOT CARROTS

He is made from one yard of 72" felt and trimmed in different sizes of white and green "Boil-tex" rick-rack. Wire hangers and cotton batting are used in the ears to make them stand up.

He looks at you alertly through button eyes framed in white knitting worsted yarn. His big felt teeth make him look hungry but he couldn't be. He's stuffed with an oversized bed pillow.

IT'S AGELESS

This cushion is ageless. The little toddler will be as delighted with it as the teenager. This is even a good idea for the college girl who wants to do something with the institutional look of her dormitory room. Wouldn't it be nice in her next "care package"? Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PPE 1299.

Making Hay

ONE IOSCO farmer is using equipment which is probably unique to this area in making hay. Arthur Beader, Route 2, Hale, is shown above on his swather which makes a 10-foot cut, conditions and windrows the hay in one operation. The hay is ready for baling the next day. Beader, an airman stationed at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, brought the equipment here last fall from Columbus, Ohio. He was cutting an alfalfa field of a neighbor, Joseph Caverly, during this visit. Beader, who plans to retire here, was spending his leave "making hay while the sun shines."—Tawas Herald Photos.

SEEK INFORMATION ON JAPANESE BEETLE

Twenty thousand Japanese beetle traps are being set out in various parts of Michigan to detect the presence of this destructive pest. If the catch is as light as it was last year, plant pest specialists in the Michigan Department of Agriculture will be happy.

Japanese beetle infestation in 1965 was found in only 1,508 acres in the entire state with the exception of the Battle Creek area where there has been a concentration of the pest.

Blanch Vegetables For Freezer Storage

It is easy to freeze fresh vegetables—but do not over-simplify the process. Take time to blanch those vegetables.

To blanch foods, you simply scald them in boiling water, then cool them quickly before freezing. Scalding destroys enzymes present in the vegetables—enzymes that cause off-flavors and unnatural colors. Scalding time varies with the different vegetables. This is generally because of the different size pieces.

One research laboratory found that green beans changed in flavor within two weeks after freezing if they were not blanched.

The vegetable should be cooled in the same amount of time it takes to scald it. For instance, if green beans require three minutes to scald, they should be cooled in three minutes. To test, bite into a piece of vegetable. It should be cool to the center.

Appliances

Some man invented it—I just know! To avoid the jungle of drip-dry laundry in the bathroom, he invented a new appliance—a lightweight, portable electric clothes drier for stockings, baby clothes and other delicate hand washables. It holds up to two pounds of wet clothes.

Graded Turkey Rolls

The first US Department of Agriculture grade ever developed for a food product processed from poultry has been established for turkey roasts or rolls.

These roasts, boneless poultry meat prepared in ready-to-cook form, have proven a highly popular new food item. In an effort to help you shop for this item and to assist processing plants in maintaining quality control, USDA has developed this grade standard for poultry roasts.

In order to qualify for the "US Grade A" shield, the roast must meet these requirements: It must be prepared for deboned, young poultry meat of "A" quality. It must be made in such a way that each slice will remain substantially intact as you serve it. All tendons, cartilage, etc., must be removed. The roast must be packed so it will retain its shape after defrosting and cooking. Packaging of the roast must be neat and attractive. The label must accurately describe the roast's contents. Before the roast is graded, it must have been inspected for wholesomeness by USDA inspectors.

Did Heat Get You Down?

After all that heat last week, it was good to have a fresh start with lots of energy on the first cooler day. Or, did you? Let us take stock of our needs during hot weather.

Our food needs are the same on hot days as any others, so do not try to live on fruits and salads. You need proteins, carbohydrates and fats or you will feel sluggish and the heat will bother you more.

Heavy meals, do, of course, work your stomach harder, adding to body heat. Reduce the amount of food at any one time. Try a big breakfast in the early morning coolness and cut down on other meals. You might try four small meals a day. Drink some hot liquids; icee ones really make you feel no cooler and interfere with the body's temperature controls.

Lukewarm baths and showers are more cooling than icy ones. Cold water stirs up your blood and makes you feel warmer. Splashing cool water on your arms and temples does help without quickening blood circulation so much.
