

Niles and Elliott Vie for Tawas School Post

Tawas Area School District voters will name one trustee to the board of education at the June 13 school election.

Vying for the four-year term are Walter H. Niles, incumbent, and Robert W. Elliott Jr.

Niles, 50, has been a member of the board of education since reorganization of the school districts in 1952. Prior to that, he had served three years on the Alabaster school board.

He served 11 years as secretary of the Tawas board and has been a member of the county board of education for the past 12 years. He has served as chairman of the latter board for the past nine years and was re-elected to a six-year term last June.

Niles is employed by Schreck Lumber Company, East Tawas, and is a resident of Tawas Township.

Elliott, 36, who is associated with his brother in Tawas Bay Agency, Incorporated, East Tawas, has taken an active part in civic affairs. He served several terms as president of the Tawas Knolthole League and chairman of the East Tawas Recreation Committee.

He is a member of the Lions Club, past president of the Tawas Golf Association, a member of the East Tawas Planning Commission and the East Tawas Business Association.

Three Iosco Schools List Candidates for Boards of Education

Fourteen candidates are seeking six school board positions in elections being held at Iosco County's three other school districts.

Oscoda has the most candidates, eight in all, seeking two seats. The list is headed by Cecil Kennedy, incumbent, with William C. Martin, Mrs. Ruth Kahn, Dale Lamrock Jr., Mrs. Marion V. Hopcroft, Kenneth C. O'Brien, Kenneth V. Cole and Josephine DiLoreto filling out the slate.

A contest has developed at Hale Area School between four candidates for two seats as trustee. Running are Gilbert Follette, Mrs. Audrey Kocher, Thomas Clark and Al Baker. Hale voters will also decide on a proposition to transfer money remaining in the debt retirement fund to the general fund.

A. Emil Szanyo and Donald Schuster, incumbents, are unopposed at Whittemore-Preseott Area. Two transfers are up for decision of voters, being debt retirement funds from Burlough and Richland districts which would go to the general fund.

Ex-Governor Williams to Visit Iosco June 15

G. Mennen Williams, candidate for the United States Senate from Michigan, will be a visitor to Iosco County on Wednesday, June 15.

Iosco County Democrats are sponsoring a noon luncheon at the Barnes Hotel, Tawas City.

This will be Williams' first visit here since he left the office of state governor.

Tickets are available from Roy Bergeron, Ralph Degesie and Wilbur C. Roach.

Era Ends --- Write Finis to Caucuses

"The end of an era has come to township government."

So said Joseph A. Parisi Jr., executive director of Michigan Townships Association, who released an unofficial advance copy last Friday of the June Polling Place. The magazine is prepared by the state director of elections.

The regular June issue could not be released in sufficient time to reach township officials prior to the June 14 deadline for filing nominating petitions. Principal reason for this is that HB 3698 has not yet been signed by the governor, who is expected to do so this week.

This bill establishes two-year terms of office and also extends the terms of incumbent justices of the peace until the office is abolished.

The old-fashioned township caucus where "friends and neighbors gathered to verbally nominate township officials," is no longer legal. In addition, Parisi pointed out that small minor parties—"Citizens," "Peoples," "Liberty," etc.—are no longer permitted. Township officials must now declare whether they choose to run as Republicans or Democrats.

Parisi urged all township officials to take immediate steps to comply with the new laws. "This is progress," he said, "while we may differ with the law, we nonetheless have a sworn duty to uphold that law."

In the coming August primary and November general election, township elections will be held at the same time, as provided by the new state constitution. Legislation passed in 1965 and 1966 further implemented this provision.

All townships will henceforth conduct primary elections, as all references to the caucus procedures have been stricken from the law. Many township clerks will, therefore, (See END OF ERA, page 6.)

Tawas River Race in 13th Year Sun.

Thirteenth annual Tawas River Canoe Race will be held this Sunday under sponsorship of the Tawas Chamber of Commerce.

Two races are to be held, one for teams up to 15 years of age and the second for teams 15 years and older.

Cash prizes and trophies await winners in the senior division. First place will net winners $75, while $25 will go to second place and $15 for third. Trophies are to go to the first 10 places.

Applications are to be received until race time and the final senior division list is expected to be between 15 and 20 canoes.

Race course for the senior division, starting at 2:00 p. m., is approximately seven miles in length. It starts at Grove's landing on Tawas Lake and proceeds northerly to Cliff's Landing. There, canoeists round a buoy and proceed back down the lake to the Tawas River, paddling to the river mouth and into Tawas Bay. Finish line is at the Tawas City Park dock.

The junior race starts at 1:45 p. m. at Grove's Landing. The course for juniors is the same except that the race ends at the Tawas River mouth.

The Tawas River canoe race was originated in 1954 as part of Tawas City's centennial observance.

Last year's winners were Stan Hall and Ralph Sawyer, both of Oscoda, who completed the course in 56 minutes, one second, beating 14 other teams.

Hugo Wojahn is again chairman of the race committee.

School Elections Scheduled Next Monday

Continuation of 3-Mills to be Decided by Tawas

Continuation of the present special three-mill voted tax levy, due to expire this year, is being sought by Tawas Area Board of Education.

Voters of the district are to decide on this proposition, as well as name one trustee to the board of education, at the annual school election June 13.

Extending time on the special tax levy approved by district voters in 1961 as a pay-as-you-go construction program for schools, has been under consideration here for the past several months.

Following a considerable amount of study by the board of education and a citizen advisory group, it was decided to ask voters to continue the three mills in order that improvements could be made in the school's vocational education program, as well as to provide financial means for completely segregating the junior high school wing from the high school.

While vocational education has been offered in Tawas Area School since reorganization, facilities and equipment have been inadequate to provide proper initial training for youngsters in possible career fields.

With the population explosion of this country since World War II, coupled with a desire by a greater percentage of high school graduates to obtain a higher education, expansion of college facilities of the state have not kept pace with the large numbers of students desiring entrance.

As a result, colleges are much more selective concerning entrance and many prospective students have found doors of schools of higher learning closed to them.

In recent years, an educational concept with much more emphasis on vocational training, has been stressed in Michigan schools, and, only recently, a committee of Bay-Arenac and Iosco Counties commenced a study toward a regional vocational center.

Proposed expansion of Tawas program and the thought behind it is not designed to turn out expert carpenters, metal workers, auto mechanics and other skilled laborers. It is being developed to expose youngsters to possible career fields, which could then be studied at a regional vocational center, if one becomes available, or on an apprenticeship basis in present industry.

"Continuation of the three-mill levy will insure students of the Tawas area equal chances to neighboring schools in vocational education and offer a chance to explore new fields for possible vocational interest," states Supt. Reynold Mick.

In addition, extension of the school day could enable adults to utilize these facilities for upgrading their present positions or retraining for new positions.

Extension of the three mills for two years would finance construction and equipping a new shop building containing 6,960 square feet of floor space. The building would be attached to the south end of the high school building's west wing.

In addition, it would also fix (See MILLAGE VOTE, page 6.)

Iosco School Voters to Decide Fate of Special Education

All school districts of Iosco County will be voting June 13 on a proposition of levying three-quarters of a mill annually for a special education program of the intermediate school district.

Approval of such a program would provide finances necessary to educate handicapped children within the four school districts.

Last year, the intermediate board of education hired a diagnostician to work with all four schools in evaluating children. He has interviewed and tested 215 children and certified 97 for a special program of education for the mentally handicapped.

As of today, however, only 37 of these children are in any program of special education—all at Oscoda. Some 60 children who are eligible are not receiving special help because the other three schools have no special education available.

The intermediate district would not conduct a separate school, but would provide funds to establish special education centers in the existing schools.

Part of the operational costs of programs not reimbursed from the state would be paid from this county-wide special education fund.

Clyde Soper New Child Aid Worker

Clyde Soper, 54, an East Tawas businessman for the past six years and a resident of the area since 1933, has been appointed Iosco-Arenac child welfare worker by the Michigan Department of Social Service.

His appointment, announced by Mrs. Margo Troy, area representative for the department at its Alpena office, becomes effective Monday, June 13.

Soper replaces Raymond Botkins, who had worked out of the social welfare office, Iosco County Building, in a four-county area. He resigned to become welfare director of Oscoda County.

The new case worker has owned a dairy products distributorship here for the past six years. He is now disposing of his interest in this business to take over his new full time position.

A graduate of the New York State College of Forestry with a bachelor of science degree, Soper came to Iosco County in 1933 and entered the United States Forest Service. He worked with the forest service in landscaping projects until 1941. Following this, he was employed for seven years by National Gypsum Company and later worked for Anderson Coach Company.

Soper is presently serving two years of a four-year term as a member of the Tawas Area Board of Education, of which he is secretary.

In his new position, he will be working with teen-agers of Iosco and Arenac Counties who have problems.

He is married to the former Laurine Frank of Tawas City. They are the parents of three children.

CLYDE SOPER

MONDAY NIGHT marked the first Republican banquet in Iosco County in years and the turnout above was for Gov. George Romney, guest of honor, at the speaker's stand.—Herald Photos.

Romney Wows GOP 'Faithful' at Banquet

Republican Party faithful—more than 400 strong—turned out Monday night to welcome Gov. George Romney on his "day" in Iosco County.

This was the first banquet held by Iosco Republicans in 15 years and they went all-out to make it a day to remember in honor of the state party leader.

Romney, behind schedule because of many other commitments, made it a whirlwind two-hour visit. Landing at Wurtsmith Air Force Base shortly after 7:00 p. m.—about two hours behind schedule—the governor was greeted by Elmer Werth and other local GOP officials.

The visitor was whisked to the East Tawas athletic field where a Knolthole League game in progress was halted momentarily for ceremonies marking the opening of the season, followed by Governor Romney throwing out the first pitch.

Two separate lawsuits asking judgments of $100,000 each were filed Monday in Iosco Circuit Court by administrators of the estates of two teen-agers who were electrocuted following an Oscoda auto crash last October 17.

The estates of Timothy J. Walbridge, 19, and Jacqueline W. Barry, 15, have filed suit against Marye Brooks, driver of one car involved; Charles R. Park, owner of the car which she was driving, and Consumers Power Company.

The Brooks vehicle, traveling south on M-171, veered out of control and sheared off a utility pole at the US-23 intersection. An 11,000-volt power line fell into the roadway.

Walbridge, who had been stationed at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, drove up and stopped his car on the powerline. Police said at the time that Miss Barry, a passenger in Walbridge's car, apparently opened the door and stepped out. She was killed by shock as her feet touched the ground. Walbridge tried to grab her and was electrocuted.

Plaintiffs claim that the Brooks vehicle was being driven in a negligent and careless manner at an excessive rate of speed and claim that the driver was under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

They further claim that Consumers Power Company "owed a duty to those using highways to maintain utility lines in a safe condition and to provide safeguards for those using highways in the event high tension lines became a hazard."

"We should be as prudent with a surplus as if we did not have one," said the governor. "We should work out sound answers to tax problems in the state. Our present tax structure, based on property, is very unfair."

He said that property taxes were not adequate to meet school and local government needs and believed that it would take about a year to work out some revisions. He stressed the tremendous importance to Michigan for such a revision.

The governor believed that the state has been administered fairly but firmly during his tenure. When he took over as governor, he said, a story in a national magazine called Michigan a "problem state." He said that people today think of dynamic action when talk turns to this state.

He said that one of the big differences today was a change in attitude of industry. It takes an estimated $70,000 of capital to create one average job, he said, and instead of major companies locating outside the state, they are now investing here. He said that industry has announced a three-billion-dollar expansion in Michigan. He also pointed out that Michigan had advanced from 47th in the nation in personal income to first.

Of local interest, the governor touched on the subject of attracting industry to the area. He complimented community efforts toward attracting industry through its industrial development corporation and pointed out that the state industrial development department was available for advice.

The governor touched on subjects of education and mental health. He went on record as not being in favor of strikes by public employees.

Toastmaster for the night was Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller of East Tawas, who presented the governor with a paper weight made from gypsum rock—principal mineral resource of Iosco County. Merton Kiley was chairman of the special day and drew praise from officials for his work.

Because of a tight schedule, the governor left immediately for Lansing after termination of the banquet.

Reports from directors from 17 counties will be heard and the program features demonstrations by the Detroit News autogiro. Those who have never seen this type of plane will be amazed to see it speed along with its horizontal propeller revolving and then suddenly slack to stand almost motionless in the air.

George A. Prescott won letters in track, football, baseball and basketball.

Sealed proposals are being asked on 13½ miles of grading between East Tawas and Oscoda on the new Shore Road, according to the state highway department. Six miles of paving south of Alpena has been let.

Sheriff Charles Miller announces that drivers of every motor vehicle involved in an accident resulting in a vehicle becoming disabled or resulting in the death of any person shall report such accident to the nearest officer of the law within 48 hours.

There were eight bids on the road job in Sherman Township last week for grading one mile of road in preparation for gravel. The lowest bid was made by Vernon Eckstein, $395, and the job was let to him.

Frank Brown announces that Tawas Golf Course is now open for business.

Senior class of Tawas City High School, consisting of 21 members and accompanied by several faculty members and parents, returned Sunday from a week-long trip to Washington, D. C. Almost all expenses of the trip were borne by the class, raised through parties, teas, shows, dinners and class dues during the past year. The class presented a $15 check to the school to start a fund for a stage curtain in the auditorium.

Administration critics, following Secretary Ickes' suggestion for "gasless Sundays" as a means of controlling the oil supply of the country, are asking how can this country be faced with an oil shortage—it controls half the world's oil supply. Critics are also asking how did it happen that American concerns are selling oil and its products to Japan, Russia and to other countries, via which it might get into Axis hands.

The Baganz Trio, nationally acclaimed concertists, will appear Sunday evening at Zion Lutheran Church.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS TO YOU
"Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them." This promise from Psalms will be part of the responsive reading at Christian Science church services this Sunday. Subject of the Bible lesson is "God the Preserver of Man."
The lesson includes the story of Daniel and his three fellow captives whose spiritual steadfastness in worshipping only God preserved them from harm in the lion's den and the "fiery furnace."
Among the related passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, are these lines: "The central fact of the Bible is the superiority of spiritual over physical power . . . The calm and exalted thought or spiritual apprehension is at peace."

Committee Advises 50% Cut on Permits

Members of the citizens' advisory committee on deer, holding its fourth and final meeting here for District Seven last Saturday, recommended to the Michigan Conservation Commission that it cut its proposed 1966 antlerless deer quota for this district by 50 percent.

This was one of four alternatives set by the conservation commission when it established advisory committees back in March to aid in setting 1966 deer policies.

The recommendation, if followed by the conservation commission, actually means that antlerless deer permits for 1966 in District Seven would be cut by about two-thirds of the number issued last year—from 52,000 to slightly more than 15,000 permits.

Department game biologists had gone into the advisory committee meeting recommending a take of 7,582 antlerless deer in the district. This was a reduction of nearly half the number of antlerless deer it recommended for harvest in 1965—or a total of 15,769. Actual number of deer taken in the district was 12,356.

The committee's action would cut the department's 1966 recommendation to 3,791 antlerless deer. Only about 25 percent of the permits are filled annually and to harvest the 3,791 deer would require approximately 15,164 permits—or four permits for every deer to be taken.

Cutting the quota of 50 percent was passed by a 17-10 roll call of the district committee. Counties represented were Iosco, Alcona, Osceola, Ogemaw, Crawford, Kalkaska, Missaukee and Roscommon.

The other three alternatives were as follows: 1. Approval of the department's district recommendation (lost, 19-9); 2. elimination of antlerless deer shooting in certain areas of district (lost, 24-3); 3. elimination of antlerless deer hunting within the entire district (lost, 19-9).

The 27-member committee held its final trip Saturday morning at Osceola and then met at the East Tawas Elementary School during the afternoon for voting.

Following the vote, Chairman John C. Elliott of East Tawas expressed the opinion that the committee's action was a good "middle of the road position" for one year which should satisfy both sides of the any deer controversy. In commending work of District Game Biologist Philip Baumgrass of Mio, Elliott said that "the biologists know what they are talking about," referring to the department's desired program of balancing the deer herd with the available food supply. He said that a "biologically unsound" moratorium on antlerless deer hunting, coupled with one winter in which deer starved, could put the advisory committee in a "foolish" position.

The chairman said that the advisory group would now have to wait and see if the conservation commission followed its recommendations. If not, he said, there would be no need for further meetings of the group later in the year.

Discontent over the committee's action was expressed by Paul Harvey Jr., Osceola, president of the Michigan Deer Hunters Association.

In a statement read before the group, Harvey recommended that all deer hunting be closed this season because "of the abundant food in this area and only a few deer left on public hunting lands."

Besides Elliott and Harvey, Iosco members of the committee included Harry Krueger, Peter Lichtfusz, Leonard Calabrese, Arden Charters and John L. VanPatten. George Wood, the eighth member, died last week.

Summer Reading Program to Begin at Hale Area Schools

A summer reading program, being financed under a federal grant of $11,042, is scheduled to run from June 13 to July 22 at Hale Area Schools.

Classes are to be held half days, 8:30-11:00 a. m. or 12 o'clock noon to 2:30 p. m., at the elementary building. The entire program is free and all materials used are to be furnished by the school, according to Jerry Inman, principal. The program is for students in grades one through eight who have reading difficulties. There will be no more than 10 students in any one class and each class is to have a teacher's aide. This is to insure that each student receives a great deal of individual attention on problems.

The principal said that the program had received a good response from parents. More than 87 percent of the students invited to participate have returned signed acceptance slips.

At least one field trip is offered to all students during the course of the program. Parents are to be encouraged to visit classes and see their children learning to read.

 fore, be faced for the first time with the problem of accepting and checking nominating petitions.
 Under Act 131 passed in 1965, the Democratic and Republican parties qualify for a position on the township portion of the ballot, even though the party may not have been on the ballot at the last township election and are the only parties qualified to appear on the ballot.

Township officers will now appear on the same ballot on which state and county officers appear. This is true in both the primary and general election.

Elected township officers will be supervisor, clerk, treasurer, not more than four constables and not more than four trustees. Candidates for these offices qualify by filing nominating petitions with the township clerk. Petitions must be filed by 4:00 p. m., June 14. Members of the board of review are no longer elected, but are appointed.

Justices of the peace will not run in the primary election nor in the November election but will continue in office until their terms are phased out.

Terms of township officers will continue to be two years except for the office of trustee, which will continue to be four years.

Township officials elected in the November 8 general election will take office April 10, 1967.

Delegates to county conventions are now elected at the primary election and candidates must file for this position.

State Police Investigate Two Auto Theft Cases

Two stolen vehicles came under investigation of state police last Saturday.

Two 19-year-old Pontiac men, James R. Acord and Arthur L. Desotell, were apprehended in Tawas City Saturday night in a stolen automobile and held for Pontiac authorities.

James R. Landry, 25, Sand Lake Road, was apprehended at Bay City in a stolen truck and is being detained for Isco authorities. Landry was driving a truck owned by Clyde Wood, also of Sand Lake Road.

Millage Vote

nance the conversion of present shop rooms into classrooms for the junior high wing. This would give the seventh and eighth grades a total of 10 classrooms, with five now under construction, and would allow complete segregation from this department from the high school.

Two mills, raising approximately $82,000 annually, would go to the above construction. One mill would be used for operation.

Favorable action would enable the board of education to plan construction during 1967 and have this shop ready for use during the 1967-1968 school year.

Addition of the shop will give the high school a total capacity for about 900 pupils and this seems suitable to meet the needs for those now living in the Tawas area.

"A citizen arriving at a conclusion on how he is to vote has the right to know what cost will be continuing when this proposition is accepted," said Superintendent Mick. "The easiest and most accurate method is to take your 1964 tax receipt and see what was paid under special school tax voted for buildings."

The three-mill proposal continues the same millage as reflected on the tax receipt. Some houses taken from random from the district showed the following costs to individual taxpayers:

1. A house in Tawas City, with a state equalized valuation of $2,160, paid $6.48 in 1964 for the extra three mills of voted tax.
2. A cottage in Grant, with a state equalized valuation of $1,193, paid $3.58.
3. A residence in the resort section of Baldwin, with a state equalized valuation of $2,446, paid a tax of $7.34.
4. A cottage in Alabaster, with a state equalized valuation of $6,800, paid $20.40, while a home in Alabaster with a state equalized valuation of $3,400, paid $10.20.
5. A nearly new home in East Tawas, with a state equalized valuation of $6,300, paid $18.90. Owners of this home would be considering an outlay of $37.80 for the next two years if the three mill levy is continued.

If the millage proposition is not passed and the legislature passes House Bill 4025, as reported from committee, the school district would lose about $34,500 in state aid.

This money would be a complete loss to the district and will later cause the necessity of levying 1.2 mills to recover an equal amount. This part of the proposition allows one to receive about $2.20 worth of education for the children for a $1 investment on the part of the taxpayer's money.

"Careful consideration by members of the board of education has caused them to give the citizens of the school district this chance to accept this program at the lowest possible dollar cost to the taxpayer," said Mr. Mick.

Expansion of D&M's Car Shop Adds 12 New Jobs in Tawas Labor Force

A car repair program inaugurated 14 months ago is now paying dividends for the Detroit and Mackinac Railway and, at the same time, has provided 12 additional jobs in the Tawas area with an annual D&M payroll increase of $81,265.

On March 1, 1965, the railroad had 200 box cars needing repairs, of which 48 were "bad ordered" and out of service because of advanced deterioration.

"These cars were originally purchased in 1947 and, like some other equipment purchased shortly after World War II, failure developed because of weight stresses and other causes," explains E. V. Goodman, vice president and general manager of the D&M.

As a result, cars with broken bolsters (main support beams) were pulled out of service and sent into storage. This meant a loss to the D&M in daily established per diem rates for each car used by other railroads. Multiply this by 200 nonserviceable cars and the loss becomes significant.

After modernization from steam to diesel locomotives in 1947, along with the purchase of new rolling stock, only light repair work was necessary for a number of years in the Tawas shop. About two years ago, the need for additional box cars prompted a decision by D&M management to investigate the possibility of reconditioning cars locally.

On March 1, 1965, a heavy repair line was set up temporarily in the shop building and work was begun "starting from scratch" on repairing cars. New tools and equipment were purchased and a training program was commenced for new men hired. A basic repair schedule was gradually developed.

Earlier this year, a concrete block building in the yards, formerly used for storage, was converted into new quarters for heavy repair at a cost of $30,000. The light repair line and diesel maintenance crew remain in the old building.

As the shop nears the end of the first phase of the extensive 100-car repair program—scheduled to end July 29—72 box cars had been reconditioned and returned to service as of May 27. The line, now numbering 12 employees, is turning out two completely reconditioned cars a week—all in class A shape, according to rigid inspection standards of the American Railroad Association.

Second phase of the program on repairing another 100 cars starts completely reconditioned at the Tawas shop. Expansion of facilities has meant an increase in the area's payroll.—Tawas Herald Photos.

JOSEPH DAUGHERTY, superintendent for mechanical maintenance, Detroit and Mackinac Railway, is shown here with one of the cars

INTERIOR VIEW of the heavy repair shop is pictured above. Another expansion of this building is being planned this year to put the entire operation under one roof.

Final coat of paint is being applied.

August 1 and, with improved techniques learned during the first phase, an even better rate of production could be achieved.

Plans call for expanding the heavy repair shop building at an estimated $20,000. When the box car repair program is completed, the shop will then turn its attention to repairing gondola, hopper and flat cars. It is hoped that work in the shop can continue to expand into other fields.

Joseph Daugherty, superintendent of mechanical maintenance, has over-all supervision of the program and Melbourne (Bib) Kendall is shop foreman on car work.

First step in the complete reconditioning is to strip the car, remove all flooring and any amount of wooden lining requiring replacement. Welders then burn off rivets on steel work to be replaced and interiors are completely cleaned of dirt by compressed air.

The car then moves into the shop's first position, where bolsters, door sills and other steel work are temporarily secured into position. Trucks are removed from the car and completely reconditioned where necessary and inspected.

All steel work is permanently riveted and welded into place at the second position.

In the final position, interior lining is restored, new flooring installed, doors are aligned, air brakes and safety appliances repaired and inspected. The car then moves outside to the sand blasting position where paint, dirt and rust are removed down to the bare metal. The car is then primed, painted, stenciled, reweighed and ready for return to service.

Goodman said that total cost of returning each car to service amounts to $2,445. A new car equivalent to one repaired here would cost $10,000.

The planned building expansion will put the entire operation under one roof and out of the weather.

The vice president and general manager said that the total annual payroll increase of $81,265 comes about through $69,936 in annual wages paid and $11,329 in employee benefits paid by the company.

"Men employed in this program have turned in an excellent performance and the 12 new jobs created in the community's labor force have contributed substantially to the area's economy," said Goodman.

Many Area People Applying for SS Retirement Benefits

More and more persons in this area are applying for social security retirement benefits as soon as they reach 65, even though they still work regularly, Paul Ellifritz, social security district manager in Bay City, reported today.

"We are pleased that so many are heeding our advice to apply at 65. Others who are eligible, but have not applied, should take a close look at the experiences of these recent applicants," Mr. Ellifritz continued.

Some were surprised to find that their earnings permitted them to receive some benefits this year, Mr. Ellifritz said.

Others as they expected, are earning too much to receive any benefits this year. Even so, Mr. Ellifritz added, they know how much their payments will be when they do retire. Now, all they need to do is notify the social security district office when they stop working to get their benefits started.

Several applicants thought they might lose credit for future earnings if they applied before they had quit work. They were assured that there are no disadvantages in applying at 65. The benefit rate, established when the application is filed, will be refigured automatically after each year in which earnings are reported that would increase it.

"Any insured worker now 65 or over, should apply without delay. Even if he gets no monthly payments at this time, he will insure he has the full protection available under the new medicare, or health insurance program, which is effective next July."

A social security representative for this area will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, Thursday, June 9, from 10:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m.

List Helpful Garden Hints in New Bulletin

Home gardeners will find many helpful hints in the new Michigan State University bulletin, "Home Vegetable Garden." Garden procedures such as planting with recommended varieties, successive plantings with use of different varieties to extend the harvest season are discussed along with the proper planting and harvesting dates.

According to Marvin Davenport, Iosco County extension agent, gardeners not familiar with the large number of vegetable varieties will find the charts on recommended vegetable varieties and vegetable planting dates very useful.

Of special interest to gardeners is the recommendation for control of diseases and insects harmful to garden plants. Proper use of chemical sprays and dusts make the control of these pests much easier. Precautions are also listed to prevent possible injury to persons or animals.

The bulletin may be obtained from the Iosco County Extension Office, Federal Building, East Tawas.

Standish to Decide on New City Charter

Standish City voters will go to the polls June 20 to make their official decision on a proposed charter revision.

A nine-man study committee was named by the city council in June 1964 to survey the existing charter that was based on the state Fourth Class City Act established in 1895.

This committee advised the council to proceed with the task of charter revision. Members felt their study indicated that a new home-rule type government would be more workable in the modern age than the cumbersome old fourth class city arrangement.

WOODLAND ORPHAN?—Conservation Officer A. G. Leitz warns this week that persons who molest fawns, or have one in possession, are subject to prosecution under Michigan law. Fawns "found" in the woods should be left where they are. "The best advice I can give to a person discovering a fawn is to leave it alone—do not touch it—the doe is not far away and will return to its young as soon as you leave," said Leitz. The fawn pictured above was "found" in the woods, kept for several days and then turned over to the conservation department. It now has a new home in a conservation department wildlife sanctuary.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Although the Dutch elm disease has already taken a heavy toll and no suitable cure-all has yet been found to lick it, the American elm tree (top photo) is not about to be wiped out in Michigan by this quiet killer. That's the consensus of professional foresters in the East where the disease has been prevalent much longer than in this state. To be sure, this battle is an expensive one. And in the use of chemical sprays (bottom photo), which often have serious side effects on some wildlife, it leaves something to be desired. Needed badly is a chemical which will effectively do the job of controlling the disease without endangering other values. Newer controls are being tested but, at best, they offer only partial answers. Admittedly, foresters have a long fight ahead of them. However, they are cautiously optimistic that many elms will survive naturally and that at least a portion of these prime shade trees will be with us for a long time. —Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Group Tours Detroit

Among the 75 women who boarded chartered buses at Standish for a trip to Detroit last week were Mrs. Arthur Leitz, Mrs. Elsie Henry, Mrs. Lynn Bjork and Mrs. Erna Krueger, all of East Tawas. They toured the Detroit Historical Museum and Cobo Hall, attended the "Russian Adventure" showing at Music Hall, stopped for dinner in Frankenmuth on the return trip.

Planned by the Arenac County Extension Council, tour members included homemakers from each of the four counties of area 15, Arenac, Ogemaw, Isosco and Oscoda Counties. This was the 12th such annual educational tour. Non-extension members have always been invited to join the group. Grass Seed in Strawberry Preserves?

Well, not in yours, of course, nor in most of those we buy today. The standards of identity for fruit preserves, jellies and fruit butters have virtually eliminated from the market the type of product which, used to masquerade under such names as "grape smash" or "raspberry spread." Such products, formerly sold in large volume, were made from a little fruit and much water, pectin, sugar, artificial coloring and sometimes artificial flavoring and a few grass seeds to create the illusion of a fruit product.

Legal reference standards insure the quality and composition of many of our basic foods. These standards have been adapted as official regulations under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, the National Pure Food Law. This law is enforced by the Food and Drug Administration of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Modern Homemaker and Extension Today's homemaker faces constant decisions—what to buy; how to budget the family income, care for the children, stretch her time and energy to cover everything that must be done.

She seeks reliable, unbiased information to help her with her job. Extension home economists supply information based on scientific research from university and government sources.

The modern homemaker also searches beyond the home horizon. She wants to understand the problems of her community, her nation and the world. Home economics extension programs give her learning opportunities that make her a better citizen as well as a wiser homemaker.

Extension home economics is an adult education program for the homemaker. It reflects the needs of contemporary living with emphasis on consumer education, management and family economics.

This cultivator easily adjusts to various row widths. Some narrow-row farmers use herbicides and get by with a single cultivation or none at all.

WHAT ABOUT NARROW ROWS?

One night at an association meeting somebody says there's a leptospirosis epidemic in the next county.

What do you do?

Agricultural Division, Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc.,
New York, N.Y. 10017

Pfizer

Leptospirosis Pomona Bacterin

You offer to do what you can to help. Then you continue with the meeting. Because you did what needed to be done long ago. You vaccinated with Pfizer Leptospirosis Pomona Bacterin, a chemically-killed whole broth culture of Leptospira pomona, which assures high potency in every dose. In most cases, a single injection annually protects your animals against "Lepto" throughout the entire year.

What's more, Pfizer Leptospirosis Pomona Bacterin is aluminum hydroxide adsorbed. This means you get slower absorption and better immune response. So, inoculating your cattle, swine, sheep and horses with Pfizer Leptospirosis Pomona Bacterin is doing a favor for both your animals and your neighbors. You'll sleep better, too. Next time ask for Pfizer.

Narrow rows are catching on faster than pop-open beer cans. No doubt about it, narrow rows can widen profits . . . on your farm as well as your neighbors'.

"Okay, I'll agree to that," reply a lot of farmers with whom we've discussed the narrow-row subject. "But can I afford to make the changeover now? I'm geared to 38" rows with my planting, cultivating and harvesting equipment . . . some of my equipment's half-new."

Then they play their ace: "What does changing over to narrow rows cost? And how many extra bushels will I have to raise on each acre before such a changeover pays off?"

Such questions aren't easily answered. Briefly, here are some of the things to consider, basing the figures on the Doane Agricultural Service chart below:

1—Herbicide costs will be higher. Figure $1.45 an acre more. Going from 40-inch to 30-inch rows means 25% more herbicide.

2—Seed cost will be higher for soybeans, but not for corn, unless you increase plant population. Soybeans for seed cost about 60¢ more per acre. Every 2,000 plant-per-acre increase in seed corn will add about 35¢ per acre.

3—Labor, tractor and combine costs for soybeans total 21¢ less per acre for 6-row narrow equipment over the 4-row equipment, and 41¢ less for corn. One trip with 6 rows at 30 inches covers 180 inches, while 4 rows at 40 inches covers only 160 inches of machine width.

If your combine can be switched to narrow-row harvesting by simply changing cornheads like this one, a major portion of narrow-row changeover costs are eliminated.

LGLP

11x17P

11x17L

4—Comparing 6-row narrow versus 6-row regular, the narrow 6-row system costs $905 more than regular 6-row on 400 acres. Most of this comes from extra herbicide costs for corn and soybeans and extra soybean seed, not equipment. 5—Therefore, total added cost of the 6-row narrow system over 4-row regular comes to $972.80. This leads us to these conclusions:

With soybeans at $2.50, it takes an average of only 2 extra bushels an acre on 200 acres to justify the shift. And, since we're using 400 acres in this comparison, that's assuming no yield increase for the 200 acres of corn, which is highly unlikely.

If all 400 acres were planted to corn at $1.00 per bushel, it would take a yield increase of just 2 bushels to break even on the changeover. It's obvious that it isn't difficult to recover changeover costs.

Fertilizer costs are not included in this study. They would be higher, especially if higher plant populations are used.

On the other hand, if a new combine is not needed, and only a narrow-row cornhead is purchased, this will lower the changeover costs substantially from those quoted here. So if you're ready for a new combine, but not as yet ready for narrow rows, it will pay you to buy a unit which can be easily converted to narrow-row harvesting with a cornhead when you are ready for narrow rows.

This 6-row narrow planter makes either 28-inch or 30-inch rows. Field coverage gain over standard 4-row planter is 20 inches per round.

Try It With Syrup

by Ginny Felstehausen

Syrup, you may say, is for pancakes, waffles, and French toast — and for making creamy smooth candy. And you're right, of course, but corn syrup has lots of other uses.

It's a wonderfully versatile cooking ingredient and is used in dozens of ways by many well-known chefs. These are special touches you can apply, too. For example, on a summer cook-out, grill chicken with a corn syrup barbecue sauce that really stays on. Adding just a little syrup while peas, corn, carrots or stewed tomatoes are cooking will perk up the flavor of your favorite vegetables.

Try using syrup in your next batch of homemade salad dressing. It makes the dressing cling to the salad ingredients instead of ending up in the bottom of the bowl.

Corn syrup is also a natural to use in making taste tempting desserts. It keeps frostings, chiffon pies and other desserts moist, smooth and tender. Try the Pear Pie with Ginger Crumb Topping in this issue of the Farm and Home section. It will be a sure dessert success!

A final note — in cooking with syrup, remember that it is less sweet than sugar. Therefore, it blends well with other ingredients without robbing flavor.

Fold chilled gelatin mixture into beaten whites; chill, stirring occasionally, until thick enough to pile up (about 1/2 hour). Pile lightly into baked shell. Chill until ready to serve.

CAMPING ANTICS

Lots of rules for camping conduct have been written and discussed. Organized activity, planned ahead of time, is stressed as one of the most important musts. Familiarity with camping equipment is a common concept designed to forestall mishaps. Leaving a clean campsite upon departure is a basic courtesy easily understood.

Yet in between the rules are many unexpected twists. Somehow or other we can't always visualize ahead of time what may happen. When we're surrounded by so much fresh air, open sky and unrestrained freedom the old familiar family antics take on a different and often unexpected aspect.

Beginners, occasional camper-outers and dyed-in-the-wool tenting families all seem to follow a pattern of minor amusing mishaps. Not all the antics will occur at the same time, but sooner or later all things will happen to you — and you — and YOU.

Read on and pick out your own antics. Some of them may seem familiar —

1. Erecting the abode calls for concentrated family coordination as mother stretches in two directions at once trying to keep Tipper from walking off with all the important tent poles. (Practice first at home?)

2. Tent-raising is momentarily disrupted while treed offspring is brought back to earth. (Have you laid down off-limit rules?)

3. Dinner plans are disrupted when camp stove refuses to balance on solid-appearing apple box. (The law of gravity is always with us on a camping trip.)

4. Night-time finds the kids ready to call it a day, except that Junior wants to camp by himself down by the big hollow tree. (Have you checked the people-capacity of your own tent lately?)

5. Peaceful dreams are interrupted by downfall of canvas domicile. (Tomorrow night will find stakes more firmly driven in the ground AND a flashlight within easy reach.) In the meantime —

6. Father foggily inquires what on earth Junior is doing on top of the car. It seems there was a big ol' black bear — !! (The result of an over-scary campfire tale. Serves you right, pop!)

7. It's too much work to re-adjust the tent with dawn only an hour away, so everybody crawls into the car. Junior perches ready to leap to safety in case that big ol' black bear — . (Every camp family learns to meet emergencies calmly.)

8. Early-morning review of situation finds everything on hand except Tipper. TIPPERRRRRR! ————. (This is a good way of waking everybody in the campground before sunup — so they won't miss part of a beautiful camping day.)

9. TIPPER! — Have you been there all night? (No big ol' black bear was gonna get HIM!) (See? — pre-camp training paid off. HE wasn't lost — everybody else was.)

10. Excitement is provided by Momma when agile-footed offspring prevent her from being swept out to sea. (The kids wore rubber soles — momma forgot her own. But nobody will let Momma drown — who would cook dinner?)

11. And so the departure date, gloomily viewed by the kids, finally arrives. Home is always the haven when one runs out of groceries on a camping trip. Kids hate to think of taking a bath when they get home — which is a reminder to check bathing facilities when picking a family camp-site for a prolonged stay.
