

Conference Honors Rev. W. A. Gregory

The Rev. W. A. Gregory, 89, Tawas City, is recipient this year of the Detroit Conference Cane, representing the history and heritage of Methodist Churches of Michigan.

A fifth generation Methodist minister, Mr. Gregory had a notable 42-year ministry, in which he served churches from the Upper Peninsula to the southern part of the state; city churches as well as rural and small town churches.

Born in England, he came to this country in 1906 and followed his brother, the Rev. John R. Gregory, to Nebraska. He and his brother came to Michigan the following year and Mr. Gregory served as minister at Freeland. There he met and married the former Erna Boeser. They observed their 37th wedding anniversary on October 27.

The Gregorlys first came to this area in 1911 when he served two years as minister of Methodist Churches of the Tawasites. They returned in 1932 and he served for four years. Retiring in 1954, they made their home at 306 Seventh Avenue, Tawas City.

The conference cane received by Mr. Gregory is a material symbol of the history and of American and Michigan Methodism.

It was instituted at the 1904 conference at Adrian, in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the introduction of Methodism into what is now the territory of the Detroit Conference.

Main body of the cane is made of wood taken from the original Methodist Church at Adrian, in which the Detroit Conference was organized in 1856. Three wooden mosaics were implanted. One is a bit of wood taken from the old log church, First Michigan Methodist Church, erected on the River Rouge in 1818. The second is a bit of wood from the study desk of Dr. Seth Reed (1823-1924), Michigan Methodism's centennial. The third was from a tree overlooking the resting place of Barbara Heck on the St. Lawrence River, six miles from Brockville, Ontario. Barbara Heck was the first woman Methodist in New York, who inspired the first preaching of her cousin, Philip Embury, in 1766.

Originally, the conference cane was to go to the minister of the conference having been in the regular service for the longest period. Now, the cane goes to the oldest member of the conference, who has served at least 35 years in the Detroit Conference and a resident of the Michigan area.

The cane is presented to this honored minister for the balance of his life and then reverts back to the conference to be presented again.

The cane was presented first, in 1904, to Francis Asbury Blades, a strong leader in Michigan Methodism in the latter half of the nineteenth century and pastor of the Adrian Church at the conclusion of the conference.

A mothers' march and telethon will be held this Thursday night in the hope that the 1967 Tawas-Whittemore Area Community Chest campaign may be completed this week.

Starting at 7:30 o'clock, volunteers are to be at the Tawas Chamber of Commerce office to receive telephone calls from anyone wishing to make a contribution.

Calls are to be taken at the office during the day from those persons who have made pledges, but have not turned them in as yet. Volunteers are to pick up pledge envelopes that evening.

The community chest had reached 50 percent of its goal, or around $6,500, as of Monday night.

"We hope to end the drive by November 4 and will welcome all assistance from volunteers," states John Skroeki, campaign chairman. If the goal is not reached by that date, the campaign is to be extended on a day-to-day basis until the $13,097 is collected.

Mrs. O'Loughlin to Attend Confab

Mrs. T. M. O'Loughlin, office secretary of the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, is to attend the fifth annual meeting of staff members of the Organization Executives of Michigan, to be held November 9 at the Jack Tar Hotel, Lansing.

sion of the Civil War. Doctor Reed, who served as a circuit rider on the Michigan frontier in the 1840s, held the cane from 1905 to 1924.

Patient Thanks Hospital Staff for Good Care

"The people of this area should consider themselves lucky to have a hospital such as Tawas Hospital." These were the words recently of Joseph Breivo, who sent a letter of thanks to the hospital's administration.

"Having just returned home from my four times in the last three years as a patient in your hospital, I want you to know how pleased I have been with the treatment received," he stated.

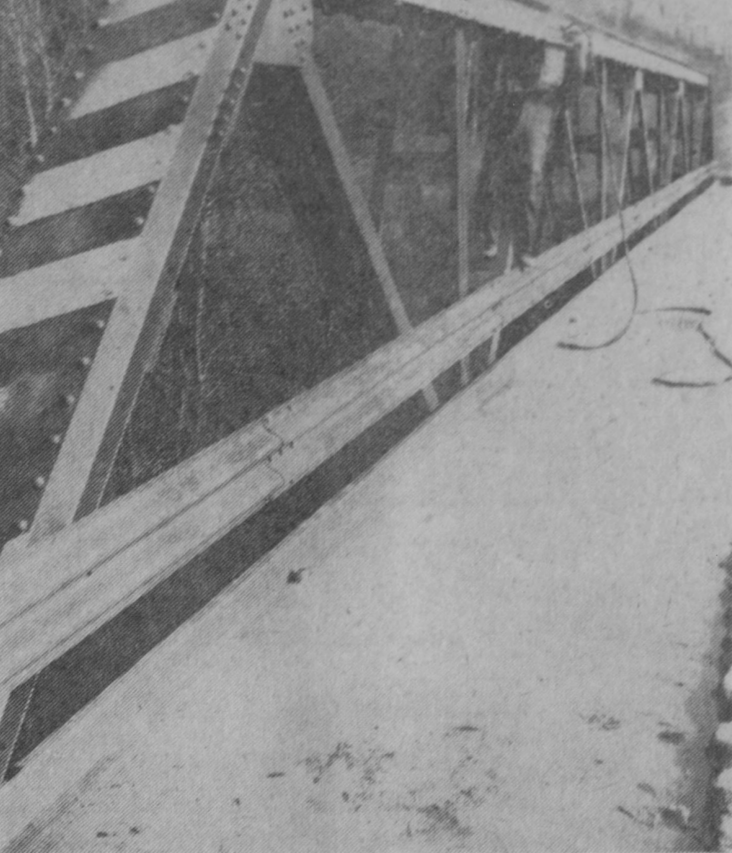

"While service to patients in most hospitals has been steadily deteriorating during the past several years, service in your hospital is above the standard.

"The nurses, aides and orderlies are cheerful, friendly and do their best to keep up the spirits of patients. In other words, instead of being treated as a case number, I was treated as a human being."

Michigan Highway Officials Disclose

US-23 Freeway Plans Years Away

Construction of a controlled access freeway from Standish north to Alpena to replace present two-lane US-23 is included in long range plans of the Michigan Department of State Highways, but Northeastern Michigan residents learned Thursday night that such construction was far in the future—perhaps 10 years or more.

Speaking before a meeting called by the Iosco Planning Commission Thursday night and again Friday noon at a meeting of Wurtsmith Air Force Base Community Council, state highway representatives emphasized, however, that every effort was being made to speed up the timetable affecting this construction as well as other important arterial routes in the state.

"If we could start this arterial construction tomorrow, we would be the happiest people in the world—but, we have to find means of funding it," said E. A. Bellenbaum, director of transportation planning division of the state highway department.

Complexity of the long range planning required for Michigan's share of the 1,080-mile interstate highway system, scheduled for completion in 1972, was pointed out by Henrik E. Stafseth, acting state highway director.

This construction is funded by a 90 percent contribution from the federal government, through a four-cent federal tax on gasoline, and 10 percent being financed by the state. Currently, the federal contribution to interstate highway construction in Michigan amounts to $110,000,000 annually, matched by approximately $10,000,000 in state funds.

This interstate construction overshadows Michigan's primary road construction by a large degree. The latter is financed on a 50-50 matching basis, with $13,000,000 expended annually by the federal government and a like amount by the state.

Highwaymen from Michigan and other states are now laying preliminary groundwork in an effort to convince the United States Congress that the trust fund established in 1956 to construct interstate highways should be extended beyond the 1972 expiration date.

Stafseth said that while it now appears that Michigan's share of the interstate system would not be completed until 1975, once completed, this funding would help to expand important arterial routes, such as US-23, thus complementing the existing interstate routes.

A point brought up by Acting

Director Stafseth and reiterated by Bellenbaum was that original planning for interstate routes began back in 1943. The highway commission at that time realized the need for future interstate routes, and through prompt action, this state had 1,080 miles of highway designed as interstate in the 40,000-mile national program. Other nearby states did not fare so well.

Funding these interstate routes, which are designed to connect large metropolitan areas of the state, along with I-75, which connects the two peninsulas, did not come about until 1956.

Prior to actual funding, however, the state legislature amended Act 51 which required the highway department to expend not less than 35 percent of its construction funds on approximately 2,000 miles of highways, including the interstate system. The legislature designated those highways to be included in the program, most in the southern portion of the state, while the interstate system had to meet certain criteria which cannot be changed.

This total system provides very good service to the major cities in Southern Michigan, said Bellenbaum. However, he said it was obvious that many areas of the state are not served. To correct this deficiency, the department has selected additional routes which it is calling an expanded arterial system.

Based on its 1965 to 1985 highway needs study approved by the highway commission, some 2,000 miles of freeway construction under an arterial system is being programmed. To date, the department had not determined exact locations of these proposed freeways but have established corridors from five to six miles wide.

Included in this proposal is a new route for US-23. According to the needs study map, the new route would leave I-75 at a point below Standish, run parallel to present US-23 to Omer and then angle off missing AuGres. The route would not follow the shoreline but would be located a few miles inland. It would have a straight path west of the Tawas to Alpena.

"We are now in serious trouble," said Stafseth. The department is faced with deleting $265,000,000 from its construction program over the next five years because of action in the state legislature in turning down its request for increasing gasoline and weight taxes.

Construction costs have soared by 12 1/2 percent over the past year and the department had asked a two-cent increase on the gasoline tax. Present freeway construction costs approximately $1,000,000 per mile in rural areas and from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000 per mile in urban areas.

"We felt that we should get our house in order and the highway commission approved deletion of certain of our projects. If the legislature reconsiders the matter, some projects could be put back into the program.

"There is no question our needs are great and, if we could satisfy everyone, it would make our job easier. It is our responsibility to distribute construction equally to every portion of the state in order that all get their fair share of highways," said the acting director.

Following Thursday noon's meeting with the Wurtsmith Community Council, W. D. (Mike) Nunn, a member of the state highway commission and a resident of East Tawas, said he would do all he could do for consideration of a freeway from Bay City to Alpena.

He said that location of Wurtsmith Air Force Base, an important defense installation, near the proposed route, would be an important talking point. He said, however, that other sections of the state have the same needs.

In speaking of the department's maintenance program, Bellenbaum said that 19 miles are listed as critical in the present 98-mile stretch of US-23 from Bay City to Alpena. This included eight miles from Standish to M-65, which needs more lanes.

The remaining 10 1/2 miles, from the Iosco-Alpena line to Harrisville, is in critical need of surface construction for reasons of safety. This is scheduled to be let for construction bids in October 1970.

State Approves City's Sanitary Sewer Bonds

After more than a year of delays since establishment of a special assessment district to finance construction of sanitary sewer along both sides of US-23 from Mathews Street south, approval of the sale of bonds has been received from the state.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission, announced last week that the commission approved $34,000 in special assessment sewer bonds.

"Products will be used to pay the cost of sanitary sewer improvements in Special Assessment District No. 1," said Kelley's announcement.

These bonds are payable primarily from a like amount of special assessments due in 10 annual installments, with the full faith and credit of the city pledged to meet principal and interest should the installments be slow in coming in.

Other members of the Municipal Finance Commission are State Treas. Allison Green and Supt. of Public Instruction Ira Ppily.

Many delays had resulted in this project as the city became entangled in miles of "red tape." The district was first approved by the city council in September 1966.

The project is a vital link in the city's sanitary sewer system. Its construction will correct a problem along the narrow neck of land bounded on one side by Tawas Bay and the other side by the Tawas River. Septic tanks have been in use there for years, the use of which has been handicapped by inadequate drainage fields.

Actual discussion on extension of sewer mains to the area commenced about 15 years ago. Because of depths required, it is impossible to build a main along the south side of US-23 and it was not until December 1966 that the final easement was received allowing construction of the main on private property.

One of the first stumbling blocks in seeking approval of the bonding application was to convince the state finance commission that a charter amendment in 1960 allows the city to disregard a provision of the Fourth Class City Act.

Under the amendment, districts are equalized by removal of the former limitation on special districts to 25 percent of the assessed value of vacant property.

Without the charter amendment, it would have been impossible to finance the project.

Prison Inmate Seeks His Release

A petition for habeas corpus seeking his release from Southern Michigan Prison, Jackson, was filed October 27 by Louis F. McKinley.

McKinley had been convicted August 29, 1966, of armed robbery and received a prison sentence of eight to 20 years.

He claims that the conviction and sentence were imposed in violation of his constitutional rights under the 14th amendment and under due process clause.

In his petition, McKinley claimed that the original warrant was defective because it did not contain the seal of the justice of the peace. The petition said that a warrant is a legal document and cannot be legally made out if it is not complete on the face of it.

McKinley, with two other men and a woman, were convicted of the May 17, 1966, armed robbery of the manager of Tawas River Trailer Park.

Judge Declares Mistrial in Suit Against City; Sets New Hearing

Jury trial on a $150,000 damage suit against the City of East Tawas was called to a halt Tuesday morning before actual commencement.

During interrogation of prospective jurors, one panel member apparently made an unintentional statement which resulted in a mistrial ruling by Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller.

The judge rescheduled a new trial in the next term, starting January 16. Judge Miller said he declared a mistrial rather than to have the record show cause for possible appeal.

The case before the court was brought by Leo V. Maki, 57, 500 Franklin Street, who lost his left eye December 4, 1965, when an explosion occurred in a fire at the city dump.

He claims that city employees had started a fire in refuse which discharged a bullet, shell or other explosive missile. A fragment struck him in the head, causing laceration of the eyelid and destruction of the retina of his left eye.

Maki claims that the city was negligent in failure to have its dump adequately and properly supervised, that it failed to erect signs warning and prohibiting patrons from discarding shells, bullets or other similar dangerous missiles.

He also claims that the city was negligent in allowing patrons to enter the dump area at times when burning was taking place and failure to schedule burning hours at times when patrons would not be present at the dump.

Murder trial for Jonathan L. Putnam, charged with the April 13 strangulation - stabbing of Mrs. Viola Stern, is scheduled to start next Monday morning in Iosco Circuit Court. A list of 50 prospective jurors has been prepared.

CONSTRUCTION has started on a new warehouse for Tawas Industries, Incorporated, located on the old fairgrounds property. O. S. Rose, contractor, views progress as of Saturday. The concrete and steel building is to measure 50 by 200 feet and will be served by a rail siding. A building permit was received from Tawas City Department of Public Works last week.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Gas Company Serves Nearly 3,900 Customers

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company now serves nearly 3,900 customers in its Tawas area of operations and delivered some 680,000,000 cubic feet of gas to them in the past 12 months. William

A. Smith, area manager, said that since the utility began operations here three years ago "it has allready acquired about 75 percent of the customers we expected to have at the end of five years." He added that 90 percent of these customers have converted their old heating systems from some other fuel to natural gas.

"This indicates the tremendous acceptance natural gas has won among the people of this area, both home and commercial building owners. And as more people become aware of the economy and cleanliness of natural gas and spread the word, I would expect we will exceed our five year goal well in advance of that time," Smith said.

Much of the credit for this remarkable growth must go to the company's policy of purchasing the fuel oil or coal that a customer may have on hand at the time he converts to gas heat," he pointed out. Smith said Michigan Consolidated now serves 34 cities, villages and townships in its Tawas area of operations.

Dr. Elbert R. Bowen, chairman of the speech and drama department and director, obtained permission from the novel's British author to condense and arrange his book for semitheatrical production.

The Central production employed an innovation known as chamber theater, a form created for the theatrical presentation of fiction not written for the theater.

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

Read Ephesians 6:10-20
Let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall. (1 Corinthians 10:12, RSV)

What does it mean for Christians to stand firm? Some think it means to be unchanging in ideas; other to practice a harsh code of behavior—which can lead to a self-righteous attitude. The Scriptures declare that standing firm is holding to God's purpose.

Firmness comes through our personal relation to God and becomes a way of life. Holding firm in the Christian purpose enables us to adapt to every situation—to become all things to all people—and still to stand firm. When we adapt our witness to the challenges of the world, God's way is made clear and relevant.

When a skillful fisherman uses a fly rod, he allows it to bend in one direction and then just as far in another. All the while he keeps to his purpose of bringing in the fish. The person who stands firm as a Christian must be able to absorb shocks, reverses or opposition, all the while keeping firmly to God's purpose.

PRAYER

Our Father, whose ways are above our ways, forgive us for the times when we have not stood for Thee. Reveal Thyself this day to us and keep us close to Thee. Let Thy way shine clearly and consistently through all our activities and in all our associations. In Jesus' name.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Standing firm is not resisting change, but following closely God's purpose. Robert Williams Shumm, Illinois.

Needlecraft News

PATCHWORK AND QUILTING are two separate arts which were combined by the early settlers of this country to make beautiful quilts. Patchwork is very simple and requires only complete accuracy. The sewing of Patchwork consists only of a straight seam which presents no difficulties if the patterns are made correctly.

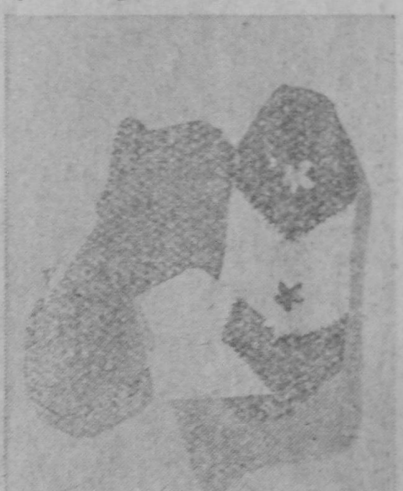

APPLIQUE
Applique differs from Patchwork in that the units are hemmed or felled down to another piece of cloth in order to form a design, instead of being pieced together. Although most quilts are made either of patches or applique, there are some which combine both. THE PRESIDENT'S WREATH is an example of applique. When the entire design has been basted in place, sew around the edge with a small, invisible stitch using Mercerized Sewing Threads of matching colors.

EARLY 1850
This quilt has the grace and elegance women want in their homes and have always wanted since this coverlet was designed in the early 1850's. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet B 190-15.

GRANNY'S HEIRLOOM is the traditional favorite of afghans. Worked in 6 inch squares which you can pick up in any of your leisure moments the border and background is black with color running riot in the center design. Crocheted with warm, sturdy knitting worsted, you can use all your left-over yarn to create this design. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet B 254.

WITH THE SKIING SEASON CLOSE AT HAND, skiers everywhere are waxing their skis, boots and poles, freshening up last winter's outfits or buying new ones for those long afternoons on the slopes. After a chilling and exhausting day outdoors, most skiers look forward to a relaxing evening of music and chatter by a roaring fire.

APRES-SKI SOCKS
To help keep your feet nice and warm, here's a very attractive pair of apres-ski-socks. Knitted on only two needles with reinforced felt soles, you can really go to town in your color scheme! How about trying pink and amethyst for an eye-opening effect? If pink isn't your color, try a mid-orange and yellow, apple green and tangerine or baby aqua and medium brown combination.

MIX 'N MATCH YOUR SOCKS
Why not make several sets of these socks and coordinate them with your ski outfits? Won't you be the best-dressed among the skiing set. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet B 159.

THIS ROOSTER PROUDLY RULES THE BREAKFAST TABLE. His job is to keep your egg warm and cozy. He is crocheted of cotton cord. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PC 151b.

Plan Early Christmas Mailing, Urges PO

It is not too early to begin planning for the holiday season, in fact the post office department's plans to handle the rush of mail have already been completed. Now it is up to the public.

If people mail early, the expected record-breaking volume of well over nine billion pieces of mail to be delivered during the holiday season will arrive at its destination on time and without a serious hitch.

The postmaster general noted that special attention will again be placed on the delivery of mail to servicemen in Vietnam and the surrounding area.

The deadlines for mail to all members of the armed forces abroad are:

Gifts weighing more than five pounds sent by surface postage rates, November 11.

Gifts, five pounds or less, plus letters and greeting cards sent at surface rates (these go by air on a space available basis) December 1.

Memory Bank Stores State Driver Info.

One record in every four involving Michigan drivers is now stored in computer memory banks of the Michigan Department of State.

Sec. of State James M. Hare said that as of August 25, a total of 5,101,571 records had been mechanized, more than 25 percent of the estimated 20,000,000 total records in the central driver files.

"We are averaging around 150,000 records weekly," said Hare. "These include accident records, conviction records, records of problem drivers who have received warning letters and some general driving records."

Hare estimated that total mechanization is about two years off.

"The legislature was kind enough to give up enough of an appropriation to accelerate mechanization of the files, otherwise it would have taken several years to update such an extensive number of records."

Hare said that motorists who qualify as "problem drivers," as well as persons who have had a warning letter, have their complete records in the files. "We are adding the records of new drivers to these files as they get into point trouble."

Also being mechanized as they are received are all accident records. More than a half-million accidents are now in the computer files.

"Our master plan calls for complete mechanization by 1970 of all records pertaining to drivers and the vehicles they drive," Hare said. "When our records are complete, there will be very little information that we will not be able to ferret out of our files on Michigan's driving population. By the time we are totally mechanized, we will likely have more than 5,000,000 registered drivers in the state."

Survivors include his wife, Lynne; children, Laura, David and Donald at home, Patty and Fred of Detroit; mother, Mrs. Genevieve Todd of Oscoda; one sister, Mrs. Elaine Mary Hellmer of Dearborn; two brothers, Paul Chatel of Grand Rapids and Robert J. Chatel of Oscoda.

What to do until an emergency happens

Emergencies have practically no sense of fair play. And almost always pick the worst possible time to happen.

People seem to prefer the day your insurance lapses to trip on your sidewalk, for example.

And the car usually waits until your bank account registers empty before demanding expensive repairs.

There's no fighting it. But you can be ready. By tucking away some reserve funds in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Bonds, themselves, are emergency proof. You can't lose the money you invest in them, even if fire, flood, robbers or plain carelessness causes you to lose the Bonds.

And when something expensive happens, you can just take them in to any bank and get yourself solvent again.

In the meantime, Uncle Sam uses your Bond dollars to handle other urgent matters, like taking care of your freedom.

Buy Bonds where you bank or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Get yourself really prepared and you might even discourage a few emergencies from ever happening.

Keep freedom in your future with

Service Academy Applicants Write Examinations

Forty-nine young men from the 10th congressional district seeking Cong. Elford A. Cederberg's nomination to either United States Military, Naval or Air Force Academy, will assemble at civil service centers Saturday for the qualifying examination.

This year, this congressional district has one vacancy at each academy and Congressman Cederberg will nominate six young men to compete for the coveted appointment from the 10th district for each academy. Nominations are based on the score in the civil service examination and the applicant's scholastic record. The academic board of each academy makes the final selection from the congressman's nominees.

The competitors include four from Iosco County.

Congressman Cederberg pointed out he has made it a practice not to make public names of competitors to avoid any possible embarrassment to boys who do not qualify high enough for nominations. The name of the candidate receiving the appointment will be announced when the selection is made for each vacancy.

Cookie-Jar Treats

If you have adventurous youngsters in your home, you'll certainly want to keep a well-stocked cookie jar all year round. Oatmeal cookies are a proven favorite for good munching.

- Recipe ingredients for Huck Finn Oatmeal Cookies: 1 tub (1 cup) soft-type margarine, 1 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 cup soda, etc.

Measure all ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat at low speed of electric mixer or mix by hand until well blended. Drop by heaping teaspoons 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350° F. oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove immediately from baking sheet and cool. YIELD: 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

Jelly, Spice Perk Up Lamb Kabobs

On sizzling summer evenings, broiling or cooking on the outdoor grill is the answer to the party-giver's plight. Spiced Jelly Lamb Kabobs with Almond Rice, slightly exotic, offer a gourmet treat for guests.

Spiced Jelly Lamb Kabobs With Almond Rice. 1 jar (10 ounce) apple or currant jelly, 1/4 cup (shoulder or leg), cut into 1-inch cubes, 4 small onions (cooked until tender half-way through), cut in half crosswise, 1 large orange, peeled and cut into chunks, 2 teaspoons cornstarch.

To prepare kabobs. Combine jelly, garlic, ginger, coriander, cloves, salt, pepper and vinegar; heat slowly until jelly melts. Pour over lamb cubes. Cover; marinate in refrigerator 1 to 2 hours. Drain meat. Save marinade. Alternate lamb cubes, onion halves and orange chunks on 4 long skewers. Brush with marinade. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat until meat is the desired degree of doneness, 12 to 15 minutes. Turn skewers once during broiling. Stir cornstarch into remaining marinade; blend well. Cook until clear and thickened. Serve over seasoned or almond rice. Yield: 4 servings.

Two Scouting Firsts Seen at Cobo Hall

Albert T. Maasberg, president of the Paul Bunyan Boy Scout Council, announced today that two scouting firsts will take place in Detroit Saturday, November 11, at Cobo Hall.

The date marks the first time key volunteer and professional scouting leaders from the region seven four-state area of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan will convene in Detroit for their annual regional meeting. Mr. Maasberg and his wife will serve on the reception committee with other presidents.

Mr. Maasberg said the second first will be the appearance of Alden G. Barber, new chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who took over the reins of the world's largest youth organization October 1. He said that Barber will be making one of his first major addresses to those in attendance at Cobo Hall.

More than 1,000 top business and community leaders, scout executives and their wives, representing the 78 local boy scout councils in the largest scout region in the country, will meet for the day long program at Cobo Hall. They will hear a report on scouting achievements over the past year, elect a new slate of volunteer region seven officers and give recognition to this year's recipients of silver antelope awards, the highest honor that can be bestowed on volunteer scout leaders by the Boy Scouts of America for work with youth on a regional level.

New Drunk Driver Law in Effect Nov. 2

How will Michigan's new "implied consent" law, effective November 2, affect the 4.5 million drivers in this state?

Implied consent, in its simplest form, means that if a driver operates a motor vehicle in Michigan and is arrested for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, he must voluntarily submit to a chemical test for alcohol or face automatic suspension or revocation of his driver's license.

After arresting a drunk driving suspect, an officer will request that the driver voluntarily submit to a chemical test to determine the percentage of alcohol in his blood and tell him that he has the option to demand that only a breath test be given. The officer will also inform the suspect that if he refuses a chemical test, which is also his option under the law, he will face an automatic suspension or revocation of his license.

If a driver does voluntarily agree to a chemical test administered by the police, he will be given a reasonable opportunity to have a second chemical test for alcohol administered by a person of his own choice if he so desires.

The three most common tests now being given to determine blood alcohol content analyze the driver's blood, breath or urine.

The new law, which brings Michigan into substantial conformity with the federal highway safety standard regarding alcohol and highway safety, states that a suspect has the option to demand that only a breath test be given.

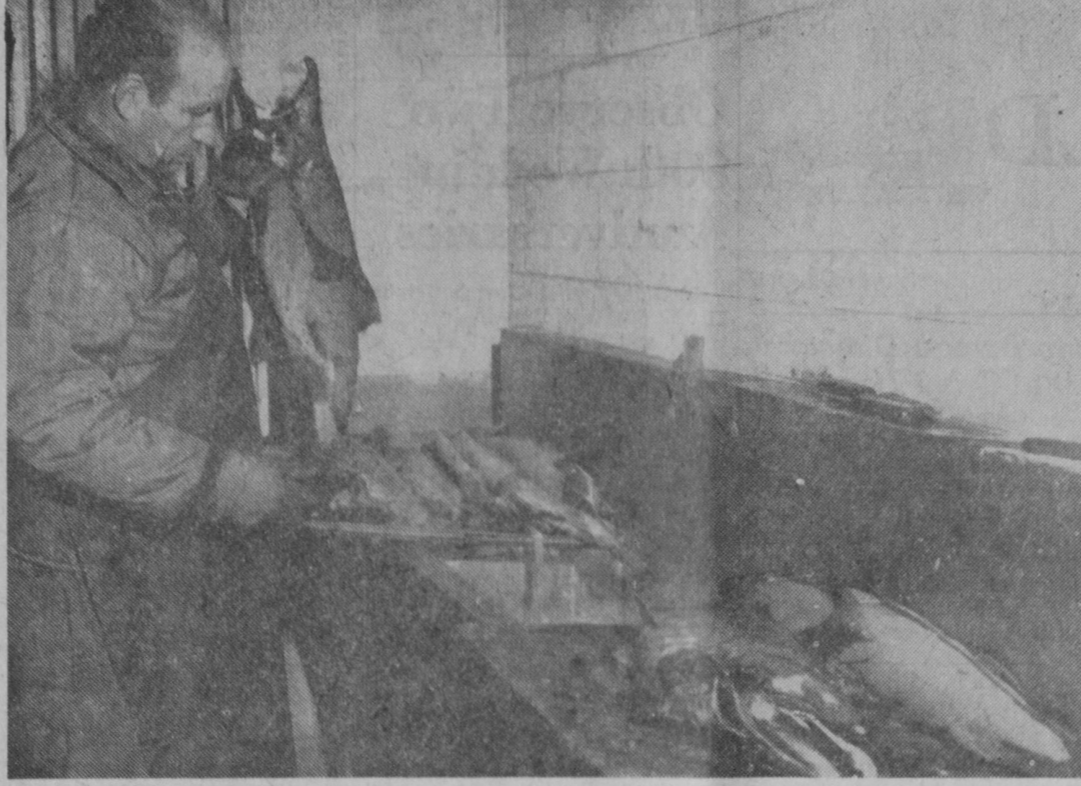

In order to be able to provide competent personnel to administer the breath test, an intensive training program to qualify police officers in breath testing procedures has been set up at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education.

The program is being conducted jointly by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officer's Training Council, Michigan Department of Health, Department of State Police and MSU's Highway Traffic Safety Center.

By careful initial selection of police personnel to be trained, it is planned to have by November 2 at least one operator and one breathalyzer test instrument available at all times in every section of the state.

Census Bureau Interviews for Civil Defense

A number of local residents are putting on colorful badges and going calling for the next few weeks. They are among the 1,580 Michigan residents employed by the United States Bureau of the Census as interviewers for the home fallout protection survey which the bureau is conducting throughout the state for the Michigan Office of Civil Defense.

Hobart A. Yerkey, director of the Census Bureau Regional Office, Detroit, announces that the following persons have been selected and trained as interviewers to call at homes in Iosco County: Agnes L. Bodenhorn, Virginia J. Bygden, Archie Leo Graham, Marie D. Pember, Nellie M. McNiel, Bernice L. Shriver, Elizabeth Ellis, Dorothy E. Oates, Pauline P. Hayes.

The home fallout protection survey includes only single family homes and two and three-unit dwellings. It is being taken by mail in cities of 10,000 or more population, where questionnaires have been mailed to households to be filled out and mailed back. In areas outside these cities, interviewers are visiting homes to obtain the required facts and figures about the construction of houses.

Director Yerkey asks householders to welcome the census interviewer and to give full cooperation so that accurate information may be obtained.

Most interviewers are women. Each wears a red, white and blue identification badge which is her official credential. It bears her signature and certifies that she is authorized to perform the duties of a census interviewer, and as such, has sworn to keep confidential all census information given to her.

CHIEF SODNEY MUH-KAH-KUSH

Sodney Muh-Kah-Kush Was Last of a Long Line of Michigan's Chippewa Indian Chiefs

(Mrs. Roy L. Curtis of Hale recently rediscovered a story written by her late husband concerning a famous Indian chief, who resided at Hale for many years. Chief Sodney Muh-Kah-Kush died November 3, 1929. The suit described in this story, it is said, was sold to the Museum of American Arts, Chicago, Illinois, in 1930 and this story accompanied the suit to its new owners.)

CHIEF SODNEY'S INDIAN SUIT

As a preface to Chief Sodney Muh-Kah-Kush's wonderful deer skin suit, a brief history of Sodney, the beloved Indian chief, is necessary.

Sodney was the oldest son of John Muh-Kah-Kush, who was well known in the early days of this county as chief of the Chippewa tribes living around Dease and Long Lake. He preached the Christian religion to his people, the Chippewa and Ottawa tribes located in this part of Michigan.

Sodney's mother died when he was a baby and his maternal grandmother took him. Her name being Adams, he grew up under that name. He was born in Shiawassee County, date of birth not known, but reckoning from circumstances of his life, it must have been about 1849.

At an early age, he learned to use his bow and arrow to supply the family needs from the then almost unbroken wilds of Shiawassee County. When still a youth, he was taken into the home of a white man living near Owosso, then a small village, and through the kindness of these people he learned to love the "whites."

Later, he came to Iosco County and found his father, "Indian John," and was married to a girl of his tribe. To this union was born one child, whom they called, Eliza. His wife died and Eliza grew to womanhood, married an Indian by the name of Williams. She bore him four children, one died in infancy and Johanna died at the age of four years. The father and mother soon followed, leaving two boys, Lewie and Ollie, to the care of Sodney and their father's mother, Mrs. Williams.

Sodney was a member of the Methodist Church and his main ambition was to raise his grandchildren to be good citizens. With this end in view, he moved to Hale where they would have the advantages of church and school and where they grew to manhood.

A direct descendant of a long line of Chippewa chiefs, Sodney was well entitled to be called chief of the Chippewas but, during Governor Warner's term in office, this title was bestowed upon him at a large gathering of Indians and white people at Long Lake by the governor, who was present that day and witnessed his feats in handling a canoe, along with his skill with the bow.

Soon after this, Sodney engaged an Ottawa woman to make his suit and moccasins. She was skilled in the art of bead work and knew the Chippewa insignia of the tribe, which is woven all through this wonderful masterpiece of the Indian art of bead work; an art almost entirely lost with the fast vanishing of these two tribes, so well known in the history of Michigan, made famous in poetry and prose.

The Indians had no written language, but they could read the language of trees, birds, brooks and bees; all nature was an open book to them to read and their squaws wove into bead work the history and meaning of why such a dress was worn.

Sodney, proud and majestic in his bearing, wore his royal robe like a king, knowing that other tribes could read at a glance to his moccasins, to what tribe he belonged and read by the bead work on his suit why he, Sodney, was chief of this long, illustrious line of Chippewas.

Truly the blood of kings ran in his veins, or else how could he rise to such honor that all who met him should love and respect him?

Iosco claimed him as her own, the State of Michigan honored him and to Michigan belongs his suit, all that remains of a long line of mighty chieftains.

(According to the November 3, 1929, issue of The Tawas Herald, Sodney's death was caused by dropsy. He had been in poor health for some time "and for several months had suffered greatly, but with the stoic bravery of his race, bore his pain and suffering uncomplainingly and heroically.")

(Sodney's funeral was held from Hale Methodist Church with the Rev. Simon Greensky of the Indian Church, near Oscoda, officiating. The beautiful, evening hymn of the Methodist Church was sung in the Indian language and Sodney's body was laid to rest in Evergreen Cemetery.)

Braves Drop Gladwin, 28-14 in Game Delayed by Snowstorm

Tawas Area Braves won over Gladwin High School, 28-14, Saturday night in a game postponed from the previous night because of a snow-covered field.

The Braves took an early lead in the game and then were stopped until solving Gladwin's defense early in the third quarter.

Tawas Area's first score came on a pass from Dale Koepke to End Fred Look, the play covering eight yards. The drive covered 50 yards and was sustained by two passes to End Howard Rollin.

The two teams played on equal terms until the third quarter. Tawas finally discovered that Gladwin was playing an eight-man line on the first two plays of a series to stop the Braves' ground game.

The second touchdown of that quarter was set up when Tawas recovered a Gladwin fumble on the midfield stripe. The Braves took to the air again and Koepke hit Halfback Mark Harris with a pass and Tawas held a 21-0 lead after Pedersen converted the PAT.

Tawas found itself playing most of the fourth quarter on defense as Gladwin made its best bid of the night. Redman scored the Flying Gs' first touchdown when he ran around end and scored on a 40-yard play.

With seven minutes to go in the game, Koepke took Gladwin's kickoff and ran it back for a touchdown. Pedersen's final kick from placement gave Tawas a 28-7 lead.

Redman of Gladwin duplicated Koepke's run by taking the kickoff and returning it all the way to a touchdown.

Tawas had one of its better nights of the season on the ground, but passing proved to be the key difference as Koepke completed seven out of 14 passes. Included were two to Rollin for 55 yards, three to Harris for 75 yards and two to Look for 10 yards. Gladwin had an even better passing percentage with seven out of 12, but could not match the three touchdown passes thrown by Koepke.

Leading the Tawas defense were Jon Schirmer and Dave Lixey, each with 11 tackles. Freshman Don Walker had six tackles to strengthen the Tawas defense.

This Friday night's action finds Tawas playing host to Essexville.
