

Tax Statements Being Readied for Mailing

Tax statements totaling nearly 1 1/2 million dollars are to be mailed to Iosco County taxpayers on December 1. A total of 25,500 individual descriptions are included.

All receipts were processed by the county's Addressograph department. In addition to printing names and addresses of owners and description of property on the statements, calculating equipment in the department printed the valuation, combined county taxes and combined school taxes on the statements.

Taxes are to be paid with city or township treasurers on or before February 14, 1968. After that date, three percent is to be added to the total tax.

County Treas. Edward Nelkie reports that his office has started work preparing the annual delinquent tax sale. Next year's sale is for unpaid taxes of 1965.

Nelkie said Monday that the delinquent tax sale would contain 100 fewer descriptions than the sale last spring. Taxpayers have until December 1 to pay 1965 taxes. After that date, the property is to be listed in the tax sale.

A unit-by-unit breakdown of tax statements is as follows:

- Alabaster, 680 statements, 22.22 mills, $98,501.27.
 - AuSable, 2,450 statements, 23.05 mills, $100,167.90.
 - Baldwin, 2,300 statements, 22.22 mills, $99,955.51.
 - Burleigh, 530 statements, 22.15 mills, $20,880.82.
 - Grant, 2,250 statements, 26.22 mills, $91,791.68.
 - Sherman, 480 statements, 22.22 mills, $52,337.53.

WILBUR C. ROACH
Wilbur C. Roach Again Heads Iosco Democratic Party

Wilbur Roach of East Tawas has been named Iosco County Democratic Committee chairman to fill the unexpired term of Robert Pember, who resigned to accept the position of acting postmaster at Hale. Mr. Pember's term was to expire January 1, 1969.

Mr. Roach has served as chairman for 10 years previous to 1965. Serving with him are Mrs. Roy Bergeron, vice chairman; Clarence Oates, secretary, and Roy Bergeron, treasurer.

In preparation for the 1968 election campaign, Roach plans a county-wide membership drive to commence November 15.

Prescott Calls House Court Action 'Futile'

"Efforts this week by the state house of representatives to move along the court reorganization bill was only an exercise in futility," State Rep. George A. Prescott, Tawas City, charged today.

Prescott said that from Monday evening through Thursday, at any given time only about 40 members were in their seats for debate on general orders.

"On Tuesday afternoon, I lost out on nine proposed amendments I believed would help improve the bill reported out by our judiciary committee," Prescott said. "The bill is now on third reading and I intend to offer the amendments before the full membership."

Prescott said that the bill is so important that he realized absent members were busy drafting other amendments and calling their home districts for statistical information. Fifty additional amendments were on the clerk's desk when the house recessed late Thursday afternoon.

"This is an indication of the interest and importance of proposed legislation that must by constitutional mandate replace a justice system that has endured over a century," Prescott said.

One amendment submitted by Prescott reduced from $5,000 to $2,500 the exclusive jurisdiction provision clause for any new district courts. "This $5,000 figure," Prescott said, "would all at once remove too many cases from our present circuit courts. The next logical step might soon be reassignment of our circuit districts which would see present circuit judges pitted against one another in new circuit elections."

Prescott said that by using the $2,500 figure as a start, the bill could be easily amended up to $5,000 if necessary to further relieve circuit court case loads.

"One other factor concerns me," Prescott added, "and that is the report that the state owes thousands of dollars to the judges' retirement fund under the present court system. Because funding was inadequate, the legislature has raised, effective January 1, 1968, filing fees from $10 to $20 for all court cases begun. Seven of this $20 was earmarked for the retirement system and helped greatly in solving the funding deficit. A large loss of cases by circuit courts would leave us still greatly indebted to the retirement system."

Other amendments that Prescott will push for is election of magistrates used in the proposed reorganization, instead of appointment by the new judges. Also, he firmly believes that there should be a place for existing probate judges in the new system, especially north of Towntown 16, roughly a line east and west from Bay City to Muskegon.

"From a standpoint of economy," Prescott concluded, "all this excellent judicial personnel should be used to a better advantage. I have never liked the idea of probate judges appearing one day in judgment of their fellow attorneys and the next day practicing law with them."

ZEROING in on Michigan's whitetail deer herd Saturday will be an army of more than 500,000 hunters. All should be absolutely sure their target is a deer and not a man.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Bucks Seem Scarce as Opening Day Looms

Starting at dawn Saturday and continuing through December 3, an army of slightly more than one-half million deer hunters will be beating the brush for whitetails. Give or take a few thousand, the 1967 kill is expected to run around 100,000 in the state. Availability of deer, weather and hunter ability all play a part in the final deer kill tally.

Judging from reports this week by hunting club owners of Eastern Iosco County, the buck kill here is expected to be lower than last year. The same probably will hold true in other parts of the county.

A number of sportsmen report that they have seen very few deer with antlers this fall, although there are slightly more doe than last year and the spring fawn crop seemed very productive.

There were few deer losses last winter, although the area experienced its heaviest snowfall in recent years. The car kill is up 15 percent over the 1966 figure. The region had a poor crop of acorns this fall, being just the opposite of the bumper 1966 crop.

Barring possible legislative changes, this will be the last year in which Michigan deer season opens state-wide on a date other than November 15.

This season's November 18 opener was a result of the calendar which brought a simultaneous opening in both the Upper and Lower Peninsula. The vast majority of sportsmen opposed the Saturday opening, asking the legislature to return to the old November 15-30 season.

Hunter traffic along US23 and M-65 is expected to be heavy starting Thursday and will reach its peak Friday afternoon and evening.

Consumers Power Company and Michigan Bell Telephone Company again issued annual pleas to hunters to refrain from shooting at power lines and insulators.

The United States Forest Service also asks hunters to do their target practicing at ranges using paper targets, rather than to pepper road marking signs with rifle fire.

Cons. Officer A. G. Leitz of Baldwin Township said Tuesday that he expects a fair to good deer kill in Iosco County on the opening week-end.

"Judging from the number of deer that have been killed on Iosco County highways south of the AuSable River during the past 10 1/2 months, hunters should have fair shooting," said Leitz.

As of Tuesday, 140 deer had been killed on highways in Leitz's district since last January. The veteran officer said that a number of the dead animals killed in recent weeks had large racks and he cited two, an eight-pointer and a 10-pointer, that were killed the same day.

He expected that there would be very little hunting activity in the area after the first week-end.

DEER killed on highways south of the AuSable River in this county probably will set a new high this year, according to Cons. Officer A. G. Leitz, pictured with a doe.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Putnam Slated for Nov. 27 Sentencing

Following testimony of two psychiatrists Thursday, Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller accepted the guilty plea of Jonathan L. Putnam to a charge of second degree murder.

He was remanded to Iosco County Jail to await a report from Philip Gidley, state department of corrections officer, prior to sentencing.

Putnam is charged with the April 13 strangulation-slashing of Mrs. Viola Stern. Originally charged with first degree murder, the charge was reduced a week ago when he was arraigned in court.

Both psychiatrists testified that they found no premeditation in the murder of Mrs. Stern, that the act was spontaneous and probably resulted from panic.

Dr. Ames Robey, director of the Center for Forensic Psychiatry, Ypsilanti, said that it was his opinion that Putnam was mentally responsible at the time of the act. He found on lengthy investigation, that the defendant was in an agitated state but not psychotic and that he knew right from wrong.

Also testifying was John Young of the Traverse City State Hospital, who reconstructed the emotional condition of the defendant at the time of the offense.

Putnam is to be sentenced Monday, November 27, 9:30 a. m., by Judge Miller.

A special invitation is being sent to every organization in the community to send two representatives to the meeting. Suggestions on what events the chamber could sponsor, plus assistance from local organizations, will be discussed.

McIntosh said that most of the chamber's promoting was centered during June, July and August and the board of directors has been discussing ways and means to fill in gaps created by the loss of winter sports events at Silver Valley.

Board of Education Approves Budget With $100,000 Increase

Following a public hearing Monday night, Tawas Area Board of Education approved its $875,065 operational budget for 1967-1968.

The budget is approximately $100,000 higher than that of the previous year, which reflects increases brought on mainly by contract negotiation.

Estimated revenue for 1967-1968 is $765,204.64. The deficit of slightly more than $100,000 is to be made up by utilization of surplus funds in the school's treasury.

This surplus had been built up over the years by transferring five percent from state aid money received and had been utilized as operational capital during the interim between receipt of local taxes and state aid payments. A balance of approximately $62,000 would remain in the fund.

Total elementary expense for 1967-1968 is $290,152, as compared to $223,177 of the previous year. This reflects an increase mainly of $197,414 in salaries paid to elementary teachers in 1966-1967 to $252,102 under the new budget.

The same holds true in secondary, where expenses have risen from $281,788 to $334,662. Salaries of secondary teachers, which includes additional personnel, has increased from $227,275 to $265,816.

Administrative expense increased from $25,459 to $30,500, while salary expense to custodians was increased from $33,943 to $38,000.

May Seek Mott Help in TA Adult Education

As the result of discussion at Monday night's meeting of Tawas Area Board of Education, a film concerning this district's possible participation in the Mott Foundation adult education program is to be explained at the December 11 meeting.

John C. Elliott, East Tawas insurance agent, appeared before the board and pointed out advantages to the community to be gained by participation in this nationally-famous program.

He said that the foundation provides assistance in the form of professional leadership to make better utilization of existing school facilities in an evening program of adult education.

Elliott said that John Manley, director of the Mott Foundation program at Flint, was interested in this area as he is a summer resident of Baldwin Township.

Supt. Reynold Mick reported that Tawas Area School, along with two other schools in the county, had indicated interest in the program earlier this year. Tawas Area had been placed on the list for participation and had been deferred until next year.

Elliott urged that further consideration be given to this project because of the important role it could play in the furthering of adult education in the community.

Prin. Billy Wilder reported that he had received a number of requests from local residents concerning the possibility of conducting evening classes in sewing, typing and other fields. He was authorized to conduct a survey to determine the amount of interest in adult education classes.

Mr. Mick said that a retired machinist, who is a member of Tawas Area Senior Citizens, had offered his assistance to serve as an instructor or aide in the evening vocational educational program.

The superintendent said that other retirees in the community, with special skills and experience in various fields, probably would welcome the opportunity to assist in the program.

School Hopes to Move Into Addition Soon

Classes may move into the new vocational education addition at Tawas Area High School next week, although a report at Monday night's board of education meeting indicated that labor difficulties between a subcontractor and an employee could result in further delay.

School officials said Monday night that a painter employed by a subcontractor had picketed the project Monday afternoon. Employees of the general contractor were on the job Tuesday morning.

Prin. Billy Wilder said that the grievance apparently concerned nonpayment of mileage to the job site, although the employee is a local resident.

Supt. Reynold Mick reported Monday night that painting had progressed at a rapid rate. Heat is

TODAY'S Meditation

Read Romans 14:14-19
The fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace (James 3:18)

Long before Jesus Christ was born, the children of Israel were exhorted to promote peace. The announcement of Christ's birth was a promise of peace. All through the life and ministry of Jesus and His disciples, peace was a main concern.

Bishop Ferdinand Sig of Switzerland, who died in 1965, was one of those faithful disciples who worked for peace with full devotion. He believed that as a Christian tries to overcome the tension in the world, he is helping towards reconciliation and peace among men.

When the bishop arrived in Prague for the first All Christian Peace Assembly, he was asked whether he had come as an observer. He answered, "As long as I am here, I want to be in it, completely and be a coworker."

Christians are concerned with peace because they are witnesses of Christ, the prince of peace.

PRAYER
Our Father, we come to Thee to ask Thy mercy upon the world so full of tribulation. We regret that in spite of the love that Christ has shown to us, the world still has misunderstandings and wars. Help us to work in the spirit of reconciliation to bring peace on earth. We ask for Thy strength and wisdom. In Jesus' name. Amen.

DHIA Gives Report on Milk Production

There are 12 dairy herds in Iosco County on the dairy testing program. Two of them use the official testing program that provides more detailed information than the owner-sampler program. In the owner-sampler program, the farmer collects his own samples. In the official DHIA program, the dairy tester is paid an additional fee for collecting the samples. In the official DHIA program, the farmer also receives a feed cost figure that tells him how much it costs to produce 100 pounds of milk. Average is based on cows in herd, milking and dry.

National Farm-City Week Being Observed November 17-23

Natural resources, those well-springs of Michigan's socio-economic strength and recreational magnetism, will come in for special attention November 17-23 during National Farm-City Week which spotlights the theme "Tomorrow's Food and Fiber—Everybody's Business."

For these resources—trees, fish, wildlife, soil, and water—are the basic producers of food and fiber and their role for tomorrow is pegged, of course, to how well they are managed and cared for today.

Resources can be used wisely for present needs and still meet the challenge for use and enjoyment by future generations, but this is sometimes easier said than done.

Through good land-use practices, for example, farmers are able to maintain or increase the productivity of their soil. Thus, properly managed farmlands will continue to grow food for present and long-range needs.

The same can be said about forest lands. When given good care, forests will grow crops of trees on a continuous basis. Wild animals harvested during hunting seasons are, under proper living conditions, replaced by natural reproduction. Rain, sleet, and snow, if properly conserved, replace water used by people and other living things.

All natural resources are tied together and influence a vast complex of life. When something happens to one of them, others are usually affected—for better or worse.

A case in point is this simple chain reaction:

When a farmer disregards, or is unable to use, good farming practices and misuses his land, rain washes or the wind blows fertile topsoil from his field. His crop production is lowered and the farmer's family has less money to spend—money that would go into factory workers' and businessmen's pockets.

Lakes, streams, or reservoirs lose water-holding capacity when sand and silt wash or blow into them. And as the silt washes downstream, it clogs harbors. Then taxpayers have to spend money to remove the sediment.

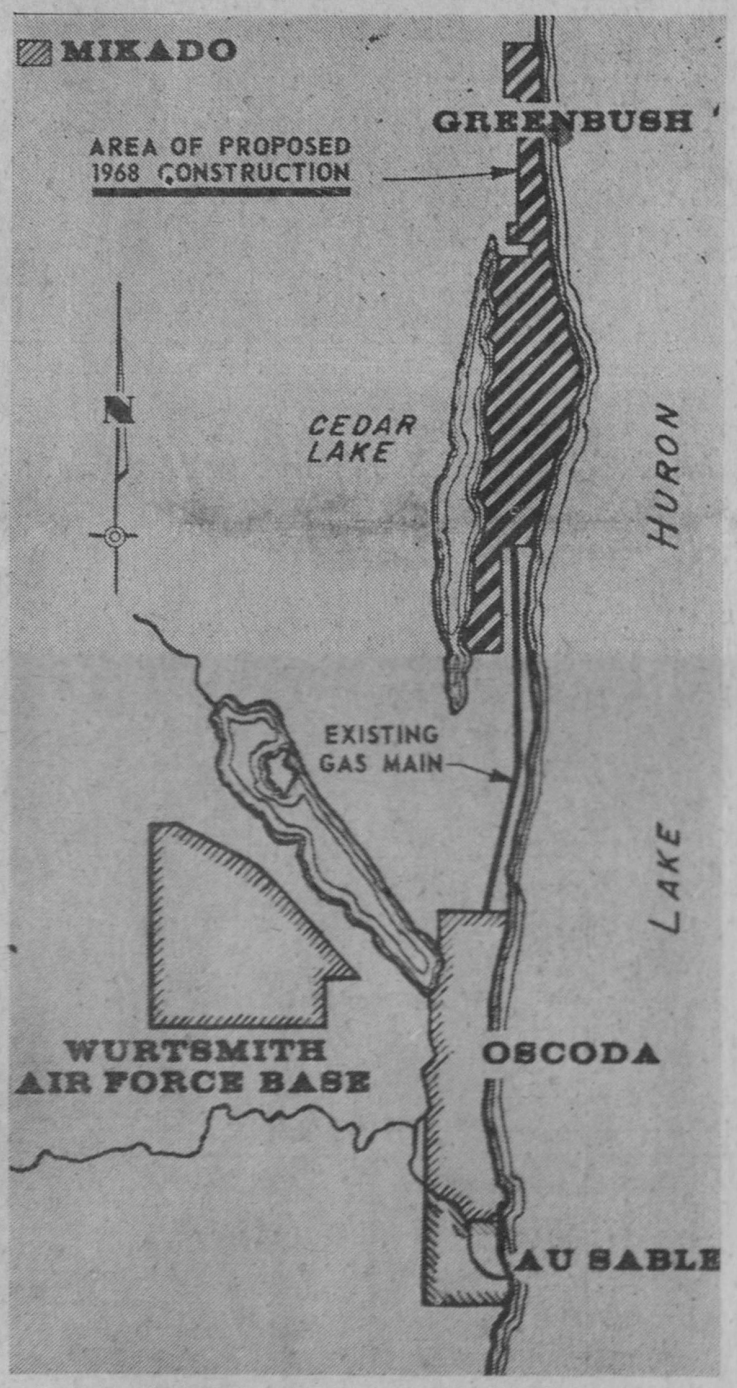

Everybody similarly suffers when cities and towns dump untreated or partly treated industrial wastes and raw sewage into lakes and streams. Entire communities face health hazards from this. A shortage of clean water for home and industrial use would be disastrous.

Also, decaying sewage and other wastes may reduce the oxygen needed by fish and other aquatic life that depend on clean water. Some kinds of agricultural chemicals can have the same harmful impact.

Thus, polluting waters with sewage, industrial wastes, and pesticides can be a severe blow to recreation—fishing, hunting, boating and swimming.

"I bet if the air-conditioning were turned off in here, they'd all come to some agreement in a hurry."

Gas Company Plans Northern Expansion

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company today announced plans to extend natural gas service to the Cedar Lake-Greenbush area next summer. James C. Preston, general manager of the utility's northern district, said Michigan Consolidated will invest nearly $296,000 and construct about 13 miles of mains to serve the area north of Oscoda.

Preston said five other communities in the northern district will also receive natural gas service next year: Elk Rapids and Suttons Bay, north of Traverse City; north end of Houghton Lake; Turk Lake, north of Greenville; and Hamlin Lake, north of Ludington. Combined cost of the expansion program is estimated at $1,855,000.

William A. Smith, Tawas area manager for Michigan Consolidated, said nearly 500 residential and commercial customers have already signed applications for gas service along Cedar Lake and in Greenbush.

To reach the area, Michigan

$40,000. Total operational expense of the plant increased from $71,346 to $80,360.

Total maintenance cost saw an increase from $27,001 to $41,100, while fixed charges were up from $7,302 to $13,333. Total capital outlay showed a reduction from $5,017 to $4,000.

Receipts include $371,346 in state aid, based on 1,785 students. Local taxes will bring in $321,645. Other major categories of receipts includes payment for transportation, federal students, driver training, national defense education, special education teacher, workbooks and fees, interest on certificates and land grant.

In other business, members who voted at the last meeting to defer this school's participation in the conference golf program reiterated their stand that the school could not afford the approximate expense of $600 at this time.

Voting in favor of including golf in the school's athletic program were Leonard Sarki, president, and Robert Elliott. Voting against the measure were Walden Curry, Carl Helmer, Clare Herriman, Mrs. Norman Payea and Clyde Soper.

It was pointed out that the board had approved golf instruction in the school's physical education program, for both boys and girls, but did not feel it could participate in conference matches because of this added expense.

The board authorized use of the school's three gymnasiums for recreational activities on week-ends over the winter months. Members of the school faculty are to supervise programs. Gymnasium at the East Tawas Elementary Unit would be utilized for elementary students, the Tawas City Elementary Unit would be used by junior high school and senior high school girls, while the high school gymnasium would be used by junior and senior high school boys.

Immediate steps are to be taken to establish a program of supervision. Basketball, volleyball and other sports would be included.

Michigan Scene 100 Years Ago Described For WSU's Centennial

DETROIT — Numerous events and programs are marking this autumn and winter for the Centennial of Wayne State University, whose oldest parent institution, the Detroit College of Medicine, began classes in 1868.

Dr. Sidney Glazer, of WSU's history department, looking back on the founding date and the year preceding it, finds interesting events and topics of discussion that set the mood in Michigan a century ago.

The Nation didn't have the Vietnam War or urban unrest to worry about, but it had something else, he notes: the status of President Andrew Johnson. In 1867, the rumblings were building up, and in 1868 the impeachment and trial of this 17th President of the United States took place. It was the news event of the decade.

On the Michigan homefront, a proposed State Constitution had been drawn up by a bipartisan Constitutional Convention meeting in Lansing through the spring and summer of 1867. And 100 years ago the State was alive with discussion on the new Constitution's merits. Apparently, Michiganians didn't think too highly of it, for the next April they rejected it by a vote of 110,000 to 71,000.

The State Treasurer, Ebenezer O. Grosvenor, reported at the end of 1867 that his receipts for the year were $1,687,000 and expenditures $3,000,000, so apparently the budget was even better than balanced.

Michigan teachers could well have considered their salaries inadequate, if judged by today's money value. The average monthly salary of male teachers that year was $14.03, and for female teachers, $13.58, Dr. Glazer notes.

On the less savory side, the population of the State Prison in Jackson increased by 16 percent during 1867, reaching a total of 382 inmates. Many communities were apparently quite free of crime that year, though. On July 9, St. Johns reported its jail empty.

Winter, 1868, says Dr. Glazer, brought its usual cold and storms. By December 5, Portage Lake near Houghton was frozen over. Marquette reported a temperature of 11 below zero on January 21 and East Tawas reported two feet of snow on February 1. And on March 1 a heavy snow storm disrupted rail service into Detroit.

Fruit growing was also in a boom era. Benton Harbor alone shipped 9,118 bushels of strawberries to Chicago on July 13, 1867. Unlike the lumbering industry, Michigan's fruit-growing business has of course continued to grow through the century.

On the sports scene, baseball was beginning to grow in popularity. Throughout the State, cities organized baseball clubs. In the summer of 1867 Bellevue edged out Olivet by a score of 38-37. And the City Club of Marshall trounced the Parma Nationals, 51-40.

The lumbering and wood processing industries boomed. The Saginaw area led with 457 million board feet cut in 1868. Other great lumbering cities and their 1868 output included Muskegon, 245 million feet; Manistee, 155 million feet; Bay City, 98 million feet; Fort Huron, 32 million feet; and Traverse City, 30 million feet. On a single day, April 21, 1868, some 700,000 board feet were shipped from Saugatuck to Chicago.

Braves Drop Cards to End Grid Season

With seven players sharing in the scoring column, Tawas Area Braves downed the Whittemore-Prescott Cardinals, 36-7, to close the 1967 football season Friday night. Tawas had a record of six wins, two losses and one tie for the season.

The season-ending game was played under the worst possible conditions with a heavy rain turning the field into soup. The Cardinal defense stopped Tawas' conventional T-formation offense cold for most of the first quarter.

Switching to a single wing formation late in the first quarter Dale Koepke went 67 yards on the first play from scrimmage to score a six-pointer. The extra point was scored on a pass from John Crisenbery to Shaun LaBlance.

The Braves struck early in the second quarter when Fullback Tom Jacques went 44 yards to score. The PAT was run by Jon Schirmer.

The second quarter also saw Esben Pedersen kick the first field goal in the history of football at Tawas. Pedersen kicked a 24-yard three-pointer and Tawas held a 17-0 lead. The Braves scored another touchdown before the half after Howard Rollin blocked a punt. Dave Busha went over for his first touchdown of the year. The try for the extra point was blocked.

Schirmer was the leading defensive men with 11 tackles, followed by seven for Lickfelt, six for Russ Potts and five for Rollin.

Playing their last game for the red and white were Rollin, Lickfelt, Terry Minard, Schirmer, Crisenbery, LaBlance, Busha and Koepke.

Whittemore-Prescott's offense came to life in the third quarter, although there was no scoring by either team. Early in the fourth quarter, Halfback Tod Gillings capped a 95-yard scoring effort for the Cards when he scored from the one-yard line. The Cards picked up 59 yards passing in a remarkable effort due to the wet ball. Gillings ran the PAT.

The Cards were successful with an on-sides kick, but lost the ball later on a fumble. Operating from the single wing, Koepke went 60 yards to a touchdown. The PAT came on a pass from Crisenbery to Al Lickfelt.

Tawas' final touchdown came when Schirmer intercepted a Cardinal pass and ran 41 yards to score. The PAT attempt was no good.

Tawas racked up total yardage of 292 during the night, including 283 rushing. The Cards had 71 yards passing and 75 on the ground.

Schirmer was the leading defensive men with 11 tackles, followed by seven for Lickfelt, six for Russ Potts and five for Rollin.

Playing their last game for the red and white were Rollin, Lickfelt, Terry Minard, Schirmer, Crisenbery, LaBlance, Busha and Koepke.

Michigan Deer Hunters Seek Halt of Antlerless Deer Hunting

New and renewed memberships in the Michigan Deer Hunters Association, with headquarters at Oscoda, have lagged for several months, but association officials predict a sharp upswing in correspondence within the week.

Michigan's deer hunting season is scheduled to open next Saturday and association officials predict that a low deer kill on public lands will result in an avalanche of mail to their office again protesting the "slaughter" of doe during the state's any deer season.

Since its founding in April 1966, more than 14,000 persons have paid the $1 membership under the organizers' plea to "give a buck and save a doe."

While most hunters of the state seem to be concerned with the deer herd during November and early winter months—fishing, golfing and other activities holding sway during spring and summer—dedicated members of the board of directors have been hard at work on the organization's most ambitious project since its founding.

Since early summer, Michigan Deer Hunters Association has been engaged in initiating petitions to halt the issuing of antlerless permits until the question is voted on during a general election.

Willard Musolf, president, and Bill Colbath, vice president, point out that the additional work involved in securing signatures from 300,000 registered voters had depleted the treasury to a point where it is dangerously low.

An estimated 114,000 Michigan hunters did not purchase licenses last fall following an all-time hunter army high of 600,000 the previous year.

MDHA, organized after the ill-fated 1965 season, believes that the reduction in license sales was caused by the lack of deer. This lack of deer, it is claimed, is because of the Michigan Department of Conservation's policy on antlerless deer.

Department biologists have stressed that the deer herd reduction has been brought on by less browse in the deer range and that the antlerless deer harvest was necessary to balance the herd with natural food supplies. The deer hunters association maintains that there is enough food for the deer and that the number has been cut dangerously low because of doe hunting.

Antlerless deer permits have been hiked by more than 40,000 over the 1966 season, set to bring the deer kill to about 110,000 bucks and antlerless deer. The increase gained approval of all but one of the citizens advisory council committees appointed by the conservation commission in 1966 to work with the department.

"We have been confronted with a defeatist attitude on the part of many of our former supporters—those who sent a buck to save a doe," Musolf said recently. He feels that gains have been made through association efforts.

Along with the current drive to halt antlerless permits, MDHA has taken two cases to the Michigan Court of Appeals. One was on the 1966 paper deer license tag, printed in error, and the other was that the lottery used to draw names for issuing antlerless deer permits was contrary to existing state laws prohibiting lotteries. Both appeals failed court tests.

On the other side of the ledger, the association claims it was partially responsible for having the 1929 deer law rewritten. The group also claims it was instrumental in retaining the $5 license fee, despite considerable pressure to hike the cost to $7.50.

Fate of the young organization, along with its desire to force a referendum on antlerless deer harvests, may be determined with the next few days. Association officials believe that Michigan deer hunters army, particularly those who hunt on public lands, will again voice opposition to antlerless hunting once the season gets under way.

Despite a severe winter, the state deer herd apparently came through in pretty good shape. MDHA officials, checking in various parts of the state, say that the deer herd is still very low and private land owners are feeding tons of sugar beets and other tasty morsels to lure deer into private shooting grounds.

In the meantime, red coats heading for Michigan's deer hunting territory will see signs asking them to "send a buck and save a doe," or, more to the point, "doe hunters—go home."

Plan Adult Ed. Classes at Hale Area HS

Applications for enrollment in an adult education program to commence following the Christmas and New Year holidays are now being taken at Hale Area Schools.

Jerry Peters, community school director, said that a tentative program now being planned might include art enrichment, oil painting, wood shop, metal shop and recreational activities.

If enough interest is shown by adults, Michigan and American history courses may be offered. High school credits may be offered in history, bookkeeping and typing.

"Much depends upon the interest shown by adults in this program," said Peters. Evening classes would make better use of existing facilities and would be of great community benefit.

Most of the classes would be geared to a 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. schedule. Enrollment cost would be approximately $6 per class.

Anyone desiring information pertaining to classes or enrollment should contact the school or write to Mr. Peters in care of Hale Area Schools, Hale.

TA Newcomers Club to Meet November 21

All women who have moved into the Tawas area within the past two years are encouraged to attend. Anyone interested may contact Mrs. Bea Gordon, 362-5749.

Inquire Before You Retire Advises Social Security

Inquire before you retire. This is the long time advice of the Social Security Administration. Failure to do this wastes the time of social security employees and causes inconvenience to the applicant. However, if you cannot inquire, here are some suggestions as to what to bring when filing an application:

1. Social security card or number.

2. Birth or baptismal certificate or proof of age. Proof of age is required in all retirement cases. Generally, the best proof is a birth or baptismal certificate made shortly after the applicant's birthday. If the applicant does not have an early birth record, he should write to the county in which he was born to find out if one is on file. If a birth or baptismal record is not available, other evidence of age may be acceptable. The older the evidence, the better. Discussion with a social security representative is important for those who cannot get a birth or baptismal certificate which was recorded shortly after birth.

3. Tax return for year prior to filing application. Applicants are also expected to tell the amount of earnings they have had in the year before filing the application. This is easily available if they bring a copy of their tax return for last year and any current pay stubs.

By bringing the necessary information at the time of the interview, inconvenience can be avoided and processing of the claim can be speeded up.

A social security representative for this area will be at the Isosco County Building, Tawas City, Friday, November 24, from 10:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.
