US-23 Safety Move Sought in Tawas City

A move to make driving conditions safer along US-23, particularly near the Midway Drive-in Restaurant, was urged Monday night by Mrs. Perry Crooker who, with her husband, are owner-operators of the restaurant.

Mrs. Crooker appeared before the city council and requested additional and more modern lighting along US-23. She said that she was to appear before the state highway department Wednesday on her request for a traffic control signal somewhere in the vicinity of the restaurant and elsewhere within Tawas City.

The restaurant owner said that a new parking lot which would completely surround the building was now under construction, but would not be ready until late this year. This, she said, would remove present truck parking on US-23 in front of the restaurant, but could add to the problems of traffic.

She said that the drive completely around the building may add to the driving hazard and believed that a traffic control signal may be the only answer.

Councilmen said they had been attempting to get a traffic control signal on US-23 for about the past seven years with no success. They supported the restaurant owners in their move.

Tawas City started a modernization of its street lighting on US-23 earlier in the year, authorizing Consumers Power Company to install 30,000 lumen lights from Mathews Street to a point in front of the bowling alley.

Although a long-range program is being planned to eventually replace lighting to the east city limits, only three demonstration lights have been installed thus far. Councilmen said that installation of lights east from the bowling alley would be included in next year's budget.

In other business, Mrs. Ruth Albertson, city treasurer, reported that $24,432.50 in city taxes had been collected at the end of August. Nearly $50,000 in tax bills have been mailed and approximately 93 percent of the total is expected to be collected before the September 15 deadline.

City Atty. Alf C. Watson reported that the city's bonding attorney's had completed work on preparing an application to the Municipal Finance Commission for sale of $34,000 in revenue bonds. These bonds would finance construction of the Mathews Street sewer project.

The application has been in the processing stage since last May and councilmen, along with property owners, had expressed concern that the Detroit firm had not submitted the application to the state.

Watson said that final signatures were affixed to the application last week and it was then speeded to Lansing.

Third Speech Therapist is Hired by Dist.

Robert Kennedy, 24, is the third speech therapist hired for the coming school term by Iosco Intermediate School District.

A native of Scottville, Kennedy attended Mason County Central High School and then attended Central Michigan University, concentrating in speech pathology, he graduated from CMU in 1966 with a bachelor of science degree in education.

Kennedy will be working with children with speech problems at Hale Area School and Whittemore-Prescott Area School.

During the first two weeks of the school term, Iosco Intermediate School District will be testing all children in public and parochial schools, with the exception of Oscoda Area School, which has its own speech therapy department.

From three to five percent of the total school enrollment has a speech problem. It will be the second year of the program in West-ern Iosco County while the 1967-1968 term will be the first such program in schools of Tawas area.

Kennedy's wife, Dawnell, is a commercial teacher at Tawas Area High School.

Ralph Sawyer and Stan Hall of Oscoda, first place winning team in the recent AuSable River canoe race, won the three-day Labor Day week-end international championship at Three Rivers, Quebec, Canada.

The race, called the biggest sporting event in Canada, drew an estimated 200,000 spectators. There were 36 top teams entered from the United States and Canada.

Finishing behind Sawyer and Hall were Steve and Bud Peterson of Minneapolis, Minnesota, who were second place finishers in the AuSable River race.

This was the 24th straight victory this season for Sawyer and Hall. They had won a race the week before at Seral, Canada, and the Canadian-American derby July 15 at Attikokan.

For Sawyer, seven-time AuSable champion, it was his 85th canoe win. He is a four-time international champion.

Two Tawas City Girls Die When Hit Monday by Auto

Two Tawas City girls were among the 44 traffic fatalities on Michigan highways over the long Labor Day week-end.

Killed early Monday morning while walking along Newman Street at East Tawas were Carol Joyce McArdle, 16, 303 Beech Street, and Martha Ann Cain, 15, 210 River Street.

Wheatly was driving south on Newman Street in the same direction as the two girls were walking. The driver and five passengers told investigating officers that the girls, wearing dark clothing and walking on the pavement, were not seen until it was too late to avoid hitting them.

Miss McArdle was dead at the scene and Miss Cain succumbed to injuries later at Tawas Hospital.

The two girls would have been among students returning to Tawas Area High School Tuesday morning had not the tragic accident intervened. Carol would have been in her junior year while "Mart" would have been a sophomore.

East Tawas Police Chief Donald Docking, state police and prosecuting Atty. J. Richard Ernst questioned the driver and passengers Monday. Police are continuing their investigation and the prosecutor is to interview two other possible witnesses. Results of the investigation should be known within a couple of days, said Ernst.

Death of the two girls brought Iosco County's highway toll to 14

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cain; one brother, PFC Edward Cain, who arrived home from Hawaii, where he had been on rest leave from Vietnam; two sisters, Mrs. Michelle Kelly, Lansing, and Mary Cain, at home.

Carol Joyce McArdle was born December 6, 1950, at Flint.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. McArdle; two brothers and two sisters, John Christopher, age 18; Jeanne Colette, age 13; Timothy Craig, eight years old, and Johnna Colleen, five years old, all at home; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Celia McArdle, Tawas City; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rushed to Tawas Hospital by ambulance were Robert M. Fabera, 32, Belleville; Thomas G. Jenks, 20, Pontiac; Irene Hall, 14, Clarkston; Terry Jenks, 13, Drayton Plains.

Barnes Hotel to be Sold

The pending sale of the Barnes Hotel in Tawas City was announced this week by Anthony L. DeFilippi.

Tawas City Council Monday night approved transfer of the 19-67 B hotel liquor license to Francis J. Keena, Alpa. He is a former owner of Club 32 in that community.

Negotiations for the sale have been under way for the past two months. Final approval of the liquor license transfer is to come from the Michigan State Liquor Control Commission.

"Tony" and his wife, Irene E., who moved here from Ann Arbor, purchased the hotel 13 years ago last May from Kenneth Barnes, now of Clare.

In 1955, the hotel was hit by fire. The structure was completely rebuilt into a modern hotel with cocktail lounge and dining room.

Active in the Tawas Chamber of Commerce since moving to this community, DeFilippi said he plans to stay in Tawas for a short while. Future plans are indefinite.

County Schedules Important Tax Appraisal Hearings for Owners

Important hearings for Iosco County property owners have been scheduled during September and the first week in October, according to an announcement Tuesday by Henry Oates, tax equalization director.

Property owners will have the opportunity to learn appraised land values as developed between 1965 and 1967 by Gem Surveys, an independent appraisal firm hired by the board of supervisors.

In January, township supervisors and city assessors are to prepare Iosco's new assessment rolls, using figures at or near 50 percent of the Gem appraisals.

Oates will be working closely with the 14 assessors and township supervisors in the county from January 1 to April 1. He will be assisting with appraisals, property descriptions, exemptions, as well as to make recommendations in regard to property values and assist with completion of reports to the state tax commission.

Edward F. Dusenbery, coordinator for Gem Surveys' team working in Iosco, said that it was very important for the property owner to bring his tax statement to the hearings. The statement lists the exact property description on which taxes are to be paid and, without it, there would be considerable delay in locating the property in card files which have been prepared.

Schedule for the hearings is as follows:

Baldwin, Tawas, Grant, Alabaster, Wilber Townships and the City of East Tawas: September 12, 1:00 to 5:00 p. m.; September 13, 15, 16, 18, 19, 21, 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., at the East Tawas Community Building.

Reno, Burleigh, Sherman Townships and City of Whittemore: September 18, 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.; September 19, 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. and 6:00 to 9:00 p. m.; September 21, 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., old Whittemore High School building.

Plainfield Township: September 12, 1:00 to 5:00 p. m.; September 13, 15, 16, 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., Plainfield Township Hall.

Oscoda-AuSable: October 2-7, 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., Oscoda Township Hall.

Hearings on Tawas City's appraisals were held two years ago and are not included in the above schedule.

Now Noted Author-Lecturer-

Tawas Vacationer Was Master Spy

Among vacationers to the Tawas area over the Labor Day week-end was one of America's most famous spy-catchers of all time, Dan Tyler Moore, who spent the holiday with his family at their cottage on Tawas Point. He is a noted author- lecturer and syndicated columnist of Cleveland, Ohio.

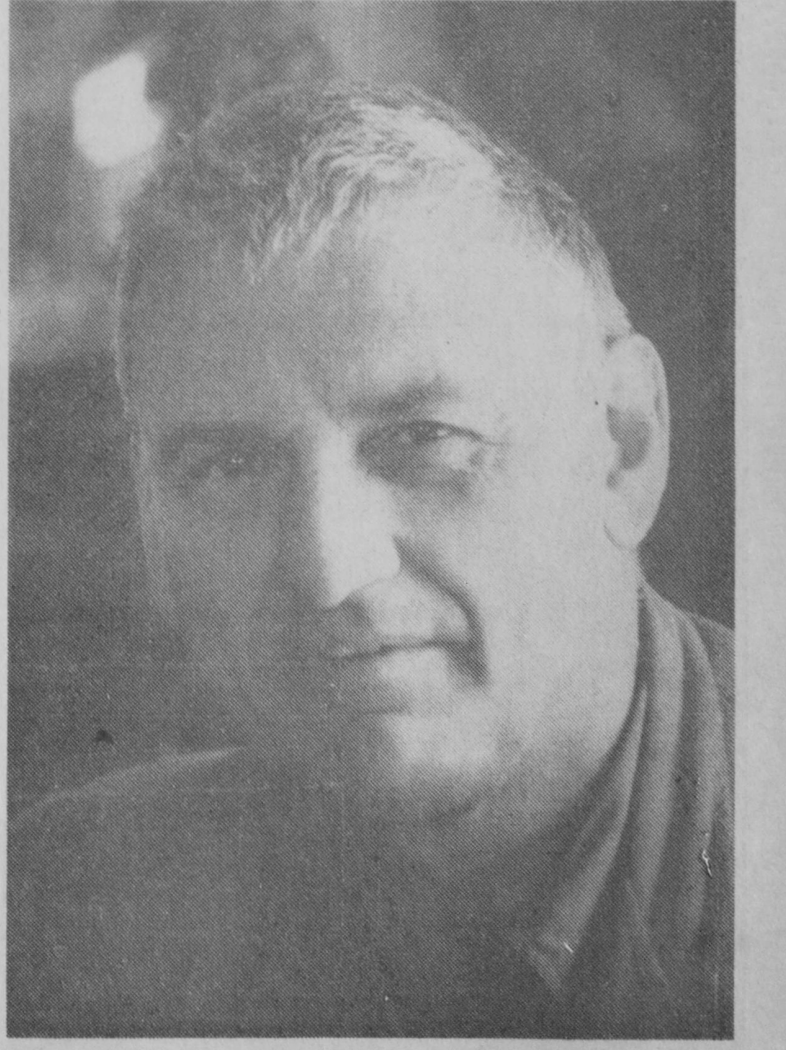

Married to the former Elizabeth Oakes, who lived at East Tawas as a child, the Moores have spent several week-ends each summer for the past 36 years at their cottage overlooking Tawas Bay.

Generally recognized as one of the top three convention and after-dinner speakers in the country, Moore is director general of the International Platform Association, the 65-year-old trade association of the lecture world. His audience-stopping programs have been seen on television, including an appearance earlier this year on the NBC Today Show.

It is rather difficult to believe that the bespectacled Ohioan, who sponsors a midget sailboat race for area children each summer on Tawas Bay, was once termed the "toughest American who ever came to the Middle East." But that is a fact, as he was America's top OSS officer at Cairo, Egypt, during World War II.

A Yale graduate, Moore was a tracker-down of complex frauds prior to World War II and brought hundreds of fraudulent operators to book. He was influential in drafting and enforcing both federal and state fraud legislation and authored the Ohio Securities Act.

At the outbreak of World War II, Gen. "Wild Bill" Donovan, head of the OSS, America's spy service, recognized the similarity between tracking down complex types of criminals and interna-

After the war, Moore formed the Middle East Company with Elliott Ness (of Untouchable fame) and Gen. Claire Chennault, and became its president. Although still active as a consultant on Middle Eastern affairs, Moore is now primarily a story-teller and his lectures have delighted and informed hundreds of thousands in audiences all over the United States.

His award winning stories have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, Red Book, True and many of the other top magazines in the United States and abroad. His best selling hard cover book, "The Terrible Game," originally a best in Saturday Evening Post, won the Teenage Book Award and is being made into a movie.

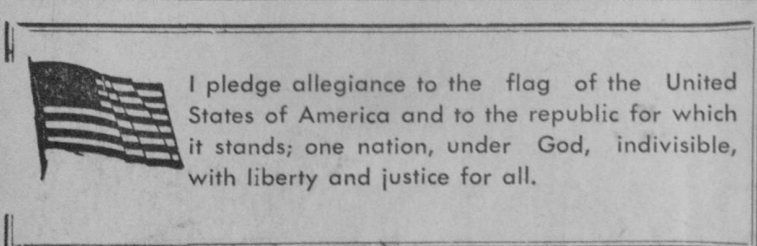

Movie rights of another Post story have been purchased and another of his stories has been optioned for a Broadway play. Two of his tensely plotted television stories, "The British Guiana Magenta" and "One Murder Up," were written for the Chrysler Dealers' Hour.

Moore is also a foreign correspondent for the North American Newspaper Alliance and a many time contributor to the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland Press. He writes a syndicated column for the Plain Dealer.

His latest book, "Wolves, Widows and Orphans," has received

Dear Driver,

THIS WEEK OUR TWINS, who are six years old, are going back to school for their second year. Their sister will be with them, but she's only 10 herself, and she still looks pretty little to me. Their little dachshund, whose name is Schnapps, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as they waved "goodby" and started off to the halls of learning.

LAST NIGHT WE TALKED ABOUT SCHOOL... my children and I. One wondered what the teacher would be like... she hoped she would sit beside Mary (the little girl next door). The other said part of multiplication tables—just to be sure she knew them. Oh, we talked about lots of things. They tried on their new school clothes to show me... and then to bed.

THEY LOOKED SO HELPLESS... Sound asleep. You see I'm their Daddy. When a dolly is broken or a finger cut, or their sister start to school, when they walk across the street, then they're in YOUR hands.

THEY'RE NICE KIDS. They like to fish, swim and go for walks with me on Sunday afternoon. But I can't be with them all the time. I have to work to pay for their clothes and education. So please help me to look out for them. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections... and please remember that children do run out from behind parked cars.

PLEASE DON'T HURT MY KIDS!

County Planner Criticism Again Heard; Rebuff on I-75 Proposal

Criticism of Iosco's proposed planning consultant popped up again recently at a meeting of the Iosco County Planning Commission.

James P. Mielock, representative of the board of supervisors on the county planning commission, said there had been criticism of the selection of the comprehensive plan recommended. He stated it appeared that Williams and Works were reaping the benefit derived by the work done by two other planners.

Edward Higgins, East Tawas councilman and a member of the planning commission, commented that it was his opinion that one of the two firms already used by governmental units in the county should be employed. He felt that not doing so would create some duplication of effort.

Max Beach, commission chairman, explained that the master plans already completed by Tawas City, East Tawas, Baldwin, Oscoda and AuSable Townships would not be duplication. He said that each of the professional planners, including Vilcan-Leman and Associates, Mills, Johnson and Anderson, as well as Williams and Works, had submitted proposals to complete a county-wide comprehensive plan.

Each firm had bid against the other, said Beach, to complete such a plan and Williams and Works submitted the most complete report and was one of two identical low bids. Beach said if the others had already done planning work in the area, "they should have had an advantage, but it was not apparent in the bids submitted."

The planning commission recommended to the board of supervisors the firm of Williams and Works as the professional planners it felt had submitted the lowest bid to do the county-wide comprehensive plan. Final decision of what firm is to be selected rests with the Iosco Board of Supervisors.

Preliminary application has been made by the planning commission for 701 federal funds to help finance the comprehensive plan for this county.

John Pierce, extension specialist from Michigan State University, explained that county comprehensive planning does not take precedence over any township or city planning that has already been completed.

Chairman Beach explained to the 22 persons present that the county planning commission's function is not to carry out planning, but to see that the planning is undertaken.

A second rather controversial subject was brought up when Higgins requested that the county planning commission go on record supporting the movement initiated by Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller seeking to halt construction of I-75 from Standish to Grayling and move it to the eastern side of the state.

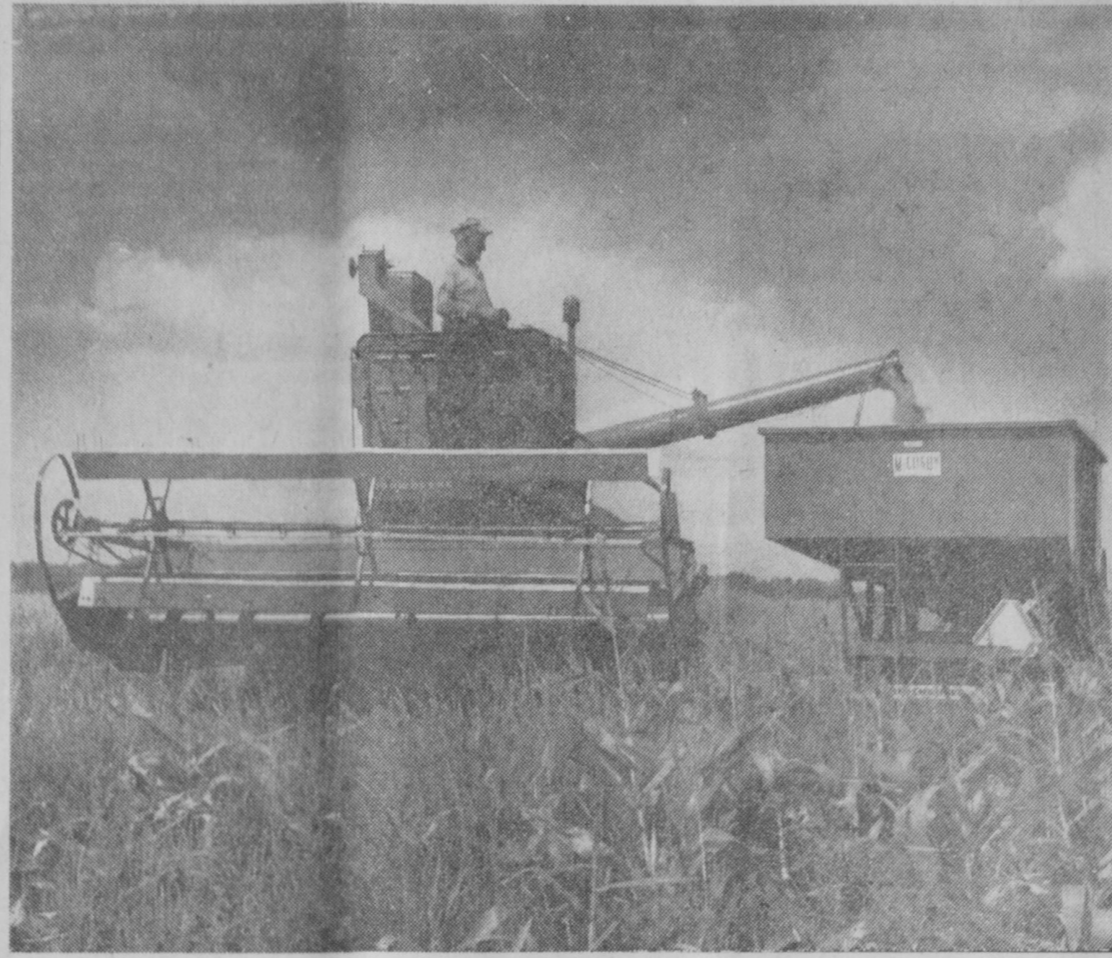

Ralph Western, commission member, suggested that the commission think about such a proposal. He suggested that the commission not waste its time trying to stop that which has already been planned for 10-15 years, but that it give consideration to planning for the future development of another highway that would serve this area of the state.

Western felt that now would be the time for the planning commission and all communities and organizations to learn about future plans for highway construction in this area and to make suggestions to the state highway department before a plan is initiated.

Otis Love, county road engineer and a member of the planning commission, said that the highway department already has plans for highway constructions in this area. He stated that a new needs study is to be made in the next six to nine months to review highway needs of this area.

It was further discussed that, perhaps, a limited access highway might not serve the best interests of this tourist and resort area. It was suggested that a scenic drive would mean more to the development of natural resources on the eastern side of the state.

The planning commission took no action on this matter, but indicated it might explore possibilities of meeting with the highway department for further discussion.

Forest Chats

TAWAS RANGER DISTRICT
Huron-Manistee National Forests
By Loren S. Woerpel, Ranger

Labor Day signals the official end of summer, the vacationing season portion at any rate. It is back to school for the kids, anticipation of the various hunting seasons for Dad and wool clothes shopping for Mom.

Down at the forest service office, it is time for us to get ready to plant about 220,000 trees this fall, brace ourselves for the fall fire season, begin to prepare timber products for sale and to begin putting our recreation areas to bed for another year.

This summer season, despite wet weather at times, appears to have equaled or bettered last year's number of visitors to the national forest in the Tawas area.

We noticed that swimming use at Sand Lake beach and picnic ground was heavier this year than in previous years. Hiking on the shore-to-shore is becoming increasingly popular. In fact, hiking probably equaled horse riding use on our end of the trail this season. More large group picnics were held in the picnic grounds than in previous years.

Camping stayed at about the same high level as last year. This judgment is based on some random counts, fees collected and the amount of garbage hauled away.

Visits at the Lumbermen's Monument continued at an astonishing level. This year, we installed a new type counter system there and have registered 111,700 people during the months of July and August.

To keep up with this growing use, we have several renovation projects going. Several weeks ago, we remodeled the Sand Lake beach, taking out the old stumps and dying trees, widening the beach and putting in a retainer wall. By next spring, we hope to have grass, new shrubs and trees started there.

At Silver Valley in July, we built a new toilet building to replace the old CCC constructed one that has finally gotten beyond repair. One more building will be built next summer before the old one is torn down.

During September and October, we will be closing half of Round Lake Campground and parts of the other campgrounds for extensive repairs and rehabilitation work. In case anyone asks you about this, we will still have plenty of campsites open for those who camp right up until snow flies.

And so it goes, one season behind us but another to plan and look forward to.

Many adults would be envious of the experiences of some of our area's young people. Two girls who participated in the 4-H Club state show on the campus of Michigan State University proved to others that determination and a bit of work can take them to the top.

Dianne Fisher of Rose City is in Chicago, Illinois, on an annual trip to see that city as a result of her demonstration in the project, "Passport to the World." Dianna has developed an interest in people of other countries and is trying to help others understand and appreciate the culture and development of those countries.

Cheryl Mezey of Alger was among the top 70 girls in the state's 4-H dress review. She modeled several times and was in the final show, wearing the blue formal she made in her 4-H Club last winter.

Braves Look Tough on Paper but are Yet Untested, Says Coach

"I don't know if I should be optimistic or pessimistic about the coming season—I am going into my ninth season here on the coaching staff, but we really have not had a tough scrimmage as yet and have been too busy to check on other teams in the conference."

This was the word from Steve Sventko, Tawas Area's new head coach, after mulling over possibilities for the coming NBC football schedule at the end of preschool practice.

Barring serious injuries, Tawas Area is in good position for a fine team this year with plenty of experience furnished by eight returning lettermen. Besides this important experience, Tawas should have its speediest backfield in years and fans may even be treated to one of the more spectacular aspects of the game—field goal kicking.

Twenty-five boys turned out for practice last week and the squad is now down to 24. Moving up from last year's junior varsity are Fred Look, end; Steve Crisenbery, center; Bill Brown, guard-tackle; Owen King, guard; Russ Potts, center; Dennis Krish, quarterback; Mark DeBeau, fullback; Dale Rieger, halfback; Mark Harris, halfback; Lyle Klingler, guard; Dennis Link, guard.

Newcomers as seniors are Dave Busha, fullback; Dale Koepke, quarterback; Ron Oates, halfback; Esben Pederson, tackle; Shaun LaBlance, end; Sam Halstead, halfback.

As mentioned, Tawas' line should be its strong point of the season. This same group held NBC opponents to 14 points in the last five games of the 1966 season. The opener here September 15 against Bangor should find Rollin at left end, Lickfelt at left tackle, Freely at left guard, Steve Crisenbery at center, Schirmer at right guard, John Crisenbery or Minard at right tackle and Look at right

Sventko and his assistant, Roger Spencer, would just as soon not mention last season's Bangor game. The Bay County team dropped Tawas, 27-13, in a 1966 opener and finished the season with a 4-5 record.

Following a week of practice, the quarterback post is still up for grabs between Koepke and Krish. With his speed and moves, Koepke may have the edge and further speed would be furnished by Lixey, Rieger, DeBeau and Busha.

Judging from workouts, Tawas should have a field goal threat in the form of Pederson, an exchange student here this year and a high school soccer player in Denmark. Esben has been booting field goals from 35 to 40 yards out and he kicked 13 consecutive extra point tries one evening.

The squad has had the usual kicked ankles and shoulder bruises, but the boys turned out for practice in good condition. The school's athletic department has been unable to schedule a pre-season scrimmage as yet with another school and coaches have not been able to see their charges go against any competition similar to what can be expected from other NBC schools.

A conference rundown on team personnel is unavailable, but the teams to beat should be West Branch and Oscoda, 1966 co-champions, both returning to the grid season with experienced squads. Tawas was shut out by the Orioles last year and then upset Oscoda.

Handling the junior varsity again this season is Dick Fairless, assisted by Herman Rollin and Donald Humphrey.

Hale Eagles Opened Football Practice With Twelve Lettermen from Last Year's Squad

Of the 38 boys turning out for opening varsity and junior varsity football practice at Hale Area School, Coach Vern Reed has 12 returning lettermen from last year's squad.

With this kind of experience, the Eagles are sure to improve on their 1966 record of two wins and six losses, but Reed is still building for the future with 10 sophomores and 10 freshmen figuring heavily in his plans.

Among the returnees are Charles

Kocher and Mark Brindley, two of the six seniors on Hale Area's squad and are co-captains. Kocher has been all-conference middle guard for two years.

Other seniors are Bruce Scofield, Steve Wilson, John Hendrickson, Danny Maas and Lane Taber.

Juniors on the squad are Elite Shellenbarger, Lonnie Forshee and Doug Webb. Shellenbarger, who alternated with Jim Smith as quarterback last year, will be calling signals this year.

Returning sophomore letter-

Assisting Reed are Paul Bauer, offensive backfield, and Nelson Shellenbarger, offensive and defensive line.

The Eagles open their eight-game varsity schedule September 15 at home, 1:30 p. m., playing host to Mio.

"A WOMAN'S WORLD"

The modern homemaker has to be "up" on just about everything—the world situation as well as her own family. In either case, economics play a large role.

WASHER SELECTION
If you are in the market for a new automatic washer, there are some considerations to be made. Here are a few suggestions that may suit your individual family's needs.

1. Capacity of the washer is most important. The tub should be large enough to hold the loads you normally wash.
2. Water consumption counts. Amounts should be related to the size of the tub.
3. Check into the availability of parts and service, plus any extra costs for delivery and installation.

Deferment Standards Set for Students

Michigan local boards have been directed to initiate classification of college students under new deferment standards established by the 1967 Military Selective Service Act. It has been announced by Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state director of Selective Service.

Under the new standards, undergraduate college students satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction and making proportionate progress each year may be deferred until they graduate, reach age 24 or drop out of school, whichever is the earliest.

Students must make written requests for deferment and obtain college certification of status at the beginning of each school year. Class standing or college test scores will no longer be used as a criteria for student deferment.

Individuals deferred as students will no longer be eligible for later deferment as fathers. They also may be liable for induction later along with any specific age group called for induction by the defense department.

Graduate student deferment requirements have been tightened. After October 1, only graduate students in the health sciences or in other critical fields designated by the director of Selective Service may be deferred.

Students entering graduate school for the first time by October may be deferred for one year. Students starting their second or later year of graduate study by October may be deferred one year to obtain a master degree or up to a total of five years of graduate study to earn their doctorate.

All student classifications will be reconsidered by October. Deferments will be denied to students who do not submit written requests.

Michigan Local Board No. 36 announces that SSS Form 104 (undergraduate student deferment request) has been mailed to all registrants who have informed the board of their intention to attend college.

Dr. Robert A. Williams, director of guidance and testing, Oakland County Intermediate School District, is the second of five recognized authorities in school guidance and counseling who will visit the Bay-Arenac-Iosco County area.

Dr. Williams is to meet with teachers, parents and school administrators September 13, 8:00 p. m., at Cedar Lake Road Elementary School, and September 19, 8:00 p. m., at the East Tawas Elementary Unit.

Purpose of the visit is to discuss the need for a professional services program and to help design with local officials a three-county guidance and counseling system which would serve both public and nonpublic school children.

His address and dialogue with participating teachers, citizens and professional educators will be bulwarked by a panel discussion format.

Taking part in the panel at the East Tawas Elementary Unit will be Miss Clara B. Bolen, elementary principal; Robert H. Blood and Thomas Pintkowski, counselors; John A. Alexander, curriculum coordinator, who will introduce the speaker. A coffee hour is to be hosted by the Keyettes.

The problem to be investigated during the visitations of professional consultants is the establishment of professional service to provide 11 public school districts and 31 nonpublic schools with assistance in the areas of guidance and counseling.

Special emphasis is to be given at the elementary school level, diagnostic and visiting teachers services, and consultant services in curriculum, reading and psychology services.

IN THE SERVICE—Hale Soldier Promoted to E-2

James A. Smith, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil A. Smith, Hale, was promoted to army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Fort Knox, Kentucky, August 18.

The promotion was awarded two months earlier than is customary under an army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

As many as half the trainees in each training cycle are eligible for the early promotion, based on scores attained during range firing, high score on the physical combat proficiency test, military bearing and leadership potential.

During advanced individual training, also of eight weeks duration, those who received early advancement to E-2 may be eligible for another "accelerated" promotion to E-3 (private first class).

Heap high the Farmer's Wintry hoard!

the Corn-Song
JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER

That writer who takes on the task of discussing shotguns is a fool. He might better write about wives; there being as much variation and personal preference in women as there is in shotguns; and less inclination on the part of most shooters to defend the merits of their respective wives than there is to speak up in defense of a favorite shotgun.

However, it is that time of year when shotgun talk echoes through cornfields, tagalder thickets, country taverns and chilly duck blinds. It is, therefore, understandable that a writer run-off-at-the-type-writer with a few shotgun thoughts and a brief look at some of the basics of the scattergun.

You are cordially invited to peruse for ammunition to load your next shotgun argument, or to explain away an unbelievable "miss" of a fat greenhead or a cackling cock pheasant.

We shall start first with "gauge"—that term used to denote the size of a shotgun's bore. "Gauge" originated in the early days of shotgunning. It means the number of balls in a pound of lead, one of which will pass through the gun barrel.

In the 12 gauge, for example, if a pound of lead was divided into 12 equal balls, one of these balls would just pass through the bore. A 20 gauge gun would accept a lead ball running 20 to the pound.

An exception is the .410 gauge shotgun in which the .410 designates the actual size of the bore—.410/1,000 inch. By comparison, a 12 gauge bore is .775 of an inch.

The gauge of your shotgun determines the density of your pellet pattern; the size of the pattern is determined by the "choke" of the gun. Choke is, as the term designates, a constriction of the end inch or two of the barrel. This constriction of the muzzle condenses the pellets and keeps them closer together in flight.

Choke designation is generally: full, modified and improved, with full choke giving the tightest constriction and pattern, improved the least pellet "squeeze", and modified falling in the middle.

If you shoot a 20 gauge full choke gun, you will get the same pellet spread as your partner with his 12 gauge full choke weapon, but he will have more pellets within the "spread" than you will. (Here's a chance for the lighter gun man to pick up an alibi—the bird flew through the pattern.)

At 30 yards, a full choke gun should give you a pattern about 26 inches in diameter; a modified choke, one of 32 inches; and an improved cylinder one of 38 inches.

It is important that a shooter knows how his shotgun patterns at various ranges. You can learn this most easily by measuring off ranges and shooting various loads into wrapping paper tacked onto a wooden frame.

As a general guide, a full choke gun shooting 280 pellets of No. 6 shot, should place about 196 of these pellets inside a 30-inch killing circle at 40 yards, and 108 pellets inside the same size circle at 55 yards.

The choice of shot size is probably responsible for more scatter gunning debates than any other factor. There will be thousands of such debates this fall, and it might be said that never have so many said so much to so many and convinced so few.

It is an excellent idea to get out to the trap or skeet range well in advance of the hunting seasons to limber up creaky swinging muscles. With a few rounds of target busting under your belt, you will feel more at home with your shotgun when the first bird explodes out of cover or comes whistling over on the crest of a stiff north wind.

And "whistle" they do. A canvasback flies at from 90 to 150 feet per second. It's a wonder we ever hit one of them. Other foot-per-second speeds are: mallard—50-90, teal—80-100, ruffed grouse—35-75, mourning dove—50-120, Canada goose—70-100, pheasant—40-90, crow—30-60.

Some of us are going to be so intimidated by these speed facts that we will come away with nothing more than a sore shoulder. But here too, there is room for debate and some statistics to flavor it with. For example, a 12 gauge magnum shooting a three-inch shell in an 8 pound, 12 ounce gun generates 54 foot pounds of recoil energy. By contrast, a 20 gauge, magnum three inch shell kicks to the tune of 28 foot pounds.

And for a 16 gauge . . . but, duck down, here comes a bird. Now, remember all those things about bird and pellet velocity and swinging and shot size and . . . KAPOW!

Oh, well, there will be other chances.

Not as a means of entering into the debate, but rather to urge the participants on to greater heights, the following information is offered as it comes from the Remington people:

Ducks—Use No. 4 shot for long range and pass shooting. For normal range, No. 5 or No. 6 shot. Some hunters use 7½ shot for closer range shooting over decoys.

Geese—Goose hunters need wallop to fold up their birds so they use the big loads with large shot. Many hunters prefer No. 4 over BB and 2's for a denser pattern.

Pheasant—For cornfield shooting where long shots are usual, better use No. 5. On a normal rise over dogs and for all around use, No. 6 is the favorite. Bigger shot may be dangerous when hunting in a group.

Grouse or partridge—On the smaller birds such as ruffed grouse or Hungarian partridge use the smaller 7½ or 8 shot. The big western grouse will call for No. 5 or 6 shot.

Doves and pigeons—You can do a good job on mourning doves at normal ranges with No. 7½ and 8. Longer ranges call for heavier loads.

Quail—For early season shooting on bobwhites when feathers are light some hunters use No. 9 shot. Later they switch to No. 7½ or No. 8.

Doves and pigeons—You can do a good job on mourning doves at normal ranges with No. 7½ and 8. Longer ranges call for heavier loads.

Woodcock—Your choice of shot size will depend on ranges at which your game is shot. For fast shooting in the alder thickets No. 8 shot is a good choice.

Rabbits—For cottontail rabbits at normal range, the 5's and 6's are suitable, but for larger game such as jack rabbits and snowshoe rabbits use heavier loads such as No. 4.

Squirrel—Most hunters use the No. 5 or No. 6 shot and prefer the heavier loads in the tall timber.

Fox—It's a toss-up between BB's and No. 2 shot. But, remember—the smaller the shot the denser the pattern.

Lightning rods.

These double action bars give the Remington Model 870 pump shotgun its lightning-fast operation.

At least once every minute this season, some hunter will be using chain lightning to connect with his bird.

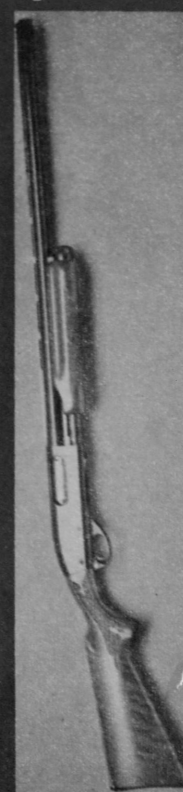

And the double action bars on a Remington Model 870 pump shotgun will have paid off again.

Lightning rods. That's a good way to describe those carefully machined pieces of steel that give the 870 its lightning speed and effortless action.

Over a million 870 shooters can so testify.

And they can tell you some other solid facts: A receiver machined from solid steel. A breech block that locks into the barrel extension. A finish that looks like a million.

The sandwich has come a long way since the Earl of Sandwich started it all back in the 1700's. As the legend goes, this royal Briton had his meat brought to him between two slices of bread so that he wouldn't have to leave the gambling tables at meal time. For some of these 1967 model sandwiches, we'll wager, he'd gladly interrupt his game.

Add some of these extra surprises to a Sandwich Lunch. Bits of sweets: jam turnovers, semi-sweet chocolate morsels, favorite cookies, miniature marshmallows. Something to munch on: cheese balls rolled in chopped walnuts, dried apricots, peanut buttered honey graham crackers, tiny box of raisins.

THE SANDWICH-MAKE IT DIFFERENT

by Betty Stern, Farm and Home Food Consultant

SKY-HIGH SANDWICH BAKE

1 package yeast, compressed or dry	1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)	2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk	2 1/2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar	4 slices American cheese

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Add sifted flour to make a thick batter. Mix well. Add softened yeast. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise until doubled (about 1 1/2 hours). While dough is rising, make Supreme Hamburger Filling and Salmon Filling. When dough is light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough into 4 equal parts. Pat or roll out each part into 8-inch square. Place 1 square of dough in bottom of greased 8-inch square baking dish. Spread with Supreme Hamburger Filling. Top with second square of dough. Arrange slices of cheese on dough. Again top with dough and spread with Columbia Salmon Filling. Cover with remaining square of dough, pressing edges of dough to sides of baking dish. Let rise until light (about 45 minutes). Bake in 350° oven about 45 minutes. Remove from pan immediately and let cool slightly before icing.

Place sausage, green pepper, onion and water in cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly, about 5 minutes. Pour off drippings and stir in grated cheese. Add 1/4 cup mushroom soup and blend with sausage mixture. Remove crusts from bread. Allow 8 slices of bread for spreading with sausage mixture. Spread one slice of bread with filling; top with second slice. Spread second slice with filling and top with third slice. Allow about 1/4 cup sausage mixture for each layer. Place on cookie sheet and brown in hot oven (400°F.) for 5-7 minutes. Add milk to the remaining soup. Heat and serve as a sauce over sandwiches if desired. 4 servings

Split muffins and spread with margarine. Toast lightly. Combine tomato paste, salad oil, salt, oregano and garlic salt. Spoon half of mixture on muffins. Over sauce, arrange cheese slices, meat, and mushrooms. Spoon remaining sauce over top. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Place under broiler until cheese is melted or bake at 425° F. for 5 to 10 minutes. Garnish with olives.

Swiss cheese sliced	Pickle slices

Cut 3 crosswise slices of rye bread. Spread one slice with mustard and cover first with slices of cheese, then with ham. Cover with a second slice of bread and cover it with coleslaw. Cover with the third slice of bread, and cut into 6 wedge-shaped sandwiches. Top each sandwich with a pickle slice speared with a toothpick.

Special Coleslaw

1/2 cup salad dressing	Dash of seasoned salt
1 teaspoon mustard	Dash of black pepper
1/4 cup cream	2 cups shredded cabbage

The Flour Category continues:

What shortcutted show-stopper can you create from scratch, using at least ½ cup of Pillsbury Best Flour?

Why have we changed the Bake-Off? Because baking changed. Nineteen years ago, when the Bake-Off started, things were a lot different. Baking was done from scratch. Mixes weren't around. Today you are busy. You travel. You work. You use the new convenience foods. You're creative with 'em. You mix 'em.
You match 'em. You add other ingredients to make them different and delicious. This year's Bake-Off is looking for the new recipes you have created with mixes, refrigerated doughs, or flour.

So, use a mix. Use refrigerated fresh dough. Or, bake from scratch. But enter the brand-new Bake-Off.

Here are prizes you can win:

SPORT FAN FARE

by Susan Murphy

Attendance at sports events gives a good excuse for a party after. Even if you prefer to watch sports on your living room TV set, why not invite some friends for an after-the-game buffet following a stirring football game.

The Saucy Ham 'n Yam Loaf and Mushroom Casserole can be prepared in advance and be waiting in your refrigerator to be popped in the oven while you're enjoying a celebration drink. Even if it isn't a celebration drink, the food will be so good your guests will forget the outcome of the game.

SAUCY HAM 'N' YAM LOAF

2 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 pounds ground ham
1 pound ground pork
2 slices bread, torn into small pieces
¾ cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon pepper

4 cups mashed cooked yams or 2 cans (1 pound each) yams, mashed
2 cups chopped celery
1½ cups chopped California walnuts
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup sour cream
4 teaspoons prepared mustard or 1 tablespoon horseradish

Combine ½ cup soup with ham, pork, bread, onion, eggs, and pepper. Mix thoroughly; divide in half. On wax paper, firmly shape each half into a 10x16-inch piece. Combine yams, celery, walnuts, and nutmeg; spread half on each piece meat within 1 inch of edges. Roll up, peeling off wax paper. Pat ends firmly to seal. Place, seam side down, in shallow baking dishes. Bake at 350°F. for 1½ hours or until done. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine remaining soup, sour cream, and mustard. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with loaves. Makes 12 servings.

PINEAPPLE MALLOW SALAD

1 can (20 ounce or 2½ cups) crushed pineapple
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
1 egg

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
¼ cup whipping cream
2 cups miniature marshmallows

Drain crushed pineapple, reserving sirup. Combine sugar, salt, and flour in a saucepan. Add egg and blend thoroughly. Stir in pineapple sirup. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Remove from heat and add lemon juice and peel. Cover and chill. Whip cream stiff and fold into pineapple mixture. Fold in miniature marshmallows and crushed pineapple. If desired ¼ cup quartered maraschino cherries may be added. Chill 4-6 hours or overnight. Serve in lettuce cups. 5-6 servings.

OATMEAL REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

1 cake compressed or 1 package dry granular yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
½ cup margarine
½ cup boiling water

3 tablespoons corn sirup
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup rolled oats
1 egg
2½ cups sifted flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Combine margarine, boiling water, corn sirup, salt and rolled oats and mix well; cool to lukewarm. Add egg and softened yeast and mix well; stir in enough flour to make a soft dough and beat well. Cover and chill in refrigerator. Form dough into small balls; place in greased muffin pans (bottom diameter, 2 inches). Cover and let rise in a warm place about 2 hours or until almost doubled in bulk. Bake at 425° about 17 minutes. Yield: 2 dozen rolls. NOTE: If rolls made earlier, to reheat place in heavy paper bag, sprinkle bag with water, heat in 400° oven for 10 minutes or heat in bun warmer on top of the stove.

CELEBRATION PUNCH

2 quarts apple cider
2 teaspoons whole allspice

2 teaspoons whole cloves
4 cinnamon sticks

Pour cider into large saucepan; add spices, tied loosely in porous cloth. Cover; simmer 20 minutes. Remove spices. Serve hot with twist of orange peel in each cup.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL PIE

3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar

1 tablespoon instant coffee
¼ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

2 packages (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels

Beat egg whites until foamy; add cream of tartar and salt; beat until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar, beating until very stiff. Cover baking sheet with heavy brown paper. Pie about two-thirds of the meringue into a round pan, 7 inches in diameter. Make a depression in the center, leaving an inch around the sides. Spoon remaining meringue in mounds around edge. Bake in a very slow oven, (275°F.) 1 hour. While meringue is baking, melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels over hot, not boiling water. Combine instant coffee and boiling water; stir into chocolate with vanilla; beat until smooth. Cool. Fold in whipped cream; turn into cooled meringue shell. Chill. Yield: 8 servings.

WALNUT CHEESE STICKS

Roll out on a lightly floured board until ¼ inch thick. Spread dough with melted margarine, then sprinkle with brown sugar and nut meats. Cut into triangles three inches wide at base. Beginning at the base of the triangle, roll dough with the point side on the bottom, and bake in a hot oven (400°) for 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 3 dozen.
