Keyette Sightseeing Cut Short at Capital

Tawas Area School's delegation to the national Keyette convention at Washington, D. C., arrived home safely Monday night following a week-end of curtailed activities.

Mrs. Mary Dunham, sponsor of the organization, said that many activities during the convention were cut short due to demonstrations in the nation's capital following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King.

"Many Keyette Clubs from the Virginia area did not send delegates because of the disturbance in some sections of Washington," said Mrs. Dunham.

Local delegates were never in any danger, stated Mrs. Dunham. The convention headquarters hotel was located about 20 blocks from the disturbance area and foreign embassies apparently acted as a buffer zone.

Miss Lynn Czaika, Tawas Area's candidate for international vice president, made an outstanding bid for election but finally lost to another candidate from the Washington area. Theme of her campaign speech was "Expand Keyettes," and her credentials included a letter from Dr. John D. LeClair, Michigan district governor, and a letter from Judge Allan C. Miller, district Kiwanis governor.

The 12 girls and their chaperones, Mrs. Dunham and John Alexander, arrived at the capital Friday noon. Some 600 delegates attended the convention, about 100 less than anticipated.

The group did have the opportunity to visit the Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument and Arlington Cemetery on Sunday before their departure, but all sightseeing was curtailed on Friday and Saturday because of the riots.

Alexander was the only man acting as a chaperone at the convention and much of his time was spent at the registration desk reassuring worried parents, who telephoned from many parts of the country to learn if their children were all right.

Besides Miss Czaika, delegates from the local school included Blinda Pintkowski, Nancy Elliott, Jacquie Davis, Gail Bischoff, Kathy Deering, Toni Wilson, Jane Krueger, Carol Libka, Cathy Briggs, Elizabeth Boldt and Anna Nash.

Steps are being taken to replace nine vacancies on the faculty of Tawas Area Schools, according to a report presented Monday night to the board of education.

Six vacancies exist in high school. Spots to be filled include an English teacher, girls physical education, history, vocal music and basketball. Three replacements are needed in elementary grades.

Administrators are now interviewing a large number of applicants for these openings.

In other business, Robert H. Crawford reported on his recent attendance at a convention on innovation in education sponsored by Oakland Intermediate School.

The board authorized selling a surplus metal lathe to Smith Gun Shop at $127, the only bid received. Authorization was given to pay $227.59 to Tawas Area Construction Corporation as the balance owed above the bid cost of installing a hydraulic hoist in the shop.

Declared invalid in April 1967 by the Michigan Supreme Court, a 1966 law passed by the state legislature concerning reapportionment of county government was upheld two weeks ago by the United States Supreme Court.

The latest decision apparently "melted" the 1967 Michigan court decision which froze redistricting which was in progress across the state.

Here in Iosco County, the board of supervisors had completed its reapportionment in order to meet the April 10, 1967, deadline.

During its April session starting yesterday morning (Tuesday), the board of supervisors is expected to dust off its plan calling for a nine-member commission to run the county government, rather than the present 19-member board.

The reapportionment plan approved March 15, 1967, by an 11-6 roll call of supervisors, followed a deadlock on the six-man apportionment committee which studied two different plans.

Under the nine-man commission plan, some townships with a population as close as practical to 1,817 persons were grouped together to form one district, two townships were to remain as single districts, one township was split in half to form two districts.

Each township would still elect a supervisor to administer township government. The principal question before the supreme court was whether the legislature's apportionment law conflicted with a constitutional guarantee that every township have individual representation on the county board of supervisors, regardless of township population.

Under the nine-man commission plan, Alabaster, Sherman, Burleigh and the City of Whittemore, with a total population of 1,884, would be grouped into one district, as would be the case of Reno, Grant and Tawas, with a total population of 1,923.

The Third Ward of East Tawas was grouped with Wilber and Baldwin to form one district.

Tawas City (1,810), East Tawas (2,462), Plainfield (1,418) and AuSable (1,659) would have one representative each on the new commission.

Oscoda Township, with a total population of about 4,000 persons, would be divided into two districts, each with a single representative.

Charles Smith, Oscoda Township supervisor, said Monday that there were many questions yet to be answered. He said that candidates for the commission would have to file petitions by June 11 for the August primary election.

County Reapportionment Law Ruled Valid

Michigan's on again, off again reapportionment law appears to be "on again."

Forest Fire Danger High in County

Iosco Tax Base at $94 Million

All indications are that Iosco County will have a state equalized valuation of $94,000,000 to use as a tax base when the board of supervisors' equalization committee starts its work today (Wednesday).

Henry Oates, county tax equalization director, said Monday that 13 of the 14 boards of review within the county had completed reports. Reno Township submitted its report Tuesday morning.

The 14 boards of review, assessing at an average of 99.64 percent of appraisal totals, brought in total real of $92,757,550. This compares to $49,741,196 in 1967, reflecting the equalization work by Gem Surveys and new construction during the past year of approximately $2,184,250.

In addition, boards of review from the 14 units brought in personal valuation of $11,262,385, as compared to $10,392,610 in 1967.

The above totals are intended to reflect 50 percent of the true cash value, according to state law, and would be used as the county's state equalized tax base.

After the board chairman announces new committee appointments, the equalization committee will study reports from the various boards of review to determine if there were any changes in property classification and decide if losses or gains brought in are justified, other than changes authorized by the tax director through recommendations from his office or through negotiation.

The tax director has again done much of the work of the footing committee by tabulating real and personal columns shown in tax books of the various assessing units.

His preliminary report is as follows:

Alabaster, $4,360,330 real, $1,256,300 personal, for a total of $5,616,660. This compares to last year's state equalized totals of $3,163,700 for real and $1,269,500 for personal. AuSable Township brought in real estate valuation of $7,130,970 and personal of $639,290 for a total of $8,070,250, as compared to $3,690,150 and $655,329 last year, totaling $4,345,679.

Baldwin Township's real estate valuation hit $7,792,960 while $517,720 for personal brought the new total to $8,310,680, as compared to $3,999,350 for real, $499,300 for personal and a total last year of $4,498,650.

Burleigh Township's total real estate is $1,558,400, personal of $89,715 for a total of $1,648,115. This compares to real of $963,200, personal of $70,500 and a total of $1,033,700 for 1967.

Grant Township's real estate total is $4,694,300, personal is listed at $845,625 for a total of $5,539,925. This compares to real estate of $493,400, personal of $908,500 and a total of $1,401,900 last year.

Oscoda Township's real estate totals $2,247,805, personal is listed at $2,432,600 for a total of $4,680,465. This compares to totals of $1,405,169 for real, $2,110,440 for personal and a 1967 total of $3,515,609.

Plainfield Township's total real estate is $12,071,380, personal is listed at $819,931 for a total of $12,891,311. This compares to real estate of $6,406,250, personal of $790,650 for a total of $7,196,900 last year.

Sherman Township's 1968 real estate totals $1,939,260, its personal property totals $1,160,020 and has a grand total of $3,099,280. Last year, totals were $1,193,800 for real, $1,168,000 for personal and a grand total of $2,361,800.

Tawas Township's tax base total for 1968 is $3,030,420 with $2,623,120 in real and $407,300 in personal. This compares to $1,621,850 for real, $372,000 for personal and a total of $1,993,850 in 1967.

Wilber Township's total for 1968 is $2,253,426, with $1,969,500 in real and $283,926 in personal property. This compares to $1,268,950 in real, $269,341 in personal and a total of $1,538,291 in 1967.

East Tawas has a total real valuation of $7,236,050 and personal of $1,017,050 for a total of $8,253,100. This compares to real of $5,554,350, personal of $898,600 and a total of $6,452,950 last year.

Tawas City's total valuation is $6,169,740, with real estate of $5,072,640 and personal of $1,097,100.

School Budget Shows Increase for Next Year

Tawas Area Board of Education Monday night adopted a 1968-69 budget calling for a $100,000 increase in expenditures over the current year.

Grand total of expenses for 1968-69 is listed at $977,482, as compared to $875,065 during the current year. The budget is to be presented Friday to the Iosco Allocation Board, as are all budgets from schools, townships and the county.

Supt. Reynold Mick told board members that it appeared as though the state aid bill most likely to pass the legislature was one which would allow $348 per student with seven mills deductible.

With 1,740 students, gross state aid would amount to $605,520. It means, however, that because of the district's higher than average valuation at $40,620,000, the seven-mill deductible would cut $284,340 from the state aid, leaving revenue from this source at $321,180.

With $78,160 in other revenues, local taxes needed to balance the budget would be $578,122.

Mick said that 13 mills of local taxes would be required to raise the $578,122. Last May, schools received 8½ mills of the 15-mill limitation distributed by the county allocation board. Voters approved an additional ½ mill in special operating last August in order to meet the budget and to take advantage of full state aid participation.

This voted millage, along with one mill of voted operation and two mills for building and site approved in 1966, expired this year.

It is anticipated that county schools will receive a larger share of the 15-mill limitation this year, due to the fact that both county and township governments benefited greatly from state income tax revenues.

The county and townships will also benefit from an over-all increase in valuation gained through equalization of the county by the Gem Surveys appraisal. The higher valuation means that Tawas Area School District will receive less state aid money because of the formula favoring low valuation districts.

Mick said that, hopefully, schools would receive an allocation of 10 mills, 1½ mills higher than last year. If this proves to be the case, Tawas would probably ask voters to approve three special mills for operation in order to obtain the full 13 mills to meet its budget.

Last year, expenditures were (See BUDGET, page 6.)

Iosco Child Welfare is Greatly Expanded

It has recently been announced that the Iosco County Department of Social Services has greatly expanded its services. Mrs. Margot LaBonte, field representative for the Michigan Department of Social Services, made this announcement from the Alpena field office. A full range of child welfare program has been added making this a community-based service group.

These programs are foster licensing, care and supervision for neglected and abused children; day care home licensing; care and supervision of delinquent juveniles in their own homes, relatives' homes, foster homes, group homes or the training schools and camps; adoption of state wards to qualified couples; 24-hour protective services for abused children; intentive casework services to rehabilitate problem families.

These services are added to the following existing financial assistance programs: Old age assistance, aid to the disabled, aid to the blind, aid to families of dependent children, medical assistance, direct relief. Together, they offer a wide group of services to area families and their children.

Funding for these programs is by federal, state and local moneys. All residents are entitled to apply for these services when needed. Supervision of and administration of these programs is the full responsibility of Edward Burgeson, director. The child welfare worker is Clyde Soper. Either of these individuals may supply additional information.

Only last Wednesday night, the Tawas Ranger District held a training meeting at East Tawas Community Building for about 50 fire fighters from various local agencies.

The four-hour session saw the use of four different slide projectors and two tape recorders to give an authentic simulation of

Fire Monday Stopped Short of Wurtsmith

Following two of the most dangerous forest fires in recent years Monday, federal, state and local fire fighting agencies announced Tuesday morning that all outdoor burning in Iosco County is prohibited.

An estimated 140 acres of jack pine land was burned over Monday afternoon in two separate fires in Oscoda and AuSable Townships. Other smaller fires were reported on Cedar Lake Road, as well as fires handled by the East Tawas Fire Department and Tawas City Fire Department had one fire on Douglas Drive.

Between 50 and 60 acres of jack pine land was burned early Monday afternoon. A fire started at the township dump located about 1½ miles west of AuSable and burned out of control before a task force of approximately 140 men stopped it.

Tawas Dist. Ranger Loren Woerpel said that it was probably one of the most unusual fires he had ever encountered. Wind gusts up to 50 miles per hour drove the blaze at such a high rate that flames crowned in trees in only a few instances. The blaze destroyed part of a red pine plantation before finally being stopped in the center of Section 8, AuSable Township.

While forest department crews and volunteers were fighting this blaze, another fire developed southwest of the housing development at Wurtsmith Air Force Base. Fed by tinder dry ground cover, the blaze quickly burned through a stand of jack pine and showered sparks on the housing development, causing an immediate evacuation of families.

The air base fire department utilized all of its equipment to stop the fire, along with bulldozers and other heavy equipment from base contractors. Assisting were crews from the Michigan Department of Conservation, Oscoda - AuSable Township Fire Department and Plainfield Township Fire Department.

Numerous fires were started around the Northeastern Michigan area when high winds knocked down power lines. East Tawas Fire Department fought one blaze on Tawas Beach Club while the blaze fought by Tawas City Fire Department on Douglas Drive was caused by a homeowner burning leaves.

Woerpel and Gary Dutcher, conservation department fire officer, said that cooperation from various agencies and volunteers was outstanding. Without this assistance, the situation could have become most serious as all available equipment was at the scene of the two major blazes.

Only last Wednesday night, the Tawas Ranger District held a training meeting at East Tawas Community Building for about 50 fire fighters from various local agencies.

The four-hour session saw the use of four different slide projectors and two tape recorders to give an authentic simulation of

TODAYS Meditation

Read Matthew 26:17-30

When they had sung a hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives (Matthew 26:30)

It was on the eve of the crucifixion when Jesus met for the last time with all His disciples. Gathered in the upper room, they observed the Passover, and the Master instituted the Lord's Supper. When they were about to leave to go to the garden where He would be arrested, they sang a hymn, probably from the Psalms. Jesus dared to sing in the face of death.

The great hymns of the church encourage men, undergird their faith, give them new hope and strength to live the Christian life. Great hymns have power to inspire men to face danger and death.

Nearly 70 years ago, when I was a lad of nine, I had an experience I have never forgotten. My maternal grandfather was dying. My brother and I were brought into the room that he might speak a last word to us. As we stood by his side, he sang some great hymns of the church. It was his way of expressing his faith in the face of death.

PRAYER

O God, almighty, teach us to sing when the day is dark and the way is rugged. Put a prayer on our lips and a song in our hearts. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

The lesson-sermon to be read this Sunday in all Christian Science churches is titled "Doctrine of Atonement." It includes this verse from John: "For God sent not his son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved."

Among passages to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following: "Every pang of repentance and suffering, every effort for reform, every good thought and deed, will help us to understand Jesus' atonement for sin and aid its efficacy; but if the sinner continues to pray and repent, sin and be sorry, he has little part in the atonement,—in the at-one-ment with God,—for he lacks the practical repentance, which reforms the heart and enables man to do the will of wisdom." The public is cordially invited to attend.

Ernest Jordan Was Speaker

Ernest Jordan, superintendent of Iosco Intermediate School District, was guest and principal speaker at the April meeting of Tawas area Catholic schools Parent-Teacher Organization. Mr. Jordan's informative speech based on "Service of the Public" was followed by questions from interested parents present. His detailed account of classes for the trainable children in the area was enlightening. Mrs. James Sheehan and Mrs. Gary Wood were hostesses for the meeting held at Immaculate Heart of Mary School. Room award went to the second grade and the jackpot was won by Mrs. James Jacques.

Tawas City WSCS Members Make M-D Banquet Plans

Fires

how to fight different types of fires.

"Monday's two major blazes were practically identical to the format of our training session and the support we received from the various local agencies meant the difference in stopping these blazes before there was any great loss to natural resources or to life," said Woerpel.

The Tawas ranger said that Tuesday's fire danger could be even greater than the previous day. The wind was gusting at about 20 miles per hour, which would allow any potential fire to crown in the top of trees.

"Unless we get some rain within the next few days, and no precipitation is anticipated in forecasts, the fire situation in Isosco County and Northeastern Michigan could become very hairy," said Woerpel.

In addition to excellent cooperation from local fire fighters and volunteers, Woerpel said that much assistance was given by Oscoda-AuSable Township Police, Isosco Sheriff's Department and Michigan State Police from East Tawas.

Tawas Area School was alerted by the sheriff's department Monday afternoon to have buses available should there be a need to evacuate Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda Area School was closed and students were sent home because of the fire danger.

High wind on Monday caused extensive damage in the area. A large plate glass window in the Kroger Store, Tawas City, was shattered. Many trees were damaged and roof shingles were blown off numerous buildings.

ET Council OKs 1st Phase of Addition

East Tawas Council Thursday night approved the first phase of a phosphate removal addition to its sewer plant now under construction.

The council accepted a tentative figure of $5,600 as the additional cost for the first phase of this project, which includes engineering of $300 and $5,300 for changing of pumps and pipes at the disposal plant.

By making these changes now, the city will avoid paying additional costs of excavating when the second phase of the phosphate program goes into effect. All municipalities are to be required to provide phosphate removal in sewage treatment plants by state law.

The city has made application to the water resources commission for a 30 percent grant to aid in the construction.

In other business conducted Thursday night, the council adopted a report from the board of canvassers which checked results of the April 1 election.

A report from the fire department indicated that there were three grass fires during March.

Gene Salamony, director of Tawas Area Bands, appeared before the council and requested that the mayor proclaim May 12-18 as Tawas Band Week. The band's spring concert is to be presented May 18, at which time Lloyd Conley, band director at Clare, will direct the Tawas Area Band in his original composition entitled, "Tawas."

The council appropriated $354 as the city's share of the Tawas area recreation program for this summer. Tawas City Council made a similar appropriation last week.

The council gave tentative approval to the new zoning ordinance prepared by the planning commission.

Earl McElheron, Charles Schreck and Richard Moss were named as the council's budget and finance committee. The group is to inspect a proposed budget for fiscal 1968 and discussion is to be held at the April 15 meeting. A public hearing on the budget is to be held in May.

Edward Higgins was elected mayor pro tem. He is to replace Schreck as a member of the county board of supervisors.

US-23A May be Designation, Says Prescott

State Rep. George A. Prescott, Tawas City, said today the Michigan State Highway Commission has informed him that US-23A between Bay City and Standish will be redesignated US-23A when the new freeway between the two communities is open to traffic this summer.

The freeway, part of interstate 75, will be known temporarily as US-23 until it is constructed northwest to the Higgins Lake area to provide better continuity for 1-75 traffic. Presently, 1-75 traffic is routed between Bay City and Grayling on the US-10 and US-27 freeways.

Mr. Prescott said the commission also informed him that it has asked the American Association of State Highway Officials for permission to use the US-23A designation.

The commission cautioned that if permission is denied, it will be necessary to renumber present US-23 as M-13 as previously planned, Prescott concluded.

Now is the time to check the garage and back porch for those unwanted items. Sell them with a Herald classified.

Meat, Money and Morale — Meetings on Buying and Preparing Meat

If your food budget seems broken by meat costs, why not attend one of three identical meetings when buying techniques and cooking methods will be discussed? Meat commands a higher proportion of the food dollar than other foods of similar nutritive value.

During the week after Easter, these meetings taught by extension food specialist, Mrs. Anita Dean, are open for everyone who is interested. Meat tenderizers, cooking methods, food values and costs will be discussed. Every homemaker is cordially invited to any of these three meetings: Tuesday, April 16, 7:30 p. m., Federal Building conference room, East Tawas; Wednesday, April 17, 1:00 p. m., county building basement, Standish; Wednesday, April 17, 7:30 p. m., home economics room, Arenac Eastern High School, Twining.

Topping For The Easter Bread or Rolls

To make an egg white glaze, beat one egg white with one tablespoon water. Brush it over tops of rolls before they are light enough to bake. To add interest, sprinkle poppy seed or sesame seed over the glaze. A milk glaze is done just by brushing rolls with one-fourth egg yolk mixed in two tablespoons milk. Sprinkle with granulated sugar.

A salty topping is nice on rye rolls, crescent or other dinner rolls. Brush tops with water and sprinkle with flaky (dairy) salt. Caraway seed may be added.

Ideas From Homemakers Or Our Readers

Have you run out of milk for the children's cereal at breakfast recently? Vida Jennings of Standish suggests that a scoop of vanilla ice cream works famously and is a real appetite perkier upper. (If you are out of ice cream, too, you had better have dried milk in a tight container on the shelf.) Vida also suggests that other homemakers may have trouble keeping pliers in the kitchen. She finds that a nutcracker does not wander off and is handy for opening those small screw caps on bottles of oils and sirups. It is safer than loosening the cap by tapping with a knife handle.

Mrs. John Froelich of East Tawas seeks challenges to keep food costs down but keep nutrition up. She shares her cream sauce method using nonfat dried milk. Using a recipe for amounts, she melts butter or fat, adds flour and cooks. After adding seasonings and cold water (amount of liquid in recipe), the nonfat dry milk is stirred in, then heated. Mrs. Froelich knows her nutrients.

She makes mashed potatoes by saving the hot potato water, beating in seasonings, butter and nonfat dry milk, then gradually adding hot potato water to make just the right fluffiness.

I might conclude these few ideas with a quote from an unknown source: A wise man profits by his own experience; a wiser man profits just as much by the experience of others.

Caution plus courtesy, plus common sense, equals safety. Drive safely.

LOOKING BACKWARD—

Would Curb Speeding by Stiffer Fines

15 Years Ago—

April 10, 1953—More severe sentences by justice courts for youthful offenders and better cooperation of parents would help prevent much of the speeding and reckless driving practiced by some thoughtless members of the teenage group, was the opinion brought out at a meeting of law enforcement officers and city officials Tuesday afternoon. Several recent auto accidents, which resulted in severe injuries and damaged cars, has caused much concern among parents and people of the community.

stand the law, contact the state fire control officer in East Tawas or the United States Forest Service in East Tawas. As an example of how many people contact our representatives, Fire Warden Bob Bailey issued 450 burning permits last fire season.

During the last couple of weeks, several fires have occurred in Isoco County. These fires have burned more than 100 acres of grassland and about 20 acres of timberland. The fires caused damage to the land and threatened buildings. Under the weather that existed when they started, they had the potential of being larger.

A dry spring such as the one we are having produces extreme fire conditions. Strong winds which are characteristic to spring, dries out the dead vegetation very quickly and will cause a fire to spread rapidly. These conditions should be kept in mind as you work in or pass through the county.

On April 4, the personnel from the district and Gary Dutcher, the state fire control officer, met with individuals who act as fire cooperators in Isoco County and representatives from the sheriff's department, local fire departments and local state police post. This is an annual get-together we hold each spring to talk over our mutual interests in forest fire prevention and suppression. New equipment and techniques were discussed and a new training device, the fire simulator, was used to demonstrate coordinated fire suppression action.

Who's Afraid of "Snoopies"?
Time was you had to worry about keeping your oven a "closed" subject. But not any more! Today you can have an oven that cleans itself...RIGHT NOW! It's the self-cleaning oven on the new electric range! No cleansers, no fumes, no scrubbing, no work...electric elements do the dirty, oven-cleaning job far better than human hands.
But this is only one of the wonders of the new electric range. Thermostatic surface units, horizontal broiler, built-in exhaust...all combine to make your cooking a pleasurable, precise art.
Isn't it time you quit worrying about oven "tattle-tales" and bought a new electric range with the self-cleaning oven?

Tawas Navy Men Participated in Apollo Recovery

Commissaryman Third Class Jerry L. Frank and Seaman Wayne A. Frank, United States Navy, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Frank, Tawas City, participated in the Atlantic Spacecraft Recovery Force operations for the Apollo Six unmanned space flight, as crewmen aboard the rescue salvage ship, USS Opportune.

The ship was on standby at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, in the event of an emergency or spacecraft malfunction in the early seconds of the flight.

This second flight of the Saturn V launch vehicle in the Apollo series generated rocket thrust equal to more than 160-million horsepower at lift-off.

The more than nine-hour flight tested the space capsule's heat shield and evaluated the launch vehicle. Other missions included a demonstration of mission support facilities and launch operations and the safe recovery of the command module.

"DOWN IN THE VALLEY WHERE THE GREEN GRASS GROWS," sits little Terry as sweet as a rose, along comes Jerry and kisses her on the nose" . . . all because you made her irresistible in this classic middie blouse. Don't you want your "little doll" to lead the skip rope set?

TERRIFIC FOR THE TOM BOY TOO

She'll wave a flag for the maternal institution if you make her middie of red, white and blue Speed-Cro-Sheen . . . and you'll wave the flag for its practicality. It's cotton and can be worn over a blouse while the weather is still cool. Then, when it gets warmer, just as a blouse. If your little lady is a Tom Boy, relax, this blouse can take all the rough and tumble wear she can give it . . . but you'll probably want to use darker colors that don't show the dirt.

WARM WEATHER IS NOT FAR OFF

Don't put off making this blouse . . . warm weather always comes sooner than you think it will. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PK 9781.

LET YOUR TEAPOT TAKE COVER under this cheerful cozy. It is crocheted of pale green knitting worsted with gaily colored ribs woven in a diagonal direction. The dainty yarn flowers planted around the handle on top make this festive cozy a grand reason for having a tea party. # MANAGE SOMEONE ELSE'S FARM?

"I was born on a farm, and I wouldn't trade farming for any job in the world."

Not every farm boy is so lucky. For many, the "home farm" these days is just a place to visit, not a place to live and earn a living.

The mathematics are harsh, but simple. Ten years ago, there were 4.7 million farms; today, 3.2 million; by 1980, only about 1.5 million.

What can a "displaced" farm boy do if he wants to stay on the farm?

He could manage someone else's farm — as an individual, or as an employee of a professional farm management service.

"Professional management of farm land will continue to increase," says Ray M. Carmichael, Farm Manager from Springfield, Illinois. "With good farm land selling from $800 to $1,000 per acre, farm owners have a large investment and often turn to a professional farm manager to help them obtain satisfactory return."

"More than in the past, ranch land is controlled by absentee owners who hire managers," adds C. H. Seufferle, Associate Dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Nevada.

But there aren't enough good farm managers to go around. "We could place a larger number on the farm if we had the graduates," laments L. R. Crane, Chairman of the Division of Agriculture at the two-year Agricultural and Technical College in Morrisville, New York. "Fifty percent or more of our graduates in animal husbandry and agronomy go on to a four-year college, and then into other occupations. Others return to their home farms."

"The alert land owners are well aware of the situation, and they're bidding for graduates of schools like ours," declares Howard Sidney, Chairman of the Division of Agriculture at the Agricultural and Technical College in Cobleskill, New York.

Some of the bidders are corporations. For example, agribusiness firms that sell feed, or produce corn and peas, are hunting for managers to handle farms that support research or produce crops and livestock.

Carroll V. Hess, Dean of the College of Agriculture at Kansas State University, agrees. "I expect to see some growth in large corporate-owned land, especially in the cash crop farming areas," he says.

Why manage someone else's land?

It keeps the farm boy on the farm, of course. Besides that, it gives . . .

Management experience. "I have full responsibility for all farm operations," says Bob Austin, ranch superintendent for Florsheim Farms at Patterson, California. "I do all the hiring and firing, all the buying and selling. My job is strictly management."

Paul MacDonald, manager of Hillside Farm in Cranston, Rhode Island, adds that his responsibility for maintaining health of a large dairy herd, and for managing field crop production, offers important management experience for him.

Someday, perhaps, Bob and Paul — and others like them — will be able to apply their management experience on farms of their own.

Paul Lasher of Fort Plain, New York, has been able to. He worked for Jim Irish, Jr., at Kinderhook, New York, after graduating from Cobleskill Agricultural and Technical College, and before taking over his own farm. "While working for Mr. Irish, I gained important experience in most phases of dairy cattle management, including rearing, replacing, feeding, and maintaining herd health."

Chance to operate a bigger farm. "Younger farmers see a way of getting into farming on a bigger scale than they would be able to do with their own limited capital resources," Hewitt said.

by Richard E. Geyer

Personal satisfaction. Charles Dyer is farm manager for the Orange County, California, Industrial Farm. "We have men from all walks of life, young and old, rich and poor. Most of these inmates come to our facility with no agricultural background. It's amazing how interested they become in livestock," Dyer says. "Seeing how animals can help in rehabilitating these inmates, and knowing that I have helped to rehabilitate a few of these men so they can lead a normal life, is very satisfying."

Of course, there are problems in managing someone else's farm.

Richard H. Merritt, Associate Dean of the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, Rutgers University in New Jersey, sums up the major reasons most Rutgers agricultural graduates reject offers to manage farms:

"They can usually get much higher starting salaries from agribusinesses. They don't often have an opportunity to share in the farm's profits and capital gains. And the job may really be that of a hired hand, rather than a manager."

Some landowners do offer low salaries, such as the one in Texas who tried to get a Texas A&M University graduate recently for $200 a month. He didn't get any takers, but soon came back offering $450 plus generous fringe benefits, and got an audience.

There are some signs that landowners are beginning to recognize the value of good compensation for a qualified manager. Some managers start at $5,000 to $6,000 a year or more with ample fringe benefits and, for some, potential earnings are quite high.

But Dean Hess is pessimistic. "We hear lip service given to the idea of higher salaries for farm managers, but it never seems to materialize."

"Absentee landowners feel that they take all the risk of poor decisions made by the manager, and this is part of the justification they offer for low starting salaries," Dean Hess continued. "It is true that the manager has a chance to make some decision errors without suffering the financial consequences absorbed by an owner."

Some inexperienced owners interfere with good management, however. For example, one bought an expensive tractor—"because I got a good buy"—just to do a small clearing job that could have been contracted cheaply (he sold the tractor later when his manager protested).

How does a young man get ready to be a farm manager? These days, he probably should plan on at least several years of college preparation.

Bob Austin graduated from the two-year curriculum in horticulture at Modesto Junior College in Modesto, California. "Modesto was very convenient and reasonable," says Bob, who lived on a farm nearby.

Charles Dyer was married when he enrolled in animal husbandry at Mt. San Antonio College, a junior college at Walnut, California. "I had to get as much schooling as possible within a short period," he said, explaining why he enrolled in a two-year program.

New two-year training programs in agriculture are showing up in nearly all states. Some are especially designed for students who plan to manage a farm. "We expect some of our graduates to be employed on farms owned by non-relatives, and we are developing our programs accordingly," says Bruce B. Bishop, Director of Student Personnel at the two-year Catawba Valley Technical Institute, Hickory, North Carolina.

Starting salaries for farm managers and assistant managers in the Hickory area now range from $85 per week with housing to $115 per week without living facilities, Bishop reports.

For some young persons, four years of college or more, may be best. However, less than 10 percent of all B.S. graduates from Land-Grant agricultural colleges in 1966 went into farming or professional farm management. Most of these probably returned to their own home farm.

"In spite of an increase in demand for farm managers, I don't expect an increase in demand for farm managers, I don't expect any substantial growth in employment of either four-year graduates — or two-year graduates — in these positions," Dean Hess says. "The reason is that I don't sense any real interest on the part of today's students. If they take such positions, it's a second choice to farming on their own. And they look on it as something to occupy their time until they can manage their own farm."

"But if this doesn't happen, they may be forced to take another job, and start at the bottom of the professional ladder again. This is especially serious for the young man with a family."

But for the person who wants to give it a try, the chances of being able to manage someone else's farm look good.

A Former Councilman Talks to Pete "87776" Simone

EXPRESSWAY TO CORRUPTION

Editor's Note:

Remember Pete Simone? Or, perhaps you'll more readily recall him as "87776."

He is the convict at the Jackson, Michigan prison who has been writing off and on for Farm and Home Section for two years. This is Pete's first article for Farm and Home in many months.

We think you will enjoy it.

"Expressway to Corruption" is basically factual.

Mr. Simone took certain liberties in writing this article to protect the guilty...that's right, the guilty! Mr. Simone's article is based on an interview he had with a fellow convict.

Could "Expressway to Corruption" happen in your town?

The Editors

My story began when the City Planning Commission disagreed on which of two proposed routes for a new expressway would be better for all concerned. It ended with an expose that sent a scheming realtor and myself to prison. Depending on what kind of voter you are, perhaps somewhere between the beginning and the end lies an indictment of your voting conduct.

The realtor and I were not close friends, though we played an occasional round of golf together. His game was unimpressive. But he was a real pro when it came to driving shrewd business deals. And his influence around City Hall was the topic of many enlightening newspaper editorials.

We were chatting in the clubhouse one afternoon when he lighted a cigar, sat back and stared at me for a moment, then said, "Al, you've been in politics over twenty years and never lost an election. That's quite an accomplishment, for an unselfish man." He paused, sipped his drink. "But where's it got you?" he asked, twirling the glass in his fingers. "Actually nowhere, financially. You're in hock up to your ears. And the pity of it all is that you've gone about as far as any unselfish politician can go."

"You keep saying unselfish, but I think you mean honest," I said.

"I mean that a politician must consider his personal welfare as well as the public's. As you probably know, I stand to profit a great deal if the expressway takes proposed Route A."

I knew, all right. Certain members of the City Planning Commission seemed anxious to please the realtor. Their opposition to Route B had prevented an agreement and forced the Commission to put the issue up to the voters. I knew also that the Commission was planning a huge new cultural center. A choice site for the center was split by Route B and therefore would be bypassed if the expressway took that course. It was no secret that the realtor owned this site. The sale of it to the city would net him $500,000. "The matter is now in the hands of the voters," I reminded him.

"Ah, yes," he said, "the voters — the people who vote for the candidate and disregard the issue, or vice versa. One day a neighbor told me she'd been too busy to keep abreast of the presidential campaign, so she'd voted for L.B.J. simply because his name, like hers, was Johnson. Wouldn't it be interesting to know how many other Johnsons voted for Johnson? I'd wager that seventy percent of our townspeople aren't even aware that a new expressway is planned, so they're apt to vote either way."

"But the newspapers are already harping on the fact that Route A would cost over three million additional tax dollars," I said.

"So what? You've never led the voters astray. If you backed an expressway to Hawaii, they'd vote for it."

"Are you suggesting that I endorse Route A?"

"Yes. And I can give you thousands of reasons why you should. Ten percent of half a million dollars is a tidy sum. Face it, Al. Space-age politics is a game where old-fashioned, hard-rock honesty is too great a handicap. Don't play it by heart and let all the goodies go by. Play it smart and get out of hock."

A week later I telephoned the realtor and suggested a game of golf. We met in the clubhouse. He gave me a check, payment in full. And that was that — until a newspaperman got a lead on the payoff and followed through.

It has been said that every man has a tragic flaw in his character. Is mine less tragic because it carried a price tag? Perhaps. However, the real tragedy lies with voters who never seem to learn that every time they cast uninformed votes they sacrifice, irretrievably, parts of their investment in democracy.

Indeed, more things are right with our country than wrong only because there are concerned Americans — those who care enough to vote regularly and intelligently. In fact, there is nothing wrong with this nation that a few more thinking, determined, patriotic and informed voters can't fix. But new expressways to political corruption will keep on being built unless, well —

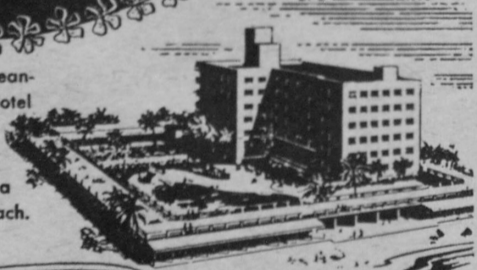

What kind of voter are you?

look pretty... Now!

It's fun to look pretty in any environment, on any occasion, at any time — and the time is NOW.

You're one of a kind. So, the first and most basic consideration is — What is my best look? Foremost, it is the look of good health and careful grooming. We strive to achieve this by harvesting and cultivating our best self.

Let's start at the top. You admire a person's hair when it radiates with life, luster and elasticity. Such hair shimmers and shines without looking "oily." This is a result of daily care which may easily fit into your daily schedule of preparing tasty meals for your family, caring for your family's clothing and keeping your home in order.

Brush regularly to bring out your hair's natural highlights. Shampoo as is necessary for your hair's condition—but don't overdo it. The proper cut and style is that which flatters the shape of your own face and not necessarily the style that you admire on a friend.

Would you like to treat your hair to a little color? Today color and beauty are apparent in every aspect of our lives. Color application is as easy as your weekly shampoo with shampoo-in hair coloring. You can lighten, deepen, or brighten your hair color and blend in gray completely at the same time.

You may choose to be beguilingly blonde, dazzling red, or dramatically brunette — all by the choice of a natural looking hair shade. Hair coloring may highlight otherwise dull and drab hair. This will result in a glorious new look and only you will know what caused this new radiance.

Can you answer questions of your friends or your own questions such as:

My hair is dull. What can I do to give it lustre?

What can I do about dry hair?

Do pale blondes need a special shampoo?

Do I have to change the color of my hair to cover the gray?

I'd like to change my hair color — but will the new color clash with my complexion?

Can't answer them all? Neither can most other women. But if you want to achieve the most desirable results from your personal hair care, you may be personally analyzed by sending in the coupon to Farm and Home Section to have your personal beauty fortune told.

If you want a personal analysis for a beautiful future, mail in this coupon (under no obligation, of course) and you will be sent a form to fill out and return for your personal analysis.

FROZEN CHOCOLATE CREAM

FROZEN CHOCOLATE CREAM

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin	$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk	$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups miniature marshmallows
1 egg, separated	$\frac{1}{2}$ cup California walnuts, chopped
2 envelopes unsweetened chocolate (2 ounces)	$\frac{1}{2}$ pint heavy cream, whipped
$\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar

Soften gelatin in  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup milk. Combine rest of milk, egg yolk, chocolate, sugar, and salt in the top of a double boiler. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. Fold in marshmallows, walnuts, whipped cream, and beaten egg white. Pour into refrigerator freezer trays or paper cups in cupcake pans. Freeze until firm. Unmold or slice, can be served topped with whipped cream. Use 15 molds or 2 refrigerator trays.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE SQUARES

1 package lemon pudding and pie filling mix	1 pound cottage cheese, sieved
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar	$\frac{3}{4}$ cup drained canned crushed pineapple
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup water	6 honey maid graham crackers, finely crushed
1 egg, unbeaten
$\frac{3}{8}$ cup light cream

Combine pudding mix, sugar, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of the water in saucepan. Add egg and blend well. Then add cream and remaining  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup water. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a full boil and is thickened—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool only about 5 minutes, stirring once or twice. Fold in sieved cottage cheese and pineapple, blending well.

Sprinkle half of the graham cracker crumbs in bottom of 9x9x2-inch pan or 10x6-inch pan. Pour lemon mixture over crumbs. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Chill. Cut in squares. Makes 8 servings.

BANANA REFRIGERATOR CHEESE CAKE

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin	1 tablespoon lemon juice
$\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold water	$\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten	2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar	$\frac{1}{4}$ cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup ( $\frac{1}{2}$ pound) cream cheese or creamed cottage cheese	2 fully ripe bananas
	Crumb Crust

Soften gelatin in  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup cold water. Mix together egg yolks, sugar and remaining water in top of double boiler. Cook over hot, not boiling, water until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in gelatin. Whip cheese until smooth and creamy. Gradually add egg yolk mixture, lemon juice and salt, beating until well blended. Chill until partially set. Beat thoroughly. Fold in egg whites, then whipped cream. Peel and slice bananas. To prevent from browning, coat with ascorbic acid mixture. Arrange alternate layers of cheese mixture and sliced bananas on Crumb Crust, using cheese mixture for bottom and top layers. Top with  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup crumbs reserved from Crumb Crust recipe. Chill until firm (approximately  $1\frac{1}{2}$  hours). Just before serving, garnish with additional ripe banana slices, if desired. Makes 1 (9-inch) cake. 8-10 servings.

Crumb Crust

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup melted margarine	$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups finely crushed honey maid graham crackers
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Add margarine, sugar and cinnamon to crumbs. Mix thoroughly. Press  $\frac{3}{4}$  of crumb mixture firmly along sides and bottom of a 9-inch spring form pan. (A spring form pan is a round baking tin from which the sides can be removed, to allow for serving the cake from the bottom of the pan.) Reserve remaining crumbs for sprinkling on top of cake.

NOTE: If desired, this recipe may be made using a 9-inch cake or pie pan in place of a spring form pan.

POT DE CREME FROZEN TORTE

- 1 package butterscotch pudding and pie filling mix
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon instant coffee
