Tawas Area Applies for Mott Program

Approval of Tawas Area School's participation in the Mott Foundation Program was given Monday night by the board of education. John Alexander, curriculum coordinator, was authorized to make immediate application for a $10,000 grant to aid in establishing a community school program.

Total estimated cost of the program would be $17,850. Mott Foundation funding would provide $5,000 the first year, $3,400 the second year and $1,500 the third year.

First step in the program would be to obtain a director, either someone trained by Mott Foundation or a person qualified to receive six weeks of training from the local area.

At the end of three years, the program should be self supporting. Under present consideration is a program of 27 classes, which would include adult education classes now being conducted at the school.

In addition to directing this program, the full time director would also oversee the summer program in junior baseball and swimming, as well as other recreational activities.

Dr. Frank Manley, who directs the Mott Foundation and is a summer resident of the Tawas area, will be at the March 18 meeting of Tawas Area Parent-Teacher Association to report on this program.

In other matters, authorization was given to use the school's station wagon as one of two vehicles to transport 12 members of the Keyettes to the international convention at Washington, D. C., April 4-8.

Estimates on the cost of installing a gas furnace to replace the present fuel oil furnace at Tawas City Elementary Unit was authorized.

Robert Reasner, auto mechanics shop instructor, was authorized to attend a training program to be conducted by General Motors Corporation the last week in July. Only cost to the district would be expenses of the teacher attending. Final conclusions on a 1968-1969 budget are to be prepared for the next regular meeting of the board of education.

Parents Should Realize Importance Speech Therapist Emphasizes Children Need Early Testing

A dramatic demonstration of a speech correction program being conducted at Tawas Area School by the Isosco Intermediate School District was presented at Monday night's board of education meeting.

David Featheringill, speech therapist for the intermediates district, told board members that he was working with 95 children in elementary grades who were having problems with speech.

Through use of a tape recorder, he demonstrated results which are often attainable in working with children at an early age. In several cases, children with problems of stuttering showed marked improvement in their speech within a few weeks.

"We are trying new methods in the classroom that have never been attempted before in an effort to reach all students," said Featheringill. "It should be emphasized that these classes should not be labeled special education."

He also explained his work with children who have problems of delayed speech and the work involved in correcting such secondary characteristics—accompanying stuttering as eye blinking and arm movement.

At the present time, steps are being initiated to establish a for-ensics program in the Tawas City Elementary Unit for children with speech problems in grades three through six. A speech and hearing clinic was held recently for pre-school children. Programs have been established whereby parents may work at home with children having speech problems.

Special therapy programs are to be conducted this summer for children entering kindergarten next fall. Featheringill believes that much can be done to aid pre-school children with speech problems.

The speech therapist told board members that "most parents lead you to believe that their child does not have a speech problem." He said it is important that parents recognize when a child actually has a speech problem.

He emphasized that a kindergarten student may be unintelligible and not have a speech problem. "I would challenge most people to go into a kindergarten room and understand children with whom they are not familiar," said Featheringill. He said reasons for this unintelligible speech may include development of teeth in the child. In most cases, unintelligible speech disappears with growth of the child.

Through evaluation and testing, the speech therapist can determine which children do have problems and what steps can be taken in the classroom and at home to correct the problem at an early age. He said, however, that the causes of stuttering are not known. "We do not believe we can cure it—only

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

Read Luke 13:9-14
Now produce fruits that answer to your repentance. (Luke 3:8, Moffatt)

The young man convicted of assault and robbery stood before the judge to receive his sentence. There was genuine regret in the judge's voice when he said, "This is your first offense, young man. I would like to suspend sentence and put you on probation. You have shown no remorse, however, for your crime. Not once have you said, 'I'm sorry for what I did.' You leave me no choice but to send you to prison for from two to five years."

What a price to pay for one's false pride! Many of us suffer a life-time of regret for refusing to say—and mean it—"I'm sorry." There can be no repentance without humility.

Some of the fruits produced by repentance are in eagerness to right and wrongs we may have done and a determination not to repeat them. God's forgiveness is a blessing most freely given, but it requires our sincere repentance.

PRAYER

Though our sins be as scarlet, O Father, Thou canst make them as white as snow. Pardon our past mistakes and give us greater strength and determination to live up to Jesus' perfect example today and in the days to come. In His name we ask, as we pray, "Our Father who art in heaven... Amen."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Our desire to refrain from sin is the best proof of our repentance. Seth Harmon (Virginia)

STATE CAPITOL LANSING.

Historical Commission Urges State Capitol Preservation

Members of the Michigan Historical Commission unanimously support retention of the present state capitol as the seat of government for the state, according to an announcement this week from Harry Kelsey, commission director.

"This monumental public edifice has been judged by competent authority to be structurally sound and all agree that it is architecturally impressive," said Kelsey. "The capitol building embodies an ornamental richness of design unmatched in most existing public structures."

The commission director said the building is one of the state's few surviving examples of unspoiled academic-classical architecture.

"The vitality of our heritage depends on its tangible evidence in contemporary affairs. This century-old building, constructed in a style that has become traditional as the symbol of freedom, offers enduring proof of the continuity of our democratic heritage."

The Michigan State Capitol was registered by the commission on August 23, 1956, as Michigan historic building No. 1. The capitol has been cited by the Historic American Buildings Survey, the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the Michigan Society of Architects as one of the most significant buildings in the state.

Speech problems are not a mystery, he said, and stuttering children were noted in the Bible. "There is no way to realize improvement without the complete cooperation of the parents and teachers," he said. Featheringill said he had received excellent cooperation from classroom teachers and the program is being broadened to help children with severe problems.

Featheringill is one of three speech therapists employed by Iosco Intermediate School District. Conducting similar programs at Whittemore-Prescott Area School and Hale Area School are Mrs. Irene Goretzki and Robert Kennedy. The program is financed by state and local funds.

'Learn to Live With Nature' is Theme

By JACK LAKE

Soil Conservation Service "Learn to Live with Nature" is the theme for National Wildlife Week, March 17-23. Conservation education is the key to discovering how to make the most of precious natural resources.

"The standard three Rs of learning should be increased to four. In addition to reading, writing and arithmetic, every child should be learning about resources," said Verne M. Bathurst, state conservationist of the Michigan Soil Conservation Service.

Today, men are learning how to fly to the moon, tour the world in supersonic jet liners, beam television waves from one side of the earth to the other, saving lives with miracle operations and live for months at a time on the ocean floor.

But are we learning to take care of the resources that make up this, the only world in which we shall ever live? Are we doing what is necessary to care for our environment? With the rise in air and water pollution, litter and resource waste, it appears that Americans have not realized the urgent need for conservation.

People need to learn to live with nature. We need to understand the ways to protect our nation's resources and beauty, state Mr. Lake, work unit conservationist of the Iosco Soil Conservation District.

Conservation education holds the answers. It means teaching people how to care for the land, protect wildlife, stop poisoning our streams and fouling the air we breathe. It also teaches people to take an interest in what others are doing to the environment—the polluters, litterbugs and junk yard operators.

Learning about conservation is like all other forms of vital education; it should be required for our young people. Every school should conduct a program that teaches the ways and means of living with nature—not in spite of it.

At the same time, every adult should become conservation-minded so that there will be enough of this beautiful and productive country left for the next generation. While the schools are teaching the dangers of pollution and erosion, the adult community should be working to keep our country a healthful place in which to live.

"Conservation education is for everyone," said Harry Krueger, chairman of the Iosco Soil Conservation District. "Begin by appreciating the many natural resources that bless this land. During National Wildlife Week take time to consider how important it is to 'Learn to Live with Nature,' then improve your understanding of conservation," continues Mr. Krueger.

The 1968 National Wildlife Week observance in Michigan is being sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs and is under the direction of James L. Goudreau, chairman.

Cards Dropped Game to Coleman in District

Whittemore - Prescott Cards tournament trail was a short one this year as they dropped their game to Coleman, 76-61, last Thursday night at Beaverton. The Cards started off on the right foot with a 3-2 lead but the Comets wiped this out to go ahead 7-3. The Cards tied it up at 11 all but Coleman held a four-point lead at the end of the quarter. The Cards had trouble hitting the basket and were down by 14 points, 40-26, at half time.

Coach Fox's boys lost another seven points in the third quarter to trail by a whopping 21 points at the three-quarter mark. The Cards had not given up yet and were still hustling as the last quarter started. Roger Evans came off the bench to tighten up the Card defense and give a big lift under the boards. They cut the lead to 15 points, then to 13, a minute later it was 64-53 but time was running out.

Two buckets by Rod Gillings and the margin was down to nine. The Comets added four points but the Cards' Evans and Mark Stahl got these back and they were within nine points again. Pressing to get the ball cost them some fouls and the Comets ran out the clock for a victory.

Slick ball handler, Mike Gordon, led the scoring with 24 points. Gillings and Dean Cole led the Cards with 14 points. Stahl also hit double figures with 11.

Card Matmen Place 10th at State Meet

Whittemore - Prescott Area's wrestling team placed 10th in the state final held Saturday and Sunday at Lansing Sexton High School.

Winning points for the Cardinals were Tod Gillings, who placed third in the 127-pound class, and Dave Noone, second place winner in the heavyweight division.

More than 70 schools started in the final two weeks ago and the field was narrowed to 35 schools last week-end. This was Whittemore-Prescott Area's second full year of wrestling.

"THE GOOD, THE BAD, THE UGLY"

GET THE MESSAGE?

Hot-Line To Those At Home

In this country, March is Red Cross Month, the period during which we salute and support the organization which contributes so much to the nation's welfare. But in Vietnam, as General William C. Westmoreland said recently, "every month is Red Cross month."

"Serving our men on the battlefields here in Vietnam," he added, "the American Red Cross is a hot-line to the folks back home, an oasis in the heat of battle, and a comfort during hospitalization. Dedicated field directors work 24 hours a day alongside our fighting men."

Also among the 350 Red Cross workers on Vietnam duty there are hospital social work and recreation specialists, and 110 Red Cross girls who operate a growing fleet of clubmobiles and 18 popular recreation centers where the troops can get away from the war for an hour or two.

Through our own local Red Cross chapter, we support and are part of the vast network that provides these services in Vietnam and Korea, and to the men and their families here at home and in the 28 other countries where U. S. troops are stationed. The Red Cross aided one out of every three military men and one out of every two service families last year. Its accomplishments in helping disaster victims, providing blood for the ill and injured, and training millions in safety and good health practices were equally impressive.

This year the Red Cross faces a critical financial situation due to the increasing demands for aid to armed forces members and the continuing drain made by costly disaster relief operations. To serve the American people in 1968-69, the organization must raise $121,624,000, its largest fund goal since World War II. During March, ARC chapters which have not yet reached their goals will be campaigning for funds. These goals must be achieved.

Aside from its other works of mercy, as General Westmoreland says, there is no better way we can aid our men on the battlefields than by supporting the Red Cross. It urgently needs a helping hand. Let's give it!

Braves Win District Toga; Play in Regional Tonight

Tawas Area Braves captured the class B district basketball crown here Saturday night with a come-from-behind, 41-37, victory over the Standish-Sterling Panthers.

The Braves now go against Petoskey in the regional B tournament Wednesday night at Mt. Pleasant.

Playing before a sellout crowd in the final, the Braves trailed the Panthers for three quarters before finally going ahead with about five minutes remaining in the fourth quarter.

The rematch between these two rival NBC schools proved to be a defensive battle as both had an off night offensively. Numerous turnovers on bad passes and minor rule infractions had fans from both schools wondering about the slick attacks shown by both teams in the regular season play.

Tremendous pressure on the teams probably contributed to poor shooting percentages. Tawas, champion of the NBC, had its undefeated string stopped three weeks ago by the Panthers and the Braves rolled to two easy tournament wins over West Branch and Gladwin. On the other hand, Central moved into the final after battling from behind with 46 seconds to play and six points down to tie the Osceola and then win in overtime, 76-74.

The Panthers jumped off to a 13-11 margin in the first quarter with Bishop and Groszek meshing two fielders apiece to pace Central. Bishop picked up three fouls in that quarter and was not to see action again until the final quarter. Dale Koepke, who played an outstanding defensive game in limiting Groszek to only eight points during the night, topped Tawas' first quarter scoring effort with five points.

The Braves cut Central's edge by one point in the low scoring second quarter. Dennis Krish, who had trouble finding the range in the opening quarter, meshed two long ones to top Tawas' nine-point quarter. Gale pumped in two fielders and a charity toss to pace the Panthers.

Central again held the edge in the third quarter as Roppel and Groszek connected for two buckets apiece. Paul Beyer meshed two from the floor and Tawas trailed, 33-29, at the quarter whistle.

The final quarter proved fast and furious and Central held a six-point margin at one time. Koepke and Beyer paced the Braves with five points apiece, but it took Tawas' great defensive effort to stop Standish-Sterling with only four points which turned the tide. The Braves took over the lead with five minutes, 21 seconds to go. Two turnovers proved costly to the Panthers and the Braves went into a stall with about two minutes to go.

Contributing greatly to the Tawas win was the backboard play of Ron Doak and Beyer, who controlled the rebounds most of the night. Another contributing factor was the bench strength of Tawas. Dale Rieger replaced Gary Haglund, who was hampered by fouls, and Bob Brugger took over for Krish. Rieger pulled in a couple of key rebounds and Brugger's ball handling and passing in the final seconds helped to prevent Central from gaining possession of the ball.

Tawas had two players scoring in double figures. Leading the way was Beyer, who had 13 points on six buckets and a charity toss. Koepke had 12 points on five buckets and two from the foul line.

Standish-Sterling did not have a player hitting in double figures. Gale topped his mates with nine points.

Shooting averages of both teams were far below par. The Braves connected on 18 out of 61 shots from the floor for a 29.5 percent and had five out of 11 charity tosses for 45.5 percent. Standish-Sterling completed 17 out of 63 shots from the floor for a 27 percent shooting average and completed three out of nine foul shots for 33.3 percent.

The win was a big one for Coach Bill McIntosh, who closes a 12-year career here as head basketball coach to spend full time as assistant principal and athletic director. His Braves added two trophies to the school's new trophy case with a record of 17 wins and two losses before entering the Mt. Pleasant regional.

The above record ties that of the 1963-1964 team and one win at Mt. Pleasant would establish a new record for the Braves.

TURNING IN a key play in Saturday night's district final was Guard Dennis Krish. Tawas went into a press defense and Krish stole the ball from the Panthers, converting a quick field goal. Tawas' press defense seemed to rattle the Panthers after that point and Standish-Sterling was able to make only four points in the final quarter.—Tawas Herald Photo.

4. To get an Enterprise number for the people in the independent telephone area. If we have to pay $58,495 TAXES for Sheriff Department protection we shouldn't have to pay to call them at a total extra cost of only $4.00 per month.
5. To use the airplane that has been offered in case of emergency; such as patrolling from the air motorcycle gangs, forest fires, bank holdups, etc.
6. We will have a 24 hour patrol (not a deputy on call 24 hours).
7. I'm personally going to check on these men to make sure they get out of these patrol cars and check laundromats, banks, gas stations, hardware—front and back doors.
8. We have the men that can do the job, all we want is a chance to do it! Things are going to get worse not better, we have to be prepared for it.

All I can say to you farmers is that if you don't wake up pretty soon you will be milking the county's cows in order to pay your taxes. Where are my funds coming from? My wife, children and I have decided to use the money that we had saved to finish our home for this work ahead. I would like to thank all of you people who have sent contributions and encouragement.

Rural Schools to Consolidate for Next Term

15 Years Ago— March 13, 1953—First phase of an operational program for the 19-53-1954 term of Tawas Area School District calls for the consolidation of all rural schools with schools located in Tawas City and East Tawas. Second phase of the program pertaining to the most efficient use of existing buildings with transportation as an important factor is to be studied by the board of education before further action is taken.

Standish nailed down the class C district crown at AuGres last Saturday with a 44-37 win over Tawas City. In class D finals, Hale out-pointed AuGres, 50-43.

Work has started on remodeling and redecorating in the Wilber Methodist Church. A new furnace has been purchased and partially installed. The work is being supervised by Louis Alverson.

Plainfield Township Rural Agricultural High School has again been accredited with the University of Michigan, according to word received by Guy H. Lagro, principal.

Appearing on the circuit court calendar this term under civil causes is a dissolution petition for the Erie and Michigan Railway and Navigation Company.

Honor students at Tawas City High School are Dorothy Katterman, valedictorian, and Leah Lake, salutatorian.

25 Years Ago— March 12, 1943—Rogers Motor Company, Incorporated, Detroit, has leased the former Prescott Building in Tawas City from James H. Leslie as the site for a new manufacturing plant employing about 30 persons. The firm, which manufactures model airplane and marine gasoline engines, is to establish a toy manufacturing business here.

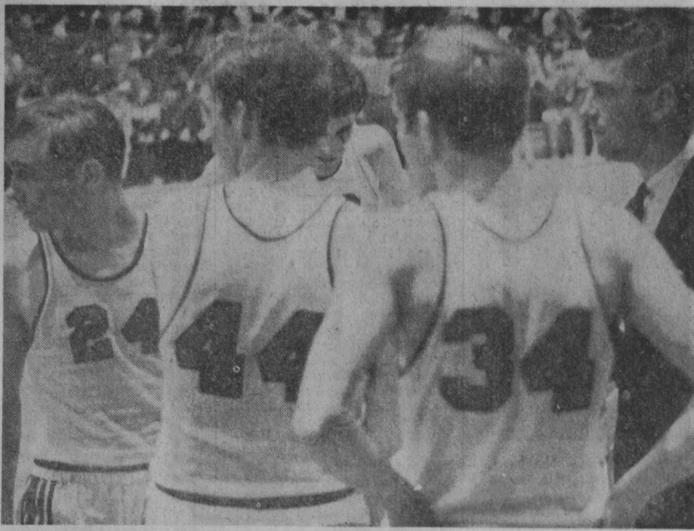

Workmen from the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works are making repairs to the water works standpipe in Tawas City. Due to reduced water consumption and prolonged cold weather, ice formed inside the standpipe and bowl to the extent that the upper end became clogged with ice and eventually froze into a solid mass. Upon drawing water down in normal operation of the system, the ice sealed the upper end of the standpipe causing a vacuum to be formed and the pipe was crushed.

General Eisenhower has sent word to Washington that there are too many news correspondents around the North African battlefield.

Luminous straw hats for men will be the rage this summer, what with blackouts and dimouts. This excellent safety device is a straw hat treated with luminous paint, which will glow for hours after a moment's exposure to day or electric light.

PFC George Malenfant of Tawas City, now serving in North Africa, reports he is saving money in service by his participation in the Soldiers' Fund. "If this war continues, I won't have to work when I get out—just retire," he writes. Money placed in the fund cannot be drawn out until the participant leaves the service.

35 Years Ago— March 10, 1933—Property taxes in Isoco County have decreased approximately 82 percent since enactment of the automobile tax revenue in 1930. Three years ago, total property taxes raised for township road tax, Covert road tax and county road tax was $109,001. In 1932, the three taxes amounted to $19,633. The only property taxes for road purposes now being levied is that assessed by township authorities for township roads not yet taken over by the county and, within a few years, that property tax will be eliminated entirely. New legislation provides that 100 percent of the automobile weight tax be returned to counties, of which 50 percent goes to the road commission and the remainder is specifically earmarked for property tax reduction.

East Tawas High School's basketball team, which had gone through the regular season without a setback, kept up its fast pace by winning the district tournament. East Tawas defeated Whittemore, 30-13, in the semifinal and then defeated Standish, 27-23, in the final. Excellent work performed by the East Tawas squad during the season's campaign made it the favorite contender for the class C crown and capture of the championship, despite a stiff battle put up by Standish, was not a surprise. Members of the East Tawas squad include Haglund, Doak, Bigelow, Schanbeck, Durant, Bean and McKay. Standish players were Martin, Mahoney, Mueller, Henry, Stodolak, Payea and Upton.

In his inaugural address March 4, Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt said: "First of all, let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself; nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes needed efforts to convert retreat into advance. . . . The people of the United States have not failed. In their need, they have registered a mandate that they want direct vigorous action. They have asked for discipline and direction under leadership. . . . They have made me the present incumbent of their wishes. In the spirit of the gift I take it."

Standish-Sterling in Mott Program

Mott Foundation has approved a grant of $10,000 to Standish-Sterling School to assist in establishment of a community school program.

Supt. Wallace Schnetzler said the next step will be the hiring of a director. The grant will pay a portion of the school costs for three years. At the end of three years, the program, if successful, should be self-supporting.

A similar program is considered by the Tawas Area Board of Education.

Industry Cleared of Unfair Practices

Standish Division of Magline, Incorporated, has been cleared of unfair labor practice charges filed by the United Steelworkers of America. Following investigation, the NLRB officially notified the union that a warrant would not be issued.

A 28-week strike against the plant had been terminated November 20, but the unfair labor practice charge had remained alive until last week.

West Branch Bank in New Quarters

Under guard of four police officers toted sawed off shotguns, more than one-quarter million dollars in cash was moved into the new State Savings Bank of West Branch.

The new banking home represents the first move for the West Branch institution since it was organized in 1927.

Married Men Face Call by Draft Boards

Faced with the largest induction call in April since the Vietnam buildup, many Michigan draft boards will find it necessary to induct registrants married before August 26, 1965, who do not have children. It was announced by Michigan Selective Service headquarters, Lansing.

The state call for 3,664 registrants for April induction will be allocated to both the United States Army and Marine Corps. Allocation of inductees to the two services is accomplished by a random assignment system at armed forces examining stations at Detroit and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Local draft boards have no control over such assignments.

To fill the April call, local boards will first order volunteers, single registrants and registrants married after August 26, 1965. If necessary, the balance of the call will be filled with registrants married before August 26, 1965, who do not have children. Induction ages are 19 through 25, with the oldest registrants selected first in age sequence.

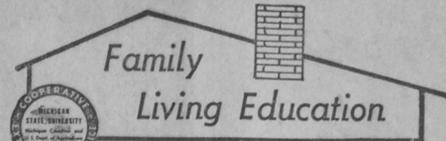

An additional 7,000 registrants will be ordered for examination in April to determine their acceptability for military service.

Despite the lifting of national guidelines on critical occupations, local draft boards under existing law have continuing responsibility to use their discretion to grant occupational deferments in individual cases based on a showing of essential community need.

In the area of student deferments, local boards will have no authority to defer in class II-S students who are initially enrolled for graduate study after October 1967 in fields other than medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy and optometry.

Local boards may continue to defer in class II-A registrants who are pursuing full time courses of study that will not lead to a baccalaureate degree. Such registrants may be allowed to complete terminal training programs.

Apprentices in approved training programs may continue to be deferred. Graduate students now in their first year of graduate study may be allowed to complete that year. Graduate students completing their second year of graduate study may be allowed to complete doctoral training programs.

Double Woven Fabrics

Those of you who are looking for fabrics for your creative spring sewing are wondering about the double-faced fabrics—those fabrics that can be used on either side. Here is a two-faced item with no wrong side! Garments can be finished so they can be seen on either side and are stripped of all inside construction—facings, interfacing and linings. They rely on the construction of the fabric to hold the shape of the garment.

Specific sewing techniques are necessary with lots of hand sewing. It is necessary to keep a few points in mind when you are selecting a pattern. Because of the weight of the fabric, silhouettes without gathers or pleats are preferable and less bulky. Styles with only a few pattern pieces are quicker to make and finish—finishing is all done by hand and is quite time consuming. Tailored styles lend themselves better than styles with lots of dressmaker details. Slot pockets or pockets in seams cannot be made in double-faced fabrics.

The unsplit double-faced fabrics should be made into garments with kimono or raglan sleeves, without collars—or handled as a regular fabric. The double-faced fabrics require no special cutting techniques. Many have napped surfaces and should be cut in one direction. You may wish to allow slightly wider (about three-fourth inch) seam if you are going to flat-fell them. Mark with tailor's tacks or pins, rather than chalk or carbon paper. You want both sides of the fabric to be suitable to be worn outside.

You may bind all edges with braid or self fabric, separate the edges and slip-stitch together to finish them or you can use a combination of the two.

Wearing of the Green Ideas

'Tis almost St. Patrick's Day and you may want a green punch for the party! Try this recipe. For two gallons, use 2½ cups each of concentrated grapefruit juice and limeade and one cup syrup (made with one-half cup sugar and one-half cup water boiled for one minute). Add one gallon cold water. Put crushed mint leaves into a cloth sack and soak in punch for 30 minutes (or use mint extract).

Just before serving, add two quarts carbonated water and green food coloring to tint to a very pale green. Use chilled ice to bring punch to the two gallon quantity. Garnish with mint sprigs and slices of fresh lime and lemon.

In driving rain or heavy fog, it is better to stay at home or to stop driving if you are caught on the road. Unless you have clear vision ahead, you may drive off the road, crash into a car ahead of you, or collide head-on with an oncoming car. Reduce speed so that you can stop within the distance you can see. 5

Forest Chats

By HERB WHITE, Forester
Huron-Manistee National Forest
Tawas Ranger District

Foresters often are asked, "What's so great about forest management?" "How come I should get excited about it," they ask. It is hard for us to be convincing using "what if" reasoning, but we can point to other nations and civilizations to see what has resulted when the "what ifs" actually occurred. Let's look what happened in Vietnam.

Some of the most spectacular scenery in Southeast Asia can be seen along the rugged coast of Central Vietnam. Often steep, rocky fingers of the Annamite Range extend out into the China Sea. Mile high mountains look down upon clear lagoons and white, sandy beaches. In other areas, the coastal plain extends from five to 10 miles inland before rolling foothills are reached. It is along this narrow plain that the Vietnamese settled during the course of their movement from the north over 500 years ago.

Before the southward movement of the Vietnamese, these plains were sparsely populated with tribesmen and the rich tropical forest grew to the water's edge. As the first Vietnamese settled in these areas, they cleared the land on the numerous small river deltas, so terraces could be built for growing rice. As the population increased, all the deltas were soon cleared of timber. To meet the needs for wood, the people began cutting the timber of the dryer lands between the river deltas, first cutting the lands closest to their settlements and then as this supply was exhausted, they moved further away.

Eventually, over several hundred years time, a continuous strip of land along the coast had been completely denuded of all tree vegetation, except in those areas where the steep mountains came down to the water. As population pressures increased, people settled on the dryer lands between the deltas to grow vegetables and raise livestock, and others made homes on the beaches so they would be near the water for fishing. Wood became a very precious commodity and was soon rarely used for construction purposes. Homes were now constructed of bamboo and thatch, or of concrete by the rich. Furniture was extremely dear.

By the time the French set up their government in Vietnam in the late 1800s, there was not any wood supply within miles of the coastal settlements. The coastal plain and beaches had been completely cleared and the only vegetation on the rolling foothills was brush, not unlike that in many areas of our West. It was a profitable occupation for young peasant girls to comb these denuded hills for woody twigs of trees that were just beginning to grow back. As time passed, the soil became coarse and hard, and the land that had once supported a tropical forest had become a semi-desert. Along the beaches, the denuded sands, now cleared of vegetation by the people of the fishing villages, formed unstable dunes and threatened to cover these same villages.

In the early 1900s, the French began the reforestation of the sand dunes using a fast growing Australian species. They also experimented with the reforestation of the foothills using a native pine, which unfortunately had very slow growth. Later, the Vietnamese Bureau of Forestry had more success with various kinds of Eucalyptus trees, but planting was difficult, requiring large holes that had to be dug with a pickaxe.

When I left, most of the unstable dunes along the coast had been stabilized and the planted trees were providing a continuous supply of fuel and construction wood. However, vast areas of uninhabited land in the foothills remain unplanted and without vegetational cover. Although the government is well aware of the advantages of forest management, much remains to be done and, of course, present conditions do not tend to alleviate the situation.

Our situation here has similarities to the one in Vietnam. Our ancestors migrated across the land and exploited the timber resources by cutting over vast areas, not understanding what they were doing to the environment. However, we have been more fortunate in several respects. The need for forest management was recognized earlier in the history of our settlement of the land. Fortunately, this effort started before population pressures made it necessary for our people to have to "pick up the sticks." We have had advantages other nations have not had, too. But what if conditions had been different and we had not undertaken forest management practices when we did?

County-Employees Study Union Pact

A stalemate on negotiations between union organized county employees and a committee from the Roscommon County Board of Supervisors appears to be headed for state mediation.

Negotiations on a contract between the county and union began January 25 when the union committee presented 17 proposals. Later, the supervisors came back with 20 counter proposals, about one-half of which were acceptances of the union's initial demands.

County Bond Head Announces Sales

John E. Hosbach, saying bonds chairman for Iosco County, today reminded taxpayers that the United States Treasury Department once again this year offers them the opportunity to take income tax refunds in United States savings bonds.

The savings option, introduced in 1963, is in addition to the two standard options of taking tax refunds in cash or applying them to next year's tax.

The Sewing Circle met Thursday, March 7, at the home of Dorothy Koehn with 12 members and one guest present. They quilted. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Vi Dadrick's home April 4.

The Donald Kreil family of Saginaw visited her parents, the John Eimers, recently.

Now is the time to check the garage and back porch for those unwanted items. Sell them with a Herald classified.
