

Tawas City Drops Urban Renewal Plan

After months of study, Tawas City finally has decided to drop its proposed participation in the federal urban renewal program because of the high cost involved.

The city had been granted an extension of one month to decide if it desired to be recertified in the program. A completed workable program, apparently lost last year in the federal office, would have had to be expanded to meet new requirements.

Clarifying its position to the city council Monday night, a letter from the planning commission stated it was the general feeling of members that the city should not spend further funds to maintain its status with the federal government at the present time.

With an additional $4,500 in local funds needed to develop a workable program and a May 15 deadline, the commission said that requirements to place the urban renewal program before the city and to be able to execute one, was demanding too many special requirements.

"This does not mean that the commission feels that we should not progress on our own by strengthening present ordinances and adopting new ones that will aid in the orderly growth of Tawas City," said the commission.

"We feel we can do more at the present time without having to deal with the federal urban renewal program. It is possible that circumstances may change and, at a future date, we might again seek federal programs in this direction," stated the commission.

The city had sought participation in the urban renewal program for full or partial clearance of the business district between Mathews Street and Whittemore Street. Estimated costs ranged up to one million dollars. Since the program was first discussed, two property owners started their own clearance projects by removing three old buildings. Other businessmen have indicated interest in a local modernization program.

In other matters, Supt. Reginald Bublitz said that all paper work is apparently in order on the city's application for federal participation in land acquisition for expansion of the city park. Total cost of this project is $30,750 and the city has applied for a 50 percent federal grant handled by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Should the grant be approved, and indications are that it will meet federal specifications, the present telephone line running through the park would have to be removed by Michigan Bell Telephone Company. An underground cable would probably be required.

While the actual impact of coho salmon planting in Cold Creek will not be felt in Tawas Bay until late summer and fall of 1969 and still is an unknown factor, discussion was held on plans for expanding the city's launching ramp on Ninth Avenue along with property acquisition for parking purposes.

SPLASHING into Cold Creek last Wednesday are the first of 176,000 coho salmon smolt planted by the Michigan Department of Conservation. Delayed one week by cold weather, a large delegation of local residents had waited at the planting site for the first truck to arrive, but left when trucks were behind schedule. The fish arrived sooner than anticipated and only a few persons witnessed the above scene. Before the day ended, more trucks arrived, as did the spectators. The planting continued Thursday and Friday and sport fishermen are now awaiting the day when these coho return to Tawas Bay weighing up to 20 pounds, expected in the fall of 1969.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Second of Three Events in May Scheduled Saturday - Sunday

Following a successful gun and antique show last Sunday at East Tawas Community Building, a first in the area which drew approximately 2,000 visitors, Tawasco Enterprises this week-end will stage the second of three local promotions scheduled during May.

First annual boat, sport and builders show will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Newman Street, between the hours of 11:00 a. m. and 10:00 p. m. daily.

John Solomon of East Tawas, promoter of the show, said this program would feature displays of boats, sporting equipment and builders' merchandise, as well as a sailing movie, hobby displays, antique furniture and accessories.

There will be displays of both power and sail boats, plus motorcycles, guns, bicycles and fishing equipment. A demonstration of rock jewelry manufacture will also be featured. Most exhibitors will be from Iosco County.

"We were most pleased with the response to Sunday's show and so were the dealers," said Solomon. "The event drew dealers and buyers from as far away as Grand Rapids and Pentwater—and the response locally was tremendous. With five or six antique shops presently located in the area, our antique 'flea market' promotion this summer could put Tawas on the map as one of the centers for buying and selling this type of merchandise."

There will be door prizes and free coffee available at the exhibition hall. Rod Raymond, Mt. Pleasant area artist, will be there to do charcoal sketches.

SUNDAY'S gun and antique show, a first in the area, proved to be an outstanding success. More than 2,000 persons from various parts of the

Hospital Week Event Planned

People who contribute to patient care will be spotlighted May 12-18 during observance of National Hospital Week at Tawas Hospital.

Theme for the week is "Your Hospital—People Caring for People," according to M. Jerry Norwood, administrator.

"In recent years," Norwood said, "the public's attention has been focused on the tremendous technological advances hospitals have made in patient care. Certainly, new and sophisticated machines and techniques have helped immeasurably, but unfortunately it is too often forgotten that human hands must operate the machines and that technology is useless without technologists."

Norwood pointed out that in the average community hospital, the skills and knowledge of 261 persons are needed to provide care for each 100 patients.

"In short," he said, "we need nearly three employees to care for each patient admitted to Tawas Hospital."

Norwood added that there are more than 200 job classifications within a hospital's walls, ranging from accountant to X-ray technician. Others are laboratory technician, engineer, laundry worker, housekeeper, maintenance worker, dietician, cook, kitchen helper, purchasing agent, therapist, pharmacist, chaplain, personnel officer, clerk, medical record librarian, social and welfare worker.

"While the personnel filling these job classifications vary in background, education and skills," Norwood said, "they have a common goal—better patient care—and a firm belief that a hospital is truly people caring for people."

Guided tours are to be conducted at the hospital on May 15, 16 and 17 from 9:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. Members of the hospital auxiliary are to act as hostesses and refreshments are to be served. Films will be shown at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 7:00 p. m. in the conference room.

Those attending will be able to see the many modernization projects which have taken place at the hospital during the past year and some which are still under construction.

The Sisters of St. Joseph recently moved to their new home on M-55, two miles west on M-55, leaving the former convent quarters at the hospital open for expansion. As a result of this change, the hospital will become a 44-bed unit by the end of June.

Central supply and the medical records section has been moved to the convent. The obstetrics area is being remodeled at present, while a two bedroom unit has been added for intensive coronary care. This unit has received $12,000 in new monitoring lifesaving equipment for cardiac patients. More modern equipment is to be purchased this year.

Fourteen rooms have now been sponsored by local organizations for remodeling and seven have been completed.

Intensive classes in coronary care are now being conducted weekly at the hospital for a class enrollment of 30 hospital personnel.

On Thursday, May 16, pins are to be awarded to four 15-year employees, as well as to five and 10-year employees. All interested residents are invited to attend.

National Hospital Week, sponsored by the American Hospital Association, is celebrated annually to emphasize the vital community role played by the more than 7,000 hospitals throughout the nation.

This year, the observance begins on the birthday anniversary of Florence Nightingale, whose efforts led to the establishment of the first hospital school of nursing.

Grant Goddard Sentenced for Bank Robbery

Grant Goddard Jr., 41, Montrose, was sentenced last week to 12 years in a federal penitentiary for conspiracy, aiding and abetting in robberies of Whittemore branch of Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Hale and an Otisville bank. Federal Judge Stephen J. Roth announced the sentence.

Goddard was also sentenced for three years for an escape attempt from a United States marshal in January after a jury had convicted him on the conspiracy and robbery charges.

Goddard told Judge Roth he would appeal the sentences to run concurrently to the Michigan Supreme Court. Goddard's attorney said he continues to "profess innocence."

Tawas Mayors Proclaim Band Week---May 12-18

Tawas Area Band Week, as proclaimed by Mayor Russell A. Rollin Sr. of Tawas City and Mayor James Campbell of East Tawas, starts Monday, May 12, and is to conclude Saturday, May 18, with the annual spring concert at Tawas Area High School, 8:00 p. m.

That Tawas Area High School Band has regularly brought credit to the community and, wishing to show appreciation of fine work of these students, proclamations by both mayors urge citizens of the entire school district to show pride and support by attending events scheduled during the week.

As a prelude to the Michigan Week observance, open rehearsals by all three bands and conducted tours of the music facilities are to be conducted all week starting Monday. Daily schedule for rehearsals includes cadet band, 9:00 a. m.; senior band, 11:00 a. m.; beginners' band, 2:30 p. m.

Highlight of the May 18 concert is the world premiere of the suite, "Tawas," under the baton of Lloyd Conley, composer, who has spent 16 years as Clare High School Band director.

This work was commissioned by the senior band to promote performance of original band music. Preliminary negotiations started in the summer of 1967. By last fall, the instrumentation and personnel were set for 1967-1968 senior band and the composer was asked to write for this specific group of students.

By January 1968, the work had reached a rough draft stage. It was decided that it would be a three-movement suite based on the history of the local area. Originally, the band requested the title to be "Brave Inspiration" after a painting done by Jennifer Charboneau, a 1967 graduate, that hangs in the band room. Expanding on this idea to encompass a wider area determined the final title.

On March 22, the composer presented the band with the finished product and worked with the first reading of the number.

Plans were made to have the composer conduct the work at its premiere. Adding to the importance of the concert, Delmar Conley, Lloyd's brother, was asked to conduct the cadet band at the same program. He had been band director at Rogers City High School and now serves as principal. Final rehearsal for the concert is to be held May 17.

According to Gene S. Salamony, band director, five selections have been scheduled for the cadet band and seven by the senior band.

Annual presentation of the John Philip Sousa and Frederic Chopin awards are to be made during the program.

ET Has Higher Budget With Lower Millage

An operating budget of $163,128.89 was given tentative approval Monday night by East Tawas Council. A public hearing on the proposed budget for fiscal 1968-1969 is to be held at the next meeting, May 20.

The new budget, approximately $10,000 higher than last year, is to be financed by a tax levy of 10 mills, some 2½ mills lower than needed to finance last year's expenditures.

The council had boosted millage last year by 2½ mills in order to meet demands of the debt retirement fund for the city's new sewer disposal plant.

Anticipated receipts this year amount to $163,331, of which $82,531 would be derived from local taxes, about $5,000 higher than last year. This increase reflects a higher city valuation as brought in by the board of review this spring.

The city would receive an additional $80,800 in other funds, including $23,000 in sales tax, $37,500 in motor vehicle tax, plus other funds.

Principal expenditures from the contingent fund include $25,163.63, general fund; $11,000, sanitary service; $12,000, land acquisition; $9,607, street lighting. Other major budget items include $23,454, police department; $51,128.89, street department; $14,855, debt retirement; $7,990, fire department; $1,908 for the cemetery, and $1,031 for promotion and industrial development.

In other business, Police Chief Donald Docking was authorized to hire a part-time patrolman for the summer months.

William Borosh, local realtor, appeared before the council and reported that Twin Service Laundry was listed for sale and offered the property to the city for parking purposes. The council felt that it was unable to meet such an expenditure at this time.

THE BIBLE
SPEAKS TO YOU

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the title of the lesson-sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Ephesians: "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light."

The lesson-sermon also contains these lines from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Son of the Virgin-mother unfolded the remedy for Adam, or error; and the Apostle Paul explains this warfare between the idea of divine power, which Jesus presented, and mythological material intelligence called energy and opposed to Spirit."

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Open House Scheduled May 19-25

Christian Science Reading Rooms throughout the State of Michigan have scheduled an open house for the week of May 19 through 25. The general public is welcome to visit Christian Science Reading Rooms in their respective communities during this period.

The cordial invitation is extended to all, but the non-Christian Scientist particularly, will have the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the meaning and the literature of this religion founded over 100 years ago by Mary Baker Eddy.

Visitors will be able to read, study and borrow authorized Christian Science literature or make purchases if they wish.

Christian Science began its second century in 1967 and the published records of healing activity are to be found in all Christian Science Reading Rooms. Available also are the complete published works of Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer, founder and leader of the movement; the King James version of the Holy Bible; The Christian Science Journal; Christian Science Sentinel; Herald of Christian Science, and the daily Christian Science Monitor.

The public is invited to obtain, perhaps, their first introduction to the exact science taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus nearly 2,000 years ago.

Christian Science Society, located at 919 East Bay Street, East Tawas, will hold open house from 10:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. during the week of May 19 to 25 and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. Friday, May 24.

John Stevens-Cheryl Heuss Wed at Hale

In 7 o'clock rites Saturday, May 4, at Hale Methodist Church, the Rev. Arthur Parkin officiated at the double ring service uniting Cheryl Anne Heuss and John William Stevens in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Pittman of Hale. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Stevens of Flint are parents of the bridegroom.

Perry Shellenbarger, vocalist, was accompanied by Mrs. Katherine Wyatt.

The bride appeared in a bouffant silhouette fashioned of imported peau de soie and French Chantilly lace, which framed the waistline, bateau neckline and cathedral length sleeves. The full skirt in redingote effect was graced with a spreading chapel train. A cluster of pearl covered petals secured the bridal illusion, bouffant veil. She carried an arrangement of orchids and white roses.

Miss Sandra Ranger of Hale, maid of honor, wore a lime green Empire-styled gown with embroidered bodice accented by a floor-length A-line skirt. The matching veil was held in place by a cluster of daisies. Wearing identically-styled apricot gowns were Miss Gloria Heywood of Detroit, Mrs. Richard Heuss of Hale and Mrs. Charles Piscatelli of Flint. Their flowers were bouquets of daisies.

Mr. Stevens chose Gary Wing of Flint as best man with James Fox of Mt. Clemens, Thomas Kester of Hale and Charles Piscatelli, groomsmen. Guests were seated by Bruce Scofield and Richard Heuss.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall for 200 guests. Out-of-town guests were present from Detroit, Flint and Illinois.

Following a two-week trip to Florida, the couple will reside at Flint.

Queen for a Day? No, Indeed, Mother is Queen Forever and a Day!

The patterns of mother have changed through the years and the first lady in our hearts has done a graceful switch from the rocking chair to the rocket era. But whether Mother was a pioneer woman driving a Conestoga wagon or today's mother driving a station wagon, she remains the heroine of the hearthside and our hearts.

East Tawas Bears Beat Mio in Season Opener

East Tawas Bears opened the NEM League baseball season with a 6-3 victory Sunday over Mio. Dick Doak, winning pitcher, limited Mio to six hits before giving way to Grant Mousseau in the seventh inning.

Mio took a one-run lead in the opening inning when Green singled, advanced on Bolton's single and scored on a wild pitch.

East Tawas took the lead in the fourth when Shaun singled, Blust popped out, Johnson was safe on a fielder's choice, Mousseau doubled and two Mio errors cleared the bases.

Sanders tripled in the fifth inning and scored on Blust's double. Mio came back with two runs in the top of the seventh, but East Tawas scored two unearned runs in the same inning.

Tawas City Indies Lose NEM Opener

Tawas City Independents played on even terms with Barton City, defending champion of the NEM League, in Sunday's opener but the roof caved in in the sixth inning.

Bill Solomon, starting pitcher for the losers, allowed three hits and two runs during the first five innings, while his mates were collecting five hits and two runs off Somers, Barton City starter, during the same time.

Barton City batters found the range on Solomon's slants after two batters were out in the sixth inning. A single, a walk, a three bagger and a home run by E. Schram pushed four runs across and the visitors were off to a 16-2 victory.

The seventh inning found Barton City hot at the plate with Solomon tiring rapidly. Kosseher and C. Champagne each blasted a home run as Barton City scored five runs. Somers hit the visitors' fourth home run in the eighth inning during a five-run barrage.

The game was called at the end of eight innings.

Tawas City's lone run in the third inning came on a double by Solomon and singles by J. Smith and M. O'Connor. Smith was team leader in batting with two hits in four trips.

The Indies play at Roscommon this Sunday.

Serving Community Meals

Cooking turkey for a large group to avoid the last-minute rush and safe-guarding against possible food poison was one of the discussions at the "Serving Community Meals" meeting held at the East Tawas Community Building recently.

Groups represented at the meeting discussed how to serve food efficiently and fast for large groups so that all will be served in minutes. They also discussed how to organize and plan functions to use less number of people on committees and have those people less tired in preparing for the dinner. Preparation of the correct amount of food will eliminate left overs which eats into the profit. This was emphasized by Gladys Knight, who taught the lesson and also helped the groups determine the selling price so that there is a fair profit. Quantity recipes for community functions were given those who attended.

Calories Do Count

Spring is the season for crash diets and this year, with the waist-line returning, there will not be a woman around who does not wish she could get into a smaller size dress.

One ground rule that every weight-watcher should know is that calories do count. Whether trying to maintain your present weight or to take off pounds, do not let anyone tell you otherwise.

If you eat 500 calories a day more than your body is using in energy, you will gain one pound a week. That adds up to four pounds each month or about 52 pounds a year.

With a smaller dress size your goal, it is well to know that generally, there are from 10 to 16 pounds variance between sizes . . . about 10 pounds in the smaller sizes, 12 to 14 pounds in medium sizes and 16 in large sizes.

But be careful, if you are planning a weight-reduction program this spring, do not let it become a nutrition reduction as well. Do keep track of the protein, vitamin and mineral count as well as the calorie count. They are equally important to how you look and how you feel.

County Gets 7 1/4-Mill Tax Allocation

15 Years Ago—

May 8, 1953—The county's portion of the 15-mill property tax was set at 7 1/4 mills in the preliminary allocation made Monday by the Iosco County Tax Allocation Board. Schools received an allocation of 7 3/4 mills. Final meeting of the board is to be May 11.

Sheep, according to County Agent W. L. Finley, is one of the best farm enterprises in Iosco County. Still, the sheep population is decreasing each year, until today, Finley estimates that there probably is less than 10,000 sheep in a county that could support three times that many.

Forest Chats

By STUART BAILEY
Huron-Manistee National Forest
Tawas Ranger District

Roy Shedenhelm and John Ristow have themselves a new occupation for the spring. We have about 100,000 red pine seedlings to plant.

They are planting the seedlings in Plainfield Township on an area from which the jack pine was harvested several years ago. The jack pine did not reseed itself, therefore, we are putting the land back to producing a future timber crop by planting.

The area is 160 acres in size and in 30 years someone will be harvesting about 1,000 cords of pulpwood from these planted trees. Yet, there will be 2,000 cords remaining for future harvesting. Also, we are attempting to help grow a crop of something altogether different. That is wildlife. Within the 160 acres, we have designated certain areas for planting shrubs that will provide food and cover for animals.

These areas are around potholes. An area of three acres around each pothole will not be planted to pine trees. Instead, one acre of shrubs will be planted and the remaining area left open. These potholes dry up during the summer, therefore, they have been designated for blasting with ammonium nitrate. They will provide the only water available within a square mile.

This past winter, we blasted two holes one mile east of where we are planting. Observations this spring showed that already they are being used.

Roy and John are also leaving the 150-foot wide strips unplanted. These strips, called fuelbreaks, are strategically located so that they can be used to assist in controlling a forest fire. The strips serve a double purpose in that they can be widened in places and planted to shrubs to provide wildlife habitat. Well, as you can see, even planting trees has grown into a complicated job.

Summertime And The 'Living' Is Easy

by Betty Stern, Farm and Home Food Consultant

How about sitting by a cool, sparkling brook and whiling away your hours fishing? This sport can be relaxing, taking you from life's pressures and at the same time exciting when you feel that tug at the end of the line. So gather Mom, Dad and the children and try your luck. When Mom prepares the fish with the recipes below you'll all take pride in the catch. Remember, fish is cooked when it flakes easily when touched with a fork.

Baked Large Pike

Fish on The Grill

Fish Fillets Florentine

TARTAR SAUCE

1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons minced old fashioned pickle
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon parsley
1 teaspoon minced thyme
1 teaspoon tarragon
1/4 teaspoon dill
4 tablespoons sour cream

Add pickle, onion, lemon juice, parsley, thyme, tarragon, and dill to mayonnaise. Shortly before serving, fold in 4 tablespoons dairy sour cream.

FISH ON THE GRILL

Whole Fish Grilled in Foil

1 to 3-pound fish, cleaned, head and tail removed Margarine
1 medium onion, sliced thin
Salt and pepper
Fresh tarragon, parsley, dill, thyme, rosemary

Tear off a suitable size piece of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Spread a little margarine in center of foil and arrange several onion slices on it. Place the fish over onion slices. Sprinkle opening in fish with salt and pepper. Arrange remaining onion slices and herbs over fish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with margarine. Bring foil up over fish, sealing edges with a double fold. Seal both ends with double fold. Place on grate over medium hot fire. Cook about 30 to 45 minutes, turning two or three times. To serve, transfer foil with fish to a serving dish. Fish may be lifted right off the bones. Serve with softened margarine to which chopped parsley and lemon juice have been added.

Fish Fillets in Foil

6 or more small fish fillets
Melted margarine
Onion slices
Lemon slices

Dip fish fillets in melted margarine and roll up each one. Have ready squares of heavy foil. Place one or two rolled fillets in center of each square. Add a very thin lemon slice and 1 or 2 slices of onion. Season with salt and pepper. Seal the foil to make a tight package. Place over a medium hot fire on the grate and cook about 20 minutes, turning 1 or 2 times. Each person may be served a package, or turn back foil and arrange packages on a large heat-proof platter. Serve with Tartar Sauce.

CRIMSON GLAZE (good on broiled fish)

4 tablespoons catsup
3 tablespoons margarine
1 tablespoon India pickle relish

Combine and heat until margarine melts. When fish is done, glaze top and place under broiler till sauce spreads evenly over fish.

FISH FILLETS FLORENTINE

1/2 cup medium-chopped onion
4-ounce can mushrooms, medium chopped
2 tablespoons margarine
1 inner-seal packet premium saltine crackers, coarsely crumbled
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon sage
1/2 teaspoon mace
1/2 cup water
2 10-ounce packages frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
4 fish fillets (Black Bass or Walleye Pike)

Saute onions and mushrooms in margarine until onions are golden brown. Combine with cracker crumbs. Add pepper, sage, mace and water. Blend well. Spread spinach in an even layer over the fillets. Next spread stuffing mixture over the spinach layer. Roll carefully, securing roll with toothpicks if necessary. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 25 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Serve with broiled tomatoes topped with cracker crumbs.

(This is an excellent way to prepare a large fish and to avoid the necessity of cutting the fish when serving it)
Remove scales, clean the fish, and remove head and tail and fins. Cut the fish through into 2 to 3-inch-wide pieces, according to the size of the fish. Stand each piece so that the opening is on top. Season with salt and pepper and fill with a bread dressing seasoned with onion, celery and a little sage or poultry seasoning. Close the opening and secure with toothpick or skewer. Line a large pan with heavy duty aluminum foil. Pour tomato sauce on the foil to a depth of about 1/4 inch. Arrange the fish over this and top each serving with additional tomato sauce and a strip of bacon. Cover loosely with a second sheet of heavy foil, securing it by crimping to the foil in the bottom of the pan. Place in 375° oven and bake for 1 hour. Remove the foil and continue baking until fish and bacon are lightly browned and the fish can be flaked with a fork. Serve with delicious tomato sauce that forms in the pan.

- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Water
- 1 3-ounce package lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
- 1 cup fresh strawberries (halved if large)
- GARNISH
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon milk or cream
- Salad greens
- Assorted fresh fruits

Peel melon, slice about 1 1/2 inches off top and set aside; scoop out seeds. Cut a thin slice off bottom so melon can stand upright. Refrigerate while preparing gelatin. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup; add lemon juice and enough water to give 1 cup. Heat liquid to boiling and pour over lime-flavored gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Chill until jelly-like in consistency. Fold in pineapple, cottage cheese and strawberries. Drain melon, if necessary (juice can be stirred into gelatin mixture). Turn gelatin into melon and remainder into salad molds, which have been rinsed in cold water (number will depend on size of melon). Replace top of melon and chill along with molds until firm. For Garnish, blend cream cheese with milk until smooth. Pipe through a pastry tube, or use a spoon to garnish melon. Serve on salad greens surrounded by individual salads and assorted fresh fruits. Prepare assorted fruits ahead and toss in ascorbic acid mixture solution to keep from browning. Solution: For each 2 cups of cut-up fruit use 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid mixture and 2 tablespoons water. Cut fruit directly into the liquid solution and toss well to coat each slice.

BANANA GELATIN DESSERT

SPICY PEACH

PARTY CRANBERRY SALAD

All sorts of dishes and pans can serve as molds for gelatine. True, for gala occasions, it's nice to have special decorative molds, but it is also fun to see how ingenious you can be. For example, use muffin pans, cake pans, ice cube trays, empty coffee cans or small frozen fruit juice cans, custard cups, mixing bowls, even paper cups. To unmold salad just dip mold in warm (not hot!) water to the depth of the gelatine mixture. Count to four slowly. Take out of water and loosen around edge with tip of a paring knife. Rinse serving plate in cold water and place on top of mold. Hold tight! Turn mold and plate upside down. Shake mold gently, and lift up carefully. Or you don't have to unmold it. Make it in a pretty bowl, or in individual dishes or sherbet glasses, which may be brought right to the table. Mold it in a shallow square or rectangular pan, then cut in cubes or fancy shapes. Use a knife or cookie cutter, and keep dipping it in warm water. Lift out pieces with a broad, thin-bladed server.

FAMILY FISHIN'

Encircled by the confining space of a ten-foot rowboat, a family fishing expedition has all the intriguing aspects of a family picnic or a day at the beach, plus some antics peculiar to fishin' fun in a family way.

Father, accustomed ordinarily to fishing in lonely solitude, will suddenly find himself captain of an enthusiastically complex organization.

He will discover that wiggly worms make mother shudder, while kids have a fascinating tendency to wander with nonchalant sure-footedness regardless of their surroundings.

Though there may be enough poles for everybody, he (and he alone) is expected to reworm all hooks waved in front of his nose.

Events, confined to such a small space, will find father putting his foot in the lunchbox, the tacklebox, and on the dog's tail in rapid succession.

Few fish will be caught and quiet will never reign for long, but everybody has fun and there are no complaints — except by junior when it's time to go home.

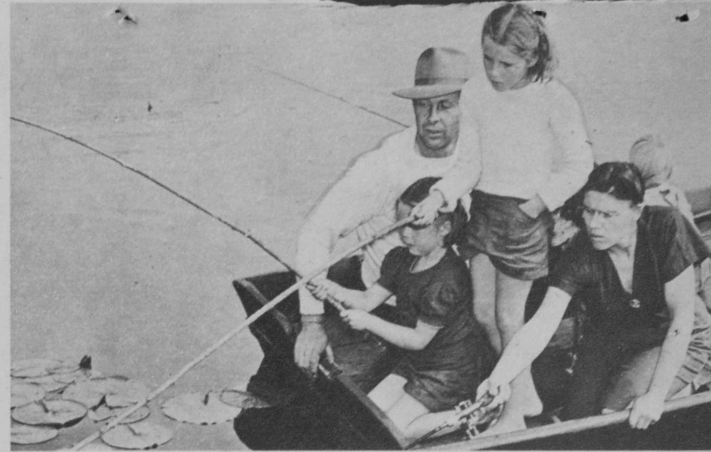

6. Surprise catch—mama's slacks—brings a startled scream of protest guaranteed to spook any fish in the vicinity. But no matter—

3. Off-shore uncertainties are reflected in the kids' faces when they discover they are a whole ten feet from solid ground. "Dad-dee — don't rock the boat!"

4. Anchorage at the fishing hole finds father busy worming all poles while mother keeps an eye on the kids. "Where's all the fish? — we wanna SEE some fish, we do!"

5. A forest of fish-poles, activated by a dropping leaf or a fair splash brings the fish-poles whipping rythmically from one end o the boat to the other.

7. Attention will be focused on the fact that one fish-pole between two children will never produce peace and quiet.

8. Lunchtime brings a rush to the vittles, upsetting any plans father may have had for latching on to a stray fish.

9. Rowing lesson brings out father's ability as a coxswain, even though he finds himself in a circle of confusion trying to separate oars and children.

10. Sudden urge for a drink of water is aggravated when boat grounds on submerged obstacle, emphasizing it's time for a brief journey ashore.

11. End of fishing voyage brings out a rash of blankets. The long row home will be enlivened by Junior's loud protests — "I wanna fish some more!"

Professional rodeo long has been identified with the West and Southwest. Among family farms of the Midwest, however, the horse trailer pulled behind a car or pickup truck only recently has attracted attention.

The rodeo circuit is long, hot, and dusty. Contestants and their families must be mobile and hardy. Orrville, Ohio, cowboy Bill Cunningham, a director of the Midwest Cowboys' Association, reports that some cowboys wear out a car or pickup truck each year, towing a horse trailer on the rodeo circuit. He drove 40,000 miles in the 1967 rodeo season.

What kind of men are rodeo cowboys in the Midwest? Generally, they are not farmers, although most live on small farms in rural areas, says Cunningham. He notes that no single occupation is typical of a rodeo contestant. Nearly all cowboys have jobs which allow them to schedule long summer vacations.

Rodeo offers some financial incentives for a top cowboy. Each participant in an event pays a $10-$50 entry fee. These fees are added to a purse provided by the rodeo sponsor. The total is then divided five or six ways. The winner of a rodeo event usually wins $150.

A successful cowboy probably will win $2000-$2500 in a summer season. The top money-winner in the MCA (the "All-Around Cowboy") may win approximately $5000.

FRONTIER FLAVOR IN THE MIDWEST

by Tom C. Douglas

BULL RIDING is the most dangerous rodeo event. A high-flying bull may turn on a thrown cowboy unless the rodeo clown can distract the animal.

The MCA will not allow its members to participate in a "Wild West Show." Bad checks and participation in a "Wild West Show" may cause expulsion from a rodeo association. Rodeo cowboys believe that their competitive sport is threatened by "Wild West Shows" which use paid performers, pay no prizes and use the same livestock at each performance, says Cunningham.

The livestock used at a rodeo probably will not be found at a neighbor's farm. Stock contractors who provide livestock for use in rodeos often buy Brahma or part-Brahma bulls and cross or unbroken horses in the West and Southwest. Approximately 15-20 calves, the same number of bucking horses, 10-12 steers, and an equal number of bulls will be needed at a single rodeo.

A stock contractor will transport several semi-trailer loads of animals hundreds of miles to a typical rodeo; he will receive approximately $1800-$2000 for three rodeo performances. Most stock can be used only five or six times during a season or it will not perform well.

Rodeo is an expensive hobby; travel expenses are only part of the story. A novice cowboy can not expect to perform well with an inexperienced horse; the price of a horse good enough to compete well in a rodeo will begin at $1000, says Cunningham.

How then can an aspiring cowboy get a start? He learns the ropes by buying "a good horse to learn on" which, according to Cunningham, is a horse with at least five years of rodeo experience. The horse is not quick enough to win consistently at a rodeo, but it is experienced and dependable and can teach the cowboy the fundamentals, Cunningham stresses.

ELLY MAY CLAMPETT OF THE BEVERLY HILLBILLIES

by Irving Wallace

To you she's Elly May Clampett of the Beverly Hillbillies . . . to her Hollywood friends she's Donna Douglas, but back home in Baywood, Louisiana she's still Doris Smith.

As you know, the program remains up front among the most popular television shows. It is being exhibited in many foreign countries, and wherever necessary the native language is dubbed in. It's a scream to hear Japanese coming from Granny—in perfect sync with her lips.

Donna Douglas is a deeply religious young woman wanting no part of being a sex symbol. Her religion is all-important in her life . . . it's why she has not accepted sexy roles in motion pictures.

In high school Donna became a cheerleader and started collecting beauty crowns—carnival queen, football queen and many others. After winning Miss Baton Rouge and Miss New Orleans crowns she headed for New York City where she occasionally found small parts on television shows. Producer Hal Wallis saw one, invited her to Hollywood, changed her name, and she appeared in several motion pictures.

Nothing startling happened. She had spent much time trying to erase her cornpone drawl. When producer-writer Paul Henning asked her if she could handle the Elly May role, she answered, "I sure can! It's just like my own life."

She had to recover her southern accent for the series. In the face of sneers from critics, the program became the number one show in audience rating. It meant instant fame for Donna. The columnists referred to her as a new Harlow, Monroe and Bardot built all in one. All in the industry agreed she was the most valuable piece of property in show business. One column referred to her as having more curves than a goat path.

The series debuted in the fall of 1962. Now, six years later, Donna Douglas, of the big blue eyes and blonde hair, is still a lot more like Elly May than a Hollywood sex symbol. It turned out that she was wanting no part of sexpot roles. To many, it was difficult to understand. But not to Donna.

Here she was, a small-town girl, with a teen-age marriage and a divorce behind her, a young son to support, and no special training to augment her ambition. Thrust suddenly into the limelight after bit parts, many thought she would be eager for the fame and money that go along with a sex symbol role. Many predicted the Elly May role and the Beverly Hillbillies program would soon fade away.

But Donna Douglas prayed to be guided, and with steadfast faith, she continued on in the Elly May part, turning down flattering financial offers, and lived quietly, almost austere, with few headlines, no romantic entanglements, none of the excitement with which the other type of characterization is inevitably surrounded. Her life is centered in her son, her religion, and her work. There is no room for a flamboyant life. She lives in a small apartment and drives an inexpensive car. "Show business does not have to be the rat race many people make of it," she explained. Donna is ambitious, certainly, but for dramatic roles, rather than Harlow type parts.

"Once you open the door to self-improvement, you find self-discipline develops easily," Donna explained. "You also find that there is a small, still voice inside of you that leads you toward doing what is right. That voice is called a conscience. And the more you become associated with it, the more harmonious your life becomes. It's so simple, too! If you listen to the voice it becomes stronger and guides you always. If you ignore it, it becomes weaker and weaker until you eventually can't hear it." The director on the set barks, "One more take," and Donna smooths out her costume of blue jeans and a faded flannel shirt. She tightens her rope belt. Again in character, it is Elly May rushing back before the cameras to help complete another Beverly Hillbillies film episode that would soon be seen by some 35,000,000 Americans and eventually by that many more in foreign countries.
