

Tawas and AuSable Rivers Get Coho Planting

Tawas and AuSable Rivers received another planting last week of coho smolts, following a temporary halt to all salmon planting in Lake Michigan because of dangerous levels of pesticides. To have been planted in the Little Manistee River, about one-half-million coho were shifted to Lake Huron side where the high pesticide levels of Lake Michigan are not present.

Dr. Ralph A. MacMullan, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, ordered the shift following receipt of information from the United States Food and Drug Administration that it was contemplating seizure in Minnesota and Wisconsin of 21,000 pounds of Lake Michigan coho salmon from a Grand Rapids packing company.

The FDA said tolerance levels of pesticides in fish had not been established but that concentrations of DDT up to 19 parts per million and of the more toxic dieldrin of nearly three-tenths of one part per million had been found in the fish shipped from Lake Michigan. The pesticides were absorbed by the fish while growing up in Lake Michigan, not as a result of any processing afterwards. Thousands of coho fry died last year in State hatcheries and Michigan State University scientists found up to three parts per million of DDT in the tiny fish and presumed that was the cause of their death at the point they absorb their egg sacs after hatching. "It should be understood that this does not write off the Lake Michigan salmon program at this point," MacMullan said, "but the situation is obviously serious and we are stopping planting as a precautionary measure until we can be assured by the scientific people that it is safe to resume."

The salmon held in Wisconsin and Minnesota contained both dieldrin and DDT. "Both are extensively used as insecticides by orchardists, cottagers and others and find their way into streams flowing into Lake Michigan," MacMullan said.

He noted a tremendous increase from last year's three parts per million of DDT in the hatchery fry to the 13.5 and 19 parts in the Minnesota and Wisconsin fish.

In the meantime, area sports fishermen are awaiting the return of coho planted a year ago in the Tawas River and AuSable River. The six-inch smolts are expected to weigh upwards to 15 pounds. Some coho have been taken from both the Tawas and AuSable Rivers since January. Some of the fish were held over from the run last fall and apparently lost their instinctive sense of direction, as the fish had been planted originally in Lake Michigan streams.

Plantings were made Friday noon at the Wilber Road bridge on Cold Creek and below Foote Dam on the AuSable River near Oscoda.

Deputies Meet Today With Iosco Officials

Discussion on recognition of the United Mine Workers as the official bargaining agent for deputy sheriffs of Iosco County is to be heard Wednesday afternoon (today) at a special meeting of a committee of the Iosco Board of Supervisors.

This meeting was ordered by the Department of Labor and Industry following refusal of the county board to recognize the union group.

Fred E. Lomas, chairman of the board of supervisors, said that members of the committee meeting with sheriff's department deputies would be Jack Allen, William Wereley and Walter Miller.

Also requested to attend the meeting were Kenneth Myles, prosecuting attorney, and Sheriff Ivan O'Farrell.

Hale Area Prepares for School Bond Vote

Twenty-five persons attended a meeting March 25 of the Hale Area League for Education. Presiding over the session was Richard Parkinson, committee chairman.

The petition committee reported a total of 720 elector signatures had been secured at last count.

Signatures of 629 persons were needed to ask the board of education to place the bond issue on the June election ballot.

Parkinson stated that additional signatures would be solicited.

Ira Scofield, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the committee had discussed many areas of raising money. It was felt that at this time the placing of donation canisters around the town would be best.

"We realize there are many questions regarding the upcoming bond issue and the publicity committee is preparing questionnaires to be sent to registered voters," said Parkinson.

The questionnaires are to be returned to Alice Wereley and, if anyone would like to place his questions before the committee, he is asked to write to her at Route One, Box 20, Hale 48739.

If a person is not registered to vote, he may register with the following township clerks: Plainfield, Frances Bose; Hill, Betty Runyan; Logan, Elaine Caverly; Reno, Leonard Robinson; Grant, Ann Hayes.

Next meeting of Hale Area League for Education will be held on Tuesday, April 8, and all interested citizens are urged to attend.

Hospital Hosts Area Personnel

Another first was marked by Tawas Hospital last Thursday, hosting administrative, business office and purchasing personnel from three other hospitals—Tolfree Hospital of West Branch, Standish Community Hospital and Gladwin Hospital.

Eleven of the key personnel from the three hospitals attended a hospitality hour and then were given a guided tour of the hospital. After the general tour, groups separated to concentrate on the department of special interest to each.

Following a noon luncheon, there was a two-hour meeting at which ideas and information was exchanged to the benefit of all.

No Contests, but 2 Write-ins at East Tawas

East Tawas does not list any contests in next Monday's spring election, but it will have two write-in candidates. This situation resulted last December when the two incumbents announced they were retiring and no candidates filed for First or Second Ward aldermen posts.

The two incumbents, Richard Moss, First Ward, and Earl McElheron, Second Ward, have announced they have reconsidered and would be candidates next Monday, according to Clerk Fred B. Lomas.

The third candidate on the council up for re-election is Charles Schreck, Third Ward alderman.

Other unopposed candidates are J. G. Campbell, mayor; Lomas, clerk; Grace C. Pelton, treasurer.

Race for Mayor Features Election at Whittemore

Two persons will vie for the mayor's post at Whittemore in the annual spring election April 7.

Seeking the post being vacated by George Blust are Basil Goupil, Democrat, and John Valent, Republican. Blust, veteran mayor of the city, had announced earlier that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Other officers unopposed are Mary Wasilewski, treasurer; Edward Graham, assessor; David Mills, First Ward alderman; Dennis Hoffman, Second Ward alderman; Alfred Fortune, clerk, all Democrats.

Ambulance Service Decision Due Soon from County Officials

A decision on emergency ambulance service for Iosco County will probably be made during the April meeting of the board of supervisors. This will be the statutory meeting of the board, opening Tuesday, April 15, and the session will probably last until Friday.

In Michigan, as in every other state in the nation, a critical shortage of ambulances, trained drivers and attendants exists, which could seriously affect chances of a person surviving a highway traffic accident.

Following guidelines set down by the National Highway Safety Act, the Michigan Legislature last year passed a law requiring the licensing of all ambulances, regulates the licensing and training—in first aid, at least—of all drivers and attendants and stipulates that vehicles used for patient transport carry equipment for the administration of oxygen and other emergency first aid.

This law goes into effect in July. This legislation tackles one aspect of emergency medical needs—protection for the injured—but not another: Actual shortage of ambulances. This problem has been created mainly by an exodus of private concerns—notably funeral homes—from the ambulance business.

A survey carried out in 1967 by the accident prevention unit of the Michigan Department of Public Health revealed that the largest number of ambulances—some 65 percent—were operated from funeral homes. The survey also indicated that significant numbers of undertakers were announcing the discontinuance of ambulance services.

Here in Northeastern Michigan, funeral directors announced earlier this year that they would be discontinuing ambulance service effective June 1. Three different events have sharply increased the cost, in many cases prohibitively, of providing ambulance service.

Included is passage of the National Fair Labor Standards Act of 1966 which sets a minimum wage of $1.60 for the employees of all businesses engaged in interstate commerce. For many funeral directors, this wage increase wiped out profits from ambulance runs.

For private firms, adoption of Medicare has increased the cost of record keeping and billing. Collections have been slow and this has reduced the cash flow.

Passage of the Highway Safety Act of 1966 and resulting state legislation has meant that standards set in 16 different areas pertaining to highway safety must be met by the individual states. Ambulances, the standard states, must be properly equipped with first aid devices, a communication system, attendants as well as drivers, all trained in first aid.

Traditionally, local governments in Michigan and elsewhere have not been involved, to any great extent, in providing emergency care and transportation for accident victims.

A national survey points out: "Governmental units often have provided for only the most rudimentary management of the total emergency care system and, as a result, there is fragmentation, an inefficient blending of private enterprise and official responsibility and grossly uneven performance."

Now, with the curtailment of service by local funeral homes and lives at stake, Michigan communities have little choice but to step in immediately with equipment and personnel to provide ambulance service. Very often, with no money allocated in budgets, communities have had to face the serious economic realities of purchasing vehicles and equip-

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide The Upper Room

Read Matthew 26: 36-46 He took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee and began to be sorrowful and very heavy.

And he cometh upon the disciples and findeth them asleep and saith unto Peter, 'What, could ye not watch with me one hour?' (Matthew 26:37,40)

The Gethsemane scene is quite meaningful and moving. A group of 12 persons enters the garden, Jesus and 11 of His disciples. Jesus divides the 11 into two groups, according to the purposes of His heart.

The first group, composed of eight persons, He assigned the task of waiting. At times, we must know how to wait and to do it patiently.

The second group of three persons was led to the center of the garden. Their responsibility was to watch.

Jesus left the groups and went further on. His mission was to pray. The disciples were in the garden with Him but they did not do what He had asked them to do. Our responsibility as children of God is to be in His will. Are we? It is our duty to be doing His will. Are we?

PRAYER

Our blessed LORD and Father, forgive our negligence and our foolishness, and make us more diligent spiritually, so that we may find grace in Thy presence. We ask it in Jesus' name. Amen.

Christian Science SUNDAYS WIO5 - 1480 kc 9:30 A. M. THE BIBLE SPEAKS TO YOU Radio Series

'Who raised up the righteous man from the east, called him to his foot, gave the nations before him, and made him rule over kings? This passage from Isaiah is part of the Bible lesson-sermon that will be heard in all Christian Science churches on Easter. "In his resurrection and ascension, Jesus showed that a mortal man is not the real essence of manhood and that this unreal material mortality disappears in presence of the reality." This relative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is included in the week's lesson on "Unreality."

Christian Science Easter Message

Has our scientific, self-sufficient world outgrown the original Easter event as a child outgrows egg hunts and the Easter bunny? Have we come too far on our own?

Questions like these may not be as modern as they sound. It was on the very first Easter Day, according to the Book of Matthew, that Christ Jesus' resurrection (see chapter 28) was doubted and denied. Yet, every year, as sure as spring, men look back to that event. The drama of those few days still speaks to every age.

Deny yourself completely, the Saviour had taught, and you will save yourself. But what if we can see nothing beyond that denied "self," no promise hidden in the ashes of the "old" man? With immense practical affection for humanity, Jesus gave his answer.

Willingly Jesus yielded up his body and the temporal life and self associated with it. But the grave could not contain him. The result was resurrection—and his continuing life. He proved that real individuality is as irresistible as light. It can never be absorbed by darkness, can never be destroyed by circumstance or death.

How our hope and idealism are strengthened by that example! Do we not catch a glimpse of the fact that we can safely let go of that all-too-familiar sense of self and the limited good we suppose it can do?

We can grow and develop without limit. We are to become what we actually are, the sons of God! No wonder Jesus' example, this sonship with God to which Jesus witnessed, changed the course of history. It swept up and transformed his followers. It has taken on the tidal-wave proportions in the lives of men.

Speaking of Christ Jesus, Mary Baker Eddy, who discovered and founded Christian Science, writes ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures"): Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father and for this, we owe him endless homage... Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practiced.

Does not Easter promise that "Beverage is furnished by the church fellowship. All tourists and interested families are urged to attend and bring a dish to pass," states the Rev. Philip Anderson, pastor.

each of us can leave his own tomb? The imprisoning stone of selfishness, indifference to the suffering of others, mindless sensuality, self-doubt can be rolled away. All can obey Jesus' command to Peter: "Follow me" (John 21:19) We follow when we respond to the deeper needs of fellow men for dignity, affection, forgiveness. And such compassion begins to reveal true individuality—ourselves as known by God. Is this not the beginning of our resurrection—of finding again that endless wonder of the world's first Easter.

Tawas Plating Utilizes Modern Equipment

First of a series of programs concerning local industry and business was heard at the Thursday noon luncheon of Tawas City Businessmen's Association.

Featured at the program was a presentation by James Dillon, plant manager of Tawas Plating Company, 510 Industrial Avenue, Tawas City.

Tawas Plating Company was established here 15 years ago in February in what formerly was Art's Cleaners building on Seventh Avenue, adjacent to the West Tawas yards of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway. The present location is just one-half block west of the original site.

Paul P. Chevis, owner, who had been a General Motors chemical engineer and later part owner of a plating firm at Davison, desired to locate in a small community in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula and picked Tawas City for his plant site.

An avid fisherman, he was most interested in finding an area where he could spend some of his spare time fishing and hunting. Helping him to find such a location was the development department of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, the Michigan Economic Development Commission and the City of Tawas City.

While Chevis has had the opportunity to enjoy the outdoor activities which he desired (catching those rainbows in the Whitney Drain), he has also seen a steady expansion of his plating business. The plant was moved into new and larger quarters in 1954 and the building has been enlarged several times.

The original plating process has also been expanded. Cadmium and zinc plating equipment were first installed in the plant, followed by a new electroless nickel process. Only this year, automated equipment for zinc plating was installed.

Chevis, who holds a doctorate degree in chemical engineering and is well known in the plating field, developed the method whereby this new nickel process could be placed on a production basis. Tawas Plating Company was the first firm in the nation to use this process.

The local firm produces noncorrosive, nonconductive plating of metal parts for the automotive industry and other fields.

"We do not fabricate any parts," explained Dillon. "We operate two tractor-trailer units which pick up metal stampings from our customers, who are contractors with other firms. If specifications for a certain manufactured part call for plating, we have the opportunity to bid on providing this service."

One of Tawas Plating Company's customers is Bopp-Busch Manufacturing Company of Augres, which provides metal stampings for the automotive industry.

Some of the parts plated by the local firm in the automotive field include such items as clutch levers, carburetor parts, gas and radiator caps, alternator fans, to name a few. Among other items plated include parts for outboard motors and telephone bases.

Last summer, Mr. Chevis decided to modernize his plant with automated equipment in order to facilitate a more sophisticated plating process.

"The factory representatives told us it would take at least three weeks to install this equipment. Paul told them to deliver one piece of equipment on a Thursday and the other on the following day and that we would have them operating by Monday. I think it is a real tribute to our local electricians, plumbers, machinists and our own staff that these new machines were in operation one day prior to our deadline," said Dillon.

While Tawas Plating was one of the first firms in the country approved by General Motors for the electroless nickel plating process, other firms are now using this process because of the rapidly expanding uses.

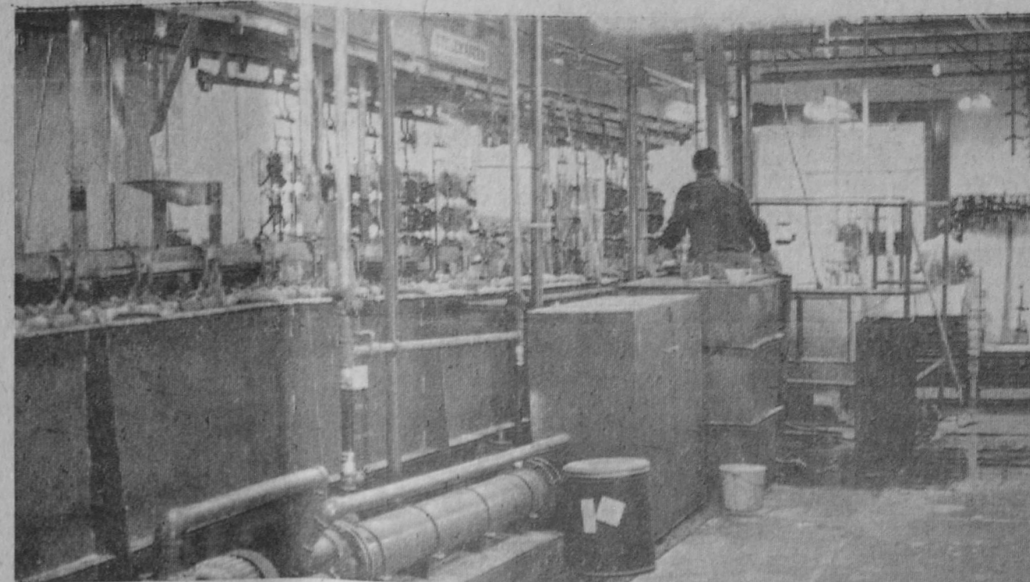

Because of past experience, Tawas Plating Company is called on by many different industries for chemical plating experiments. "We get a good many calls on possible new uses for this electroless nickel plating process," said Dillon.

Being a chemical engineer and one very interested in fishing, Chevis uses chemicals in his operation which are phosphate free and approved by the state. In addition, all wastes are treated in the plant's own removal system before being discharged into the municipal sewer system.

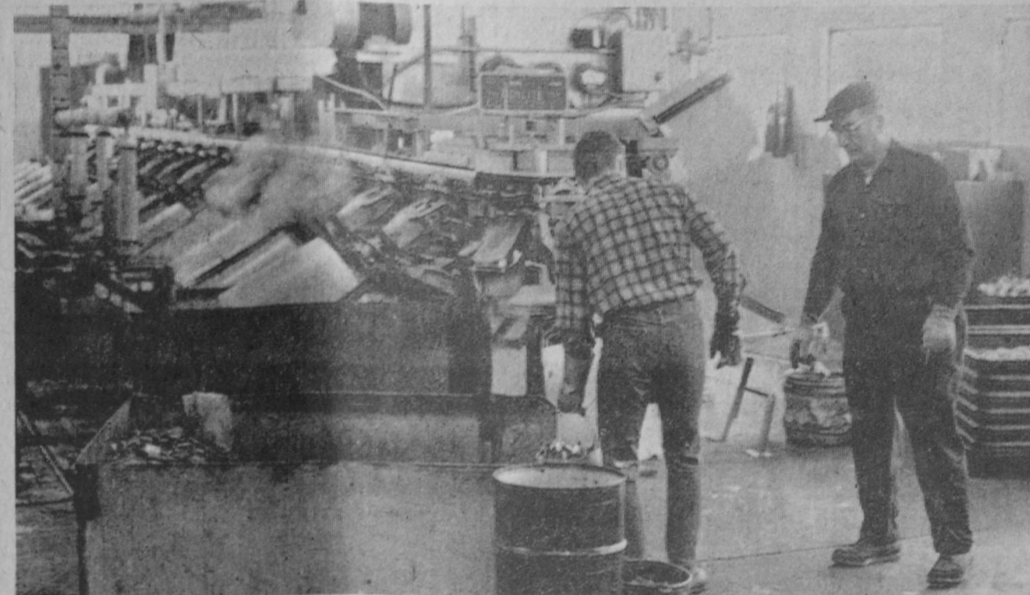

At the close of the presentation, one businessman pointed out that Chevis did not bring any employees with him when he established his plant here. All men were hired from the local area.

TA School Omits Student's Name on Honor List

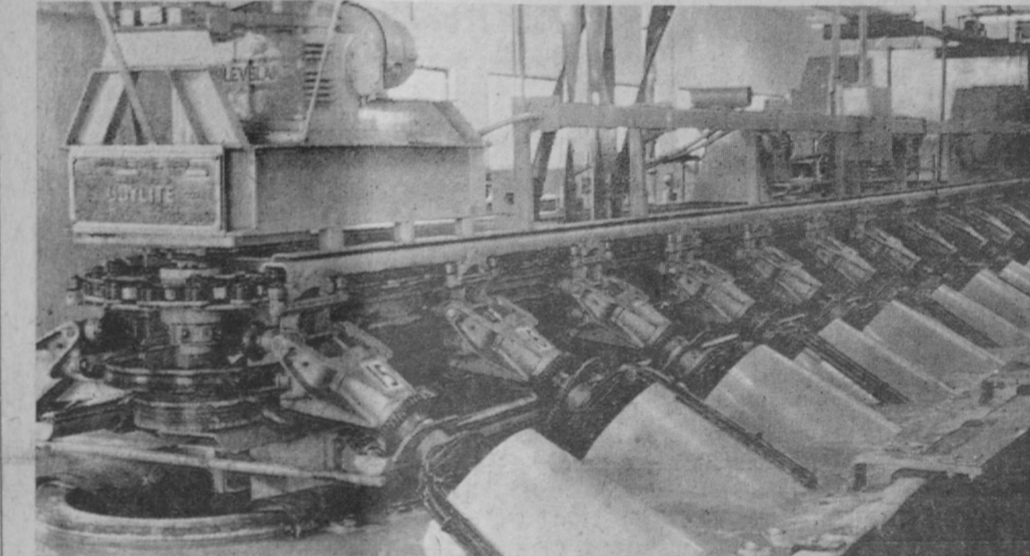

Tawas Area High School inadvertently omitted the name of Laurie Ezo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Ezo of Tawas City, from the school's list of honor graduates published by this newspaper last week. Miss Ezo has a grade point average of 3.53.

One man tends this plating machine while others remove processed parts.

Filling baskets with small parts to be plated are James Mollard and Frank Roti.

This automated equipment was constructed by the Udylite Corporation, Detroit.
