

Support Your Tawas Area Schools---Vote 'Yes' Thursday

Voters of Tawas Area School District go to the polls tomorrow (Thursday) to decide on a 4 1/2-mill operational tax proposal for two years.

Polls open at 7:00 a. m. and close at 8:00 p. m. Polling places are located at city halls in Tawas City and East Tawas, township halls in Alabaster and Tawas Townships.

This proposal, petitioned by an organized group called Citizens United for Better Education (CUBE), is the third millage proposal requested for the school district during the past nine months. The two previous proposals failed to receive approval of voters.

Following the last election, a group of citizens interested in the school formed the CUBE organization. The group spent considerable time in studying the school's curriculum and budget and then petitioned the board to again place a millage proposal before voters.

During the past four weeks, CUBE has attempted to answer all questions which have been put forth by residents of the district. These questions and answers have appeared weekly in this newspaper.

Tawas Area School presently levies a total of 11.17 mills of taxes, 10.08 mills for operation and 1.09 mills for bonded debt retirement.

Approval of tomorrow's proposal would give the school an added $4.50 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation for operational funds.

Members of the board of education and school administrators have stated that approval of this millage is a necessity in order to keep school finances at an even keel.

The proposition, which would yield about $185,000, would allow for educational improvements as outlined on another page of this newspaper, as well as to permit continuation of programs now afforded.

Except for construction of the original high school building under a bonded debt program, Tawas Area School has made several improvements to its buildings through a pay-as-you-go program of financing. This latter program, which saw construction of the Tawas City Elementary Unit, an addition at the East Tawas Elementary Unit, a new junior high school wing, art and shop facilities at the high school, have been paid by special millage votes which expired last year.

"Tawas Area School has consistently furnished the educational program at an amount of millage well below other schools of the same size," reports the board of education in a statement to voters this week. "The amount requested still leaves Tawas Area well below state averages and below other schools of our size."

Actually, Tawas Area School has the lowest taxation for all purposes of any school district in the state. A study of 538 school districts in Michigan revealed that four districts with 10 mills levied less for operation. However, these same four districts had a much higher debt retirement millage and the total of 11.17 mills put Tawas at the bottom of the taxation rung among Michigan schools.

The school's total income during 1967-68 was $787,419.29, as compared to expenditures of $888,245.05. This left a deficit of $100,825.76, which was balanced by use of the school's reserve fund which had built up over a period of years through the legal transfer of five percent of its state aid.

Expected income during the current year, 1968-69, is listed at $855,306.57, as compared to total expenditures of $911,640. The remainder of the school's reserve fund is to be used to balance part of the expected deficit of $56,333.43.

With rising costs of operation, it is expected that the school will have total expenditures of $1,051,382 during 1969-70, as compared to an income of $1,047,326.

In a statement to voters last week, the board of education pledged that it would levy no more taxes than the amount required to carry out the program the community desires.

As an example for property owners, the proposition, if approved, would cost a homeowner with a home assessed at $5,000 state equalized valuation (one-half of true cash value) an additional $22.50 per year.

The board of education points out that this additional tax would amount to just over six cents daily, less than five cigarettes daily and slightly more than the cost of a package of gum per day.

Tawas Area School Keyettes will furnish baby sitting service at the various polling places for parents who wish to vote. This service will be offered from 9:00 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Band's Performance Draws Much Praise

Many compliments have been pouring into Tawas Area School following performance of the high school band January 18 at Ann Arbor.

The band had the distinction of being one of three high school bands in the state which performed at the Midwestern Music Conference. The school received its invitation from the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, which yearly honors the three most outstanding high school bands by asking them to perform at the conference.

This is the highest form of recognition that can be awarded high school bands in Michigan.

Some of the letters received by Director Gene S. Salamony and the band were as follows:

"I am sure the performance was a highlight in the band member's high school career and I want you to know that I appreciate all your cooperation to make this fine performance."—David C. McCoy, secretary, Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

"It is never an easy task to prepare a program for that type of an audience, but you did it. All the comments I heard were good."—William Root, director of bands, Ferris State College.

"I am aware of all the extra planning and effort that goes into a venture of this magnitude and I am sure I speak for all of those who heard the band when I say it was a fine job. I also know you must be proud to have as your bandman a person dedicated to the growth and development of young people, not only as play-pouring into Tawas Area School, but as citizens."—Donald Fleckinger, director, West Intermediate School, Mt. Pleasant.

"Your performance was one of the highlights of the conference for me. I know the dedication from both director and group that this level performance must take," said Fleckinger.

"For all of the band people in Michigan, for District Nine in particular and also in a special, personal way, I would like to extend to all of you a very sincere thank you for your fine performance at Ann Arbor. Your very capable showing and the fact that you are the first band from our district to be so honored will stand as irrefutable proof that the 'country cousins' from the north certainly do know how to produce a band."—Lloyd Conley, Clare High School Band.

Kenneth H. Feneley, also of Clare, told bandmen: "You now have experienced a rare musical adventure. I hope you enjoyed it. I know I was proud of your performance, was proud to know some of you personally and have appreciated your labors in preparation. You have, in my estimation, one of the most sincere and hard-working men in the band direction business. You have much to be proud of in Tawas."

Roger E. Jacobi, assistant dean of the school of music, University of Michigan, said that members of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association were very complimentary in evaluation of the group.

Find Errors in Iosco's Count, but DST Loses

Daylight savings time went down to defeat in Michigan—again—but Iosco County's recount Friday narrowed the margin by 96 votes, which was understandable but not particularly cheering to county election officials.

And it cost the county around $500 to recount its ballots, with a full day of work by the county canvassing board, six additional tellers and a stenographer.

When the recount was completed, those handling the work could believe that it was a long night for election board workers on November 5. Of the 14 precincts voting against DST at the general election, errors were found in eight.

Most of the errors involved one or two votes, but a 100-vote error was found in Oscoda's third precinct. In this case, the total on the voting machine was recorded improperly—131 instead of 231.

Errors of one or two votes were noted in AuSable, Grant, Oscoda's second precinct, Plainfield, Sherman, Tawas and the Third Ward of Tawas City. Whittemore's Second Ward was uncountable because of an improperly sealed ballot box.

Election boards in Burleigh, Oscoda's first precinct, Reno and Tawas City's First Ward passed the "test" with flying colors—no errors were found.

The corrected total still gave DST the short end of the stick in Iosco County. The "yes" vote total in November was 3,292, which has now been corrected to 3,393. The "no" vote total of 3,490 in November has been corrected to 3,495, having picked up five votes in the recount.

The recount here was under the direction of Robert Jorgensen, Gaylord, who is election supervisor for the Michigan Election Bureau at Lansing.

Jorgensen said that the state chamber of commerce, which is to foot part of the bill for the statewide recount, had actually picked up enough votes in the recount to upset last November's total vote.

However, 100-vote errors in Presque Isle and Montmorency Counties boosted the "no" column. Several large errors favoring the "no" vote were also found in the Upper Peninsula.

All in all, Jorgensen believed that election boards around the state had done a marvelous job, despite the errors which were found. Election boards worked long hours counting three different ballots and were under pressure to provide information for press services.

However, Jorgensen was of the opinion that changes were needed in election laws in order that systematic methods be adopted for counting. He had suggested that the state election commission be given more authority, but this would require a change in laws and legislators elected under the old system are "happy"—they were elected under the present laws.

"We are still using horse and buggy tactics adopted when the Australian ballot was first used back around the turn of the century," said Jorgensen.

Friday's recount actually showed that local election workers were much more efficient than in the recount after passage of Michigan's new constitution in 1963. Following that election, it was found that every one of the 11 voting precincts checked had sealed ballot boxes improperly. In addition, six of the precincts had improperly sealed ballots on the constitutional vote and were not countable.

Actual counting of ballots, however, was far superior in that election. Only one "no" vote and one "yes" vote were challenged and the canvassing board ruled in favor of election boards in both cases.

Ask State to Amend Law on Ambulances

East Tawas Council Monday night adopted a resolution requesting that the state legislature clarify and amend new laws pertaining to ambulance services in small cities, towns and counties of the state.

Ambulance service in North-eastern Michigan, as furnished by funeral directors, is to be discontinued effective June 1.

A recent letter from funeral directors of Iosco, Northern Bay, Eastern Ogemaw, Arenac and Alcona Counties stated that all had decided to discontinue ambulance service because of new state licensing.

The new act requires that an ambulance service be on 24-hour call with two trained attendants.

The city council believes that before the new law takes effect July 1, the state legislature should further clarify and amend the law in order that smaller communities of the state do not lose this service.

Copies of the resolution were sent to State Rep. George Prescott, State Sen. Robert Richardson, the Iosco Board of Supervisors and the governor.

In other business, Mayor James Campbell reported that he had met with Michael Freel, attorney for the Tawas Lake Association. Campbell said he had reiterated the city's stand, that should a proposed dam on Tawas Lake interfere with the flow of water in Tawas River and effect operation of the new municipal disposal plant, the city would immediately seek relief in court.

The board of public works reported that it was still investigating the possibility of installing standby power generating equipment at the water filtration plant and sewage disposal facilities. It was estimated that cost of such equipment would be approximately $35,000.

Paul Ropert, superintendent of public works, reported that the present sewage system would be flooded in 20 minutes if power was interrupted.

The council authorized installation of six mercury vapor lights at the following intersections: Lincoln and Wadsworth, Pine Street at the railroad tracks, Pine and Westover, three at US-23 and Tawas Beach Road. Cost of the new lights would be $385.70 annually, which is covered in the city's budget of $9,408 for street lights.

The council approved an allocation of $200 to the chamber of commerce for fireworks.

Deloise (Dewey) Durant, city assessor, reported that all building permits had been checked and that the board of review would soon be investigating lot values and depreciation on buildings.

She was over-all winner for the meet, receiving a trophy and $100 in cash. Her total prize money was $175. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd SchAAF.—Tawas Herald Photo.

CUBE Answers

The fifth and final week of questions and answers pertaining to Tawas Area School's upcoming millage election are presented by Citizens United for Better Education (CUBE). Questions have been sent directly to representatives of CUBE, which was organized by local citizens following the last defeated millage proposal in July.

QUESTION: Why do we need 4.5 mills now, while in the last millage vote we only needed 2.92 mills? How has the situation changed in these past few months?

ANSWER: The 2.92 proposal defeated in July was to replace the extra operational millage that expired at the end of the June 1968 term. It would have allowed the school to operate without the cutbacks which were instituted, spending the last $60,000 of reserve funds and the borrowing of the anticipated delinquent tax returns.

To reinstate quality education on a par with the 1967-68 program, to provide for salary increases and inflationary costs, pay the interest on the borrowed funds and purchase the necessary items which had to be excluded, we believe the 4.5 mills are necessary. We arrived at this figure after weeks of study. It is the best estimate we were able to arrive at.

Many other questions have been received. Most are repeats of former answers which appeared in this newspaper. CUBE does not have funds of its own. All the valuable news space has been donated by this newspaper and we cannot ask them to cover the same questions for the second and third time.

For those of you who have not received an answer or if you have further questions, CUBE will man a telephone service on February 5 from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. Your questions will be welcomed.

Defend Highway Fund Against Grab

Sen. James G. Fleming, Jackson, chairman of the senate highways committee, today urged the Michigan Good Roads Federation to launch a state-wide defense by motorists against proposal to divert 1.6 million dollars from state road funds to finance part of state police activities.
In a communication to the federation's executive committee, Fleming warned that diversion of highway funds "will destroy road construction and improvement in Michigan if carried out."
Fleming asked the federation to oppose the road fund raid by alerting motorists throughout the state that critically short highway finances would be further depleted if diversion is authorized by the legislature. He suggested that the federation rally highway users in every part of the state against the proposed raid.
James R. Vivian Sr., Houghton, president of the federation, promised Fleming that the federation will assist in fighting against the diversion, which was proposed in the state's 1969-70 budget recently presented to the legislature.
The suggested diversion would presumably be used to finance

There Are Only TWO Kinds of Schools...

Those which provide a good education and those which do not!

On February 6, you have the opportunity to make a choice.

Your choice affects more than the pocketbook.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A GOOD EDUCATION!

If all children were alike in attitude, interest, and ability, our process of education would be made easier. Every child would attend the same basic classes, receive the same level of instruction and come out monotonous carbon-copies of each other. But, thank goodness, children are different. (Just look at your neighbors' children.)

Like any other big business where many people are involved, you can please some of the people all of the time, or all of the people some of the time, but you can't please all of the people all of the time, to paraphrase a famous quote. You, as an adult, know this in your own work. Education is no different.

An educated person is a well-rounded individual. He knows something about the arts, music, literature, the world around him and about himself, including what he wants and how he will get there. He also has the basic elements of reading, writing and arithmetic. He knows the value of a healthy body and a developed mind. He realizes all education does not come from a textbook, but some in association with other people, too. An educated person is more than a storehouse of facts. He enjoys beauty and seeks after truth. He can make intelligent decisions based on his total education. He has confidence in his ability to use his education. And above all, he knows the value of education.

The job of a good educational system is to provide the opportunity for each individual child to develop all aspects of his interests and abilities. Our finished product can only be as good as the opportunities provided.

- We provide our children with clothes.
- We provide our children with food.
- We give our children love and affection.

WILL WE ALSO GIVE OUR CHILDREN THEIR RIGHT TO A GOOD EDUCATION?

Vote "YES" February 6

For Those People With a "Gripe"

You've got something that's really been gnawing at your insides about the schools. You've talked to other people who have gripes too. You've found out their gripe is different than yours. Below is a checklist and a short quiz. Check the appropriate box and total up your answers at the end. You may be surprised.

	YES	NO
1. I make it a point to visit the schools at least once a year to meet my child's teachers.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

7. I understand school finance and still feel my money is being wasted.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
8. I believe that the cost of a six-pack or a carton of cigarettes a month is too much for education.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
9. I don't believe the school should offer such frills as band, athletics, speech, special ed, shop, drafting, art, home ec, remedial reading, journalism or physical ed.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
10. I offered my help in assuring a good educational program for our children.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

A Fable for the Final Hour Before Election

This fable appeared in the "Somethin' Else" column by Tom DeWitt in a recent edition of the Gratiot County Herald. A Tawas reader thought the column might prove interesting to Tawas Herald readers.

Once upon a time, there was a rural community located in the heart of a wealthy state. And the state was located in the middle of a great prosperous and affluent nation.

But times were hard for the community. Progress and the nation were passing it by.

And the nation was involved in a costly war on the other side of the earth. In order to help pay for the war, the nation assessed an additional tax on its people.

And the state assessed heavy taxes to help pay for the many projects and other expensive things. And the people in the rural community paid dearly. In the rural areas, land prices skyrocketed, while farmer's income decreased.

But before the hard times hit, civic leaders in the community convinced the voters that a new school should be built. After a hard and long period of annexation, the school was built.

And it was a great school. It was a monument to a community and a people that believed in the future of their children, their community and their nation.

But inflation caused the cost of living to rise. Everything was more expensive, both to purchase and to operate. The taxpayers began to rebel. The nation began to rebel and come apart at the seams.

The younger people began to talk of revolution and the moral fiber of the nation was stripped to the bone.

Taxpayers finally said they had enough. They began to fight back. The voters of the rural community followed a state-wide trend and turned down any increase in taxes, regardless of what it was for.

In this particular state, the schools received most support from property taxes. It was an unfortunate thing. Once prosperous school districts began closing building after building as millage proposals were turned down. Teachers were released and others just left.

In the rural community three millage proposals went down to defeat. The school faced with closing to half day sessions, called a citizens committee to investigate the needs. The recommendation was higher than ever before.

In and around the community voters said the request was too much. But the voters who complained did not work on the study committee.

The final request was turned down. Twenty-six teachers were released from the system and an elementary school was closed. Other teachers, old timers, refused to teach classes they did not want to teach. And they left. The school, which had one of the finest hands in the state, lost their director. With him went the pride of the community. They never had a good band they could be proud of again.

And the children from the community found out they weren't good enough for college anymore.

They ended up among the unemployed, walking the streets. With half-day sessions, their desire to learn diminished and they dropped out. Without an education, they could not get a job.

Within five years, the community lost the local control of the school system to the state.

And the state divided the rural community school district up among other surrounding school districts. The taxpayers had to continue to pay for the existing school buildings until the year 2000, plus the millage passed by voters from the bigger districts. And they had little or nothing to say about it.

What you have just read is a fable. It never happened here in Gratiot County. This fable of the final hour happened somewhere else.

It could never happen here.

TC Council Gives Tentative Approval

Tentative approval was given Monday night by the Tawas City Council to establishment of a parking violations bureau.

According to Ordinance No. 173, the bureau for handling parking violations would be under supervision and control of the chief of police.

Such action was needed if the city was to retain fines for parking fees. Since establishment of the new district court, justices of the peace who formerly handled traffic fines have been eliminated.

In other business, the council allocated $150 to the Tawas Chamber of Commerce for fireworks this summer.

A report from the joint water board for East Tawas and Tawas City indicated that Gordon Huek had been re-elected chairman and Howard Hatton was named secretary.

The council authorized a salary of $18 per day for election board workers for the primary election February 17.

One building permit approved during the past two weeks was for Mrs. Doris Newhouse, 116 Sunset Drive, remodel home, $100.

New Dog Warden Busy in Iosco Co.

Paul Grimes, Iosco County dog warden, disposed of 110 dogs during January, according to a report Tuesday from the Iosco Sheriff's Department. It was reported that six or eight of the dogs had been running deer. The remainder were strays running at large.

Mrs. Terry A. Beadle is Runnerup in Contest for Outstanding Young Woman

She was chosen by the League of Women Voters, a non-partisan organization, to represent the organization in the contest.

Mrs. Beadle has been active in LWV studies concerning city parks and recreation, local housing and forms of city government.

She and her husband have worked as senior high youth counselors for six years at Warren First United Methodist Church and have organized and chaperoned three UN-New York City seminars for the youth.

Mrs. Beadle was UNICEF chairman for South Macomb County in 1966, was collector for cancer donations in 1968. She was chairman

Low-Income Family Can Own Home

Arenac - Bay - Gladwin - Iosco County's low-income rural families have a greater chance now than ever before to become homeowners as a result of the new federal interest supplement plan on home loans, according to Ras L. Smith, local representative of the Farmers Home Administration.

Smith said the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 makes it possible for the federal government to apply an interest supplement payment to rural housing loans made to low-income rural families that will lower the cost of buying a house.

The interest supplement plan on rural housing loans will be administered through the Farmers Home Administration, the United States Department of Agriculture's credit agency.

Under the interest supplement plan, Smith said that families earning as little as $4,000 annually could possibly qualify for as much as $9,000 loan to buy an existing home in the area.

The new plan allows for interest supplements to reduce the payment of interest in housing loans to as low as one percent. "This new plan," Smith said, "will be extremely helpful in removing the standard housing in Arenac, Bay, Gladwin and Iosco Counties."

The actual supplement a family receives will depend on the owner's income and number of people in the household.

A minimum requirement is that a borrower, who does not have enough to pay his loan installment in full, will pay at least the amount that would be due if the interest rate were one percent.

For example, a family with five children and an annual gross income of $4,000 would receive an interest supplement of $222 a year on a $9,000 rural housing loan. The family would receive as an interest supplement the difference between their annual scheduled note, $543 (principal and interest), and their annual installment if it were figured at one percent, $321.

In this example, the family's monthly payments of principal and interest on an $9,000 loan amortized over 33 years would be approximately $27.

Smith said Farmers Home Administration would review interest supplement agreements every two years with borrowers. If necessary, supplements will be adjusted at renewal time, based on the borrower's income and family size.

Another feature of the new act is an interest supplement on loans to develop nonprofit rental and cooperative housing for low-income people.

Lower payments by the sponsor of the housing project as a result of the interest supplement are to be translated into lower rents for the tenants.

Other major provisions of the new housing measure include: Financial support for self-help housing projects; loans for the purchase of building sites for farm-labor housing; housing and training facilities for rural job trainees and their families; expanded housing credit for lower-income, city people, who work in rural areas.

Farmers Home Association rural housing loans are made to applicants who are able to obtain the acquired credit from other sources.

Further information can be obtained at Farmers Home Administration's local office, 416 North Main Street, Standish 48658.

Adult Health Screening Set in 4 Co. Area

How well are you?

In order to help you answer that question, adult health screening tests will be offered in the District No. Two four-county area March 4 through April 11. The screening tests are available at no charge to residents, 21 years of age and over, by appointment, according to Dr. Ophelia Baker, director of District Health Department No. Two.

Doctor Baker urged all eligible residents to call the local health department for an appointment as soon as possible.

"The main purpose of the tests is to discover hidden chronic disease in its early, most treatable stage," she commented. "However, the chances are that most people will have no abnormal findings and this can be reassuring."

Usually included in the group of adult health screening tests is an electrocardiogram, which is a heart test; a chest X-ray; blood tests for detection of possible diabetes, anemia, high cholesterol, and kidney disease; a urinalysis, and blood pressure determination. A self-administered medical history is also taken, in addition to vision tests and height and weight measurements.

An appointment is necessary as the health test trailer has only a limited capacity. Because of this, we must plan ahead so there will be ample time to give each person the complete set of tests.

The tests take approximately 30 minutes and serve as an indicator of the presence of possible chronic disease or other health problems.

"I'd like to make it clear that the tests are in no way a substitute for a complete doctor's examination. And an indication of a possible disease does not represent a diagnosis, only the possibility that an abnormality is present," Doctor Baker observed.

The health test trailer will be located at the Ogemaw Township Hall, Tuesday through Friday, March 4-11. It will then move to Hale, where it will be located at the Hale Community Building Monday through Wednesday, March 17-19. Then, on to the Tawas area, where the trailer will be located at the Iosco County Medical Care Facility. It will be there on Thursday, March 20, through Tuesday, April 1.

At this time, it will move to Harrisville, being there Wednesday, April 2, through Friday, April 4, at the VFW Hall. On Monday, April 7, the trailer will be located in Mio and remain there until Friday, April 11. The location of the trailer will be the Methodist Church.

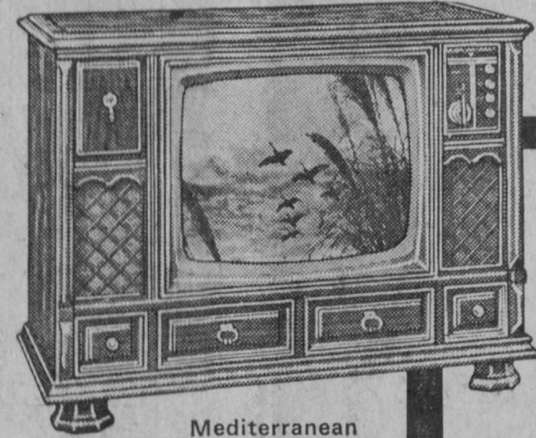

The times of the clinics will vary, so that in each location there will be some morning, afternoon and evening hours.

Appointments can be made at any health office in the district, whichever will be most convenient for the person receiving the tests. However, appointments should be made with the health office located in the county in which you wish to go and can be made as of today.
