Bleacher Purchase Studied by School

A plan to purchase 1,000 additional bleacher seats for the athletic field at Tawas Area High School, with no expenditure of general operation funds, was presented Monday night to the board of education.

Under the plan presented by Bill McIntosh, assistant principal and athletic director, purchase of the bleachers would be financed through revenue bonds secured by receipts from athletic events.

Other revenue available for this project would be funds which have no specific obligations. This includes the student paper fund of $3,000, a miscellaneous fund of $1,100, class funds of 1968 and 1969 amounting to $200 and $4,000 from the athletic association.

With 700 students in grades nine through 12 and seating for only 700 persons, McIntosh said that present seating capacity at the athletic field was inadequate.

In addition, admission to events has been increased and there is very little seating capacity on the visitors' side of the field.

Under the plan, present bleachers would be moved to the opposite side of the field and new 10-row elevated bleachers would be installed on the home side.

Present bleachers were purchased a number of years ago by the school's booster club.

Possible financing of a new track through gate receipts is also to be studied. Cost of constructing an all weather track would run from $25,000 to $40,000.

In other business at Monday night's meeting, the board directed school administrators to contact officials of Tawas Hospital to determine if a cooperative nursing program could be included in the school curriculum or in the community school program.

Members of the board reported on the recent national convention of school board members held at San Francisco, California. Attending this convention with their wives were Clare Herriman and Leonard Sarki. Others from the county attending the convention were Ernest W. Jordan, Donald Schuster, Robert Elliott and Dale Brumfield, all representing the Iosco Intermediate School District.

School Does Not Sponsor 'Breakfast'

Administrators of Tawas Area School remind parents this week that the school does not sponsor or sanction a May morning breakfast by students.

Students of Tawas Area School have held this unsanctioned event for a number of years. Last May, three students were taken to their homes because they were unfit to attend school.

Curbing this all night bout by teen-agers is the responsibility of parents, according to John Alexander, high school principal. "The only thing we can do is to send them home if they are unfit for classes when school starts the next morning," said Alexander.

The principal said that May 1 falls on Friday this year and it could be expected that students would have all sorts of excuses to stay overnight at the home of friends.

SMELT FISHING proved to be a big attraction last week-end with thousands of fishermen crowding the Whitney Drain, Tawas River and other area streams. Large catches were reported Friday and Saturday nights and the fish cooperated by running during the daytime. This picture was snapped Saturday night on Dead Creek, where fishermen congregated near the Sixth Avenue bridge. The weather was warm enough where some dippers entered the stream without boots. Some damage was caused to improved river banks in Tawas City.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Scarcity Predicted

TA Finances Sufficient for School Year

A check of finances this week indicates that Tawas Area School will be able to meet expenditures with funds available to the end of the school year.

However, Supt. Reynold Mick told board of education members Monday that there may be a scarcity of money for the June 5 payroll. This payroll will be about $170,000 and if state aid money does not arrive in time, there could be a deficiency of about $32,000.

The superintendent said there still may be the need to borrow money to meet payrolls of July and early August, or until state aid money is available in August.

A survey of finances read at the meeting indicated that total receipts during the year have amounted to $1,101,143.74, with $1,089,858.46 spent to date.

Last year, the school applied for an advance on its state aid money, which saved the district $42,000 in interest.

In other matters concerning finance, board of education members directed that replacements be found for four or five elementary teachers. It is known that Fred Hickman and Mrs. Nan McGuire will retire this year and a third teacher is likely to retire. In addition, it is expected that two teachers will be leaving at the end of the year.

It was the opinion of board members that regardless of the unsettled school finances at the state level, these teachers should be replaced. It was felt that instruction in the elementary grades was of utmost importance and class sizes should not be enlarged.

Several candidates are available to fill these positions. The board directed that the administration should not hold off filling the vacancies or wait until contract negotiations are completed.

Board members were of the opinion that the school could borrow money on its delinquent tax equity, or possibly cut some other programs if the need arises.

There were 29 A bands in attendance. The adjudicators for the Swartz Creek site were Dr. Harold Wright, chairman, Department of Music, Northern Michigan University; Dr. Edgar Ross, professor of music, Central Michigan University; James Salmon, The University of Michigan, and Paul Harder, professor, Michigan State University.

The band performed for its march, "The Southerner;" the required number, "First Suite in Eb," and the selected number, "Chester."

Saturday, the senior band travels to Clare for an exchange concert at 7:30 p. m. in Clare High School. There is no admission and the public is invited.

New Parking Lot

Old Tawas City Theatre Building Being Razed

An old landmark in Tawas City is being razed this week to make room for new parking facilities on Lake Street.

Contractor for Hugo J. Keiser is demolishing the old Bay Theatre building, which was originally constructed in 1922-23 by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Berube.

At that time, people of Tawas City saw the need for an auditorium and began raising money to construct a building. The Berubes, who operated a theatre in an old frame building on Lake Street, offered to build an auditorium. Besides being used for basketball and other civic purposes, the building had movable seats and housed a "silent" movie house.

The building was later purchased by Miles Main, who operated a theatre for a number of years, then leased the business to others. Among later operators were Douglas Ferguson and James H. Leslie.

Ferguson introduced "talking pictures" to Northeastern Michigan in his State Theatre, which created quite a sensation when equipment was installed secretly and announced in the June 14, 1929, issue of The Tawas Herald. According to the Herald, Ferguson went to the "enormous expense of $9,000 to install equipment and obtain necessary rights to bring to the public the best and newest form of amusement that money and good judgment can bring—Movietales talking pictures, talking comedies and talking vaudeville acts."

Following a succession of owners, the theatre was purchased by Ashmun Brothers of Midland, who operated the Bay Theatre for a number of years.

The Ashmuns operated the Bay during the summer months until 1951, when a decision was made to construct the Tawas Drive-In Theatre.

The building then served several years as the original location of Immaculate Heart of Mary Church, its last occupant.

Keiser purchased the property last year from the Ashmuns.

Keiser said Tuesday that walls of the building are to be removed down to street level. The remaining walls are to be strengthened and the space filled to provide street level parking.

Contractor for demolishing the old building is Roy Newman.

MAKING WAY for a new parking lot being constructed by Keiser Drug Store in Tawas City is the old Bay Theatre building. The structure has not been occupied since February of 1957 when Immaculate Heart of Mary Parish moved into its new church. Constructed in the early 1920s, it served as a theatre, an auditorium for civic events, high school graduations and Lyceum courses. The building will be razed and filled for street level parking.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Cancer Drive Chairman Tells of Research Need

"There are people in Isosco County leading normal lives who are cured of cancer—that is what the 1970 educational and fund-raising crusade of the American Cancer Society is all about."

Bud Fisher, chairman of the educational and fund-raising drive for 1970, explained, "By cured, we mean that they are without evidence of the disease at least five years after diagnosis and treatment."

He reported that there are 1.5-million Americans alive today who have been cured of cancer. An additional 700,000 cancer patients, diagnosed and treated within the last five years, will live to enter the ranks of the cured. This means in about three years, the "Army of the Cured" will total 2,000,000.

"This is the hopeful message we bring this year. But cancer cures just don't happen by magic. Successful treatment of cancer often depends on early diagnosis. We are out to teach everyone in Isosco County how to help protect themselves by early detection measures—and the importance of the annual health checkup," Fisher said.

As part of this year's crusade, an army of 2.3-million American Cancer Society volunteers will distribute 45-million leaflets listing cancer safeguards. We will not use all 45-million here in Isosco County; we'll be happy to have one in each home and business!"

The design is repeated on each section, using such luscious shades of floss as beauty rose, tropic orange and mid pink. This embroidered beret will be the crowning glory of your newest spring outfit.

Supt. Reynold Mick reported that the student council was to make a survey of business places to determine the opinion of employers as to opening school next fall on August 31, rather than on the first Monday after Labor Day. Because of the 1970 calendar, if school is started at the regular time, it would have to run to June 11 to have the necessary number of days. If started earlier, school would end on June 4.

Application has been made for $5,700 in National Defense Education funds on a local participation basis. Exact amount to be received will not be known until the end of June, but the money received will be expended for science equipment.

Leading Story Teller Slated in Appearance

Under the sponsorship of Iosco Intermediate School District and Whittemore-Prescott Area Schools, Dr. Bill Martin Jr. will appear Tuesday, May 5, at Richardson Junior High School, Oscoda.

Doctor Martin is considered to be one of America's outstanding story-tellers. His understanding of children and children's literature, which reveals itself in the magic spell of his storytelling, has made him a popular entertainer and educational lecturer.

Many teachers who have known Doctor Martin's work over the years have observed that no one but a storyteller, who had himself grown up in a rich heritage of hearing and retelling stories, could bring to the teaching of reading the vigorous, wholesome understanding of language which he captures in his reading materials and teaching method.

Doctor Martin and his brother, Bernard, have written and illustrated 18 children's books including "Little Squeegy Bug," "Green-Eyed Stallion" and "Brave Little Indian." Their writing began as a hobby while they were serving in the air force during World War II. His storytelling interest also found expression at that time in children's hospitals and schools near the bases to which he was assigned.

The 7:30 p. m. program is open to the public and admission is free.

Lest We Forget --- Perch Fishing on Saginaw Bay

BY CHRIS ADDISON

By the most unusual coincidence, memories of the Tawas area citizens' struggle to save perch fishing in Tawas Bay and Lake Huron occurred here in Florida.

After encountering two huge fishing trawlers with yard arms stretched wide on each side dragging deadly purse nets back of them illegally within the three-mile limit west of Bradenton and St. Petersburg, I entered Egmont Key and made a most unexpected discovery. Among the small craft was a party fishing boat named "Captain Mac" of East Tawas. The sight of "Captain Mac" so far from her home port brought back memories of protest meetings in that community by citizens there who were alarmed over fishing violations, such as the writer had just witnessed on the Gulf of Mexico. This was quite a coincidence.

Gordon MacAndrew was one of the small businessmen of East Tawas, who was driven out of that area by the ruthless exploitation of perch from the waters of Saginaw Bay by large fisheries using gill nets. Now, in far distant waters, "Captain Mac" is, again, trying to make a living by taking small groups of men, women and children out to fish with hook and line. But his living and the enjoyment of the people he serves is threatened by the ruthless use of purse seines in the hands of the huge commercial fisheries, the same as the gill nets in Saginaw Bay.

In November 1965, alarmed citizens of the Tawas area appealed to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to take action against the ruthless removal of perch from Saginaw Bay and surrounding areas of Lake Huron by commercial gill net fishermen, who had converged from all over the Great Lakes on a "tip" that a large school of perch was present.

A hearing was called in the East Tawas Community Building with a committee of state senators and representatives. Present at the meeting was Dr. Howard Tanner, chief, fish division, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, who was to give "expert" advice to the legislative and the local citizens assembled.

Many of the local citizens came from families whose forefathers, along with themselves, had spent their lives in the practical study of fish life. Many of them made modest livings from the waters of Lake Huron and understood the penalty of excessive fishing and destruction of seed crops. All their experience, opinions, knowledge and judgment were ignored by Doctor Tanner, who presented his academic knowledge of biology-ichthyology and reached the most impractical conclusion that could be imagined. The point at issue was the enforcement of commercial fishing rules and regulations, which he avoided as much as he could.

Lest we forget, this bungled job of enforcement of controls over depletion of perch and the economic blow to the Tawas, we should recall such an incident and remain alert to its possible repetition.

There is hope in Michigan for the return of good perch fishing. Wayne H. Tody, chief, fish division, who replaced Doctor Tanner, has set forth the policy that "fish in the Great Lakes belong to all the people of this state. We own the fish in common. All of us have agreed that if one man wants to take some of these fish, he must first obtain a permit from the state."

This reasoning introduces a new law that has been passed, Act 336 of the Public Acts of 1968, which empowers the director of conservation to actually manage commercial fishing. The department now states that the previous system of control, more than other factors causing decrease of fish in the Great Lakes, allowed commercial fishermen to seek out schools of fish, use extremely effective gear and over-harvest the fish.

The present chief of the fish division appears to be in sympathy with the thoughts expressed by the citizens at East Tawas nearly five years ago. He has recognized that the people do not want the Great Lakes managed just for the temporary benefit of the commercial fishing industry, but to benefit all the people, along with a controlled commercial fishing industry, so that future generations of people may enjoy the production of fish from the Great Lakes. He indicated that he places high priority on the value of sport fishing and understands what it contributes to communities in the State of Michigan, like the Tawas area.

While all this is hopeful, there will be selfish pressure groups at work on officials of the department of natural resources, who must be kept aware of the fact that they have the support of a vast number of people interested in conservation of fish, so that all are benefited.

From what we observe in Michigan today, it is the writer's opinion that the efforts of the citizens of the Tawas area five years ago were not wasted. A word of caution, however, to remain alert to political moves that might destroy the slight gains made. The new act, Act 336, will only be as effective as its administration by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources makes it.

A NEW RESORT SEASON looms on the horizon of Tawas Bay and owners of various tourist facilities are getting ready for business in Iosco County. This picture was snapped at McMurray's Bait Shop on Tawas Bay and shows damage to a dock by moving ice in the bay. This is an annual maintenance problem for shoreline property owners.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Give Tips on Social Security

Question: My son is receiving social security now, but he will be 19 in June. He wants to start college this fall. What should be done to see that payments continue?

Answer: Your son can continue to receive benefits until he is 22 if he is a full-time student at an accredited educational institution. He should contact the nearest social security office immediately to file a statement regarding his intent to continue his education. If the school of his choice requires advance application for admission, then he must have applied for admission at the time he makes application with us. If the school does not require advance application for admission, we can continue benefit payments based on his statement of intent to resume schooling. In either case, we will contact the school later for confirmation of his enrollment.

Question: I had a social security card once but lost it. I will be looking for work this summer, how can I get a new card?

Answer: You should go to your post office or state employment office and get the same kind of an application form you used when you got your number. Fill it out carefully following the instructions on the card. Be sure all except your signature is printed in black or blue ink, or it is typed. You can get an addressed envelope at the social security office, where you got your application. If you still have the stub from your original card, you can send that in and get a duplicate card. Be sure to show your present address if it is not on the stub. You should always have a social security card when you look for work.

Your representative will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, on the second and fourth Thursday of each month from 9:45 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.

TODAYS Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

Read Ephesians 4:25 through 5:2.

God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself. (II Corinthians 5:19)

A most heart-warming word of the Christmas fact is God's eternal desire that we be reconciled to Him. To bridge the gulf separating us from Him, He took the first step by giving His own son.

Reconciliation is a beautiful word, with splendor in its meaning. It connotes mellowing of hearts that have long been bitter; the sweeping away of malice; the grand realization that you are or I am no longer some other person's enemy.

A man and wife were separating, and were contending for the custody of their only child—a lad of eight. The judge said to the boy: "Whom would you prefer to live with?" The lad said with tears, "Both of them!" His grief touched his mother and father. They saw that no so-called incompatibility should be allowed to ruin the life of the child they had brought into the world.

If we lift our hearts in a prayer of penitence, God will be swift to hear and to forgive, thus effecting our reconciliation with Him.

ETERNAL FATHER, transform our heart and purge us of hatred, malice, and ill will. Help us as nations to invest in peace rather than in war. In the name of the Prince of Peace.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Our efforts for the reconciling of the nations will help bring peace. (Herbert Wood, Ontario)

THE BIBLE SPEAKS TO YOU

The importance of guarding thought against the influence of evil suggestions will be stressed in the Christian Science lesson-sermon to be read on Sunday, May 3. Bible readings on the subject of "Everlasting Punishment" will include a warning by Jesus to "fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."

One of the religious tenets of Christian Science stated in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is: We acknowledge God's forgiveness of sin in the destruction of sin and the spiritual understanding that casts out evil as unreal. But the belief in sin is punished so long as the belief lasts.

Forest Chats

Huron-Manistee National Forest
Tawas Ranger District
By MYRON L. SMITH
District Ranger

Our last "Chats" talked about the preparation of mature jack pine trees for sale. We have other timber which needs attention. Most of it is red pine which had its beginning in the late 1920s and through the '30s in the form of plantings by the old and well-known Civilian Conservation Corps.

These plantations were put in by the forest service to provide growing material on the vast acres of cutover lands. The trees were planted six feet apart in rows six feet apart. Now, some 35-40 years after planting, they have reached what we call merchantable size. This is the trees that are big enough to be cut.

However, they have not reached maturity. The job to be done is to thin out the excess trees and leave the remaining trees to grow larger. Various methods were tried and found to be unsatisfactory for the thinning process. Based on research done in Lower Michigan, we find that removal of one row and leaving two rows provides the logger an access into the plantation to remove the marked and still leave adequate growing stock.

Usually, the beginning job is to mark the boundary of the plantation to be thinned. Then, the rows to be removed are followed and each tree to cut is marked with paint and counted. Every 50th tree is measured for diameter and merchantable or usable heights. The sample tree volume will be applied to the total count of trees. Since the trees in the plantation are relatively uniform, the sample of every 50th gives a good estimate of volume. A single man can mark and tally the trees on 20-30 acres per day depending on time of year and weather. If he is on snowshoes, he will get less done than if he is walking on bare ground. The average plantation thinning yields approximately six cords per acre.

The remaining office computations and sales preparation including advertising follow the same procedure we covered in the last article.

After the thinning job is complete, the plantation will be left to grow for 10-20 years depending upon how fast it is growing. We keep an eye on it since we have enemies to our forest in the form of insects, disease and fire. With the large investment in growing our crop to this point, we cannot afford to have it eliminated by some quiet insect or disease. There will probably be another thinning operation before the timber reaches maturity.

This first cut is for pulpwood, the second will have both pulpwood and sawtimber, and the final harvest will be mostly sawtimber.

LOOKING BACKWARD—

More than 600 boy scouts are expected at the Paul Bunyan Council's camporee to be held at Silver Valley.

A saxophone quartette composed of Peggy White, Marilyn Curry, Jean Schaaf and Nila Trinklein will be featured at the second annual concert of Tawas Area High School Band.

Tawas City Council authorized the blacktopping of two miles of streets on a city-land owner participation basis. The resurfacing plan is the first in this city since the 1940s.

25 Years Ago—

April 27, 1945—With a view of determining the advisability of establishing a harbor and harbor of refuge for commercial vessels and recreational craft in Tawas River, city officials and others interested are to submit information pertaining to the proposed project to the federal rivers and harbors committee.

Huron National Forest, with headquarters at East Tawas, and Manistee National Forest at Muskegon are to be combined within two months. The consolidation is being made in the interest of economy and to conserve wartime manpower.

Ten guests helped Donald Hester of East Tawas celebrate his 11th birthday.

High averages in the women's bowling league at Tawas City are held by Meta Westcott, Shirley Anschuetz and Bea Durant.

Clair Taylor, director of finance for the State Department of Education, was principal speaker at the Isosco County teachers institute held at Plainfield Township Hall.

One proposal before congress to ease the meat shortage is to abolish federal inspection in small local slaughterhouses. "I never tasted federally inspected meat until I was in my 20s," quips War Food Chief Marvin Jones.

35 Years Ago—

April 26, 1935—Alleged teaching of communism in some of our universities and the adoption of that cult by a large number of half-baked young men and women has been denounced by patriotic citizens. Student strikes and riots have been frequent and there have been many demands for the suppression of these "reds" and "pinks."

One of the first pieces of work produced by Gerald Mallon, owner of Tawas Bay Boat Works, is a large scow for the Lixey Fish Company of East Tawas.

Twenty-three players are listed on Hale's new baseball team. J. H. Johnson is manager and Earl Slosser is his assistant.

Application of nine young men from Isosco have been accepted for the Citizens Military Training Corps. Leaving for Camp Custer are Allen E. Bouillier, Roy A. Rouiller, Willard L. Wright, Robert Moran, Meryl R. Amo, Joseph Dubovsky, Joseph E. Reinke Jr., Harold A. Staudacher and Andrew C. Thibault.

Three Tawas A. Students in State Contest

Two of Tawas' three entries in the regional forensic competition April 14 qualified for the state contest.

Dawn Wainwright was ranked third out of 12 contestants in humorous reading and will represent Tawas Area School in the state final.

Van Miller was ranked third out of 11 contestants in boy's extemporaneous speaking and will go to Ann Arbor May 2.

Richard Haglund was ranked fourth out of 12 contestants and is the alternate speaker for this region in boy's oration. If one of the top three fail to participate in the state final, Haglund would be eligible to compete.

Since this was a festival and not a contest, as students are ranked according to established criteria instead of being in competition, the participants were given certificates for superior or excellent performances. Dawn received a superior award, the highest rating, while Rick and Van both received excellent ratings.

Competition was very stiff, according to Kathryn Bartkowski, speech teacher, as the great number of superior and excellent certificates indicated. This will mark the third year in succession that representatives from Tawas have gone to the state finals.

Van was selected by the debate coaches of the Northern B. Debate League as all-conference affirmative debater during the past season. As a reminder of this honor, he received a medal from the league.

W-P School Observed Earth Day April 22

Faculty and students of Whittemore-Prescott Area High School joined with the nation's schools in promoting a cleaner, healthier environment for present and future generations by observing Earth Day on April 22.

In observance of an environment day teaching, an all-school assembly featured game biologist, Thomas Havard of West Branch, Havard discussed the relationship between man and the environment and provided many examples of pollution problems, both local and state-wide.

Many students at Whittemore-Prescott contributed to the assembly with examples of environmental decay and remedial measures. Students have become personally involved in an action program to improve attitudes of other people.

Some students created strong essays, other developed posters depicting various pollutions and remedies. Several planned to clean roadsides later in the week and Prin. Walter Ferdon encouraged everyone who could find time to join this worthwhile effort.

The problems of environmental decay was defined during the program and an advertising campaign was planned to waken people to the real danger of over burdening natural resources of food, clean air and healthful surroundings. Cleanup campaigns were planned and coordinated through the principal's office.

School buses were made available to help move groups to various places for roadside collection or stream cleanup.

Combine ¼ cup walnuts with all remaining ingredients, mixing until thoroughly blended. Form into small balls using about two tablespoons of the mixture for each ball. Roll balls in remaining walnuts. Cover and chill an hour or longer before serving. Makes two dozen small bonbons. Can make day before and refrigerate.

* To toast walnuts, first drop the walnut kernels into rapidly boiling water for three minutes. Then drain well and spread in a shallow pan and toast at 350° for 15 to 20 minutes. Stir them frequently so they'll be golden all over. When they're cool, either chop or grind them to the right size. An easy way to do this is to put them in your blender. Just a quick flip of the switch is all that's needed.

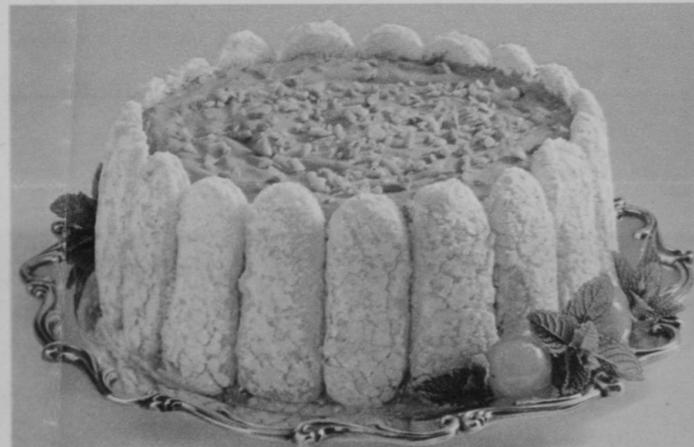

HAM ON RYE

Spread slices of boiled ham with pasteurized process cheese spread; roll up jelly-roll fashion and chill well. Slice and serve on rye thin crackers.

50 years in the kitchen, and here's what we came up with.

We came up with this Mighty Mousse because we thought you might like to show off a little.

It's a spectacular. It tastes a little like a rum-flavored cloud, with toasted Diamond Walnuts to give it crunch. Make it once, and you've made your reputation.

MIGHTY MOUSSE

1 cup Diamond Walnuts
2 tablespoons (2 envel.) unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
5 eggs, separated
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 teaspoons instant coffee
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk, scalded
¼ to ½ cup dark rum
18 lady fingers, split
¾ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

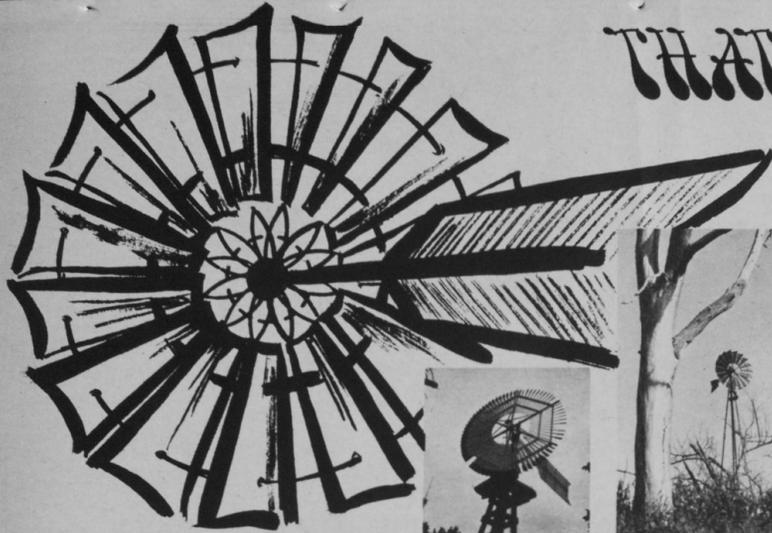

Drop walnuts into boiling water and boil 3 min.; drain. Spread kernels in shallow pan and bake at 350 deg., stirring several times, for 15-20 min., till crisp. Chop medium fine. Soften gelatin in water. Beat yolk (in top of double boiler), stir in brown sugar, coffee and salt. Gradually blend in milk. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, 5 min. or till thickened. Remove from heat, add gelatin and stir till dissolved. Blend in rum. Chill till thick but not set. Line sides and bottom of 9 inch spring form pan with lady fingers. Beat egg whites till fluffy, add vanilla, then beat in sugar a tablespoon at a time, to make a stiff meringue. Fold walnuts, custard and cream into meringue. Pour into pan, decorate with walnuts. Chill several hours or overnight. To serve, remove pan rim. 12 servings.

THAT WONDERFUL WIND MACHINE

By Bill Nelson

The wonderful wind machine. An engine that ran on air. An uncomplicated device that asked little and offered much.

The windmill brought running water to thousands and thousands of farmhouses across the nation. It brought up the water that allowed railroads to stretch across the country. It helped open the Midwest and the dusty plains of the West to settlement.

PREMIUM SALTINES: THE CRACKER WITH CRUNCH

©NABISCO 1970

Today, the noble engine — long a familiar sight — is fading from the rural scene. The machine that doomed the old oaken bucket and the town pump has itself been replaced by the electric pump.

And now it, too, is moving swiftly down the road to extinction.

A handful of windmill strongholds still remain — in the panhandle of Texas and Oklahoma, in Nebraska's sandhills and Florida's cattle country. Harnessing the wind is the only way livestock can be watered in these remote areas.

But on most farms in the United States, the remaining windmills stand motionless — rusting, neglected, forgotten. Unused since the 1930s, when rural America got electricity, the windmills have become battered skeletons. Many old-timers have shed their wind-wheels. On others, gawky television antennas reach skyward from decaying platforms.

Even the eyesores offer a poignant reminder of the late 1800's and early 1900's when life's pace was slower and farms and small towns dominated the American scene.

The windmill's heyday took in a 55 year span — from 1880 to 1935. During that time, it brought the industry $10 million a year. Assembly lines rolled overtime, cranking out 6½ million windmills which sold at $75 or more apiece. Twenty companies competed fiercely for the market. Farmers, plainsmen, cattle raisers, and sheepmen stood in line to buy windmills.

Now, output has skidded to less than 5,200 windmills annually. Only three firms still manufacture windmills and most of their sales come from export markets.

But what golden memories the sentimental relic has provided for millions of farm people. From the earth's dark depths, the mills brought up sparklingly pure, cool water. When lowing herds came trudging through the fields from pasture to barn, the faithful wind machine enabled them to quench their thirst.

The farmer and his sons paused there, too. Dipper in hand, they gulped a draft of fresh water caught as it splashed from pipe to drinking tank.

The father might linger there for a moment, leaning against the mill and gazing out over his farmland. It was a quiet time, a time when he could give silent thanks for the land's rich bounty, for the satisfaction of living and working in close harmony with Mother Nature.

The windmill's assortment of sounds offered a rustic symphony. (Well, actually, it was more of a reassuring cacophony.) Caught by the wind, the fanshaped tail shifted and the oblique vanes spun merrily — emitting squeaks and rattles. The soft pouring of water into the tank brought reassurance that a mechanical servant was doing its job conscientiously.

One blade, bent long ago when a gust of wind slammed it into the tower, stood out above the rest. Its thump, thump, thump cracked like a machine gun in a storm.

The tower, reached by an exciting climb up a narrow metal ladder, served as a handy spot for Dad to sight a stray calf. And it was a lofty stage for Junior for his feats of der-ring-do.

The mechanics of the windmill are quite simple. The wind revolves the wheel which turns the wind shaft. The torque, or twisting force created in the shaft, is then transmitted through a series of gears to the pump. The same principle powers a bicycle.

Farmers delighted in the small amount of maintenance required. Nick Arendt of Belgium, Wis., testifies: "A gallon of oil lubricates a windmill for a year. And it doesn't need any more attention. Mine has had only $14.50 in repairs over 60 years."

"That's a dandy machine."
Millions would agree. But, like the crank telephone, the steam locomotive, the dime novel, it is now but a memory.

WAFFLES AND PANCAKES

Which will it be? Either sounds very appetizing—
 Not just plain waffles and pancakes either —Variety is the spice of life and we offer you a variety of recipes to spice your day off to a great start.
 If you are fortunate enough to have a Blender,
 you can mix the batter in seconds.
 Leftover waffles (if you have any) may be wrapped in aluminum foil and frozen to be used within three months. When ready to use, just pop the frozen waffles into the toaster at low setting.
 If making a quantity of waffles, they can be made in advance and brought back to crisp perfection in the oven just before serving.
 To keep waffles warm, place between folds of warm towels in warm oven just before serving.
 (Pancakes can be kept hot in this way, too.)
 Or place waffles separately on rack in very low oven with door ajar. (Don't stack them!)
 Spread with margarine and pour on the waffle and pancake syrup and you have a treat in store.

GERMAN PANCAKES

4 eggs
 1/2 cup sifted flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup milk
 2 tablespoons melted
 margarine

Heat oven to 450°. Grease a 9 or 10 inch heavy frying pan. Put eggs into Blender container, cover and process at Stir (LO) until light yellow in color. Stop Blender. Add remaining ingredients, cover and process at Mix (LO) until smooth. Pour batter into frying pan and bake in a very hot oven (450°) for 20 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350° and bake 10 minutes. Slip onto heated plate. Serve immediately with melted margarine, lemon slices and a dusting of powdered sugar. Yield: 2 servings.

TOWER OF WAFFLES

3 eggs
 1 1/2 cups buttermilk or sour milk
 6 tablespoons melted
 margarine
 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
 2 tablespoons cornmeal
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 3/4 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Put all ingredients into Blender container, cover and process at Mix (LO) until smooth. Use rubber spatula, if necessary, to help guide ingredients to processing blades. Pour from container onto heated waffle iron. Cool. Stack waffles three or four high, filling with sweetened whipped cream or ice cream. Top with mound of cream. Cut in wedges to serve. Yield: 4-6 waffles.

Made with the high-price spread?

No; made with Blue Bonnet Margarine.

Make any recipe with Blue Bonnet, and you make it great. Because Blue Bonnet has the same great taste as the high-price spread. But Blue Bonnet fries better. Browns faster. And when you spread it on bread, Blue Bonnet's closer to the high-price spread than any margarine. It releases its flavor almost instantly—just like the high-price spread.

Everything's better with Blue Bonnet on it (or in it).

CREPES SUZETTE

Batter:
 1½ cups milk
 3 egg yolks
 1 tablespoon sugar
 3 tablespoons orange liqueur
 1½ cups sifted flour
 5 tablespoons soft margarine

Put all ingredients into the Blender container, cover and process at Blend (HI) until smooth. Cover and refrigerate about 2 hours. Lightly grease a small skillet, set over moderately high heat. Pour ¼ cup batter in skillet, then quickly tilt skillet so as to cover the bottom with batter. Bake until lightly browned on both sides. Remove and repeat with rest of batter. Teflon pan works well. Roll crepes and store covered in refrigerator.

Orange Sauce
 ¼ cup sugar
 Rind of 1 orange
 ½ cup orange juice
 ½ cup margarine
 ¼ cup Cointreau
 Orange slices for garnish
 2 tablespoons brandy

Remove the thin outer rind of the orange with a vegetable peeler. Put the sugar and the rind into the Blender container, cover and process at Grind (HI) until peel is finely ground. Combine with orange juice, margarine and Cointreau in a small sauce pan. Heat until margarine melts. Refrigerate.

To Serve: Reheat sauce until bubbly. Place crepes in sauce, turning to coat well. When heated through, place crepes on heat proof platter and spoon sauce over crepes. Garnish with orange slices. Heat brandy and pour over crepes. Flame. Serve when flame dies. Yield: 4-5 servings.

GRAHAM CRACKER WAFFLES

2¼ sugar honey graham crackers, finely rolled or prepared in Blender (2 cups crumbs)
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 2 tablespoons sugar
 2 eggs, separated
 ¾ cup milk
 ¼ cup margarine, melted

Combine sugar honey graham cracker crumbs, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg yolks; add milk and melted shortening. Pour into crumb mixture and stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Beat egg whites stiff, but not dry; fold into mixture. Bake in moderately hot waffle iron 4-5 minutes. Serve with margarine and waffle and pancake syrup.

PORK SAUSAGE - APPLE PANCAKE BAKE

¾ cup milk
 1 egg, well beaten
 2 tablespoons margarine
 1 cup sifted flour
 2 tablespoons sugar
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
 ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
 ½ cup finely chopped apple
 12 pork sausage links (partially cooked)

Blend milk and egg together. Stir in melted margarine. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon. Add dry ingredients and apple to liquid mixture. Beat just enough to mix ingredients. Pour into greased baking dish (11x7x1½ inches). Arrange sausages on the batter. Bake for 15 minutes at 450°. Cut into squares and serve hot with margarine and waffle and pancake syrup. 6 servings.

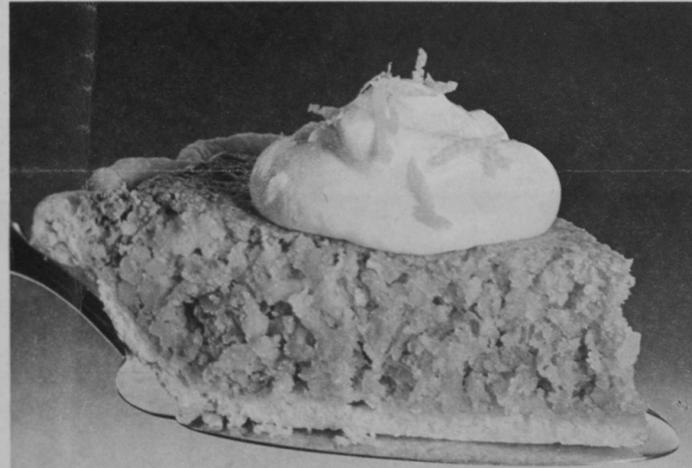

CORNY PANCAKES

1 egg
 1¼ cups milk
 1 (1-pound package) corn muffin mix
 3 tablespoons orange marmalade
 2 tablespoons margarine
 Waffle and pancake syrup

Beat together egg and milk; thoroughly blend with corn muffin mix. Heat marmalade and margarine and stir into batter. Cook on greased griddle, browning on both sides. Serve with waffle and pancake syrup. Makes about 24 (3-inch) pancakes.

TURN BACK THE CLOCK

AMISH SCHOOL PICNIC IS REAL "HORSEY AFFAIR"

by Grover Brinkman

CHESTERVILLE, ILL. — Did you ever attend an Amish rural school picnic? If one bit of nostalgia still remains in your veins, this will "tune you in."

Of all the horsey affairs, this is the "horsiest!"

In fact, the entire means of transportation is via horse and rig. If for a moment you presume that Old Dobbin is obsolete, travel to mid-central Illinois, in the neighborhood of Chester, Arthur, or Cadwell, and you'll soon change your thinking. This is Amish country, and the Amish still travel exclusively via horse and buggy. At this rural school picnic, there were nearly a hundred horse-drawn rigs tied to a long hitching rail adjacent to a cemetery lane.

In this age of souped-up automobiles and jet planes, that's something to see! It's even good for the nerves.

These horses were sleek and fat, and they didn't seem a bit restless being tied to a hitch-rail on a cemetery lane while their masters and their families partook of "vittles" on the school lawn. And what vittles! Tables piled high with fried chicken, homemade bread, home-churned butter, fresh fruit pies, and all of the trimmings.

The scene was the Otto School, a small rural district attended by Amish children in the seventh and eighth grades.

Driving up to this rural celebration was something like turning back the clock for forty or fifty years. No doubt it was the preponderance of horse-drawn rigs that gave the illusion, helped by the simple clothing of the participants, the whiskered men, trousers held up by suspenders, women in home-made blue frocks, all of them with tiny bonnets on their heads. Merry, happy, carefree people, honest and friendly. But firm, too!

"No pictures, please!"

It was the elder talking. He was quite patient. The camera was not acceptable in their religious beliefs, he explained.

Persuasion! It didn't help. The firmness was there, rooted deep in his face. It was in the faces of the people gathered around. When they saw the camera, they simply turned their backs.

So a compromise was made. Take a photo of the horses and rigs? The elder thought it over. "If you'll walk down the lane, and shoot the rigs so the cemetery isn't part of the photo, it will be all right," he said finally.

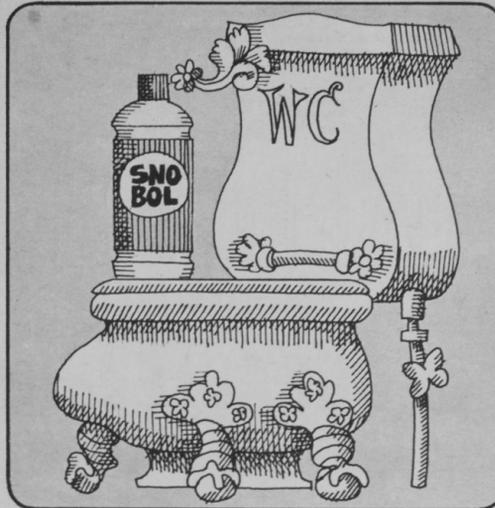

So a picture of horses is better than no picture at all. Of course the photos could have been gotten in various ways, from a passing car, with a telephoto lens, by shooting blind, without their knowledge.

But the Amish have been friends to this reporter for a long time. Some day there will be another visit. The welcome mat has always been out.

There was a bit of hesitation in the elder's voice as well as he talked about publicity, pinpointing the school. He spoke of all the trouble in the big-city institutions, the mayhem on the streets. They suggested that publicity might bring trouble to their own midst. They have none of it, so far.

They live their lives as their forefathers did, simply, honestly, bravely. There is no relief problem, no vandalism, no trouble at all within the group of more than 600 Amish farmers who live here, all prosperous, on large, well-tenanted farms that boast some of the best organically-fertilized land in the state. They use the horse as a work animal. They frown on modern conveniences. But they live good. Their faces radiate tranquil, happy lives. Perhaps their existence has locked out the tension of the outside world.

Anyway, take a look at a photo of a long line of horse-drawn rigs!

THESE MULES HAVE RARE TALENT FOR DIVING

By Wally E. Schulz

Many folks have not seen or heard of a mule that will dive from a diving board into a tank of water, but Jonny Rivers of Camdenton, Missouri owns high diving mules. They are the only high diving mules in the world.

He has had to search far and wide to find these mules that have a love for water and diving, but he's been successful. He now tours the country from coast to coast and entertains with the mules that love to dive for the audiences.

"The mules climb a ramp that leads to the diving board 30 feet off the ground," said Rivers. "On a hot day they can hardly wait to get to the top and dive into that tank of cool water. They also dive for audiences at night for we use spot lights on the high diving mules."

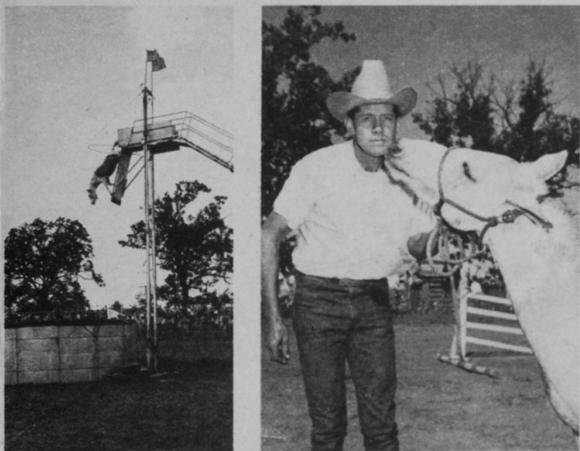

Rivers is constantly searching and auditioning other mules he locates to see if they have diving talents. It's a rarity to find they possess a love for water and no fear of heights.

Rivers got his start in life as a rodeo producer and gave that up to break and train horses. Even today he still has a trick horse which he performs.

"I guess my mule-diving act began in the state of Florida where I was training my horses," said Rivers. "While I was swimming my horses in the ocean one day, I let my pet mule, Sioux City Sue take a swim. It was a hot day and she really took to the cool water. I decided to let her try her talents on the diving board. She proved to be a natural diver so she was the beginning of the high diving mule act."

The mules trot quickly up the ramp to the top of the 30-foot diving platform. There they pause and then go into their diving form. Each of the mules possess a different posture or form from the other.

"The mules are capable of diving higher than 30 feet," said Rivers. "But we have to have a deeper pool when they dive from higher heights. The pool into which they dive is about six feet deep."

This tank has to be filled with about 15,000 gallons of water before it is used.

"We get diving mules by breeding Shetland ponies to a Scilian Jack," said Rivers. "My first mule, Sioux City Sue is about 10 years of age and weighs 320 pounds and is 41 inches tall. You don't find outstanding divers like her very often. She's one in a million."

As the mule dives through the air and hits the water in the tank below, Rivers rushes to the edge to greet the high diving mule. As the mule climbs up the ramp and out of the pool, Rivers rushes over to her and gives her a kiss.

"Then I present the mule with a special treat," said Rivers. "They know they're going to get something for their dive. It may be a bunch of carrots, a piece of candy, a lump of sugar or anything they love to eat. It sort of helps to keep them interested in diving."

"During the winter months I turn them loose and don't rehearse them in the act until a few weeks before I'm to go on the road again," said Rivers. "At that time they need only a few practice dives and they're ready to take to the road. They seem to have a love for diving into the water tank. So far, I've found only about five mules that love to dive and I've tried hundreds of them."

The mules in the diving troupe range in age from six to 10 years and from 285 pounds in weight to 320 pounds.

The females outnumber the one male diving mule in the troupe, but they get along swell.

A hit with the audience is the chimp which rides upon the back of one of the high diving mules and plunges into the diving tank mounted on his back.

"The chimp also dives through fire while riding upon the back of the diving mule," said Rivers. "This is always a crowd pleaser, too. Her comical gestures and antics always bring many laughs from the audience."

It's an unusual animal act that is winning the hearts of the folks wherever they perform.

GRASSROOTS GLEANINGS

By Bill Stebbins

Sour grapes is a crop that can be harvested at any time of year, comments the Belvidere (Ill.) Daily Republican.

The Houston (Mo.) Herald speculates that there are few things more amusing than the expression on the face of a person who holds one end of a dog leash and pretends not to know what is going on at the other end.

"Maybe a woman is willing to forgive and forget, but she never forgets what she forgave," says the Lancaster Farming of Lititz, Pa.

The Morris (Minn.) Tribune tells this one: There was this drunk at a party. He staggered over to his host and said, "Say, do lemons have legs?"

"Of course not," replied the host. "Why?"

"Well," mumbled the lush, "in that case, I just squeezed your canary into my drink."

"School days can be the happiest days of your life . . . if your child is old enough to attend," says The Redfield (S.D.) Press.

"To err is human; to really foul things up requires a computer," comments the Holt County Independent of O'Neill, Neb.

The News of Clay City, Ind., observes: "Thirty-five is a good age for a woman, particularly if she is fifty-five."

The Traer (Iowa) Star-Clipper tells about the woman who said to the policeman who was arresting her: "But officer, I couldn't slow down while you were going so fast right in back of me."

These days, a kid is more likely to have an Old Fashioned instead of an old fashioned grandma, says the Belvidere (Ill.) Daily Republican.

You can never tell how a girl is going to turn out until her parents turn in, comments the Arenac County Independent of Standish, Mich.

The Anthony Wayne Standard of Waterville, Ohio, defines a liberal as a man who is too broadminded to take his own side in a quarrel.

This new Remington 20 gauge is a lot more than a lightweight.

It's a Model 1100 — now in a lightweight 20-gauge field model.

Anybody who has ever shot an 1100 knows that this gas-operated automatic is more dependable than anybody ever thought an automatic could be. The action functions without a hitch—shot after shot—smooth and sure.

The Model 1100 is the automatic that is so durable, trap and skeet shooters have poured thousands of rounds through their guns with never a trip to the gunsmith. For sheer, rugged durability there is hardly a shotgun—automatic, pump or double—that can approach it.

Our new Model 1100 20 gauge lightweight is the answer to the oft-asked question, "What type of field gun do you recommend for the new shooter?" Here it is, and don't forget it's a great all-around ladies' gun, too.

But Remington didn't just put a 20 gauge tube on a 12 gauge frame. We scaled everything down to give you a perfectly proportioned, properly balanced, lightweight gun for upland shooting. We even stayed with a steel receiver—no soft aluminum alloy in our guns!

Sure, it's lightweight. But every ounce of that weight is top quality and in the right place. You know that the minute you snap it to your shoulder and swing at imaginary quail, dove or pheasant. You know that here's a gun that's going to be pure pleasure every time you take it in the field.

The price is a pleasure, too. With plain barrel, $179.95*; with ribbed barrel, $204.95*. See the 20 gauge lightweight Model 1100 at your Remington dealer's and send for our full-color 48-page illustrated catalogue. It's free.
