

Board Continues Park Controversy

Controversy between the Iosco Board of Commissioners and Iosco Park Commission was continued last week as the county commission concluded its October session Thursday morning.

The latest difference between the two groups came Wednesday morning when the county commission refused to pay a bill of $1,000 for a used tractor purchased by park commission.

The county commission maintained that such a purchase should have been put out for bids and ordered that the park commission advertise for bids on a tractor, to be opened at the November session of the county commission.

Earlier last week, the county commission voiced its objection over construction of a building at Old Orchard Park as housing for the county park manager. Earlier this year, the county commission objected to a $9,000 salary negotiated by the park commission for a new park manager. Inasmuch as the salary was higher than that paid to any other county employee, the salary was reduced to $8,000. However, a provision which allowed for furnishing housing to the park manager was not changed. The entire question is to be reviewed by the county commission at the end of the park manager's probationary period, which would be in November.

New Salary Schedule OK'd by TC Council

On recommendation of its salary committee, Tawas City Council Monday night adopted a new wage and salary schedule for city employees. The schedule is to be effective November 1.

Martin Wellna, First Ward alderman and committee chairman, said that his group had studied schedules from the City of East Tawas, Iosco County and Michigan Municipal League before making recommendations.

Wages of hourly workers included a 10-cent hourly increase for laborers, from $2.50 to $2.60; a 15-cent per hour increase for truck drivers, from $2.65 to $2.80, while equipment operators received an hourly increase of 15 cents, from $2.85 to $3.00.

Salaried personnel are to receive the following increases: Foreman, $7,300, an increase of $300; office secretary, $3,800, an increase of $400; librarian, $2,200, an increase of $150; chief of police, $7,800, an increase of $600; superintendent of public works, $9,000, an increase of $500.

The committee made provision to hire a full time patrolman at a starting salary of $6,000.

In other business involving the park commission, the county commission is now considering ways to raise $4,000 as the remainder of its share of funds to match a $144,000 grant from state recreational bonds for development of AuSable Park. The county had appropriated $12,000 as its share of the matching fund last year.

Marvin Davenport, county parks chairman, told the board that it is possible that an additional $160,000 in federal funds would be available for this project.

The county commission, however, is now concerned over the amount of local funds available to operate parks.

Ground was broken Wednesday for a new service building at the new Oscoda Beach Park operated by the county. It was reported that nonresidents are to be charged for using facilities there. However, the county commission has noted that the major source of revenue for parks was from Old Orchard Park and that much of this revenue has already been committed.

OK Application to DPW

Study Finances for New Oscoda Sewer

Representatives of an engineering firm appeared before the Iosco Board of Commissioners last week and asked permission to appear before the county department of public works to seek full faith and credit of the county in a bonding proposal to construct a new sewer system to serve Oscoda.

The county is being asked to provide full faith and credit for a $1,359,000 bonding proposition. Total cost of the project would include an additional $607,000, for which application has been made to the federal government.

In other business, Robert Foster of the judiciary committee reported that his committee recommended that no action be taken at this time on a proposed county-wide police force which had been under study.

The commission adopted a resolution assuming responsibility for uncollectable ambulance service calls, when the call is originated by a police agency, including service provided through Tawas Hospital and two private ambulance operators at Oscoda.

Such uncollectable ambulance bills are to be made subject to legal collection procedures by the county through the prosecuting attorney's office.

The service to be included in the county obligation would only be those in which highway accidents or other instances where ambulance service is requested by a law enforcement agency or required by law.

The commission waived a $5,000 loan to the City of East Tawas for establishment of the ambulance service at Tawas Hospital. The above loan is to be considered as part of the county's participation.

The commission named Charles Smith of Oscoda and Mrs. Doris Thayer of Hale as the county's representatives on the Northeast Michigan Mental Health Board. Smith resigned from the Northeast Michigan Child Guidance Clinic and was replaced by Mrs. John DeGroot of Whittemore.

No objections were heard at the budget hearing held Thursday. Total budget adopted for county operation in 1971 was $976,602, with $487,090 to be raised by taxes. Fees to be received through county offices were estimated at $189,512.

The commission transferred $1,000 from the park fund into parks and recreation account for administration costs.

No action was taken on a proposal by Marvin Davenport to establish the appointive office of county manager.

Authorization was given to the county planning commission to proceed with its study of a county-wide sanitary waste disposal program. The commission approved use of $2,600 in planning commission funds to conduct the study.

The commission announced that one vacancy exists on the county road commission, which is to be filled at the November session.

Clarence Curry, present member, has indicated that he is interested in being reappointed. Other candidates include Basil Goupil of Whittemore and Charles Nash of East Tawas.

Any other possible candidates for this vacancy should contact the county clerk or any member of the Iosco Board of Commissioners.

Want State to Control Commercial Operators

City Supports DNR Zone Management

Iosco Commission Seeks Relief for State Fishermen

On recommendation of its three Oscoda area members, Iosco Board of Commissioners adopted a resolution at its October session urging the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Commission to revise gear and zone restrictions to allow a "productive commercial fishing operation."

Appearing before the board and urging adoption of such a resolution were Rhea Matthews and Mrs. Duane Seaman of Oscoda.

The resolution adopted by the county commission submitted by Commissioners Robert K. Foster, J. Berkeley Smith and Jack W. Allen, was as follows:

"Whereas, limited entry of commercial licenses and zone management on Michigan waters of the Great Lakes are placing unfair burdens on Michigan commercial fishermen; and

"Whereas, the 'limited entry' concept was presented to the commercial fishermen on the premise that it would improve conditions within the industry; and

"Whereas, the zone management plan provides for specific areas in which they can fish, these areas are very limited and the productive fishing grounds are excluded entirely; and

"Whereas, in addition to limited areas in which fishing is permitted, the amount of gear is greatly restricted; and

"Whereas, if fishery statistics as collected this year (1970) are to play an important part in determining when and where Michigan commercial fishermen can operate in 1971, the fishermen will suffer irreparable hardship and financial disaster; and

"Whereas, as reasonable, fair minded citizens, we appreciate the growing importance of recreational fishing and the inevitable necessity of accommodation of commercial enterprises to the expanding sport fishery, we hold that commercial fishermen are members of a legitimate industry, take from the state supply, make available to the average citizen, fish retailer, restaurants and wholesale houses, good lake fish, these outlets are dependent upon efforts of the commercial fishermen and the commercial fishing industry for their supply; and

"Whereas, we appeal to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Commission to review the entire zone management program and development of a more realistic approach to the entire problem of fisheries management in Michigan Great Lakes Waters; and

"Whereas, the commercial fishermen agree that the catch per unit of effort is a good indicator of the status of fish stocks, but only if the industry is permitted to operate in the conventional manner;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that this board of commissioners urge the Department of Natural Resources and the fisheries division of the DNR to review the over-all fish management concept in the Great Lakes in view of the sizeable reduction in number of commercial fishermen and resultant reduction in potential pressure placed on the Great Lakes fishing by these fewer fishermen and that gear and zone restrictions be revised to allow a productive commercial fishing operation."

Copies of the resolution were mailed to State Rep. George A. Prescott, State Sen. Robert Richardson and boards of commissioners of the other 82 counties of Michigan.

Miss Clara Bolen Candidate for State Award

Miss Clara Bolen of East Tawas, elementary principal of Tawas Area School, has been nominated as "Michigan's Most Outstanding Elementary Principal" for the 1969-70 school year.

"Because of her outstanding educational and civic responsibility, Miss Bolen's name was placed in nomination," states the Michigan Association of Elementary School Principals.

The final selection will be announced at the annual memorial luncheon to be held at Grand Rapids on Thursday, October 29. This is the first time this honor has been awarded.

DNR Biologist Warns of Low Perch Hatch

Concern was expressed last week by a Michigan Department of Natural Resources fish biologist over an apparent low hatch of perch in Saginaw and Tawas Bays last spring.

Robert Haas, region III fish biologist, said that a DNR trawler boat had conducted a three-day survey last week on Tawas Bay and found no small perch from the 1970 hatch.

The same was true for all of Saginaw Bay and Lake Huron. The boat netted quantities of alewife and smelt in Tawas Bay, but only one adult perch was taken by the trawler.

Haas, who said the specially equipped trawler boat was brought here from Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie, believed that smelt may have eaten eggs of the perch.

Last spring, DNR biologists from the Great Lakes Fishery Station at Alpena, warned that unless there was a good hatch this year, the perch population of Saginaw Bay and Lake Huron probably faced extinction.

Jerry V. Manz, Great Lakes Fishery supervisor, said at the time that a high market demand in 1970 would encourage a fishing intensity that could completely negate effects of restrictions imposed by the state under a new zone management plan adopted in 1969.

Except for a small "run" of abnormally large yellow perch taken by hook and line anglers on Tawas Bay, the major perch population is located near AuGres and into the lower end of Saginaw Bay. The perch taken at Perchville last winter and later in the spring were remnants of a year class in the early 1960s, or about eight years old.

Both the sport and commercial fisheries for yellow perch outside of Saginaw Bay are depressed and, for this reason, commercial fishing for yellow perch in the main has been terminated. Nearly all of Lake Huron has been designated as a rehabilitation zone.

The present rule allows commercial fishing in Saginaw Bay south and west of a line from Point Lookout to Sand Point and west of a line from Sand Point to Fish Point.

Last spring, Manz warned that biological data indicated that the perch stock is already overfished commercially and feared that another year of intense fishing will destroy the stock.

The state's zone management plan is being challenged by commercial operators and great pressure is being brought to bear on the department of natural resources commission to greatly reduce the effectiveness of these regulations.

Following the warning from Manz, the Tawas City Council, Iosco Sportsmen's Club and Tawas City Businessmen's Association urged the department of natural resources commission to adopt recommendations of DNR biologists at Alpena to eliminate gill net fishing for perch on Saginaw Bay.

While the commission rejected a plan by the state's commercial fishermen that would have wiped out the current zone management program, the commission made a number of concessions to commercial operators.

City Council Adopts Fish Resolution

Tawas City Council went on record Monday night as endorsing the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' zone management plan to control commercial fishing in the Great Lakes and, at the same time, voiced its disapproval of a resolution passed last week by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners.

The council was one of three local organizations which went on record last spring as endorsing recommendations of DNR biologists, who had urged strict control of gill net fishing on Saginaw Bay.

The council's resolution is to be sent to members of the department of natural resources commission, DNR officials and area legislators.

In addition, Howard Hatton, Third Ward alderman, presented a personal letter to the council expressing his concern. Hatton's letter stated:

"Having just learned of a resolution passed by the Iosco County Board of Commissioners at its October session, I wish to express my deep concern over such an ill advised, hasty action—railroaded through by three commissioners from the Oscoda area.

"This resolution opposes the DNR plan of zone management of commercial fishermen in the Great Lakes which includes our area. This management concept has been in effect this year and already has proven its worth.

"This zone management plan has kept the commercial nets from the shores of Tawas and Saginaw Bay and this action by the county board of commissioners, in my opinion, does not represent the thinking of the sport fishermen of Iosco County.

"I do hope the people of this area will tell their commissioner of their displeasure over their action on this resolution.

"I might add that if zone management were in effect a few years back, catching six perch in a half day would not be something to brag about, as it is today," concluded Hatton.

Gary Schnicke, district fish biologist for the DNR, who was in attendance at the meeting to answer questions concerning coho problems, termed the county commission's resolution as ill founded and believed it displayed a lack of knowledge of the DNR's program by the county commission.

Schnicke said that in order to bring back perch it would be necessary to restrict the commercial catch in Saginaw Bay. "We can't even do that under the present zone management plan and further restrictions are being proposed to limit the catch of perch," he stated.

The DNR fish biologist emphasized that Saginaw Bay's spawning grounds actually controlled the perch population of Lake Huron and that further controls were necessary in order to insure that perch make a comeback.

In other matters concerning fishing on the Tawas River, Schnicke said that one of the most pressing problems before the department of natural resources commission today is to find a way to catch the unwanted migration of coho into rivers where private property is involved.

Schnicke and that he was aware of the problems caused by fishermen who trespass on private property along the Tawas River during the current coho run.

He said that the DNR did not anticipate any change in its rule allowing the snagging of coho as it was one way to harvest fish from the stream and get them into the hands of the people. He pointed out that the anglers appeared to be very efficient as they had removed most of the first run in

Businessmen Vote Aid on Dock Plan

Tawas City Businessmen's Association voted Thursday to assist the city in purchasing steel sheet piling for the city park dock.

The wooden portion of the dock has been deteriorating for the past several years and the city has located steel sheet piling to complete a project started years ago.

The group voted to borrow funds for its share of the project from Peoples State Bank and then conduct a campaign among its members and interested citizens to raise the amount.

Several members started the dock fund donation following the luncheon. Carl Babcock Jr., secretary, said that $50 was received and all interested persons could forward contributions to himself as secretary or to a committee which would be named later by L. G. (Ladd) McKay, president.

A discussion was held at the meeting concerning a strip of land along the Tawas River which might be cleared and utilized as a public fishing site. This had been discussed by the city council and the association offered its support.

The Upper Room

Read Matthew 9:1-9
 Jesus . . . said to him, "Follow me." (Matthew 9:9, RSV)
 There is a beautiful song which says,
 "I walked today where Jesus walked, and felt His presence there."
 Where are the paths today where Jesus walks, and where is His presence felt? They are not confined to the same streets and paths that led to Calvary, but they are just as real.

Up and down hospital corridors the "great Physician" moves silently, lingering with healing and comfort near beds of pain and sickness.

On city streets He walks where there are crowds of lonely frightened, frustrated persons. To these, He offers His love and companionship.

In homes where prayers are said and where parents express their dependence on God, the presence of Jesus is felt.

The steps of Jesus today are in the midst of everyday life. As we minister to the sick and needy, comfort the frightened, and show God's love, we are walking with Him, and we, too, feel His presence.

PRAYER

Dear God, direct my steps in the paths of love and service. As I minister to those in need and try to walk where Christ walks, may I feel Your abiding presence. Amen.

SPEAKS THE BIBLE TO YOU

How an understanding of man's true being helps to support moral and other standards will be explained Sunday at Christian Science church services.

The subject of the lesson- sermon is "Probation After Death." One of the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states:

"Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals, will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character."

The Golden Text is from Hebrews: "Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward. For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise."

Slate Show Cause Hearing on Gypsum Company Dam

A show cause hearing has been scheduled for Wednesday, October 28, 2:00 p. m., by Circuit Judge Alan C. Miller on petition of Michigan Department of Natural Resources to determine why National Gypsum Company should not be ordered to remove a dam in the East Branch of the AuGres River.

Attorneys for the DNR stated in their petition to the court that the gypsum company had, without prior knowledge, approval or permission, wrongfully and unlawfully placed a large pile of rocks across the river for the purpose of creating a small backwater effect for water diversion purposes.

The dam has been located in the river southeast of National City for a number of years. The DNR claims that it is an artificial barrier to the upstream migration of fish. Department officials have notified the company of this, but to date has refused to comply.

The state claims that the gypsum company is unlawfully trespassing on the bottomland of a navigable stream and unless it is restrained from rebuilding, migratory fish will be prevented from going beyond the dam except in small numbers.

The state seeks a mandatory injunction requiring the defendant to remove the dam to permit the free flow of water.

Oscoda Owls' Third Quarter Fireworks Defeats TA Braves

SCORING Tawas Area Braves only touchdown of the night against the Oscoda Owls is Mike Sventko, who gathered in this pass in the second quarter.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Oscoda Owls upstaged Friday night's brilliant halftime show by lighting a fuse to its own brand of fireworks in the third quarter to stampee the Tawas Area Braves, 36-8.

Tawas fans, breathless from the play of an inspired bunch of Braves in the first half, then treated to what has to be one of the finest halftime performances seen anywhere—featuring the twinkling feet of Tawas Area School Marching Band and a beautiful fireworks display—were absolutely stunned by the quick turn of events in the third quarter.

Carl Ziegler of Oscoda sparked for the Owls on the opening play of the game when he ran the kick-off back 65 yards to a touchdown. Rick Quellman booted the conversion and the visitors held a 7-0 lead.

Sensing an upset of the undefeated and NBC-leading Owls, the Braves immediately took charge of the first half offensive show. Tawas controlled the ball most of the first and second quarters, driving inside the Oscoda 15 on one series, only to be set back by a costly offsides penalty.

Before the half ended, the Braves took over the lead when End Mike Sventko gathered in a 22-yard pass from Quarterback Tom Kasischke. The quarterback then ran the two-point conversion.

Tawas' defense was able to contain Oscoda's ground attack for most of the night, but superior kickoffs and punting by the Owls proved to be a key factor in the game as Tawas continually had to fight out of its own territory. In the end, Dave Moe, principal ground gainer for the Braves, was a tired boy after hitting the Oscoda line so many times.

Because of rain which washed out most of his practice sessions during the week, Gene Salamony, Tawas band director, said he did not know what to expect during the band's halftime show. Stadium lights were turned off and spectators watched bandsmen dance to a "Can-Can" routine, along with other numbers. An aerial fireworks display proved to be an absolute surprise as the program ended.

Oscoda then furnished its own aerial fireworks display. The Tawas defense stopped the Owls ground game cold shortly after the start of the third quarter, but Dave Foley connected with Duane Dungee on a 39-yard scoring pass. The Owls ran the conversion for an eight-point play.

The Owls, taking over the momentum held by Tawas at the end of the first half, then turned Tawas' offense into a shambles by intercepting three of Kasischke's passes. Two of the steals were turned into touchdowns. Dungee scored on an off-tackle play from the Tawas five and Chuck Bacon scored on a one-yard plunge.

The final score came in the fourth quarter when Larry Clark scored on a two-yard plunge. Quellman made it four out of four for the night for placement. Oscoda rushed for 163 yards, hit three of six passes for 56 yards and picked up a total of seven first downs. Tawas had 113 yards on the ground, three passes completed out of eight for 37 yards and a total of eight first downs.

The Braves will attempt to pick up the pieces this Friday night when Tawas hosts Pinconning, which is in a three-way tie for second place in the NBC behind Oscoda. This will be Tawas Area School's homecoming week-end and the halftime show will feature crowning of the annual homecoming queen.

It was a bad football week for Tawas football fans. Tawas Area Freshmen were shut out by Oscoda Freshmen, 36-0, while the Junior Braves lost to the Little Owls, 36-24. Gary Scales and Steve Janego scored one touchdown each for the Junior Braves while Steve Sventko scored two touchdowns.

Hale Eagles' 14-12 Loss to Atlanta Was First League Defeat in 2 Years

The walls came tumbling down, or so it seemed to Hale fans Saturday, as the Atlanta Huskies handed Hale Area Eagles their first league loss in two years, 14-12.

Before a good homecoming crowd, the Eagles and Huskies battled to a scoreless first half, neither team being able to keep any kind of a drive going as fumbles and interceptions hurt both teams.

The action picked up in the second half and after some big gains by Bruce Wilson, Dave Brumfield and Lynn Bernard, who was filling in at fullback for the injured Tom Humphrey, Quarterback Greg Weishuhn passed to Jeff Kocher and the Eagles were on the scoreboard. Wilson tried to sweep end for the extra point and was stopped short of the goal line, but the Eagles were ahead for the only time, 6-0.

Atlanta bounced right back on the next series of plays as Huskie Quarterback Greg Klein started finding his receivers and hit End Todd Gowel in the end zone. The extra point, which later proved to be the margin of victory, found Klein passing to Charlie McKenzie and Atlanta held the lead, 8-6, at the end of the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Atlanta's new quarterback, Don Smith, passed to End Bill McClure for a touchdown. The try for extra point was no good and Atlanta upped its lead 14-6. The Eagles scored their final touchdown of the day as Weishuhn sneaked the final yard. The all important extra point try was no good as Weishuhn's pass to Jeff Kocher was batted down by Atlanta's secondary.

A last chance for victory by the Eagles was stopped when a Weishuhn pass was intercepted and the Huskies ran out the clock to applause of a happy homecoming crowd.

Bernard led in rushing for Hale with 63 yards in 18 carries. Weishuhn passed for 52 yards, completing five out of 13 attempts. Hale rushed for a total of 176 yards, adding 92 through the air.

This week finds the Eagles hosting league-leading Arenac Eastern, a team rated sixth among state class D schools. Kickoff is scheduled for 8:00 p. m. Friday night.

Hunters don't mean to start forest fires. But they do. It's usually when someone spots a buck and everyone grabs his gun. And everyone forgets the campfire. Which is pretty dumb. Leaving a fire to smolder alone is just inviting an inferno. Man, douse it first. Only you can prevent forest fires.

THE ALPHABET OF SWEATERS starts with 'A' middy. A schoolgirl wants to look snazzy when she goes to the head of the class. She'll sail through her lessons wearing this nautical sweater.

Ship-Shape
The pullover is knitted in ship-shape order of worsted yarn. It is almost easy enough for a girl to make herself. The body is done in the garter stitch. The stockinette stitch collar and cuffs are trimmed with a single crochet border. Two contrasting colors are used.
The middy sweater is sized for girls 4 to 10. It goes with all of the clothes she loves best... blue jeans, plaid skirts and corduroys. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PK 4119.

THE BEST BAGS are being shouldered this season. They swing freely as you stride along in your midi skirt and boots. Tough chic is gone and the new bags are as softly shaped as everything else in fashion.

Hexture and Trim
The new baggerie abounds with texture. This one is crocheted for a nice nubbinness. The work moves along quickly using two strands of worsted yarn. There is space aplenty for stashing swag. The bag measures about 8" high, 10" deep and 2" wide.
This shoulder bag is trimmed with a flap and handle made of imitation leather. For a really current look, mock reptile would be fun. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PC 4510.

Properly Supervised Child Care Important to Mothers

When is a babysitter more than a babysitter? When the "babysitting" becomes the more sophisticated "child care," and when it enables a mother receiving public assistance to become an independent wage-earner.

Or when the "babysitting" becomes a large commercial operation, a chain of franchised child care centers.

Knowing that her children will be properly supervised while she works is a vital factor affecting any mother's decision to take a job. The problems are magnified without money to pay for adequate care.

As a Department of Social Services caseworker explains: "It's hard enough to go to work when the child is standing there with his arms outstretched to you. If you have to worry about whether he's being cared for adequately, it's a big burden."

Without money to pay for child care on time, the mother may also worry that the person caring for her child may retaliate with hostility to the child.

Because adequate child care is so necessary to both the working mother and her youngster, child care in Michigan has become a big business. From July 1969 to July 1970, the number of day child care centers and nursery schools in Michigan grew from 651 with a capacity for 19,273 children, to 759 with a capacity for 23,045 children. During the same time, the number of private homes licensed to provide child care grew from 2,377 with a capacity of 7,390 children to 2,780 homes capable of caring for 8,676 children.

The demand continues as more and more women seek jobs. Some are welfare recipients encouraged to enter the labor force by federal and state emphasis on employment and training. Others are women whose families want a higher standard of living which requires two paychecks.

As the centers have grown, so has government concern over their operation. In Michigan, the Department of Social Services plays a large role in day care activities by administering a state licensing program and by paying for child care for welfare recipients and other low-income families.

Social Services licensing consultants are also working to help child care centers meet new federal interagency day care requirements set by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. These requirements call for a higher ratio of staff to children and more emphasis on programs to help children develop skills and abilities.

In a "spend money to save money" move, the department provides child care funds for mothers on public assistance and for low-income employed mothers. By enabling these women to work or to enroll in job training classes, tax money is saved that would otherwise be needed to support the family.

Social Services workers emphasize that the tax dollars are secondary, however. More important is what a good child care program means to the families involved.

Social workers explain that day care centers help prepare children for school, and give them some pattern and meaning to their lives. Children and parents begin to relate to each other differently, more positively.

The mother's pride is often restored as she finds work and starts working toward independence. With her children receiving proper care, the mother can continue her education, enroll in vocational training courses or go directly into a paying job. She may become a computer programmer, beautician, nurses aide, telephone operator, stenographer, clerk, waitress, factory worker or an employee in many other fields.

The mother herself usually takes the initiative in finding child care. Sometimes this even involves convincing a neighbor or friend to obtain a state license and become eligible for payments.

Sometimes a family may need child care for only a brief time. Perhaps a woman who is supporting her children must be in the hospital for an operation and has no relative or friend who can care for her children until she recovers. Perhaps she has been laid off from her previous job, and needs someone to care for the children while she looks for new work and reports for job interviews.

The Department of Social Services explains that Michigan is not expected to bear the full cost of day care services for low-income and public assistance families. There are federal funds available for such payments. In fact, of the $7,128,767 spent on day care by the Department of Social Services from June 1969 to May 1970, three-fourths or $5,346,575 was federal money.

Nor are federal and state funds restricted to direct day care services. Andrews University in Berrien Springs used a federal grant to train child care aides for the Benton Harbor area in the fall of 1969. Similar training programs are being planned and implemented in Detroit and Kalamazoo using a combination of federal and private funds.

Another special area in which day care funds are used is to provide care for children of migrant farm workers. The Department of Social Services, in conjunction with the State Department of Education, has helped provide day care services in centers, homes and in the migrant camps so that all working members of the family can be freed from child care to help contribute to the family income.
