

THE AUSABLE RIVER is reputed to be the subject of the "Round River Drive" of Paul Bunyan's crew. The author of Paul's famous drive, the late James MacGillivray, is to be honored during the Paul Bunyan Festival to be held August 20-22 at Oscoda. Airports Play Key Role in Northern Michigan Economy

Workhorse aircraft are playing an increasingly larger role in cultivating the economic potential of Northern Michigan.

Statistics compiled by the Aeronautics Commission of the Michigan Department of Commerce show that shipment of cargo from Michigan's 21 major air terminals more than doubled (by 129 percent) since 1962.

Those gains were paced by 11 terminals in Northern Michigan, where the aerial highways are humming as never before. Their collective gain was 342 percent (see table below).

The biggest single gain was recorded at the state's northernmost air terminal, the Houghton County Airport at Hancock, at the western end of the Upper Peninsula.

Cargo loadings there increased from 19,358 pounds in 1962 to 227,798 pounds in 1970, an increase of 1,076 percent.

Even greater gains are in prospect upon completion of a planned 4.5 million dollar expansion project, which would enable jet aircraft to use the terminal.

A nearby terminal, the Gogebic County Airport at Ironwood, previously held the growth record, notching an increase of 1,216 percent in 1969.

"The survey underscores the importance of adequate airport facilities in Northern Michigan," said State Commerce Director Richard E. Whitmer. "Such airports have proved to be high-yield investments in the economic future of the areas they serve."

According to a survey conducted by the Minneapolis-St. Paul Airport Commission, each $1,000 invested in that facility has generated an additional $2,000,000 in the local economy.

Similar economic gains are envisioned following completion of Northern Michigan's newest air terminal, now nearing completion near Cheboygan.

That facility, costing more than $500,000, is being jointly financed by the City and County of Cheboygan, the State of Michigan, the Federal Aviation Administration and the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, an agency devoted to economic development in Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Local officials there had been pressing for an air terminal for the past six years. The drive began after several industries seeking new plant sites bypassed the city because it lacked an adequate airport.

Here is a comparison summary of the cargo shipments from Northern Michigan's air terminals (in pounds):

Alpena, 43,070 in 1962, 226,426 in 1970; Escanaba, 40,225 in 1962, 98,657 in 1970; Hancock, 19,358 in 1962, 227,798 in 1970; Iron Mountain, 51,742 in 1962, 140,979 in 1970; Ironwood, 4,946 in 1962, 23,200 in 1970; Marquette, 43,818 in 1962, 104,841 in 1970; Negaunee, 27,429 in 1962, 190,308 in 1970; Menominee, 48,948 in 1962, 229,554 in 1970; Pellston, 90,746 in 1962, 267,409 in 1970; Sault Ste. Marie, 22,677 in 1962, 40,062 in 1970;

Proclamation for Arbor Week

In urging the planting of trees during Arbor Week—April 18-24—Governor Milliken points out that aside from the harvest of woods, fruits and beauty, Michigan's more than 90 species of trees serve a vital function in today's increasingly polluted world as they help combat air pollution by removing carbon dioxide from the air and giving off oxygen.

Because Michigan's more populated areas are those most in need of trees, it is to everyone's advantage that this natural asset be enlarged and that preservation, conservation and restoration of trees be considered a major step in continuing the benefits of this heritage, states the proclamation.

The governor suggests that various programs seeking to cope with the environmental crisis facing people, such as the nurserymen's Green Survival program, are to be encouraged.

Michigan's forests, covering more than half of the state's land area, have been the basis for great industries throughout history and help make Michigan one of the most beautiful of all states. Celebrating Arbor Week with proper ceremonies and the planting of trees will be a constant reminder of a priceless gift which must be preserved for this and future generations, the governor declared.

As in the past, the governor will plant a tree on the state capital lawn furnished by the Michigan Association of Nurserymen who, as in the past, will place a potted evergreen tree on the desk of each legislator.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, in cooperation with the nurserymen's association, has prepared a special pamphlet giving full information for the observance of Arbor Week. Pamphlets may be obtained free from the department's publication room, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48926.

Solid Waste Disposal Up for Discussion

Township supervisors, county and city officials, as well as interested residents, have been invited to attend a meeting Thursday, April 8, 7:30 p. m., to discuss the feasibility of establishing a solid waste disposal district.

Plans as developed by Environmental Research of Chicago are to be outlined and discussed.

Hosting the meeting will be the Iosco County Board of Commissioners. The meeting is to be held at the county building.

ers this year. Total increments paid to teachers would be $8,455, there would be one added teacher at $8,000 and salary improvement for teachers would amount to a total of $17,262. Guidance salary increases are consistent with other teacher increases.

Increases under community school instruction are for salaries of personnel. Major cause of increase of administration was in pay to secretaries. It will be necessary to hire a part time secretary to comply with increased demands.

An increase for inflation was added to salaries for transportation, but the major increase is in the price of buses. This is partly due to increased number of safety devices.

All increases under operation are for inflation and anticipated increases.

The main increase under maintenance is due to the necessity to repair grounds (parking lot) and to repair and replace equipment formerly handled by student fees.

Building insurance has had a sharp increase due to vandalism and thus must be advanced to $2,500.

TA Budget

building, however, is that the state now requires an elevator for the possible use of handicapped children. This item would cost in the neighborhood of $13,000.

Robert Elliott, board president, said that the plan as proposed Monday night would require a tax levy of one mill for 15 years, rather than six-tenths of a mill which was mentioned last week at the cost for the original plan.

Besides eliminating the two portable classrooms which have been discussed in all previous planning. Hacker is not in favor of renovating kindergarten rooms in the present structure for use as a resource center or library. These rooms are part of the original concrete block unit which was built about 25 years ago. Hacker believed that provisions should be made to replace this structure at some future time.

At this point in time, the proposed middle school concept is still in the speculative stage. Board of education members, teachers and parents have expressed the desire for such construction in order to segregate junior high school students from older students, as well as to free rooms in the high school unit for an expanding enrollment in the upper grades.

The next step will be to study plans to be presented at the April 12 meeting.

But President Elliott again stated Monday night that no millage proposition—building or operational—would be placed before voters until the 1971-72 contract is settled with teachers.

Other insurance has shown a sharp increase of $400.
 The rental of property (parochial schools) may go as high as $2,800 in 1971-72, an increase of $500 to $800. Interest on borrowed money will advance due to more money borrowed for a longer time and will represent a $2,500 increase.
 Using the existing state aid formula, Tawas Area School would receive $435,464. This is $14,658 less than received during the current year and 22 more students will be enrolled next year.
 Using 16.5 mills as the tax levy, the local share for school operation would be $765,885, up $163,524 over the current year.
 Other revenues making up the total package of $1,306,999, include trailer park, $1,200, down $118; special education, $18,000, up $7,000; Mott Foundation, loss of $1,600 as this program is now supposed to be self supporting; adult education director, $5,000, down $1,500; return on track loan, $3,500, down $1,057; court placed nonresidents, $1,500, down $132. Other income is listed at $3,000.

AuSable-Oscoda Festival in August to Commemorate Legend of Paul Bunyan and Author James MacGillivray

The idea for a festival at Oscoda next August commemorating the legendary master lumberjack, Paul Bunyan, originated with one of the world's acknowledged experts on this mythical figure from Great Lakes States' folklore.

Lloyd S. Millegan of McMinnville, Oregon, who was here last fall to research the life of the late James H. MacGillivray of Oscoda, suggested that the community honor Paul Bunyan as well as MacGillivray, his creator, who lived at Oscoda during his early days and is buried there today.

As a result, a local group incorporated and is planning a three-day event on August 20-22 to honor Paul and, especially, the man who brought him to the attention of the whole world.

During one of his research gathering trips to Oscoda last week, Millegan told the Herald that proof of Paul's birth in the Oscoda-AuSable area is vouched for by no less an authority than the Encyclopaedia Britannica and the American Peoples Encyclopedia.

MacGillivray did not actually create the legend of Paul Bunyan—he was "born" in the lumbering camps of Northern Michigan when, of an evening, shanty boys would gather around a crackling stove and swap yarns. This was about the only form of entertainment in the camps and many men were master story tellers.

MacGillivray was scaling logs at a logging camp east of Grayling when he first heard the name of Paul Bunyan and hardly an evening went by when some lumberjack did not bring out some new angle on the prowess of this mythical character. The camp's champion story teller usually occupied the "deacon's bench" in the men's shanty and the legends MacGillivray heard as a young man remained with him for life.

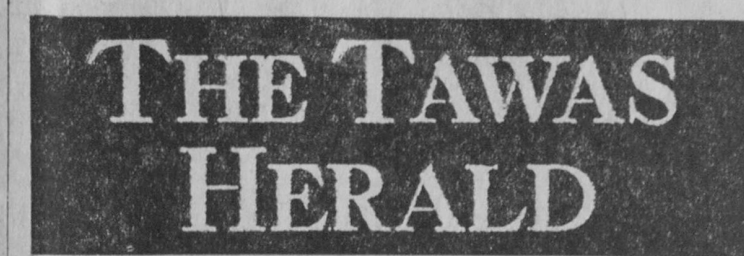

Following a varied career which saw him as a lumber broker in the Great Lakes area, a prospector for gold in Idaho and Nevada, MacGillivray picked up various newspaper jobs during his travels, as he had a flair for writing.

In July 1910, he was working for the Detroit News as a feature writer. A new mythical figure was added to the literary folklore of America when MacGillivray recalled the stories heard in his youth and conceived a yarn which appeared in the Sunday magazine section of July 24, 1910, at "The Round River Drive."

MacGillivray's column in the Detroit News was later called "The Deacon's Bench," recalling the honored seat held by master story tellers of the lumbering camps.

He later served on the old Michigan Conservation Department, where he had charge of the educational division. He authorized many articles and did much study of the beaver, American eagle and Kirtland warbler. He retired from the department in 1928 and returned to the Oscoda area.

MacGillivray died May 2, 1952, at the age of 78 years, following injuries received in a fall at the old

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1971

Iosco County Courthouse. During his later years, he never ceased to marvel at all the stories of Paul that followed publication of his "Round River Drive."

Millegan, who is currently preparing a manuscript of a book to be published in 1973 concerning the life of MacGillivray, said that hundreds of titles had been conceived of the legends of Paul Bunyan—enough to fill bookshelves completely lining the front office of the Herald. Millegan has never located any account of Paul Bunyan published earlier than MacGillivray's feature story.

Making periodic trips to Oscoda each month, Millegan hopes to interview persons who knew MacGillivray and to possibly obtain letters and pictures which might be used in his book. He plans to spend the month of August here for this purpose and to take part in the festival.

Meanwhile, the committee has announced that in keeping with the tall tale traditions of the old lumber camps, a contest will be held in connection with the festival to update Paul Bunyan stories.

Persons wishing to enter the contest should address entries of 250 words or less to: Tall Tales of Paul Bunyan Festival, Incorporated, Box 297, Oscoda, Michigan 48750. Entries must be postmarked no later than May 15.

Other events planned for the festival include a parade, Paul Bunyan canoe classic, golf tournament, tours of Wurtsmith Air Force Base, horse and square dancing contests.

It is planned to make the celebration an annual event and expand it timewise in years to come.

GEORGE L. JORDAN, who had been acting postmaster at National City, was appointed postmaster last week. He has 2½ years of postal service.—Tawas Herald Photo.

AUSABLE AND OSCODA have increased their census by one, Paul Bunyan, or at least his statue, has arrived in the AuSable Valley. The figure, which sustained injuries in Detroit, gave every indication of having been on a long and arduous journey. Bob Grampré of Sawyer Canoe Company has been appointed to "doctor" the statue. He states that surgery will be required, but that the prognosis is very favorable. Plans are now under way by Paul Bunyan Festival, Incorporated, for a more formal reception of the figure at the August 20-22 Paul Bunyan Festival.

LLOYD S. MILLEGAN of Oregon, an acknowledged expert on the legend of Paul Bunyan, is researching the life of James MacGillivray for a book to be published in 1973. MacGillivray, who spent his youth at Oscoda and is buried there, is credited with writing the first published yarn about Paul Bunyan.—Tawas Herald Photo.

America's No. 1 selling compact.

Latest news! Paced by Duster, the Plymouth Valiant car outsold all other compacts in October-December 1970, to rank as the Number One compact in the industry.

We introduced Duster to be the best transportation bargain in America. And what's happened? A runaway success.

In the last three months of 1970, Duster led the Valiant line of cars to first place in sales among all compact cars.

Duster is the small-enough-but-big-enough car.

Duster is strong in all the things you want a small car for. Low price. Good gas economy. Easy upkeep. Easy parking. Easy handling. Good in stop-and-go driving.

But most compacts give you this. The difference is: Duster is a very big small car.

More room, better ride.

Duster seats five people comfortably. Repeat: five people, not four. Comfortably, not cramped. The trunk is family-sized—15.9 cu. ft. of storage space. More than some cars costing a lot more than Duster.

On the highway Duster acts like a bigger car. You get the unique smoothness and stability of its torsion-bar ride. You get the solid security of its sturdy unibody construction.

More choices.

You can equip your Duster with our standard or optional Six—both proven in billions of miles for their combination of performance and good gas mileage. Or you can order a V-8. In which case you get larger brakes and tires. And this should tell you something about the extra care that goes into Duster's design.

In all, there are more than 50 options, ranging from a stereo cassette tape player to a vinyl roof. Why so many? That's the whole point about Duster: You can have your economy without giving up the nice things you really want in a car.

Record sales mean bigger resale value.

Traditionally, Plymouth small cars, like Duster, have been leaders in their field in resale value. Which is another reason why, to date, we've put almost a quarter of a million people into Duster. As we said, it's a very big small car.

If Duster is so much more car in so many ways, is it unfair to compare it with other compacts? No, not when you see the price.

See your Plymouth Dealer. He'll show you that sales success boils down to one thing—offering you more car for your money.

Chevrolet Impala.

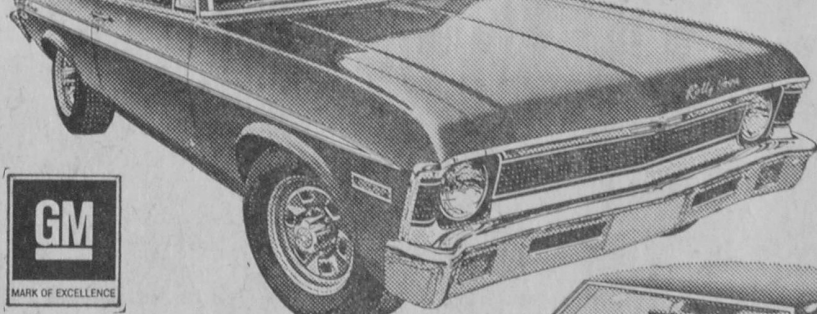

All the reason you could want for buying a big car.

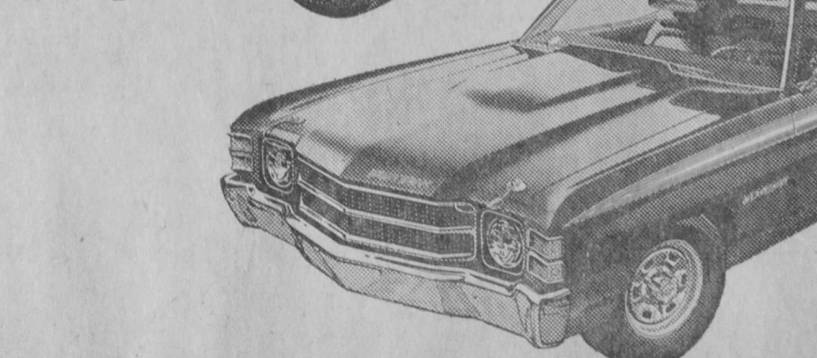

Impala. Big in what it builds in for you. Like a smoother wheelbase that absorbs much of your body used to. A new double panel roof that absorbs much of the noise your ears used to. More roominess inside. A new power ventilation system that keeps on bringing you outside air. Even standard power disc brakes, up front.

And now, two new reasons for buying something sportier.
