

Submit Application for Health Corps Doctors

Possible formation of a Huron Forest Health Center at Hale, under discussion since last September, still has a long way to go before efforts are finalized. But, community leaders received encouragement Friday following a meeting with representatives from the National Health Service Corps.

Representatives of NHSC met with officials of Hale Development Corporation, Whittemore-Prescott Community School and area citizens to finalize the application for additional medical personnel in the area.

Taking an active part in this search for medical personnel for the area have been Thomas Caldwell, Whittemore-Prescott Community School Council director, and Richard Parkinson, president of Farmers and Merchants State Bank and a representative of Hale Development Corporation. Assistance has been received from many other local persons.

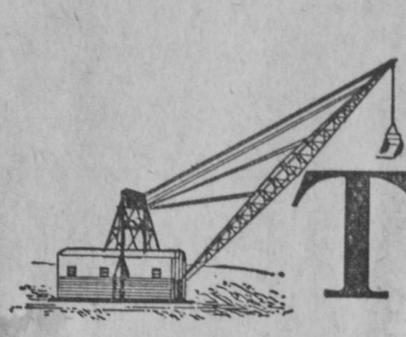

No definite commitment was received from NHSC representatives, but Howard Hilton, deputy NHSC commissioner, commented at the meeting that it was the best documented presentation yet received. About 200 communities in the nation have filed applications in the program and about one-half that number will be approved. An answer regarding the local presentation is expected in early May.

Under consideration is utilization of NHSC resources which were organized by congress in 1970. The corps is designed to give medical officers drafted into the military service an opportunity to serve the country in communities where there is a shortage of medical personnel.

The application being considered would provide a general practitioner, an internal medicine specialist, a dentist and dental hygienist at Hale. It is proposed that Hale Development Corporation would provide a building and equipment for a clinic. Administration would be handled by the local organization, while supporting personnel including nurses and administration of the clinic would be provided locally. Doctors would receive military pay directly from the federal government.

TAWAS CITY Department of Public Works starts its annual cleanup campaign this morning (Wednesday). City trucks and crews are to pick up everything left at curbside in an effort to freshen up the community for the summer season. City DPW crewmen, Ervin Gauthier, on truck, and Vernon Wingrove, are shown unloading trash barrels. The campaign continues through Friday.—Tawas Herald Photo.

5th Candidate Files for Iosco Sheriff's Post

The Iosco political scene livened this week with another candidate filing for Iosco County sheriff. Latest of five Republican candidates to file for the position is Keith Dobson of Oscoda.

Born in 1933 at Bay City, Dobson moved to Iosco in 1959 and took over as terminal manager of Dobson Moving Company at Oscoda. He was promoted to northern district supervisor in charge of the company's operations at Oscoda, Kinross and Marquette.

He has shown great interest in affairs of the county and has been active in civic and community organizations, having served as vice president of Oscoda-AusSable Chamber of Commerce, a member of the commander's advisory council of the 40th Air Division, Oscoda Kiwanis Club, county planning commission, Wurtsmith Community Council, Oscoda Sportsmen's Club, Oscoda Masonic Lodge. He has served as area chairman of the Paul Bunyan Council of the Boy Scouts of America and last year hosted a week-end camporee for about 200 scouts at the Dobson Ranch at West Branch.

Dobson was responsible for working out the original plan that saw underprivileged grade school students from Tawas Area and Oscoda Area School systems go to the Shrine Circus each year. The first years of this annual event saw the Dobson Company pay for chartered buses, transportation and tickets.

Dobson has been a deputy sheriff in Iosco County for a number of years and successfully completed a training and administration course for new sheriffs at the Michigan State Police School, Lansing, in 1964. He was a graduate of the state marine enforcement school for deputy sheriffs in 1966. He holds a charter boat captain's license from the coast guard. He has attended many seminars on various facets of police work.

Dobson has worked on a part time basis for the past two years as a patrolman for Oscoda-AusSable Police Department. He is now serving his second term on the board of directors of the Northeastern Law Enforcement Association.

He is married and has three children, the oldest being a student at General Motors Institute. He is a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Oscoda.

Application

side to continue on in their private practice without the obligation of their original assignment.

During the past two months, organizations at Hale and Whittemore have been working with District Health Department No. 2, along with hospitals and doctors at West Branch, Rose City, Tawas City and Standish, to fill out the volumes of paperwork involved.

In addition, the Comprehensive Health Planning Division of East Central Michigan Economic Development District has assisted with preparing the application.

Three hospitals in the area have indicated they would be willing to accept personnel assigned to the area on their staffs, while the plan has support of a number of local physicians and dentists, as well as local and state medical and dental societies.

The area included in the program under consideration is a five to 10-mile zone on either side of M-66 from Twining to Curran. According to the 1970 census, the area is inhabited by 13,000 full time residents, but due to recent population increases, it is believed that the figure would now be closer to 15,000 persons.

At the present time, Michigan has a state average of one medical doctor to every 1,000 persons. In the above area, the ratio is 0 to 13,000—there are no physicians residing or practicing in that zone and persons requiring medical or dental attention must commute to the Tawas, West Branch or Standish areas.

Because of the low ratio of physicians to population reportedly in the entire general area, residents of the above described zone often have long waiting periods before being able to see a doctor, except in the case of an emergency.

Since retirement of its lone physician a number of years ago, the Hale area has actively sought a medical practitioner to locate in that area—but without success.

A PLANTING of 5,000 rainbow trout in the ice-clogged bight of Tawas Bay required only a few minutes last Wednesday afternoon, but the fish, upon reaching maturity—some as large as 10 pounds—will provide many hours of pleasure for anglers. A planting of rainbow trout had not been scheduled for the bay this year but, because of fishing success on the bay and Tawas River through two years of experimental planting, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources honored the desire of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association and local fishermen in its decision to schedule last week's planting. While the fish were transferred from the Oden Hatchery truck to the bay through a self-unloading unit, Carl Carlson, right, and Donald Bedrick, fishery aides, netted a few fish for a closeup view by the Herald camera. The rainbows measured from seven to eight inches in length and were about 1 1/2 years old. Rainbow trout were first introduced into Michigan in the late 1890s and these fish are actually progeny from that original planting. Through controlled breeding by DNR fish management specialists over the years, habits of the fish have been changed to develop both spring and fall migration seasons. Thus, the spring rainbow and the fall steelhead are actually related. Local authorities, businessmen and fishermen are in hopes that the DNR will increase the planting of this species in the future.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Gordon Clute Roams Wilds of Mexico; Guides Nationals

HERE in all its imposing magnitude is the impressive waterfall with a drop of 325 feet in the Tanchanchin Mountains of Mexico. Gordon Clute of Tawas City, who snapped the picture, is the only North American ever to view this scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clute of Tawas City recently returned home after spending the winter in Mexico. The Clutes, who operate a miniature golf course and gift shop near the US-23 bridge during the tourist season, have been visiting Mexico for the past 15 winters. While Mrs. Clute enjoys the golfing and tropical weather, her husband combines business—looking for native-crafted items and gathering rocks for his shop—and pleasure—exploring the mountainous wilds of the Mexican interior.

Clute enjoys getting off the beaten path in the mountains about 400 miles south of the United States-Mexico border and about 150 miles inland from the Gulf of Mexico. One area which he "discovered" last winter was so far out of the way that few inhabitants of a city of 85,000 persons had ever traveled the 40 treacherous miles into the mountains to enjoy the breathtaking view of a waterfall. The area, filled with wild game, including alligators and jaguars, is inhabited by native Indians, still practically untouched by civilization. "The residents of Valles apparently care more about eating than exploring," was the way Clute explained the lack of interest on the part of the Spanish-speaking population.

Clute, who has long enjoyed the warm hospitality of the native villagers, carries a small fiberglass boat and outboard motor on the top of his truck-camper unit during his explorations. The following story, translated from Spanish, was written by a Valles newspaperman, who accompanied Clute on one of his trips during the past winter. Photos illustrating the story appearing in the Valles newspaper were credited "Fotos de Gordon Clute."

"A North American, Gordon Clute of Tawas City, Michigan, invited Francisco Kiko, Lorenzo Leon Guevara and the author, Enrique Garcia, to learn of the hidden beauties of their exciting Huastecaland. He was so enthusiastic as he told us about this beautiful spot that we became excited, too, and set February 14, 1972, as the date to go there. We started out from the City of Valles, in the State of San Luis Potosi, on the road to Rio Verde; at kilometer No. 28, we turned aside toward the beautiful

Tanchanchin mountain range. At once, a densely wooded tropical jungle came into view.

"On reaching the Tampaon River, which will irrigate the vast lands of our region when the Tampaon dam is built in future years, we were impressed by a singularly beautiful scene and the river's blue-green water. Immediately, we put Gordon's boat and motor in the water and started up river. It had very little water and so we had to tow the boat over many rapids. This made the trip tiring, tedious and uncomfortable. We had to go around enormous stones in the middle of the river; fortunately, the boat was made of fiberglass which could stand the rocks and the rough going. Nevertheless, to go over rocks and to push and pull the boat at the same time was a superhuman undertaking.

"We continued up river for about four long and difficult hours. Meanwhile, the scenes that came into view more than compensated for the hard work and, because we were all sincere nature lovers, we enjoyed this unique spectacle. We came to some navigable places and, one after another, indescribably beautiful scenes appeared. We traveled between huge mountains where the sun could barely penetrate. On the way, we found dozens of little waterfalls that decorated the landscape.

"The most impressive sight on the trip was the huge and majestic waterfall, 325 feet high. The breeze washed the rocks of the immediate area of 300 feet and gave off an agreeable spray. This had made a special type of beautifully green-colored grass growing in crevices on the slopes of the mountains exactly in front of that marvelous waterfall that the natives of the region call El Salto. This name was given, perhaps, in thinking of the other waterfalls of the same name, that stopped flowing a long time ago because of the advance of our modern civilization.

"We realized that very few people of this region know this waterfall, notwithstanding it is relatively close to them, but it is still unknown to the rest of the Huasteca. I said to Mr. Clute it would be convenient if our Mexican government would build a road and elaborate the tourist articles about the beauties here for the delight of the Mexican people and visitors. But he replied, 'No, because then many Gringos would have access to it and it would lose its primitive enchantment.' I added that he was wholly right, as well as being one of the few North Americans to have succeeded in reaching this exact spot. Later, the natives of Tanchanchin confirmed that Mr. Clute was the only North American who had come here.

"Near this place you can find flocks of ducks, giving shrill shrieks while keeping their little ones at

SURVEYING the lovely waterfall are Enrique Garcia, Francisco Kiko and Lorenzo Leon Guevara of Valles, Mexico. Although living only 40 miles from this spot, these men and other Spanish speaking residents of the community of 85,000 persons had never enjoyed the unique spectacle. Serving as their guide was Gordon Clute, who spends his winters exploring this wild region of Mexico.

THE TAMPAON RIVER glides along majestically, joining together crystal water, the opal of the mountains and the blue sky. Scenes of such beauty are common in the district, but few nationals and other natives know of them.

their sides. As mentioned before, in relation to the trip, it is very difficult, but the satisfaction enjoyed compensated for the trouble. We sincerely invite the Huastecans, lovers of beautiful nature, to learn of the unknown but very lovely regions of our Huasteca-Potosina.

"Now the villagers of Tanchanchin call Mr. Clute, 'Chico (small) Christopher Columbus.'"

Report Change in Status to Social Security

Question: My son gets social security students benefits. If he transfers to another college or starts attending classes on a part time schedule, must he report it to social security?

Answer: Yes. He should notify social security if he marries, is legally adopted, stops attending school, stops attending school full time, changes schools, earns more than $1,680 in a year or is paid by his employer to attend school at the employer's request.

Question: I am 62 years old and get monthly social security benefits as a widow. Will medicare help pay any of my medical expenses?

Answer: No. Medicare only helps pay hospital and medical bills for people 65 or older. If you cannot pay your medical expenses, you may be eligible for medicaid. Medicaid helps pay the medical bills of individuals at any age based on their need. Call your local welfare office for more information about the medicaid program.

Question: Please help us to settle a family argument. If you have worked, and retire at age 62, on social security, how big is the cut you take?

Answer: If you start receiving at age 62 based on the work you have done under social security, your benefit will be 80 percent of your full benefit. Your benefit is reduced by 20 percent, but you have the benefits for three years before you turn 65. The benefit is permanently reduced unless you return to work or become disabled before you are 65.

Smokey Bear Signs for Fire Safety

Fire officers at the Department of Natural Resources' Roscommon field office place the finishing touches on one of about 45 Smokey Bear signs which will be erected in northern Michigan this spring to help make local residents and visiting tourists more fire safety conscious. The 8-foot-tall signs, a new public service feature in the northern Lower Peninsula, will be used to post daily fire danger readings in each area where DNR district and field offices are located. They also will be added at State Highway Department rest areas in the Clare, Cadillac, Grayling, and West Branch locales to alert northbound tourists of each day's fire threat. A number of the signs put together last winter at the Roscommon office will be used to replace those in the Upper Peninsula, which have provided this system of posted fire warnings for several years at DNR installations above the Straits. Each sign's fire danger reading will indicate the daily burning index, which collectively takes into account wind velocity, humidity, temperature, and number of days since the last rainfall. CUB SCOUTS and Webelos presented their first annual circus Thursday night at the East Tawas Elementary Unit.
