

Food Stamp Program Opens May 2 in Iosco

The food stamp program, which begins in Iosco County on May 2, will be explained to food merchants of the county in a meeting scheduled Monday, March 20, at the Iosco County Medical Care Facility, Harris Avenue, Tawas City. The meeting is scheduled for 8:00 p. m.

The briefing is to be conducted by Walter K. Maser, officer in charge of the food stamp program in this area. Administering the program is the United States Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Iosco County Department of Social Services.

Authorization of food merchants is being handled by the USDA's food and nutrition service at Traverse City, while certification of eligible families is handled by the Iosco Department of Social Services, county building, Tawas City.

The food stamp program represents another means of utilizing America's agricultural abundance to improve the diets of low income citizens by increasing food purchasing power.

It works like this: The department of social services determines the eligibility of the family from the family size, income and liquid assets. Eligible persons pay a determined amount in cash for food coupons and receive enough additional stamps to enable them to substantially increase their food supplies.

Recipients spend coupons just as they would money in any authorized food store. They can buy any food for human consumption they choose, except for food plainly identified as being imported. Since this is a food assistance program, nonfood items such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco products, soap, pet foods and the like cannot be purchased with food stamp coupons.

Grocers redeem the coupons at local banks or through authorized food wholesalers. Banks redeem them through the Federal Reserve System.

Surveys have been conducted to determine the effectiveness of the food stamp program which was introduced in May 1961. These findings show that food sales, in dollars, increased an average of eight percent for food retailers and the demand for locally produced items resulted in increased sales by local farmers up to 15 percent.

IOSCO'S Lincoln Day dinner speaker on Friday, March 24, will be Cong. Philip E. Ruppe of Houghton.

UP Solon Slated as Iosco GOP Speaker

Cong. Philip E. Ruppe, Eleventh Michigan District, Houghton, will be speaker at the annual Lincoln Day dinner Friday, March 24, sponsored by the Iosco County Republican Committee.

To be held at the Village Inn, Tawas City, starting at 6:30 p. m., program chairman for this year's event is W. D. (Mike) Nunn of East Tawas, a former member of the state highway commission.

A native of Laurium, Ruppe attended both Central Michigan University and the University of Michigan during World War II as part of the navy's V-12 program. In 1948, he received his bachelor of art degree in history from Yale University. He served as a navy lieutenant during the Korean conflict.

He served as general manager of the Bosch Brewing Company at Houghton from 1955 to 1965 and from 1960 to 1965 as president of that company. He served as a director of Houghton National Bank and the Commercial National Bank at L'Anse.

Active in "Copper Country" civic affairs, he was a member of the Houghton Chamber of Commerce, the Houghton Rotary Club and president of the Copper Country Vacationists League. He is a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Eagles, Elks and Knights of Columbus.

Ruppe was elected to his first term as representative from the Eleventh Congressional District in 1966. He was re-elected in 1968 and 1970, currently serving on the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries, as well as on the committee on interior and insular affairs.

The Upper Peninsula congressman has been heavily involved in environmental legislation, as well as legislation to ease the economic plight of rural America.

Due to revamping of Michigan's congressional districts, a portion of Iosco County may be transferred from the present Tenth Congressional District of Cong. Elford A. Cedberg to the Eleventh Congressional District.

According to a report at last Thursday's meeting of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association, one plan proposed would split Iosco County in half—everything below M-55 remaining with the Tenth district and everything above transferred to the Eleventh district.

The above plan is meeting local opposition from the businessmen's association.

Two Burglaries Are Investigated

Two cabin burglaries in Plainfield Township are under investigation by Iosco Sheriff's Department. A radio and hand tools were stolen from a cottage owned by Eward Kirby, Lake Orion, located in Section 29. A chain saw and mower were stolen from a cabin owned by Gerald A. Lewis at Londo Lake.

Snowmobile Accidents Hurt Four Persons

Four snowmobile accidents involving personal injuries were investigated over the week-end by Michigan State Police from East Tawas.

Ada Owen, a passenger on a snowmobile operated by Earl Owen, 66, Tawas City, sustained a fractured leg Saturday in Wilber Township. Officers said her foot was caught in a snowbank and she was pulled from the machine.

Scott Halstead, a passenger on a machine operated by Ida L. Halstead, Bay City, received facial injuries when the snowmobile sideswiped a tree in Wilber Township.

John D. Newberry, 67, was injured in the mouth when he struck a steel cable in Wilber Township. Newberry told officers that the throttle on the machine he was operating apparently malfunctioned just as he neared the cable.

Donald S. Michalski, 24, 215 McArde Road, was injured while making repairs at his garage. He was accelerating the machine with its track off the floor. The machine fell and struck his leg.

Ask Hale Area Voters for 3.5 Additional Mills

Voters of Hale Area School District will be asked to approve an additional 3.5 mills for operation at the annual June election following action of the board of education Monday night.

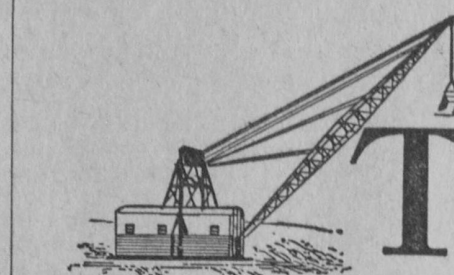

The district presently levies a voted tax of nine mills and receives another nine mills from the county allocation board for operation. If approved, the additional 3.5 mills would represent a total of 21.5 mills ($21.50 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for operation.

The additional millage being asked is what school officials estimated a year ago would be the requirement for operation once Hale Area moves into its new school. Last year, voters approved a debt retirement fund of six mills to construct the new school, which is to be ready for occupancy this fall.

Supt. Paul Keene said Tuesday that there is a five to six percent increase in all supplies being purchased. Other factors requiring the additional funds include higher teacher salaries, additional expense for heat, light, insurance, extra maintenance help, a full time librarian and a vocal music teacher.

"Our budget is not to be extravagant—just the opposite, for we will be operating close to the belt," said Keene. Because of the district's high valuation and lower than average return from state aid, the school district's operational cost is supported 74 percent from local tax money and it will be about an 80 percent local contribution next year.

In other business, North Central Construction, West Branch, submitted the low bid of $69,803.22 for construction of a new shop. There were

A Much Needed Improvement

Library Expansion Studied by Board

Tawas Area Board of Education gave its approval Monday night to begin planning an addition to the high school library and development of a resource center.

Long recognized as a serious short-coming of the school's educational program, a 30 by 40-foot addition would be constructed on the existing library in the "court area" of the school complex.

Supt. Reynold Mick told board of education members Monday night that the architect had estimated the cost of this construction at $18,000. Additional equipment and remodeling of the present library would bring this total to approximately $42,000.

Construction of the addition at the proposed location would be the most economical because existing heating could be extended without a major expenditure. In addition, construction cost would be lowered because of the need of one less wall.

The superintendent recommended that the board of education and administrators make a complete study of the resource center concept so as to incorporate new ideas in library planning, as well as to utilize some innovations in layout which have been discussed here in recent years.

One of the first steps, said Mick, would be to consider financing the project. Three different possibilities were discussed, including the levy of one mill of taxes for one year, which would raise approximately $43,000; utilization of five percent of the district's valuation, through the bonding privilege of the board of education, and pay this back over a period of years from taxes levied; or, submit a bonding proposal to the electorate for its decision.

The superintendent said that a bonding proposition was probably out of the question because of the low amount being considered. He believed that levying one mill of taxes for one year to establish a sinking fund probably would be the most feasible answer to funding as the work could be completed for the 1972-73 school term. The latter plan would eliminate bond and interest costs.

Improvement of library facilities has long been recommended by the University of Michigan's accreditation service. The present library lacks adequate space, shelving is inadequate and the book collection is insufficient for the size of the enrollment.

Both Mick and Prin. John Alexander were of the opinion that arrangements should be made in the design to incorporate special study areas for small numbers of students. This would provide areas for special research in classes, as well as to provide space for showing educational films to small groups.

Mick suggested that such special study areas could be separated from the library through the use of curtains.

It was pointed out, too, that expansion of the library would reduce the size of the present study halls. The library and resource center would provide a more manageable area for study by students.

The superintendent said that regardless of the final direction which the school district may take concerning construction of a middle school, expansion of the library is necessary and would fit into any program adopted.

Included in the project would be the purchase of additional audio-visual equipment as well as expansion of the book collection. At present, a considerable portion of the school's historical research collection is being used due to the lack of space for book racks.

A final decision on the method of financing is to be made at the next meeting of the board of education on Monday, April 10. In the meantime, board of education members and administrators are to visit other schools to obtain ideas which might be incorporated in this school's library-resource center.

In addition to this proposal, the board of education is to receive a report from administrators which will recommend rearrangement of classes in the various buildings so as to develop a middle school. While present facilities are overcrowded, the possibility of shifting classes between the various buildings will be considered.

County Schools Cooperate in Shared Time Training

Final decision on a shared time vocational training program developed by administrators of four county schools and coordinated by Iosco Intermediate School District, was to have been held last night (Tuesday).

Bruce Vickey, who became the vocational education director for the intermediate school district effective February 14, said the shared time program was being designed for implementation next fall.

Under this program, facilities and staffs of the four high schools of this county would be utilized fully on a shared basis. Tawas Area School would provide instruction in auto mechanics, Oscoda Area School would provide training in business machines, Hale Area School would provide facilities for personnel for training students in the building trades, while Whittemore-Prescott Area School would provide training in the mechanical trades.

Details of this program, which have been under consideration for a number of months, are to be worked out by school administrators this week. Vickey said that seniors would be the only students eligible to participate in the initial program.

The vocational training coordinator said that the program would entail six hours of instruction each week, with three-hour blocks on Tuesdays and Thursdays and two-hour blocks on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Classes are to start each day at 12:30 p. m.

An occupational committee is to be selected from a county-wide committee recently organized from leaders of business, industry and education. Members with backgrounds in occupational fields being provided in the vocational education training program would give direction to the over-all training.

Vickey said that possible additional offerings were to be discussed at a meeting with school superintendents later this week.

Between 125 and 150 students would be involved in next fall's program. Students would be bussed to the various schools.

Vickey said the intermediate school district office is now preparing an application to receive state financial assistance to help fund the first year's program. Deadline for this year's application is March 20.

The county committee is to hold meetings at various schools to inspect facilities and to determine the eventual direction of vocational training in Iosco. Hopefully, a long range plan will include a vocational skills center.

Vickey said that the shared time program would be designed to turn out more knowledgeable students in the basic skills. He said that industry was aware of such a need and this program should be profitable to the employer as well as to the potential employee.

Vickey, who spent six years as instructor-coordinator in the trades training department of Dow Chemical Company, said he was pleased at this point with the attitude demonstrated in developing the initial shared time program for Iosco.

"People feel there is a need for more vocational training and we have had support from industry and licensed contractors from the area. As the program grows, we expect even greater participation by residents of the various communities involved," said Vickey.

Ask Business-Industry to Aid AF Program

Business and industry of the Tawas area are being asked to cooperate in a new program designed to help train men separating from military service.

Maj. Richard Pollock, chief of personnel at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, and members of the base's transition training office explain that the program is designed to train men who do not have job opportunities in civilian life.

In a briefing Thursday, members of the Tawas City Businessmen's Association learned that the air force hopes to enlist support from the local area through on-the-job training opportunities for men separating from service.

Pollock and his staff explained that two different training programs are now being provided in the Oscoda area for 20 men. In one program, airman without a civilian specialty spend 40 hours a week in civilian job training. In the second program, the airman works his regular hours at the air base and then receives on-the-job training during his spare time.

Airmen enrolled in this program remain in the employment of the government and are paid by the air force. Additional pay may be made by the civilian employer, but this is not mandatory.

Additional information may be obtained by telephoning Wurtsmith Air Force Base, 739-2011, and asking for the transition training office, extension 2260.

Zoning Ordinance Meeting Scheduled

Zoning ordinances meeting will be held Monday, March 20, 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m., at the West Branch Bank Building, West Branch. Zoning ordinances are the tools for development of a community. Individuals attending may learn more about using them on a township and county level.

Tawas Area Band Experience Meaningful, Says MSU Visitor

In his recent evaluation of Tawas Area School's music department, Kenneth G. Bloomquist, director of bands, Michigan State University, congratulated the music department, the school and residents of the area "for providing young people with a meaningful experience in music."

The MSU director said he found the organization of this school's music department "highly structured with no visible margin of error." He said he was delighted to see student involvement in the care and maintenance of school property and said Tawas Area is receiving more service from the equipment purchased over the past several years than should be possible.

"The schedule of classes is excellent," said Bloomquist. "Most music teachers and band directors, in particular, would like to have more time than has been allowed, I do not feel this is the case in Tawas Area because of good use of the time schedule. It is not a school which permits over-emphasis of a music department, but permits a student to achieve to the best of his ability."

Bloomquist said the district was fortunate to have the services of "one of the truly outstanding men in the country" in Gene S. Salamony, band director, as well as having an assistant in Timothy Kasten, who is "flexible, willing to learn, cooperative and sympathetic to the students in his charge."

Bloomquist said facilities are adequate and ideally located in that controlled access can be maintained, but he believed that practice rooms should be sound proofed so as not to disturb players during rehearsal. He believed that equipment is in need of examination in order that a large purchase will not be necessary at one time to maintain the existing program.

"The philosophy of this program is an example to all schools and particularly those in Tawas Area's classification. I sensed a tremendous display of spirit and pride in the students. They were ladies and gentlemen, not only to me as a guest, to their teachers as an authority symbol, but to each other.

"I felt that directors were not concerned about making teachers of music, but appreciators of music. This is very important because here in lies the real purpose of the public school music program. These students have the opportunity to comprehend and enjoy serious music with the hope they will be able to do the same after graduation," he stated.

Michigan Tourist Council Finds Itself at Crossroads

The Michigan Tourist Council finds itself at a crossroads at the close of the winter season. On one hand, it is dedicated to the proposition to "Keep Michigan Green" through a steady flow of tourist dollars. On the other, there is the governor's specific charge to do whatever it can to help improve the quality of life and redress the ecological balance of the State of Michigan.

That it is achieving its first goal is affirmed by the year-end figures just released by the tourist council. Once again, tourism is the state's second largest industry, with total annual revenues of $1,500,000,000 and $105,000,000 in tax revenues, some 40,000 tourist-related businesses and approximately 155,000 tourist industry-related jobs. Impressive totals, particularly when viewed against the background of a state tourist industry promotion budget of only a little over $1,000,000.

In the environmental field, the tourist council has also taken a number of positive steps. In addition to an expanded public relations program, which carries the message that environmental pollution is a serious problem for all, Tourist County Director Phil Brady has assigned members of his staff to function as liaison between the council

KMB Group Sponsors Two Ecology Seminars

Keep Michigan Beautiful, Incorporated, a state-wide organization of civic volunteers who conduct anti-litter, anti-pollution and beautification programs on a year around basis, will hold two seminars in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula for members of county chapters and others interested in programs to protect the environment, Arthur E. Nelson, Saginaw architect and president of KMB announced today.

The first session, for people in the northwest section of the Lower Peninsula from the Muskegon-Mt. Pleasant county line north and from US-27 west, will be held at the Park Place Motor Inn, Traverse City, at 10:00 a. m. on Monday, March 27.

The second seminar will be held at the Holiday Inn, Gaylord, at 10:00 a. m. on Wednesday, March 29, for KMB chapters and others interested in the area north of Saginaw and east of US-27.

Nelson said an impressive program focusing on recycling of waste products and strengthening the county KMB chapters will feature the two meetings.

"We find there are a great many people in every county who want to do something to make their home town and counties more attractive and one of the biggest areas of interest is what to do with waste paper, bottles, tin cans and junk cars. People do not know how to solve these problems, so we are going to bring to them experts who can tell them how to get rid of their waste disposal concerns," said Nelson.

"While our meetings will be primarily for the people who form our county chapters, we want everyone who is interested in environmental problems to attend our meetings, hoping they later may join our county chapters to participate in a well organized program so their interest and efforts will be effective," he stated.

Nelson said the program will be the same at each meeting and will include the following:

A film, "Recycling of Solid Waste," to be shown and narrated by David Earlsonson, field representative, Michigan Division of the United States Brewers Association; "Glass Recycling," Robert Patoff, Owens-Illinois Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio; "Bottles for Building," Mrs. Donald Place, Clarkston; "Recycling of Cans," Clifford Koltz, manager of environmental information, Can Corporation, Chicago, Illinois.

"Paper Recycling," Charles Kupferschmidt, general manager of Pioneer Paper Division of Container Corporation of America, Detroit; "Getting Rid of Abandoned Junk Cars," Mrs. Cherry Frostie, Beulah, chairman of Benzie County KMB chapter, and Bruce Campbell, St.

Johns, chairman of Clinton County KMB chapter; "How Davison Did It," Mrs. Mary Cole, chairman of the Davison Beautification Commission; "How Gaylord Did It," Harold Elgas, president of the Gaylord State Savings Bank, Gaylord; "How to Organize and Develop Your County KMB Chapter," Ralph F. Swan, Office of Economic Expansion, Michigan Department of Commerce, Lansing.

Intermediate District Has New Program

A program is being offered by the Iosco Intermediate School District to enable school-age girls to continue their education during pregnancy, to facilitate their return to school following pregnancy and to reduce drop out rate due to pregnancy.

Health services are provided by the Iosco County Health Department. The program is multi-disciplinary in nature, aimed at meeting the educational, health and social welfare needs of pregnant teen-agers.

The teacher will provide each girl upon enrollment with an individually tailored program designed to support and provide continuity to her regular school program.

Instruction will be provided by a fully-certified teacher. This will provide a highly-individualized educational experience for each girl. Grades and credits earned in the program will be transmitted routinely to the girl's regular school upon dismissal from the program.

The services of a public health nurse are provided by the Iosco County Health Department. Individual consultation on medical plans, prenatal care and health supervision will be extended.

Coordination with private or public medical resources is the nurse's responsibility. She also serves as a program consultant in matters of nutrition, fetal development, physical care during pregnancy.

The social worker will schedule an intake interview with each girl to interpret the program and support the girl in making the transfer. Supportive casework and referral services will be offered to the girl and her parents. Counseling services are also available to prospective fathers.

Group counseling sessions will be part of the regular schedule for each girl. Such sessions will be concerned with realities of pregnancy, anxieties regarding childbirth, family and peer relationships.

The Iosco Intermediate School District social worker is the designated liaison between community agencies and the local school.

The program is housed in the Iosco Trainable Center School, Lake Street, Tawas City, phone 362-4322.

School is in session daily from 9:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. Transportation may be arranged.

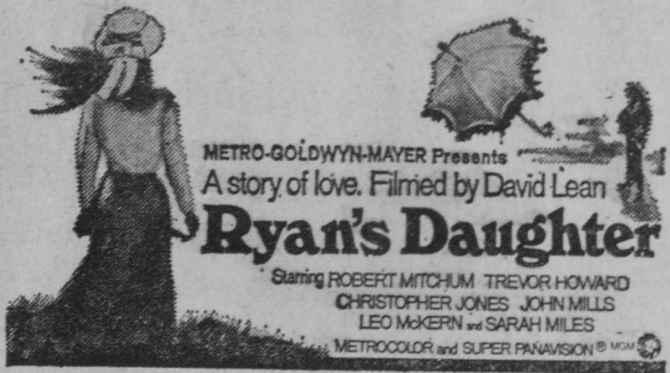

For more information, call Mrs. Betty Welsh, school social worker, Iosco Intermediate School District, phone 362-2461 or 362-5967.

SIXTY-ONE Hale area youngsters on March 4 completed a 12-hour snowmobile class conducted by the community education program of Hale Area School in cooperation with the Iosco 4-H Club program. The instruction included classroom study on safety and minor repairs to machines and the class was completed Saturday with a performance test. The program was given in order to have youngsters qualify for the new law which goes into effect January 1, 1973, requiring all snowmobile operators between the ages of 12 and 16 years of age to be certified. Coordinating the program was Vern Reed of the Hale Area School faculty, shown at lower left during the performance examination which took place March 4 in a blizzard.—Tawas Herald Photos.

In Iosco, Arenac and Ogemaw
County Commissioners Voice Opposition to Apportionment

Apportionment boards in Iosco and two adjoining counties—Arenac and Ogemaw—have received a good deal of criticism in the past two weeks following adoption of redistricting plans based on the 1970 census.

Redistricting of each county according to the new census each decade is required by law. Until last year, it was believed that the last allowed county commissioners to make their own apportionment, but a court of appeals decision has since ruled that apportionment was the responsibility of the special county commission.

Statutory members of that commission are the county clerk, treasurer and prosecuting attorney, as well as county chairmen of Republican and Democratic committees.

As the result of apportionment commission action in each of the three counties of this area, membership of the county commission was reduced—from nine members to five in Iosco and Arenac Counties and from 10 members to six in Ogemaw County.

Loud shrieks of protest over this reduction have been heard from county commissioners in each of the three counties, ranging from declarations that smaller boards could not manage county government as well as a larger board, to protests that apportionment was politically motivated or that plans approved did not give adequate representation to populated areas.

In each of the counties, apportionment commissions have "stood by their guns" and stated they have approved the most feasible plans.

In Iosco County, protests have been heard in three different areas of that plan:

1. Present county commissioners were unanimous in the belief that the nine-man board was more "workable" than the proposed new five-man board; that the average person interested in serving on the county commission would not have the time to attend necessary committee meetings; that districts would be so large that the individual commissioner would be unable to attend meetings of township or city governments, or even get to know his constituents.

2. The heaviest criticism in Iosco lies at Oscoda, where the "powers that be" apparently believed that township would gain majority control of the county commission because of the fact that personnel on Wurtsmith Air Force Base were counted for the first time in any census and accounted for the largest share of Iosco's population "growth."

3. Criticism has been registered by one commissioner who claimed that the top row of sections in his township (AuSable) had been combined with the major portion of the air base to form one district and declared at the public hearing that this was done for the benefit of the former commissioner whom he had defeated.

While emphasizing a number of times that they had "nothing against present commissioners" and believed that the present county commission had performed admirably since the change from the old board of supervisors in 1968, the apportionment commission was unanimous in declaring that a five-man commission was the only feasible plan whereby the county could be divided into evenly populated districts without splitting townships.

In addition, the apportionment commission declared that its plan was workable and was probably even better than the present nine-man commission as about "three members were doing most of the work;" that the problem of committee meetings could be solved by devoting one day each month to such meetings, thereby saving time, as well as money, and believed that more could actually be accomplished through such an arrangement.

To the second and third points, the county apportionment commission was unanimous in its thinking that the five-man plan did not favor any area of the county or any individual person; that the five members elected should represent a cross-section of the entire county, for the good of Iosco as a whole, rather than any particular section.

Under the plan adopted February 23, Iosco will be divided into five districts as follows:

Eastern part of Oscoda Township with a population of 4,712; most of Wurtsmith Air Force Base and 2½ sections of the north tier of AuSable Township, population of 5,196; remainder of AuSable Township, Wilber Township, eastern half of Baldwin Township and all of East Tawas, population of 5,016; west part of Oscoda Township, all of Plainfield, Reno and Grant Townships, population of 4,972; Tawas, Burleigh, Sherman, Alabaster Townships, western half of Baldwin Township and Tawas City, population of 4,970.

Members of the apportionment commission pointed out that the above arrangement would not favor any particular area—that a rural candidate would have an equal chance in winning a seat and that the county, under this plan, should be based on quality rather than quantity.

It was stated February 23 that Oscoda Township plans to appeal the plan to the state court of appeals. Pros. Atty. Kenneth Myles, a member of the apportionment commission, stated at that hearing that he believed the plan as adopted would stand any court test.

In Arenac County, protest over that county's five-man plan drew protest from three Democratic members of the county commission, who believed that the final decision was "politically motivated." However, veteran county clerk, Douglas Black, author of five plans submitted to the apportionment commission for study, declared he did not consider personalities or governmental costs when drawing up the plans.

"I simply wrote down the populations of all townships and cities and started playing checkers," he stated. The five new districts range in population from a low of 2,129 to a high of 2,589. The largest is 16.5 percent above the median of 2,230 considerably less than the 20.5 percent variation from the median in the nine-member commission proposed by county commissioners.

In Ogemaw County, the six-man district plan has drawn fire, too, from present county commissioners, who believe that there is too much work in operating county government for a six-man board to handle.

According to one report, Ogemaw's plan was developed by the chairman of the county Democratic committee, introduced by the county chairman of the Republican committee and opposed by the county clerk.

Indications are that all three plans will go to the state court of appeals for a ruling prior to the primary election later this summer.

Some Answers to Questions On Social Security

Question: I have been offered a job as custodian of an apartment building. The pay includes both cash wages and a free apartment for myself. Will my employer and I have to pay social security contributions only on the cash wages?

Answer: No. Your employer must include the value of the apartment as part of your salary. The apartment is considered "wages in kind." Social security contributions must be paid on this as well as your cash wages.

Question: I have been getting monthly social security disability benefits for nearly six months. Now I find I am also entitled for benefits under a private plan from my employer. Will my disability payments from social security stop?

Answer: No. Disability benefits from your employer will not affect your monthly benefits from social security. However, workmen's compensation benefits could affect your social security disability payments and, if you become entitled to workmen's compensation, you should report it to the Social Security Administration right away.

Question: I receive social security checks on early retirement. I will be 65 in August of this year. Do I have to enroll for medicare by March 31?

Answer: No. That enrollment period which ends March 31 is for people who are already 65 or older and missed their first chance to enroll. Since you already receive monthly benefits from social security, you will be contacted through the mail about signing up for medicare about two months before your birthday.

If you have a question about social security, contact your district office at 1008 North Madison Avenue, Bay City, Michigan 48706; telephone, 893-9579. For your convenience, a social security representative will be at the Iosco County Building, Tawas City, on every Thursday of each month from 9:45 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read Philippians 3:8-14)

"I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—Philippians 3:14

"He reached the heights to rest in Peace."

These words mark the final resting place of Dr. Elisha Mitchell. He lost his life in an effort to reach the highest peak east of the Mississippi River. Mr. Mitchell was named in his honor.

There are some mountains we must climb if we would reach the heights of spiritual attainment and know the peace of God. The way we begin is to respond to the inspiration and challenge of our Lord Jesus Christ. Then we must follow Him. We continue to follow by trusting our Guide and disciplining ourselves in His way.

It is not easy to put away from our minds all things that would keep us from devoting our best to following Christ. But we have His companionship, we have God's Word to meditate upon and we can have prayer through which we seek His will. It is worth our supreme effort to reach the loftiest heights in Christ and to know the peace of God.

PRAYER

O God, we would know the magnetism from beyond which pulls us toward the heights of spiritual attainment. Help us to reach out for the very best that is before us, as revealed in our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Christ challenges us; He also helps us climb. Avery Arthur Ferguson (Greensboro, North Carolina)

What are the demands of God-given freedom? This question will be considered Sunday at Christian Science Church services in a lesson-sermon entitled "Master."

"All nature teaches God's love to man, but man cannot love God supremely and set his whole affections on spiritual things, while loving the material or trusting in it more than in the spiritual," a citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states.

Texts to be read from the Bible include this one from Galatians: "Brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another."

STATE OF MICHIGAN IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF JOSCO

In the Matter of the Complaint of Allison Green, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court of the County of JOSCO:

ALLISON GREEN, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 290 of the Public Acts of 1935, as amended, Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended, and Act No. 290 of P. A. 1935, as amended.

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act in the first above mentioned, and the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, interest, and charges, were assessed for the year mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for the year mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid and sold for taxes, interest, and charges, and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of Act 126, P. A. 1933, as amended.

3. That extended separately said schedule description of said lands herein contained are (a) the total amount of the taxes, interest, and charges computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing; (b) a collection fee of four per cent and (c) $3.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, and provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they are assessed, and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays: a. That within the time provided by law this court, may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final judgment in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

c. That said judgment provide that in default of the payment of the said several sums computed and extended against the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc. Dated: JANUARY 13, 1972

ALLISON GREEN, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

Permanent Care Labeling: Protection for Buyer and Seller

A new Federal Trade Commission regulation requires that articles of wearing apparel carry permanent labels with clear instructions for care and maintenance.

"Yesterday's technology offered very general care instructions on hand tags or package labels and that was usually enough," says Joanne Thurber, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State University. "But today, the garment and fabric industries saturate the clothing market with exciting new fabrics and fiber combinations. The new labeling rule is designed to help consumers avoid possible damage through improper care of their garments."

The rule, effective July 3, covers all garments and hosiery—domestic and imported—but not footwear, headwear or handwear.

Exceptions can be made where a permanent label may harm the product, such as a sheer scarf; the item will withstand severe washing conditions, denim work pants; the item sells for less than $3 and is completely washable, or the item does not require care for ordinary use, such as disposable products.

The rule also requires that piece goods sold for wearing apparel must be accompanied by care labels that can be sewn in later. One manufacturer prints care and sewing instructions on a continuous tape which is inserted along the fold of the fabric. So, even a small cut of the material will contain a complete set of instructions.

All labels must be designed to last as long as the articles to which they are attached and must remain legible for the life of the garment. These labels must fully explain just what regular care and maintenance is necessary for the everyday use of the article. And, just as important, labels must state any treatment which could harm the clothing.

The consumer has one last problem, how to read the new tags correctly. Misreading a label is as useless as no label at all. The American Apparel Manufacturers Association has published an official care guide. This chart explains the exact meanings of the brief notations the new labels will contain. A supply of these charts is available in the county Cooperative Extension office. They are free of charge.

Can several policies to protect one business cost more?

They certainly can, if the coverages overlap! If you have several insurance policies to protect your business, you may be paying twice for the same insurance! Coverages don't often overlap, but one "double coverage" is one too many. Check your insurance policies to see if there's any duplication now. Or better yet, call us to see if you qualify for our Business Multi-Peril Insurance. Multi-Peril puts all the coverages you need into one package with one premium. That's right—it's all together.

How can they give away a free vinyl roof, free whitewall tires, free deluxe wheel covers, and a free remote control mirror on a big family-sized Plymouth... and still make money? That's the question a lot of people ask. And the answer is simple: When we order a Fury III, or a Fury Gran Coupe, with special features like power front disc brakes, air conditioning, AM/FM radio and a few other popular options, the factory doesn't charge us for the vinyl roof, whitewalls, deluxe wheel covers and remote control mirror.
