

TA Band Bids for Pres. Nixon's Inaugural Parade

State GOP Committee Has Final Say on Selection

TAWAS AREA HIGH SCHOOL BAND made its final bow (above) at the last home game of the football season, but efforts are now being made to have this outstanding unit represent the State of Michigan at President Nixon's inaugural parade on January 20. Success or failure of the band's selection will depend greatly on the final word of state political leaders.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Tawas Area School bandmen, with an eye now toward the possibility of a trip in January to Washington, D. C., for President Nixon's inaugural, are hoping the area has some influence in state political circles.

Gene Salamony, band director, publicly revealed Monday night that a concerted effort was under way to have the Tawas School Band represent Michigan in the inaugural parade. Only one band from each state is selected for this high honor.

Salamony told members of the board of education that he did not want to unduly raise the hopes of the community for this honor, although he said that, at the present time, prospects seem good.

He said that he did not want to make a "big hoopla" over the prospective trip and then have the band's, or the community's, hopes dashed by the selection of some other organization. It was for this reason that the announcement was not made public until Monday night.

Working "behind the scenes" in state political circles—even members of the band were not aware of what was transpiring until Salamony made the announcement at school Tuesday morning—the band director has been working through the Iosco Republican Committee to establish lines of communications with the state central committee, which will make the final decision on the selection.

"We have received some excellent endorsements from some high-ranking state political leaders as well as receiving excellent letters of recommendation from the band director at Michigan State University and other schools," stated Salamony.

In addition, letters have been written to the governor, area legislators and area congressional representatives urging the selection of this school's band.

Tawas Area School Band has long been one of the top high school instrumental music organizations in Michigan and has consistently won top ratings at state festivals. It just completed another outstanding fall season of presenting halftime programs during football games.

As a means of financing the prospective trip, bandmen made a survey of the community last week to determine if families would be interested in purchasing a household cleaner. Although no mention was made of profits from the sale, as bandmen were really not aware of what was going on, the young salesmen received an excellent response from the community.

Authorization was given Monday night by the board of education to conduct the door-to-door sale. The band director said he believed that members of the band should take an active part in any fund raising of this type.

In the event the local band is not selected for this honor, Salamony told board of education members Monday night that money raised during the campaign would be used later in the year for an educational trip by the band—perhaps to the Upper Peninsula.

"It all depends now on what kind of influence this community and even Eastern Michigan has with state political leaders—we should know within two weeks, when the official selection will be announced," said Salamony.

The band director said he would appreciate the assistance of anyone toward meeting this goal . . . the trip to Washington, D. C., on January 20 would really be something.

Iosco Sheriff-Elect George Westcott to Attend School

George Westcott of Tawas City, one of 15 newly-elected sheriffs in Michigan, is to take part in a week-long school at Lansing designed to familiarize himself with the broad operational and legal responsibilities of his new job.

The five-day school, which begins Monday, December 4, has been arranged and will be conducted by the Michigan Sheriffs Association through the cooperation of the Michigan State Police and Ingham County Sheriff's Department.

"No matter how extensive a new sheriff's background in law enforcement might be, he still requires a period of orientation to become thoroughly acquainted with his new duties," explains Lester Almstadt, president of the Michigan Sheriffs Association and sheriff of Macomb County.

This week-long school is designed to accelerate that orientation period, thus making every new sheriff an effective administrator of the county's law enforcement agency, with an absolute minimum of delay. Not only does the new sheriff benefit from the school, but so does the county that he has just been elected to serve," Almstadt said.

In addition to the 15 newly-elected sheriffs, five previously appointed sheriffs, who have since been elected to full terms, plus a dozen key undersheriffs, will also attend the program, Almstadt pointed out.

The program will include two days of classes at the Michigan State Police headquarters, East Lansing, and three days of indoctrination at the Ingham County Sheriff's Department.

During the latter time, the new sheriffs will tour the Ingham County Jail.

Among the several guest lecturers will be Almstadt; Col. John Plants, director of the Michigan Department of State Police; Jack P. Foster, executive secretary of the Michigan Sheriffs Association; D. Hale Brake, legal counsel to the sheriffs association; Dr. Edgar Kivela of the Michigan Department of Health crime analysis laboratory; Karl N. Toney, Michigan Liquor Control Commission; Robert Russell, state jail inspector from the Michigan Department of Corrections.

Representatives from the state police will describe the computerized communications system that links all law enforcement agencies with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. Other state police officers will discuss weapons familiarization, emergency services, highway safety planning and the relationship of law enforcement agencies to the news media.

Spokesmen from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources will describe marine safety and snowmobile safety enforcement.

Two four-member panels will deal with special topics. One will concern itself with the services available through federal law enforcement agencies, including the FBI, the secret service, the alcohol and tobacco tax and firearms unit, the federal narcotics bureau. The second panel will discuss the relationship between the sheriff's department and other local law enforcement agencies.

Sheriff's Dept. Checks Burglaries and Car Crash

Two burglaries were investigated by Iosco Sheriff's Department over the week-end.

On Saturday, officers investigated a burglary at a mobile home owned by D. C. Duke, Inkster, on Pineacres Road, Oscoda Township. Entry was made by cutting a hole in the front door.

Household items and tools valued at $267 were stolen from an Oscoda Township cabin owned by Chester Card, Farmington.

Three persons were injured Saturday in a crash on Spartan Road at Plank Road, Tawas Township. Sheriff's department officers said that a car driven by David H. Griffin, 16, Tawas City, skidded out of control and struck a tree. Griffin and two passengers, William Maki, 16, and Michael E. Race, 15, both of East Tawas, were injured and treated at Tawas Hospital.

US-23 Crash Injuries Fatal to Detroit Tot

Brenda Deschamps, five-year-old Detroit girl, died Saturday at Wurtsmith Air Force Base Hospital of injuries received Thanksgiving Day in a crash on US-23, one-quarter mile south of River Road, Oscoda.

One of 24 traffic fatalities over the holiday week-end in Michigan, Brenda was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Deschamps of Detroit, formerly of Alpena.

She had been a passenger in the family auto when it collided with another car driven by Oliver Adams, 42, 1123 South US-23, Oscoda.

Investigating Oscoda - AuSable Township Police officers said that Mr. and Mrs. Deschamps were shaken up in the crash but were not seriously injured. The driver of the other car was not injured.

TWO AUTO CRASHES claimed the lives of two persons last week on Iosco County highways. An East Tawas woman lost her life in the above wreckage in a head-on collision on M-55. State Police Say Slippery Roads Caused Accidents

Slippery highways over the week-end accounted for two accidents investigated by Michigan State Police from East Tawas.

Paul F. Brinkman, 16, East Tawas, lost control of his car Sunday in slush on Monument Road, near Anderson Road, Baldwin Township. The car spun around and hit some trees. Receiving minor injuries was Perry Stephenson, 16, East Tawas.

Andres M. Pastor, 21, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, and Sylvia A. Jones, 26, Oscoda, were treated at Tawas Hospital Saturday following a crash on US-23 in Baldwin Township. Pastor's car skidded on the slippery highway and struck a tree.

Board Adopts Budget; Report Given on Failures

Tawas Area Board of Education adopted its final operational budget for 1972-1973 without change from the one presented two weeks ago at a public hearing attended by only two persons.

Actual general fund expenditures budgeted for the current school year total $1,490,034.44, as compared to $1,322,040 for the preceding year. Revenue includes $569,371.37 in state aid and $880,663.00 in property taxes.

The lone dissent on final approval of the budget was voiced by Trustee Leonard Saki.

In other business, Prin. John Alexander reported that some advantages and some disadvantages have been noted in the school's nine-week marking period, which replaced the traditional six-week marking period at the start of the school term on an experimental basis. The nine-week period was adopted in order to develop instructional units of that duration as a means of curriculum improvement.

Despite the fact that some teachers sent out "early warnings" to parents concerning possible failing marks to students, there has been a high incidence of failures—particularly in the eighth grade. According to a report, there were 92 failures among eighth grade boys in five different classes and 34 girls failed the same five courses.

For the boys, science had 37 failures, followed by 23 in English, 12 in social studies and 11 in mathematics. There were nine boys who failed physical education. Science topped the list for eighth grade girls with 14 failures. (It should be noted that some students cited above failed more than one class.)

Failures dropped off in the ninth grade, but English topped the list with 13 boys not having passing grades.

Alexander said that parent-teacher conferences were most important and urged parents of failing students to contact the school.

Recommended by the report was examination of sports eligibility for eighth and ninth grade boys, examination of honor roll requirements for the eighth grade, examination of the lack of consistency between boys and girls on report cards.

It also recommended that an examination be made of the possibility of a computer report on student marks, including an alphabetical list for each class which lists all students receiving a certain grade, a list of classes which received that grade and the teacher who gave the grade. In addition, it was recommended that there be a summary of performance by grade, sex, class, teacher, user, danger list and honor roll comparisons.

A survey is to be made of other schools in the state concerning eligibility requirements for high school interscholastic sports activities. At the present time, board policy requires that the participant maintain a passing average in every subject, while the state rule allows the participant to be passing in only three subjects to be eligible for sports activities.

While Tawas Area School has a lower dropout rate than the county average, it is the opinion of some that this school's requirement of five passing grades may have a direct bearing on the number of student dropouts. Tawas Area School's dropout rate for 1970-1971 was 4.9 percent, as compared to 5.4 percent for the county average.

A complete study of eligibility requirements is to be made by administrators for presentation to the board of education. Although no vote was taken, a discussion among board of education members indicated that present eligibility requirements would not be lowered. However, authorization was given to conduct a comprehensive study as to the possible effect this higher than state requirement might have on students leaving school.

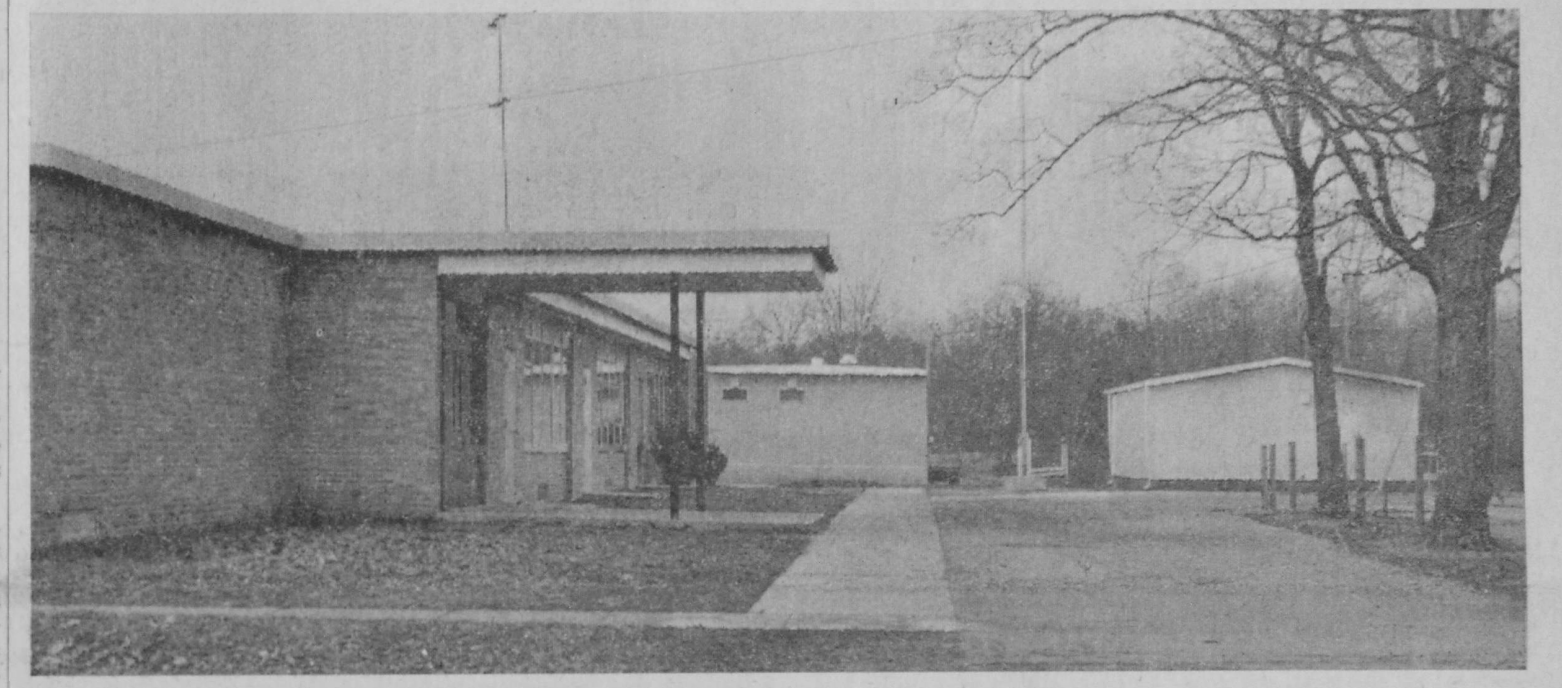

The board of education canceled its December 25 meeting because it falls on Christmas Day.

Public meetings have been scheduled for January 4, 11, 15 and 18 to hear interim reports prepared by various citizens' committees studying the needs of Tawas Area School. It was emphasized by the board of education that the public is invited to attend these meetings and announcement is to be made later of times and locations for the presentations.

The board of education authorized hiring Harold Knight, certified public accountant of East Tawas, as the school's auditor. He is to replace the firm of Yeo and Yeo of Saginaw.

It was announced that the Christmas program for the first four elementary grades is to be held the night of Tuesday, December 19, and the fifth and sixth grade program is to be held the night of Wednesday, December 20. Both programs are to be held at the Tawas City Elementary Unit gymnasium.

An elementary library policy committee has been formed through which two faculty members will be working with library aides and staff to make recommendations as to the future of libraries in the two elementary units.

INSTALLATION was completed Monday on two new portable classroom units for Tawas Area Schools. This is the second installation of portable classrooms here this fall. Three used units were purchased from another school district last summer, with two being located at the high school building on M-55 and one unit at the Tawas City Elementary Unit. The top picture shows the Tawas City Elementary Unit at left with the two portables in the background. At the right is the new unit and the first portable is at left. The picture at left shows the third unit at the high school, which will be used to relieve overcrowded conditions in junior high school grades. Prin. John Alexander said Monday night that the new unit would not go into use until approval has been received from the state electrical inspector. Cost of purchasing the two new portable units, along with hiring two additional teachers, added $21,000 to the school's operational budget.—Tawas Herald Photos.

TA Reaffirms Past Policy on Enrollment

Taking a look at the possibility that Detroit schools may close their doors due to continued failure of voted tax proposals, Tawas Area Board of Education Monday night reaffirmed its past enrollment policy concerning students moving into the district.

The board of education stated that, in order for a student to enroll in this district, his parents or legal guardian.

Supt. Edward J. Barry said that already overcrowded schools here could be in serious trouble should there be any influx of students residing out of the district. He stated he did not expect this to happen, although he felt the board of education should be prepared.

The above policy has been endorsed for a number of years in this district and Prin. John Alexander cited the fact that it was applied to six cases during one year.

A loophole may exist, however. It is believed the policy could not be enforced concerning students 18 years of age or older because of their new adult status.

Senator Reports on Dock

A letter from State Sen. Robert Richardson, Saginaw, indicated Tuesday that state participation in the Michigan Waterways Dock construction proposal at East Tawas cannot and will not begin until $40,000 is released for the United States Army Corps of Engineers to continue planning and after all specifications are completed and advertising for bids commences.

Richardson said the cost of the 000 is released for the United States Army Corps of Engineers to continue planning and after all specifications are completed and advertising for bids commences.

Richardson said the cost of the 000 is released for the United States Army Corps of Engineers to continue planning and after all specifications are completed and advertising for bids commences.

After the above two prerequisites are met, the state would then confirm its intentions to supply matching funds. The state must also give intentions to construct and install docking and service facilities after the completion of the main construction by the federal government.

"The corps of engineers has again indicated that the $40,000 could be released by April 1, 1973, provided that normal procedures occur and that funds for construction purposes would be released by the spring of 1975 if all planning is completed and approved and all moneys released," said Senator Richardson.

"The corps of engineers indicates now that the total amount needed for planning will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $140,000, with the $40,000 only the first phase," he stated.

In his letter to Elmer Werth of East Tawas, who has played an important role in discussions on the dock proposals, the senator assured him of his "continuing close interest in this important matter."

Express Interest in Nursery School

Interest has been expressed in forming a nursery school program in the Tawas area, according to Gene Gerber, community school director. This program would be for children in the three to four-year-old age group.

Programs of reading, art, rhymes and games would be provided. Mothers would spend a certain amount of time assisting the teacher with the program and the amount of time spent would depend on the number of children involved.

Anyone interested should call the community education office, phone 362-6127.

A HEADON CRASH Wednesday afternoon on M-55, east of Mc-Ardle Road, claimed the life of an East Tawas woman and hospitalized the driver of an Iosco Road Commission truck. Dead is Anna Marie Witalec, 39, 2144 Ruth Street, East Tawas. Treated at Tawas Hospital and then transferred the following day to a Saginaw hospital was James G. Staweke, 34, Timreck Road, Tawas City. Investigating sheriff's department officers said the crash occurred when Mrs. Witalec, headed east on M-55, passed two cars which had stopped for a third car in the process of making a left hand turn. The Witalec vehicle collided with the road commission truck, which was headed west. The victim was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner E. John Moffatt. Site of the crash was approximately at the same location as the collision which claimed the lives of William H. Newhouse, Randy L. Roach and Frederick A. Rempert Jr. in May 1967. The top picture shows the coroner and officers removing the deceased victim's body from the wreckage. The picture at lower left shows Mrs. Witalec's wrecked car and at right is the road commission pickup.—Tawas Herald Photos.

Livestock Poisoning Traced to Feeding of Moldy Corn

Several cases of livestock poisoning due to moldy corn have been reported in the southern portions of the Lower Peninsula.

According to Michigan State University plant disease experts, wet weather conditions during the fall have been ideal for the growth of fungi on corn ears in the field. Some of these fungi produce poisonous compounds that, in high concentrations, can affect livestock.

Dr. Elmer Rossman, MSU crop and soil scientist, says, "The best way to reduce the chances of livestock poisoning is to harvest as soon as possible, even if it means leaving wet areas of the field to harvest later."

"Harvested corn should be dried immediately to prevent further mold development. Drying, however, will not destroy poisons already present," Rossman points out.

In the case of high moisture corn silage, the corn should be put into the silo immediately and steps should be taken to insure the best possible fermentation. This will kill the mold fungi and stop the further production of poisons.

Dr. L. E. Newman, MSU veterinarian, says, "The symptoms in livestock fed mold-damaged corn can vary widely, but may include: Lack of appetite, poor feed response, poor weight gains, reduced milk production, reduced egg production, vomiting, scours, bloody feces, bloody urine, hemorrhages, swollen vulva, abortion, depression, weakness, nervous disturbances, prostration and death."

"Swine producers can test for the presence of mold poisons by feeding corn to finishing hogs for four or five days," says Dr. Edward Miller, MSU swine expert.

"Don't feed moldy corn to young pigs and hogs in the breeding herd, since these animals are the most sensitive to mold poisons. For these animals, use last year's corn stocks or substitute other feed grains such as wheat, oats, barley, grain sorghum or speltz," says Miller.

If there is no alternative but to feed moldy corn, Miller recommends that it can best be utilized by finishing hogs. "When possible, contaminated corn should be fed as shelled or ear corn," he says. "The hogs will do a good job of sorting the good corn from the bad when given a chance. Grinding and mixing force them to eat the moldy feed."

To help prevent internal bleeding caused by mold poisoning, Miller recommends that swine producers add four grams of vitamin K per ton of total ration. He also notes that attempts to increase feed consumption by adding molasses or similar products to the ration usually fail.

For cattle and sheep, MSU ruminant animal specialists, Terry Greathouse, Hugh Henderson and Donald Hillman, make the following recommendations:

Do not force animals to eat moldy or rotten corn.

Test feeding value of mold-damaged corn on small groups of animals (observe them closely for any symptoms) before mixing large quantities of feed.

If moldy corn must be fed, dilute it extensively with supplies of sound grain.

Be especially cautious when feeding moldy corn to young and pregnant cattle and sheep, since they are most vulnerable to mold poisons.

If moldy corn is fed to feeder cattle, growth stimulants should be implanted in only five percent of the animals. Observe the herd for several weeks, then implant the other animals as needed.

Tax Changes Reviewed by TC Firm

Staff of Capital Business Service of Tawas, Incorporated, a professional firm of practicing accountants and tax specialists, traveled to the Panlind Hotel, Grand Rapids, Monday, November 20, to spend three days reviewing and analyzing changes made this year in federal, state and city income taxes.

The clinic, conducted by the Independent Accountants Association of Michigan, attracted over 425 professional practicing accountants and tax specialists from all points in Michigan.

Howard G. Herriman, Sharon A. Frank, Mildred Greenlee and Patricia Bolen spent the bulk of their time exploring the latest guides available to them to minimize their clients' tax liabilities.

Among other things, clinic-attendees received explanations of the more difficult IRS forms; they probed the tax problems which surface in divorce and separation cases; they were taught how to spot tax savings in real estate transactions, in revocable and irrevocable trusts, and they received advice on how to solve unusual problems in determining taxable income.

The Independent Accountants Association of Michigan estimated that professional practicing accountants and tax associates in Michigan process nearly one million federal and about 600,000 state and local returns.

City Developing Guidelines for Spending Federal Money

A guideline for expenditure of federal revenue sharing funds is now being developed by City Mgr. Reginald Bublitiz and the Tawas City Council.

At the regular meeting of the city council last week, Bublitiz said that the federal money could be utilized for a variety of purposes, but future operational budgets could not be set or determined on the revenue sharing money and taxes could not be lowered because of this money.

The city manager told councilmen that the city could expect to receive its first entitlement check in early December, representing payment for the first six months of 1972. A second check is to be received in 1973, representing the second half of the current year.

When the plan was announced earlier this year, it was believed that Tawas City's share of the federal revenue sharing distribution would be approximately $25,000. Although no specific amount has been designated as yet, the city manager now believes the community's share will be somewhat less than the figure originally anticipated.

The formula for distribution to cities over 2,500 persons is established, reports Bublitiz following his attendance at a recent meeting concerning the fund, but the formula for cities under 2,500 is vague and not coordinated at this time. The first check could be based on information as far back as 1967 and would be adjusted when the third or fourth entitlement is due.

Preliminary regulations governing the custody, use and expenditure of federal revenue sharing have been established, said Bublitiz, but final regulations and laws are expected prior to the January 1973 entitlement. Until final regulations are available, the local units may deposit the funds and defer expenditures until final regulations are available.

Under preliminary rules, federal revenue funds may be used for public safety, including law enforcement, fire protection and building code enforcement; environmental protection, including sewage disposal, sanitation and pollution abatement, as well as for public transportation, health, recreation, libraries, social services for the poor or aged, financial administration, ordinary and necessary capital expenditures authorized by law.

The money may not be used as a local community's matching share for federal grant money. A report of actual use of funds must be submitted prior to January 1, 1973, for the period covering the first six months of next year.

In other business conducted at last week's council meeting, the council approved a contract with Central Radio Telegraph Company of Rogers City for use of the city water tower for installation of an aerial. The firm provides radio communication service for Great Lakes shipping interests.

The council accepted the low bid from Ottawa Equipment Company for furnishing a police car.

Harold Knight was present at the meeting and gave his recommendations concerning specifications for bidding on a proposed retirement plan for city employees. The city manager and Knight are to develop final specifications for the plan in order that bids may be advertised by the council.

A letter was read from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Landon, who object to the proposed purchase of the Methodist Church and fellowship hall by the city as a community center. Some discussion has been heard at recent council meetings concerning the idea and a petition endorsing such purchase was received from various civic groups.

The Landons believed the purchase would be an unnecessary burden to the taxpayers and that many buildings were presently available in the community. The Landons expressed the opinion that tax dollars should be utilized for providing "clean water, good sewers, good streets and maintenance of the community."

TODAY'S Meditation

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

(Read I Corinthians 13)

Meanwhile these three remain: Faith, hope, and love, and the greatest of these is love. (I Corinthians 13: 13, TEV)

When death touches a person whom we love, we lack words to express our sadness. It is also difficult to express our faith that death is not the end. As I tried to write a letter of comfort, these words of scripture came to me: "Faith, hope, love abide."

Death does not end the love we have for the person who has a fuller experience with God. In fact, we can be comforted. If our love which is imperfect can last beyond the grave, surely God's love will be with us and those we love before and after death.

God knows and loves the person who died. And He knows and understands our grief, our loneliness, even our anger or bewilderment.

We must live in the faith that Christ is with us to comfort us, to strengthen us and to guide us through all of life. Our hope lies in Jesus Christ, who triumphed over death and promises us abundant life now and always.

PRAYER
Dear Jesus, who came to bring us life here and beyond, we thank You that love never ends. Help us so to live that we can see death as entering more fully into Your love. Thank You for the fullness of life we can know right now. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Iosco Audubon Society is New, but Growing

The Iosco Audubon Society is a new and growing cultural organization in the Tawas area. It is made up of 45 men and women from Tawas, Hale, Oscoda, Greenbush and surrounding areas who are interested in wildlife, ecology, birding, conservation and related activities.

The IAS is one of 26 Michigan Audubon Society chapters located throughout the state. These chapters sponsor field trips, lectures and films; nature and education-oriented local projects, and study and advise on local environmental problems. The Iosco chapter hosts a monthly indoor program and a monthly outdoor activity, to which the public is invited. (Consult the Herald for the time and place of these events as they vary every month.)

Perhaps the reader is a parent, who has witnessed the disappearance of much of the natural world with which he grew up and wishes his children to be able to enjoy nature; or a young person or student concerned about the quality of the environment in the future; or a businessman, scientist or teacher who is in a position to contribute special knowledge to the education of the public. This is just a sampling of the men and women who are involved in Audubon work on the local, state and national level. Whatever the occupation or special interest, Audubon members share a deep concern about the natural environment.

The following are some of the Michigan Audubon Society functions in which, as a chapter, IAS will be involved: The MAS owns seven major wildlife sanctuaries and nature centers for the preservation of special habitats and educational purposes. The nature-education centers, with professional staffs of naturalists, are one of the major educational tools of the MAS. It conducts training courses for teachers and day camps at the nature centers and sanctuaries. It carries out an osprey nesting program designed to bring back the level of osprey to a safe survival level in Michigan. The MAS works actively with the United States Forest Service and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources in maintaining suitable habitat for the rare Kirtland Warbler which nests only in the Bahamas and certain jackpine areas in Michigan's Lower Peninsula. The MAS is also active in keeping its members updated on current environmental legislation pending at the state level and in influencing this legislation.

Purpose of Iosco Audubon Society is to offer an enjoyable and educational experience in the world of nature to the public, as well as to instill in people an appreciation of wildlife and wilderness, natural resources and natural beauty. The public is always welcome to participate in any IAS activities. For information, call 362-2959.

Former Detroit Died November 24

A former Detroit resident, Felix A. Galavage Sr. of East Tawas, 72, passed away Friday, November 24, after suffering a heart attack while raking leaves at his home. Funeral services were conducted Monday, November 27, at St. Joseph Catholic Church, East Tawas, with burial in the church cemetery. The Rev. Fr. John Rushman officiated at the Mass. A Christian wake service was held Sunday, November 26, at the E. D. Jacques and Son Funeral Home, Tawas City.

Born July 26, 1900, in Duryea, Pennsylvania, Mr. Galavage and his wife, Louise, moved to East Tawas four years ago after his retirement from the Fiamme Gas Company, Detroit.

Surviving besides his wife are a son, Felix Galavage Jr. of East Tawas; four grandchildren; three brothers, and two sisters.

Shore Owners Invited To Give Views

Local, state and federal agencies have been supplied with copies of a proposed management plan for Michigan's Great Lakes shorelands. The plan, prepared under provisions of the "Shorelands Protection and Management Act of 1970," has received approval of the Michigan Water Resources Commission and the Natural Resources Commission for public review.

Views and comments on the plan are being solicited by the Michigan Water Resources Commission at a series of regional public hearings, one of which is scheduled for 10:00 a. m. Friday, December 1, at the Lecture Theatre, Delta College, University Center.

Shoreland property owners, shoreland user groups, environmental organizations and other interested or affected parties have the opportunity to present their views and comments at the hearing. Many shoreland area libraries have been supplied with copies of the proposed plan for viewing by the public.

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist

so many holiday get-togethers is traditional gourmet food. The wise homemaker, therefore, is not only doing her Christmas shopping well in advance of the season, she is cooking now for next month as well as is storing premade festive goodies in her freezer.

Very often frozen party foods such as hors d'oeuvres and special desserts are the most expensive items in the grocery store freezer. Yet these are the foods most needed during the holiday seasons. Those prepared now and stored in the freezer will be homemade-delicious and will save in time and money next month when the schedule is more hectic.

Most foods are freezable and will keep several months in the freezer. Some exceptions are boiled potatoes (as in stews), cake batters, cream fillings and puddings, salad greens, garnishes and the white of hard cooked eggs (unless put through a grinder). Vegetables should be frozen as quickly as possible and may should be scalded before freezing.

When preparing fresh meat and poultry for freezing, always remove butcher's paper or any moisture-absorbing paperboard that may affect flavor. Keep hands and work areas clean. Separate cut meats and patties by putting two pieces of foil, waxed or freezer paper between layers. To simplify serving, always freeze meats, and other foods, too, in meal-size quantities.

When pre-cooking, keep three things in mind: 1) Sanitary preparation with shortened cooking time. Reheating will complete the cooking process. 2) Rapid cooling. This can be done by placing the hot pan of food into a larger pan of ice water or under cold running water. 3) Immediate freezing. Space packages or containers at least one inch apart in freezer to allow air to circulate. Once frozen solidly, pack closely to save space.

The cardinal rule in packaging is to use only clean containers, papers, foils, plastic wraps and bags and to eliminate all possible air spaces, except needed head space. Every package should be labeled and dated. An inventory is helpful for meal planning and for the gift foods as well.

Don't take a chance with your heritage!

C of C Keeps Pace With Isoco Growth

According to the Tawas Chamber of Commerce, Isoco County is the third largest county in growth in the State of Michigan and the forecast is that it will remain in that category.

"Without going into detail in depth, you can be certain that persons in business and services offered have been affected with beneficial results," states Harris Barkman, chamber president.

"Your chamber of commerce has also been subject to change—requiring more service and an awareness for present and future planning," he stated.

Barkman states that the following figures show just what has happened in recent years in this county. Households have shown a gain from 6,500 in 1967 to 7,600 in 1971, a gain of 1,100; population has grown from 21,000 persons in 1967 to 24,000 in 1971, a gain of 3,105; buying income has increased from $513,440,000 in 1967 to $660,210,000 in 1971, a gain of $14,667,000.

"The Tawas Area has been greatly affected by this change and it is very evident with the increase in number of pupils in our schools and the increase in county, city and township tax valuations," states Barkman.

In service to the communities, the chamber of commerce has provided answers to approximately 3,000 incoming telephone inquiries and has received and distributed 2,500 pieces of mail. Outgoing mail totaled 2,600, including tourist requests, thank you letters, congratulations and official mail.

The number of promotional brochures mailed, handed out and delivered totaled 25,000. Other brochures from members and nonmembers handled as advertising for businesses amounted to about 13,000.

Visitors to the chamber office seeking information during the past year amounted to 5,000 persons. These people were greeted by a full-time secretary, working at the chamber of commerce office six days a week throughout the year and willing to lend a helping hand.

TO JAYWALK
Jaywalkers are a double danger not only do they risk their own safety, but they also cause traffic jams and vehicle collisions. Taking the time to cross only at corners may mean saving your life and the lives of others. Husband's Pay Has No Effect on Wife's SS

Question: I had worked at a job for nearly 25 years until my doctor recently ordered me to quit because of a serious heart condition. Even though my husband is still working, can I receive monthly social security disability payments?

Answer: If you are found eligible for disability payments on your own work record, you will be able to receive monthly checks. The fact that your husband is working will have no effect on your monthly payments.

You should call, write or visit any social security office immediately to apply for disability payments.

Question: I recently heard something about monthly social security payments for adults who have been severely disabled since childhood. I am 25 but I was severely hurt in a car accident when I was 16 and I am not able to work. Since my father is going to retire this year and get social security payments, will I be eligible for payments, too?

Answer: You may be. Severely disabled adults who are disabled before 18 are eligible for monthly social security payments if a parent insured under social security retires, dies or becomes severely disabled. Your father should ask about social security payments for you when he applies for his retirement benefits.

Question: I am 25 years old. Because of a severe heart condition that began when I was 12, I have been getting monthly social security payments on my retired father's work record. A couple months ago, I got married and, even though my heart condition has not changed, my monthly checks stopped. Can you tell me why my checks were stopped?

Answer: Your payments were stopped because of your marriage. Adults disabled in childhood can continue to get checks as long as they are dependent upon their parents. Because you married, however, you are no longer considered dependent upon your parents, and therefore you are not eligible to get monthly checks on your father's work record.

Question: Is filing for social security disability benefits as hard as some people say it is? I hear that social security asks for all kinds of information. I am quite nervous and would rather not file if it is too much trouble.

Answer: Filing for disability benefits is really no trouble at all. You can file your claim from the comfort of your home by using the telephone and the information we ask is not difficult. It is just a matter of having it all at the time you file.

For your convenience, a check list of the information you will need is as follows:

Your social security number; the date (month, day and year) you last worked; the date (month, day and year) you became disabled; information on the kind of disability you have; the names and addresses of the doctors, hospitals and institutions that treated you along with the dates of treatment; if treated or examined by the Veterans Administration, you should have your service serial number and your Veterans Administration number handy; information about the kinds of jobs you worked most in the 10 years before your disability began; if you received workmen's compensation benefits, you should have your workmen's compensation claim number; if you are applying for monthly payments for your family, you will need the social security numbers (if applicable) and dates of birth of your spouse and children.
