Vote May 14 on New School Proposal

A $5,365,643 bond issue for construction of a new high school and renovation of the Tawas City Elementary Unit is to be placed before voters of Tawas Area School District on Monday, May 14.

A special meeting to acquaint the public with the board of education's proposal is to be held Monday, April 16, 8:00 p. m., at the high school cafeteria.

Formal decision on adopting a resolution to place this comprehensive school building program before voters was taken by Tawas Area Board of Education Monday night.

In the discussion stage since last fall, when various citizens' advisory committees were appointed by the board of education, preliminary planning was discussed at a meeting Thursday night attended by members of the citizens' advisory committees, the board of education and representatives of the school's architectural consultant firm, Davenport Associates, Incorporated, Grand Rapids.

The proposed bond issue would be for a period of 30 years and, with the district's present state equalized valuation, would require a tax levy of seven mills to retire the bonds.

At the present rate of growth and based on past bond levies of the district, it is expected that the actual tax levy for bonded indebtedness would be reduced as the district valuation increases.

Determination to ask voter approval for financing construction of a new high school was reached earlier this year following reports by citizens' advisory groups in their comprehensive study of the school.

According to the plan to be placed before voters, a new high school with 39 teaching stations, would be constructed at a cost of $4,640,000.

The present high school building would be used as a middle school for grades five through eight.

Remodeling and additions to the Tawas City Elementary Unit would cost $129,300. In addition, the proposal would include a swimming pool costing $547,000.

Following Thursday night's meeting, it was decided by the board of education that it would not include a new elementary unit at East Tawas.

Edmunds Engineering, Incorporated, presented a map to the council Monday night showing streets with existing storm sewer systems, which it felt could be paved during 1973.

Included in the streets recommended to be withheld are Ninth Avenue, from the railroad tracks to Fourth Street; Harris Avenue, from Second Street to the city limits; First Avenue, from Anna Drive to M-55.

The engineer stated that Ninth Avenue, Harris Avenue and First Avenue would all need sand subbases and additional time would be needed to provide the best compaction to insure the longevity of the proposed paving.

In addition, the engineer pointed out that the city is to reconstruct its water main on Harris Avenue and that water and sanitary sewer leads should be constructed on Ninth Avenue, Harris Avenue and First Avenue prior to the paving program.

The engineer's report stated that the section of First Street between Fifth Avenue and Harris appears to be in need of reconstruction.

offices, metal shop, metal shop storage, graphic shop, storage and classroom. There would be a drafting room, student project room and adult education room.

The administrative area would include a general office, principal's office, assistant principal's office, office for community school director, health room, workroom, vault, book store and two restrooms.

The service area would include a boiler room, maintenance and storage area, along with an outside storage area.

Cost of the new high school, to be located south of the existing building, would include $25,000 for site, $3,669,770 for equipment, $125,000 for site development, $200,000 for building contingency, $25,000 for miscellaneous and $241,907 for fees.

The 4,000-square-foot addition to the Tawas City Elementary Unit would see the present wing removed, constructed more than 25 years ago for a bus garage, and replaced with a library, a cafeteria seating 130 persons and a serving kitchen.

The proposed swimming pool, to be located near the present high school, would require 13,925 square feet of space. The building would include a mechanical room, locker and shower rooms, handball court and bleachers.

According to a summary of the existing school facilities by the architect, all buildings are overcrowded. If the program is adopted, the new building and addition to the elementary unit is designed to give approximately 30 percent usage of classrooms and would provide expansion for future enrollment increases.

At the present time, there is more than 100 percent usage of classrooms in the high school, with corridors and storage areas being utilized for classrooms.

It is being proposed to have kindergarten through grade three at East Tawas and kindergarten through grade four at Tawas City. At the present time, part of the fourth grade is at East Tawas and it is felt that a more comprehensive remodeling program can be offered to fourth graders by concentrating students in one area.

No construction work is anticipated in converting the present high school into a middle school for grades five through eight.

grades five through eight. It is expected that seven additional teachers would be hired to meet the needs of a comprehensive middle school.

The proposed swimming pool, gymnasium and auditorium will be located in a cluster to serve both the new high school and the middle school. The present parking lot would be tripled in size.

It is anticipated that four additional teachers would be hired for the high school, giving a total of 11 new teachers in the system. The new high school would also require an additional two custodians, with one custodian being transferred there from the present high school.

The additional teachers, custodians and program additions would require an additional three mills of voted operational tax.

Supt. Edward J. Barry said Monday that no decision could be reached by the board of education on submitting the 1973-1974 millage proposal to voters until final word is received on the state aid bill.

He said, however, that it is his hope to operate the school next year on the present operational tax levy of 16.5 mills.

Central Michigan University's symphonic wind ensemble will perform at Tawas Area High School Wednesday, April 11, 8:00 p. m. The concert is open to the public, who can expect to hear one of the finest college bands in Michigan perform an exciting program of music.

CMU's symphonic wind ensemble is composed of a select group of musicians chosen from students accepted for the university's concert band program. It numbers about 60 persons and is directed by Norman C. Deitz, professor of music, director of bands and chairman of the instrumental area in the CMU Department of Music. He is director of the famed Chippewa Marching Band.

The symphonic wind ensemble is in demand for performances throughout Michigan. It is one of the finest ensembles of its kind and is noted for its interpretive musicianship as well as for its versatility in providing an entertaining concert for audiences of varying interests.

The CMU symphonic wind ensemble had the honor of being chosen to present a concert at the 1970 meeting of the College Band Directors Association at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Illinois. In January 1971, the group was selected to perform the concluding concert for the 26th annual music conference on the campus of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Without organized opposition, fluoridation of the city's water supply as a tooth decay preventative measure was favored by East Tawas voters Monday by a two to one margin.

The proposal, placed before voters on petition to the city council, was adopted, 291-163.

A similar proposal had been defeated by East Tawas voters nearly 10 years ago. The East Tawas water filtration plant furnishes Tawas City with its water supply under a 15-year-old contract, although voters in the latter community had no vote on the proposal.

In the only other contest, Jacob Montgomery won over William Wainwright Sr. for the Third Ward council seat by only eight votes, 88-80. Montgomery is to fill the vacancy of Charles Schreck, who retires at the end of his current term.

Wainwright made an excellent showing in his own neighborhood, the Second Precinct, where he tallied 49 votes as compared to Montgomery's 42. However, the winner piled up a good margin in the First Precinct, 46-32.

Clerk Clyde Soper reported that 460 voters out of a registration list of nearly 1,600 turned out at the polls. He believed that the rainy weather was responsible for part of the poor showing of voters.

Re-elected without opposition were Robert Bolen, mayor; Grace C. Pelton, treasurer; Soper, clerk; George Staudacher, incumbent First Ward alderman; James E. Crowley, Second Ward alderman, who is to succeed Earl McElheron, who retires after many years of service to city government.

New members of the council are to attend Friday night's meeting. The regular Monday night session was canceled because of the election.

In other business, the superintendent reported that he was currently in the process of studying the district's transportation costs. He said that bus maintenance costs were high and he believed the school should study the possibility of maintaining its own buses.

Because of increased enrollment, Barry said that some buses are now traveling about 27,000 miles per year, rather than the previous average of 17,000 miles a year. As a result, buses are not lasting seven years as in the past and buses are making extra trips, which results in additional maintenance.

While 10 new buses should be added to the district's 18-bus fleet to replace four buses which are seven years old and to meet the increased enrollment, Barry said that he would recommend purchase of three additional buses this year.

His report indicated that 1,630 buses were in the district.

Council Hikes Pay to Former Level

Following several months of discussion, Tawas City Council Monday night directed that pay of aldermen be increased from $5 to $10 per meeting, the same amount as paid prior to adoption of the city charter. All James Lensky said that the time had come to correct an obvious mistake by the charter commission in reducing the pay received by aldermen for attending twice monthly council meetings.

The charter commission, during its deliberations two years ago, had understood that it was necessary to establish a pay rate for elected officials and believed that the council could then establish new rates through ordinance or resolution. After adoption of the charter, however, a legal opinion of the city attorney indicated that aldermen could not increase their own pay while in office and that any new rate would only apply to newly-elected members of the council.

Since receipt of the legal opinion, members of the council have expressed the opinion that lowering their rate of pay was unfair. In moving to return the pay to $10 per meeting effective immediately, Ald. James Lensky said that if anyone wished to protest they could do so by appearing before the council.

The motion was approved on a five to one roll call vote. Mayor John Brugger cast the lone dissenting vote. In favor of the motion with Lensky were William Groff, Clark Tanner, Robert Rolin and Edward Savage, Ald. Chester Smyczynski was absent.

In addition to the above action, the council authorized the city manager to purchase a new back hoe for the department of public works. Estimated cost of the new unit is $12,355.

The city is to develop a bridge construction plan to be presented to the county board of commissioners and included in a program of bridge construction being considered by the county road commission using federal revenue sharing funds. It was indicated earlier this year by the county board of commissioners that it was to be placed on the second year of their probationary status, following action by Tawas Area Board of Education at its meeting Monday night.

Four secondary teachers to receive tenure status include Timothy D. Haskin, social studies department; Paul Hay, guidance counselor; Timothy Kastan, band instructor; Ray VanHorn, business education instructor.

Placed on the second year of probationary status were the following nine secondary teachers: Mrs. Kathleen Cox, English; Michael Gekeler, junior high mathematics and science; Stephen Hitch, automotive instructor; George Joantits, boys' physical education; Laura Mahoski, junior high mathematics; Miss Sandra Myszak, English and speech; board of commissioners that the city's two new bridges presently under construction would be included in any program adopted.

The city manager is to check out the possibility of using steel from old bridges presently being removed for a foot bridge across Dead Creek at the site of the old foot bridge on Seventh Avenue.

A letter was read from William McCreedy asking the council to relieve him of the responsibility of acting as city prosecutor in district court cases. McCreedy, who had been appointed by the council to fill the position, serves as probate judge and he believed there may be a conflict of interest between the two positions.

According to a letter from the Michigan Department of State Highways, the state is to study the possibility of installing drainage tubes on both sides of US-23 from the river bridge to the south city limit and to fill ditches in that area. The city council had recommended such a program because open ditches in that area are objectionable.

It was reported that approval has been received from the county board of commissioners for an allocation of $12,000 to assist the city in enlarging the parking area along US-23 in front of the county building. Total cost of the project, which has received approval of the Michigan Department of State Highways, is $20,000. To be transferred to this project is $5,000 presently held by the city which had been intended for blacktopping of the parking lot in the city park and received from the state, along with another $2,500 presently held in escrow by the city.

Pay of the board of review was established at $20 per day. The council authorized payment of $100 to Mrs. Mary Byrd, clerk, for assisting 87 senior citizens and 30 veterans to prepare homestead tax exemptions.

Dates for the annual cleanup days campaign are to be coordinated with the City of East Tawas and are to be announced at a later date.

Miss Marcia Sztanyo, girls' physical education; Dennis Tibbets, junior high English and social studies; Larry VanWagoner, physics and chemistry.

Elementary teachers receiving tenure were Nancy Sampter, first grade, East Tawas; Nancy Inglis, second grade, East Tawas; Judith David, third grade, East Tawas; William Lenz, sixth grade reading, Tawas City; Elaine McLaughlin, kindergarten, Tawas City.

Elementary teachers placed on second year probationary status were Martha Lyons, kindergarten, East Tawas; Lucinda Bishop, first grade, East Tawas; George Wajda, third grade, East Tawas; Donald Barnes, music; Wendy LaVoie, second grade, Tawas City; Elizabeth Jacob, fifth grade, Tawas City; Carol Wellington, fifth grade, Tawas City.

The new school would include a pre-vocational area with facilities for wood shop, finishing room, student project storage, lumber storage, road work may delay some paving. Tawas City Council has taken under advisement a recommendation of its engineer to delay blacktopping of three streets in its proposed reconstruction of 12 major streets this summer.

Edmunds Engineering, Incorporated, presented a map to the council Monday night showing streets with existing storm sewer systems, which it felt could be paved during 1973.

Included in the streets recommended to be withheld are Ninth Avenue, from the railroad tracks to Fourth Street; Harris Avenue, from Second Street to the city limits; First Avenue, from Anna Drive to M-55.

Grand Blanc Man Nabbed In Local 'Drop'

Edwin D. Beck, 26, Grand Blanc, was arrested Friday night by the Losco County Sheriff's Department and charged with possessing one pound of marijuana with the intent to sell.

He was arraigned Saturday morning before the district court magistrate. Bond was set at $3,000 and the arraignment has been scheduled for Wednesday (today), April 4, 9:30 a. m.

Sheriff George Westcott who, with Undersheriff Joseph Martin, Det. Basil Odell and Tawas City Patrolman Derryck Goodrow, made the arrest said his department had a tip that a "drop" was to be made near the intersection of Mathews Street and US-23 in Tawas City.

The intersection and Blultz Oil Company station were placed under surveillance by officers and about 40 cars were checked from a distance before a car fitting Beck's vehicle stopped.

Sheriff Westcott said that a quantity of items stolen Thursday night from the Silver Creek Ranger Station in Huron National Forest were found in the car. He said that federal authorities were seeking a warrant charging Beck with the burglary.

Regular Meeting of Association for Retarded Children

Regular meeting of the Inisco Association for Retarded Children has been scheduled for Thursday, April 12, 7:30 p. m., at the trainable center across from the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, Tawas City. Meeting date was changed from April 28 due to the Easter vacation at local schools.

Video tape of a speech therapist giving language therapy to a retarded child will be shown along with a film of the special education Olympics held last summer.

students were now being transported by the school district. Additional routes will have to be added next fall to serve north US-23, Whitney Township, Sand Lake and Sherman Township.

An arbitration meeting with non-instructional employees is to be held Wednesday afternoon concerning negotiations on a new contract.

The superintendent reported that prospects for renewal of certain federal money to aid schools appears to be very dim. It is expected that this school district will lose approximately $18,000 in federal money previously received for federally-impacted children and Title One. As a result, positions of 16 persons employed under federal programs are in jeopardy and are to be notified in May that their jobs may no longer be available in this school district. Included are teachers' aides.

John Alexander, high school principal, along with John Austin and Mrs. David Kennedy of the citizens' advisory committee, are attending a meeting Wednesday (today) concerning the extended school year proposal.

John Walton, baseball coach, was authorized to take the baseball team to Ann Arbor Saturday, April 14, to play an Ann Arbor team and Chelsea. Private automobiles are to be used for transportation and the team will be overnight guests of Walton's parents.

On recommendation of Principal Alexander, the board of education is to give consideration to a proposal allowing seniors having passing grades at the end of the first semester, but who fail the second semester and do not have the required number of points to graduate, to participate in graduation exercises.

Alexander said that changing the present policy would improve the attitude of those students who fail the second semester and would serve to encourage him to work toward receiving a diploma during the summer months or through the community education program.

He said that changing the policy would not mean lowering the school's standards or that the school was "getting soft." He said that in a number of past cases, seniors found out that they were not going to graduate during the last week of school. A check with other schools in the conference, including Oscoda Area, Ogemaw Heights, Standish-Stirling Central and Essexville-Garber, indicated that those schools had adopted policies identical to the proposed new policy for this school district.

The board of education adopted 8:00 p. m. as the starting time for meetings effective May 14. The starting time of 7:30 p. m. is to be resumed next fall.

be in good shape, providing good riding quality and of sufficient width. It was the engineer's recommendation that this street be deleted from the paving program.

In its original plan, the council included 17,110 feet of plant mix black-top construction involving reconstruction of 12 major streets. Final engineering plans have not been received as yet.

All of the streets under consideration would require swale ditches to conduct the surface water away from the pavement surface and to an existing ditch outlet or storm sewer. Driveways would require either curbs or stone bedding in the swale ditch.

It was noted by the engineer during a field inspection that there was a pocket of standing water on Mathews Street east of the intersection with Sixth Avenue. It was Edmands' recommendation that the existing storm sewer on Mathews Street be extended for approximately 300 feet along the south side of Mathews Street to pick up this area.

The engineer recommended that to reduce future maintenance cost, shoulders of roads should be seal coated. This would help to maintain the proper drainage to the swale ditches, reduce grading and maintenance cost of the shoulder areas and reduce the dust control required.

Shoreline Flooding Discussion Held With US Engineers

IT'S SPRING and the thoughts of young athletes has turned to track at Tawas Area High School. The sport is "co-educational" for the first time this year in the Northern B Conference and some of the 20 girls donning red and white track uniforms for the first time are shown jogging around the school's all weather track in the top photo. Dennis Tibbetts and Marsha Stanyo are coaches of the girl's squad. The squad's first meet is April 19 and the girls will be competing in conference meets during the spring season.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Iosco County Board of Commissioners and Oscoda Township officials met Wednesday with representatives of the United States Army Corps of Engineers and received information concerning "Operation Foresight," a federal program designed to assist shoreline areas with current flooding problems.

Iosco is included among five Saginaw Bay-Lake Huron counties being considered for federal assistance in helping to control flooding. The entire shoreline in Iosco along Lake Huron and Saginaw Bay has been plagued by extreme erosion problems and there has been much damage to breakwalls and residences.

Henry Gage, county civil defense director, said following the meeting that there was an "extremely fine line" differentiating between flooding and erosion, but a most important difference as this program does not give consideration to shoreline erosion.

"Flooding and beach erosion are practically one and the same here in Iosco County as much of our shoreline erosion problem is caused by high water and flooding. The corps of engineers makes the determination as to the classification," said Gage.

Those attending the meeting learned that there are three basic ways in which the corps of engineers can assist an area with flooding problems: (1) The federal government will contribute all materials for dikes, including steel, planking and sand bags, with the local sponsoring governmental unit arranging for the labor; (2) The local govern-

Spring Came Late; Bay Furnished Road in '81

Iosco residents, who enjoyed an extremely mild winter until digging out of the winter's worst blizzard three weeks ago, should be interested in an article which appeared in the April 4, 1919, issue of The Tawas Herald.

Author of the article is unknown as it was signed "Old Citizen," which was a common practice in newspapers 50 or more years ago. The article is as follows:

A COMPARISON 1881-1919

Thirty-eight years ago, on April 3, 1881, climatic and traveling conditions in this corner of the universe were very different than on the corresponding day of 1919.

Then, there were few good roads and no railroad. There was an unbroken ice field on the lake as far as the eye could reach. Snow was two feet deep on the level and the drifts would have been over the fences if there had been any fences to have been covered and roads were impossible because of the many pitch holes and "thank-you ma'ams."

The only practical means of communicating with the outside world was by Green's stage coach, drawn by four horses and carrying a dozen passengers and a good supply of baggage, which, owing to the condition of the roads, was using the congealed surface by Lake Huron as a highway.

As soon as breakfast was over we took the stage at the Miner House, East Tawas, George Hall driving. Drove down to Robinson's store and got the mail, then to Doctor Darling's in the store that is now the Hotel Iosco, where the express office was located. Then down on to the ice and made a bee line for Alabaster, where the mail was changed and again onto the ice where we continued until Pine River was reached, halfway to Bay City, without again going on shore. Horses were changed a mile off from land opposite Joe Matteson's.

If the reader cares to know where this famous hostelry was located he can look down the shore to where the projecting land fades into the horizon and will have the spot very nearly.

The "village" was not large, just the hotel and two or three out buildings. At noon, after the "inner-man" had been announcing the approaching dinner time and no sign of the stage turning shoreward, a tent loomed up in the distance. When reached, a substantial and appetizing dinner was found spread for the cold and hungry passengers.

The tent was a mile off from Augres village and was an annex of the Augres Hotel, whose proprietors thus furnished dinners to both the south and northbound stages. Horses were again changed and we proceeded to Pine River, where we went ashore and took the stage road to Standish, about five miles to the west.

Remember, this was on the third day of April, when you feel like kicking about the late spring, and telling how much better things used to be than they are now.

JOGGING around the Tawas Area High School track are Al LaBlance, senior, and Terry Sergent, junior, who are expected to be the mainstays of the Braves this season. The school's track program has been greatly benefited from a $1,000 contribution this season from Tawas Area Athletic Boosters. The money has been used to purchase new hurdles and other equipment. Last year, the boosters contributed $500 to the program.—Tawas Herald Photo.

Christians Can Live Faith by Helping Other Less Fortunate People

Charity is faith in action. Long before people can be led to accept Christianity, they must see it practiced. The most dramatic and effective way that Christian denominations have of living their faith is through helping others who are less fortunate.

Each year during the season of Lent, emphasis is placed upon penance and an effort is made to help the needy. Once again on Good Friday of this year, April 20, the Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran and Methodist Churches of East Tawas will jointly sponsor the radio broadcast at St. Joseph Catholic Church from 12 o'clock noon until 3:00 p. m. The money offered at this joint service will be sent to the children's relief fund for Indo-China through the agency of the Vietnam Christian Service headquarters.

For many years, church organizations have sought to improve health conditions among children because a healthy child has a good chance of becoming a healthy adult and a healthy adult of Indo-China may be attracted to Christ by a good example of charity.

Iosco Red Cross Unit Held Meeting

Annual public meeting of the American Red Cross was held at the Tawas Golf and Country Club Wednesday, March 28.

Adult swimming classes at Oscoda High School pool were held from March to June last year and again in the fall from September 1972 to March of this year with approximately 50 persons participating in each session.

Held for the first time in this area in September was a water safety instructor's course. Eight people passed this course successfully and are now eligible to teach swimming in Iosco County.

During the past six months, Red Cross first aid classes have been given to Conel Development Company personnel, National Gypsum Company and the fire departments of East Tawas and Tawas City.

At the present time, instructor and instructor-trainer courses are being given at Tawas Hospital, a 24-hour course given on three consecutive Saturdays.

Total units of blood collected during the July 1972-July 1973 fiscal year is 285 units, 507 units short of the quota.

TODAY'S Meditation from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

Love your enemies, and do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return; and your reward will be great, and you will be sons of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the selfish.

To love hostile, critical people—and to love them much more than they deserve to be loved—is grace. It is also grace to invest life and substance in people who cannot give back in return.

God's providential care is bestowed on good and evil alike. God provides the needs of all mankind, whether they thank Him or not. This sets the example for us.

The real motive for expressing love is that God is love and His children were created in love and for love. Only in such a relationship can they mature in health and happiness.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY Love is something you do!—Claude A. Frazier, Asheville, North Carolina.

Accumulated Pay Counts as Wages

Question: When I retire this fall at 62, I will have a large lump-sum payment coming to me for accumulated vacation leave earned during my last year of work. However, I will not actually receive this payment until about two months after I retire. When I apply for social security payments, do I include this lump-sum payment in my estimate of earnings for this year?

Answer: Yes. Your payment for accumulated vacation leave will be counted as wages earned in the last month you actually worked and will not affect your monthly social security checks for months after you retire.

Question: I will soon be 65 and eligible for medicare hospital insurance. Can you tell me what costs medicare hospital insurance helps pay for?

Answer: Expenses covered under medicare hospital insurance include a semiprivate room, operating room charges, regular nursing services, drugs furnished by the hospital, laboratory tests, X-ray and other radiology services, medical supplies, use of appliances and equipment, and medical social services.

Hospital insurance can also help pay for some follow up care after you leave the hospital.

If you want more information about medicare, call, write or visit any social security office.

Question: I have been farming for the past three years and I had a net profit each year of about $2,000, but I have never paid any social security contributions. Can I go back three years and get social security credit for these earnings?

Answer: Yes, you can get social security credit if you file tax returns reporting these earnings. Get in touch with any office of the Internal Revenue Service to file the returns and pay the social security contributions. The Internal Revenue Service will forward the information to the Social Security Administration.

Spring and fishing fever arrive in Michigan! It is a wonderful time of the year. Both men and women may catch the fish fever, the out-of-doors is calling, the "big ones" are biting in northern streams.

So why not go fishing? The fish you catch can make for mighty good eating while helping to keep some control on the food dollars spent at your house.

Now you have the fish so you question how to cook it to retain the best fresh flavor. Here are some answers for you.

Do not overcook fish! It is done when it turns a creamy white color, loses its transparency and flakes with a fork. Try to handle fish as little as possible during cooking and be gentle. Fish is quite delicate.

Lean fish need fat added to keep them flavorful. Baste them often with melted butter. As with meat, there are a few basic ways of preparing fish and many variations of the basics.

Pan frying or sauteing is probably the most popular way of cooking fish. Small whole fish, filets or steaks are cooked in shallow fat. Points to remember when pan frying are:

(1) Fish should be dried carefully, to prevent spattering when put into hot fat.

(2) Fat should be hot but not smoking.

(3) Fish should be cooked quickly until it is crispy golden, about three minutes per side. Serve piping hot.

Broiling is an excellent, although not so common, way of preparing fish. Cooking outside over charcoal is truly a treat. Preheat the pan and grease it to keep the fish from sticking. Put filets and split fish skin side down and do not turn. Steaks and whole fish are cooked on one side, turned and cooked on the second side. Broil filets and split fish two inches from the heat for six to eight minutes. Broil one-inch thick steaks two inches from the heat for three minutes on the first side and five minutes on the second. Whole fish should be placed four to six inches from the heat and broiled for five minutes on each side.

Poaching fish is one of the easiest ways to prepare it. They are cooked in seasoned water, either on top of the range or in the oven, and it is an excellent method for thick filets, steaks and whole fish. Poach fish in just enough water to cover. Start in hot water, bring to a boil, simmer until fish flakes with a fork. Remove fish carefully with a broad spatula or pancake turner. Bay leaf and onion are good for seasoning but let your imagination run wild!

Baking is one of the simplest ways to prepare fish and is suitable for whole fish, steaks and filets. Whole fish may be stuffed but be sure to slit the skin so that it will not burst when the stuffing swells. Bake at 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Season with salt and pepper, place in shallow greased baking dish, brush with melted butter. Bake uncovered and baste frequently. Allow eight to 10 minutes per pound.

NROTC Opens Scholarship Applications

Applications for the NROTC navy-marine scholarship program are now being accepted.

This program offers financial aid for four years in college. The navy pays tuition and educational fees, books, uniforms and $100 per month subsistence allowance.

The purpose of the program is to provide civilian-educated career officers to serve the American people in the United States Navy and Marine Corps. Upon successfully completing baccalaureate degree requirements and completing summer training periods, students are commissioned officers in the regular navy or marine corps.

Applicants for the program will be considered based on scores obtained on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB), Princeton, New Jersey, or the American College Test (ACT) of the American College Testing Program, Iowa City, Iowa.

Applicants for the 1974 NROTC navy-marine scholarship program must apply for and take either test specified above at their own expense by November; arrange with the appropriate testing agency for the submission of their scores to the NROTC navy-marine scholarship program, Iowa City, Iowa, as scores must be released by November 3 in order to insure receipt by the score receipt deadline date of December 15; apply for the NROTC navy-marine scholarship program between now and November 1 in accordance with the 1974 NROTC bulletin.

The 1974 NROTC bulletins containing the eligibility requirements and applications are available from Thomas Pinkowski, counselor at Tawas Area High School; the United States Navy or Marine Corps Recruiting Station listed in the telephone directory, or from the commander, Navy Recruiting Command (Code 34), 4015 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Virginia 22203.

1936 Water Bonds Burned by Tawas City

15 Years Ago—

April 3, 1958—Former city officials of the late 1930s were on hand Monday to witness the burning of the last bonds of the original 1936 water revenue bond issue in Tawas City. On hand for the occasion were John A. Brugger, who was mayor in 1938; William Leslie, Matthew Pfeiffer and Ernest Burtzloff, all council members at that time, and H. Read Smith, city attorney.

Whittemore-Prescott Area Schools have been accepted for membership into the Northeastern Michigan Conference. The school will not participate in the conference's football or basketball schedule until 1959. Way for the acceptance was made by the consolidation of the Standish-Sterling School District last year.

The 60-year-old battle between the dairy industry and the manufacturers of margarine appears about to be joined in this session of congress. Nineteen bills now are pending seeking to end or lower federal taxes on margarine. Real nub of the contention is one of color, for that is the real import of the margarine lobby to repeal the tax of 10 cents a pound and federal licenses on colored margarine.

"The chemical engine arrived on the scene and the fire was extinguished before any great damage had been done" — has been said by homeowners of Tawas City a great many times during the past 18 years. Cold weather or hot weather and in places where water is inaccessible, even now with the city's water system, the Model T Ford chemical engine has been very successful. There is no other fire fighting apparatus that could take its place.

A CHECK FOR $2,400 was turned over to Tawas Hospital Monday morning by representatives of Quota Club of Isosco. The initial goal of the club is to raise $6,000 to establish a hearing evaluation center at the hospital, said to be the only one north of Flint. In addition, there is a possibility that Central Michigan University will cooperate in the program with technical advice and establishment of the hospital as a training center for students. The clinic would evaluate hearing of infants from age three months to persons of adult age. The clinic would be operated by an audiologist. It is hoped that other service organizations in the area will join Quota Club in this project. Presenting the check to M. Jerry Norwood, hospital administrator, seated left, is Mrs. Charles Rosenberg, president of Quota Club of Isosco. Other committee members from left include Mrs. Vernon Barker of East Tawas, Mrs. Lawrence DeBour and Mrs. George A. Prescott, both of Tawas City.—Tawas Herald Photo.

By Sandra Bloom, Farm & Home Food Consultant

In a survey of over 2,000 families in all sections of the United States, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service found that tuna is the most frequently served type of canned fish in all parts of the country. About 80 percent of the families queried had served it at least once . . . and some up to five times . . . in a four-week period. It's interesting to note that 82 percent of the users said they generally served canned tuna in salads.

Noted for its superior quality protein (tuna has more complete protein than a comparable serving of red meat), also popular of flavor, canned tuna is ideal for addition to your favorite dishes.

THE ATHENS OF THE PRAIRIE

Eiel Saarinen's creation — Northside Christian Church.

by Bill Thomas

This small country town of 30,000 calls itself "The Athens of the Prairie" — and with good reason. Seldom, if ever, has so small a community contained so many examples of innovative architectural achievements.

Columbus has averaged two masterpieces a year since 1954, according to an eight-page review in The Architectural Forum; 20 buildings, including churches, schools, a country club and business concerns, were praised for "an exceptionally high level of first-rate contemporary building design."

All are the accomplishments of men such as I.M. Pei, designer of the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass.; Robert Trent Jones, known the world over for his golf courses; Eiel Saarinen, co-designer of the national museum in Helsinki, and many others.

The transformation began in the late 1930s under the leadership of the Irwin family, founders of the Cummins Engine Company in Columbus, the world's largest producer of diesel engines. Irwin Miller, the grandson of an Irwin daughter, is present board chairman of Cummins.

Miller's first concrete interest in the redevelopment of Columbus came in 1940, when Eiel Saarinen designed the Tabernacle Church of Christ, now known as the First Christian Church, to which the Irwin family contributed generously.

Columbus, 40 miles south of Indianapolis on busy Interstate 65, was initially an agricultural town and largely dependent on the surrounding countryside. That has changed. As an indication of the community's transition, the 1964 census showed 1,029 farms since 1959 and a loss of 536 farms since 1954, when there were 1,565 farms in the county.

World War II interrupted any new additions in Columbus' building program, but in the early fifties Miller commissioned a building of his own. He selected Eero Saarinen — Eiel's son and a former classmate — to design the Irwin Union Bank.

In designing the bank, Saarinen began with two major considerations; to provide an efficiently functioning structure for present-day banking that would still reflect a friendly old-fashioned atmosphere, and to create a new building that would not clash with its neighboring structures of 1910 vintage.

Shallow concrete domes give variety to the ceiling height and add a simple dignity to the structure. The bank and drive-in facilities are blended into groups of trees and flowers.

About the time the bank was built, the town completed its new high school and Miller decided that better things could be done. He implemented his architectural plans by establishing the Cummins Engine Foundation in 1954. Through it, he offered to pay the architect's fee for any new school building if the Board of Education would select the architect from a list compiled by experts in the field.

Each architect chosen would have total responsibility for the planning and design of that particular building, and would be allowed 12 months to draw his project. Each new structure.

would also have a different architect.

So far, five schools have been built according to these ground rules, and a sixth is under way. The schools turned out to be less costly than more standardly conceived ones, and a valuable aid in attracting teachers and administrators.

The Lillian Schmitt Elementary School, designed by Harry Weese of Chicago — his credits include the United States Embassy in Ghana — was the first school to be designed and built under the Cummins Foundation program in 1956. It is impressive for its use of large picture windows and a pleasant feeling of contact with the outdoors.

McDowell Elementary School, designed by John Carl Warnecke and built in 1960, is an example of what the foundation has fostered. McDowell is a cluster of separate buildings resembling a futuristic pagoda.

Classrooms are in four clusters of three rooms, each group forming the corner of a rectangle. In the center of the rectangle are two larger buildings. These are linked with the classroom clusters by canopied walkways that flank the courtyards.

Or take the W.D. Richards Elementary School (1965), a product of the imagination of Edward Barnes. It has bold, sloping roofs forming angular silhouettes, which complement the First Baptist Church across the street. The saw-toothed skylight provide studio-type lighting and leave the walls free for work space.

Or the Lincoln School (1966) designed by Gunnar Birkerts, who also conceived the Fisher Administration Building at the University of Detroit. The center of the school is a free-standing multi-purpose room surrounded on three sides (on the second floor on four sides) by a wide corridor. During a regular day, the stage is removed and the room is used as a special classroom.

A grass path separates the street and play areas, and a depressed circular amphitheater provides seating around a huge tree. The classrooms are all carpeted, reducing floor-care costs and also improving the acoustics.

The efforts of the Irwin and Miller families have mushroomed into a townwide undertaking by industry to promote Columbus' architectural well-being. Attempts are being made to preserve the downtown commercial core against the competition of the edge-of-town shopping centers.

The most exciting effort to keep the town's main street busy is a storefront renovation project, the effect of which is strikingly visible in the first of 17 block-fronts to be completed. This facelifting — was directed by Alexander Girard, who designed the Fonda del Sol restaurant in New York's Time-Life Building — capitalizes on the one big architectural asset of downtown Columbus; its wealth of Victorian detail.

Perhaps the most striking and impressive example of contemporary architecture in Columbus is the North Christian Church, its spiral pinnacle piercing the sky from an open field on the north side of town.

This was Eero Saarinen's last design, completed only a short time before his death and built in 1964. "I want to solve (this design)," he said, "so that as an architect, when I face St. Peter, I am able to say that out of the buildings I did during my lifetime, one of the best was this little church . . . that speaks forth to all Christians as a witness to their faith."

The hexagonal shape of the church is a symbolic reminder of the Star of David and the church's roots in the Jewish faith; the cross atop the 192-foot spire proclaims Christian faith to the world. The church rises alongside U.S. 31 where that road enters town from the north. The church stands isolated from the "ranch houses" of the neighborhood. Its self-contained form is unencumbered by wings, the worldly necessities of offices and classrooms being hidden beneath the stadium seating of the church itself and sheltered by its all-encompassing roof.

The First Baptist Church, designed by Weese and built in 1965, is the focal point in a residential area. The congregation wisely chose a low knoll on the northeast frontier of town, across the street from a new elementary school. Together, the two buildings with their violently angular silhouettes, look like an expressionist miniature of a medieval village; even the pointed evergreens nearby contribute to the effect.

The form of the church is an attempt to integrate the liturgical functions and educational requirements of the modern church. The sanctuary seats 500 on both sides of an off-center aisle that focuses on the communion table and cross.

The greatest contribution of Columbus' first modern building, the First Christian Church, is a well-designed public open space near the center of town. This church is as much a series of well-contained gardens as it is of serene building forms.

The Saarinen placed the church itself on the eastern edge of the block, leaving most of the side for a sunken garden. The larger portion of the garden serves to offset the dour old City Hall across the street.

Other community services have been provided, too. Otter Creek, a public golf course was designed by Robert Trent Jones, completed in 1964 and donated to the city by the Cummins Company. The par-72, 7,115-yard layout has been the site of the Indiana amateur tournament since 1966.

Jones is the designer of some of America's most beautiful courses, including Spyglass Hill in Pebble Beach, Calif., and the Firestone Country Club course in Akron, Ohio. Adjoining the Otter Creek layout is a Weese-designed clubhouse.

The Cleo Rogers Memorial County Library, designed by I.M. Pei and built in 1968 at a cost of $2.2-million, includes a brick pavilion whose east and west walls and cornice rise from a brick plaza. Courtyards out of the plaza bring daylight to the lower level. The library has a capacity of 175,000 volumes.

Columbus certainly has enough fine buildings already to make a visit worthwhile, but the future looks even brighter. A study of the town's "design potentials" by graduate students at the University of Illinois indicated some things that might eventually be done to the downtown core of the town. It proposes creation of four superblocks by converting existing streets to malls.

"The future of Columbus," Miller acknowledges, "depends on the attitudes of its people. The impact of these buildings on them is very subtle; it may take 100 years to show." For the present, he is sure that "there is less opposition to modern architecture than ever before."

A 32-page brochure on the city's architecture, including a suggested tour route and map, is available from the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, Columbus, Ind. 47201 (50 cents each to cover cost of shipping and handling).

In that brochure, Sir Winston Churchill is quoted: "First we shape our buildings, then our buildings shape us."

“Blind Man

The horse sits down and takes a bow with his master in the show ring. Here Bud waves a greeting.

By Wally E. Schulz

Bud Jones is a blind trick rider that thrills many folks in the mid-west each summer. Only recently he appeared at the Delavan circus celebration and entertained many folks there with his amazing horse act.

"When I was about five years old, I picked up a bad case of pink eye, explained Bud. "The doctor treated me with some medicine that destroyed my vision. But I wanted to keep riding horses, as it's something I loved more than anything else in the world."

And with this strong determination, Bud did continue to ride and train horses.

He learned to spin the rope on horseback, break horses and rope them in the corral. He did this by listening to their movements in the distance.

"My mother used to ride a lead horse when I did the Roman stand on two horses," said Bud. "But then one day a pretty girl saw me perform at one of the shows I was working. She was impressed with my act. Later I was introduced to her and learned she lived not far from my home town. We fell in love and in 1956 we were married."

Bud likes to tease her and tell her he couldn't run fast enough or he wouldn't have got married.

Dorothy, his pretty wife, loves horses, too, so they have much in common, as they ride, break, and train horses together.

They live on a 17-acre farm near Mt. Sterling, Illinois, where they have eight trick horses they have to keep in practice and training.

He owns a beautiful pair of brown and white spotted paint horses which he trick rides Roman style.

With one horse on each side of him, Bud dashes into the show ring. He grabs them by the mane and jumps upon their back. He needs no help.

Wins Many Admirers"

"The horses are called Captain and Colonel," said Bud. "I got them when they were about a year old and began teaching them at the age of two. They are very intelligent and dependable."

As you watch them perform, the horses respect the commands of their blind master.

Bud is accompanied into the arena with his pretty wife and from there her husband is on his own. She's on hand in the event something unforeseen happens and she can go to his aid. She stands on the side-line with her two sons, Rick, 6 and Jimmy, age 12.

"Both of our sons are picking up an interest in the trick riding and learning some of the stunts," said Dorothy. "Maybe someday it will be a father and son act."

One of the unusual and hardest tricks it was to teach Captain was to lie down and roll over upon his back. While he lies on his back, Bud does a hand stand between his front legs. The horse lays very still and arises only at the command of his master.

"And we teeter totter together, too," said Bud. "The horse stands on one end of the teeter totter and I at the other end. Then we switch places on the teeter board and I sit in front of him. My horses are very smart."

Bud and his family have traveled all over the United States putting on a 10-minute show for the folks at fairs, carnivals and celebrations of various kinds.

"We've also traveled into Canada a number of times," said Bud. "My wife does the driving and we pull our horse trailer behind the truck."

Folks are even more amazed when they learn that he made the entire horse trailer himself — even though he's blind.

Bud depends upon his keen hearing. If he wants to rope a horse in the corral, he'll do just that. He'll wait until he hears where they are and then toss the rope with deadly accuracy.

And what an expert he is with the lasso! He spins the larriot while on horseback and lays down over the backs of the two horses — still twirling his rope in a perfect circle.

Bud depends upon his sense of feeling in his fingers, too. When he performs with his one horse and has him do a high marching step, he walks beside the horse. With his hands outstretched, he can feel if the horse is picking up his feet high in the air.

Another stunt difficult enough for a fellow that has his sight is doing the "merry-go-round" stunt on horseback. This act consists of two horses. Mounted on them Roman style, Bud has the horses go in opposite directions, while he retains his position standing on their backs.

When they almost complete their stunt, he drops the reins and picks them up again. You can imagine how difficult it must be for a blind man, when a fellow with vision has a time remaining upright on the horse's backs.

It's quite a remarkable sight as you watch Bud's horses perform flawlessly for their blind rider. It's a touching sight, too, as you watch his wife and young sons standing proudly by at the side lines.

At home he knows every inch of their 17-acre farm, so he needs no help in finding his way around. He tends the horses, does the chores and leads a normal, happy life.

"You must treat your horses with kindness," said Bud. "From there the rest comes easy. A horse will respect you when it recognizes these qualifications in the trainer. If I ever lose a horse, it's like losing a member of the family. They've sort of grown on me."

Yes, here's an expert horse man that performs in total darkness. The sight is gone from his eyes, but he sees the beauty of living many with vision do not see.

As you watch him perform talentedly and courageously in the show arena, you feel nothing but admiration for him. Here's a fellow that counts his blessings — even though the sight has been taken from him.

Q True or false? Creams are better than soap-and-water facials.

A False, and here's why. Creams do not completely remove dirt which clings to fatty secretion from oil glands. Daily use of warm water and mild soap eliminates build-up of oily dirt, especially if the water is soft.

Q Which is better—soap or synthetic detergents?

A It depends on the hardness of your water. Detergents contain phosphates to counteract minerals in hard water and thus clean better in hard water. But phosphates are becoming a serious pollution problem. Soap contains no phosphates and in soft water actually does a better cleaning job than detergents.

Q I'd like a water softener, but where can I put one?

A The Lindsay Imperial doesn't take up as much room as the old cylindrical tanks you're probably thinking about. Any space 4' high, 1½' deep and 2' wide near your water supply will do. The Lindsay is compact, good-looking, doesn't look like a "plumbing fixture."

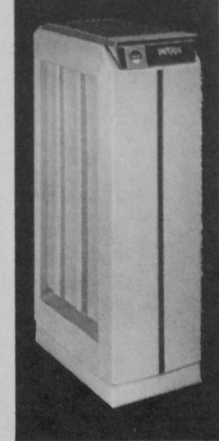

Q Can hard water contribute to plumbing problems?

A Yes indeed. Hard water can result in soap and detergent curd that clogs traps and drains. It can also cause scale in water heaters. Scale and curd are minimal with soft water.

Q I know I have hard water, but how hard is it really?

A The only way you'll know for sure is to have it tested.

The Lindsay Division offers a direct-by-mail hard water test for only a dollar. Just send me your home address and a dollar. I'll send you a plastic bottle with a mailing box and simple instructions. Fill the bottle from your tap, return to me and I'll give you a written report from our laboratory.
